ethics; published anonymously 'The Theory of Intuitive Morals', 1885; travelled much abroad, especially in Italy, where she met Massini; associated with Mary Carpenter [q. v.] in her ragged school and reformatory work, 1888; engaged in workhouse philanthropy at Bristol, 1889; advocated woman's suffrage and admission of women to university degrees, 1883; on staff of 'Echo', 1888-75, she investigated cases of destitution; helped to promote Matrimonial Causes Act, 1878; joint secretary of National Antivivisection Society, 1878-84; a frank and lucid writer; an occasional preacher in unitarian chapels; voluminous writings include 'Broken Lights', 1864; 'Darwinism in Morals', 1873; 'The Duties of Women', 1881; Autobiography, 2 vols. 1904.

CORDER-ANDERSON, THOMAS JAMES (1840-1922), bookbinder and printer; called to bar (Inner Temple), 1871; in touch with William Morris and Burne-Jones families; studied bookbinding under Roger de Coverley, 1858; opened his own workshop, 1884; carried on Doves bindery, Hammersmith, 1893-1921, and, with (Sir) Emery Walker, Doves Press, 1900-16; employed a revived fifteenth-century French type; an important figure in 'arts and crafts' movement.

COGHILL, SIR CHARLES PATRICK JOHN (1863-1937), first premier of Southern Rhodesia; born in Cape Colony; solicitor; elected to legislative council as representative for Bulawayo, 1908; a representative of Southern Rhodesia at national convention which had for its object formation of South African Union, 1908-9; acquiesced in decision that Southern Rhodesia should for the present remain outside union; opposed amalgamation with Northern Rhodesia, 1917; on grant of responsible government, head of first ministry of Southern Rhodesia, 1923; knighted, 1910; died at Salisbury, Southern Rhodesia.

COHEN, ARTHUR (1829-1914), lawyer; B.A., Magdalen College, Cambridge; first professing Jew to graduate at Cambridge; called to bar (Inner Temple), 1857; specialised in commercial law; junior counsel for Great Britain in Alabama arbitration at Geneva, 1873; Q.C., 1874; liberal M.P. Southwark, 1880-7; to avoid by-election refused judgeship, 1881; standing counsel to India office, 1893; counsel for Great Britain in Venezuela arbitration at The Hague, F.B.A. and member of royal commission on trade unions, 1903; P.O., 1905; chairman of royal commission on shipping combinations, 1908.

COLLARD, FRANÇOIS (1834-1904), protestant missionary under the Paris Missionary Society in the Zambesi region; born at Asnières-les-Bourges, Cher, France, of Huguenot family; sent to Basutoland, 1857; worked at Leribé, 1859-79; interpreter between Sir Theophilus Shepstone [q. v.] and Basuto chief Makotoko at Witke's Hoek, 1865; baptized Makotoko, 1868; completed church, Leribé, 1871; went on evangelising expedition to Banyal territory, 1877; taken prisoner at Bulawayo by Lobengula; established strong mission stations in Barotsi territory, 1882; promoted native confidence in later British administration; published 'Sur le Haut Zambèze', 1889, translated into English, 1897; 'Lives' by C. W. Mackintosh, 1907, and B. Favre, 1908.

COKEYNE, GEORGE EDWARD (1825-1911), genealogist; B.A., Exeter College, Oxford, 1848; M.A., 1852; called to bar, 1853; Norroy (1889) and Clarenceux (1894) King of Arms; F.S.A., 1864; published 'G.E.C.'s Complete Peerage', 8 vols. 1887-98, and 'Baronetage', 5 vols. 1900-4.

COKE, THOMAS WILLIAM, second EARL OF LEICESTER (1823-1909), agriculturist; son of first earl [q. v.]; an ardent agriculturist and forester; greatly improved his Holkham estate; lord-lieutenant of Norfolk, 1844-1906; keeper of privy seal of the duchy of Cornwall, 1870-1901; K.G., 1873; a whig in politics.

COLERMAN, WILLIAM STEPHEN (1829-1904), book-illustrator and painter; published 'Our Woodlands, Heath, and Hedges', 1869, and 'British Butterflies', 1860; illustrated many books on natural history from 1880 onwards; executed numerous water-colour landscapes, etchings, and pencil work; exhibited at Dudley Gallery, 1866-78; established Minton's Art Pottery Studio, Kensington Gore.

COLLIERIDGE, BERNARD JOHN SHYMOUR, second BARON COLLIERIDGE (1851-1927), judge; son of first Baron Coleridge [q. v.]; B.A., Trinity College, Oxford, 1875; called to bar (Middle Temple), 1877; joined Western circuit; liberal M.P., Attorndale division of Sheffield, 1888-94; Q.C., 1893; succeeded father, 1894; judge, King's Bench division, 1907-23; prosecuted the murderer, J. A. Dickman, 1910; a zealous humanitarian and talented musician.

COLLIERIDGE, MARY ELIZABETH (1861-1907), poet, novelist, and essayist; as a child she wrote verse and romance; first novel, 'The Seven Sleepers of Ephesus' (1893), praised by R. L. Stevenson; her 'Poems Old and New' (1907) and 'Gathered Leaves' (1910), stories and essays, appeared posthumously.

COLLIERIDGE-TAYLOR, SAMUEL (1875-1912), musical composer; of negro birth; composition pupil of (Sir) O. V. Stanford at Royal College of Music; his 'Hiawatha's Wedding Feast' produced 1898, followed by 'Death of Minnehaha' (1899) and final section (1900); whole produced at Albert Hall, 1900; compositions include incidental music for plays by Stephen Phillips [q. v.] and 'A Tale of Old Japan' (poem by Alfred Noyes), 1911; student and apostle of African negro music.

COLLES, CHARLES EDWARD [Fasha] (1852-1926), reformer of Egyptian prisons; born in India; entered Indian police department, 1873; director-general, Egyptian prisons, 1897-1913; transformed prisons by securing new buildings and improving their maintenance; had prisoners taught trades; O.M.C., 1900; died at Biarritz.

COLLES, VINCENT STUCKEY STRATTON (1845-1929), divine and hymn-writer; educated at Eton and Balliol College, Oxford; ordained deacon, 1869; priest, 1870; succeeded father as rector of Shepton Beauchamp, Somerset, 1873; a librarian of Pusey House, Oxford, 1884; principal, 1897-1909; warden, community of the Epiphany, Truro, 1910-20; widely known as preacher, missionary, and spiritual guide; greatly influenced under-graduates; published meditations, sermons, and hymns.

COLLEN, SIR EDWIN HENRY HAYTER (1843-1911), lieutenant-general; joined royal artillery, 1863; served in Abyssinian war, 1867-8; assistant controller-general in second Afghan war, 1880; served in Eastern Sudan expedition at Tamai and Thanki, 1885; military secretary to Indian government, 1887-98; military member of governor-general's council, 1896; improved military equipment and mobilization of Indian army; lieutenant-general, 1905; C.B., 1897; G.C.I.E., 1901; member of war office regulations committee, 1901-4; wrote history of 'The Indian Army', 1907.

COLLETT, SIR HENRY (1836-1901), colonel, Indian staff corps; joined Bengal army, 1855; served in Oudh during Indian Mutiny, 1858-9; in Assam, 1862-3, and Abyssinian campaign, 1868; quartermaster-general in Afghan war, 1878-80; commanded 23rd pioneers at Kandahar, 1880; C.B., 1881; colonel, 1884; held command in Chin Lushai expedition, 1889-90; prominent in expedition to Manipur, K.C.B., 1891; commanded Peshawar district, 1892-3; on retirement (1893) prepared at Kew handbook on the flora of Simla (published 1902).

COLLINGS, JESSE (1831-1900), politician; in business in Birmingham, 1850-79; prominently associated with Joseph Chamberlain's programme of municipal reform; associated with Joseph Arch [q. v.] and programme of land reform; employed phrase 'three acres and a cow'; liberal M.P. Ipswich, 1880-6, Bordesley, Birmingham, 1886-1918; P.O., 1892; under-secretary to home department, 1895-1902.

COLLINGWOOD, OUTHERBT (1836-1908), naturalist; B.A., Christ Church, Oxford, 1849; M.B., 1854; surgeon and naturalist on H.M.S. 'Riflesman' and 'Serpent' in China seas, 1866-7; published researches in marine zoology, 1868; a prominent Swedenborgian; died in Paris; wrote 'The Travelling Birds', 1872, and theological works in verse and prose.

COLLIER, JOHN CHURTON (1848-1908), author and professor of English; educated at King Edward's School, Birmingham, 1862-3, and Balliol College, Oxford, 1868-72 (B.A., 1872); greatly interested in literature in his youth; coached in London candidates for civil service examinations from 1871, and wrote for the press and magazines; made friends with Swinburne; edited Cyril Tournour's works, 1878, and Lord Herbert of Cherbury's poems, 1881; contributor to the 'Quarterly Review' from Oct. 1878, and many of his articles there were republished independently; successful lecturer for Oxford and London University Extension from 1890; long agitated with good ultimate effect for academic recognition of English literature at Oxford; urged his views in 'The Study of English Literature', 1891, and in periodicals; an outspoken critic of current literature in 'Saturday Review', 1894-1908; collected essays in 'Ephemeris

Orlino, 1901; 'Studies in Shakespeare', 1904; 'Studies in Poetry and Criticism', 1908, and 'Voltaire, Montesquieu, and Rousseau in England', 1908; professor of English at University of Birmingham, 1904 to death; hon. Litt.D. Durham, 1908; zealous amateur student of criminology; brilliant conversationalist; drowned at Oulton Broad near Lowestoft.

COLLINS, MICHAEL (1890-1922), Irish revolutionary leader and chairman of provisional government of Irish Free State in 1922; born county Cork; held clerkships in London, 1906-16; active member of Irish Republican Brotherhood there; returned to Ireland, 1916; took part in Easter Rebellion; imprisoned for short time in England; organising genius of Volunteer and Sinn Féin movement; minister for home affairs on declaration of independence and institution of provisional constitution by Sinn Féin M.P.s, 1919; director of organisation and subsequently of Intelligence for Irish Volunteers; on supreme council of Irish Republican Brotherhood; all Irish revolutionary organisations declared illegal by British government, Sept. 1919; responsible for raising loans for movement; one of five Irish delegates who negotiated treaty with British government, 1921; chairman and minister of finance of provisional government, Jan. 1922; faced with organised opposition to treaty; on outbreak of civil war (June), commanded Free State army; reduced opposition in Dublin; killed by irregulars.

COLLINS, RICHARD HENRY, LORD COLLINS, of Kensington (1842-1911), judge, scholar of Trinity College, Dublin, 1860; hon. LL.D. 1902; migrated to Downing College, Cambridge, 1868; fourth classic, 1865; hon. fellow, 1883; called to bar, 1867; Q.C., 1883; expert in litigation between rival municipalities and on railway companies; a lucid and precise advocate; judge of queen's bench, 1891; judicial member and chairman of railway and canal commission, 1894; appointed to court of appeal and P.O., 1897; master of the Rolls, 1901; lord of appeal and life peer, 1907; represented Great Britain on tribunal dealing with Venezuelan boundary, 1899; chairman (1904) of commission of inquiry which led to Criminal Appeal Act of 1907; first president of Classical Association, 1903.

COLLINS, WILLIAM EDWARD (1867-1911), bishop of Gibraltar; B.A., Selwyn College, Cambridge, 1887; D.D., 1903; ordained, 1890; professor of ecclesiastical history, King's College, London, 1893-1904; helped to found Church Historical Society (1894-1904), contributing several historical studies; bishop of Gibraltar, 1904-11; visited Persia and Asiatic Turkey, 1907; died at sea off Smyrna; 'Life' by Canon A. J. Mason.

COLNAGHI, MARTIN HENRY (1821-1908), picture dealer and collector; son of printseller; at first organizer of railway advertising; expert and buyer of pictures, helping to form several private collections; took Platon's Gallery in Haymarket (1877-88) and Marlborough Gallery (1888), where he exhibited ancient and modern works of art; authority on Dutch and Flemish schools; discovered Van Goyen; privately purchased in 1898 Colonna or Ripaldi Raphael, which was subsequently sold to J. P. Morgan for 80,000*l.*; bequeathed several pictures and his fortune to National Gallery to form Martin Colnaghi Bequest.

COLOMB, SIR JOHN CHARLES READY (1838-1909), writer on imperial defence; entered royal marines, 1854; retired, 1869; devoted rest of life to advocacy of strong military and naval defence; conservative M.P. for Bow and Bromley, 1886-92, and for Great Yarmouth, 1896-1904; K.O.M.G., 1888; P.O., 1903; chief works are 'The Defence of Great and Greater Britain', 1879, and 'Imperial Federation', 1886.

COMPTON, SIR JOHN (1823-1902), premier of South Australia; went with father from Devonshire to Australia, 1839; founded firm of merchants at Adelaide; retired, 1863; mayor of Adelaide, 1874-5; in House of Assembly, 1865-78; liberal commissioner of public works, 1868-70; treasurer, 1875-8; premier, 1876-7, and again, 1884-5; carried land and income tax bill; temperance advocate; K.O.M.G., 1891.

COLVILLE, SIR HENRY EDWARD (1859-1907), lieutenant-general; joined grenadier guards, 1870; served in Sudan, 1884-5 (C.B., 1886), and in Egypt, 1885-8; acting commissioner in Uganda protectorate, 1898; commanded expedition against Kabara, king of Unyoro, 1894; K.O.M.G., 1898; commanded guards brigade at Belmont, Modder River, and Magersfontein, Nov.-Dec. 1899; in command of new ninth division, he bled in Gen. Cronje at Paardeberg, Feb. 1900; at occupation of Bloemfontein (March); ruined his career by failure to relieve General Broadwood's column at Sanna's Post and Colonel Spragg's force at Lindley (March-May); ordered to command a brigade at Gibraltar, but recalled to England (Nov.); retired as lieutenant-general, Jan. 1901; defended himself in 'The Work of the Ninth Division', 1901; wrote 'The History of the Sudan Campaign', 1889.

COLVILE, SIR AUOKLAND (1838-1908), Anglo-Indian and Egyptian administrator; born at Calcutta; son of John Russell Colvin [q.v.]; in Indian service, 1858-78; English controller of Egyptian finance, 1880; as acting consul-general he quelled insurrection in Egypt, Sept. 1881; by articles in 'Pall Mall Gazette' influenced English recognition of responsibility in Egypt; financial adviser to Khedive; K.O.M.G., 1881; financial member of viceroy's council in India, 1883; advocated international recognition of bimetalism; increased salt duty and imposed export duty on petroleum, 1887-8; lieutenant-governor of North-West Provinces, Nov. 1887; improved water supply and drainage system; uncompromising opponent of Indian National Congress; C.I.R., 1888; K.C.S.I., on retirement, 1892; wrote life of his father, 1898, and 'Making of Modern Egypt', 1906.

COLVIN, SIR SIDNEY (1846-1927), critic of art and literature; B.A., Trinity College, Cambridge, 1867; fellow, 1868; Slade professor of fine art, Cambridge, 1878-86; director, Fitzwilliam Museum, 1876-84; keeper, department of prints and drawings, British Museum, 1883-1912; greatly improved arrangement and housing of collection; many important gifts and bequests secured through his influence; his most notable acquisition, the Malouin collection of drawings and engravings, purchased 1895; knighted, 1911; works include, 'John Keats, His Life and Poetry' (1877); 'Valima Letters' (1895) of R. L. Stevenson, to whom he was much attached; and editions of Stevenson's correspondence and works.

COLVIN, SIR WALTER MYTTON (1847-1908), brother of Sir A. Colvin [q.v.]; born in Burma; educated at Rugby and Trinity College, Cambridge; called to bar, 1871; acquired vast criminal practice in Allahabad; knighted, 1904.

COMMERELL, SIR JOHN EDMUND (1899-1901), admiral of the fleet; entered navy, 1842; gained the V.O. for gallantry in the Baltic, 1854; C.B., 1866; commander-in-chief on West coast of Africa, 1871, and on North American station, 1882-5; K.C.B., 1874; conservative M.P. for Southampton, 1885-8; admiral, 1886; G.O.B., 1887; commander-in-chief at Portsmouth, 1888; admiral of the fleet, 1892.

COMMON, ANDREW AINSLIE (1841-1903), astronomer; early devoted himself to astronomy; with a silver-on-glass mirror of 3 feet diameter he made first successful photograph of the comet of June 1881; photographed great nebula in Orion, 1882; awarded gold medal of Royal Astronomical Society, 1884; completed five-foot equatorial reflecting telescope, 1891; made small mirrors for observing eclipses for Royal Society, South Kensington, and Greenwich; invented telescopic gun sight for use in army and navy; F.R.S., 1885; president of Royal Astronomical Society, 1884-95; hon. LL.D., St. Andrews, 1891.

COMPTON, LORD ALWYN FREDERICK (1825-1906), bishop of Ely; son of second marquess of Northampton [q.v.]; educated at Eton and Trinity College, Cambridge; 14th wrangler, 1848; rector of Castle Ashby, 1852-78; dean of Worcester, 1879-86; lord high almoner, 1883; bishop of Ely, 1886-1906; simple, direct preacher of high church views; a keen archaeologist, he caused to be arranged and catalogued diocesan documents.

CONDIE, CHARLES (1868-1909), artist; was sent to Sydney, New South Wales, 1884; studied and exhibited at Melbourne, where his 'The Hot Wind' (1890) attracted notice; returned to England, 1890; studied under Cormon in Paris; exhibited his works there (1891 and 1896), especially designs for fans; married and settled in Chelsea, 1901; designed lithographs; painted landscapes in oils; most characteristic work was in water-colours, delicately toned, on panels of white silk; style akin to that of Watts.

CONDIE, CLAUDE REIGNIER (1848-1910), colonel royal engineers, Altaic scholar, and Palestine explorer; grandson of Josiah Conder [q.v.] and cousin of Charles Conder [q.v.]; joined royal engineers, 1870; continued scientific survey of Western Palestine, for Palestine Exploration Fund, 1873-8, surveying country west of Jordan; completed with Lieutenant (afterwards Viscount) Kitchener [q.v.] 'Memoirs of the Survey', 7 vols.

1880; published 'Tent Work in Palestine,' 1878, and 'Hand-book to the Bible,' 1879; discovered ancient city of Kadesh; completed survey of 500 square miles of country across Jordan, 1881; joined in Egyptian campaign, 1882, and in Bechuanaland expedition, 1884; at Plymouth on ordnance survey, 1887; in charge of engraving department at Southampton, 1888-95; directed relief of distress in Ireland 1895; commanding royal engineer at Weymouth, 1895; brevet-colonel, 1899; hon. LL.D. Edinburgh, 1891; authority on Hittite and Altaic languages; voluminous writings include 'Altaic Hieroglyphs and Hittite Inscriptions,' 1887, 'Palestine,' 1891, 'The Tell Amarna Tablets,' with translation and description, 1892, and works for Palestine Pilgrims Text Society.

CONGREVE, SIR WALTER NORRIS (1863-1937), general; entered army, 1883; gazetted into rifle brigade, 1885; press censor on Sir Redvers Buller's head-quarter staff, 1899; awarded V.C. for gallantry at Colenso, Dec.; participated in Lord Roberts's march to Pretoria; present at Poplar Grove, Driefontein, surrender of Bloemfontein, and subsequent operations in Transvaal; assistant military secretary to Lord Kitchener, 1901; commanded School of Musketry, Hythe, 1909; commanded 18th Infantry brigade, with rank of brigadier-general, 1911; took part in battle of Aisne, Sept. 1914; commanded 6th division, May 1915; commanded XIII Army Corps, which reached Montauban ridge, outstanding feature of Somme attack, 1 July 1916; participated in battle of Arras, 1917; commanded VII Corps, 1918; transferred to X Corps; commanded British forces in Egypt, 1919-23; full general, 1923; general commanding-in-chief, Southern command, Salisbury, 1923; governor of Malta, 1925; K.C.B., 1917; died at Valetta.

CONINKARA, BARON (1827-1902), governor of Madras. (See BOURKE, ROBERT.)

CONQUEST, GEORGE (AUGUSTUS) (1837-1901), actor-manager, whose original name was OLIVER; manager of Grecian Theatre, 1872-85; sole lessee of Surrey Theatre from 1885; retired from stage, 1894; acted with great melodramatic power; best known as acrobatic pantomimist and animal impersonator; re-invented 'flying' by 'invisible' wires; co-author of over a hundred original or adapted melodramas; chief were 'Sentenced to Death,' 1875, 'Mankind,' 1881, and 'The Crimes of Paris,' 1883.

CONRAD, JOSEPH (1857-1924), master mariner and novelist; of Polish parentage; born near Mohilow in Poland; his original name, THEODOR JOSEF KONRAD KORTZOWSKI; his boyhood greatly influenced by his father (died 1869), a cultivated Polish patriot; went to sea as registered seaman in French merchant marine, 1874; first landed in England, 1878; qualified as third mate, 1880; second mate, 1881; first mate, 1883; naturalized as British subject under name of Joseph Conrad, 1886; ship's master, 1886; sailed Malay Archipelago, 1887 and 1888; later explored the Congo; visited Ukraine, 1890; left merchant service, 1894; had begun to write a story (1889) which was published as 'Almayer's Folly,' 1895; this was welcomed by small but discriminating section of public; followed it with 'An Outcast of the Islands' (1896) and 'The Nigger of the "Narcissus"' (1897); had many years to wait for general recognition; ill health and straitened means rendered him peculiarly liable to periods of despairing gloom; published 'Lord Jim' (1900); 'Nostromo' (1904); 'The Mirror of the Sea' (1906); 'The Secret Agent' (1907); 'Under Western Eyes' (1911); his emergence as one of the great novelists of the day due to publication of 'Chance' in New York, 1914; thenceforth uncritically and therefore immoderately praised; his other chief works, in addition to volumes of stories, include 'The Arrow of Gold' (1919); 'The Rescue' (1920); and 'The Rover' (1922); his remarkable life-story enabled him to use as material for fiction many strange and picturesque experiences; his most sensational achievement, creation of much fine prose in language not his own.

CORNHARE, FREDERICK CORNWALLIS (1856-1924), Armenian scholar; B.A., University College, Oxford, 1879; fellow, 1880-7; researched collections of Greek manuscripts for material for textual criticism of Greek classics from ancient Armenian versions; studied church history and textual criticism of Septuagint and New Testament; made numerous discoveries; catalogued Armenian manuscripts in British Museum (1915) and Bodleian Library (1918); member of Rationalist Press Association, 1904-16.

COOE, SIR EDWARD TYAS (1867-1919), journalist; educated at Winchester and New College, Oxford; joined staff of 'Pall Mall Gazette,' 1883; editor, 1890-2; editor of newly founded 'Westminster Gazette,' 1898-9, and of 'Daily News,' 1898-1901; edited library edition of Ruskin's Works (88 vols. 1903-11); biographer of Ruskin (1911), Florence Nightingale (1918), and Delane (1919); joint-manager of Press Bureau, 1916-18; knighted, 1912; K.C.B., 1917.

COOE, SIR FRANÇOIS, first baronet (1817-1901), merchant and art collector; entered father's drapery firm in City of London, 1833; partner, 1843; head, 1869; first visited Portugal, 1841; bought and restored Monserrate palace, Oñiza, 1856; renewed prosperity of district; created Viscount Monserrate, 1864; at Doughty House, Richmond Hill (1860), he formed fine art collection of foreign schools; F.R.S.A., 1873; established Alexandra House, South Kensington, for lady music and art students, 1885; baronet, 1886; left estate of 1,500,000.

COOLIDGE, WILLIAM AUGUSTUS BRERVOORT (1850-1936), mountaineer and historian; born near New York; B.A. Exeter College, Oxford; fellow of Magdalen College, 1875-1898; ordained, 1882; from 1885 devoted himself to Swiss mountaineering, geography, and history, and editing of books on climbing and surveying; died at Grindelwald.

COOPER, SIR ALFRED (1838-1908), surgeon; studied medicine at St. Bartholomew's Hospital and in Paris; M.R.C.S., 1861; F.R.C.S., 1870; surgeon to West London and other hospitals; knighted, 1903; a keen volunteer; helped to found Rahere lodge of freemasons; author of 'Syphilis and Pseudo-Syphilis,' 1884.

COOPER, SIR DANIEL, first baronet (1821-1902), Australian merchant; a native of Lancashire; visited Sydney in boyhood; after education in London, he joined mercantile firm in Sydney, 1843; elected to legislative council of New South Wales, 1849; raised funds for Crimean war sufferers, 1854; speaker of New South Wales, 1856-9; knighted, 1857; settled in London, 1859; did much service in Lancashire cotton crisis; baronet, 1863; agent-general for New South Wales, 1897-9; K.C.M.G., 1880; G.C.M.G., 1890.

COOPER, EDWARD HERBERT (1867-1910), novelist; B.A., University College, Oxford, 1890; Paris correspondent of 'New York World'; visited and wrote on Finland, 1901; gained distinction as author of sporting novels and imaginative stories for children after manner of Lewis Carroll; chief works were 'Mr. Blake of Newmarket,' 1897, 'Weymark and the Sea Fairies,' 1897, and 'Weymark and the Mountain Fairies,' 1900.

COOPER, JAMES (1846-1922), Scottish divine; M.A. Aberdeen, 1867; parochial minister, 1873-98; regius professor of ecclesiastical history, Glasgow, 1898; moderator, General Assembly of Church of Scotland, 1917; a keen ecclesiologist and 'Scoto-Catholic.'

COOPER, JAMES DAVIS (1823-1904), wood-engraver; apprenticed to Josiah Wymper [q.v.]; a successful wood-engraver in the 'sixties; worked with Randolph Caldecott [q.v.] on the Macmillan editions of Washington Irving's 'Old Christmas,' 1876, and 'Bracebridge Hall,' 1877; engraved illustrations for books by Darwin and Huxley, and for Stanley's 'In Darkest Africa,' 1890; skilful interpreter of landscape and groups of natives and animals.

COOPER, THOMAS SIDNEY (1803-1902), animal painter; born at Canterbury; at first a coach painter, then a scene painter; went to London, 1823, copying at British Museum; admitted to Royal Academy Schools; drawing master (1833-7) at Canterbury and elsewhere; visited Brussels, 1827, where he produced lithographs and gained friendship of Verboeckhoven, Belgian animal painter; found chief models in 17th-century Dutch school; settled in England, 1831; exhibited 45 pictures at British Institution, 1832-63, and 266 at Royal Academy, 1833-1902; A.R.A., 1846; R.A., 1867; best pictures include 'Drovers crossing Newbigging Muir in a Snowdrift, East Cumberland,' 1860, 'The Shepherd's Sabbath,' 1866, 'Milking Time in the Meadows' (diploma picture), 1869, and studies of bulls: 'The Monarch of the Meadows,' 1873, and 'Separated but Not Divorced,' 1874; settled at 'Vernon Home, Canterbury, 1848; published 'My Life,' 1890; O.V.O., 1901; converted birthplace into 'Sidney Cooper Gallery of Art,' 1866, and presented it to town of Canterbury, 1889; represented in galleries in Great Britain and colonies.

COOPER, THOMPSON (1837-1904), biographer and journalist; son of Charles Henry Cooper [q.v.]; compiled Athenae Cantabrigiae, vol. 1, 1866, vol. 2, 1861; F.S.A., 1860; sub-editor (1861) and parliamentary reporter (1882) of 'Daily Telegraph'; connected with 'The Times' as parliamentary reporter, 1886-86; summary writer of debates in House of Commons, 1886-98, and in House of Lords, 1898-1904; contributed 1,422 articles to this Dictionary, 1886-1901, mainly on Roman Catholic divines and early Cambridge graduates; compiled 'Biographical Dictionary,' 1878, and Supplement, 1883; edited 'Men of the Time,' 1873-84; joined Church of Rome at early age.

COPPELAND, RALPH (1837-1905), astronomer; went to Australia, 1855-8; studied astronomy at Göttingen, 1865-9; published 'First Göttingen Catalogue of Stars, 1869; Ph.D. 1869; went on German Arctic expedition to explore East coast of Greenland, reaching latitude 75° 11-6' N., 1870; F.R.A.S., 1874; observed transit of Venus at Mauritius, Dec. 1874; discovered great tree fern (Cyathea Copelandii) on an island of Trinidad; in charge of Lord Lindsay's observatory at Dun Echt, Aberdeen, 1876; there made many cometary discoveries; observed transit of Venus at Jamaica, 1882; catalogued Lord Crawford's astronomical literature, 1890; edited 'Copernicus, a Journal of Astronomy,' 3 vols., 1891-4; astronomer royal for Scotland and professor of astronomy at Edinburgh University, 1889.

COPPINGER, WALTER ARTHUR (1847-1910), professor of law, antiquary, and bibliographer; called to bar, 1869; published 'Law of Copyright in Literature and Art,' 1870; settled in Manchester as equity draughtsman and conveyancer; published works on conveyancing, 1872, 1875; professor of law in Owens College, Manchester, 1892; LL.D., Lambeth, 1889; founder and first president of Bibliographical Society, London, 1892; published 'Supplement to Hain's Repertorium Bibliographicum,' 1895-8, and 'Incunabula Biblica,' 1892; set up private press at Manchester, 1893; also published works on genealogy ('History of the Coppingers,' 1882), heraldry, and memorial history, including 'History of Suffolk,' 5 vols., 1904-7, and 'Manors of Suffolk,' 7 vols., 1905-11; an angel of Catholic Apostolic Church; wrote on 'Predestination,' 1889; an accomplished musical composer.

COPPIN, GEORGE SELTH (1819-1906), actor and Australian politician; obtained some fame in English provinces as capable comedian, 1841; eloped to Sydney, 1843; built theatre at Adelaide, 1846; made fortune there, but lost it in speculation, 1851; made another theatrical fortune in Melbourne, 1852-4; toured in England, 1854; induced G. V. Brooke [q.v.] to join him in Australia; opened Theatre Royal, Melbourne, 1856 (rebuilt 1872), of which he was managing director till death; organized first grand opera season in Australia; toured with Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kean in America, 1864-5; member of legislative council of Victoria, 1858-64, 1874-89; advocated federation of colonies, intercolonial free trade, and acclimatization; first to import camels and English thrushes into Australia; founded Sorrento-on-the-Sea, where Mount Coppin is named after him.

COPPINGER, RICHARD WILLIAM (1847-1910), naval surgeon and naturalist; M.D. Dublin, 1870; surgeon of H.M.S. 'Alert' on voyage of polar exploration with (Sir) George S. Nares [q.v.], 1875, and on exploring cruise in Patagonian and Polynesian waters, 1878-82; inspector-general of hospitals and fleets, 1901-4; author of 'The Cruise of the Alert, 1878-82,' 1885.

CORRETT, MATTHEW RIDLEY (1850-1902), landscape painter; exhibited at Royal Academy, 1876-1902; A.R.S.A., 1902; painted mainly Italian scenery, e.g. 'Morning Glory,' 1894, and 'Val d'Arno—Evening,' 1901, in Tate Gallery.

CORRETT, JOHN (1817-1901), promoter of the salt industry in Worcestershire and benefactor; studied engineering; joined father's firm of carrier of merchandise by canal boats; bought Stoke Prior salt works near Droitwich, 1852; transformed enterprise from a failure to success; in twenty-five years he raised annual output from 26,000 tons of salt to 300,000; generous to his workpeople; liberal M.P. for Droitwich, 1874-83; opposed to home rule; liberal unionist M.P. for Mid-Worcestershire, 1886-92; advocated women's suffrage; a generous benefactor to Stourbridge, Droitwich, Birmingham University, and other Midland institutions.

CORRETT, SIR JULIAN STAFFORD (1854-1922), naval historian; B.A., Trinity College, Cambridge, 1876; called to bar (Middle Temple), 1879; took up fiction writing, 1886, but later turned to serious historical writing; history lecturer, Royal Naval War College, Greenwich, 1902; Ford's lecturer, Oxford, 1903; knighted, 1917; works include, 'Drake and the Tudor Navy' (1898); 'The Successors of Drake' (1900); 'England in the Mediterranean, 1603-1714' (1904); 'Fighting Instructions, 1530-1816' (1905); 'England in the Seven Years War' (1907); 'The Campaign of Trafalgar' (1910); 'The Spencer Papers' (1912-14); 'Naval Operations' (official history of the European war at sea, 1920-3).

CORBOLD, EDWARD HENRY (1815-1905), water-colour painter; son of Henry Corbould [q.v.]; first exhibited at Royal Academy, 1836; mainly worked in water-colours; exhibited 250 drawings at New Water Colour Society from 1837, his works including 'The Canterbury Pilgrims assembled at the Old Tabard Inn,' 1840; instructor of historical painting to the royal family, 1851-76; designed book illustrations for Waverley novels and other works; many works were popular in engravings; his 'Lady Godiva' is in National Gallery of New South Wales.

CORELLI, MARIE (pseudonym), novelist. [See MACKAY, MARY.]

CORFIELD, WILLIAM HENRY (1843-1903), professor of hygiene and public health; B.A., Magdalen College, Oxford, first class in mathematics and physics, 1864; medical fellow of Pembroke College, 1866-75; Radcliffe travelling fellow, 1867; studied hygiene in Paris and Lyons; M.B. Oxford, 1868; M.D., 1872; F.R.C.P. London, 1876; professor of hygiene and public health at University College, London, 1869; medical officer for St. George's, Hanover Square, 1872-1900; pioneer of house sanitation; first consulting sanitary adviser to office of works, 1899; president of Epidemiological Society, 1902-3; died at Marstrand, Sweden; wrote 'Dwelling Houses: their Sanitary Construction and Arrangements,' 1880, 'Laws of Health,' 1880, and kindred works.

CORNISH, CH. WILES JOHN (1858-1906), naturalist; B.A., Hertford College, Oxford, 1885; classical master at St. Paul's School from 1885 till death; contributed natural history articles to 'Spectator' and 'Country Life'; author of 'Life at the Zoo, 1895; his 'Animal Artisans and other Studies of Birds and Beasts' (1907) has memoir by his widow.

CORNISH, FRANCIS WARRE WARRE (1839-1916), teacher, author, and bibliophile. [See WARRE-CORNISH.]

CORNWELL, JAMES (1812-1902), writer of school books; organizer of country schools for British and Foreign School Society, 1835; principal of society's Borough Road Training College, 1846-85; from 1841 published simple and useful school books on grammar, composition, and arithmetic; his 'School Geography' (1847) passed through ninety editions.

CORRY, MONTAGU WILLIAM LOWRY, BARON ROWTON (1838-1903), politician and philanthropist; educated at Harrow and Trinity College, Cambridge; B.A., 1860; called to bar, 1863; private secretary to Disraeli, 1868-81; attended him as secretary of embassy at Congress of Berlin, 1878; C.B., 1878; created Baron Rowton, 1880; succeeded to Rowton Castle estate, 1889; acquired by will Lord Beaconsfield's correspondence and papers, 1881; trustee of Guinness Trust [artisan dwellings] Fund, 1889; resolving to provide a poor man's h-tel, he built 'Rowton House,' Vauxhall, 1892; other Rowton houses erected at King's Cross (1896), Newington (1897), Hammersmith (1899), Whitechapel (1902), and Camden Town (1905); K.C.V.O., 1897; P.C., 1900.

CORY, JOHN (1828-1910), philanthropist, coal owner, and shipowner; son of Richard Cory, coal exporter of Cardiff and advocate of testotalism; joined father's firm, 1844; established foreign coal depots, which numbered eighty at his death; acquired Pentre, Rhondda colliery, 1868; vice-chairman of Barry dock and railway company; strong advocate of testotalism, and supporter of Salvation Army, Band of Hope Union, and Dr. Barnardo's Homes; benefactor to Cardiff institutions to amount of 50,000*l.* a year; left by will 250,000*l.* for charitable purposes; bronze statue by Sir W. Goscombe John at Cardiff.

CORYDON, SIR ROBERT THORNE (1870-1925), South African administrator; born in Cape Colony; sent by Rhodes to Mafeking and attached to Bechuanaland border police; private secretary to Rhodes; first British resident and British South African Company's representative with Levantika; paramount chief of the Barotses, 1897; administrator of North-Western Rhodesia, 1900-7; resident commissioner, Swaziland, 1907-18; of Basutoland, 1916-17; governor and commander-in-chief, Uganda, 1917-22; governor and commander-in-chief, Kenya Colony and high commissioner, Zanzibar, 1922; K.O.M.G., 1919; died at Nairobi.

COUCH, SIR RICHARD (1817-1905), judge; called to bar, 1841; recorder of Bedford, 1858-62; puisne judge of high court of Bombay, 1862; chief justice, 1866; knighted, 1866; chief justice at Calcutta, 1870-5; tried Gaskwar of Baroda on charge of poisoning Colonel Robert Phayre [q.v.], 1875; P.C., 1875; member of judicial committee of privy council, 1881-1901.

COUPER, SIR GEORGE EBENEZER WILSON, second baronet (1824-1908), Anglo-Indian administrator; born in Nova Scotia; joined Bengal civil service, 1846; secretary at Lucknow to chief commissioners of Oudh, 1856-7; served with distinction in siege of Lucknow, 1857; O.B., 1860; chief secretary of North-West Provinces government, 1859; succeeded to baronetcy, 1861; judicial commissioner of Oudh, 1863; as chief commissioner (1871-6) he revised land assessments; first lieutenant-governor of North-Western Province and chief commissioner of Oudh, 1877; efficiently met famine of 1877-8; encouraged Indian industrial enterprises; K.C.S.I., 1877; C.I.E., 1878; retired, 1882.

COURTNEY, WILLIAM JOHN (1842-1917), civil servant, poet, and literary critic; B.A., New College, Oxford; Chancellor's English essay prizeman, 1868; entered education office, 1869; civil service commissioner, 1887-1907; professor of poetry at Oxford, 1895-1900; O.B., 1898; completed (1881-9) standard edition of Pope's 'Works' begun by Whitwell Elwin [q.v.]; wrote 'History of English Poetry,' 1895-1910; writer of verse.

COURTNEY, LEONARD HENRY, first BARON COURTNEY, of Penwith (1832-1918), journalist and statesman; B.A., St. John's College, Cambridge (second wrangler); leader-writer to 'The Times,' 1865-81; professor of political economy, University College, London, 1872-5; liberal M.P., Liskeard, 1875; under-secretary for home office, 1880; secretary of Treasury, 1882-4; deputy-speaker, 1886-92; created baron, 1904; anti-imperialist and zealot for proportional representation.

COURTNEY, WILLIAM LEONARD (1860-1928), philosopher and journalist; born at Poona; B.A., University College, Oxford, 1872; fellow of Merton College, 1873; headmaster, Somersetshire College, 1873; fellow and philosophy tutor, New College, Oxford, 1876; joined staff of 'Daily Telegraph,' 1890; chief dramatic critic and literary editor, mid-'nineties until 1925; editor of 'Fortnightly Review,' 1894-1928.

COUSIN, ANNE ROSS (1824-1906), hymn writer; born CUNDILL; married William Cousin, Presbyterian minister, 1847; best known by 'The sands of time are sinking,' composed in 1854, and published in her 'Immanuel's Land and other Pieces,' 1876, and by 'King Eternal! King Immortal.'

COWARD, SIR JOHN STEVEN (1862-1921), general; educated at Sandhurst; joined rifle brigade, 1881; passed Staff College with distinction, 1891; deputy assistant quartermaster-general in movements branch of war office to supervise transport of troops to Egypt; major, 1893; colonel, 1903; served at Aldershot, 1903-6; in India, 1906-10; director-general of Territorial Forces, 1910; quartermaster-general, 1912-19; K.C.B., 1913; lieutenant-general, 1915; proved to be administrative genius, and carried out with scarcely a hitch during four years of war (1914-18) enormous expansion in necessary army services—barrack and hospital accommodation, food supplies, motor transport, horses, clothing, general stores, and personnel; G.C.M.G., 1918; general and G.O.B., 1919; joined Roman Church shortly before his death.

COWDRAY, first VISCOUNT (1856-1927), contractor. [See PHARSON, WESTMAN DICKINSON.]

COWELL, EDWARD BYLES (1826-1908), scholar and man of letters; early devoted himself to Oriental literature; studied Sanskrit, Persian, and Arabic; joined father's business of maltster at Ipswich, 1842; contributed articles to 'Westminster Review' on Oriental and Spanish literature; friend of Edward FitzGerald; went to Magdalen College, Oxford; B.A., 1854; met Tennyson, Thackeray, Jowett, Max Müller, and Horace H. Wilson [q.v.]; catalogued Oriental MSS. for Bodleian; as undergraduate he translated Oriental works, and wrote on Persian poetry; his edition of Varanuci's 'Prākṛita-Frāhikā' (1864) established his reputation as Sanskrit scholar; professor of English history in Presidency College, Calcutta, 1866-64; instituted M.A. course at Calcutta University; sent copy of MS. of Omar Khayyam to Edward FitzGerald; principal of Sanskrit College, Calcutta, 1868; edited many native works for Asiatic Society of Bengal in 'Bibliotheca India'; edited and translated the 'Kusumājñāli' 1864, and other works; returned to England, 1864; first professor of Sanskrit in university of Cambridge, 1867-1903; fellow of Corpus Christi College, 1874; a founder of Cambridge Philological Society, 1868; with pupils he issued series of important Sanskrit texts and translations; continued to study Persian and Spanish; also took up archaeology, architecture, Welsh poetry, botany, and geology; awarded first gold medal of Royal Asiatic Society, 1898; hon. LL.D. Edinburgh, 1875; hon. D.O.L. Oxford, 1896; original member of British Academy, 1902.

COWIE, WILLIAM GARDEN (1831-1902), bishop of Auckland; law scholar of Trinity Hall, Cambridge; B.A., 1855; D.D. Lambeth, 1869; D.D. Oxford, 1897; ordained, 1854; chaplain to forces in India, 1867; present at Lucknow, Aligarh, and other battles; in Afghan campaign, 1863-4; bishop of Auckland, New Zealand, 1869-1902; conciliated Maoris and encouraged native ministry; primate of New Zealand, 1895; published 'Our Last Year in New Zealand,' 1888.

COWPER, FRANCIS THOMAS DE GREY, seventh EARL COWPER (1834-1905), lord-lieutenant of Ireland; nephew of William Francis Cowper, Baron Mount Temple [q.v.]; educated at Eton and Christ Church, Oxford; first class in law and history, 1855; succeeded father as Earl Cowper, 1856; pioneer of Volunteer movement; inherited baronies of Butler and Dingwall, 1871, and of Lucas, 1880, as well as vast property in Bedfordshire, Hertfordshire, Nottinghamshire, and Lancashire; did useful county work in Bedfordshire and Hertfordshire; liberal politician; created K.G., 1865; represented board of trade in House of Lords, 1871-3; appointed lord-lieutenant of Ireland under Gladstone, 1880; favoured renewal of Coercion Act, arrested Parnell, and suppressed land league, Oct. 1881; resigned office, April 1882; left Dublin two days before Phoenix Park murders; drafted new coercion bill, which was passed by his successor, 1882; lord-lieutenant of Bedfordshire; active in opposition to Gladstone's home rule bill of 1886; president of Manchester Ship Canal commission, 1885; of royal commission on working of Irish Land Acts of 1881 and 1885, 1886-7, and of London University commission, 1892.

COX, GEORGE (called SIR GEORGE) WILLIAM (1827-1902), historical writer; born at Benares; scholar of Rugby and Trinity College, Oxford; B.A. and M.A., 1859; accompanied Bishop Colenso to South Africa, 1853-4; defended theological views of Colenso, whose biography he published, 1888; wrote much on Greek, Indian, and English history; chief work, 'History of Greece' (2 vols. 1874), now superseded; won wide popularity with 'Tales from Greek Mythology,' 1861; claimed baronetcy of Cox of Dunmanway, 1877 (disallowed, 1911); rector of Scarningham, Yorkshire, 1881-97; chosen bishop of Natal by Colenso's adherents, was refused consecration by Archbishop Benson, 1886; received civil list pension, 1896.

COZENS-HARDY, HERBERT HARDY, first BARON COZENS-HARDY, of Letheringsett (1832-1920), judge; B.A. London University; called to bar (Lincoln's Inn), 1862; practised as Chancery junior; Q.O., 1883; M.P. North Norfolk, 1885-99; raised to bench and knighted, 1899; lord justice of appeal and P.C., 1901; master of the Rolls, 1907; created baron, 1914.

CRADOCK, SIR CHRISTOPHER GEORGE FRANCIS MAURICE (1862-1914), admiral; entered navy, 1875; commanded naval brigade which led Allied forces at storming of Taku Forts, and directed relief of Tientsin Settlement, 1900; published his idealistic conception of the naval career in 'Whispers from the Fleet,' 1907; rear-admiral, 1910; K.C.V.O., 1912; appointed to command of North America and West Indies station, 1913; on outbreak of European war (1914) faced with difficult task of keeping North and South Atlantic free for British trade; received ambiguous orders from admiralty; defeated in engagement with German squadron under Admiral von Spee off Coronel and went down on flagship, 1 Nov.

CRAIG, ISA (1851-1905), poetical writer. [See KNOX.]

CRAIG, WILLIAM JAMES (1843-1906), editor of Shakespeare; educated at Trinity College, Dublin; B.A., 1866; M.A., 1870; a private coach in London for army and civil service candidates, 1874-6; professor of English at University College, Aberystwyth, 1876-9; resumed teaching in London, 1879-93; a devoted student of Shakespeare; edited 'The Oxford Shakespeare,' 1 vol.

1894, the 'Little Quarto Shakespeare,' 40 vols. 1901-4, and the 'Arden Shakespeare' (40 vols. by different hands), to which he contributed the volume on 'King Lear,' 1901.

CRAIGIE, PEARL MARY TERESA (1867-1906), novelist and dramatist under the pseudonym of JOHN OLIVER HORRIS; born at Chelsea, Mass., U.S.A.; eldest child of American parents who settled in London in her infancy; married (Feb. 1887) Mr. Reginald Walpole Craigie, whom she divorced (July 1895); joined Church of Rome, 1892; began serious education in early married life; published in 1891 'Some Emotions and a Moral,' a first novel of cynical flavour which was well received; maintained her success in 'The Sinner's Comedy,' 1892, 'The School for Saints,' 1897, 'The Serious Wooing,' 1901, 'Robert Orange,' 1902, and many other works of fiction; attempted drama with less acceptance in 'The Ambassador,' 1898, 'A Repentance,' 1899, 'The Wisdom of the Wise,' 1900, and some other plays which failed to attract; described in 'Imperial India,' 1903, the coronation durbar at Delhi in 1903; wrote many miscellaneous essays and sketches; her command of epigram—humorous, caustic, and cynical—gives her work its value.

CRAIK, SIR HENRY, first baronet (1846-1927), civil servant, politician, and man of letters; B.A., Balliol College, Oxford; entered education department, 1870; secretary, Scottish education department, 1885-1904; conservative M.P., Glasgow and Aberdeen universities, 1906, and for Scottish universities, 1918; K.C.B., 1897; P.C., 1918; baronet, 1926; works include, 'Life of Swift' (1882), and 'The State and Education' (1883).

CRANEBOOKE, first EARL OF (1814-1906), statesman. [See GATHORNE-HARDY, GATHORNE.]

CRANE, WALTER (1845-1915), artist; apprenticed to W. J. Linton [q. v.], wood engraver, 1859; illustrated several series of picture-books, chiefly for children, 1863-96; first president of Art Workers' Guild, 1884; twice president of Arts and Crafts Exhibition Society; A.R.W.S., 1888; associated with William Morris in Socialist League; principal of Royal College of Art, South Kensington, 1898; painted water-colour landscapes and works in oil.

CRAVEN, HAWES (1837-1910), scene-painter, whose full name was Henry Hawes Craven Green; apprenticed to John Gray, scene-painter; worked at Olympic, Drury Lane, and Covent Garden theatres and Theatre Royal, Dublin, 1857-64; painted scenes at Lyceum for Fechter, 1863-4; at Prince of Wales's for Play and School, 1868-9; worked for Henry Irving at Lyceum from 1878 to 1902; also for Savoy, Her Majesty's, and Garrick theatres, 1885-1906; developed scenic realism and stage illusion to fullest legitimate limits; excelled in landscape.

CRAYVEN, HENRY THORNTON (1818-1905), dramatist and actor, whose real name was HENRY THORNTON; made début at Fanny Kelly's theatre, Soho, 1841; played Malcolm to Macready's Macbeth at Macready's farewell performance, Drury Lane, 20 Feb. 1851; married Eliza Nelson, 1852; acted with wife at Sydney and Melbourne, 1854-7; his dramas 'Milky White' (1864) and 'Meg's Diversion' (1866) were successful in London and provinces; made final appearance in his last play 'Too True,' 1876.

CRAWFORD, twenty-sixth EARL OF (1847-1913), astronomer, collector, and bibliophile. [See LINDSAY, JAMES LUDWIG.]

CRAWFORD, OSWALD JOHN FREDERICK (1834-1909), author; son of John Crawford [q. v.]; educated at Eton and Merton College, Oxford; entered foreign office, 1857; consul at Oporto, 1867-91; O.M.G., 1890; published novels and sketches of Portuguese life, essays, and dramas.

CREAGH, SIR GARRETT O'MOORE (1848-1933), general; joined army, 1866; awarded V.O. during Afghan war, 1879-80; political resident and general officer in command at Aden; general officer commanding British expeditionary force in China, 1901; subsequently held various commands in India; general, 1907; commander-in-chief, India, 1909-14; K.C.B., 1903.

CREAGH, WILLIAM (1829-1901), major-general and administrator; first of old Roman Catholic military family to become a protestant; joined 19th Bombay infantry, 1845; served in Punjab campaign 1848-9; in Mutiny, at defeat of Tantia near Jhansi, 1858, and at his capture, 1859; administered native state of Dhar, 1861-3; commanded his regiment in second Afghan war, 1878-9; made military road from Jacobabad to Dhadar (109 miles), and from Dhadar over Bolan Pass to Darwaza (63 miles); major-general, 1870.

CREMER, SIR WILLIAM RANDAL (1838-1908), peace advocate; carpenter's apprentice; mixed in trade unionism in London, 1852; promoter of Amalgamated Society of Carpenters and Joiners, 1860; secretary of British section of International Working Men's Association, 1866; friend of Mazzini and Garibaldi; as secretary of newly formed Workmen's Peace Association from 1851 to death, he persistently advocated in America and on Continent international arbitration; awarded Nobel peace prize, 1903; secretary (1889-1908) of Interparliamentary Union; radical M.P. for Haggerston, 1885-95, and 1900-8; opposed new independent labour movement; edited 'Arbitrator,' monthly peace journal, from 1889; 'Life' by Howard Evans, 1911.

CRIPPS, WILFRED JOSEPH (1841-1903), writer on plate; of ancient Cirencester family; B.A., Trinity College, Oxford, 1863; M.A., 1866; called to bar, 1866; published 'Old English Plate,' 1878 (9th edit. 1906), 'Old French Plate,' 1880, and kindred works; made valuable archaeological researches in Cirencester; F.S.A., 1890; C.B., 1889.

CROCKER, HENRY RADCLIFFE (1845-1909), dermatologist. [See RADCLIFFE-CROCKER.]

CROCKETT, SAMUEL RUTHERFORD (1860-1914), novelist; M.A. Edinburgh University; studied at New College, Edinburgh, 1882-6; minister of Free Church, Penicuik, Midlothian, 1886; wrote 'The Stickit Minister' (1893), 'The Raiders' and 'The Lilac Sunbonnet' (1894); resigned ministry, 1895.

CROFT, JOHN (1833-1905), surgeon; entered St. Thomas's Hospital, 1850; M.R.C.S., 1854; F.R.C.S., 1859; on staff at St. Thomas's from 1860; surgeon, 1871-1891; early adopted Listerian methods; introduced 'Croft's splints' for leg fractures; contributed papers to medical societies' Transactions.

CROFTS, ERNEST (1847-1911), historical painter; exhibited at Royal Academy, 1874-1910; A.R.A., 1878; R.A., 1896; keeper and trustee, 1898; treated historical subjects, mainly of Napoleonic and Cavalier periods; chief works include 'Marlborough after Ramillies,' 1880, 'Charles I on the way to Execution,' 1883, 'Napoleon and the Old Guard at Waterloo,' 1896, and 'The Funeral of Queen Victoria,' 1903; F.S.A., 1900.

CROKE, THOMAS WILLIAM (1824-1902), Roman Catholic archbishop of Cashel; studied for priesthood in Paris and Belgium and at Irish College of Rome; D.D., 1847; professor of ecclesiastical history at Catholic University, Dublin, under Cardinal Newman; president of St. Colman's College, Fermoy, 1858-68; friend of Cardinal Manning from 1870; catholic bishop of Auckland, New Zealand, 1870-5; archbishop of Cashel, 1875-1902; encouraged athletics and temperance; a strong nationalist and supporter of land agitation.

CROMER, first EARL OF (1841-1917), statesman, diplomatist, and administrator. [See BARING, EVELYN.]

CROMPTON, HENRY (1836-1904), postivist and advocate of trade unions; son of Sir Charles Crompton [q. v.]; B.A., Trinity College, Cambridge, 1858; clerk of assize on Chester and North Wales circuit, 1858-1901; called to bar, 1863; became ardent positivist, 1859; advocate of social reform; strong supporter of trade unions; author of 'Industrial Conciliation,' 1876, and 'Our Criminal Justice,' 1905.

CROOKES, SIR WILLIAM (1832-1919), man of science; educated at Royal College of Chemistry, Hanover Square, London; assistant in the college, 1850-4; superintendent of meteorological department, Radcliffe Observatory, Oxford, 1854; lecturer in chemistry at Chester training college, 1855; lived in London from 1856 onwards; founded (1859) and for many years edited 'Chemical News'; discovered thallium, 1861; F.R.S., 1863; carried out experiments on properties of highly rarefied gases and on elements of 'rare earths'; separated uranium-X from uranium, 1900; knighted, 1897; O.M., 1910; president of various scientific societies, including the Royal Society (1913-15).

CROOKES, WILLIAM (1852-1921), labour politician; a cooper by trade; supported by 'Will Crookes's wages fund' from 1892; lectured and taught in Poplar; mayor of Poplar (first labour mayor in London), 1901; labour M.P., Woolwich, 1903-6, 1906-10, 1910-18; P.C., 1916.

CROSS, RICHARD ASSHEFTON, first VISCOUNT CROSS (1822-1914), statesman; educated at Rugby and Trinity College, Cambridge; called to bar (Inner Temple), 1846; joined Northern circuit; conservative M.P., Preston, 1857-69; partner in Parr's bank, Warrington; chairman, 1870; M.P., South West Lancashire, 1868; home secretary, 1874-80; introduced among others the following Acts: Licensing Act (1874), Artisans' Dwellings, Factory, Employers and Workmen, and Conspiracy and Protection of Property Acts (1875), and Factories and Workshops Act (1878); in opposition, 1880-5; home secretary, 1885-8; secretary for India, 1886-92; created viscount, 1886; privy seal, 1894-1900; retired, 1902; F.R.S.; G.O.B., 1880; G.O.S.I., 1892; close personal friend of Queen Victoria.

CROSBY, Sir WILLIAM (1880-1901), major-general R.E.; joined royal engineers, 1848; sent to Western Australia (1852) to superintend construction of public works by convicts; recalled to England, 1856; secretary to royal commission on defences of Canada, 1869; in Japan and China, 1866-70; joined special commission to inquire into resources of Griguland West, 1875; O.M.G., 1877; first inspector of submarine mining defences, 1876-81; reported on Hong Kong, Singapore, and Australian defences, 1881-3, and on Jamaica and West India Islands finances, 1884; K.C.M.G., 1884; major-general, 1886; M.P. for Portsmouth, 1885-6 as liberal, and 1886-92 as liberal unionist.

CROFTWAITE, Sir CHARLES HAUKES TODD (1835-1915), Anglo-Indian administrator; entered Indian civil service, 1857; O.S.I. and chief commissioner of Burma, 1887; K.O.S.I., 1888; lieutenant-governor of North West Provinces and Oudh, 1892-5; on Council of India, 1898-1905; wrote books on India.

CROWE, EYRE (1824-1910), artist; son of Eyre Evans Crowe [q.v.] and brother of Sir Joseph Archer Crowe [q.v.]; studied art in Paris under Paul Delaroche, 1839-44, and at Royal Academy Schools; became Thackeray's secretary, 1851; accompanied him to America, 1852-3; exhibited at Royal Academy, 1848-1904; A.R.A., 1875; chief works include 'Brick Court, Middle Temple, April 1774', 1863, and 'The Queen of the May', 1879; later inspector under science and art department, South Kensington; published 'With Thackeray in America', 1893.

CROWE, Sir EYRE ALEXANDER BARBY WICHAERT (1864-1925), diplomat; son of Sir J. A. Crowe [q.v.]; born at Leipzig; educated in Germany; entered foreign office, 1885; submitted to Sir Edward Grey 'Memorandum on present state of British relations with France and Germany', 1907; secretary to British delegation at second peace conference at The Hague, 1907; British delegate at International Maritime Conference, London, which drew up abortive Declaration of London, 1908; British agent in arbitration at The Hague between British and French governments in Savarkar case, 1911; assistant under-secretary of state for foreign affairs, 1912; upheld view that entente bound Great Britain to support France, 1914; a British plenipotentiary at Peace Conference, Versailles, 1919; permanent under-secretary of state for foreign affairs, 1920-5; K.C.M.G., 1911.

CRUTTWELL, CHARLES THOMAS (1847-1911), historian of Roman literature; scholar of St. John's College, Oxford; first class in classics, 1870; fellow of Merton, 1870; tutor, 1874-7; headmaster of Bradfield College, 1877-80, and of Malvern, 1880-5; canon of Peterborough, 1903; chief work was 'A History of Roman Literature', 1877.

CURRIE, WILLIAM GEORGE (1835-1908), colonel Indian staff corps; born in Calcutta; joined 13th regiment Bengal native infantry, 1863; won V.O. for bravery at Chinbut near Lucknow, 1857; served in Duff's expedition 1874-5, in Afghan war, 1880, with Akha expedition, 1883-4, and Burmese expedition, 1886-7; colonel, 1883; retired, 1892.

CULLINGWORTH, CHARLES JAMES (1841-1908), gynaecologist and obstetrician; studied at Leeds School of Medicine, 1861; M.R.C.S., 1865; lecturer on medical jurisprudence, Owens College, Manchester, 1879; professor of obstetrics and gynaecology, 1883-8; obstetric physician at St. Thomas's Hospital, 1888-1904; F.R.C.P., 1887; helped to found 'Journal of Obstetrics and Gynaecology'; hon. D.O.L. Durham, 1898; LL.D. Aberdeen, 1904; investigated causation of pelvic peritonitis; published 'Clinical Illustrations of the Diseases of the Fallopian Tubes and of Tubal Gestation', 1895, and other books and papers.

CUMMINGS, BRUCE FREDERICK (1839-1919), diarist and biologist; generally known by pseudonym W. N. F. BARRELLAN; in Natural History Museum, South Kensington, 1911-17; published extracts from his diaries, 'The Journal of a Disappointed Man', 1919.

CUNNINGHAM, JAMES MCNABB (1829-1908), surgeon-general; born at Cape of Good Hope; M.D. Edinburgh

University, 1851; hon. LL.D., 1892; joined Bengal medical service, 1851; sanitary commissioner for Bengal presidency, 1869-76, and for Indian empire, 1876-86; surgeon-general, 1880; C.S.I., 1885; published 'A Sanitary Primer for Indian Schools', 1879.

CUNNINGHAM, DANIEL JOHN (1850-1909), professor of anatomy; son of John Cunningham (1819-1892, q.v.); graduated in medicine at Edinburgh, 1874; professor of anatomy at Trinity College, Dublin, 1882-1903, and Edinburgh University, 1903-8; published 'Manual of Practical Anatomy', 2 vols., 1893-4, and other scientific works; made many anthropological researches, published by Royal Irish Academy; received hon. degrees from Dublin, St. Andrews, Glasgow, and Oxford; F.R.S., 1891.

CUNNINGHAM, WILLIAM (1849-1919), pioneer economic historian; B.A., Trinity College, Cambridge (bracketed senior in moral science tripos), 1873; vicar of Great St. Mary's, Cambridge, 1887-1908; professor of economics, King's College, London, 1891-7; fellow of Trinity, 1891; archdeacon of Ely, 1907-19; F.B.A., 1908; best-known work 'The Growth of English Industry and Commerce' (7 editions, 1882-1910).

CURRIE, Sir DONALD (1825-1909), founder of the Castle Steamship Company; joined Cunard Steamship Company, Liverpool, 1844; established branches at Havre, Paris, Bremen, and Antwerp, 1849-54; formed 'Castle' Shipping Company, Liverpool, with sailing ships between Liverpool and Calcutta, 1862; made London port of departure, 1865; formed new line of communication between England and Cape Town, 1873; his company amalgamated with Union Steamship Company, under name of Union-Castle Mail Steamship Company, 1900; instrumental in hoisting British flag at St. Lucia Bay, 1883; conveyed troops and stores to South Africa, 1899; liberal M.P. for Perthshire, 1880-5; represented West Perthshire as liberal unionist, 1886-1900; enlightened landowner in Perthshire and western islands; benefactor to University College Hospital, London, Edinburgh University, United Free Church of Scotland, and Belfast institutions; a hall founded in his memory at Cape Town University, 1910; O.M.G., 1881; G.O.M.G., 1897; hon. LL.D. Edinburgh, and freeman of Belfast, 1907; owned fine collection of Turner's works; portraits by Ouseley.

CURRIE, MARY MONTGOMERIE, BARONESS CURRIE (1843-1905), authoress under the pseudonym of VIOLET FANE; married firstly Henry Sydenham Singleton, an Irish landowner, 1864; secondly, Sir Philip Henry Wodehouse (afterwards Baron Currie [q.v.], 1894; figures as 'Mrs. Sinclair' in Mr. Mallock's 'New Republic', 1877; published 'Denzil Place; a Story in Verse', 1875, 'Collected Verses', 1880, and other poetical works; 'Poems' collected in 2 vols., 1893; wrote in prose 'Edwin and Angelina Papers', 1878, 'Collected Essays', 1902, and novels; accompanied second husband to Constantinople, 1894, and to Rome, 1898-1903.

CURRIE, PHILIP HENRY WODEHOUSE, BARON CURRIE (1834-1906), diplomatist; joined foreign office, 1854; accompanied Lord Salisbury [q.v.] to Constantinople (1876) and Berlin (1878); G.B., 1878; K.O.B., 1885; permanent under-secretary of state for foreign affairs, 1889-93; appointed British ambassador at Constantinople, 1893; took leading part in securing protection and redress of Armenians from Sultan of Turkey, 1895; gave at embassy refuge to grand vizier Said Pasha from molestation of Sultan, 1896; helped to secure favourable terms for Greece and autonomy for Crete after Turco-Greek war, 1897; ambassador at Rome, 1898-1903; raised to peerage, 1899; retired on pension, 1903; married Mary Montgomerie Currie [q.v.].

CURZON, GEORGE NATHANIEL, MARQUESS CURZON OF KILDONON (1859-1925), statesman; educated at Eton; early became absorbed by passion for the East; assailed by first symptoms of spinal curvature, which throughout deprived his character of elasticity, 1873; proceeded to Balliol College, Oxford, 1878; president of Union and secretary of Canning Club; B.A., 1882; won Lottian and Arnold historical essay prizes, 1883; fellow of All Souls College, Oxford, 1883; M.P., Southport division of Lancashire, 1886-92; began to manifest intense interest in foreign and colonial policy; threw himself into society of Crabbet Club and 'Society'; entered upon period of his great journeyings, 1887; these journeys were (1) Canada, U.S.A., Japan, China, Singapore, Ceylon, India, 1887-9; (2) Russia, Caucasus, Turkistan, 1888-9; (3) Persia, 1889-90; (4) U.S.A., Japan, China, Coochin China, Siam, 1892; (5) the Pamirs, Afghanistan, Kabul, course of Oxus, 1894; result of these travels embodied in 'Russia in Central Asia' (1899), 'Persia and the Persian Question' (1899), and 'Problems of the Far East' (1894); they earned for him reputation as a leading authority on Asiatic affairs, who was at once a xenophobe and a nationalist; rule and defence of India became for him ambition and cause; under secretary, India Office, 1891; parliamentary under secretary for foreign affairs, 1895-8; disapproved of Lord Salisbury's policy of what he regarded as undue passivity in matters of Armenian atrocities, Venezuela, and Ottoman question; felt keenly about French encroachments in Siam and German occupation of Kiaochow; established his reputation with parliament and public; chosen viceroy of India and created Baron Curzon of Kedleston, 1898; entered upon term of office, Jan. 1899; his seven years' viceroyalty falls into two periods, divided by Durbur of 1903; during first, admired in India and supported at home; during second, his popularity in India waned and his relations with Whitehall were increasingly embittered; held scales even between different nationalities committed to his rule; adopted cautious policy on North-West Frontier, but adventurous one in Persian Gulf; studied intensively land assessment and educational problem; concluded treaty with Nizam of Hyderabad which settled Berar question, 1902; Durbur of Jan. 1903 marked summit of his viceroyal splendour; set his stamp upon art and archaeology of India; secured partition of Bengal, thereby losing popularity with Indian opinion, 1905; came into bitter conflict with Lord Kitchener [q. v.], commander-in-chief in India, who raised question of unsatisfactoriness of system of dual control of Indian army during viceroy's absence in England (1904); reached compromise with Kitchener, which was approved by home government, July 1905; resigned, owing to failure of home government to appoint new supply member of viceroy's council nominated by himself, Aug.; his return from India (Nov.) followed by eleven years' disappointment and domestic sorrow; chancellor of Oxford University, 1907; immersed himself in question of university reform and staved off government inquiry for many years; entered House of Lords as Irish representative peer, 1908; his advice largely secured bare majority of peers in support of liberal government's proposals, Aug. 1910; his main activities during these years concerned with Royal Geographical Society, National Gallery, and preservation of ancient monuments; created Earl Curzon of Kedleston, 1911; lord privy seal in Coalition Cabinet, 1915; opposed to evacuation of Gallipoli; pressed for compulsory service; in charge of Shipping Control Committee, 1916; president of Air Board, 1916; active as member of Inner War Cabinet (Dec. 1916), leader in House of Lords, and lord president of Council; as leading conservative found difficulty in acting as spokesman of government pledged to liberal concessions; subservient to Mr. Lloyd George in Irish matters; his surrender over question of women's suffrage lost him prestige with conservatives; in absence of Mr. Balfour at Peace Conference in Paris, foreign minister 'in interim', Jan. 1919; succeeded Balfour as foreign secretary, Oct.; unable to secure free hand in foreign policy; his Persian policy a failure; more successful in dealing with Egyptian affairs; involved in intense difference of opinion with Mr. Lloyd George over Greece-Turkish question; owing to fact of repeated clandestine negotiations being carried on by prime minister's secretariate in favour of Mr. Lloyd George's anti-Turkish policy, convinced that he could no longer support Mr. Lloyd George's Coalition; foreign secretary in Mr. Bonar Law's ministry, Nov. 1922; dominated abortive Conference of Lausanne and restored British prestige in Turkey, 1922-3; this was most striking of his diplomatic triumphs; less dare in handling European diplomacy, but foreshadowed Dawes and Young schemes for reparations payments; bitterly disappointed at not being designated prime minister, 1923; magnanimously supported Mr. Baldwin at foreign office; obtained satisfaction from Soviet government over trade agreement with Great Britain; failed to mediate between France and Germany; lord privy seal, 1924; K.G., 1916; marquess, 1921.

CURZON-HOWE, SIR ALEXANDER GORE (1850-1911), admiral; great-grandson of Richard, first Earl Howe [q. v.]; entered navy, 1866; accompanied and instructed royal princes on cruise in 'Bacchante', 1879-83; commander, 1882; served in Vito expedition in East Indies, 1890; O.B., 1890; as commodore in North American station, he averted civil war in Nicaragua, 1894; C.M.G., 1896; second in command on China station, 1903; K.C.B. and vice-admiral, 1906; commander-in-chief of Mediterranean fleet, 1908; admiral and G.C.V.O., 1909; commander-in-chief at Portsmouth, 1910.

CUSENY, ARTHUR ROBERTSON (1866-1926), pharmacologist; M.B., O.M., Aberdeen, 1889; professor of pharmacology, Michigan University, at Ann Arbor, 1893-1905; at University College, London, 1905-18; professor of materia medica and pharmacology, Edinburgh, 1915-26; carried out researches on action of digitalis glucosides, the functions of the kidneys, and pharmacological actions of optical isomers; works include 'Textbook of Pharmacology and Therapeutics' (1899).

CUST, HENRY JOHN COCKAYNE (1861-1917), politician and journalist; great-grandson of first Baron Brownlow; B.A., Trinity College, Cambridge; unionist M.P., Stamford division of Lincolnshire, 1890-5; Bermondsey, 1900-6; editor of 'Pall Mall Gazette', 1892-6; chairman of Central Committee for National Patriotic Organizations, 1914.

CUST, SIR LIONEL HENRY (1859-1939), art historian; assistant, department of Prints and Drawings, British Museum, 1884; director, National Portrait Gallery, 1895-1909; superintended installation of collection at St. Martin's Place; surveyor of king's pictures, 1901-37; joint editor, 'Burlington Magazine', 1909-19; made special studies of Dürer and Van Dyck; works include 'Van Dyck' (1900); 'Authentic Portraits of Mary, Queen of Scots' (1903); and 'The Royal Collection of Paintings' (1905-6).

CUST, ROBERT NEEDHAM (1821-1909), Orientalist; grandson of first Baron Brownlow; educated at Eton; joined Indian civil service; served in Sikh war, 1845; administered Hoshiarpur and Ambala districts; reported on Punjab district after second Sikh war, 1849; called to bar, 1857; judicial commissioner of Amritsar, 1861; joined legislative council, 1864; retired from Indian service, 1867; studied Oriental languages; published over 60 volumes on Oriental philology or religion; chief were 'Modern Languages of the East India', 1878, 'Linguistic and Oriental Essays', 7 series, 1880-1904; founded Royal Asiatic Society, 1851; secretary, 1878-99; interested in missionary work; hon. LL.D. Edinburgh, 1885; attended coronations of William IV, Queen Victoria, and Edward VII; 'Memoir' published, 1899.

CUSTANCE, HENRY (1842-1908), jockey; won the Osarewitch, 1858 and 1861; the Derby, 1860, 1866, 1874; One Thousand Guineas, 1867; St. Leger, 1866; published 'Riding Recollections and Turf Stories', 1894.

CUTTS, EDWARD LEWES (1824-1901), antiquary; B.A., Queens' College, Cambridge, 1848; after holding curacies, he visited East to report on condition of Syrian and Chaldean churches; published many works on archaeology and ecclesiastical history, including 'Turning-Points of English Church History', 1874, and 'History of Early Christian Art', 1893.

DALE, SIR DAVID, first baronet (1829-1906), iron-master; born in Bengal; in service of Stockton and Darlington Railway Company; embarked on extensive shipbuilding enterprises at Hartlepool, 1866; director of North-Eastern Railway Company, 1881; chairman of Sunderland Iron Ore Company, 1903; pioneer of arbitration in industrial disputes; served on several industrial commissions; part founder (1869) and president (1895) of Iron and Steel Institute; baronet, 1895; hon. D.C.L. Durham, 1895; memorial chair of economics founded at Armstrong College, Newcastle, 1909.

DALLINGER, WILLIAM HENRY (1842-1909), Wesleyan minister and biologist; Wesleyan minister, 1861-80; governor and president of Wesley College, Sheffield, 1880-3; made classical investigations into life-history of 'flagellates' or 'monads' and into abiogenesis; improved microscopical technique; president of Royal Microscopical Society (1884-7); F.R.S., 1880; hon. D.Sc. Dublin, 1892; D.C.L. Durham, 1896; edited and rewrote Carpenter's 'The Microscope and its Revelations', 1890.

DALZIEL, DAVISON ALEXANDER, BARON DALZIEL of Wooler, Northumberland (1854-1938), newspaper proprietor and financier; nephew of Brothers Dalziel [q. v.]; a founder of Dalziel's News Agency, 1893; director of public companies, especially of overland transport undertakings; conservative M.P., Brixton, 1910; baronet, 1919; baron, 1927.

DALZIEL, EDWARD (1817-1905), draughtsman and wood engraver; second of Brothers Dalziel; partner with brother George as engraver, publisher, and printer in London from 1839-93; painter in oils and water-colours; designed woodcut illustrations in Dalziel's 'Arabian Nights,' 1864, and 'Bible Gallery,' 1880; joint-author of 'The Brothers Dalziel,' 1901.

DALZIEL, GEORGE (1815-1902), draughtsman and wood engraver; eldest of Brothers Dalziel; founded firm of the Brothers Dalziel in London, 1839; worked much (1840-50) with Ebenezer Landells [q. v.], engraving blocks for 'Punch' and 'Illustrated London News'; issued long series of books with woodcut illustrations which superseded steel engravings; engraved works by Millais, Birket Foster, du Maurier, Sir John Tenniel, and Harrison Weir; cut illustrations to Edward Lear's 'Book of Nonsense,' 1862, and Lewis Carroll's nursery classics; engraved all illustrations in 'Cornhill Magazine,' 1859, and in 'Good Words' from 1862; illustrated Staunton's 'Shakespeare,' 1858-61, and Goldsmith's works, 1860. When wood engraving was superseded by cheap photo-mechanical processes, Dalziel chiefly engaged in illustrating papers, viz. 'Fun,' 1870-93, 'Hood's Comic Annual,' from 1871, and 'Judy,' 1872-88; wrote stories and verse; joint-author of 'The Brothers Dalziel,' 1901.

DALZIEL, THOMAS BOLTON GILCHRIST SEPTIMUS (1823-1906), draughtsman; seventh and youngest of the Brothers Dalziel; joined brothers' firm, 1860; devoted himself to drawing on wood; water-colour and charcoal artist of landscape; illustrated entirely 'Pilgrim's Progress,' 1865, and partly Dalziel's 'Arabian Nights,' 1864, and 'Bible Gallery,' 1880.

DANIEL, CHARLES, HENRY OLIVE (1836-1919), scholar and printer; B.A., Worcester College, Oxford; fellow, 1863; provost, 1903-19; his private press produced books from about 1845 to 1903; these include reprints and works of contemporaries, notably of Robert Bridges; two of the most interesting productions, 'The Garland of Rachel' (1881) and 'Our Memories' (1893); revised Fell type.

DANIEL, EVAN (1837-1904), writer on the Prayer-Book; vice-principal (1863) and principal (1866-94) of St. John's Training College, Battersea; B.A. Dublin, 1870; M.A., 1874; member of London school board, 1873-9; vicar of Horsham, 1894-1904; hon. canon of Rochester, 1879; wrote 'The Prayer Book, its History and Contents,' 1877 (20th ed., 1901).

DANVERS, FREDERICK CHARLES (1833-1906), writer on engineering; writer in old East India house, 1853; joined newly formed India office, 1858; senior clerk of public works department, 1867; registrar and superintendent of records, 1884-98; wrote 'History of the Portuguese in India,' 1894, and lists of factory and marine records of the East India Company, 1897.

DARBYSHIRE, ALFRED (1839-1908), architect; apprenticed at Manchester; built Comedy Theatre, Manchester, and altered Lyceum, London, for Henry Irving, 1878; an amateur actor; played with Irving, 1865, and Helen Fancit, 1879; P.S.A., 1894; expert in heraldry; wrote 'A Chronicle of the Brasenose Club, Manchester,' 2 vols. 1892-1900, and 'Memoirs,' 1897.

DARWIN, SIR FRANCIS (1848-1925), botanist; son of Charles Darwin [q. v.]; B.A., Trinity College, Cambridge, 1870; his father's secretary and research assistant, 1875-82; university lecturer in botany, Cambridge, 1884; fellow of Christ's College, 1886; honorary fellow, 1908; reader in botany, 1888-1904; rendered twofold service to science; first, published 'Life and Letters of Charles Darwin' (1887) and 'More Letters of Charles Darwin' (1903); secondly, increased knowledge of vegetable physiology; F.R.S., 1882; knighted, 1913; received many honorary degrees.

DARWIN, SIR GEORGE HOWARD (1845-1912), mathematician and astronomer; son of Charles Darwin [q. v.]; educated at Clapham grammar school and Trinity College, Cambridge; B.A. (second wrangler), 1868; fellow of Trinity, 1868-78; F.R.S., 1879; Plinian professor of astronomy and experimental philosophy at Cambridge, 1883-1912; earliest scientific papers, originating with memoir (1876) 'On the Influence of Geological Changes on the Earth's Axis of Rotation,' deal solely with the earth; next series concerned with earth-moon system and the part played by 'tidal friction' in its development; later series surveys solar system; authority on many scientific subjects, including tidal theory, geodesy, and dynamical meteorology; president of British Association when it visited South Africa, and K.C.B., 1906; collected works published, 1897-11.

DAVEY, SIR HORACE (1851-1938), civil engineer; son of Charles Darwin [q. v.]; brother of Sir G. H. Darwin [q. v.] and Sir F. Darwin [q. v.]; B.A., Trinity College, Cambridge, 1874; devoted his life to designing and manufacturing scientific apparatus for Cambridge natural science school; F.R.S., 1903; K.B.E., 1918.

DAUBENY, SIR HENRY CHARLES BARNSTON (1810-1903), general; joined 56th foot, 1829; served in Coorg campaign, 1832-4; in Chinese war, 1841-2; C.B., 1842; recommended for V.O. for conspicuous bravery at Inkermann, 1854; inspector of army clothing, 1858-69; K.C.B., 1871; G.C.B., 1884; general, 1880.

DAVENPORT-HILL, ROSAMOND (1825-1902), educational administrator. [See HILL.]

DAVEY, HORACE, LORD DAVEY (1833-1907), judge; educated at Rugby and University College, Oxford; B.A. (double first in classics and mathematics), 1856; fellow, 1864; hon. fellow, 1884; M.A., 1889; hon. D.C.L., 1894; called to bar, 1861; acquired large practice in chancery courts; Q.C., 1876; practised in Rolls courts; an unrivalled 'case' lawyer; liberal M.P. for Christchurch, 1880-5, and Stockton-on-Tees, 1888-93; solicitor-general under Gladstone, Feb.-July 1886; knighted, 1886; appointed lord justice of appeal and P.C. 1893; raised to peerage as lord of appeal in ordinary, 1894; pronounced in favour of the men in trade union appeals; largely responsible for Street Betting Act, 1906; his judgments invariably concise and lucid; interested in literature, especially modern French; chairman of royal commission to make statutes for University of London, 1898; fellow of British Academy, 1906; collaborated in work upon costs in chancery, 1885.

DAVID, THOMAS WILLIAM RHYNS (1843-1922), Oriental scholar; Ceylon civil servant, 1868-76; studied Pali and early Buddhism; founded Pali Text Society, 1881; honorary professor of Pali and Buddhist literature, University College, London, 1892-1912; professor of comparative religion, Manchester, 1904-15; works include 'Buddhism' (1878) and important Digha Nikāya volumes (1886-1921); responsible for a Pali dictionary, issued 1921-5.

DAVIDSON, ANDREW BRUCE (1831-1902), Hebraist and theologian; M.A. Marischal University, Aberdeen, 1849; assistant to John Duncan (1796-1870, q. v.), 1858, whom he succeeded as professor of Hebrew and Oriental languages, New College, Edinburgh, 1863-1902; stimulating teacher; member of Old Testament revision company, 1870-84; received hon. degrees from Aberdeen, Edinburgh, Glasgow, and Cambridge; made lifelong research into language, historical exegesis, and theology of Old Testament; published works on Hebrew grammar (1874) and syntax (1894), commentaries on 'Job,' 1884, 'Ezekiel,' 1892, 'Nahum, Habakkuk, Zephaniah,' 1902, in 'Cambridge Bible,' 'Biblical and Literary Essays,' 1902, and sermon.

DAVIDSON, CHARLES (1824-1902), water-colour painter; member of New (1849-53) and Old (1858) Water Colour Societies, where he exhibited over 800 works, mainly typical English landscapes.

DAVIDSON, JAMES LEIGH STRACHAN (1843-1916), classical scholar. [See STRACHAN-DAVIDSON.]

DAVIDSON, JOHN (1857-1909), poet; schoolmaster in Scotland from 1873 to 1889; published 'Scaramouch in Naxos,' 1889, and other plays before settling in London, 1889; published 'Perfidia,' a novel, 1890, 'Fleet Street Eclogues,' 1893, which proved his genuine poetic gift, 'Ballads and Songs,' 1894, his most popular work, 'Fleet Street Eclogues,' 2nd ser. 1896, and 'New Ballads,' 1897; abandoned lyric for drama, writing original plays and translating foreign ones; finally (1901-9) wrote series of 'Testaments' expounding a materialistic and aristocratic philosophy; awarded civil list pension, 1906; committed suicide by drowning at Penzance.

DAVIDSON, JOHN THAIN (1833-1904), presbyterian minister; minister at Salford, 1859-69, and Islington, 1862-91; inaugurated in 1869, and continued till 1891, Sunday afternoon services for non-churchgoing people at Agricultural Hall; moderator of synod of presbyterian Church of England, 1872; a powerful preacher; published several volumes of addresses.

DAVIDSON, RANDALL THOMAS, BARON DAVIDSON OF LAMBERT (1848-1930), archbishop of Canterbury; born of Presbyterian parentage; educated at Harrow and Trinity College, Oxford; ordained deacon, 1874; priest, 1875; resident chaplain to Archbishop Taft [q. v.], 1877-82; dean of Windsor and Queen Victoria's domestic chaplain, 1888; on confidential terms both with Queen and Archbishop Benson; bishop of Rochester, 1891-8; published 'Life of Archbishop Taft,' 1891; bishop of Winchester, 1898-1908; actively engaged in ritual crisis in the Church, 1898-1901; spoke constantly in House of Lords on social questions; archbishop of Canterbury, 1908; his task during twenty-five years' primacy was to maintain unity and vindicate comprehensiveness of Church of England and to strengthen her witness in life of nation; member of royal commission on ecclesiastical discipline, 1904; first step towards Prayer Book revision taken when, as result, letters of business issued to Convocations, 1906; opposed Mr. Augustine Birrell's Education Bill (1906) and Deceased Wife's Sister Marriage Act (1907); presided over fifth Lambeth Conference of bishops of Anglican communion, 1908; gave evidence of wide knowledge of missionary problems and deep interest in development of Anglican Church abroad; attempted to promote Anglo-German friendship, 1909, 1912; crowned King George V and played full part in Parliament Bill controversy, 1911; resisted legislation disestablishing and disendowing Welsh Church; as result of demands from Bishop Gore and others for new declarations of Church's faith for purpose of denouncing modernism, persuaded Convocation to pass important Resolution, to which, in 1918, Gore appealed, 1914; as result of appeal of Frank Weston [q.v.], bishop of Zanzibar, called upon to deal with Kikuyu controversy, 1914; his answer, although attacked by both sides, upheld comprehensiveness of Anglican Church, 1918; exercised steady influence throughout European war, firmly supporting Allied cause, but refraining from anti-German rhetoric; protested against use by British troops of poison gas and air reprisals; authorized National Mission of Repentance and Hope, 1916; gave public support to inauguration of League of Nations; warmly supported Church of England Assembly (Powers) Act, 1919; presided over sixth Lambeth Conference, which appealed for reunion of Christendom on wider basis than had previously been conceived, 1930; trusted and admired by Free Churchmen; drew much closer relations between Anglican Church and Orthodox Churches; protested against religious persecution by Soviet government, 1922-3; gave friendly cognisance to Malines Conversations, 1921-3; gave great lead to forces of peace by his appeal during General Strike, 1926; deeply disappointed by failure of Prayer Book revision, 1927-8; resigned archbishopric and created Baron Davidson, 1928; an able administrator, who in general policy pursued middle course; immensely increased influence of Anglican Church in Christendom.

DAVIES, CHARLES MAURICE (1828-1910), author; M.A. Durham University, 1852; D.D., 1864; fellow, 1849; published novels attacking high church practices; articles in 'Daily Telegraph' republished as 'Unorthodox London', 1873; 'Orthodox London', 2 vols. 1874-5, and 'Mystic London', 1875.

DAVIES, JOHN LLEWELLYN (1836-1916), theologian; B.A., Trinity College, Cambridge (bracketed fifth in classical tripos), 1848; fellow of Trinity, 1850; ordained, 1851; influenced by F. D. Maurice [q.v.]; rector of Christ Church, Marylebone, 1858-89; vicar of Kirkby Lonsdale, Westmorland, 1889-1909; promoter of movements for education of women and working men; liberal in politics; broad churchman; helped to found National Church Reform Union, 1870; noted preacher; author of numerous theological works.

DAVIES, ROBERT (1816-1905), philanthropist; was put by father in charge of laundry at Carnarvon; with brothers founded successful shipowning firm at Menai Bridge; made large anonymous benefactions to Calvinistic Methodist chapels, to Welsh Methodist Mission in India, and other institutions; his younger brother RICHARD (1818-96) was liberal M.P. for Anglesey, 1868-86.

DAVIES, (SARAH) EMILY (1880-1931), promoter of women's education; sister of John Llewellyn Davies [q.v.]; with others organized college for women opened at Hitchin, 1889, and transferred to Cambridge (Girton College), 1873; honorary secretary, 1867-1904; mistress, 1873-5; pioneer in women's suffrage movement.

DAVIES, CHARLES EDWARD (1827-1909), architect and antiquary; son of a Bath architect; Bath city architect and surveyor, 1863-1909; discovered thermal baths (1869), well (1857-8), Great bath (1880-1), and Circular bath (1884-6), all Roman; his reconstruction of the Queen's bath (1886-9) evoked much criticism; had extensive private practice; F.S.A., 1880; published 'Mineral Baths of Bath', 1882.

DAVIS, HENRY WILLIAM CARLESS (1874-1928), historian, and editor of the DICTIONARY OF NATIONAL BIOGRAPHY from 1919 to 1928; B.A., Balliol College, Oxford, 1896; fellow of All Souls College, 1896-1903; history lecturer at New College, 1897; at Balliol College, 1899; fellow of Balliol, 1902; helped to organize 'Trade Clearing House', which expanded into 'War Trade Intelligence Department', 1915; vice-chairman of Department, 1916-18; returned to Oxford and became editor of DICTIONARY OF NATIONAL BIOGRAPHY, 1919; professor of modern history, Manchester, 1921; Ford's lecturer at Oxford, 1924-5; regius professor of modern history at Oxford and fellow of Oriel College, 1925; C.B.E., 1919; F.R.S., 1926; an influential teacher; works include 'Charlemagne' (1900), 'England under the Normans and Angevins' (1906), 'Medieval Europe' (1911), 'Regesta Regum Anglo-Normannorum' (vol. 1, 1913), 'The Age of Grey and Peol' (Ford lectures, 1930); responsible for volume of this DICTIONARY, 1912-1921 (1927).

DAVITT, MICHAEL (1846-1906), Irish revolutionary and labour agitator; of Roman Catholic peasant stock; joined Fenians, 1865; organizing secretary of Irish Republican Brotherhood, 1868; sentenced to fifteen years' penal servitude for treason-felony, 1870; released, 1877; met Henry George in America, 1878; introduced land agitation into Irish movement, and founded 'Land League of Ireland', 1879; arrested, tried, convicted, and released, 1880; organized American Land League and Ladies' Land League, 1880; imprisoned at Portland, 1881-9; elected M.P. for co. Meath while a prisoner, Feb. 1882; induced Parnell to found National League after suppression of Land League, June 1882; imprisoned for sedition, Jan.-May 1883; with Henry George advocated land nationalization, 1882-5; prominent as a respondent in Parnell commission which examined charges, brought by 'The Times,' that he intended to bring about by violence complete independence of Ireland; made five days' speech (Oct. 24-31, 1889), published as 'The Defence of the Land League', 1891; edited 'The Labour World,' organ of British labour movement (1890-1); anti-Parnellite M.P. for North Meath, 1892, and for South Mayo, 1895-9; helped to found United Irish League, 1898; attacked Wyndham's Land Purchase Act, 1903; visited Russia to show sympathy with revolutionary party, 1903-5; stood for reconciliation of extreme with constitutional nationalism, and of democracy with nationality; a collectivist and secularist; 'Davitt Memorial Church' erected at Straide; author of 'Leaves from a Prison Diary', 1884, and 'The Fall of Feudalism in Ireland', 1904; 'Life' by F. Sheehy Skeffington, 1908.

DAWKINS, SIR WILLIAM BOYD (1837-1939), geologist, palaeontologist, and antiquary; B.A., Jesus College, Oxford, 1860; member, Geological Survey of Great Britain, 1861-9; curator, Manchester museum, 1869; first professor of geology, Owens College (afterwards Manchester University), 1874-1908; excavated caves in order to carry out researches into contemporaneity of man with extinct mammals; F.R.S., 1867; knighted, 1919; works include, 'Cave Hunting' (1874), 'Early Man in Britain and his Place in the Tertiary Period' (1880).

DAWSON, GEORGE MERCER (1849-1901), geologist; son of Sir John William Dawson [q.v.]; born in Nova Scotia; as geologist and botanist to Canadian-American boundary commission formed large natural history collection, 1873-5; appointed to Canadian geological survey; made scientific researches in North-West and British Columbia; director of survey, 1895; C.M.G. and F.R.S., 1891; president of Royal Society of Canada, 1894; collaborated in 'Comparative Vocabularies of the Indian Tribes of British Columbia', 1884.

DAWSON, JOHN (1837-1903), trainer of racehorses; brother of Matthew Dawson [q.v.]; settled at Newmarket, 1861; trainer to Prince Bathynany, Sir Robert Jardine [q.v.], and others; trained winners of Cesarewitch (1878), Derby (1875), St. Leger (1876), Two Thousand Guineas (1876 and 1898); trained for a time King Edward VII's Perdita II.

DAY, SIR JOHN CHARLES FREDERIC SIGISMUND (1826-1908), judge; of Roman Catholic parentage; called to bar, 1849; Q.C., 1872; treasurer of Middle Temple, 1896; as editor of Roscoe's 'Evidence at Nisi Prius' and of the Common Law Procedure Act of 1853, became authority on new methods of pleading and practice; successful in breach of promise and libel cases; judge of Queen's Bench division, 1892-1901; knighted, 1893; stern criminal judge; chairman of royal commission to inquire into Belfast riots, 1886, and member of Parnell commission, 1888; P.O., 1901; discriminating art collector.

DAY, LEWIS FOREMAN (1848-1910), decorative artist; considerably influenced contemporary ornament; lecturer at Royal Society of Arts and Royal College of Art, South Kensington; art examiner and adviser to board of education from 1890; works include 'Windows', 1897, 'Lettering in Ornament', 1902, 'Nature and Ornament', 2 vols. 1908-9.

DAY, WILLIAM (HENRY) (1893-1908), trainer and breeder of racehorses; first successful as jockey; trained winners of Two Thousand Guinea (1886 and 1889), Brigantine (winner of Oaks and Ascot Cup, 1889), and Foxhall (winner of Grand Prix, Cesarewitch, and Cambridgeshire, 1881, and Ascot Cup, 1889); formed breeding stud at Alvediston near Salisbury, 1873; lost fortune by land speculation; published 'The Racehorse in Training', 1880, and 'Reminiscences', 1886.

DEACON, GEORGE FREDERICK (1843-1909), civil engineer; assisted Cromwell Varley [q.v.] in laying second Atlantic cable, 1866; consulting engineer at Liverpool (1865-71); as borough engineer (1871-80) laid inner circle tramway rails (1877) and introduced wood paving there; as water engineer (1871-90) invented and introduced Deacon waste water meter, 1873; designed masonry dam in Wyrnwy valley, to supply water for Liverpool by means of aqueduct 76 miles long; waterworks opened, 1893; work carried out on scientific and aesthetic lines; constructed waterworks for Merthyr Tydfil and other towns from 1890; reported on London water supply, 1897; hon. LL.D. Glasgow, 1902.

DEAKIN, ALFRED (1856-1919), Australian politician; born at Melbourne; admitted to Victorian bar, 1877; liberal M.P., West Bourke, 1879, but resigned immediately; re-elected, 1880; minister of water supply and commissioner of public works in Berry-Service coalition, 1883; also solicitor-general, 1883; chief secretary and minister of water supply in coalition with Duncan Gillies [q.v.], 1886-90; visited England as representative of Victoria at colonial conference, 1887; promoted federation movement in Victoria, 1891-8; played important part in discussions of Constitution Bill in London, 1900; attorney-general in first Commonwealth ministry, 1901; prime minister, 1903-4, 1905-8, and 1909-10.

DEANE, SIR JAMES PARKER (1812-1902), judge; educated at Winchester and St. John's College, Oxford; B.C.L. 1834; D.C.L., 1839; called to bar (Inner Temple), 1841; Q.C., 1858; treasurer, 1878; obtained large practice in probate and divorce and ecclesiastical courts; vicar-general of province of Canterbury, 1872; legal adviser to foreign office, 1872-86; P.O. and knighted, 1885.

DE BURGH CANNING, HUBERT GEORGE, second MARQUESS and fifteenth EARL OF CLANRICARDE (1832-1916), Irish landed proprietor. (See BURGH CANNING.)

DE FERRANTI, SEBASTIAN ZIANI (1864-1930), electrical engineer and inventor. (See FERRANTI.)

DE LA RAMÉE, MARIE LOUISE (1839-1908), novelist under the pseudonym of OUIDA; introduced to W. Harrison Ainsworth [q.v.], 1859; who published in 'Bentley's Miscellany' seventeen short tales by her, 1859-60; her forty-five novels, which chiefly deal with military and fashionable life, include 'Under Two Flags', 1867, 'Puck', 1870, 'Two Little Wooden Shoes', 1874, 'Moths', 1880, and 'Bimbi, Stories for Children', 1882; many were translated into foreign languages and successfully dramatized. Ouida settled permanently in Florence, 1874, where she entertained expensively; lived from 1894 in poverty at Sant' Alessio; was awarded civil list pension, 1904; died at Viareggio. Cynical, artificial in manner, and quick at repartee, she always wrote sympathetically of Italian peasants and dogs; in her latest works, 'Views and Opinions', 1898, and 'Critical Studies', 1906, she opposed militarism, women's suffrage, and vivisection.

DE LA RUE, SIR THOMAS ANDROS, first baronet (1849-1911), printer; son of Warren De la Rue [q.v.]; joined father's firm, c. 1871; as head (1889-96) increased firm's reputation for artistic production of English and foreign postage stamps; baronet, 1898.

DE MONTMORENCY, RAYMOND HARVEY, third VISCOUNT FRANKFORT DE MONTMORENCY (1835-1909), major-general; joined army, 1854; served in Crimea; recommended for V.C. in Indian Mutiny 1857-8; in Abyssinian expedition, 1867; commanded frontier force in Sudan, 1886-7; directed British field column during operations on Nile, 1887; major-general, 1889; succeeded to peerage, 1889.

DE MORGAN, WILLIAM FRED (1859-1917), artist, inventor, and author; son of Augustus De Morgan [q.v.]; educated at University College School and University College, London; entered Academy Schools, 1869; early made acquaintance of pre-Raphaelite circle; experimented in manufacture of stained glass and tiles; established pottery industry in Chelsea, 1871; rediscovers process of making coloured lustres; joined William Morris at Merton Abbey, 1889-8; erected factory at Fulham, 1888; retired, 1900, and firm dissolved, 1907; wintered in Florence, 1890-1914; were employed for decorative panels in steamships, &c.; published novels in later life: 'Joseph Vance' (1906), 'Alice-for-Short' (1907), 'Somehow Good' (1908), 'It Never Can Happen Again' (1909), 'An Affair of Dishonour' (1910), 'A Likely Story' (1911), 'When Ghost Meets Ghost' (1914); two unfinished stories published posthumously.

DENNEY, JAMES (1856-1917), theologian; M.A. Glasgow; studied theology at Glasgow Free Church college; professor of systematic and pastoral theology at the college, 1897; professor of New Testament language, literature, and theology, 1899; principal, 1915-17; noted expository preacher; worked for reunion of Free Church with Established Church of Scotland; best known for writings on doctrines of the person and work of Christ.

DETT, JOSEPH MALABY (1848-1926), publisher; apprenticed to bookbinders in Darlington and London; opened his own business in Hoxton, 1879; moved to Great Eastern Street, c. 1881; set up as publisher, 1888; productions include, 'Temple Library', 'Temple' (pocket) Shakespeare, 'Temple Classics', 'Medieval Towns' series; 'Haddon Hall Library'; 'Everyman's Library' (1904), a working library of the world's literature, edited by Ernest Rhys; moved to Bedford Street, Strand, 1898; opened model printing and binding factory at Garden City, Letchworth, 1907; erected Aldine House, Bedford Street, 1911.

DERBY, sixteenth EARL OF (1841-1908), governor-general of Canada. (See STANLEY, FREDERICK ARTHUR.)

DE ROBECK, SIR JOHN MICHAEL, baronet (1863-1928), admiral of the fleet; entered royal navy, 1875; rear-admiral, 1911; admiral of patrols, 1912-14; commanded ninth cruiser squadron, Aug. 1914; patrolled one of mid-Atlantic areas, with base at Finisterre; second-in-command to Vice-Admiral Sir Sackville Carden [q.v.] in naval expedition to Dardanelles, 1915; took over command, March; won approval of all associated with disastrous attempt to force Dardanelles; in supreme command of all naval forces which carried out withdrawal of army from Dardanelles, 1916; vice-admiral commanding second battle squadron, 1918; received grant of £10,000 and baronetcy, 1919; commander-in-chief, Mediterranean fleet, 1919-23; of Atlantic fleet, 1923-4; K.C.B., 1916; admiral, 1920; admiral of the fleet, 1925.

DE SAULLES, GEORGE WILLIAM (1863-1903), medallist; worked for Joseph Moore [q.v.], medallist; engraver to the Royal Mint, 1893; designed Edward VII coronation (1902), South Africa (1899-1902), and Ashanti (1900) medals; executed dies for new Queen Victoria coins, 1893; designed English coins after Edward VII's accession, 1902; exhibited at Royal Academy, 1898-1903.

DEE VOUE, SIR (GEORGE) WILLIAM (1834-1909), colonial governor; born at Baden of Huguenot descent; educated at Charterhouse and Balliol College, Oxford; went to Toronto, 1856; practised at bar; became stipendiary magistrate in British Guiana where he championed natives, 1863; as administrator of St. Lucia (1869-78) reorganized and codified old French system of law; governor of Fiji, 1880-5, Newfoundland, 1886, and Hong Kong, 1887-91; G.O.M.G., 1893; published 'My Colonial Service', 1903.

DETMOULD, CHARLES MAURICE (1863-1906), animal painter, and etcher; influenced by Japanese art; with twin brother Edward Julius produced portfolio of etchings of birds and animals of remarkable technical ability, 1898; illustrated Rudyard Kipling's 'Jungle Book', 1903; committed suicide.

DE VEE, AUBREY THOMAS (1814-1903), poet and author; son of Sir Aubrey de Vere, second baronet [q.v.]; educated at Trinity College, Dublin; came early under Wordsworth's influence; was intimate with Sir Henry Taylor, Tennyson, Robert Browning, and B. H. Hutton; visited Rome, 1839; travelled in Italy, 1844-4; published 'The Waldenses and other Poems', 1842, and 'English Miracle and Irish Misdeeds', 1848, in which he showed Irish sympathies and criticised English methods; joined Roman Church, 1861; nominal professor of political and social science in new Dublin Catholic University, 1864; interested in Irish legend and history; voluminous works include 'The Legends of St. Patrick,' 1873; 'Critical Essays,' 3 vols. 1887-9; 'Recollections,' 1897; and tramas; 'Memoir' by Wilfrid Ward, 1904.

DE VERE, SIR STEPHEN EDWARD, fourth baronet (1813-1904), translator of Horace; brother of Aubrey Thomas de Vere [q.v.]; called to Irish bar, 1836; entered Roman communion, 1848; liberal M.P. for Limerick, 1864-9; published 'Translations from Horace,' 1886.

DE VILLIERS, JOHN HENRY, first BARON DE VILLIERS (1842-1914), South African judge; born in Cape Colony; called to bar (Inner Temple), 1865; began practice at Cape bar, 1866; member of house of assembly, Worcester, Cape Colony, 1867; attorney-general, 1873; chief justice, 1873; worked for South African federation; knighted, 1877; member of royal commission which drew up Pretoria convention, 1881; K.O.M.G., 1882; P.O., 1897; first colonial judge on judicial committee of privy council; president of national convention, 1908; created baron, 1910; first chief justice of South African Union.

DEVONSHIRE, eighth DUKE OF (1833-1908), statesman. (See CAVENTISH, SPENCER COMPTON.)

DEWAR, SIR JAMES (1842-1938), natural philosopher; educated at Edinburgh University; Jacksonian professor of natural experimental philosophy, Cambridge, 1875-1923; Pullerian professor of chemistry, Royal Institution of Great Britain, London, 1877-1923; his early subjects of investigation included the specific heat of Graham's hydrogenum, for which he employed vacuum jacket, indispensable for liquefaction of gases, and precursor of 'Thermos' flask; made several biological researches; soon after 1875 joined G. D. Liveing [q.v.] in series of spectroscopic investigations; at Royal Institution carried out important work on liquefaction of gases; his use of charcoal for production of very high vacua greatly contributed to subsequent advances made by atomic physics; always anxious to employ liquid gases in opening up new fields of research; with Sir F. A. Abel [q.v.] invented cordite; F.R.S., 1877; knighted, 1904.

DE WET, CHRISTIAAN RUDOLPH (1854-1922), Boer general and politician; born in Orange Free State republic; served Transvaal war, 1880-1; member of Free State Volksraad; led roving life; made name by capture of British force at Nicholson's Nek, Oct. 1899; promoted general; captured Lord Roberts's convoy at Waterval, Feb. 1900; commander-in-chief, Free State forces, 1900; restored morale of Boer army; kept field for two years by employing guerrilla tactics, of which he became greatest modern exponent; delegate to Union Convention, 1908-9; supported General Hertzog against General Botha; in favour of secession from British Empire; with General Beyers, planned armed revolt against Botha's government, Oct. 1914; defeated (Nov.) and captured (Dec.); found guilty of high treason, but released after short imprisonment; died in Free State.

DE WINTON, SIR FRANCIS WALTER (1838-1901), major-general and South African administrator; served in Crimea, 1854; military attaché at Constantinople, 1878-83; K.C.M.G., 1884; G.C.M.G., 1898; administrator-general of Congo, 1885-6; suppressed rebellion of Yonniees on West African coast, 1887; O.B., 1888; as commissioner to Swaziland deemed British protectorate impracticable, 1889; major-general, 1890; controller of household of George, Duke of York, 1893; hon. LL.D. Cambridge, 1893.

DE WORME, HENRY, BARON FIRBRIGHT (1840-1908), politician; close friend of Count von Benst, Austrian statesman, who introduced him to Disraeli, 1867; conservative M.P. for Greenwich, 1880-5, and for Tooting, 1885-95; parliamentary secretary to board of trade, 1885-6, 1886-8; under-secretary for colonies, 1888-93; first Jewish P.C., 1888; president of international conference in London on sugar bounties, 1887; raised to peerage, 1895; president of Anglo-Jewish Association, 1873-86; F.R.S.; wrote scientific and political works.

DEWE, SIR GEORGE RICHARD (1884-1904), premier of New South Wales; born in Sydney; joined there father-in-law's sugar refining business, 1887; formed shipping business, 1889; member of legislative assembly of New South Wales, 1874; treasurer and colonial secretary, 1888-9; premier, Oct.-Dec. 1888; colonial secretary, 1896-7; premier and colonial secretary, Jan.-March 1889 and 1891-4; became protectionist; K.C.M.G., 1893; managing director of New South Wales Savings Banks, 1897-1904.

DEWEY, ALBERT VENN (1885-1933), jurist; brother of H. J. S. Dicey [q.v.]; B.A., Balliol College, Oxford; president of Union; fellow of Trinity College, Oxford, 1880-72; won Arnold historical essay prize, 1880; called to bar (Inner Temple), 1883; junior counsel to Commissioners of Inland Revenue, 1876-90; Vinerian professor of English law and fellow of All Souls College, Oxford, 1883-1909; Q.O., 1890; an ardent Unionist; his principal works, 'Introduction to the Study of the Law of the Constitution' (1885); 'Digest of the Law of England' (1896); and 'Law and Public Opinion in England' (1905).

DICEY, EDWARD JAMES STEPHEN (1832-1911), author and journalist; B.A., Trinity College, Cambridge, 1854; president of Union; leader-writer for 'Daily Telegraph,' 1861; wrote accounts of visits to America (1862), Russia, Holy Land, and Egypt (1867-70); editor of 'Observer,' 1870-89; keenly interested in affairs of Eastern Europe, Egypt, and South Africa; called to bar (Gray's Inn), 1875; treasurer, 1903-4; O.B., 1886; influenced public opinion by his knowledge, humour, judgement, and vivid style; author of works on Egypt and Bulgaria.

DICKINSON, HERCULES HENRY (1827-1905), dean of the Chapel Royal, Dublin, from 1868; M.A., Trinity College, Dublin, 1849; D.D., 1866; vicar of St. Ann's, Dublin, 1855-1902; professor of pastoral theology, Dublin University, 1894; member of royal commission for licensing reform, 1896-9; helped to found Alexandra College for Women, Dublin, 1886; warden, 1886-1902; wrote theological works.

DICKINSON, LOWES (CATO) (1819-1908), portrait painter; visited Italy and Sicily, 1850-3; friend of pre-Raphaelites; met F. D. Maurice (1844), and with Kingsley and Hughes formed Christian socialist movement; helped to found in 1854 Working Men's College, where he taught drawing; exhibited at Royal Academy (1848-91) portraits of Queen Victoria, King Edward VII, Lord Kelvin, Cobden, Grote, Gladstone, Bright, and General Gordon; memorial art studentship founded at Working Men's College, 1909.

DICKENS, SIR FRANCIS BERNARD (FRANK) (1858-1928), painter; came of artistic family; studied at Royal Academy schools; his first great popular success, 'Harmony' (Royal Academy exhibition, 1877); thenceforth exploited quasi-historical, romantic, and sentimental vein or else vein of melodrama in modern setting; his numerous pictures include 'Too Late' (1883); 'The Crisis' (1891); and 'The Light Incarnate' (1922); for a time also fashionable portrait painter, especially popular with female sitters; B.A., 1891; president of Royal Academy, 1924; knighted, 1925.

DICKSON, SIR COLLINGWOOD (1817-1904), general; born at Valenciennes; son of Sir Alexander Dickson [q.v.]; joined royal artillery, 1835; served in Spain, 1837-40; instructed Turkish artillery at Constantinople, 1841-5; received V.C. (1856) for bravery at Sebastopol, 1854; distinguished in battle of Inkermann, 1855; in Ireland, 1856-62; O.B., 1866; served on fortifications committee, 1868-9; inspector-general of artillery, 1870-5; K.C.B., 1871; general, 1877; president of ordnance committee, 1881-5; G.O.B., 1885; accomplished linguist.

DICKSON, WILLIAM PURDIE (1823-1901), professor of divinity and translator; studied at St. Andrews (1837-44) for presbyterian ministry; D.D., 1864; professor of biblical criticism, Glasgow University, 1868-73; professor of divinity, 1873-95; hon. LL.D. Edinburgh, 1885; translated Mommensen's 'History of Rome,' 4 vols. 1863-7, and 'Roman Provinces,' 1887.

DIGBY, WILLIAM (1849-1904), Anglo-Indian publicist; prepared six volumes of Ceylon 'Hansard,' 1871-8; edited 'Madras Times,' 1877-9; urged Lord Mayor of London's Southern Indian famine relief fund, 1877; C.I.E., 1878; edited 'Western Daily Mercury,' 1880-3; secretary of National Liberal Club, 1883-7; advocate of self-government in India; works include 'Prosperous British India,' 1901.

DILKE, SIR CHARLES WENTWORTH, second baronet (1843-1911), politician and author; son of first baronet [q.v.]; scholar of Trinity Hall, Cambridge; senior lawyer, LL.B., 1866; LL.M., 1869; twice president of Union; enthusiastic oarsman; called to bar, 1866; toured abroad and world with William Hopworth Dixon [q.v.], 1866-7, publishing his experience in 'Greater Britain,' 1868, the title being his own invention; radical M.P. for Chelsea, 1868-88; opposed Mr. Forster's education bill; expressed strong republican views in the country and in parliament; succeeded to baronetcy and proprietorship of 'Athenaeum' and of 'Notes and Queries,' 1869; married his first wife, 1873; frequently visited Paris; friend of Gambetta and republican leaders; published anonymously a satirical brochure, 'The Fall of Prince Florestan of Monaco', 1874; made second tour round world, 1876; prominent in parliament, 1874-80; seconded resolution for extension of county franchise to agricultural labourers, 1879; attacked conservative government's South African policy; leader of radical section of Gladstone's government, 1880; under-secretary to the foreign office, 1880-2; chairman of royal commission for negotiating commercial treaty with France, 1881-3; became friend of Prince of Wales (Edward VII); entered cabinet as president of local government board, 1882-5; chairman of royal commission on housing of working classes, 1884; conducted redistribution bill through House of Commons; jointly responsible for sending Gordon to the Sudan, 1884; opposed to Gladstone's Irish policy, 1886; co-respondent in divorce suit, Crawford v. Crawford and Dilke, 1885-6; was rejected by electors of Chelsea, 1886; was largely ostracised from public life owing to divorce court proceedings; married his second wife, Emilia Francis (see below), widow of Mark Pattison, 1885; pursued close study of English and Imperial problems; publishing 'Problems of Greater Britain', 2 vols. 1890; visited Greece and Constantinople, 1887-8, and India, 1888-9; M.P. for Forest of Dean, 1893-1911; spoke in parliament mainly on industrial, foreign, and Imperial affairs; made art and literary bequests to the National Portrait Gallery and other institutions; portrait by G. F. Watts.

DILKE, EMILIA FRANCIS STRONG, LADY DILKE (1840-1904), Oxfordian of French art; after private education at Oxford, studied art at South Kensington, 1859-61; married her first husband, Mark Pattison [q. v.], rector of Lincoln College, Oxford, Sept. 1861; published 'Renaissance of Art in France', 1879, and embodied subsequent researches in 'Art in the Modern State', 1888, and in volumes on French painters (1889), architects and sculptors (1900), and engravings and draughtsmen, all of the 18th century. At the same time she wrote stories of mystical temper and actively promoted improvement in the social and industrial condition of working women, joining the Women's Trades Union League and attending the Trades Union Congresses, 1884-1904. After Pattison's death in 1884 she married on 3 Oct. 1885 Sir Charles Wentworth Dilke (see above), an early friend, and thenceforth identified herself with his fortunes.

DILL, SIR SAMUEL (1844-1924), classical scholar, historian, and educationist; B.A., Lincoln College, Oxford; fellow and tutor, Corpus Christi College, Oxford, 1869; high master, Manchester grammar school, 1877-88; effective as teacher and administrator; professor of Greek, Queen's College, Belfast (later Belfast University), 1890-1924; knighted, 1909; wrote three books on Roman society.

DILLON, FRANK (1823-1909), landscape painter; exhibited at Royal Academy, 1850-1907; joined Royal Institute of Painters in Water Colours, 1866; frequently visited Egypt from 1854, painting many Egyptian scenes; also studied Japanese art; friend of Mazzini and Hungarian revolutionaries.

DILLON, JOHN (1851-1927), Irish nationalist politician; son of J. B. Dillon [q. v.]; qualified in surgery, Dublin; supported O. S. Parnell [q. v.] against Isaac Butt [q. v.], 1879; accompanied Parnell to U.S.A. on campaign on behalf of Land League, 1879; elected M.P. Tipperary, in absence; strongly advocated agrarian agitation; twice imprisoned in Kilmainham jail, 1881; M.P., East Mayo, 1885-1918; close personal ally of William O'Brien [q. v.]; with O'Brien promulgated 'plan of campaign', 1888; again imprisoned, 1888; re-arrested, but with O'Brien escaped via France to U.S.A., 1890; absent from Ireland during Parnell divorce proceedings; re-imprisoned, 1891; on release, declared unconditionally for anti-Parnellites; chairman of anti-Parnellite group, 1896; bent on extirpating landlord power in Ireland; supported John Redmond [q. v.] as chairman of united party, 1900; split with O'Brien, 1904; chief member of Irish leader's 'cabinet'; instrumental in procuring establishment of National University, 1908; with Redmond represented Irish Nationalists at Buckingham Palace Conference on Ulster question, July 1914; joined in abortive attempt to bring in Home Rule by agreement, July 1916; chairman of Irish party, 1918; with Sinn Féin leaders resisted Irish conscription, 1918; defeated at East Mayo and withdrew from public life, 1918; an inspiring orator whose knowledge was enormous and labour endm-

DIMOCK, NATHANIEL (1825-1909), theologian; B.A., St. John's College, Oxford, 1847; M.A., 1850; held livings in Kent, 1848-57; wrote much on church doctrine with profound erudition from evangelical point of view; influential member of Bishop Creighton's 'Round Table Conference' on Holy Communion doctrine and ritual, 1900; voluminous works include 'The Doctrine of the Sacraments', 1871, 'Curiosities of Patristic and Medieval Literature', 3 pts., 1891-5; memorial edition of works published, 1910-11.

DIMICK, WILLIAM HENRY (1855-1937), meteorologist; B.A., Corpus Christi College, Cambridge, 1881; private correspondence tutor in mathematics; devoted himself increasingly to dynamical and physical sides of meteorology; leading exponent of experimental meteorology in England; took up subject of wind-force and developed pressure-tube anemometer; directed work on upper air for British Meteorological Office, 1905; undertook searching examination of problem of solar and terrestrial radiation; president, Royal Meteorological Society, 1901-2; F.R.S. 1905.

DIXIE, LADY FLORENCE CAROLINE (1857-1905), authoress and traveller; born DOUGLAS; married Sir Alexander Beaumont Churchill Dixie, eleventh baronet, 1875; hunted big game in Africa, Arabia, and Rocky Mountains; explored Patagonia, 1878-9; correspondent for 'Morning Post' in Zulu war, 1879; denounced Irish Land League agitation, 1880-3; alleged without proof that she was a victim of Fenian outrage near Windsor, 1883; advocated complete sexual equality; chief works were 'Across Patagonia', 1880, and 'Songs of a Child', 1902-3.

DIXIE, BERTRAM (1842-1914), bookseller and man of letters; befriended James Thomson [q. v.], and arranged independent publication of 'City of Dreadful Night', 1880; his great achievement recovery of poetical works of Thomas Traherne (1903), followed by prose 'Centuries of Meditations' (1908).

DOBSON, (HENRY) AUSTIN (1840-1921), poet and man of letters; entered board of trade, 1856; principal clerk in marine department, 1884-1901; verse includes 'Vignettes in Rhyme' (1873), 'Proverbs in Porcelain' (1877), and 'At the Sign of the Lyre' (1885); prose works include 'Lives of Hogarth' (1879), 'Fielding' (1883), 'Steele' (1886), 'Goldsmith' (1888), 'Horace Walpole' (1890), 'Samuel Richardson' (1902), 'Fanny Burney' (1903), and 'Thomas Bewick and his Pupils' (1884).

DODS, MARCUS (1834-1909), presbyterian divine and biblical scholar; son of Marcus Dods [q. v.]; M.A. Edinburgh University, 1854; hon. D.D., 1891; minister of Renfild Free church, Glasgow, 1864-89; a published sermon (1877) questioning verbal inspiration caused much discussion; professor of New Testament criticism in New College, Edinburgh, 1889; libelled for his views on inspiration at general assembly, 1890; principal of New College, 1907-9; works include commentaries on Genesis (1885) and 1 Corinthians (1889), 'The Bible, its Nature and Origin' (Brooks lectures, 1905); 'Letters', edited by son, 3 vols. 1910-11.

DOHERTY, HUGH LAWRENCE (1875-1919), lawn-tennis player; made name at lawn-tennis as Cambridge undergraduate; winner of All England singles championship at Wimbledon, 1902-6; with his brother, K. F. Doherty, doubles champion eight times between 1897 and 1906; American national champion, 1903.

DOLLING, ROBERT WILLIAM RADOLYFFE [FATHER DOLLING] (1851-1903), divine and social reformer; educated at Trinity College, Cambridge; did social work in Dublin, 1870-8; intimate with 'Father' Stanton [q. v.] and Alexander Mackonochie [q. v.]; warden of St. Martin's Postman's League in South London, 1879-82; vicar of St. Agatha's, Landport, 1888-95; resigned owing to disputes with bishop on questions of ritual; wrote 'Ten Years in a Portsmouth Slum', 1898; as vicar of St. Saviour's, Poplar (1898-1901), he influenced social and municipal affairs; unconventional preacher; 'Life' by Charles E. Osborne, 1903.

DONALDSON, SIR JAMES (1831-1916), educationist, classical and patristic scholar; M.A. Aberdeen; rector of Edinburgh High School, 1866-81; professor of humanity, Aberdeen University, 1881; principal and vice-chancellor of St. Andrews University, 1889; knighted, 1907; author of patristic works; helped to establish compulsory primary education in Scotland.

DONKIN, BRYAN (1835-1902), civil engineer; grandson of Bryan Donkin [q. v.]; studied engineering in Paris; apprentice (1854) and partner (1868) in grandfather's engineering works; pursued valuable researches into design and construction of heat engines and steam boilers; perfected glass 'revealer' for showing condensation effects in the cylinder; made inquiry into motive power from blast-furnace gases; wrote 'A Text-Book on Gas, Oil and Air Engines, 1894.

DONNELLY, SIR JOHN FRETCHVILLE DYKES (1834-1903), major-general royal engineers; born at Bombay; joined royal engineers, 1853; served in battle of Inkermann and in trenches before Sevastopol, 1854; conspicuous in assault on the Redan, June 1855; recommended for V.C.; retired with hon. rank of major-general, 1857; assisted Sir Henry Cole [q.v.] in reorganizing science and art department at South Kensington, 1858; inspector for science, 1859; arranged for payment of teachers by results of examinations of pupils, 1859; became 'Director of Science,' 1874; supervised science schools and institutions throughout country; secretary and permanent head of science and art department, 1884; retired, 1889; C.B., 1886; K.C.B., 1893; exhibited water-colour sketches and etchings at Royal Academy (1888-1901); published military pamphlets.

DONNET, SIR JAMES JOHN LOUIS (1816-1906), inspector-general of hospitals and fleets from 1875; born at Gibraltar; M.D. St. Andrews, 1857; entered navy, 1840; at capture of Acre; surgeon in Arctic expedition with Sir Erasmus Ommanney [q.v.], 1850-1; in Pacific, 1854; K.C.B., 1897.

DORRIS, SIR HORACE LOCKWOOD SMITH- (1868-1930), general. [See SMITH-DORRIS.]

DOUGHERTY, CHARLES MONTAGU (1843-1926), poet and traveller; uncle of C. H. M. Doughty-Wylie [q.v.]; B.A., Calus College, Cambridge; began travels as poor student, 1870; after settling at Damascus for a year to learn Arabic, joined Meccan pilgrim caravan, 1876; travelled to Medain Salih, Hail, Kheybar, and the Kasim in central Asia, finishing at Jiddah, 1878; unique value of journey began when, leaving caravan and proclaiming himself Englishman and Christian, he gathered new information about geography and geology of North-western Arabia and gained understanding of Arab character and nomad life; published 'Travels in Arabia Deserta,' his first experiment in Elizabethan English, 1888; devoted remainder of his life to poetry; this includes 'The Dawn in Britain' (1906-7) and 'Adam Cast Forth' (1908).

DOUGHTY-WYLIE, CHARLES HOTHAM MONTAGU (1868-1915), soldier and consul; joined army, 1889; served in India, Egypt, South Africa, and China; military consul for Konie province of Asia Minor, and later Cilicia, 1906; saved Christian communities at Adana, 1909; C.M.G. and consul-general at Addis Ababa, Abyssinia, 1909; C.B., 1912; on staff of Gallipoli expedition, 1915; killed while leading brilliant charge on 'Hill 141'; posthumous V.C.

DOUGLAS, SIR ADYE (1815-1906), premier of Tasmania; emigrated to Tasmania, and admitted to bar, 1839; five times mayor of Launceston; elected to legislative council, 1855; opposed transportation; urged claims of Tasmania to responsible government; premier and chief secretary, 1884-6; first agent-general for colony, 1886-7; chief secretary, 1892-4; president of legislative council, 1894-1904; knighted, 1902.

DOUGLAS, SIR CHARLES WHITTINGHAM HORSLEY (1860-1914), general; joined army, 1869; served in South Africa war, 1899-1901; adjutant-general, war office, 1904-9; K.C.B., 1907; general, 1910; G.C.B., 1911; inspector-general, home forces, 1912; chief of Imperial General Staff, 1914.

DOUGLAS, GEORGE (pseudonym) (1869-1902), novelist. [See BROWN, GEORGE DOUGLAS.]

DOUGLAS, GEORGE CUNNINGHAM DE MONTEATH (1856-1904), Hebraist; B.A. Glasgow University, 1843; D.D., 1867; joined Free Church at disruption; professor of Hebrew at Glasgow theological college, 1857-1903; member of Glasgow school board; member of Old Testament revision company, 1870-84; wrote on conservative lines 'The Old Testament and its Critics,' 1903.

DOUGLAS-PENRYNANT, GEORGE SHOLTO GORDON, second BARON PENRYNANT (1856-1907), landowner; conservative M.P. for Carnarvonshire, 1866-8; 1874-80; succeeded to peerage and Penryn estate and Bethesda slate quarries, 1886; championed free labour and refused to recognise trade union officials in strikes at his quarries, which he closed down, 1897 and 1900; succeeded in libel action against 'Clarion,' the socialist newspaper, 1903; ardent sportsman; won Goodwood Cup (1898) and Ascot Gold Vase (1894); a strong Tory and churchman; founded North Wales Property Defence Association.

DOUGLAS-SCOTT-MONTAGU, JOHN WALTER EDWARD, second BARON MONTAGU OF BEAULIEU (1866-1929), pioneer of motoring; trained as competent mechanic and engine-driver; conservative M.P., New Forest division of Hampshire, 1892-1905; succeeded father, 1905; his energetic advocacy helped extension of motoring and development of modern motor-car; member of road board, 1909-19; adviser on mechanical transport services to government of India, 1915-19; interested in aviation.

DOWDEN, EDWARD (1842-1913), critic; brother of John Dowden [q.v.]; B.A., Trinity College, Dublin; professor of English literature, Trinity College, 1867; works include 'Shakspeare, His Mind and Art' (1875), 'Shakspeare Primer' (1877), and 'Life of Shelley' (1886).

DOWDEN, JOHN (1840-1910), bishop of Edinburgh; son of staunch presbyterian; B.A., Trinity College, Dublin, 1861; D.D., 1876; Pontanian professor of theology at Glenmalind, 1874-80; principal of theological hall of Scottish Episcopal Church, 1880-6, and canon of St. Mary's Cathedral, Edinburgh, 1880; bishop of Edinburgh, 1886-1910; hon. LL.D. Edinburgh, 1904; founded Scottish Historical Society (1886), editing several of its publications; Rhind lecturer before Society of Antiquaries of Scotland, 1901; published 'The Celtic Church in Scotland,' 1894, 'The Workmanship of the Prayer Book,' 1899, 'The Medieval Church in Scotland,' 1910, sermons and pamphlets.

DOWIE, JOHN ALEXANDER (1847-1907), religious fanatic; born in Edinburgh; emigrated to Adelaide, 1860; congregational minister near Adelaide, 1871; prominent in Sydney religious, social, and political life; built tabernacle for 'divine healing' at Melbourne, Victoria, 1882; removed to Chicago, 1890; opened Zion's tabernacle there, 1893; proprietor and overseer of Zion City on Lake Michigan, 1900; announced himself as 'Elijah the Restorer'; enjoyed for a time wide notoriety and published organ 'Leaves of Healing'; visited England (1903 and 1904) with little success; deposed by officers of his church, 1906; unsuccessful in lawsuit for restitution of church funds and property; died at Illinois.

DOYLE, SIR ARTHUR CONAN (1859-1930), author; nephew of Richard Doyle [q.v.]; M.B. Edinburgh University; his early novels include 'Micah Clarke' (1887), 'The White Company' (1890), and 'The Sign of Four' (1890); attracted attention chiefly by series of short stories entitled 'The Adventures of Sherlock Holmes,' which began in 'Strand Magazine,' 1891; used this creation of his fancy in many stories short and long, so that Sherlock Holmes became familiar figure to millions of readers; served as physician in South African war, 1899-1902; published 'The War in South Africa. Its Cause and Conduct,' a vindication of England (1902); in later years absorbed by subject of spiritualism; knighted, 1902.

DOYLE, JOHN ANDREW (1844-1907), historian; inherited property from grandfather, Sir John Easthope [q.v.]; educated at Eton and Balliol College, Oxford; B.A., 1867; fellow of All Souls, 1867-1907; took active part in local affairs in Breconshire; advocated rifle shooting at the universities; authority on dog and race-horse breeding; closely studied American history; published 'Summary History of America,' 1875, 'The English in America,' 1882, 'The Puritan Colonies,' 3 vols. 1887, 'The Middle Colonies,' 1907, 'The Colonies under the House of Hanover,' 1907, and 'Essays on Various Subjects' (posthumous), 1911.

DREDGE, JAMES (1840-1906), civil engineer and journalist; joint editor and proprietor of 'Engineering' from 1879 till death; British commissioner at many international exhibitions, including Chicago (1893) and Brussels (1897); C.M.G., 1898; published 'Modern Examples of Road and Railway Bridges,' 1872, and 'Electric Illumination,' 3 vols. 1882.

DRECHTVELD, JULIUS (1846-1907), physician and pathologist; born in Bavaria of Jewish parents; educated at Owens College, Manchester, and Manchester Royal School of Medicine; M.D. Würzburg, 1864; army surgeon in Bavarian army, 1864; settled in Manchester, 1869; on staff of Manchester Royal Infirmary, 1873-1907; F.R.C.P., 1883; Bradshawe lecturer, 1887; professor of pathology (1881-91) and of medicine (1891-1907) at Victoria University, Manchester; almost forestalled Pasteur in researches on hydrophobia, 1882-3; an expert neurologist; published numerous scientific papers in English and German journals; memorial volume with biography and bibliography published, 1908.

DREW, SIR THOMAS (1838-1910), architect; pupil of Sir Charles Lanyon [q. v.], 1884; F.R.I.B.A., 1889; president of Royal Hibernian Academy, 1900; knighted, 1900; hon. LL.D. Dublin, 1906; president of Royal Society of Antiquaries of Ireland, 1895-7; designed Rathmines town hall, 1898, and Belfast Cathedral, 1899.

DEYER, JOHN LOUIS EMIL (1852-1936), astronomer; born at Copenhagen; studied mathematics and astronomy at Copenhagen University; assistant, Earl of Rosse's observatory, Birr Castle, Farnestown, Ireland, 1874; assistant, Dublin University observatory, Dunsink, 1878; director, Armagh observatory, 1882-1916; works include 'New General Catalogue of Nebulae and Clusters of Stars, being the Catalogue of Sir John Herschel, revised, corrected, and enlarged' (1888); supplements (1894 and 1908); 'Tycho Brahe' (1890); 'History of the Planetary Systems from Thales to Kepler' (1906); 'Scientific Papers of Sir William Herschel' (1912); 'Tycho's Brahe Opera Omnia' (1912-36).

DRIVER, SAMUEL ROLLES (1846-1914), regius professor of Hebrew and canon of Christ Church, Oxford, 1883-1914; B.A. New College, Oxford; fellow, 1870; member of Old Testament revision company, 1878-1884; works include 'A Treatise on the Use of the Tenses in Hebrew' (1874); 'Introduction to the Literature of the Old Testament' (1891), and Old Testament commentaries.

DRUMMOND, SIR GEORGE ALEXANDER (1829-1910), senator in the parliament of Canada (1880-1910) and president of the bank of Montreal from 1905; emigrated from Edinburgh to Montreal, 1864; founded Canada Sugar Refining Company, 1879; president of Montreal board of trade, 1886-8; K.O.M.G., 1904; C.V.O., 1908; philanthropist and art collector.

DRUMMOND, JAMES (1835-1918), Unitarian divine; son of Rev. W. H. Drummond [q. v.]; B.A., Trinity College, Dublin; studied theology at Manchester New College, London; pastor at Cross Street chapel, Manchester, 1860-9; lecturer at Manchester New College, 1869-85; principal (London), 1885-9, (Oxford), 1889-1906; an eloquent preacher and independent theological thinker and writer.

DRUMMOND, WILLIAM HENRY (1854-1907), Canadian physician and poet; emigrated from Ireland to Canada, 1865; as telegraph operator (1869) at Bori-a-Plouffe he first met with French-speaking backwoodsmen, whom he faithfully represents in 'The Habitant,' 1897, 'Johnny Courtenay,' 1901, and 'The Voyageur,' 1905; graduated in medicine at Bishop's College, Montreal, 1884; professor of medical jurisprudence there from 1895; hon. LL.D. Toronto, 1903.

DRURY-LOWE, SIR DRURY CURZON (1830-1908), lieutenant-general; B.A., Corpus Christi College, Oxford, 1853; joined 17th lancers, 1854; served in Crimea and Indian Mutiny; commanded regiment in Zulul war, 1879-80; C.B., 1879; distinguished as cavalry commander in Egyptian war, 1882; helped in victories of Kassasin and Tel-el-Kebir; occupied Cairo, receiving surrender of Arabi Pasha; C.O.B., 1882; inspector-general of cavalry at Aldershot, 1885-90; lieutenant-general, 1890; G.C.B., 1895.

DREYDALE, LEARMONT (1866-1909), musical composer; while student at Royal Academy of Music, London (1888-92), he wrote notable orchestral compositions; his 'Tam o' Shanter,' 1891, 'The Plague' (musical play), 1896, and 'The Red Spider' (light opera), 1898, met with great success; composed original settings of Scots lyrics and arranged folk-songs.

DU CANE, SIR EDMUND FREDERICK (1830-1903), major-general, R.E., and prison reformer; joined royal engineers, 1848; organizer of convict labour in Western Australia and magistrate, 1861-6; designed new land works at Dover and Plymouth, 1858-63; inspector-general of military prisons and chairman of board of directors of convict prisons, 1869; reorganized county and borough prisons; his scheme (1873) transferring control and cost of local prisons to government legislated by Prison Act of 1877; G.B., 1878; K.O.B., 1877; became chairman of prison commissioners to administer the Act; inaugurated registration of criminals; suggested composite portraiture to Sir Francis Galton; major-general, 1877; clever water-colour painter; wrote 'The Punishment and Prevention of Crime,' 1885.

DUCKETT, SIR GEORGE FLOYD, third baronet (1811-1902), archaeologist and lexicographer; educated at Harrow and Christ Church, Oxford; joined army, 1832; compiled 'Technological Military Dictionary' (1845) in German, English, and French; recognised abroad but ignored at home; succeeded to baronetcy, 1858, which became extinct at his death; F.S.A., 1869; published genealogical history of Duckett family, and several volumes on the charters and records of Cinque fundations, 1877-83; wrote 'Anecdotal Reminiscences of an Octogenarian,' 1895.

DUCKWORTH, SIR DYCE, first baronet (1840-1928), physician; M.D. Edinburgh, 1868; medical tutor, St. Bartholomew's Hospital, 1868; full physician, 1883-1905; joint lecturer on medicine, 1880-1901; F.R.C.P., 1870; retired from readership of College after nearly forty years' service, 1923; Lankshire lecturer, 1896; Harvelan orator, 1898; knighted, 1898; baronet, 1909; chief work 'Treatise on Gout' (1889); essentially exponent of art of medicine.

DUDGEON, ROBERT ELLIS (1830-1904), homoeopath; M.D. Edinburgh, 1841; practised homoeopathy in London, 1845; edited 'British Journal of Homoeopathy,' 1846-84; translated works by Hahnemann, 1849-50; helped to found Hahnemann Hospital and school of homoeopathy, Bloomsbury Square, 1850; secretary (1848) and president (1878 and 1890) of British Homoeopathic Society; invented Dudgeon's sphynograph, 1878; wrote on 'Homoeopathy,' 1854, and optics.

DUFF, SIR BEAUCHAMP (1855-1918), general; entered royal artillery from Woolwich, 1874; served in India; passed out of Staff College with distinction, 1889; military secretary to commander-in-chief in India, Sir George Stuart White [q. v.], 1895-9; military secretary to White, and later on Lord Roberts's staff, during South African war, 1899-1900; C.B. and returned to India, 1901; assisted Lord Kitchener to reorganise Indian army, 1903-1909; chief of staff and K.O.V.O., 1906; K.C.B., 1907; secretary of military department at India office, 1909; K.C.S.I., 1910; G.O.B., 1911; commander-in-chief and military member of council in India, 1914-16; G.C.S.I. and recalled to England to give evidence before Mesopotamia commission, 1916; assigned large share of blame for failure of Mesopotamian operations, although partially exonerated on account of over-great responsibility.

DUFF, SIR MOUNTSTUART ELPHINSTONE GRANT (1829-1906), statesman and author. [See GRANT DUFF.]

DUFFERIN AND AVA, first MARQUESS OF (1826-1902), diplomatist and administrator. [See BLACKWOOD, FREDERICK TEMPLE HAMILTON-TEMPLE.]

DUFFY, SIR CHARLES GAVAN (1816-1903), Irish nationalist and colonial politician; engaged in journalism in Dublin, 1836; started the 'Nation' as proprietor and editor, 1842; gathered a brilliant staff of 'Young Irelanders' who developed a strong nationalist sentiment; produced 'The Library of Ireland,' a shilling series of Irish biography, poetry, and criticism; was accused of sedition with Daniel O'Connell [q. v.], 1844; opposed O'Connell's Irish federal plan, 1844; called to Irish bar, 1845; became intimate with Carlyle, 1845; formed Irish Confederation, 1847; suggested formation of independent Irish party in House of Commons, 1848; was arrested, the 'Nation' being suppressed for advocating rebellion, 1848-9; joined Irish Tenant League for fixity of tenure, fair rents, and free sale; Independent M.P. for New Ross, 1852-5; emigrated to Australia, 1855; barrister at Melbourne; member of the House of Assembly, Victoria, 1856; minister of land and works, 1857-9 and 1862-8; carried Duffy's Land Act to facilitate acquisition of land by immigrants; prime minister, 1871-3; K.O.M.G., 1873; speaker of the House of Assembly, 1878-80; spent remainder of life in south of Europe in literary work; wrote 'Young Ireland, 1840-50,' 2 vols. 1890-4, 'Life of Thomas Davis,' 1890, 'Conversations with Thomas Carlyle,' 1892, and 'My life in Two Hemispheres,' 1898; died at Nice.

DUFFY, PATRICK VINCENT (1836-1909), landscape painter; keeper of the Royal Hibernian Academy, 1871-1909.

DUKE, SIR FREDERICK WILLIAM (1823-1894), Indian civil servant; educated at Arbroath high school; entered Indian civil service, 1832; assigned to Bengal, where he served in districts, 1834-1908; magistrate of Howrah, 1897-1902; commissioner of Orissa, 1903-8; chief secretary to government of Bengal, 1908; last lieutenant-governor of Bengal, 1911; senior member of council of governor of Bengal, 1912-14; member of Council of India, 1914-80; engaged in discussions on framework of Indian government; accompanied S. B. Montagu [q. v.] to India, 1917-18; permanent under-secretary of state, India office, 1920-4; K.O.I.B., 1913.

DUNLOP, JOHN BOYD (1840-1921), inventor and pioneer of the pneumatic rubber tyre; veterinary surgeon in Belfast, 1867; fitted tricycle with pneumatic instead of solid rubber tyres, 1887; formed business which ultimately developed into Dunlop Rubber Company Ltd.; invention revolutionised cycling and made possible motor road vehicle.

DUNMORE, seventh EARL OF (1841-1907), explorer. [See MURRAY, CHARLES ADOLPHUS.]

DUMFRIES, CHARLES JAMES (1820-1908), art critic and essayist; educated at Trinity College, Dublin; founded 'Patriotic Fund Journal', 1864-5; art and dramatic critic to 'Morning Post', 1866-95; published 'Wildfire', 1876, 'Sweet Sleep', 1879, and 'The Chameleon', 1888, semi-cynical and fluent essays.

DUNRAVEN AND MOUNT-EARL, fourth EARL OF (1841-1926), Irish politician. [See QUINN, WINDHAM THOMAS WYNDHAM.]

DUFFY, AUGUST (1835-1907), chemist; born at Mainz; studied chemistry at Glessen and Heidelberg (Ph.D., 1866); came to London, 1866; assistant demonstrator at Guy's Hospital; discovered presence of copper in vegetable and animal tissues; lecturer in toxicology at Westminster Hospital medical school, 1868-97; made special inquiries into Thames purification and sewage treatment; officially engaged from 1873 in researches on explosives; examined Fenian 'infernal machines', 1882-3; a member of ordnance research board, 1906; evolved original methods of analysis and testing for safety; published many scientific papers; F.R.S., 1876.

DURAND, SIR HENRY MORTIMER (1850-1924), Indian civil servant and diplomat; born in India; son of Sir H. M. Durand [q.v.]; entered Indian civil service, 1870; posted to Bengal, 1873; attaché in foreign office where, owing to proficiency in Oriental languages, he rose rapidly in political or diplomatic department; foreign secretary in India, 1884-94; conducted mission to Amir of Afghanistan, whereby 'Durand line' between British and Afghan areas of influence was demarcated, 1893; inspired confidence in subordinates and Asiatic rulers with whom he came in contact; minister plenipotentiary at Tehran, 1894-1900; ambassador at Madrid, 1900-3; at Washington, 1903-4; K.C.I.E., 1889; his premature abandonment of his Indian career a mistake; successful neither in Persia nor U.S.A.

DURNFORD, SIR A. WALTER (1847-1926), provost of King's College, Cambridge; son of Richard Durnford [q.v.], bishop of Chichester; B.A. and fellow, King's College, Cambridge, 1869; master at Eton, 1870-99; returned to Cambridge, 1899; vice-provost of King's, 1909; provost, 1910-26; G.B.E. 1910.

DUTT, BOMFESH CHUNDER (1848-1909), Indian official, author, and politician; born in Calcutta; educated at presidency college, Calcutta; called to English bar, 1871; joined Bengal civil service, 1871; C.I.E., 1892; commissioner of Burdwan, 1894, and Orissa, 1895-7; member of Bengal legislative council, 1896; settled in London, 1897; as president of national congress at Lucknow (1899) condemned government's land revenue policy; lecturer on Indian history, University College, London, 1898-1904; revenue minister of state of Baroda, 1904-7; prime minister, 1909; Indian member of royal commission on Indian decentralisation, 1907-8; works include 'History of Bengali Literature', 1877, 'History of Civilisation in Ancient India', 3 vols. 1888-90, 'Economic History of British India, 1757-1857', 1903, and translations from the Sanskrit 'Life' by J. N. Gupta, 1911.

DUTTON, JOSEPH EVERETT (1874-1906), biologist; M.B. and Ch.M. at Victoria University, Liverpool, and Holt fellow in pathology, 1897; went with Liverpool school of tropical medicine to Nigeria to study the mosquito, 1900; discovered at Gambia first trypanosome in man which caused sleeping-sickness, 1901; at Stanley Falls (1904) discovered cause of tick fever in man; succumbed to fever at Kosongo.

DUYVENS, SIR JOSEPH JOEL (1843-1908), art dealer and benefactor; born in Holland; settled at Hull as general dealer, 1866; helped to form many private collections of Nanking and Oriental porcelain; extended business to tapestry, pictures, and objects of art, 1879; benefactor to National and Tate galleries; added 'Turner Wing' to Tate Gallery, 1908; knighted, 1908.

DYER, REGINALD EDWARD HARRY (1864-1927), brigadier-general; born in India; educated, Royal Military College, Sandhurst; commissioned to queen's royal regiments, 1888; transferred to Indian army; saw active service, 1886-1908; achieved notable success when commanding operations in South-eastern Persia, 1916; commanded training brigade at Jullundur, India, 1916; restored order after outbreak of serious and unprovoked civil disturbance at Amritsar, April 1919; three of his actions gave rise to bitter controversy and led in Oct. to appointment by government of India of committee to inquire into proceedings; as result, his resignation demanded by commander-in-chief in India, 1920.

DYER, SIR WILLIAM TURNER THISELTON (1843-1928), botanist. [See THISELTON-DYER.]

EADY, CHARLES SWINFEN, first BARON SWINFEN (1861-1919), judge; called to bar (Inner Temple), 1879; Q.C., 1893; Chancery judge and knighted, 1901; lord justice of appeal and P.C., 1913; master of the Rolls, 1918; created baron, 1919.

EARDLEY-WILMOT, SIR SAINTHILL (1862-1929), forester. [See WILMOT.]

EARLE, JOHN (1824-1903), philologist; B.A., Magdalen College, Oxford, 1846; M.A., 1849; fellow of Oriel, 1848; professor of Anglo-Saxon, 1849-54 and 1876-1903; rector of Swanswick, 1857-1903; wrote much on Anglo-Saxon; chief works were 'Two of the Saxon Chronicles Parallel', with introduction, notes, and glossary, 1865, 'A Book for the Beginner in Anglo-Saxon', 1866, and 'The Philology of the English Tongue', 1866, his most popular work, 'Anglo-Saxon Literature', 1864, and 'The Deeds of Beowulf', 1892; an accomplished Dante scholar.

EAST, SIR ALFRED (1849-1913), painter and etcher; studied art at Glasgow and in Paris; R.A. exhibitor, 1883; A.R.A., 1899; R.A., 1913; president of Royal Society of British Artists, 1906; knighted, 1910; in his art primarily an interpreter of landscape.

EAST, SIR CECIL JAMES (1837-1908), general; joined 82nd regiment, 1854; served in Crimea (1855) and Indian Mutiny (1857), in Lushai expedition (1871-2) and Zulu war (1879); commanded first brigade in Burmese expedition, 1886-7; O.B., 1887; governor of Royal Military College, Sandhurst, 1893-8; lieutenant-general, 1896; general, 1902; K.O.B., 1897.

EASTLAKE, CHARLES LOCKE (1836-1906), keeper of the National Gallery, London; secretary to Royal Institute of British Architects, 1866-77; as keeper and secretary to National Gallery, 1878-98, rearranged the paintings there; wrote 'A History of the Gothic Revival', 1871, and 'Notes on the Principal Pictures' at Milan, 1883, Paris, 1883, Munich, 1884, and Venice, 1888.

EATON, HERBERT FRANCIS, third BARON CHEYLSMORE (1849-1925), major-general; joined grenadier guards, 1867; retired as major-general without having seen active service, 1899; succeeded brother, 1902; chairman National Rifle Association, when Bisle became best shooting cent in Empire, 1903-25; engaged in multifarious philanthropic works; collected military medals; K.O.M.G. 1919.

EATON, WILLIAM MERITON, second BARON CHEYLSMORE (1843-1902), mezzotint collector; educated at Eton; succeeded to peerage, 1891; formed largest private mezzotint collection; bequeathed some 10,000 mezzotint portraits to British Museum, which were exhibited, 1905-10.

ESWORTH, JOSEPH WOODFALL (1824-1908), editor of ballads; younger son of Joseph Ebsworth [q.v.]; spent his youth in Edinburgh, where his father kept a bookshop; studied art; employed in Manchester by Paulkner Bros., lithographers, 1848; exhibited four water-colour views of Edinburgh at Scottish Academy, 1849; wrote verse and prose for Scottish press, 1850-60; B.A., St. John's College, Cambridge, 1864; M.A., 1867; took Anglican orders, 1864; after serving curacy, chiefly at Bradford, was vicar of Molaash, Kent, 1871-84; devoted himself to editing old collections of 'drolleries' and ballads for the Ballad Society; produced 'Bagford Ballads' (from the British Museum), 1876-80, and completed a reprint of 'The Roxburgh Ballads' (vols. v-ix), 1883-99; F.S.A., 1881.

EDDIE, EDEN UPTON (1812-1901), portrait painter; exhibited at Royal Academy, 1834-81; painted subjects of rustic genre and children, and portraits including Macaulay, 1850, Lord Overstone, 1861, Lord Coleridge, 1878, Sydney Smith, and Theodore Hook (in National Portrait Gallery).

EDGE, SIR JOHN (1841-1926), Indian judge; educated at Trinity College, Dublin; called to Irish bar (King's Inns, Dublin), 1864; to English bar (Middle Temple), 1866; Q.C., 1886; chief justice, high court of judicature, North-Western Provinces of India, at Allahabad, and knighted, 1886; judicial member of Council of India, 1890-1908; P.C. and member of judicial committee, 1909-26.

EDGEWORTH, FRANÇOIS YSIDRO [originally YSIDRO FRANCIS] (1846-1936), economist and statistician; half-nephew of Maria Edgeworth [q. v.]; B.A., Balliol College, Oxford; professor of political economy, King's College, London, 1888; Tooke professor of economic science and statistics, 1890; Drummond professor of political economy, Oxford, 1891-1922; fellow of All Souls College, 1891; successively editor, chairman of editorial board, and joint editor, 'Economic Journal', 1891-1926; F.B.A., 1903; works include 'Mathematical Psychics' (1881); 'Metrelike' (1887); contributed constantly to learned journals, especially on theory of probability; approached moral sciences with mathematical bias.

EDOUARD, WILLIE (184-1908), comedian, whose real name was WILLIAM FREDERICK BRYER; toured through Australia and the Far East, 1867; joined Lydia Thompson [q. v.] in New York, 1870; first appeared in London, 1874; opened Toole's Theatre successfully with 'The Babes, or Whines from the Wood', 1884; scored successes in 'Our Plat', 1889-90, 'La Poupée', 1897, and 'The girl from Kay's', 1902; admirable for grotesquerie and whimsicality.

EDWARD VII (1841-1910), KING OF GREAT BRITAIN AND IRELAND AND OF THE BRITISH DOMINIONS BEYOND THE SEAS, EMPEROR OF INDIA, born at Buckingham Palace on 9 Nov. 1841, was eldest son and second child of Queen Victoria and Prince Albert. Baptized at St. George's Chapel, Windsor, on 25 Jan. 1842, he was named Albert after his father and Edward after his mother's father, Edward, Duke of Kent. From childhood he spoke English and German, and early learned French, of which in adult years he had an exceptional mastery. In 1846 he paid a first visit to Cornwall and Wales, in 1848 to Scotland, and in 1849 to Ireland. His parents, prompted by Baron Stockmar, bestowed great care on his education, and watched his development closely. He was subjected to a strict discipline under his parents' eyes, at first by private tutors; but he was always impatient of serious study. His permitted recreations included the theatre and music, and he practised elocution and drawing with some success. Practically isolated from boys of his own age, he had small opportunity of playing games, but he rode well and acquired a lifelong love of horses and dogs. With his parents he attended the opening of the Great Exhibition (1 May 1851) and of the Crystal Palace (June 1854), and he went to Paris for the first time on a visit to Napoleon III and the Empress Eugénie Aug. 1855. Walking tours through Dorset (Aug. 1856) and through the English Lakes (1857) were followed by a longer foreign tour for study and sightseeing down the Rhine and into Switzerland (July-Oct. 1857). Confirmed at Windsor on 1 April 1858, he was provided with a semi-independent household at White Lodge in Richmond Park (May-Nov. 1858), and on 9 Nov. 1858, his seventeenth birthday, when he received a very solemn admonition from his parents, he was gazetted colonel in the army unattached and nominated K.G. A governor, Col. Robert Bruce, was appointed next day. With Bruce he visited at Potsdam his eldest sister, who had lately married Prince Frederick of Prussia, and afterwards made a four months' sojourn in Rome (Jan.-April 1859). He visited Pope Pius IX and met Robert Browning and Frederic Leighton. On his way home he stayed with King Pedro at Lisbon. Next summer his father sent him to Edinburgh to study under Lyon Playfair. In spite of publicly expressed doubt as to the wisdom of pursuing to academic a training, he matriculated at Oxford on 17 Nov. 1859 as a member of Christ Church, and remained in residence till the end of summer term, 1860. On 8 July 1860 he set out for Canada on the invitation of the Canadian government, accompanied by the Duke of Newcastle, secretary of state for the colonies, and a distinguished suite. It was the first visit of a royal prince to a British colony. At Montreal (4 Sept.) he opened the great railway bridge across the St. Lawrence river, and at Ottawa he laid the foundation stone of the parliament building. Passing to the United States, he was cordially welcomed at Washington by President Buchanan, and planted a chestnut tree by Washington's tomb at Mount Vernon. He returned to Plymouth, 18 Nov. The expedition had the effect of strengthening the loyalty of Canada to the mother country and of increasing the good feeling between England and the United States. After spending the rest of the year at Oxford, the Prince continued his education at Trinity College, Cambridge, through 1861. In Aug. he joined the 2nd battalion of grenadier guards in camp at the Curragh, and next month made a third tour in Germany, where a first meeting was arranged for him with his future wife, Princess Alexandra, eldest daughter of Prince Christian of Schleswig-Holstein-Sonderburg-Glücksburg. Her father was next heir to the throne of Denmark, which he ascended as Christian IX on 15 Nov. 1863; the first meeting of the Prince and Princess Alexandra was in the cathedral at Speier, 24 Sept. 1861; each made a good impression on the other. Resuming residence at Cambridge for the Michaelmas term, he was elected a bencher of the Middle Temple (31 Oct.), and opened the new library at the Inn. On 13 Dec. he was summoned from Cambridge to Windsor owing to the illness of his father, who died next day. Thereupon his widowed mother claimed that full control which his father had hitherto exercised; Queen Victoria never ceased to think of the Prince of Wales save as a boy. But his views of life broadened on reaching man's estate, and he chafed against the perpetual tutelage to which his mother sought to subject him. In accordance with plans formed by his father he made a tour in the Holy Land, Feb.-May 1862, accompanied among others by Arthur Penrhyn Stanley [q. v.]; on his return journey he was entertained at Constantinople by the Sultan, at Athens by the King of Greece, and at Fontainebleau by the Emperor Napoleon III. On 9 Sept. 1862 he was formally betrothed to Princess Alexandra, King Leopold's palace of Laeken; on 1 Nov. 1862 the Queen gave formal assent to the union, the announcement of which evoked enthusiasm in England and Denmark, but was received coolly in Germany. At the end of the year his sister, the crown princess of Prussia, with her husband, accompanied the Prince of Wales on a tour through the Mediterranean. Meanwhile separate establishment was formed for him at home. The estate of Sandringham in Norfolk was purchased for 220,000l. out of the income accumulated during his minority from the duchy of Cornwall, which was the heir-apparent's appanage. Marlborough House in London was provided at the public expense. On 25 Feb. 1863 he held a levée for his mother at St. James's Palace, and thus first performed a ceremonial function. On 5 Feb. 1863 he took his seat in the House of Lords at the opening of parliament. Parliament granted him an annuity of 40,000l. and one of 10,000l. to his bride, Princess Alexandra, with a prospective annuity of 30,000l. in case of widowhood. The marriage took place in St. George's Chapel, Windsor, on 10 March 1863, and many festivities followed. On 2 May he first attended the Royal Academy banquet. On 7 June he received the freedom of the City of London. On 16 June he was made hon. D.C.L. at Oxford, and next year hon. LL.D. at Cambridge. While spending much time as a country gentleman and sportsman and visiting annually Scotland, the Riviera, and Homburg, he assumed the role of leader of fashionable life in London, encouraging the lighter social amusements, and forming a wide and cosmopolitan circle of acquaintances. His mother excluded him from all political responsibilities, but he carried on and extended his father's work of charity and public utility. He became president of the Society of Arts (29 Oct. 1863) and president of St. Bartholomew's Hospital (18 March 1867), and was thenceforth indefatigable in inaugurating public buildings, and in presiding at charity festivals. He thrice visited Ireland at this period—in 1865, when he opened the International Exhibition at Dublin (8 May); in 1868 (with the Princess), when he was made a Knight of St. Patrick and hon. LL.D. Trinity College, Dublin; and in 1871, when he opened the Royal Agricultural Society's Exhibition. Despite exclusion from political business, the Prince interested himself in foreign affairs. His request for access to foreign office papers was practically refused by the Queen on account of his alleged want of discretion. Frank in expression of sympathy with Denmark during the Schleswig-Holstein crisis (1864), he sought first-hand intelligence from men in public life at home and abroad. In 1866 he first went to Russia for the wedding of his wife's sister Dagmar to Tsarevitch Alexander. A long tour (Nov. 1866-May 1869) embraced Copenhagen, Stockholm, Berlin, Vienna, Egypt (where he inspected the newly completed Suez Canal), Constantinople, and Paris. He won golden opinions at foreign courts. During the Franco-German war (1870) he manifested sympathy with France and showed much kindness to Napoleon III and his family in their English exile. Persistent rumours of the Prince's addiction to frivolous amusements grew in 1870, when he appeared in the witness-box to deny imputations in Sir Charles Mordaunt's action for divorce against his wife (Feb.). The sensational press abounded in scandalous insinuations which were reproduced in 'The coming K—', a clever parody of Tennyson's 'Idylls,' and many like satires in verse. Meanwhile the Prince opened for the Queen the Thames Embankment (13 July 1871) and presided over a series of international exhibitions at South Kensington which were continued for four years without success (1871-4). In Nov. 1871 he was attacked by typhoid and was gravely ill for a month. After attending a national thanksgiving for his recovery at St. Paul's Cathedral (27 Feb. 1873), he completed his convalescence in a Mediterranean yachting tour, revisiting Pope Pius IX at Rome. Anxiety over the Prince's illness revived enthusiasm for the monarchy. Gladstone, with whom the Prince's relations were always friendly, vainly urged the Queen to provide the Prince with regular employment either in India or Ireland. He was made field-marshal on 10 June 1876. He was at Vienna for the opening of the International Exhibition, May 1873, and at St. Petersburg for the marriage of his brother, the Duke of Edinburgh, to the Tsar's daughter, 1874. He was tactfully entertained at Birmingham by Mr. Joseph Chamberlain, then mayor, on 3 Nov. 1874. A tour in India followed, Oct. 1876 to May 1876; he was officially entertained by the Indian government at Bombay, Madras, and Calcutta, and enjoyed much sport as guest of native princes. The personal tie between the princes of India and English royalty was greatly strengthened by his visit. In Europe his interest in France steadily grew; there he was friendly with all political parties and ranks. As president of the British section of the Paris Exhibition, 1878, he advocated at opening ceremonies a good understanding between the two countries. He formed the acquaintance of Gambetta. Though Lord Beaconsfield shared the Queen's doubts of his discretion, the Prince favoured the conservative leader's anti-Russian policy, 1876-78. On 6 May 1879 he voted in the House of Lords for the deceased wife's sister bill. Becoming intimate with Sir Charles Dilke when under-secretary for foreign affairs (1880-2) in Gladstone's second ministry, he sought to aid in Paris Dilke's negotiations with the French government for an Anglo-French commercial treaty. He attended the funeral at St. Petersburg, March 1881, of Tsar Alexander II, who had been assassinated. His offer to serve in the Egyptian campaign was refused, July 1882. Openly disapproving the recall of Sir Bartle Frere from the Cape, 1880, he condemned the pusillanimity of liberal policy in Egypt and the Sudan, 1884, and publicly deplored the sacrifice of Gordon. Appointed member of the royal commission on housing, Feb. 1884, he was friendly with all his fellow commissioners, who included two representatives of labour, Henry Broadhurst and Joseph Arch. Revisiting Ireland, April 1885, he was coolly received by nationalists, but generally met with a cordial welcome.

In middle life the Prince was active in freemasonry, becoming grand master of the order, Sept. 1875. Appointed trustee of the British Museum, May 1881, he performed his duties regularly. He helped to establish the Royal College of Music, 1882-3. His public activities took him to all parts of the country. He inaugurated the Mersey Tunnel, 28 April 1886, Truro Cathedral, 1880-7, and the Tower Bridge, 1886-94; was four times president of the Royal Agricultural Society; headed to organize at South Kensington International Fisheries Exhibition (1883), Health Exhibition (1884), Inventions and Music Exhibition (1885), and India and Colonies Exhibition (1886), and interested himself in founding the Imperial Institute to celebrate Queen Victoria's jubilee, 1887.

On 10 March 1888 the Prince celebrated his silver wedding. He showed much sympathy with his widowed sister, the Empress Frederick, when her husband, Emperor Frederick III of Germany, died of cancer (15 June 1888) two months after his accession. Though there was mutual affection between the Prince and his nephew the new emperor William II, they often caused one another passing irritation. The Prince warmly welcomed Emperor William on his first visit to England after his accession, Aug. 1890. On his eldest daughter's marriage, 1893, the Prince invited additional pecuniary provision for his family. Parliament granted an extra annuity of 26,000*l.* to terminate six months after Queen Victoria's death.

The Prince remained a constant patron of the theatre in London, maintaining friendly relations with Sir Henry Irving and leading actors. But his chief amusement from middle life onwards was horse-racing, training horses at Newmarket and often occupying rooms at the Jockey Club there; he thrice won the Derby—with Persimmon (1896), Diamond Jubilee (1900), and with Minoru (1909); he won the Grand National at Liverpool with Ambush II (1900). For a time he was prominent in yacht racing, and won many prizes with the 'Britannia,' a vessel designed for him in 1892. His indulgence in sport was deemed excessive by the austere, and on 5 June 1891 he somewhat alienated public opinion by his evidence in the Tranby Croft case [see under WILSON, CHARLES HENRY, first BARON NUNBURNHOLME], when it was admitted that he played baccarat for high stakes; writing privately to Archbishop Benson of Canterbury (13 Aug. 1891), he denied sympathy with gambling. During Lord Salisbury's ministry (1886-92), while taking no part in home politics, he frequently expressed his desire for a good understanding between England and France when visiting the latter country. He engaged in sporting tours in Austria, in Rumania and Hungary (1888), and was the guest of Baron Hirsch, the Jewish millionaire, in Hungary (1894); in the latter year he twice visited Russia, for the marriage of his wife's niece, Xenia, to the Grand Duke Alexander Michailovitch (July), and for the funeral of his wife's brother-in-law, Tsar Alexander III (Oct.). During Gladstone's last ministry (1892-4) much official intelligence was communicated to him with the Queen's reluctant consent; he became a member of the old age pensions commission, 1893; his friendship with Gladstone continued till the statesman's death; he was a pall-bearer at Westminster Abbey at Gladstone's funeral on 25 May 1898, and was president of the National Memorial Committee (July). In 1896, when Salisbury formed a new administration, the Prince was accorded the cabinet members' right of receiving the foreign dispatches. He devoted some energy to encouraging medical research, helping to found the National Society for the Prevention of Consumption (21 Dec. 1898), and the national leprosy fund which commemorated the tragic heroism of Father Damien (June 1899). At Queen Victoria's diamond jubilee (June 1897) he received the new dignity of grand master and principal grand cross of the Order of the Bath, and he inaugurated in honour of the jubilee the Prince of Wales's Hospital Fund for London, which was renamed on his accession King Edward VII Fund. The difficulties with the Transvaal Republic which led in 1899 to the South African war alienated the goodwill of Europe towards England; on 4 April 1900 the Prince while travelling with the Princess to Denmark was shot at without injury by a youth Spido at the Gare du Nord, Brussels; though president of the British section of the Paris Exhibition of 1899 he, contrary to his custom, did not attend the inauguration in Paris.

The Prince took the oaths of sovereignty under the style of Edward VII the day after Queen Victoria's death at Osborne on 22 Jan. 1901. His speech to the privy council, which was his own composition and was delivered without notes, pronounced his full determination to be a constitutional sovereign in the strictest sense of the word. During the new session of parliament, which he opened on 14 Feb. 1901, the additional title was bestowed on him of 'King of the British Dominions beyond the Seas'; he was allowed an annual grant of 470,000*l.* apart from the income of the duchy of Lancaster (60,000*l.* a year), and the expense of maintaining the royal palaces and royal yachts. Friends' anticipations that he would prove unequal to his new station were belied. He held no well-defined views of domestic legislation, but was deeply interested in foreign policy, and was punctual in formal business. His old circle of friends remained unchanged, and he indulged in all his former amusements, but he gave new splendour to royal ceremonies and exercised a brilliant hospitality in London, which became the head-quarters of the court after an interval of forty years. He spent little time at Windsor. He had inherited Balmoral and Osborne from his mother; but he was not often at Balmoral, and Osborne he abandoned, converting it into a convalescent home for army and naval officers, 9 Aug. 1903. He welcomed the close of the South African war (31 May 1902), and attended a thanksgiving service in St. Paul's (8 June); the coronation was appointed for 26 June, on a scale of exceptional magnificence; but two days before, the king was compelled to submit to an operation for perityphlitis, from which he made a good recovery, and the postponed ceremony took place on 9 Aug. After a yachting cruise to Scotland he made a royal progress through South London, and lunched with the lord mayor at the Guildhall, 24 Oct. Meanwhile Lord Salisbury resigned the premiership (11 July 1902), and was succeeded by Mr. Balfour.

King Edward travelled much abroad during the reign, in accordance with early practice; he attended the funeral of his sister, Empress Frederick, at Friedrichshof (6 Aug. 1901), and after visiting Homburg went to Copenhagen, where he met Tsar Nicholas. His already large kinship with foreign sovereigns was extended by the election of his son-in-law Prince Charles of Denmark as King of Norway (Oct. 1905) and by the marriage of his niece Princess Rina of Battenberg to Alphonse XIII, King of Spain (31 May 1906); wits of Paris thenceforth called him 'l'oncle de l'Europe.' His friendly relations with foreign countries remained much as before his accession. There was no foundation for the current belief of a personal hostility to Germany. The German Emperor visited Sandringham for celebration of the King's sixty-first birthday, 9 Nov. 1902. In spring of 1903 a long foreign tour brought the King to Lisbon, Rome, and Paris, with Mr. Charles Hardinge, then assistant under-secretary of the foreign office, in attendance. In Paris, which he had not visited for three years, he regained his former popularity, and conspicuously helped to improve the relations between the two countries. The entente cordiale was concluded on 8 April 1904. He was entertained by the German Emperor at Kiel on 29 June 1904. Thenceforth he spent three or four months each year abroad. Several weeks each spring were passed at Biarritz, and a like period of the autumn at Marienbad. He cruised in the Mediterranean during springs of 1905, '6, '7 and '9, meeting the Kings of Greece, Spain, and Italy; and he visited the northern courts of Sweden, Denmark, and Norway, April 1908. Frequently passing to and from Paris, he enjoyed varied intercourse with French society. Only during 1905 did he fail to visit Germany, where the press imputed to him anti-German tendencies. In Aug. 1906, 1907, and 1908 he met the German Emperor in Germany on good terms. The Emperor paid a state visit to Windsor, 11-18 Nov. 1907, and King Edward returned the compliment at Berlin, Feb. 1909. He met the Emperor of Austria thrice—once at Gmunden (Aug. 1905) and twice at Ioch (Aug. 1907-8). He visited the Tsar of Russia at Reval (9 June 1908). Had the Tsar been his guest at Cowes (Aug. 1909); some resentment was shown in England at the King's friendly relations with the Tsar, owing to English sympathy with Russian revolutionary movements.

Meanwhile at home he continued to identify himself with philanthropic work and public improvements. He laid the foundation stone of Liverpool Cathedral, 19 June 1904; opened university buildings at Sheffield (1905), Leeds (1908), and Brimingham (1909), and he thrice visited Ireland—in 1903, 1904, and 1907. He intervened little in domestic politics, though he was interested in appointments. With his third prime minister, Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, he developed cordial relations. Of Campbell-Bannerman's colleagues Lord Carrington was an old friend, and with (Lord) Haldane he was soon very intimate. On Campbell-Bannerman's retirement, March 1908, the King invited Mr. Asquith to fill the vacant office. When the House of Lords threatened the rejection of Mr. Lloyd George's budget of 1909, the King vainly urged on the conservative leaders the impolicy of that action. On the defeat of the budget in the Lords (30 Nov.) and the continuance of the liberals in office after the general election, the King raised no remonstrance to his ministers' proposal to curtail for the future the veto of the Lords. The King disliked the situation but abstained from interference; the controversy was still in progress at his death. During his usual spring visit to Biarritz in 1910 he suffered severely from bronchial trouble, but he returned to London (27 April) apparently in good health. Taken ill in London on 3 May, he died at Buckingham Palace on 6 May, and his only surviving son was proclaimed George V. The dead King lay in state in Westminster Hall (16-30 May), and was buried in the vault below St. George's Chapel, Windsor.

King Edward eminently satisfied contemporary conditions of kingship; of cosmopolitan temperament, he spoke with equal ease English, French, and German; he revived the ceremonial splendour of the crown, and proved himself an admirable representative of the nation abroad. The astute deemed his addiction to pleasure excessive; but his support of philanthropic causes alienated criticism. He had an expert faculty for business, and distributed his energies over a wide field; he gathered orally very varied stores of knowledge, and remembered personal details with great accuracy; he never seems to have forgotten a face. Personally courageous, he admired every manifestation of heroism. He was greatly attached to dumb animals. Memorials have been erected in all parts of the empire.

By his wife, Queen Alexandra, the King had two sons, Albert Edward (b. 8 Jan. 1864, d. 14 Jan. 1893) and his successor, George (b. 3 June 1885); a third son, John (b. 6 April 1871) lived only a day; the two surviving sons were both educated in youth as naval cadets. Of the King's three daughters, Princess Louise (b. 30 Feb. 1867), afterwards Princess Royal, married the Duke of Fife (27 July 1889); the second, Princess Victoria, was born on 6 July 1868; and the third, Maud (b. 26 Nov. 1869), married in 1896 Prince Charles of Denmark, afterwards Haakon VII, King of Norway.

EDWARD OF SAKE-WEHAR, PRINCE (1823-1902), field-marshal; brought up by his aunt, Queen Adelaide [q.v.]; playfellow of Queen Victoria and George, Duke of Cambridge; joined army, 1841; served with grenadier guards in Crimea with distinction; A.D.O. to Lord Raglan (1855) and to Queen Victoria (1855-9); commanded forces in Ireland, 1855-80, and 1st life guards from 1888 to death; K.C.B., 1881; G.C.B., 1887; K.P., 1890; G.O.V.O., 1901; hon. LL.D. Dublin, 1891; field-marshal, 1897.

EDWARDS, SIR FLEETWOOD ISHAM (1842-1910), lieutenant-colonel R.E.; joined royal engineers, 1863; accompanied Sir John Simmons [q.v.] to Berlin Congress, 1878; keeper of the privy purse to royal household, 1895; K.O.B., 1887; lieutenant-colonel, 1890; P.C., 1895; G.C.V.O., 1901; intimate adviser of Queen Victoria.

EDWARDS, HENRY SUTHERLAND (1828-1906), author and journalist; joined 'Punch' staff, 1848; wrote light drama with R. B. Brough [q.v.] and A. S. Mayhew [q.v.]; served as 'The Times' correspondent in Poland (1863-5) and in Franco-Prussian war (1870-1); first editor of 'Graphic', 1869; published 'History of Opera', 2 vols. 1862, lives of Rossini, 1869, and Sims Reeves, 1881; 'Personal Recollections, 1900, and translations.

EDWARDS, JOHN PASSMORE (1835-1911), editor and philanthropist; at first a lawyer's clerk at Truro; represented at Manchester (1845) the London 'Sentinel', founded in interests of Anti-Corn Law League; in London advocated early closing, chartism, and international peace; after unsuccessful publishing ventures he purchased 'Building News', 1862, and 'Echo', first halfpenny newspaper, 1876, which he successfully edited and controlled till 1896; supported all progressive movements; president of London Reform Union, 1894, and of Anti-Gambling League; an enthusiastic member of Peace Society; denounced Crimean and South African wars; liberal M.P. for Salisbury, 1880-5; founded some seventy free libraries and hospitals and convalescent homes in United Kingdom, as well as art gallery at Newlyn, a settlement in London, and University Hall in Clare Market; endowed scholarship in English literature, Oxford, 1902; declined knighthood; published 'A Few Footprints', an autobiography, 1906; bust by Sir George Frampton and portrait by Watts.

EDWARDS, MATILDA BARBARA BETHAM (1836-1919), novelist and writer on French life; mainly self-educated; travelled widely in France among republican and anti-clerical circles; wrote novels for sixty years; edited writings of Arthur Young.

EDWARDS, SIR OWEN MORGAN (1858-1920), man of letters; began life as itinerant preacher in ministry of Welsh Calvinistic Methodists; B.A., Balliol College, Oxford; first class in modern history; tutorial fellow of Lincoln College, Oxford, 1889-1907; chief inspector of Welsh education, 1907; edited Welsh magazines and wrote books on Wales; knighted, 1916.

EGERTON, SIR CHARLES COMYN (1848-1921), field-marshal; joined army, 1867, and Indian army, 1871; D.S.O., 1891; C.B., 1895; K.O.B., 1908; led successful expedition against 'Mad Mullah' of Somaliland, 1908-9; full general, 1904; member of council of India, 1907-17; field-marshal, 1917.

EGERTON, HUGH EDWARD (1855-1927), historian; B.A., Corpus Christi College, Oxford; first Bels professor of colonial history, Oxford, 1906-30; fellow of All Souls College, 1906; works include 'Short History of British Colonial Policy' (1897); 'Federations and Unions within the British Empire' (1911); 'Causes and Character of the American Revolution' (1928).

ELLGAR, FRANCIS (1846-1909), naval architect; student at Royal School of Naval Architecture, South Kensington, 1864-7; chief assistant to Sir Edward Reed [q.v.], 1871; adviser on naval construction to Japanese government, 1879-81; served on departmental committee of board of trade, whose report led to regulations fixing maximum loadline for merchant ships, 1883; first professor of naval architecture, Glasgow University, 1883-6; director of dockyards, 1886-92; consulting naval architect of Fairfield Shipbuilding Company, 1892-1907; hon. LL.D. Glasgow, 1886; F.R.S., 1895; F.E.A., 1898; member of tariff reform commission, 1904; published 'The Ships of the Royal Navy', 1875.

ELLIS, ninth EARL OF (1849-1917), statesman and sometime viceroy of India. [See BRUCE, VICTOR ALEXANDER.]

ELLIOT, SIR JOHN (1839-1908), meteorologist; educated at St. John's College, Cambridge; second wrangler and first Smith's prizeman, 1869; held mathematical professorships in India until he became meteorological reporter to the Indian government, 1886; director-general of Indian observatories, 1899-1903; F.R.S., 1895; O.I.E., 1897; K.O.I.E., 1903; advocated organization of meteorological work on imperial basis; published departmental reports on 'Climatological Atlas of India', 1906; an accomplished musician.

ELLERY, ROBERT LEWIS JOHN (1827-1908), astronomer; went to Melbourne, 1851; superintendent of newly founded government observatory at Williamstown, 1858; director of geodetic survey of Victoria, 1868-74; government astronomer at Melbourne, 1863-95; prepared catalogues of star places; helped in photographic chart of the whole sky, a founder and president (1856-84) of Royal Society of Victoria; F.R.A.S., 1859; F.R.S., 1873; C.M.G., 1889; work recorded in 'Astronomical Results of the Melbourne Observatory' 1869-98, and in the Melbourne General Catalogues, 1874 and 1890.

ELLIOTT, CHARLES JOHN (1819-1905), bishop of Gloucester; educated at St. John's College, Cambridge; Bell university scholar, 1838; B.A., 1841; M.A., 1844; Platt fellow, 1845-8; Hulsean lecturer, 1859, and professor, 1860; professor of New Testament exegesis at King's College, London, 1858; dean of Exeter, 1861-3; bishop of Gloucester and Bristol, 1863, and of Gloucester on division of sees, 1897; restored cathedral, promoted church extension, formed Church Aid Society; member of royal commission on ritual (1867-70) and other committees; chairman of New Testament revision company, 1870-81; published commentaries on Pauline epistles, 1856, and on the New Testament, 3 vols. 1873-9 (abridged edit. for schools, 14 vols. 1878-83), the Old Testament, 6 vols. 1882-4, and the complete Bible, 7 vols. 1897; member of Alpine Club, 1871-1904.

ELLIOT, ARTHUR RALPH DOUGLAS (1846-1923), politician; brother of fourth earl of Minto [q.v.]; B.A., Trinity College, Cambridge; called to bar (Inner Temple), 1870; liberal M.P. Roxburghshire, 1880; liberal-unionist M.P., 1886-92; M.P., Durham, 1898-1906; financial secretary to Treasury, April to Sept. 1903; edited 'Edinburgh Review', 1898-1912.

ELLIOT, SIR GEORGE AUGUSTUS (1813-1901), admiral; born at Calcutta; entered navy 1837; in command of ships on North American station, in Channel, and in Baltic, 1843-55; rear-admiral, 1858; superintendent of Portsmouth dockyard, 1863-5; admiral, 1874; conservative M.P. for Chatham, 1874-8; commander-in-chief at Portsmouth, 1876; K.O.B., 1877.

ELLIOT, GILBERT JOHN MURRAY KYNRMOND, fourth EARL OF MINTO (1846-1914), governor-general of Canada and viceroy of India; educated at Eton and Trinity College, Cambridge; entered army, 1867; served in many ways in different parts of the world, 1870-82; military secretary to governor-general of Canada, Lord Lansdowne, 1882-5; succeeded father, 1891; governor-general of Canada, 1898-1904; maintained cordial relations with colonial secretary, Joseph Chamberlain, and Sir Wilfrid Laurier, liberal premier, and acquired great popularity throughout the Dominion; his period of office era of great prosperity for Canada; directly responsible for Canadian troops taking part in Boer war; viceroy of India, 1905-10; worked in complete harmony with secretary of state, Mr. (afterwards Viscount) Morley; claimed to have initiated Morley-Minto reforms of 1909; established friendly relations with Indian princes; K.G., 1910.

ELLIOT, SIR HENRY GEORGE (1817-1907), diplomatist; born at Geneva; son of second earl of Minto [q.v.], and brother-in-law of Lord John Russell [q.v.]; in Tasmania, 1836-9; entered diplomatic service, 1841; British envoy at Copenhagen, 1858; sent on special mission to Naples to congratulate Francis II on accession to throne of Two Sicilies, and to obtain constitutional reforms, 1859; neglect of his representations led to seizure of Sicily by Garibaldi, 1860; left Naples on union of Italy under King Victor Emanuel, 1860; sent on special mission to Greece, April 1862; assisted in arranging new constitution under new King George I; succeeded Sir James Hudson [q.v.] as British envoy at Turin, 1863; appointment roused much criticism and political controversy; transferred to Constantinople and made P.O., 1867; British representative at opening of Suez Canal; G.O.B., 1869; often in conflict with Russian ambassador; criticised for delay in reporting 'Bulgarian atrocities' of 1876; British plenipotentiary at conference at Constantinople, 1876; ambassador at Vienna, 1877-84; engaged in critical negotiations between conclusion of San Stefano treaty and the meeting of the congress at Berlin, 1878; caused Gladstone to disavow his attack on Austrian government, 1880; retired to England, 1884.

ELLIOTT, SIR CHARLES ALFRED (1855-1911), lieutenant-governor of Bengal; son of Henry Venn Elliott [q.v.]; joined East India Company, 1856; served in Mutiny; assistant commissioner in Oudh till 1863, where he collected information about its history and folk-lore; secretary to government of North-West Provinces, 1872-5; concerned chiefly with settlement and revenue questions; directed famine relief operations in Mysore, issued famous report on Indian famines of 7 July 1878; chief commissioner of Assam, 1881; chairman of committee of inquiry into Indian public expenditure, 1886; C.S.I., 1878; K.O.S.I., 1887; lieutenant-governor of Bengal, 1890-5; prosecuted survey and compiled record of rights in Bihar, despite opposition from zemindars; strong advocate of economy; adopted firm attitude to sedition in native press; retired, 1895; served on London school board, 1897-1900, and on education committee of London county council, 1904-6; published 'Chronicles of Oonao', 1862, and reports on Indian administration.

ELLIS, FREDERICK STARTRIDGE (1830-1901), bookseller and author; started bookselling business in Covent Garden, 1860; removed to New Bond Street, 1879; long official buyer for British Museum; edited Henry Huth's catalogue of books, 5 vols. 1880; friend and publisher of William Morris, Rossetti, and Ruskin; friend also of Swinburne and Burne-Jones; compiled concordance to Shelley, 1892; edited Morris's Kelmscott editions of Chaucer, 'Golden Legend', 1892, and Cavendish's 'Life of Wolsey', 1893.

ELLIS, JOHN DEVONSHIRE (1894-1906), civil engineer and metallurgist; son of Birmingham brass manufacturer; purchased with Sir John Brown [q.v.] small Atlas engineering works at Sheffield, 1854; increased capital to 3 millions sterling; managing director on their conversion into limited liability company, 1864-1905; produced iron plates for British ironclads by new and cheaper welding process; perfected a compound armour of steel and iron; received Bessemer gold medal from Iron and Steel Institute, 1889, of which he became vice-president in 1901.

ELLIS, ROBINSON (1834-1913), classical scholar; educated at Rugby and Balliol College, Oxford; first classes in classical moderations and litterae humaniores; Ireland scholar, 1855; fellow of Trinity College, Oxford, 1858; professor of Latin, University College, London, 1870-4; reader in Latin at Oxford, 1883; Corpus professor of Latin, 1893; vice-president of Trinity, 1879-83; F.B.A., 1909; works include 'Commentary on Caesars' (1876), edition of Ovid's 'Ibis' (1881), and editions of many minor Latin authors.

ELLIS, GEORGE ROBERT (1838-1909), Anglo-Indian civilian and author; joined Indian service, 1858; called to bar, 1871; commissioner at Peshawar, 1872-8 and 1885; commissioner of Lahore, 1880-3; judge of Punjab chief court, 1882-5; vice-chancellor of Punjab University, 1885-7; member of legislative council, 1889; first financial commissioner, 1889; C.S.I., 1894; returned to England, 1894; hon. LL.D. Aberdeen, 1904; published 'Lansdown of the Guides', 1899, 'Thirty-five Years in the Punjab', 1903, and other works.

ELLIS, GERVASE HENRY (CARY) (1866-1921), singer; educated at Christ Church, Oxford; in diplomatic service, 1891-5; adopted singing as career, 1903; sang in Paris, London, Holland, Belgium, Germany, and America; accidentally killed at Boston, U.S.A.

ELWY, HENRY JOHN (1846-1929), traveller, botanist, and entomologist; collected birds, butterflies, and moths, but chiefly plants; travelled in Turkey, Asia Minor, India, Tibet, Mexico, North America, Chile, Russia, Siberia, Formosa, China, Japan; hunted big game; F.R.S. 1897; works include 'The Geographical Distribution of Asiatic Birds' ('Proceedings' of the Zoological Society, June 1878); 'Monograph of the Genus Lilium' (1890); 'Trees of Great Britain and Ireland' (with Augustine Henry, 1906-13).

ELWORTHY, FREDERICK THOMAS (1830-1907), philologist and antiquary; travelled much in Europe; collecting charms and amulets; F.S.A., 1900; good linguist and draughtsman; editorial secretary of Somerset Archaeological Society, 1891-6; published works on West Somerset dialect, the evil eye, 1895, and on other superstitions.

EMERY, WILLIAM (1838-1910), archdeacon of Ely; first boy to enter new City of London school, 1837; entered Corpus Christi College, Cambridge; fifth wrangler, 1847; M.A., 1850; B.D., 1858; fellow, 1847-65; keen advocate of Volunteer movement; organized first church congress at Cambridge, 1861; permanent secretary of congress from 1869; archdeacon of Ely, 1864-1907; canon, 1870; organized first diocesan conference.

EMMOTT, ALFRED, first Baron EMMOTT, of Oldham (1858-1936), politician and cotton spinner; entered father's cotton-spinning firm, Oldham, 1879; joined Oldham town council, 1881; mayor, 1891; maintained lifelong association with Oldham; liberal M.P., Oldham, 1899-1911; chairman of committees, House of Commons, 1906-11; created baron, 1911; under-secretary of state for colonies, 1911; first commissioner of works, 1914; left office and began creation of War Trade Department, which he directed until 1919, 1915; this department designed to maintain British export trade without weakening blockade; president, World Cotton Congress, Manchester and Liverpool, 1921; interested in education.

EMME, second Viscount (1852-1930), government official. (See BRETT, REGINALD BALLOL.)

EMMOND, HENRY VERNON (1869-1922), actor and dramatist, whose original name was HENRY JACK; joined the stage, 1885; acted for Sir G. Alexander [q.v.] at St. James's Theatre, 1893-1900; wrote about thirty plays, including 'One Summer's Day' (1897), 'When We were Twenty-one' (1901).

ETHERIDGE, ROBERT (1819-1903), palaeontologist; cousin of John Beddoe [q.v.]; curator of museum of British Philosophical Institution, 1850-7; palaeontologist to geological survey, 1863; assisted Huxley as lecturer at Royal School of Mines; made list of 18,000 species of fossils (catalogued, 1888); assistant keeper in geology at Natural History Museum, 1881-91; F.R.S., 1871; president of Geological Society, 1880-2; assistant editor of 'Geological Magazine', 1865-1903; works include 'Stratigraphical Geology and Palaeontology', 1887.

EVANS-SMITH, SIR CHARLES BEAN (1842-1910), soldier and diplomatist; born at George Town, British Guiana; joined Madras infantry, 1859; served in Abyssinian expedition, 1867, in Persia, 1870-1, and in Zansibar, 1872; O.S.I., 1872; consul at Muscat, 1879; in Afghan war in Lord Roberts's expedition to Kandahar; consul-general at Zansibar, 1887; persuaded sultan to place himself under protection of Great Britain, 1890; O.B., 1889; K.C.B., 1890; British envoy in Morocco, 1891; retired, 1893; hon. D.C.L. Oxford, 1898.

EVA (pseudonym) (1826-1910), Irish poetess. (See O'DONERTY, MARY ANNE.)

EVANS-THOMAS, SIR HUGH (1862-1928), admiral; joined royal navy, 1876; accompanied Princes Albert Victor and George on 'Bechante' cruise, 1877-80; served in Mediterranean, 1894-7, 1900-3; temporary naval secretary to first lord of admiralty, 1908; held post (confirmed, 1906) until 1908; promoted to flag-rank, 1913; second in command of first battle squadron, 1918-15; transferred to command of fifth battle squadron, 1916; his fine force brilliantly supported Vice-admiral Beatty and saw some of heaviest fighting of day; vice-admiral, 1917; admiral, 1920; commander-in-chief at Nore, 1921-4; K.C.B., 1916.

EVANS, DANIEL SILVAN (1818-1908), Welsh scholar and lexicographer; rector of Llanyrwddwy, 1862-76, and Llanwrin, 1876-1903; hon. B.D. Lampeter, 1883; lecturer in Welsh at University College of Wales, 1875-83; hon. LL.D., 1901; research fellow of Jesus College, Oxford, 1897; hon. canon of Bangor, 1888; chancellor of the cathedral, 1895; chief work 'Dictionary of the Welsh Language', 5 pts. A-E, 1887-1906; other works include 'English-Welsh Dictionary', 2 vols. 1852-8, and volumes of poems.

EVANS, EDMUND (1826-1908), wood engraver and colour printer; apprenticed to Ebenezer Landells [q.v.], 1840-7; worked for 'Illustrated London News'; made colour prints of illustrations by Birket Foster for Plaffier's 'Travels in the Holy Land', 1852; prepared first 'yellow-back' illustrated cover, 1853; printed in oil colour from wood blocks; gained chief fame by colour printing of works by Walter Crane, Caldecott, and Kate Greenaway, including Crane's 'The Baby's Opera', 1877, and Greenaway's 'Under the Window', 1879.

EVANS, GEORGE ESSEX (1863-1909), Australian poet; emigrated from London to Australia, 1881; while sheep-farming contributed poems to 'Queenslander' from 1882; appointed district registrar at Toowoomba, Queensland, 1888; chief works were 'Lorraine, and other Verses', 1898, and 'The Secret Key', 1906; poems distinctively inspired by Australian life and environment.

EVANS, SIR JOHN (1823-1908), archaeologist and numismatist; son of Arthur Bononi Evans [q.v.], and brother of Sebastian Evans [q.v.]; entered uncle's paper-making business at Nash Mills, Hemel Hempstead, 1840; made scientific researches, especially into water supply, exploring water-bearing strata in his own district; made fine collection of stone and bronze implements, fossil remains, and medieval antiquities; formed collections of ancient British money, of Anglo-Saxon and English coins; first to place study of ancient British coinage on scientific basis; F.S.A., 1862; F.R.S., 1864; president of Geological Society, 1874-8, and of Numismatic Society, 1874-1908; joint editor of 'Numismatic Chronicle' from 1861; received hon. degrees from Oxford, Cambridge, Dublin, and Toronto; K.C.B., 1892; interested in Hertfordshire local affairs; high sheriff of county, 1881; portions of collections of implements are in Ashmolean Museum, Oxford; portraits by A. S. Cope and the Hon. John Collier; works include, 'Flint Implements in the Drift', 1860, 'The Coins of the Ancient Britons', 1864, with 'Supplement', 1890, 'The Ancient Stone Implements of Great Britain', 1872, 'The Ancient Bronze Implements . . . of Great Britain', 1881.

EVANS, JOHN GWENOGVRYN (1852-1930), Welsh palaeographer; Unitarian pastor, 1876-80; gave up ministry owing to ill health and devoted himself to editing Welsh texts; works include, 'Red Book Mabinogion' (with Sir J. Rhys, 1887); 'Facsimile of the Black Book of Carmarthen' (1888); 'Red Book Bruta' (with Rhys, 1890); 'Book of Llan Dŵ' (with Rhys, 1893); 'White Book Mabinogion' (1907); 'Book of Aneurin' (1907); 'Book of Taliesin' (1910); 'Report on Manuscripts in the Welsh Language' (1898-1910).

EVANS, SIR SAMUEL THOMAS (1859-1918), politician and judge; admitted solicitor, 1883; liberal M.P., mid-Glamorgan, 1890-1910; called to bar (Middle Temple), 1891; Q.C., 1901; recorder of Swansea, 1906-8; solicitor-general, 1908; president of probate, divorce, and admiralty division of High Court, 1910; G.O.B., 1916; reputation as judge rests on series of judgments in prize delivered during European war, 1914-18; most notable cases: the 'King' in which he applied doctrine of 'continuous voyage' to carriage of contraband goods; the 'Leonora', in which he held that so-called 'reprisals' Order in Council of 16 Feb. 1917 was inconsistent with established principles of international law; and the 'Möwe', 'Roumanian', 'Hamborn', and 'Zamora'.

EVANS, SEBASTIAN (1860-1909), journalist; brother of Sir John Evans [q.v.]; scholar of Emmanuel College, Cambridge; B.A., 1883; M.A., 1887; LL.D., 1893; window designer; at Messrs. Chance's glass works near Birmingham, 1857-67; an ardent conservative, edited 'Birmingham Daily Gazette', 1867-70; called to bar, 1873; part founder and editor of 'People', 1878-81; exhibited at Royal Academy in oil, water-colour, and black and white; translated 'The High History of the Holy Grail', 1898; published verse showing feeling for medieval beauty.

EVERARD, HARRY STIRLING CRAWFORD (1848-1909), writer on golf; settled at St. Andrews, winning golf prizes; works include 'History of the Royal and Ancient Club of St. Andrews', 1907.

EVERETT, JOSEPH DAVID (1831-1904), man of science; entered Glasgow College, 1854; B.A., 1856; M.A., 1857; professor of mathematics in King's College, Windsor, Nova Scotia, 1859-64; returned to Glasgow, 1864; professor of natural philosophy, Queen's College, Belfast, 1867-97; F.R.S., 1879; fellow of Royal University of Ireland; settled in London, 1898; works include 'Units and Physical Constants', 1875; 'Outlines of Natural Philosophy', 1887; translated Deschanel's 'Physics', 1870.

EVERETT, SIR WILLIAM (1844-1908), colonel; joined army, 1864; vice-consul at Erzeroum, 1878; consul at Kurdistan, 1882-7; C.M.G., 1886; professor of military topography at Sandhurst, 1888-92; colonel, 1893; technical adviser for delimitation of Sierra Leone frontier, 1895; commissioner for Niger frontier, 1896-8, and Togoland frontier, 1900; K.C.M.G., 1898.

EVERLEY, BARON (1831-1928), statesman. [See SHAW-LEWIS, GEORGE JOHN.]

EWART, CHARLES BRISBANE (1827-1903), lieutenant-general; brother of Sir John Alexander Ewart (q.v.); joined royal engineers, 1845; served in Crimea, 1854-6; commanding royal engineer of London district, 1866-71, at Dover, 1877-9, and Gibraltar, 1879-82; C.B., 1889; member of ordnance committee, 1884; brigadier-general in Sudan, 1885; lieutenant-governor of Jersey, 1887-92; lieutenant-general, 1888; colonel commandant, R.E., 1902.

EWART, SIR JOHN ALEXANDER (1821-1904), general and colonel Gordon highlanders; born in Bombay; joined army, 1838; served in Crimea; recommended for V.C. for bravery at assault of the Secunderabagh in Indian Mutiny, 1857; C.B., 1858; commanded 78th Ross-shire bufs, 1859-64; general, 1884; colonel of 92nd Gordon highlanders, 1884-95; K.C.B., 1887; G.C.B., 1904; published 'The Story of a Soldier's Life', 2 vols. 1881.

EWART, SIR JOHN SPENCER (1861-1930), lieutenant-general; son of Sir J. A. Ewart (q.v.); joined queen's own Cameron highlanders, 1881; served Egyptian war (1882), Nile expedition (1884-5), in Sudan (1885-6), and in Lord Kitchener's Sudan campaign (1898); served with distinction South African war, 1899-1902; entered war office, 1902; director, military operations at headquarters, 1906-10; adjutant-general to forces and second military member of Army Council; lieutenant-general, 1911; general-officer-commanding-in-chief, Scottish command, 1914-18; K.C.B., 1911.

EYRE, EDWARD JOHN (1815-1901), governor of Jamaica; emigrated to Australia and engaged in sheep-farming, 1833; began journeys into unknown sand deserts of interior as magistrate and protector of aborigines, 1836; starting from Adelaide (1840), passed with a single native round head of Great Australian Bight, and reached King George's Sound, 1841; published experiences in 2 vols., 1845; revisited England, 1845; lieutenant-governor of New Zealand, 1846-53; governor of St. Vincent, 1854-60; appointed governor of Jamaica, 1864; forcibly suppressed Morant Bay native rebellion, proclaiming martial law, Oct. 1865; confirmed sentence of death for high treason passed by Lieutenant H. C. A. Brand (q.v.) on George William Gordon, a coloured member of legislature, and over 600 other persons; denounced in England for cruelty; temporarily suspended and tried by royal commission of inquiry at Kingston, Jan.-March 1866; commended for promptitude, but was blamed for unnecessary rigour, and recalled, 1866; retired to Shropshire; supported by Kingsley and Carlyle, Ruskin and Tennyson, but condemned by 'Jamaica committee', including J. S. Mill, Huxley, Tom Hughes, Herbert Spencer, and Goldwin Smith; was made defendant in abortive legal proceedings which aimed at bringing him to trial for murder (March 1867 and June 1868); legal expenses paid from public funds, 1872; received pension as retired colonial governor, 1874; 'Life' by Hamilton Hume, 1867.

FABD, JOHN (1819-1903), artist; brother of Thomas Fead (q.v.); for forty years painted miniatures; A.R.S.A., 1847; R.S.A., 1851; later painted figure subjects; chief were 'Bard Helen', 'The Cottar's Saturday Night', 1854, 'The Post's Dream', 1883, and 'The Wappinshaw'; exhibited at Royal Academy, 1863-80.

FAGAN, LOUIS ALEXANDER (1845-1903), etcher and writer on art; grandson of Robert Fagan (q.v.); born at Naples; served in British legation at Caracas under father, 1866-7; friend of Sir Anthony Panizzi (q.v.), whose biography he wrote, 2 vols. 1880; in prints department at British Museum, 1869-84; wrote 'Hand-book' to department (1876) and other works on engraving and engravers; exhibited etchings at Royal Academy, 1872-81; a popular lecturer; historian of the Reform Club, 1886; died at Florence.

FAIRBAIRN, ANDREW MARTIN (1838-1912), Congregational divine; early joined Evangelical Union founded by Dr. James Morison (q.v.); studied at theological college of Union in Edinburgh; minister at Bathgate, 1860, in Aberdeen, 1872; principal of Airedale theological college, Bradford, 1877-1886; first principal of Mansfield College, Oxford, 1886-1912; chief works 'Christ in Modern Theology' (1893) and 'Philosophy of the Christian Religion' (1902).

FAIRBRIDGE, KINGSLEY OGILVIE (1855-1924), founder of farm schools overseas; born at Grahams-town, Cape Colony; studied forestry at Oxford, 1908-11; conceived idea of emigrating children to learn farming; with his wife opened farm school near Perth, Western Australia, now model for farm schools in other Dominions, 1913.

FALCKE, ISAAC (1819-1909), art collector and benefactor to the British Museum; made collections of majolica and lustre ware (now in Wallace collection), of fifteenth- and sixteenth-century bronzes (now at Berlin), and of Wedgwood china (presented to British Museum), as well as of Chinese and other porcelain.

FALCONER, LANOE (pseudonym) (1848-1908), novelist. [See HAWKER, MARY ELIZABETH.]

FALKNER, OLSAE LITTON (1863-1908), Irish historian; son of Sir Frederick Richard Falkner (q.v.); B.A. Dublin, 1886; M.A., 1890; called to Irish bar, 1887; assistant land commissioner, 1898-1908; wrote 'Illustrations of Irish History and Topography', 1904; edited Ormonde Papers for Historical MSS. commission, 5 vols. 1902-8, and Swift's letters, 1908; killed while mountaineering at Chamoniix.

FALKINER, SIR FREDERICK RICHARD (1831-1908), recorder of Dublin; B.A., Trinity College, Dublin, 1852; called to Irish bar, 1852; Q.C., 1867; recorder of Dublin, 1876-1895; knighted, 1896; P.C., Ireland, 1906; prominent in Church of Ireland questions; published 'Literary Miscellanies', 1909, and wrote on Swift's portraits; died in Madeira.

FANE, VIOLET (pseudonym) (1843-1905), authoress. [See CURRIE, MARY MONTGOMERY, BARONESS CURRIE.]

FANSHAW, SIR EDWARD GENNY (1814-1906), admiral; entered navy, 1828; commander in East Indies, 1844; suppressed piracy at Borneo, 1845; a lord of the admiralty, 1865; vice-admiral, 1870; C.B., 1871; commander-in-chief on North American station, 1870-3, and at Portsmouth, 1878-9; K.C.B., 1881; G.C.B., 1887.

FARJON, BENJAMIN LEOPOLD (1838-1903), novelist; emigrated from London to Australia, 1856; thence went to New Zealand, settling at Dunedin; joint editor and proprietor of 'Otago Daily Times', 1861; returned to England, 1866; published melodramatic novels; chief were 'Grif', 1866, dramatized 1891, 'London's Heart', 1873, 'The Mystery of M. Felix', 1890; best was 'Devlin the Barber', 1888.

FARMER, EMILY (1826-1905), water-colour painter; best known for her groups of children and genre subjects; exhibited at Royal Academy and elsewhere; chief work was 'Deceiving Granny'.

FARMER, JOHN (1835-1901), musician; studied music at Leipzig and Coburg; worked in father's lace business, 1855-7; ran away to Zürich, and taught music there; on staff of Harrow School, 1864-85; composed numerous Harrow school songs; organist of Balliol College, Oxford, 1885-1901; early champion in England of Bach and Brahms; published works include oratorios and fairy opera; edited 'Gaudemus', 1880, and other song collections.

FARNINGHAM, MARIANNE (pseudonym) (1834-1909), hymn writer and author. [See HEARN, MARY ANNE.]

FARQUHAR, JOHN NICOL (1861-1929), missionary and Oriental scholar; B.A., Christ Church, Oxford; professor, London Missionary Society's college, Calcutta, 1891; professor of comparative religion, Manchester, 1923-8; works include, 'Primer of Hinduism' (1912); 'Outline of the Religious Literature of India' (1920).

FARQUHARSON, DAVID (1840-1907), landscape painter; treated chiefly the Perthshire and western highlands; lived at Edinburgh, 1872-83, London, 1882-97, and Cornwall from 1897; exhibited at Royal Scottish and Royal academies; A.R.S.A., 1883; A.R.A., 1904; chief works were 'The Links of Forth,' 1883, 'In a Fog,' 1897, 'Full Moon and Spring Tide,' 1904, and 'Birnham Wood,' 1906.

FARRAR, ADAM STORNEY (1836-1906), professor of divinity and ecclesiastical history at Durham from 1864; B.A., St. Mary Hall, Oxford, 1860; D.D., 1864; tutor at Wadham College, 1868; won Denny prizes for theology, 1863-4; published Bampton lectures, 'A Critical History of Free Thought,' 1862; canon of Durham, 1878.

FARRAR, FRDERERIO WILLIAM (1831-1903), dean of Canterbury; born at Bombay; son of Indian missionary; educated at King's College, London, under F. D. Maurice; scholar of Trinity College, Cambridge, 1852; member of 'Apostles'; won chancellor's medal for English verse, 1864; fourth classic, 1864; fellow of Trinity, 1866; M.A., 1867; D.D., 1874; master at Marlborough, 1864, and at Harrow, 1865-70; while at Harrow published school stories, 'Eric, or Little by Little,' 1863, 'Julian Home,' 1869, and 'St. Winifred,' 1862, besides 'An Essay on the Origin of Language,' 1860, which attracted Darwin's attention, 'Chapters on Language,' 1866, and 'Families of Speech,' 1870; F.R.S., 1866; urged serious teaching of science; edited 'Essays on a Liberal Education,' 1867; published 'Seekers after God,' 1869, and Hulsean lecture at Cambridge, 'The Witness of History to Christ,' 1871; headmaster of Marlborough, 1871-3; visited Palestine, 1870; published his 'Life of Christ,' 12 editions, 1874, 'Life of St. Paul,' 1879, 'The Early Days of Christianity,' 1882, and 'Lives of the Fathers,' 1889; rector of St. Margaret's, and canon of Westminster, 1874-95; a successful preacher; chaplain to House of Commons, 1890-5; archdeacon of Westminster, 1883; evoked criticism by challenging doctrine of eternal punishment in sermons at the Abbey, 1877, which were published in 'Eternal Hope,' 1878; in answer to E. B. Fussy's reply, modified his views in 'Mercy and Judgement,' 1881; lectured in America, 1885; Bampton lecturer at Oxford, 1886; dean of Canterbury, 1895-1903; restored and repaired the cathedral; 'Life,' by son, 1905.

FARRER, ELLEN, known as NELLIE FARRER (1848-1904), actress; daughter of Henry Farren [q.v.]; played leading parts at Olympic Theatre (1864-5), in burlesque and in comedy characters, in which she rivalled Mrs. Keeley [q.v.]; with John Hollingshead's company at Gaiety Theatre from 1868; won great popularity as principal boy; her chief successes included Sam Weller, 1871, and Thaddeus in Byron's 'The Bohemian G'Yuri,' 1877; in old comedies she shone as Pert in 'London Assurance,' 1866, Lydia Languish in 'The Rivals,' 1874, and Maria in 'Twelfth Night,' 1876; combined pathos with humour as Clemency Newcome in Dickens's 'Battle of Life,' 1873; visited America and Australia, 1888-91; subsequently appeared only in benefit performances till 1903; unbounded spirits, good-humour, drollery, and sympathy made her a universal favourite.

FARRER, WILLIAM (1855-1908), actor; natural son of William Farren (1786-1861, [q.v.]); acted at Haymarket in juvenile tragedy or light comedy, 1863-67; roles included Captain Absolute, and Gilbert in Browning's 'Colombo's Birthday,' 1863; at Vandeville from 1871, where he was the original Sir Geoffrey Champneys in Byron's 'Our Boys,' 1875-8; other parts were Sir Peter Teale, 'a masterpiece of sheer virtuosity,' and Sir Anthony Absolute; started Conway-Farrer, old comedy company at the Strand, 1887; retired to Rome, 1898.

FARRER, WILLIAM (1861-1924), historian of Lancashire and feudal genealogist; acquired collections for new history of Lancashire made by J. P. Earwaker [q.v.]; works include co-editing of 'Victoria History of the County of Lancaster' (1906-14); 'Early Yorkshire Charters' (1914-16); 'Feudal Cambridgeshire' (1920); 'Honors and Knights Fees' (1923-4); two other volumes posthumously published, 1925, 1927; died in Norway.

FARWELL, SIR GEORGE (1844-1915), judge; B.A., Balliol College, Oxford; called to bar (Lincoln's Inn), 1871; Q.C., 1891; judge of Chancery division and knighted, 1899; lord justice of appeal and P.O., 1906-18; wrote 'A Concise Treatise on the Law of Powers' (1914).

FARWELL, ANDREW ROBERT (1831-1910), divine; scholar of Trinity College, Dublin, where he obtained many classical prizes; B.A., 1843; D.D., 1888; vicar of St. Outhbert's, York, 1885-1910; eloquent evangelical preacher and sound scholar; edited 'Commentaries of Terman,' 1844, and works by Homer, Livy, and Euripides; published 'Guide to the Study of the Book of Common Prayer,' 1894, and many theological works and commentaries.

FAWCETT, DAME MILLCENT (1847-1899), better known as MRS. HENRY FAWCETT, leader of the women's suffrage movement; born GARRITT; sister of Elisabeth Anderson [q.v.]; married Henry Fawcett [q.v.], 1867; promoted women's education at Cambridge; joined first women's suffrage committee, 1867; made first public speech on subject, 1868; worked to secure to married women legal right to their own property and for protection of girls; visited Ireland repeatedly to speak against Home Rule, 1887-96; leader of ladies' commission of inquiry into Boer concentration camps in South Africa, 1901; as president (1897) of influential constitutional National Union of Women's Suffrage Societies opposed militant suffragettes, 1905-14; suspended propaganda and encouraged women's war work, 1914-18; retired from presidency of National Union after first women's suffrage victory, 1918; D.B.E., 1925.

FAYRE, SIR JOSEPH, first baronet (1824-1907), surgeon-general and author; son of naval commander; lived in Westmorland, where he met Wordsworth; M.R.C.S., 1847; F.R.C.P., 1873; F.R.C.S., 1878; M.D. Rome, 1849; joined Indian medical service, 1850; assistant surgeon in Pegu war, 1859; civil surgeon of Lucknow, 1866; prominent in Mutiny; M.D. Edinburgh, 1869; professor of surgery at Medical College, Calcutta, 1869-74; president of Asiatic Society of Bengal, 1867; O.S.I., 1868; accompanied Duke of Edinburgh (1870) and Prince of Wales (1875) on Indian tours, of which he published 'Notes,' 1873-95; president of medical board of India office, 1873-95; K.C.S.I., 1876; F.R.S., 1877; hon. LL.D. Edinburgh and St. Andrews, baronet, 1899; in chief work, 'The Zoonatophidia of India,' 1873, first advocated permanganate treatment of venomous snake bites; wrote 'Recollections of my Life,' 1900.

FELKIN, ELLEN THORNEYCROFT (1860-1939), better known as ELLEN THORNEYCROFT FOWLER, novelist; daughter of first Viscount Wolverhampton [q.v.]; married A. L. Felkin, 1903; attracted attention with novel 'Concerning Isabel Carnaby,' 1898; wrote many others.

FENN, GEORGE MANVILLE (1831-1909), novelist; a short sketch, 'In Jeopardy' was accepted by Dickens for 'All the Year Round,' 1864; soon wrote stories for boys, embodying natural history studies, producing more than 170 volumes; editor of 'Casell's Magazine,' 1870, and proprietor of 'Once a Week,' 1873; wrote dramatic criticism and farces.

FERGUSON, MARY CATHERINE, LADY (1832-1906), biographer; born GUTHRIE; married Sir Samuel Ferguson [q.v.], 1848, and shared his social and literary activities; wrote 'The Story of the Irish before the Conquest,' 1868, and a life of her husband, 2 vols. 1896.

FERGUSON, SIR JAMES, sixth baronet of Kilkerran (1833-1907), governor of Bombay; educated at Rugby and University College, Oxford; succeeded to baronetcy, 1849; entered grenadier guards; served in Crimea; conservative M.P. for Ayrshire, 1855-7, 1859-68; under-secretary for India, 1864, and to home office, 1867; P.O. and governor of South Australia, 1868-75, and of New Zealand, 1875-8; K.C.M.G., 1878; governor of Bombay, 1880-5; sought welfare of Dekhan peasantry by modifying assessment of land revenue and granting remissions in times of scarcity; created first agricultural department; greatly developed the port of Bombay, and promoted rural and urban self-government; G.C.S.I., 1884; M.P. for North-East Manchester, 1885-1906; under-secretary at foreign office, 1886-91; postmaster-general, 1891-5; killed in earthquake at Kingston, Jamaica; became memorial statue at Ayr.

FERRANTI, SEBASTIAN ZIANI DE (1844-1900), electrical engineer and inventor; obtained work with Siemens Brothers at Charlton, near Woolwich, 1881; patented Ferranti alternator, which won him recognition among electrical engineers, 1883; set up independent business in London for manufacture of electrical apparatus, 1883; engineer to Grosvenor Gallery Electric Supply Corporation, 1886; chief electrician to London Electric Supply Corporation, 1887; planned station which, on his initiative, was erected at Deptford, to supply all London north of Thames; his scheme, crippled by Electric Lighting Act (1888), which reduced area intended to be supplied and permitted competition of low-power stations within this area; devoted himself to private business as manufacturing engineer, 1892; established Ferranti Limited near Oldham, 1899; took out 176 patents, 1883-1897; pioneer in high-voltage systems and originator of long-distance transmission of high-power electrical current; F.R.S., 1927; died at Zürich.

FERRERS, NORMAN MACLEOD (1839-1908), master of Caius College, Cambridge, and mathematician; educated at Eton and Caius College; senior wrangler and first Smith's prizeman, 1861; fellow, 1864; tutor, 1868; elected master, 1880; D.D., 1881; hon. LL.D. Glasgow, 1883; F.R.S., 1877; took prominent but conservative part in university affairs; published 'Trilinear Co-ordinates', 1861, 'Spherical Harmonics', 1877, and wrote much for mathematical journals; edited 'Quarterly Journal of Mathematics', 1855-91.

FERRIS, SIR DAVID (1843-1928), physician; M.A., Aberdeen University, 1863; M.B., Edinburgh University, 1868; began long service with King's College, London, as demonstrator of physiology, 1871; successively assistant physician, physician, and consulting physician; professor of neuropathology, 1889-1908; began researches on electrical excitation of brain, 1873; published 'The Functions of the Brain', 1870; carried out experiments with monkeys; originator, by his advocacy, no less than surgeons themselves, of modern cerebral surgery; F.R.S., 1876; knighted, 1911.

FESTING, JOHN WOGAN (1837-1909), bishop of St. Albans; descended from Michael G. Festing [q.v.]; B.A., Trinity College, Cambridge, 1860; D.D., 1890; vicar of Christ Church, Albany Street, 1878-90; bishop of St. Albans, 1890; business-like administrator; president of the Universities' Mission to Central Africa, 1892-1902.

FIELD, WALTER (1837-1901), painter; son of Edward W. Field [q.v.]; worked in oils and water-colours, mainly on landscapes and Thames scenery; exhibited at Old Water Colour Society and Royal Academy; helped to found Hampstead Heath Protection Society; most popular works were 'The Milkmaid singing to Isaac Walton' and 'Henley Regatta'.

FIELD, WILLIAM VENTRIS, BARON FIELD, of Bakeham (1813-1907), judge; called to bar, 1850; Q.C., 1864; obtained large commercial practice on Midland circuit; made judge of court of queen's bench, 1875; showed great learning but quick temper on bench; gave judgment which was upheld on appeal in many important cases; created P.C. and raised to peerage on retirement, 1890.

FIGGIE, JOHN NEVILLE (1866-1919), historian and divine; B.A., St. Catharine's College, Cambridge; Mirfield father, 1907; works include 'The Divine Right of Kings' (1894), 'From Gerson to Grotius' (1907), 'Churches in the Modern State' (1913).

FILDES, SIR (SAMUEL) LUKK (1844-1937), painter; adopted popular anecdotal, melodramatic vein of painting; chief pictures in this style, 'Applicants for admission to a casual ward' (1874) and 'The Doctor' (1891); gradually devoted himself almost exclusively to portraiture; painted state portraits of King Edward VII, Queen Alexandra, King George V; R.A., 1887; knighted, 1906; K.C.V.O., 1918.

FITCH-BATTON, HAROLD HENEGBE (1856-1904), imperialist politician; son of tenth earl of Winchelsea [q.v.]; went to Queensland, 1876; engaged in cattle-farming and gold prospecting till 1883, when he returned to England; published 'Advance, Australia', 1885; founded Imperial Federation League; conservative M.P. for Newark, 1895-8; an ardent sportsman.

FITZLY, ROBERT BANNATYNE, first Viscount FITZLY (1843-1929), lord chancellor; called to bar (Middle Temple), 1867; Q.C., 1883; liberal M.P., Inverness Burghs, 1885-89, 1895-1906; solicitor-general and knighted, 1895; attorney-general, 1900-6; assisted in preparing British case in Venezuelan boundary arbitration, 1898; led for Great Britain and Canada in Alaska boundary arbitration, 1903; for Great Britain in Venezuelan claims arbitration, 1903; for Canada in Newfoundland fisheries arbitration, 1910; M.P. Edinburgh and St. Andrews universities, 1910; lord chancellor, 1918-18; member of Permanent Court of Arbitration (1920), and judge of Permanent Court of International Justice (1921-3) at The Hague; baron, 1916; viscount, 1919.

FITZPATRICK, JAMES (1840-1906), Scottish physician; M.B. Glasgow, 1867; M.D., 1869; hon. LL.D., 1899; physician to Western Infirmary, Glasgow, from 1875 to death, and to Royal Children's Hospital, 1884-98; voluminous works include 'Clinical Manual', 1878, 'Life of Peter Lowe', 1889, and 'Life of Robert Watt', 1897.

FITZGER, JOHN (1839-1907), landscape painter and engraver; pupil of William Bell Scott [q.v.]; master of School of Art, Liverpool, 1855-96; president of Liverpool Academy, 1887-8; early experimented in etching and engraving; practised mezzotint from 1866, exhibiting at Royal Academy and elsewhere.

FISHER, JOHN ARBUTHNOT, first BARON FISHER, of Kilvestone (1841-1920), admiral of the fleet; born in Ceylon; entered royal navy, 1864; qualified in gunnery school, 'Excellent', and joined 'Warrior', first 'Ironclad', 1868; on staff of 'Excellent', 1864-9, 1872-6; devoted himself to development of torpedo; captain, 1874; came to admiralty for first time, 1876; at sea, 1876-82; C.B. for services in Egypt against Arabi Pasha, 1883; captain of gunnery school, Portsmouth, 1883-6; director of ordnance and torpedoes at admiralty, 1886-90; rear-admiral, 1890; third sea lord and controller of navy, 1892-7; K.C.B., 1894; vice-admiral, 1896; commander-in-chief, North American and West Indies station, 1897; commanded Mediterranean fleet, 1899-1903; ensured increased efficiency in every department; admiral, 1901; G.C.B., 1902; second sea lord, with charge of personnel of fleet, 1903-8; introduced important administrative reforms, notably common entry scheme in training of naval officers at Osborne, 1903; commander-in-chief, Portsmouth, 1903; first sea lord, 1904-10; O.M., 1904; organized redistribution of fleet to meet growing German menace; advocated designing of 'Dreadnought' type of battleship and battle cruiser, 1906; Cawdor memorandum, statement of admiralty policy, published before fall of conservative government, 1906; obliged to diminish programme under liberal government; estranged from Lord Charles Beresford [q.v.], commander-in-chief of Channel fleet, 1907; issued programme of eight battleships, 1909-10; baron, 1909; returned to admiralty as first sea lord after outbreak of European war, 1914; responsible for battle of Falkland Islands, 1914; disapproved of naval attempt to force passage of Dardanelles and resigned, 1915; one of the greatest administrators in history of royal navy.

FISHER, ANDREW (1869-1938), Australian statesman, migrated from Scotland to Queensland, 1885; Labour member for Gympie, 1893-6; regained seat, 1899; joined seven-days' ministry of Anderson Dawson (first Labour ministry in world) as secretary for railways and public works, 1899; member for Wide Bay in first Commonwealth parliament, 1901; leader of federal Labour party 1907; prime minister, 1908-9; returned to power, 1910-13; measures passed included establishment of Commonwealth bank, strong defence policy, and inauguration of new capital at Canberra; again prime minister, 1914-16; wholeheartedly supported Great Britain in European war; high commissioner of Commonwealth in London, 1916-21; devoted to British Empire.

FISCH, LORIMER (1832-1907), Wesleyan missionary and anthropologist; left Caius College, Cambridge, for Australia, 1855; Wesleyan missionary at Fiji, 1863-71; studied native kinship; joined Alfred William Howitt [q.v.] in anthropological research in New South Wales and Victoria, 1871-5; again in Fiji, 1875-84, writing on Fijian land tenure and antiquities; settled at Melbourne, 1888-1905; published 'Tales from Old Fiji', 1904; awarded civil list pension, 1905; died at Essenden, Victoria.

FITCHE, SIR JOSHUA GIRLING (1834-1903), inspector of schools and educational writer; B.A. London University, 1850; M.A., 1853; joined staff of Borough Road Training College, Southwark, 1853; principal, 1866, proving a stimulating teacher of method; assistant commissioner of schools in Yorkshire, 1865-7, of elementary schools in the large northern towns, 1869, and of endowed schools, 1870-7; chief inspector of schools for eastern division, 1883-6; inspector of elementary training colleges for women in England and Wales, 1885-84; visited America and reported on American education, 1888; helped in foundation of Girton and Girls' Public Day School Company, 1874; published 'Lectures on Teaching', 1881, and 'Educational Aims and Methods', 1900; his account of 'The Chautauque Reading Circles' (1888) suggested the National Home Reading Union; hon. LL.D. St. Andrews, 1888; knighted, 1896; 'Life' by Canon A. L. Lilley.

FITZALAN-HOWARD, HENRY, fifteenth DUKE OF NORFOLK (1847-1917). (See HOWARD.)

FITZGERALD, CHARLES (1864-1914), brigadier-general; joined army (royal fusiliers), 1885; V.O. for gallantry during South African war, 1900; transferred to Irish guards, 1900; served with distinction as brigadier-general commanding 1st (guards) brigade in 1st division, 1914; killed at head of Irish guards in Flanders.

FITZGERALD, GEORGE FRANCIS (1861-1901), natural philosopher; son of William FitzGerald [q.v.]; B.A. (in mathematics) at Trinity College, Dublin, 1871; fellow, 1877; Brahm's Smith professor of natural and experimental philosophy, 1881-1901; developed electromagnetic theory of radiation; made researches into electric waves and electrolysis; F.R.S., 1883; president of Physical Society, 1892-3; prominent in Irish educational affairs; 'Scientific Writings' collected by Sir Joseph Larmor, 1908.

FITZGERALD, SIR THOMAS NAGHTEN (1838-1908), surgeon; L.R.C.S. Ireland, 1857; F.R.C.S., 1864; surgeon at Melbourne Hospital from 1868 till death; an able operator; knighted, 1897; surgeon in Boer war, and C.B., 1900.

FITZGERALD, GERALD (1837-1909), lord justice of appeal in Ireland; scholar of Trinity College, Dublin; hon. LL.D. 1895; called to Irish bar, 1860, and to English bar, 1861; leader of Munster circuit; successful advocate in O'Keefe v. Cullen case, 1878, and Bagot v. Bagot will case, 1878; solicitor-general for Ireland, 1877-8; promoted lord justice of appeal, 1878; P.C., 1900; served on various Irish educational commissions; chairman of commission on Irish educational endowments, 1885-97; an active freemason, prominent in affairs of Church of Ireland; friend of Lord Randolph Churchill and other politicians; portraits by Walter Osborne and William Orpen; statue by A. B. Joy.

FITZMAURICE, SIR MAURICE (1861-1924), civil engineer; article to Sir Benjamin Baker [q.v.]; engaged under Baker and Sir John Fowler [q.v.] in construction of Forth Bridge; entered service of London County Council under Sir A. R. Binnie [q.v.], 1893; chief resident engineer to Egyptian government, 1898; engaged on construction of Asuan dam, 1898-1901; chief engineer to London County Council, 1901-13; knighted, 1912; F.R.S., 1919.

FITZMAURICE-KELLY, JAMES (1857-1923), historian of Spanish literature; began to make name for himself as authority on Spain, 1886; published 'Life of Miguel de Cervantes Saavedra' (1893) and 'History of Spanish Literature' (1898); first Gilmour professor of Spanish language and literature, Liverpool University, 1903-16; Cervantes professor of Spanish language and literature, King's College, London, 1916-20; F.B.A., 1906; his contributions to Spanish studies consist of general works, miscellaneous essays, and Cervantes studies.

FITZPATRICK, SIR DENNIS (1837-1920), Indian civil servant; entered Indian civil service, 1858; established legal reputation over case of Begum Sarun of Sardhana, 1864-72; in legislative department of Indian government, 1874-85; K.C.S.I., 1890; lieutenant-governor of Punjab, 1892-7; on Council of India, 1897; vice-president, 1901; G.C.S.I., 1911.

FLAY, FREDERICK GARD (1831-1909), Shakespearean scholar; B.A., Trinity College, Cambridge (15th wrangler), 1853; obtained places in four triposes; M.A., and ordained, 1856; relinquished orders, 1884; engaged as schoolmaster, 1856-76; published 'Hints on Teaching', 1874; interested in phonetics; edited 'The Spelling Reformer', 1880-1; compiled 'Life of Shakespeare', 1886; 'A Chronicle History of the London Stage, 1559-1642', 1890, and a 'Biographical Chronicle of the English Drama, 1559-1642', 2 vols. 1891; in later life turned to Egyptology and Assyriology, publishing 'Egyptian Chronology', 1892.

FLAHER, HERMAN (JAMES) ELBOY (1864-1915), poet and dramatist; educated at Dean Close School (Cheltenham), Uppingham, and Trinity College, Oxford; entered consular service, 1908; sent to Constantinople, 1910; vice-consul at Beirut, 1911-13; died at Davos, Switzerland; his finest poem, 'The Golden Journey to Samarkand'; collected poems published, 1916; two plays published posthumously, 'Hassan' (1922) and 'Don Juan' (1925).

FLEMING, GEORGE (1833-1901), veterinary surgeon; served as veterinary surgeon in Crimea and China, 1855-60, in Syria and Egypt, 1867; principal veterinary surgeon to army 1885-90; C.B., 1887; president of Royal College of Veterinary Surgeons, 1884-5, 1886-7; secured passage of Veterinary Surgeons Act, 1881; hon. LL.D. Glasgow, 1885; wrote 'Horse Shoes and Horse Shoeing', 1889. 'Veterinary Sanitary Science', 2 vols. 1878.

FLEMING, JAMES (1880-1908), canon of York; educated at Shrewsbury and Magdalene College, Cambridge; B.A., 1853; B.D., 1864; vicar of St. Michael, Chester Square, 1873-1908; canon of York, 1879; chaplain to royal family from 1876; Whitehead professor of preaching and elocution at London College of Divinity from 1880; a strong protestant, he supported Kennell's agitation against ritualism; charged with plagiarism of Dr. Talmage's sermons, 1887; a popular preacher and graceful speaker; published 'The Art of Reading and Speaking', 1896, and sermons; 'Life' by A. B. M. Finlayson.

FLEMING, SIR SANDFORD (1827-1915), Canadian engineer; born in Scotland; went to Canada, 1845; chief railway engineer to government of Nova Scotia, 1864; chief engineer of Inter-Colonial Railway, 1867-76; engineer-in-chief of Canadian Pacific Railway, 1871-80; headed 'Ocean to Ocean' expedition, 1873; procured laying of Pacific cable; K.C.M.G., 1897; died at Halifax, Nova Scotia.

FLETCHER, JAMES (1853-1908), naturalist; entered London bank, 1871; transferred to Ottawa, 1875; employed in parliamentary library there, 1876-87; botanist to dominion experimental farms, 1887; founded Ottawa Field Naturalists' Club, to whose 'Transactions' he made valuable contributions on botany and entomology.

FLINT, ROBERT (1838-1910), philosopher and theologian; professor of moral philosophy, St. Andrews University, 1864-76; professor of divinity, Edinburgh University, 1876; LL.D. Glasgow; D.D. Edinburgh; Baird lecturer, 1876-7; Stone lecturer at Princeton, U.S.A., 1880; delivered Croall, 1887-8, and Gifford lectures, 1908-9; voluminous writings include his Baird lectures, 'Theism', 1877, and 'Antitheistic Theories', 1879, 'Socialism', 1894, 'Hindu Pantheism', 1897, and 'Agnosticism', 1903 (Croall lecture).

FLOYER, ERNEST AYSOGHIE (1862-1903), explorer; served in Indian telegraph station, 1869-76; explored interior of Baluchistan, 1876-7; published 'Unexplored Baluchistan', 1882; inspector-general of Egyptian telegraphs, 1878-1903; superintended experiments of tree and plant cultivation in Egypt; commanded expedition to desert between the Nile and the Red Sea, 1891; rediscovered emerald mines in Sikait and Zabbara; described his explorations in various scientific journals.

FORDE, JAMES STAATS (1823-1904), railway manager and art connoisseur; studied engineering under L. K. Brunel [q.v.]; joined Great Western railway, twice subsequently refusing post of general manager; general manager of London, Chatham and Dover railway, 1861; restored its fortunes; chairman of directors, 1873-99; secured good terms for the railway on its amalgamation with South Eastern railway, 1899; as director of London District railway, 1870-1901, overcame difficulties of competition; collector of pictures, especially of nineteenth-century artists; portrait by Herkomer.

FORD, EDWARD ONSLOW (1852-1901), sculptor; studied painting at Antwerp and modelling at Munich; A.R.A., 1888; R.A., 1895; more important works are Rowland Hill, 1881, Irving as Hamlet, 1883, Gordon, 1890; Shelley memorial at Oxford, 1892, and Queen Victoria memorial at Manchester, 1901; executed also bronze ideal statuettes, such as 'Folly', 'Peace', and 'Echo'.

FORD, PATRIOT (1837-1913), Irish-American journalist and politician; born in Galway; taken to Boston, U.S.A., 1841; founded and conducted 'Irish World', chief organ of Irish-Americans and supporter of successive Irish movements, 1870-1913; died at Brooklyn, U.S.A.

FORD, WILLIAM JUSTICE (1855-1904), cricketer and writer on cricket; educated at Repton and St. John's College, Cambridge; master at Marlborough, 1877-84; one of hardest hitters known; historian of Middlesex and Cambridge University cricket clubs.

FORDHAM, SIR HERBERT GEORGE (1844-1939), writer on cartography; lived at Osney, Hertfordshire, devoting himself to local administration, from 1891; chairman, Cambridgeshire County Council, 1904-19; knighted, 1908; formed map collection and became a leading European authority on cartography; published bibliographical studies of early maps of France and England, articles on road-making and map-making in the sixteenth, seventeenth, and eighteenth centuries, &c.

FORREST-WALKER, SIR FREDERICK WILLIAM EDWARD FORRESTER (1844-1910), general; entered army, 1862; served in Egypt war, 1877-8; C.B., 1878; in Zulu war, 1879; in Bochnanland expedition, 1884-5.

FRAMPTON, SIR GEORGE JAMES (1860-1938), sculptor and craftsman; studied at Royal Academy Schools and in Paris; powerfully attracted towards 'arts and crafts' movement; associated with 'Studio' magazine, through which he wielded great influence in Germany; employed combination of different materials in one work; his works include series of statues of Queen Victoria, 'Peter Pan' in Kensington Gardens (1912), and Edith Cavell, St. Martin's Place (1920); R.A., 1902; knighted, 1908.

FRANKFORT DE MONTMORENCY, third Viscount (1835-1905), major-general. [See DE MONTMORENCY, RAYMOND HARVEY.]

FRASER, ALEXANDER CAMPBELL (1819-1914), philosopher; educated at Edinburgh University; ordained to Free Church ministry, 1844; professor of logic and metaphysics in Edinburgh Free Church theological college, 1846-56, and at Edinburgh University, 1856-91; Gifford lecturer, 1894-6; F.R.S., 1903; works include edition of Berkeley's 'Works' and 'Life and Letters' (1871), study of Locke (1890) and edition of his 'Essay concerning Human Understanding' (1894); a stimulating teacher whose philosophical standpoint was theism based on moral faith.

FRASER, SIR ANDREW HENDERSON LEITH (1848-1919), Indian civil servant; entered Indian civil service, 1869; served in Central Provinces, 1871-93; secretary in home department and later chief commissioner of Central Provinces, 1898; president of Indian police commission, 1901; lieutenant-general of Bengal and K.O.S.I., 1903; had to face storm roused by partition, 1905; retired, 1908.

FRASER, CLAUD LOVAT (1890-1921), artist and designer; designed settings and costumes for 'As You Like It' and 'The Beggar's Opera', 1920; decorated books; produced designs for theatre, rhyme sheets, broadsides, &c.

FRASER, SIR THOMAS RICHARD (1841-1930), pharmacologist; born at Calcutta; M.D. Edinburgh University; professor of materia medica and clinical medicine at Edinburgh, 1877-1917; F.R.S., 1877; president of Royal College of Physicians, Edinburgh, 1900-2; knighted, 1902; his researches on poisons important.

FREAR, WILLIAM (1854-1906), writer on agriculture; student at Royal College of Science, Dublin, 1872-5; B.Sc. London, 1877; professor of natural history, Royal Agricultural College, Cirencester, 1877-9; visited Canada 1884, 1888, and 1891, writing accounts of Canadian agriculture; first Steven lecturer on agricultural entomology, Edinburgh, 1890-1906; edited Royal Agricultural Society's 'Journal', 1890-1900; agricultural correspondent of 'The Times', 1894-1906; published 'The Elements of Agriculture', 1891.

FRECHETTE, LOUIS HONORÉ (1839-1908), Canadian poet and journalist; born near Quebec; at Quebec edited 'Journal de Québec'; clerk of legislative council, 1889-1908; published French verse, including 'Més Loinis', 1863, 'Les Oiseaux de Neige', 1880, 'Les Fleurs Boréales', 1881, and 'La Légende d'un Peuple', 1887; C.M.G., 1897; president of Royal Society of Canada; wrote also 'La Noël au Canada', a prose collection of tales and dramas; a poet of French-Canadian patriotism; influenced by Victor Hugo.

FREEMAN, GAGE EARLE (1820-1903), writer on falconry; vicar of Macclesfield Forest, 1856-89, and Ashham, 1889-1903; devoted leisure to hawking; wrote on the subject in 'Field' newspaper; collaborated with F. H. Salvin [q.v.] in 'Falconry; its Claims, History and Practice', 1859; published 'Practical Falconry', 1869, and volumes of verse.

FREEMAN, JOHN (1860-1929), poet and critic; junior clerk in Liverpool Victoria Friendly Society, 1893; secretary and director, 1927; his poetical works include 'Stone Trees' (1916), 'Promises of Victory' (1916), 'Memories of Childhood' (1919), 'Poems New and Old' (1920), 'Music' (1921), 'The Grove' (1924), 'Collected Poems' (1925), 'Last Poems' (posthumous, 1930); in prose he wrote 'The Moderns' (1916), 'Portrait of George Moore' (1922), 'English Portraits' (1924), 'Herman Melville' (1926).

FREEMAN-SITFORD, ALGERNON BERTRAM, first Baron REDDERS, of the second creation (1837-1916), diplomatist and author. [See MITFORD.]

FREEMANTLE, SIR EDMUND ROBERT (1894-1929), admiral; son of first Baron Cotterell [q.v.]; entered royal navy, 1897; served in 'Queen' on Mediterranean station and in 'Spartan' on China station; commanded 'Belisee' during Maori war in New Zealand, 1864-7; captain, 1867; as commander of paddle-steamer 'Barraclough', took part in Gold Coast operations against Ashantis, 1878-4; severely wounded; commanded 'Lord Warden', 1877; 'Invincible', 1879; twice saved life while in command of these ships; senior naval officer, Gibraltar, 1881-4; rear-admiral, 1885; second-in-command of Channel squadron, 1886-7; commander-in-chief, East Indies, 1888-91; commanded successful punitive expedition against Sultan of Vitu in British East Africa, 1890; vice-admiral, 1890; commander-in-chief, China, 1892-5; at Devonport 1896-9; admiral, 1896; retired, 1901; K.C.B., 1898; writer on naval subjects, being particularly interested in problems of shipbuilding policy, and consistently opposing contention that days of great ships were over.

FRENCH, JOHN DENTON PINKSTONE first BARON OF TYNRES (1852-1925), field-marshal; joined Suffolk artillery militia, 1870; gazetted to 8th (shortly transferred to 19th) Hussars, 1874; served in Lord Wolseley's expedition for relief of General Gordon, 1884-5; commanded 10th Hussars, 1888; colonel and assistant-adjudant-general, war office, 1895; on outbreak of South African war dispatched to Natal to command mounted troops under Sir G. S. White [q.v.], 1899; then sent to Cape Colony, which he virtually cleared of invaders before arrival of Lord Roberts in South Africa, Jan. 1900; relieved Kimberley, 15 Feb.; secured surrender of Boers at Paardeberg (27 Feb.) and turned Boer front at Poplar Grove (7 March) and Driefontein (20 March); commanded Johannesburg district, Nov.; lieutenant-general, 1902; commander-in-chief, Aldershot, 1902-7; general, 1907; inspector-general of forces, 1907; responsible for total reform in conduct of military manoeuvres; chief of Imperial General Staff, 1912; field-marshal, 1913; resigned appointment owing to Curragh incident, 1914; commander-in-chief, British expeditionary force in France, Aug. 1914; lamentably failed to conform to French plan of action; British expeditionary force transferred to Flanders, Oct.; made fruitless attempt to break German line at Neuve Chapelle, March 1915; made abortive attempt to seize Aubers Ridge, hoping thereby to facilitate capture of Lille, May; renewed attempts made at Festubert and Givenchy (May and June) equally disastrous owing to inadequate forces; battle of Loos (25-28 Sept.) no more successful; owing to dissatisfaction felt with his conduct of operations, resigned position as commander-in-chief, Dec.; created viscount and appointed commander-in-chief of home forces, 1916; achieved satisfactory results in training troops for overseas and protecting Great Britain from air attacks; lord-lieutenant of Ireland, where position of affairs grew increasingly unsatisfactory, 1918-21; created earl, 1922.

FRERE, MARY ELIZA ISABELLA (1845-1911), author; daughter of Sir Bartle Frere, first baronet [q.v.]; went with father to Bombay, 1863; collected Indian folk-lore tales in 'Old Deccan Days', 1868; wrote poems; accompanied father to South Africa, 1877, and later travelled in Egypt and Palestine.

FREYER, SIR PETER JOHNSTON (1861-1921), surgeon; M.D. and M.S., Queen's University of Ireland; served in Indian medical service, 1875-96; surgeon to St. Peter's Hospital for Stone, London, 1897-1914; O.B. and K.C.B., 1917.

FRISCH-GREENE, WILLIAM (1855-1921), pioneer of cinematography. [See GREENE.]

FRITH, WILLIAM POWELL (1819-1909), artist; studied art under Sass and at Royal Academy Schools; exhibited at Royal Academy from 1840 subject pictures, such as 'English Merry-making a Hundred Years ago', 1847; A.R.A. 1845; R.A., 1858; chief works were 'Rams-gate Sands', 1853, 'Derby Day', 1858 (now in Tate Gallery), 'The Railway Station', 1863, 'Charles II's last Whitehall Sunday', 1867; unsuccessfully attempted to rival Hogarth's morality pictures, 1878-90; other works were 'Charles Dickens', 1859, and 'Uncle Toby and the Widow Wadman', 1866 (in Tate Gallery); visited Holland, 1850 and 1880, and Italy, 1875; O.V.O., 1898; published 'John Leech, his Life and Work', 1891, 'Reminiscences', 1887, and 'Further Reminiscences', 1888.

FROWDER, HENRY (1841-1927), publisher; manager of London office of Oxford University Press, 1874-1918; styled 'Publisher to the University of Oxford', 1883.

FRY, DANBY PALMER (1818-1903), legal writer; clerk in poor law board, 1846-76; reported charities proceedings at Kensington Common, 1848; called to bar, 1851; legal adviser (1878-83) to local government board; original member of Philological Society, 1849, and of Early English Text Society, 1864; published standard legal handbooks.

FRY, SIR EDWARD (1827-1918), judge; great-grandson of Joseph Fry [q.v.]; in business in Bristol, 1848-8; B.A., University College, London, 1861; called to bar (Lincoln's Inn), 1864; published 'A Treatise on the Specific Performance of Contracts', 1888; acquired large practice in Chancery and company work and at parliamentary bar; Q.C., 1869; practised in turn before Vice-Chancellors James and Bacon, afterwards migrating to Rolls court; appointed additional judge in Chancery division and knighted, 1877; principal legal work performed on rule committee of judges; sat in Court of Appeal, 1883-92; in later life played important part in international affairs; judge on Hague tribunal, 1900; arbitrator at Hague between United States and Mexico in pious funds of California dispute, 1902-3; British legation assessor on commission appointed to deal with Dogger Bank incident, 1904; played active part at second Hague Conference, 1907; arbitrator between France and Germany over Casablanca incident, 1908-9; F.R.S., 1883; G.O.B., 1907; a strong quaker.

FY, JOSEPH STORRS (1836-1913), cocoa manufacturer and quaker philanthropist; brother of Sir Edward Fry [q.v.]; partner in family business in Bristol, 1856; president of 'London Yearly Meeting' of Friends for fifteen years.

FY, THOMAS CHARLES (1846-1930), schoolmaster and dean of Lincoln; B.A., Pembroke College, Cambridge; ordained, 1871; headmaster of Berkhamstead School, 1887-1910; improved buildings and equipment; raised educational standard and increased numbers; dean of Lincoln, 1910; raised nearly £100,000 for cathedral restoration fund, 1921-30; paid three visits overseas to collect funds.

FYAT, CHARLES ALGERNON (1872-1916), merchant seaman; entered Great Eastern Railway Company's service as able seaman on Harwich to Antwerp steamship route, 1892; made 143 trips in command of vessels during European War, 1914-18; ship 'Brussels' attacked by German submarine, March 1916; commended by Admiralty for plucky escape; captured by German destroyers, June; court-martialled and shot as 'franc-tireur' at Bruges, July.

FULLER, SIR THOMAS BEKINS (1831-1910), agent-general for Cape Colony, 1902-7; editor of 'Cape Argus', South Africa, 1864; advocated University and responsible government in Cape Colony; general manager of Union Steamship Company at Cape Town, 1875-98; represented Cape Town in House of Assembly, 1878-1902; supported Cecil Rhodes's policy; K.C.M.G., 1904; wrote monograph on Cecil Rhodes, 1910.

FULLERYLOVE, JOHN (1845-1908), landscape painter; studied drawing and architecture; travelled much in England and abroad; member of Royal Institute of Painters in Water-Colours, 1879; exhibited in London water-colour drawings of 'Petrarch's Country', 1886, Oxford, 1888, Cambridge, 1890, Versailles, 1894, Greece, 1896, and Palestine, 1902; also painted in oils; many drawings were reproduced as illustrations to books; an able architectural draughtsman and accomplished water-colour artist.

FURNEAUX, WILLIAM MORDAUNT (1848-1928), schoolmaster and dean of Winchester; B.A., Corpus Christi College, Oxford, 1879; ordained, 1874; assistant master, Marlborough College, 1874-82; headmaster of Repton School, 1882-1900; set school on firm financial basis and improved the buildings; dean of Winchester, 1903-19; successfully raised funds to save cathedral fabric from collapse, 1906-12.

FURNESS, CHRISTOPHER, first BARON FURNESS, of Granville (1862-1912), shipowner and industrialist; early joined brother's firm of wholesale provision merchants; set up as shipowner, 1877; amalgamated with other firms; liberal M.P., Harlepool, 1891-5, 1900-10; knighted, 1896; created baron, 1910.

FURNESS, HARRY (1844-1926), caricaturist and illustrator; educated in Dublin; came to London, 1873; joined staff of 'Illustrated London News', 1876; chosen by (Sir) Henry Lucy [q.v.] to illustrate his 'Essence of Parliament' in 'Punch', 1881; 'called to the Table' at 'Punch' office, 1884; resigned from staff, 1894; embarked on unsuccessful journalistic ventures, 1894-5; illustrated complete editions of Dickens (1910) and Thackeray (1911); took up new art of the cinematograph, 1912.

FURNIVALL, FREDERICK JAMES (1826-1910), scholar and editor; educated at private schools, University College, London, and Trinity Hall, Cambridge; B.A., 1847; M.A., 1850; enthusiastic oarsman from youth; improved design of sculling boats, 1846; barrister of Gray's Inn, 1849; interested in social reform; joined Christian socialists; made acquaintance of Ruskin, 1849; helped to found Working Men's College, London, 1864; taught English grammar and literature there; developed college's social life; became an outspoken agnostic; his relations strained with F. D. Maurice, principal of the college; applied principles of co-operation to literary study; member of Philological Society from 1847, and sole secretary from 1862 to death; became (1861) editor of the Philological Society's suggested English Dictionary, which developed into the 'New English Dictionary' of Oxford; contributed to that work through life; founded Early English Text Society, 1864, and Chaucer Society, 1868; edited Chaucer's works from MS., and thereby furnished new material for textual study; edited 'Percy Ballads' with Prof. J. W. Hales, 1868, and founded Ballad Society; established New Shakspeare Society, 1873; resented Swinburne's sarcastic attack on society's methods; engaged in unfigured controversy with Halliwell-Phillips and with Swinburne, 1881; wrote elaborate preface for 'Leopold' Shakspeare, 1876; supervised issue of photographic facsimiles of Shakspeare quartos (43 vols. 1880-9); founded Wiclif and Browning societies, 1881; the Browning Society greatly extended the poet's popularity; founded Shelley Society, 1886; lost substantial fortune inherited from his father on failure of Overend and Gurney's Bank, 1867; received civil list pension, 1884; hon. Ph.D. Berlin, 1884; hon. fellow of Trinity Hall, 1902; hon. D.Litt. Oxford, 1901; original F.B.A., 1903; devoted to rowing till death; founded National Amateur Rowing Association, to include all ranks of society, 1891, and Hammersmith (renamed Furnivall) Sculling Club for girls and men, 1896.

FURSE, CHARLES WELLINGTON (1868-1904), painter; pupil of Alphonse Legros [q.v.] at Slade School, London, and of Julian in Paris; first exhibited at Royal Academy, 1888; gained early distinction as portrait painter; developed original and spontaneous manner; skilful painter of horses; went in search of health to South Africa, 1895; made decorative paintings for Liverpool Town Hall in manner of Tintoretto, 1898-1901; married daughter of John Addington Symonds, 1900, and settled next year at Camberley, producing his 'Return from the Ride' and 'Diana of the Uplands' (both in Tate Gallery), 'Lord Charles Beresford', 'Lord Roberts' (unfinished); A.R.A., 1903; died of tuberculosis; a keen art critic and energetic worker.

FUST, HERBERT JENNER (1806-1904), cricketer. [See JENNER-FUST.]

GADSBY, HENRY ROBERT (1842-1907), musician; professor of harmony at Guildhall School of Music from 1880; published choral and orchestral cantatas, part songs, and anthems, and text-books on harmony, 1883, and sight singing, 1897.

GAIRDNER, JAMES (1828-1918), historian; son of John Gairdner, M.D. [q.v.]; clerk in Public Record Office, 1846-93; joint editor of 'Calendar of Letters and Papers of the Reign of Henry VIII'; edited 'Paston Letters', &c.

GAIRDNER, SIR WILLIAM TENNANT (1824-1907), professor of medicine at Glasgow; son of John Gairdner [q.v.]; M.D. Edinburgh, 1845; hon. LL.D., 1883; pathologist and physician to Royal Infirmary there; professor of medicine at Glasgow University, 1862-90; medical officer of health, Glasgow, 1863-73; attractive lecturer; made many original researches in connexion with heart and lung diseases; F.R.S., 1893; K.C.B., 1898; works include 'Clinical Medicine', 1863, and 'The Physician as Naturalist', 1889.

GALE, FREDERICK (1823-1904), cricketer and writer on cricket under the pseudonym of 'Old Buffer'; works include 'Public School Matches and those we meet there', 1853, and 'The Game of Cricket', 1897; brother-in-law of Arthur Somers and a friend of Ruskin.

GALLOWAY, SIR WILLIAM (1840-1927), mining engineer; researched into causes of mine explosions, which he came to believe largely depended on floating coal dust; this view, at first considered unorthodox, was finally confirmed by other investigators; professor of mining, University College, Cardiff, 1891-1902; knighted, 1894.

GALLOWAY, PETER (1800-1906), Jesuit preacher and writer; studied at Stonyhurst; entered Society of Jesus, 1826; in charge of Farm Street church, London, 1857-69 and 1877-1906; provincial of Jesuits in England, 1873-6; published 'Lectures on Ritualism,' 2 vols. 1879, pamphlets and sermons.

GALTON, SIR FRANCIS (1822-1911), founder of the science of 'eugenics'; born at Birmingham; entered Trinity College, Cambridge, 1840; travelled in Syria and Egypt, 1844; published account of exploration, into interior of Damaraland, in 'Tropical South Africa,' 1853; F.R.S., 1856; general secretary of British Association, 1863-7; in 'Meteorographica,' 1868, he pointed out importance of 'anticyclones,' a word coined by himself; began researches into laws of heredity, 1868; initiated anthropometric laboratory at Health Exhibition, 1884-5, collecting impressions of fingers; proved permanence of finger-prints, published 'Finger Prints,' 1893, and 'Finger Print Directory,' 1895; influenced by his cousin Charles Darwin's 'Origin of Species,' he investigated the heritability of genius; published his results in 'Hereditary Genius,' 1869, 'English Men of Science,' 1874, 'Human Faculty,' 1883, 'Natural Inheritance,' 1889, and 'Noteworthy Families,' 1896; founded eugenic laboratory, 1904, and research fellowship and scholarship, 1907, at University College, London; initiated quarterly journal, 'Biometrika,' 1901; knighted, 1909; by will left £5,000. for foundation of chair of eugenics in London University; wrote 'Memories of My Life,' 1908; 'Life' by Prof. Karl Pearson, 1914.

GAMGEE, ARTHUR (1841-1909), physiologist; born at Florence; brother of Joseph Gamgee (1828-1886, q.v.); M.D. Edinburgh University, 1862; lecturer on physiology at Royal College of Surgeons, Edinburgh, 1863-9; fellow, 1873; studied under Kühne at Heidelberg and Ludwig at Leipzig, 1871; F.R.S., 1872; F.R.C.P. London, 1886; first Brackenbury professor of physiology in Owens College, Manchester, 1873-85; practised in Switzerland from 1889; visited America, 1902 and 1903; extended knowledge of physical and chemical properties of haemoglobin; made elaborate research on diurnal variations of temperature of human body; works include 'Textbook of Physiological Chemistry,' 2 vols. 1880-93; died in Paris.

GARCIA, MANUEL (PATRICIO RODRIGUEZ) (1805-1906), singer and teacher of singing; born at Zafra, Spain; studied harmony in Paris; as professor at Paris conservatoire he taught Jenny Lind; published famous 'Traité complet de l'art du chant,' 1847; professor of singing at Royal Academy of Music, London, 1848-95; invented laryngoscope (1854), which became universally used in medicine and surgery; made O.V.O. on hundredth birthday, 1905; 'Life' by Sterling MacKinnay, 1908.

GARDINER, SAMUEL RAWSON (1829-1902), historian; B.A., Christ Church, Oxford, 1851; married daughter of Edward Irving (q.v.), 1856; settled in London to study history of Puritan revolution, supporting himself meanwhile by teaching; lecturer (1872-7) and professor of modern history (1877-85) at King's College, London; published first instalment of his 'History of England (1603-42)' in 1863, and last in 1882; collective edition in 10 vols. 1882-91; there followed 'The Great Civil War,' 3 vols. 1886-91, and 'The History of the Commonwealth and Protectorate,' 3 vols. 1895-1901; his unfinished 'Last Years of the Protectorate' was completed by (Sir) Charles Firth, 3 vols. 1909; his historical work shows scientific arrangement of material, minute accuracy, impartiality, but lacks the picturesque style of Froese or Macaulay. Gardiner wrote also 'The Thirty Years War,' 1874, and 'The Puritan Revolution,' 1876, for 'Epochs of English History' series, 'Student's History of England,' 3 vols. 1890; edited 'Constitutional Documents of the Puritan Revolution,' 1889; was editor of 'English Historical Review,' 1891-1901; director of Camden Society, 1869-97, he edited 12 of its volumes, and also contributed to publications of Navy Records Society, Scottish History Society, and to this Dictionary. Awarded civil list pension, 1889; he was research fellow of All Souls, Oxford, 1884-92, and of Merion, 1892-1902; received many honorary distinctions at home and abroad and was Ford lecturer, Oxford, 1896.

GARGAN, DENNIS (1819-1908), president of Maynooth College; ordained, 1843; professor of humanity, 1845, and of ecclesiastical history, 1859; vice-president, 1885, and president, 1894, of Maynooth; received King Edward VII there, 1902; published 'The Ancient Church of Ireland,' 1864.

GARNER, THOMAS (1839-1906), architect; fellow pupil of Sir George Gilbert Scott (q.v.) with G. F. Bodley (q.v.), whose partner he became, 1869-97; did much ecclesiastical, domestic, and collegiate architecture in Oxford, Cambridge, and London; in later life joined Church of Rome; joint author of 'The Domestic Architecture of England during the Tudor Period,' 1908.

GARNETT, RICHARD (1858-1906), man of letters and keeper of printed books in the British Museum; elder son of Richard Garnett (q.v.); privately educated; early developed linguistic and literary aptitudes; entered British Museum library, 1887, and won favour of Sir Anthony Panizzi (q.v.); assistant keeper of printed books and superintendent of the reading room, 1878-90; superintended printing of catalogue; keeper of printed books, 1890-9; his chief acquisitions noticed in 'A Description of 300 Notable Books,' privately printed, 1899; president of Library Association, 1892-3; engaged through life in literary work, poetic, critical, and biographical; his most important publications were hitherto unpublished 'Relics of Shelley,' 1862, and 'The Twilight of the Gods' (1888, new edit. 1903), apologies of pleasantly cynical flavour in Lucian's vein; other writings include 'To in Egypt and other Poems,' 1859 (new edit. 1893); brief biographies of Milton and Carlyle, 1877, Emerson, 1888, Edward Gibbon Wakefield, 1898, and a 'History of Italian Literature,' 1897; a contributor to this Dictionary; hon. LL.D. Edinburgh, 1883; O.B., 1895.

GARRAN (formerly GAMMAN), ANDREW (1825-1901), Australian journalist and politician; B.A. London, 1845; M.A., 1848; migrated to Adelaide, 1851; assistant editor (1856) and editor (1873-85) of 'Sydney Morning Herald'; member of legislative council of New South Wales, 1887; president of royal commission on strikes, 1890, whose report led to Trades Disputes Conciliation Act, 1892; president of arbitration council, 1892; vice-president of executive council, 1895-8; edited 'Picturesque Atlas of Australasia,' 1886.

GARRETT, FYDELL EDMUND (1865-1907), publicist; B.A., Trinity College, Cambridge, 1887; president of Union, 1887; joined staff of 'Pall Mall Gazette'; sent for phthisis cure to South Africa, 1889; intimate with Cecil Rhodes and President Kruger; described experiences in 'In Afrikanerland,' 1891; returned to London, writing for 'Pall Mall' and 'Westminster' gazettes, 1891-5; translated Thoen's 'Brand,' 1894; as editor of 'Cape Times,' 1895-1900, he influenced public affairs in South Africa; member of Cape parliament, 1898-1902; advocated united autonomous South Africa; settled in Devonshire, 1904; wrote also 'The Story of an African Crisis,' 1897; 'Life' by E. T. Cook, 1909.

GARRETT ANDERSON, ELIZABETH (1836-1917), physician. [See ANDERSON.]

GARBOD, SIR ALFRED BARING (1819-1907), physician; studied medicine at University College Hospital; M.D., 1843; physician and professor of therapeutics at University College Hospital, 1851-63, and at King's College Hospital, 1863-74; F.R.C.P., 1856; Guistonian lecturer, 1857; Lumsian lecturer, 1883; F.R.S., 1858; knighted, 1887; made valuable researches into gout; wrote 'Treatise on Gout and Rheumatic Gout,' 1859.

GARSTIN, SIR WILLIAM EDMUND (1849-1926), engineer; born in India; entered Indian public works department, 1873; joined group of Indian engineers appointed to reorganize irrigation system of Egypt, 1885; inspector-general of irrigation, Egypt, 1892; under-secretary of state in ministry of public works, 1892; his notable system of water storage and control comprised construction of great dam at Aswan and barrages at Assiut, Eana, and Zifta; after freeing of Sudan from Dervish rule (1898) cleared Bahr el Jebel and Bahr el Ghazal from 'sudd'; responsible for formation of Sudan irrigation service; supervised care of buildings and antiquities of Egypt; adviser to public works department, 1905-8; K.O.M.G., 1897; earned profound gratitude of Egyptian people for his irrigation work.

GARTER, SIR RICHARD (1820-1908), chief justice of Bengal, 1875-86; educated at Eton and Christ Church, Oxford; in university cricket XI, 1839-45; called to bar, 1847; Q.C., 1846; conservative M.P. for Guildford, 1866-8; knighted, 1878; able judge but partisan controversialist; opposed to Bengal tenancy bill; promoted Legal Practitioners Act, 1879; P.C., 1888; supported Indian National Congress in 'A Few Plain Truths about India,' 1888.

GARNHAM, SIR ALFRED (1844-1918), general; joined army, 1863; served chiefly in Indian wars and expeditions, 1868-1900; C.B., 1891; K.C.B., 1899; commanded British expeditionary force for relief of legations in Peking, 1900; full general, 1906; commanded Northern army in India, 1907-8; G.O.B., 1909.

GASKELL, WALTER HOLBROOK (1847-1914), physiologist; born at Naples; B.A., Trinity College, Cambridge, 1868 (with wrangles), 1869; studied physiology at Leipzig, 1874-8; M.D., Cambridge, 1878; F.R.S., 1882; university lecturer in physiology, 1888; fellow of Trinity Hall, 1889; his physiological researches revolutionised current ideas of action of the heart, and of cardiac disease; aroused great controversy by his theory of the origin of vertebrates.

GAUQUET, FRANCIS NEIL (in religion DOM AIDAN) (1846-1939), cardinal and historian; entered Benedictine novitiate at Downside priory, 1866; master at Downside school, 1870; priest, 1874; prior, 1878-85; his priorship turning-point in history of Downside; resigned owing to ill health; engaged in historical research; his publications include 'Henry VIII and the English Monasteries' (1888-9); chairman of papal commission for reorganization of English Benedictine Congregation, 1899; president of papal commission for revising text of Vulgate, 1907; cardinal-deacon, 1914; successfully countered propaganda of Central Powers; prefect of archives of Holy See, 1917; librarian of Holy Roman Church, 1919; cardinal priest, 1924; died in Rome.

GATACRE, SIR WILLIAM FORBES (1843-1906), major-general; joined 77th foot in Bengal, 1862; instructor in surveying at Sandhurst, 1875-9; commanded regiment at Secunderabad, 1884; in command of Bombay district, 1894-7, and 3rd brigade of relief force in Chitral expedition, 1895; O.B.; received Kaiser-i-Hind gold medal for services in Bombay plague, 1897; commanded brigade in advance up Nile for recovery of Khartoum; major-general and K.O.B.; known as 'General Backacher', 1898; in Boer war he defended railway from East London to Bethulie, 1899; was forced to retreat at Stormberg (December); joined main army at Bloemfontein, March 1900; occupied Dewetdorp and sent detachment on to Reddersburg; detachment surrounded and surrendered owing to Gatacre's failure to relieve it (April); removed from command; commanded eastern district at Colchester, 1900-3; explored rubber forests in Abyssinia, 1905; died of fever at Iddeni; 'Life' by widow, 1910.

GATHORNE-HARDY, GATHORNE, first EARL OF CRANBROOK (1814-1906), statesman; educated at Eton and Oriel College, Oxford; B.A., 1836; M.A., 1861; hon. fellow, 1894; called to bar, 1840; obtained lead on sessions and at parliamentary bar; conservative M.P. for Leominster, 1856-65; under-secretary for home department, 1868-9; active champion of Church of England; defeated Gladstone in parliamentary election for Oxford University, 1865; president of the poor law board and P.C., 1866; introduced poor law amendment bill, 1867; home secretary after Hyde Park riots, May 1867-8; dealt firmly with Fenian conspirators; in opposition warmly attacked Irish Church disestablishment bill, 1869; secretary of state for war under Disraeli, 1874-8; opposed public worship regulation bill, 1874; introduced regimental exchanges bill, 1875; supported Disraeli's pro-Turkish policy; succeeded Lord Salisbury as secretary for India, 1878; raised to peerage as Viscount Cranbrook, 1878; sanctioned Vernacular Press Act of 1878; supported Lord Lytton's forward policy on North-West frontier; justified coercion of Amir Sher Ali; approved separation of Kandahar from Kabul, 1880; G.C.S.I., 1880; sat on royal commission on cathedral churches, 1878-85; lord president of the council, 1886-92; created earl, 1892; denounced Gladstone's home rule bill, 1893; hon. D.O.L. Oxford, 1886; hon. LL.D. Cambridge, 1892; good debater and platform speaker; ardent sportsman and broad churchman; memoir by son, 1910.

GATT, ALFRED (1813-1903), vicar of Ecclesfield and author; B.A., Exeter College, Oxford, 1836; M.A., 1839; D.D., 1860; vicar of Ecclesfield from 1839 till death; sub-dean of York Minster, 1867; published 'The Bell: its Origin and History', 1867; 'Sheffield Past and Present', 1878, verse, biographies, and sermons.

GAZE, SAMUEL JONES (1839-1911), physician; studied medicine at University College, London; M.B., 1861; M.D., 1868; F.R.C.P., 1870; physician and lecturer at St. Bartholomew's Hospital from 1868 to death; Guelstonian (1871), Bradshaw (1892), and Lumsian (1899) lectures at Royal College of Physicians; had wide knowledge of early medical literature; published 'Auscultation and Percussion', 1870, 'Medical Lectures and Aphorisms', 1902.

GEIKIE, SIR ACHILDALE (1835-1924), geologist; educated at Edinburgh High School and University; joined Scottish branch of Geological Survey, 1855; director in Scotland, 1867; director-general for Great Britain, 1882; retired, 1901; Murchison professor of geology and mineralogy, Edinburgh, 1871-81; F.R.S., 1865; knighted, 1891; K.C.B., 1907; O.M., 1913; his greatest contributions to geological science concerned with past volcanic history of Great Britain; furthered study of Scottish glacial deposits; works include 'History of Volcanic Action during the Tertiary Period in Britain' (1888) and 'Ancient Volcanoes of Great Britain' (1897).

GEIKIE, JOHN CUNNINGHAM (1824-1906), religious writer; presbyterian minister in Canada and in England, 1848-78; hon. LL.D. Edinburgh, 1891; awarded civil list pension, 1898; works include 'Life and Words of Christ', 2 vols. 1877, and 'Hours with the Bible', 10 vols. 1881-4.

GELL, SIR JAMES (1823-1905), Manx lawyer and judge; admitted to Manx bar, 1845; edited for government Manx statute laws (1836-48); attorney-general, 1866-68; first deemster, 1898; clerk of the Rolls, 1900-5; deputy-governor, 1897-1902; knighted, 1877; C.V.O., 1902.

GEORGE WILLIAM FREDERICK CHARLES, second DUKE OF CAMBRIDGE, EARL OF TIPPERARY AND BARON CULLODEN (1819-1904), field-marshal and commander-in-chief of the army; only son of Adolphus Frederick, first duke [q.v.]; born at Hanover; sent to England, 1830; G.C.H., 1835; K.G., 1835; served in Hanoverian army, 1836; settled in England on Queen Victoria's accession, 1837; contracted a morganatic marriage, 1840; made brevet-colonel; commanded 17th lancers at disturbances at Leeds, 1842; commanded troops at Corfu, 1843-5; G.C.M.G. and major-general, 1845; commanded Dublin district, 1847-52; succeeded to dukedom, 1850; K.P., 1851; commanded a division in Crimea, 1854; present at Alma and Inkermann; G.C.B., 1855; succeeded Lord Hardinge [q.v.] as general commanding in chief, 1856; general and P.C., 1856; colonel of artillery and engineers, 1861; president of National Rifle Association, 1859; helped to found Staff College; field-marshal, 1862; as general commanding in chief he was subordinated to war minister by War Office Act of 1870; opposed such innovations as short service, formation of army reserve, and linking of battalions; commander-in-chief with sole control of supply, 1887; difficulties with secretary for war led to inquiry into naval and military administration (1888-90), and to his enforced resignation, 1895; as chief personal A.D.C. to Queen Victoria he undertook for her many social duties; opened London international exhibition, 1862; president of Christ's Hospital and London Hospital for over fifty years; ranger of Hyde Park, 1862, and of Richmond Park, 1857; K.T., 1881; elder brother of Trinity House, 1835; received freedom of City of London, 1857; paid last visit to Germany, 1903; statues at Whitehall and at Christ's Hospital, Horsham; portraits by Lucas, Holl, Cope, and Herkomer; Lives by Willoughby G. Verner and J. E. Sheppard.

GEORGE, SIR ERNEST (1839-1923), architect; attached to London architect; joined Royal Academy Schools and won gold medal for architecture, 1859; in partnership with Harold Peto (until 1893), obtained countless commissions for elaborate domestic architecture which he executed in Tudor and Jacobean styles; office became fashionable training-ground for young architects; 'discovered' Netherlands for nineteenth century; skilfully adapted details of Flemish and Dutch work of early Renaissance for use in London; his practice of large scale domestic architecture ruined by liberal legislation from 1906 onwards; retired, 1920; knighted, 1911; R.A., 1917.

GEORGE, HERFORD BROOKE (1838-1910), historical writer; B.A., New College, Oxford, 1860; M.A., 1862; tutor, 1867-91; pioneer of military history at Oxford; published 'Battles of English History', 1896, 'Napoleon's Invasion of Russia', 1899, 'New College, 1856-1906', 1906; made first ascent of Gross Viescherhorn, 1863; edited 'Alpine Journal', 1863-7; published 'The Oberland and its Glaciers', 1866; lost fortune by failure of West of England and South Wales Bank, at Bristol, 1880.

GERARD, (JANE) EMILY (1846-1905), novelist; sister of Sir Montagu Gilbert Gerard [q.v.]; married Chevalier Mielas de Lasowski, 1869; lived in Galicia; with sister Dorothea collaborated in four novels; wrote independently six novels, including 'The Voice of a Flower', 1893.

GERARD, SIR MONTAGU GILBERT (1842-1905), general; of Catholic parentage; joined army, 1864; served in second Afghan war, 1878-80; present at Kassassin and Tel-el-Kehir and C.B. 1883; sent on secret mission to Persia, 1881 and 1885; British military attaché at St. Petersburg, 1899; negotiated in Pamira boundary dispute, 1895; commanded first-class district, Bengal, 1899; K.O.S.I., 1897; K.C.B., 1902; general, 1904; chief British attaché in Manchuria in Russo-Japanese war, 1904; died at Irkutsk on way home; published 'Diaries of a Soldier and a Sportsman', 1903.

GIBB, EILAS JOHN WILKINSON (1857-1901), Orientalist; educated at Glasgow University; early studied Arabic, Persian, and Turkish languages and literatures; translated Ottoman prose and verse, 1879-1884; published a detailed 'History of Ottoman Poetry', vol. i, 1900 (vols. ii-vi edited by E. G. Browne after Gibb's death, 1902-9); fine Oriental library divided among British Museum, Cambridge University, and British Embassy at Constantinople.

GIBBINS, HENRY DE BELTGENS (1865-1907), writer on economic history; born in Cape Colony; Cobden prizeman at Oxford, 1890; D.Litt. Dublin, 1896; wrote works on industrial and commercial history; edited Methuen's 'Social Questions of the Day' series, 1891.

GIBBS, HENRY HUCKES, first BARON ALDENHAM (1819-1907), merchant and scholar; M.A., Exeter College, 1844; joined family firm of bankers, 1843; head of firm, 1875; director of Bank of England, 1853-1901; governor, 1875-7; wrote many pamphlets advocating bimetallism; published 'A Colloquy on Currency', 1893; helped to found 'St. James's Gazette', 1880; conservative M.P. for City of London, 1891-2; served on royal commission on Stock Exchange, 1877-8; raised to peerage, 1896; benefactor to Keble College, Oxford; leading member of English Church Union from 1862; bought advowson of and restored church at Aldenham; helped to restore St. Albans Abbey; fond of shooting, he lost right hand in gun accident, 1864; helped in preparation of 'New English Dictionary'; edited works for Early English Text Society and Roxburgh Club; Spanish scholar and bibliophile; trustee of National Portrait Gallery; F.S.A., 1855.

GIBSON, EDWARD, first BARON ASHBOURNE, of Ashbourne, co. Meath (1837-1915), lord chancellor of Ireland; B.A., Trinity College, Dublin; called to Irish bar, 1860; Q.C., 1872; conservative M.P. Dublin University, 1875; Irish attorney-general, 1877-80; peer, 1886; lord chancellor of Ireland with seat in Cabinet, 1886, 1888-92, 1895-1906.

GIFFARD, HARDINGE STANLEY, first EARL OF HALIBURY (1823-1921), lord chancellor; son of Stanley Lees Giffard [q. v.]; B.A., Merton College, Oxford; called to bar (Inner Temple), 1850; joined South Wales circuit, 1851; practised at Old Bailey and at Middlesex sessions at Clerkenwell; junior prosecuting counsel at Central Criminal Court, 1859; Q.C., 1865; leading counsel for Governor E. J. Eyre [q. v.], 1867-8; second counsel for Tichborne claimant, Arthur Orton [q. v.], 1871-2; solicitor general and knighted, 1875; led for Crown in 'Franconia' case, 1876; conservative M.P., Lancashire, 1877; took active part in parliament and law courts over case of Charles Bradlaugh [q. v.]; greatest forensic triumph, case of Belt v. Laws, 1882; lord chancellor, 1885-6, 1888-92, 1895-1906; created baron, 1886; earl, 1898; largely responsible for Land Transfer Act (1897) and Criminal Evidence Act (1898); presided over production of complete digest of 'Laws of England' (1905-16); led 'die-hards' among peers against Parliament Bill, 1911.

GIFFENS, SIR ROBERT (1837-1910), economist and statistician; apprenticed to lawyer in Glasgow; took up journalism, 1860; sub-editor of 'Globe', 1862-6; assistant editor of 'Economist', 1868-78; chief of statistical department to board of trade, 1876-97; the commercial (1869) and the labour (1892) departments were subsequently included in his control; served on many royal commissions; edited 'Journal of Royal Statistical Society', 1876-91; helped to found Economic Society, 1890; criticised Gladstone's home rule finance, 1893; liberal unionist from 1886, and finally unionist free trader; K.C.B., 1899; strong individualist; advocated 'free banking'; voluminous writings include 'Money in Finance', 2 series, 1880-4, 'The Case against Bimetallism', 1892, and 'Economic Enquiries and Studies', 2 vols. 1904.

GIFFORD, EDWIN HAMILTON (1820-1906), schoolmaster and theologian; B.A., St. John's College, Cambridge (senior classic and 15th wrangler), 1845; fellow, 1848-4; hon. fellow, 1903; headmaster of King Edward's School, Birmingham, 1848-62; archdeacon of London and canon of St. Paul's, 1883; wrote 'Voices of the Past', 1874, and edited with translation Eusebius's 'Praeparatio Evangelica', 5 vols. 1903.

GIGLIUCCI, COUNTESS (1818-1908), oratorio and operatic prima donna. [See NOVELLO, CLARA ANASTASIA.]

GILBERT, SIR JOSEPH HENRY (1817-1901), agricultural chemist; son of Joseph Gilbert [q. v.] and Ann Gilbert [q. v.]; studied agricultural chemistry at Glasgow, London, and at Giessen under Liebig; co-worker with John Bennet Lawes [q. v.] in Rothamsted agricultural experiments; president of Chemical Society, 1882-3; F.R.S., 1860; professor of rural economy at Oxford, 1884-90; knighted, 1893.

GILBERT, SIR WILLIAM SCHWENCK (1836-1911), dramatist; son of William Gilbert (1804-1890, q. v.); used his own pet name 'Bab' as pseudonym in later life; B.A. London, 1857; joined militia, 1857; retired as major, 1883; clerk in privy council office (education department), 1857-61; called to bar, 1863; commenced author and artist as regular contributor to 'Fun' from 1861; illustrated books by father, 1863 and 1869; his 'Yarn of the Nancy Bell' refused by 'Punch' as 'too cannibalistic', 1868; this and other 'Bab' ballads appeared in 'Fun' from 1866 to 1871 and were published in volume form as 'Bab Ballads', 1869, and 'More Bab Ballads', 1873; commenced playwright with 'Dulcamara', a successful burlesque, 1866; wrote many other extravaganzas; collaborated with Frederick Clay [q. v.] in musical sketches for the German Reeds, 1869-73; introduced by Clay to Arthur Sullivan, 1871; first collaborated with Sullivan in a burlesque, 'Thespia', 1871; wrote blank verse fairy comedy, 'The Palace of Truth', 1870, 'Pygmalion and Galatea', 1871, 'The Wicked World', 1873; wrote series of comedies (some under pseudonym of F. L. Tomline) for Miss Marie Litton at Court Theatre; 'The Happy Land', 1873, roused much enthusiasm and public excitement; produced also serious plays, including 'Charity', 1874, 'Broken Hearts', 1875, and 'Dan'l Druce', 1876; collaborated with Sullivan for D'Oyly Carte's opera company in long series of comic operas, viz. 'Trial by Jury', 1875, 'The Sorcerer', 1877, 'H.M.S. Pinafore', 1878, 'The Pirates of Penzance' (produced in New York), 1879, 'Patience', 1881; operas transferred to Savoy Theatre, 1881; later 'Savoy' operas were 'Iolanthe', 1882, 'Princess Ida', 1884, 'The Mikado', 1885—the most popular work—'Ruddiger', 1887, 'The Yeomen of the Guard', 1888, 'The Gondoliers', 1889; separated from Sullivan and Carte owing to financial disagreement, 1890-3; collaborated with Alfred Cellier in 'The Mountbancs', 1892; resumed collaboration with Sullivan in 'Utopia, Limited', 1893, and 'The Grand Duke', 1896; produced 'Fallen Fairies' with Edward German, 1900, and 'The Hooligan', a serious sketch, 1911; built and owned Garrick Theatre, 1889; interested in astronomy, bee-keeping, and horticulture; knighted, 1907; plays show literary grace, whimsical humour (known as 'Gilbertian' humour), urbane satire, good taste, and lyric excellence; master of stage management; fond of epigram and repartee; a kindly cynic; dramatic works collected in 'Original Plays', 4 series, 1876-1911 and in 'Original Comic Operas', 6 parts, 1890.

GILL, SIR DAVID (1843-1914), astronomer; educated at Dollar Academy, Marischal College, and the University, Aberdeen; established in Aberdeen time service similar to that installed in Edinburgh by Charles Piazzi Smyth [q. v.], 1863; in charge of private observatory erected at Duncuth by Lord Lindsay (afterwards twenty-sixth Earl of Crawford, q. v.), 1873-8; took part in observations of transit of Venus at Mauritius, 1874; chief result of expedition revelation of possibilities of heliometer for astronomical measurements; made successful expedition to island of Ascension in order to measure with heliometer distance of Mars from earth and thence derive sun's distance, 1877; H.M. astronomer at Cape of Good Hope, 1879-1907; obtained larger heliometer with which he redetermined sun's distance and determined mass of Jupiter; pioneer in application of photography to astronomy, and carried out photographic survey of Southern heavens, 1885-98; organised geodetic survey of South Africa; K.C.B., 1900.

GILLIES, DUNCAN (1834-1903), premier of Victoria; emigrated from Glasgow to Ballarat goldfields, 1853; led miners in resistance to government, 1865-4; member of Ballarat mining boards, 1868; member of legislative assembly, 1869; president of board of land and works, 1869; commissioner of railways and roads, 1872-5; minister of agriculture, 1876-7; commissioner of railways in Service government, 1880, and in Service-Berry coalition, 1889-9; premier and treasurer, 1889-90; extended revenue, expenditure, and railways; passed Irrigation Act, 1886; supported Australian federation; agent-general for Victoria in London, 1894-7; speaker of Victoria house of assembly, 1902-3.

GILSON, JULIUS PARNELL (1868-1929), palaeographer and scholar; B.A., Trinity College, Cambridge; assistant, department of manuscripts, British Museum, 1894; assistant keeper, 1909; keeper and Egerton Librarian, 1911; largest work 'A Catalogue of Western Manuscripts in the Old Royal and King's Collection' (with Sir G. Warner, 1921).

GINSBURG, CHRISTIAN DAVID (1831-1914), Old Testament scholar; born at Warsaw of Jewish parentage; educated at Rabbinic school at Warsaw; became Christian, c. 1847; came to England; naturalized, 1858; original member of Old Testament revision company, 1870; published first volume of his principal work, edition of 'The Massorah', 1880.

GIBBOUD, DESIRÉ (1836-1911), Canadian judge; born in Quebec province; D.C.L. McGill University, 1874; called to bar of Lower Canada, 1860; Q.C., 1880; published treatise on bills of exchange, 1860; conservative M.P. for Jacques Cartier constituency, 1878-85; opposed execution of Louis Riel [q.v.], 1886; judge of the supreme court of Canada, 1895-1911.

GISING, GEORGE ROBERT (1857-1903), novelist; left Owens College, Manchester, in disgrace for America, where he wandered penniless until 1877; studied literature and philosophy at Jena; returned to England, 1878; published 'Workers in the Dawn', 1880; found an appreciative reader in Mr. Frederic Harrison, to whose sons he became tutor, 1882; gained precarious livelihood by occasional journalism; published 'The Unclaimed', 1884, 'Demos', 1886, and other novels illustrating degrading effects of poverty on character; visited Naples, Rome, and Athens; published 'A Life's Morning', 1888, 'The Nether World', 1889, 'The Emancipated', 1890, 'New Grub Street', 1891, 'Born in Exile', 1892, and 'The Odd Women', 1893; revisited Italy with Mr. H. G. Wells, 1897, recording some experiences and impressions in 'By the Ionian Sea', 1901; in Rome he found material for historical romance 'Veranilda' (published posthumously, 1907); on return to England wrote 'The Town Traveller', 1898, and 'Our Friend the Charlatan', 1901; died of pneumonia at St. Jean de Luz; other works include critical study of 'Charles Dickens', 1898, 'The Private Papers of Henry Ryecroft', 1903, and 'The House of Cobwebs', 1906.

GLADSTONE, HERBERT JOHN, VISCOUNT GLADSTONE (1854-1930), statesman; youngest son of W. R. Gladstone [q.v.], prime minister; educated at Eton; B.A., University College, Oxford, 1876; liberal M.P., Leeds, 1880-5, West Leeds, 1885-1910; a liberal whip and junior lord of Treasury, 1881-5; financial secretary at War Office, 1886; under-secretary, Home Office, 1893-4; first commissioner of works, 1894-5; chief liberal whip, 1899; preserved complete neutrality within party during Boer War, 1899-1902; secretary of state for home affairs, 1905-10; carried through parliament twenty-two bills, which show growing tendency towards bureaucracy; Court of Criminal Appeal established, 1907; deeply interested in problem of young offenders; instituted Borstal system and children's courts; first governor-general and high commissioner of Union of South Africa, 1910-14; worked in full harmony with General Botha; created viscount, 1910; manifested pious pugnacity on behalf of father's reputation; published 'After Thirty Years' (1928).

GLADSTONE, JOHN HALL (1827-1909), chemist; studied chemistry in London and Gießen; F.R.S., 1853; Fullerian professor of chemistry at Royal Institution, 1874-7; president of Physical (1874) and Chemical (1877-8) societies; hon. D.Sc., Trinity College, Dublin, 1893; made pioneer researches into chemistry in relation to optics; early student of spectroscopy; discovered copper-zinc union for decomposition of water; member of London school board, 1874-84; advocate of technical education, manual instruction, and spelling reform; works include 'Theory and Natural Science', 1867, 'Michael Faraday', 1872, 'Miracles', 1880, and hymns.

GLAISHER, JAMES (1809-1905), astronomer and meteorologist; assistant at Cambridge University observatory, 1833-5, and at Greenwich, 1838-9; chief of magnetic and meteorological department there, 1838-74; improved instruments; published 'Hydro-metrical Tables', 1847; organized voluntary system of precise meteorological observation throughout England, 1847; prepared meteorological reports for registrar-general, 1847-1902; helped to establish daily weather report for 'Daily News', 1849; F.R.S., 1849; secretary of Royal Meteorological Society, 1860-72; defined relations between weather and cholera epidemics and water-supply; made balloon ascents for meteorological observations with Henry Coxwell [q.v.], 1862-4; published observations in 'British Association Reports', 1862-4, and account of his ascents in 'Voyages Aériens', 1869 (translated into English as 'Travels in the Air', 1871); was also interested in astronomy and mathematical science; completed and published 'Factor Tables', 3 vols. 1879-83; on committee of Palestine Exploration Fund; translated Flammarion's 'Atmosphere' and Guillemin's 'World of Comets', 1876.

GLAISHER, JAMES WHITBREAD LEE (1848-1928), mathematician, astronomer, and collector; son of James Glaisher [q.v.]; B.A., Trinity College, Cambridge (second wrangler), 1871; fellow, 1871-1928; lecturer, 1871-1901; member of Council of Royal Astronomical Society, 1874-1928; president, 1886-8, 1901-3; F.R.S., 1876; maintained lifelong connexion with London Mathematical Society; member of council, 1879-1906; president, 1884-6; worked hard on behalf of British Association; published nearly four hundred papers on pure mathematics and astronomy; in middle life took up study of pottery, on which he became recognized authority; bequeathed his collection to Fitzwilliam Museum, Cambridge.

GLAZEBROOK, MICHAEL GEORGE (1853-1926), schoolmaster; B.A., Balliol College, Oxford, 1877; high master of Manchester grammar school, 1888; ordained, 1890; headmaster of Clifton College, where he encouraged music, 1891-1905; canon of Ely, 1905; leader of 'Modern Churchmen' movement; works include, 'Lessons from the Old Testament' (1890), 'The End of the Law' (1911), 'Faith of a Modern Churchman' (1918).

GLEICHEN, LADY FEODORA GEORGINA MAUD (1861-1922), sculptor; daughter of Prince Victor of Hohenlohe-Langenburg [q.v.]; pupil of Alphonse Legros [q.v.]; exhibited regularly at Royal Academy; works include public memorials and portrait busts; first woman member (posthumous) of Royal Society of British Sculptors.

GLENNIE, BABON (1830-1908), proprietor of the 'Morning Post.' (See BORTWICK, ALGERNON.)

GLOAG, PATON JAMES (1823-1906), theological writer; student of Edinburgh and St. Andrews universities; thrice visited Germany (1857-67) and studied German theological literature; Church of Scotland minister of Galaehals, 1871-92; Baird lecturer, 1879; moderator of general assembly, 1889; professor of biblical criticism in Aberdeen University, 1896-9; hon. D.D. St. Andrews, 1887, and LL.D. Aberdeen, 1899; wrote much on New Testament exegesis; 'Life' by widow, 1908.

GLOAG, WILLIAM ELLIS, LORD KINCARDINE (1828-1909), Scottish judge; called to Scottish bar, 1853; advocate depute, 1874; sheriff of Perthshire, 1885; raised to bench as Lord Kincardine, 1888.

GODFREY, DANIEL (1831-1903), bandmaster of grenadier guards, 1856-96; composed famous 'Guards' waltz, 1863, and much popular military music; toured with band in America, 1876; promoted second lieutenant, 1887.

GODKIN, EDWIN LAWRENCE (1831-1903), editor and author; son of James Godkin [q.v.]; B.A. London, 1851; left law for authorship; published 'The History of Hungary', 1853; 'Daily News' correspondent in Crimea; settled in United States, 1856; called to New York bar, 1858; supported North in civil war, 1862; edited New York 'Nation', which by its independence and literary power influenced American public opinion, 1865-99; the paper was recognized organ of independent 'Mugwump', 1884-94; Godkin denounced system of Tammany Hall and caused defeat of Tammany, 1894; opposed American annexation of Hawaii and Philippines; high tariffs and bimetallicism; revisited England, 1889; his philosophical radical views expounded in 'Reflections and Comments', 1896, 'Problems of Modern Democracy', 1896, and 'Unforeseen Tendencies of Democracy', 1897; hon. D.C.L. Oxford, 1897; Godkin memorial lectures on citizenship founded at Harvard University; memoirs by James Bryce, 1903, and E. Ogden, 1907.

GODKIN, SIR RICHMAN JOHN, BARONET (1848-1935), surgeon; nephew of Lord Lister [q.v.]; studied medicine at London University; M.B., 1872; M.S., 1873; assistant surgeon, University College Hospital, 1877; full surgeon, 1886; professor of clinical surgery, 1893; Hoimes professor of clinical surgery, 1900; emeritus professor, 1914; performed first operation for removal of tumour from the brain, 1884; stimulated development of thoracic surgery; F.R.C.S., 1878; president, Royal Society of Medicine, 1916-18; baronet, 1913; K.C.V.O., 1914; works include, 'Atlas of Human Anatomy' (1890) and 'Lives of Lister (of whom he had intimate personal knowledge, 1917).

GODLEY, ALFRED DENIS (1856-1926), classical scholar and man of letters; B.A., Balliol College, Oxford, 1878; tutor and fellow of Magdalen College, 1883-1919; public orator, 1910-25; writer of light humorous or satiric verse and prose; commentator on and translator of Herodotus, Tacitus, and Horace; 'an almost perfect writer of elegant Latin' in his Greekian orations.

GODWIN, GEORGE NELSON (1846-1907), Hampshire antiquary; chaplain of the forces, 1877-90; antiquary and historian of Hampshire and neighbouring counties; published 'Civil War in Hampshire, 1642-5', 1893; 'Bibliotheca Hantoniensis', 1891, and other works.

GODWIN-AUSTEN, HENRY HAVERSHAM (1834-1933), explorer and geologist; son of R.A.C. Godwin-Austen (q.v.); educated at Royal Military Academy, Sandhurst; joined 24th Foot, 1851; served in second Burmese War, 1852; attached to Great Trigonometrical Survey of India to assist with first survey of Kashmir, 1856; permanent topographical assistant to survey, 1860; discovered and surveyed great Karakoram glaciers etc., 1861; served on political mission of (Sir) Ashley Eden (q.v.) to Bhutan in Eastern Himalaya, 1863; explored Naga hills, 1873-4; accompanied first Dada expedition, 1875; carried out important geological investigations; retired, owing to ill health, 1877; F.R.S., 1880.

GOLDIE, SIR GEORGE DASHWOOD TAUBMAN (1846-1925), founder of Nigeria; commissioned in Royal Engineers, 1866-7; first visited West Africa, 1877; discovered some British firms in Niger delta engaged in competition and not attempting to open up trade with rich interior; formed United African Company, 1879; launched National African Company, 1881; French companies, which shortly appeared on scene, amalgamated with it, 1884; situation further complicated by summoning of West African Conference in Berlin, 1884-5; race between England, France, and Germany for Africa inaugurated; secured grant of royal charter to company under title of Royal Niger Company Chartered and Limited, which remained trading company while charged with administrative duties, 1886; appointed political administrator and deputy-governor; governor, 1895; concluded numerous treaties with native rulers of interior; secured end of struggle with Germany (1893) and France (1898) and final definition of respective spheres; although British sphere smaller than originally projected, secured half a million square miles of most fertile, highly mineralized, and thickly populated portion of West Africa; territory known as Nigeria, 1897; carried out successful campaigns against slave-raiding Mohammedan states of Nupé and Ilorin, 1897; legal status of slavery thereupon abolished in Company's territory; Company's charter surrendered to British Crown, 1900; K.C.M.G., 1887; F.R.S., 1902.

GOLDSCHMIDT, OTTO (1829-1907), pianist and composer; born of Jewish parents at Hamburg; studied pianoforte at Leipzig under Mendelssohn, who greatly influenced him; in London, 1848; toured in America with Jenny Lind, 1851; married her, 1852; settled in England, 1856; pianoforte professor at Royal Academy of Music, 1863; vice-principal, 1866-8; produced 'Ruth' at Hereford musical festival, 1867; became conductor of newly founded 'Bach choir', 1876; composed 'Music, an Ode', 1898, and works for pianoforte.

GOLDSMID, SIR FREDERICK JOHN (1818-1908), major-general; born at Milan; joined 37th Madras native infantry, 1839; served in China (1840), in Crimea, and in Indian Mutiny; arranged for telegraph construction along coast of Gwadar, 1861; superintended carrying of wires from Europe across Persia to India, 1864; director-general of Indo-European telegraph; negotiated Anglo-Persian telegraph treaty, 1865; C.B., 1866; constructed telegraph line across whole of Persia; described the experience in 'Travel and Telegraph', 1874; commissioner for delimitation of Persian and Baluchistan boundary, 1871; investigated Persian and Afghan claims to Sistan; recorded proceedings in 'Eastern Persia, 1870-2', 2 vols. 1878; K.C.S.I., 1871; controller of crown lands in Egypt, 1880-3; organised intelligence department in campaign of 1882; established administrative system in Congo, 1883; published 'Life of Sir James Outram', 2 vols. 1880; accomplished Oriental linguist; vice-president of Royal Asiatic Society, 1890-1908.

GOLLANCZ, SIR HERMANN (1852-1930), rabbi, Semitic scholar; born at Bremen; brother of Sir Israel Gollancz (q.v.); B.A., University College, London, 1873; preacher at various synagogues in London, Manchester, and Dalston, 1876-92; first minister at Baywater Synagogue, Harrow Road, 1892-1923; obtained rabbinic degree in Galicia, which caused great controversy, 1897; his degree finally recognized and the requirements for obtaining rabbinical diploma in Great Britain defined; Goldsmid professor of Hebrew, University College, London, 1902-23; knighted, 1923; undertook much public work outside interests of Jewish community.

GOLLANCZ, SIR ISRAEL (1864-1930), scholar and man of letters; brother of Sir Hermann Gollancz (q.v.); B.A., Christ's College, Cambridge, 1887; lecturer in English at Cambridge, 1896-1908; professor of English language and literature, King's College, London, 1908-30; a founder, original fellow, and secretary of British Academy, 1901-30; knighted, 1919; in the first rank as English and Shakespearian scholar; published many learned works.

GOODALL, FREDERICK (1822-1904), artist; taught by father, Edward Goodall (q.v.); exhibited at Royal Academy, 1839-1902; A.R.A., 1852; R.A., 1862; early works show influence of Wilkie, e.g. 'The Tired Soldier', 1842, and 'The Village Holiday', 1847; visits to Egypt (1858-9 and 1870) determined subject of later pictures, as 'The Nubian Slave', 1864, 'The Flight into Egypt', 1884, 'Sheep Shearing in Egypt', 1892; also painted English landscape and portraits; showed technical ability but little inspiration; published gossiping 'Reminiscences', 1902.

GOODMAN, JULIA (1812-1906), portrait painter; born SALAMAN; exhibited at Royal Academy, 1838-1901; painted over 1,000 portraits in oils or pastels.

GORDON, ARTHUR CHARLES HAMILTON, first BARON STANMORE (1829-1912), colonial governor; son of fourth Earl of Aberdeen (q.v.); M.A., Trinity College, Cambridge; lieutenant-governor of New Brunswick, 1861; governor of Trinidad, 1866-70; Mauritius, 1871-4; Fiji, 1875-80; New Zealand, 1880-6; Ceylon, 1883-90; K.C.M.G., 1871; G.C.M.G., 1878; created baron, 1893.

GORDON, JAMES FREDERICK SKINNER (1821-1904), Scottish antiquary; M.A. St. Andrews, 1842; in charge of St. Andrew's Episcopal church, Glasgow, 1844-90; pioneer in abolition of ruinous tenements in Glasgow; published 'The Ecclesiastical Chronicle for Scotland', 4 vols. 1867; 'A History of Glasgow', 1872, and topographical works; enthusiastic freemason.

GORDON, SIR JOHN JAMES HOOD (1832-1908), general; entered army, 1849; served in Indian Mutiny and Afridi expedition, 1877-8; prominent in Afghan war, 1878-9; C.B., 1879; commanded troops in expeditions to Karmana and against Malikshahi Waziris, 1880, and in Mahsud Waziris expedition, 1881; commanded brigade in Burmese expedition, 1886-7; assistant military secretary at head-quarters, 1890-6; general, 1894; member of Indian Council, 1897-1907; K.C.B., 1898; G.C.B., 1908; published history of Sikhs, 1904.

GORDON, SIR THOMAS EDWARD (1832-1914), general; joined army, 1849; served in Indian Mutiny, 1857-9, and Afghan war, 1870-80; C.B., 1881; attached to legation at Teheran, 1889-93; full general, 1894; K.C.B., 1900.

GORDON-LEMMOX, CHARLES HENRY, sixth DUKE OF RICHMOND and first DUKE OF GORDON (1818-1908), lord president of the council; son of fifth Duke of Richmond (q.v.); A.D.C. to Duke of Wellington, 1842-53; conservative M.P. for West Sussex, 1841-60; president of poor law board and P.C., 1859; succeeded father, 1860; K.G., 1867; president of board of trade, 1867-9; leader of conservative party in House of Lords, 1868; lord president of council, 1874-80; introduced the agricultural holdings (1875) and elementary schools (1876) bills; created first Duke of Gordon, 1876; carried contagious diseases (animals) bill, 1877; reorganised veterinary department of privy council; chairman of royal commission on agriculture (1879-83), whose report led to Agricultural Holdings Act, 1883, and creation of board of agriculture, a mediator between liberal government and House of Lords in franchise bill crisis of 1884; secretary for Scotland, 1885-6; chancellor of Aberdeen University, 1861; hon. LL.D., 1895; D.O.L. Oxford, 1870; LL.D. Cambridge, 1894; member (1858) and president (1868 and 1869) of Royal Agricultural Society; improved famous Southdown sheep at Goodwood, and shorthorns at Gordon castle.

GOSE, ALBERT AUGUSTUS (1840-1901), surgeon-general; M.D., Queen's University, Ireland, 1868; L.R.C.S. Ireland, 1869; served with army medical staff in West Africa (1861), Ashanti war (1872), and Egypt (1882); principal medical officer to forces in India; C.B., 1899; wrote account of his campaigns.

GOSE, GEORGE (1826-1908), electro-chemist; head of Institute of Scientific Research, Birmingham, 1880; discovered amorphous antimony and electrolytic sounds; F.R.S., 1886; improved methods of electro-plating; wrote 'The Art of Electro-metallurgy,' 1877, and philosophic works; hon. LL.D. Edinburgh, 1877; awarded civil list pension, 1891; left estate of 5,000*l.* to Royal Society and Royal Institution.

GORST, JOHN ELLARD (1845-1910), astronomical writer; engineer in Indian works department, 1868-79; published 'Catalogue of Known Variable Stars,' 1884, 'The Worlds of Space,' 1894, and 'The Stellar Heavens,' 1905; F.R.A.S., 1878; member of Royal Irish Academy.

GORELL, first BARON (1848-1913), judge. [See BARNES, JOHN GORELL.]

GORST, SIR JOHN ELDON (1835-1916), lawyer and politician; B.A., St. John's College, Cambridge (third wrangler); went to New Zealand, 1860; returned to England and called to bar, 1865; conservative M.P., borough of Cambridge, 1866; M.P., Chatham, and Q.C., 1875; member of 'fourth party,' 1880-4; solicitor-general and knighted, 1885; under-secretary of state for India, 1886; M.P., Cambridge University, 1892-1906; last vice-president of Committee of Privy Council on Education, 1895-1902; left conservative party.

GORST, SIR [JOHN] ELDON (1861-1911), consul-general in Egypt; son of Sir J. E. Gorst (q.v.); born in New Zealand; called to bar, 1885; attaché to British agency at Cairo, 1886; controller of direct revenues, 1890-2; adviser to ministry of the interior, 1894; financial adviser, 1898-1904; C.B., 1900; K.C.B., 1902; assistant under-secretary of state for foreign office, 1904-7; consul-general in Egypt, 1907-11; promoted municipal and local self-government there; passed law for enlarging powers of provincial councils, 1910; broad-minded administrator, with financial and linguistic ability; G.C.M.G., 1911.

GOSCHEN, GEORGE JOACHIM, first Viscount (1831-1907), statesman; grandson of Georg Joachim Goschen, a Leipzig publisher, and son of a London banker; educated in London and Saxe-Meiningen, at Rugby and Oriel College, Oxford; first class in lit. hum., 1853; president of the Union, 1853; founded 'Essay Club' at Oxford, 1853; entered father's banking firm; in South America on business, 1854-6; director of bank of England, 1858; published 'Theory of the Foreign Exchanges,' 1861, which attracted wide attention; liberal M.P. for City of London, 1863-80; made a good position in House of Commons; joined Lord Russell's ministry as vice-president of board of trade, 1865, and entered the cabinet as chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster, 1866; president of poor law board in Gladstone's first administration, 1868-71; reformed local government system; first lord of the admiralty, 1871-4; his refusal to reduce estimates largely responsible for dissolution of government in 1874; investigated financial position of Egypt at viceroy's invitation, 1876; opposed to his party's plan of equalisation of borough and county franchise, 1877; M.P. for Ripon, 1880-5; declined viceroyalty of India, 1880; went on special embassy to Sultan, to compel Turks to carry out treaty of Berlin as regards Greece, Montenegro, and Bulgaria, 1880-1; refused secretaryship for war, 1882, and speakership of Commons, 1883; opposed to radicalism of Mr. Chamberlain and Dilke; out of sympathy with Gladstone's foreign policy, and Parnell's policy of home rule; elected for East Edinburgh, defeating extreme radical candidate, 1886; joined Lord Hartington in forming liberal unionist party, and helped to defeat Gladstone's home rule bill, 1886; chancellor of exchequer in Lord Salisbury's government, 1886-92; M.P. for St. George's, Hanover Square, 1897-1900; converted national debt from 3 per cent. to $\frac{3}{4}$ per cent. stock, 1888; his firmness prevented financial panic in Baring crisis, 1890; strenuous in opposition to Gladstone's home rule bill of 1893; first lord of the admiralty in Salisbury's third administration, 1895-1900; made vast increases in naval strength and naval estimates; created viscount, 1900; published life of grandfather, 1903, and 'Essays on Economic Questions,' 1905; opposed Mr. Chamberlain's fiscal policy, 1903; showed remarkable consistency of character as statesman; powerful speaker; busy in non-political affairs; ecclesiastical commissioner, 1882; strong supporter of extension of university teaching in London from 1879; hon. D.O.L. Oxford, 1881; hon. LL.D. of Aberdeen and Cambridge, 1888, and Edinburgh, 1890; made chancellor of Oxford University, 1903; portrait by R. Lehmann; 'Life' by A. D. Elliot, 2 vols. 1911.

GOSLING, HARRY (1861-1930), trade-union leader; apprenticed as Thames waterman, 1876; took leading part in struggle to improve working conditions of dock and river labour throughout country; ardent trade-unionist; alderman of London County Council, 1898-1925; labour M.P., Whitechapel and St. George's, 1925-30; minister of transport and paymaster-general, 1925-31.

GOSSE, SIR EDMUND WILLIAM (1848-1925), poet and man of letters; son of P. H. Gosse (q.v.); worked in catalogue section of British Museum, 1866-75; began to study literature, from which he had been debarred by rigid upbringing; first writer to introduce Henrik Ibsen to English public; as writer for reviews earned reputation of sound critic; translator to Board of Trade, attached to commercial department, 1875; Clark lecturer in English literature, Trinity College, Cambridge, 1885-90; attacked for inaccuracy by J. Churton Collins (q.v.), 1886; librarian to House of Lords, 1904-14; contributed weekly literary articles to 'Sunday Times,' 1912-33; knighted, 1925; his numerous volumes of poetry, criticism, and biography include 'Collected Poems' (1911), 'Seventeenth Century Studies' (1883), and 'Father and Son' (1907).

GOSSELIN, SIR MARTIN LE MARCHANT HADSLLEY (1847-1905), diplomatist; secretary of embassy at Brussels, Madrid, Berlin, and Paris, 1885-98; joint British delegate in customs tariffs conferences at Brussels, 1889-90; secretary of international conference for suppression of African slave trade, 1899-90; C.B., 1890; member of commission for delimitation of French and English possessions about river Niger, 1898; K.C.M.G., 1898; British envoy at Lisbon, 1902-5; G.C.V.O., 1904; joined Roman Church, 1878.

GOTT, JOHN (1830-1906), bishop of Truro; M.A., Brasenose College, Oxford, 1854; D.D., 1873; vicar of Leeds, 1873-85; founded Leeds clergy school, 1875; dean of Worcester, 1886; bishop of Truro, 1891-1906; inherited valuable library, which included the four Shakespeare folios; published 'The Parish Priest of the Town,' 1887.

GOUGH, SIR CHARLES JOHN STANLEY (1832-1912), general; born in India; joined army, 1848; V.O. for gallantry during Indian Mutiny; K.C.B. for services in Afghan war, 1881; general, 1891; retired, with G.C.B., 1895.

GOUGH, SIR HUGH HENRY (1833-1909), general; brother of Sir C. J. S. Gough (q.v.); born at Calcutta; joined Bengal army, 1853; served in Indian Mutiny; at siege of Delhi and relief of Cawnpore; won V.C. for gallantry at Alambagh, 1857; conspicuous for bravery at Lucknow, 1858; commanded 13th Bengal cavalry in Abyssinia campaign, 1868; C.B., 1868; commanded cavalry of Kuram field force, 1878-9; brigadier-general of communications with Kabul field force; commanded cavalry brigade in march to Kandahar, 1880; K.C.B., 1881; general, 1894; G.C.B., 1896; keeper of crown jewels in London, 1898; published 'Old Memories,' 1897.

GOUGE, JOHN EDMOND (1871-1915), brigadier-general; son of Sir O. J. S. Gough (q.v.); born in India; joined army, 1899; V.O., 1903; served on Sir Douglas Haig's staff, 1914-15; killed in France; posthumous K.C.B., 1915.

GOUGE-CALTHORPE, AUGUSTUS CHOLMONDLEY, sixth BARON CALTHORPE (1829-1910), agriculturist; educated at Eton and Merton College, Oxford; M.A., 1855; succeeded brother in peerage, 1893; started at Elvetham famous herd of shorthorn cattle, Southdown sheep, and Berkshire pigs; generous donor of land to Birmingham city (1894) and university (1900).

GOULD, SIR FRANCIS CARBUTHERS (1844-1935), cartoonist; drew caricatures for amusement while broker and jobber on Stock Exchange; member of 'Pall Mall Gazette' staff, 1890; of 'Westminster Gazette,' 1893-1914; assistant editor, 1896; a keen radical; knighted, 1906; edited his own paper, 'Picture Politics,' 1894-1914, his political cartoons show wit, wealth of ideas, facility for seizing a likeness, and urbanity; his favourite subject Joseph Chamberlain.

GOULD, NATHANIEL (1857-1919), known as NAT GOULD, novelist; journalist in Australia, 1884-95; first book, 'The Double Event' (1891), great success; wrote about 182 books all concerned with horse-racing.

GOULDING, FREDERICK (1848-1909), master printer of copper plates; 'devil' to Whistler in printing some of his etchings, 1886; friend of Sir F. S. Haden from 1863; printed works by Whistler, Haden, Legros, Rodin, and others; assistant to Legros in etching class at National Art Training School, 1876-82; succeeded Legros, 1883-91; first master printer to Royal Society of Painter Etchers, 1890; 'Life' by Martin Hardie, 1910.

GOWER, (EDWARD) FREDERICK LEVISON- (1819-1907), politician. [See LEVISON-GOWER.]

GOWERS, SIR WILLIAM RICHARD (1848-1915), physician; educated at University College, London; M.B.C.S., 1867; on staff of hospital for paralysed and epileptic, Queen Square, London, 1870, and on that of University College Hospital, 1873; F.R.S., 1887; specialised in neurology; chief work, 'A Manual of Diseases of the Nervous System' (1886).

GRACE, EDWARD MILLS (1841-1911), cricketer; studied medicine at Bristol; M.B.C.S., 1865; practised at Thornbury from 1869 till death; coroner for West Gloucestershire, 1876-1909; played cricket for Gentlemen v. Players between 1863 and 1869; visited Australia with George Parr's team, 1885; with brothers raised Gloucestershire to first-class cricketing county and played for England v. Australia, 1880; unorthodox and forcible batsman; pioneer of 'pull' stroke; unrivalled as fielder at point; played till age of seventy.

GRACE, WILLIAM GILBERT (1848-1915), cricketer; brother of Edward Mills Grace [q.v.]; studied medicine in Bristol and London; M.B.C.S., 1879; surgeon in Bristol, 1879-99; played cricket for Gentlemen v. Players between 1865 and 1906; supreme as batsman in England, 1866-76; long series of extraordinary scores reached its zenith in 1876 with 400, not out; with brothers started, and made first-class, Gloucestershire county eleven, 1870; visited Australia, 1873 and 1891; played for England v. Australia, 1880 and 1883; presented with 5,000*l.* by 'Daily Telegraph' fund, 1896; in 43 years' career made 126 centuries, scored 54,896 runs, and took 2,876 wickets; first-rate as bowler and fielder as well as batsman; his powerful physique capable of great endurance; known to public as 'W. G.'

GRAHAM, HENRY GREY (1842-1906), writer on Scottish history; educated at Edinburgh University; Church of Scotland minister in Glasgow, 1864-1906; published life of 'Rousseau', 1882, 'Social Life of Scotland in the 18th Century', 2 vols. 1899, and 'Scottish Men of Letters of the 18th Century', 1901.

GRAHAM, THOMAS ALEXANDER FERGUSON (1840-1906), artist; studied at Edinburgh under Scott Lauder [q.v.]; in Paris (1860), Brittany (1862), Venice (1864), Morocco (1885); painted much in Fife-shire fishing villages; in 'The Passing Salute' and 'The Siren' showed command of colour and sense of atmosphere; hon. R.S.A., 1883; friend of Orchardson and Pettie.

GRAHAM, WILLIAM (1839-1911), philosopher and political economist; B.A., Trinity College, Dublin, 1867; M.A., 1870; vindicated Berkeley's philosophy in 'Idealism', 1873; lecturer in mathematics at St. Bartholomew's Hospital, 1877; his 'The Creed of Sciences', 1881, praised by Darwin and Gladstone; professor of jurisprudence and political economy in Queen's College, Belfast, 1882-1909; hon. Litt.D. Dublin, 1906; other works include 'Socialism New and Old', 1890, and 'English Political Philosophy from Hobbes to Maine', 1899.

GRANT, SIR CHARLES (1836-1905), Anglo-Indian administrator; brother of Sir Robert Grant [q.v.]; entered Bengal civil service, 1858; foreign secretary to Indian government, 1881; K.C.S.I., 1888; edited 'Central Provinces Gazetteer', 1870.

GRANT, GEORGE MONRO (1835-1902), principal of Queen's University, Kingston, Canada, from 1877; born in Nova Scotia; educated at Glasgow University; hon. D.D., 1877; presbyterian missionary in Nova Scotia, 1860-8; united the presbyterian church throughout Canada, and inaugurated first general assembly, 1875; moderator, 1889; secured state endowment of School of Mines in Queen's University, 1893; twice (1873 and 1883) travelled through Canada, describing his experiences in 'Ocean to Ocean', 1873, and 'Picturesque Canada', 1884; strong imperialist; wrote 'Religions of the World', 1894; president of Royal Society of Canada, 1891; C.M.G., 1901.

GRANT, SIR ROBERT (1837-1804), Lieutenant-general R.E.; born at Bombay; son of Sir Robert Grant [q.v.]; joined royal engineers, 1854; served in West Indies and North America, 1857-65; in command of royal engineers troops at Aldershot (1877-80), Plymouth (1880), Woolwich (1881), and in Scotland (1884); commanding R.E. with Nile expeditionary force, 1885; C.B., 1888; inspector-general of fortifications and major-general, 1891; Lieutenant-general, 1897; carried out works of defence and barrack construction; K.C.B., 1896; G.C.B., 1902.

GRANT DUFF, SIR MOUNTSTUART ELPHINSTONE (1839-1906), statesman and author; son of James Grant Duff [q.v.]; M.A., Balliol College, Oxford, 1858; LL.B. London and called to bar, 1864; Liberal M.P. for Elgin Boroughs, 1867-81; became authority on questions of foreign policy; under-secretary of state for India, 1868-74, and for colonies, 1880; P.O., 1880; governor of Madras, 1881-6; C.I.B., 1881; G.O.S.I., 1887; on return to England (1887) devoted himself to literature; published 'Notes from a Diary' (14 vols. 1897-1905), a valuable contribution to social history; travelled much in Europe and Asia; lord rector of Aberdeen University, 1868-72; president of Royal Geographical and Historical societies; F.R.S., 1901; trustee of British Museum, 1903; wrote also 'Studies of European Politics', 1866, and 'A Victorian Anthology', 1902.

GRANTHAM, SIR WILLIAM (1835-1911), judge; called to bar, 1863; Q.C., 1877; treasurer of Inner Temple, 1904; successful in circuit work; conservative M.P. for East Surrey, 1874-85, and for Croydon, 1885-6; made judge of queen's bench division and knighted, 1886; industrious, energetic, but garrulous judge; his decisions as judge in election petition cases (1906) were severely criticized; rebuked by prime minister for indiscreet speech from bench, 1911; model country gentleman, and good judge of horses; enthusiastic volunteer.

GRAY, BENJAMIN KIRKMAN (1862-1907), economist; son of congregational minister; unitarian minister, 1884-7; engaged in social work in London, 1898-1902; developed strong socialistic views; published 'History of English Philanthropy', 1906, and 'Philanthropy and the State', 1910.

GRAY, GEORGE BUCHANAN (1865-1922), Congregational minister; B.A., University College, London, 1886; first class, school of Oriental studies, Oxford, 1891; tutor, Mansfield College, Oxford, 1891; ordained Congregational minister, 1893; professor of Hebrew and exegesis of Old Testament, Mansfield, 1900-22; a stimulating teacher and original investigator; interested in problems of social welfare; works include, 'Hebrew Proper Names' (1896), 'Commentary on Numbers' (1903), 'Commentary on Isaiah I-XXVII' (1912), 'Forms of Hebrew Poetry' (1915), 'Commentary on Job' (completing work of S. R. Driver, 1921), and 'Sacrifice in the Old Testament' (1925).

GRAY, HERBERT BRANSTON (1861-1929), schoolmaster; B.A., Queen's College, Oxford; assistant master, Westminster, 1875; ordained, 1877; headmaster of Louth grammar school, 1879; of St. Andrew's College, Bradford, 1880-1910; saved college from extinction, supplying new constitution and buildings and raising numbers from 50 to 300; founded Bradford Greek Play; on retirement travelled, wrote, and subsequently held two livings..

GRAVES, WALTER (1846-1930), painter; son of a Chelsea waterman; pupil of J. A. M. Whistler [q.v.]; painted portraits and landscape subjects, largely of Chelsea district, in oil and water-colour; later works show influence of Whistler; work not 'discovered' and exhibited until 1911.

GREEN, ALICE SOPHIA AMELIA (1847-1999), better known as MRS. STOPFORD GREEN, historian; born STOPFORD; came from Ireland to England, 1874; married J. R. Green, the historian [q.v.], 1877; became ardent radical and home ruler; took up study of early Irish history; settled in Dublin, c. 1917; works include, 'Henry the Second' (1888), 'Town Life in the Fifteenth Century' (1894), 'The Making of Ireland and its Undoing' (1906), 'A History of the Irish State to 1014' (1928).

GREEN, SAMUEL GOSNELL (1832-1905), baptist minister and bibliophile; joined baptist ministry, 1844; classical tutor (from 1861) and president (1863-76) of Horton College, Bradford; editor (1876), editorial secretary (1881), and historian (1899) of the Religious Tract Society; published 'Handbook to Grammar of Greek Testament', 1870, 'Christian Ministry to the Young,' 1888, and other theological works; president of Baptist Union, 1895; chairman of editorial committee of 'Baptist Hymnal'; assisted Mrs. Rylands in forming John Rylands Library, Manchester, 1899; hon. D.D. St. Andrews, 1900.

GREENAWAY, CATHERINE [KATE] (1846-1901), artist; studied art at South Kensington, at Heatherley's, and under Legros in Slade School, London; exhibited at Royal Academy, 1877; won fame as exponent of child life and inventor of original children's books; published 'Under the Window,' 1879, 'Kate Greenaway's Birthday Book,' 1880, 'Mother Goose,' 1881, 'Little Ann and other Poems,' 1883; also 'Language of Flowers,' 1884, 'Marigold Garden,' 1886, and an annual 'Almanack' from 1883 to 1895; work much admired by Ruskin; created a gallery of children with quaint costumes and unhackneyed accessories; designed beautiful bookplates; 'Life' by M. H. Spielmann and G. S. Layard 1905.

GREENE, WILLIAM FRIESE (1855-1921), pioneer of cinematography; began life as travelling photographer; experimented with J. A. B. Rudge, of Bath, on reproduction, by camera and projecting lantern, of synthesis of motion, 1883-4; established photographic business in London; after many experiments produced sensitized celluloid ribbon-film, 1889; film patented, and projected scene exhibited, 1890.

GREENIDGE, ABEL HENDY JONES (1865-1906) writer on ancient history and law; born at Barbados; B.A., Balliol College, Oxford, 1888; M.A., 1891; D.Litt., 1904; fellow (1889) and tutor (1902) of Hertford College; fellow of St. John's, 1905; published 'Infamia,' 1894, 'Handbook on Greek Constitutional History,' 1896; edited William Smith and Gibbon's histories of Rome; commenced a new 'History of Rome' (vol. 1, 1904); accurate and critical historian.

GREENWELL, WILLIAM (1890-1918), archaeologist; brother of Dora Greenwell [q.v.]; B.A. Durham; minor canon of Durham, 1854-1907; librarian to dean and chapter, 1862-1907; rector of St. Mary-the-Less, Durham, 1885-1918; documents edited include 'Feodarium Prioratus Dunelmensis' (1872); F.R.S., 1878.

GREENWOOD, FREDERICK (1830-1909), journalist; at first a printer's reader; published novels, 1854-60; first editor of 'Queen' illustrated paper, 1861-3; contributed his novel 'Margaret Denzil,' 'History serially to 'Cornhill Magazine,' 1863; succeeded Thackeray as editor of 'Cornhill,' 1863-8; founded with George Smith [q.v.], and edited, 'Pall Mall Gazette,' 1865; secured its triumph in 1866 by three papers by his brother James 'A Night in a Casual Ward'; an independent conservative and vigilant student of foreign affairs; suggested to Lord Beaconsfield purchase of Suez Canal shares, 1875; attacked Gladstone's anti-Turkish attitude, 1878-8; left 'Pall Mall Gazette,' on its conversion by a new owner into a radical organ, for newly founded conservative 'St. James's Gazette,' 1880; advocated occupation of Egypt, 1883; retired from 'St. James's,' 1888; founded and edited weekly 'Anti-Jacobin,' 1891-2; opposed South African war, 1899; friend of George Meredith; published 'The Lover's Lexicon,' 1893, 'Imagination in Dreams,' 1894.

GREENWOOD, THOMAS (1851-1908), promoter of public libraries; library assistant at Sheffield; founded in London (1871) firm of printers of trade journals, which he edited; advocated rate-supported libraries; published 'Public Libraries,' 1886, 'Museums and Art Galleries,' 1888, and 'Greenwood's Library Year Book,' 1897; presented library of Edward Edwards (1812-1886, q.v.), as well as his own 'Library for Librarians' (1906), to Manchester Public Library; wrote 'Life of Edwards,' 1903.

GREGG, JOSEPH (1843-1908), writer on art; collected works by Rowlandson, Morland, and Cruikshank; published 'Rowlandson the Caricaturist,' 2 vols. 1880, 'Cruikshank's Water Colours,' 1904, 'Thackerayana,' 1876, 'History of Parliamentary Elections,' 1886, and 'Fictorial Pickwickiana,' 2 vols. 1899; organised picture exhibitions; invented a system of reproducing 18th-century colour prints.

GREGORY, SIR AUGUSTUS CHARLES (1819-1905), Australian explorer and politician; born at Farnfield, Nottinghamshire; joined survey department of West Australia, 1841; explored interior of continent; discovered pastoral and mineral wealth of Murchison district; undertook futile expeditions in search of F. W. L. Leichhardt [q.v.], 1855, 1858; explored rivers of East coast of Australia, 1855-6; surveyor for Queensland, 1869-75; member of legislative council, 1882; first mayor of Toowoong, 1902; sat on commission of inquiry into condition of aborigines, 1876-83; O.M.G., 1878; K.C.M.G., 1903; joint author with brother Francis of 'Journal of Australian Exploration,' 1884.

GREGORY, EDWARD JOHN (1850-1909), painter; studied at Royal Academy, 1869; contributed sketches to 'Graphic' till 1875; best work exhibited at Royal Institute of Painters in Water Colours, of which he became president in 1898; exhibited mainly portraits at Royal Academy; A.R.A., 1883; R.A., 1898; best-known pictures in oil are 'Marooning,' 1887, 'Boulter's Look—Sunday Afternoon,' 1898; in water colours, 'A Look at the Model' and 'Souvenir of the Institute.'

GREGORY, ROBERT (1819-1911), dean of St. Paul's; M.A., Corpus Christi College, Oxford, 1846; D.D., 1891; vicar of St. Mary the Less, Lambeth, 1853-73; served on royal commission on ritual, 1867; canon of St. Paul's, 1868; helped to improve cathedral fabric and finances; a zealous member of lower house of Canterbury convocation from 1868; defended Athanasian Creed and ritual; member of education commission, 1886; dean of St. Paul's, 1890; able administrator; published 'Elementary Education,' 1896, and sermons; autobiography edited by W. H. Hutton, 1912.

GRENELL, BERNARD FINE (1868-1926), papyrologist; Queen's College, Oxford, 1882; researched in Egypt, 1893-4-5; carried out excavations at the Fayum and Behnesah, 1895-6-7, 1898-1902, 1903-6; made important discoveries for Graeco-Roman period; found quantities of papyrus; professor of papyrology at Oxford, 1908; F.B.A., 1905; works, mostly in collaboration with his friend A. S. Hunt, include 'Revenus Laws of Ptolemy Philadelphus' (1896), 'An Alexandrian Erotic Fragment' (1896), 'The Oxyrhynchus Papyri' (17 vols. 1898-1927); 'The Amherst Papyri' (1900-1); 'The Tebtunis Papyri' (1902-7); an exemplary editor.

GRENELL, FRANCIS WALLACE, first BARON GRENELL, of Kilvey, Glamorganshire (1841-1925), field-marshal; joined army, 1859; went on service to South Africa, 1874; staff officer during last Kaffir war, 1878; took part in final defeat of Zulus at Ulundi, 1879; assistant-adjutant-general to Sir Garnet Wolseley [q.v.] in Egyptian expedition, 1882; sirdar of Egyptian army, 1885-9; consolidated Egyptian hold on Sudan, 1891; reorganised Egyptian forces; inspector-general, reserve forces, War Office, 1894; commanded British garrison in Egypt, 1897; governor and commander-in-chief, Malta, 1899; created baron, 1902; full general, 1904; commander-in-chief, Ireland, 1904-8; field-marshal, 1908.

GRENELL, GEORGE (1849-1906), baptist missionary and explorer of the Congo; did pioneering work up Lower Congo river; reached Stanley Pool, 1881; surveyed Congo as far as equator, 1884; discovered Ruki river; navigated the Ikelamba; met cannibals in Bangala region; reached 'Grenfell' falls, the most northerly point yet achieved in Congo basin, 1884; explored affluents of Congo from east and south, and discovered the Batwa dwarf tribes, 1885; went up main stream of the Kasai, and Kwa and Mfimi to Lake Leopold II, and the Kwango to the Kungunji rapids, 1886; received by King Leopold at Brussels, 1887; made chevalier and Belgian plenipotentiary for settlement with Portugal of the Lunda frontier, 1891-3; at Bolobo, 1893-1900; explored Aruwimi river (1900-2) and established missionary station at Yalembo, 1903; died of blackwater fever at Basoko; Lives by Sir Harry Johnston, 1908, G. Hawker, 1909, and S. J. Dickens, 1910.

GRENELL, HUBERT HERBERT (1848-1906), expert in naval gunnery; joined navy, 1859; made first designs of hydraulic mountings for naval ordnance, 1869; naval adviser at Berlin congress, 1878; invented self-illuminating night sights for naval ordnance, 1891; helped to found Navy League.

GRENELL, JULIAN HENRY FRANCIS (1868-1915), soldier and poet; educated at Eton and Balliol College, Oxford; entered army (1st Dragoons), 1910; accompanied regiment to France and received D.S.O., 1914; died of wounds at Boulogne; best-known poem 'Into Battle' (1915).

GREY, ALBERT HENRY GEORGE, fourth EARL GREY (1811-1917), statesman; son of General the Hon. Charles Grey [q.v.]; educated at Harrow and Trinity College, Cambridge; liberal M.P., South Northumberland, 1830-6, and for Tyneside division of county, 1838-4; concentrated his energies on promotion of imperial unity; joined board of directors of British South Africa Company, 1889; administrator of Rhodesia, 1896-7; very successful governor-general of Canada, 1904-11; G.C.M.G., 1904; G.C.V.O., 1908.

GREY, MARIA GEORGINA (1816-1906), promoter of women's education; born SHIRREFF; sister of Emily Shirreff [q.v.]; married William Thomas Grey, 1841; initiated 'Girls' Public Day School Company, 1873; which in 1899 had twenty-five schools; founded 'Maria Grey Training College' for women teachers, 1878; published a novel, and works on women's enfranchisement and education.

GRIERSON, SIR JAMES MONCRIEFF (1859-1914), lieutenant-general; joined Royal Artillery from Woolwich, 1877; employed on intelligence work in India; passed first into Staff College, 1883; head of Russian section of intelligence division, 1889; military attaché at Berlin, 1896; served in South African War and China, 1900; O.B., 1901; director of military operations at War Office and major-general, 1904; largely helped to lay foundations of military co-operation between Great Britain and France; held home commands, 1906-14; K.C.B., 1911; author of military works; died in France on way to front.

GRIFFIN, SIR LEPEL HENRY (1838-1908), Anglo-Indian administrator; joined Indian civil service in Punjab, 1860; compiled standard accounts of Punjab families in 'Punjab Chiefs', 1865, 'The Law of Inheritance to Sikh Chiefs', 1869, and 'The Rajas of the Punjab', 1870; superintendent of Kapurthala state from 1876; helped to establish Abdur Rahman on Afghan throne and reconciled him to English policy, 1880; O.S.I., 1878; K.C.S.I., 1881; agent-general to governor-general in central India, 1881-9; advocated use of Indian vernaculars in teaching in India; joint founder of 'Asiatic Quarterly Review', 1886; settled in England, 1889; chairman of Imperial Bank of Persia; works include 'Ranjit Singh' (in 'Rulers of India' series, 1893).

GRIFFITH, ARTHUR (1872-1922), Irish political leader; at an early age associated himself with Irish nationalist movement; employed in Transvaal, 1896-9; returned to Ireland to take part in founding weekly newspaper which was to be organ of '98 clubs' separatist movement; edited 'The United Irishman', 1899-1906; preached doctrine that Irish self-government could never be attained through parliamentary action at Westminster, a doctrine which did not then appeal to most Irishmen; at convention of 'National Council' advocated adaptation to Irish conditions of 'Hungarian' method of passive resistance under title of 'Sinn Féin' policy, 1905; Sinn Féin ('We Ourselves') enunciated doctrine of national self-help and self-reliance; aimed at independent self-government for Ireland; believer in use of physical force; president of Sinn Féin party, 1910; associated himself with Irish National Volunteers, 1913; opposed any Irishman joining British army during European war; his papers suppressed, 1914-15; took no part in Easter Rebellion, 1916; support for Sinn Féin increased after 1916; several times imprisoned, 1916-21; resigned presidency of party in favour of Mr. de Valera, 1917; M.P., East Cavan, 1918; minister for home affairs on formation of Dail Eireann, 1919; acting-president, 1919-20; carried out 'Hungarian' policy against British government; with Michael Collins [q.v.] and three other plenipotentiaries negotiated with British government and finally secured Treaty, 1921; president of Dail Eireann, 1922; the real creator of autonomous Irish state.

GRIFFITH, RALPH THOMAS HOTCHKIN (1826-1906), Sanskrit scholar; B.A., Queen's College, Oxford, 1846; Boden Sanskrit scholar, 1849; professor of English literature (1855) and headmaster (1854) of Benares Government College; inspector of schools, 1856; principal of Benares College, 1861-78; founded 'Pandit' college monthly journal, 1866; director of public instruction in North-West provinces, 1878-85; C.I.E., 1885; retired to Kotagiri; published verse translations, embodying spirit of originals, of Sanskrit classics, including Kalidasa's 'Kumara-sambhava', 1853, the 'Ramayan of Valmiki', 5 vols. 1870-3, hymns of the 'Rigveda', 4 vols. 1889-93, 'Samaveda', 1895, and 'Atharvaveda', 2 vols. 1895-4.

GRIFFITHS, ARTHUR GEORGE FREDERICK (1838-1908), inspector of prisons and author; born at Poona; joined 63rd regiment, 1858; served in Crimea; brigade-major at Gibraltar, 1864-70; inspector of prisons in England, 1878-86; historian of Millbank Gaol, 1876; and of Newgate, 1884; editor of 'Army and Navy Gazette', 1901-4; best known as writer of some thirty novels of prison life and detective stories; wrote also 'Fifty Years of Government Service', 1904.

GRIFFITHS, SIR JOHN NORTON, first baronet (1871-1930), engineer. [See NORTON-GRIFFITHS.]

GRIGGS, WILLIAM (1832-1911), inventor of photo-chromo-lithography; technical assistant to director of Indian Museum, 1856; photo-lithographer in India office till 1885; invented photo-chromo-lithographic process; set up works at Peckham, 1868; published plates for Dr. Forbes Watson's 'Textile Manufactures of India', 1866; reproduced facsimile editions of 'Mahabharata', 1871, Shakespeare quartos (43 vols. 1881-91), and Ashbee reprints; issued from 1881 some 200 'Portfolios of Industrial Art' of all countries, and from 1884 'Journal of Indian Art and Industry'.

GRIMTHORPE, first BARON (1816-1906), lawyer, mechanician, and controversialist. [See BECKETT, SIR EDMUND.]

GROOME, FRANCIS HINDES (1851-1909), Romany scholar and miscellaneous writer; son of Robert Hindes Groome [q.v.]; interested in gypsy life from boyhood; lived with gypsies at home and abroad; settled down to literary work in Edinburgh, 1876; joined staff of Messrs. Chambers, 1885; sub-editor of 'Chambers's Encyclopaedia', 10 vols. 1888-92; published 'In Gipsy Tents', 1880, 'Kriegspiel' (a Romany novel), 1896, and 'Gypsy Folk Tales', 1899; had wide knowledge of Jacobite literature.

GROSE, THOMAS HODGE (1845-1906), registrar of Oxford University, 1877-1906; scholar of Balliol College, Oxford; B.A., with first classes in classics and mathematics, 1868; president of the Union, 1871; fellow and tutor of Queen's College, Oxford, from 1871; helped T. H. Green [q.v.] in editing Hume's works, 1874-5; ardent alpinist.

GROSSMITH, GEORGE (1847-1912), entertainer and singer in light opera; gave 'humorous and musical recitals'; employed in Gilbert and Sullivan's series of comic operas, first at Opera Comique and then at Savoy Theatre, 1877-89; 'created' many of the chief parts.

GROSSMITH, WALTER WEEDON (1864-1919), comedian; brother of George Grossmith [q.v.]; excelled in part of 'dudes' and small, underbred, unhappy men.

GROSVENOR, RICHARD DE AQUILA, first BARON STALBRIDGE (1837-1912), railway administrator and politician; son of second Marquess of Westminster [q.v.]; liberal M.P., Flintshire, 1861-86; P.C., 1872; created baron and became liberal-unionist, 1886; director of North Western Railway Company, 1870; chairman, 1891-1911.

GUBBINS, JOHN (1838-1906), breeder and owner of race-horses; settled at Bruce, co. Limerick, 1886, and bred horses and hounds; bred Galtee More (winner of Two Thousand Guinea, St. Leger, and Derby, 1897), and Ard Patrick (Eclipse Stakes, 1903); headed list of winning owners, 1897.

GUGGERBERG, SIR FREDERICK GORDON (1869-1930), soldier and administrator; born at Toronto; commissioned in Royal Engineers, 1889; employed by colonial office on special survey of Gold Coast Colony and Ashanti, 1902; director of surveys there, 1905; in Southern Nigeria, 1910; served in France, 1914-18; governor of Gold Coast, 1919; his policy directed to government by and for native; governor of British Guiana, 1928-9; K.O.M.G., 1922; his writings include 'Handbook of the Southern Nigeria Survey' (1911).

GUINNESS, SIR ARTHUR EDWARD, second baronet, and first BARON ARDLAUN (1840-1915), philanthropist; son of Sir Benjamin Guinness, first baronet [q.v.]; B.A., Trinity College, Dublin; succeeded father, 1868; head of Guinness brewery, Dublin, 1868-77; conservative M.P., Dublin city, 1868-9, 1874-80; created baron, 1880; munificent benefactor to Dublin and to Irish Church.

GUINNESS, EDWARD OCEIL, first EARL OF IVRAHE (1847-1937), philanthropist; son of Sir B. L. Guinness [q.v.]; shared in management of Guinness's brewery; chairman of company, 1886; baronet, 1888; baron, 1891; viscount, 1906; earl, 1919; P.B.S., 1906; benefactions include £250,000 to erect workmen's dwellings in London and Dublin; £250,000 for destroying Dublin slum property; £250,000 to Lister Institute of Tropical Medicine, London; bequeathed portion of Ken Wood estate and art collection for Ken Wood house to the nation.

GUINNESS, HENRY GRATTAN (1835-1910), divine and author; ordained as evangelist, 1857; preached in England, Ireland, America, and on the Continent, 1887-72; at Dublin helped in Dr. Barnardo's 'conversion', 1866; founded East London Institute for raising missionaries, 1873, 'Livingstone Inland Mission' in Congo, 1878, and other missions in South America and India, all of which were amalgamated into 'Regions Beyond Missionary Union', 1899; made missionary tour of the world, 1903; collaborated with wife in 'The Approaching End of the Age', 1878, and 'The Divine Programme of the World's History', 1888; he also published grammars of the Congo language.

GULLY, WILLIAM COUBERT, first Viscount SELBY (1858-1909), Speaker of the House of Commons; son of James Manby Gully [q. v.]; B.A., Trinity College, Cambridge, 1886; president of Union; called to bar, 1860; Q.C., 1877; established good practice in commercial cases; liberal M.P. for Carlisle, 1892; recorder of Wigan, 1892; elected Speaker of the House of Commons, 1895; distinguished for dignity, courtesy, and impartiality; ordered forcible removal of Irish members from the house, March 1901; resigned Speakership and raised to peerage, 1905; hon. LL.D. Cambridge, 1900; D.C.L. Oxford, 1904; portraits by Sir George Reid and the Hon. John Collier.

GUTHRIE, ALBERT CHARLES LEWIS GOTTILLIP (1830-1914), zoologist; born in Württemberg; took medical degree at Tübingen, 1855; appointed to staff of British Museum and naturalized, 1862; keeper of zoological department, 1875-95; vice-president of Royal Society, 1875-8; gold medalist of Royal and Linnean Societies; works include 'Catalogue of Fishes in the British Museum' (1859-70) and 'Introduction to the Study of Fishes' (1880).

GURNEY, HENRY PALIN (1847-1904), scientist; scholar of Clare College, Cambridge; 14th wrangler, 1870; fellow, 1870-83; partner of firm of Wren & Gurney, examination, coaches, 1877; published book on crystallography, 1876; from 1894 to death principal of Durham College of Science (re-named Armstrong College, 1901), Newcastle-on-Tyne; founded department of mineralogy and crystallography there, 1895; hon. D.C.L. Durham, 1896; killed in Alpine accident near Arolla.

GUTHRIE, SIR JAMES (1850-1930), portrait-painter and president of the Royal Scottish Academy; almost entirely self-trained; associated with 'Glasgow School'; portrait-painter in Glasgow, 1885; president of Royal Scottish Academy, 1902-10; removed to Edinburgh; R.S.A., 1899; knighted, 1903; painted 'War Statesmen' group for National Portrait Gallery, London.

GUTHRIE, WILLIAM (1835-1908), legal writer; educated at Glasgow and Edinburgh universities; called to Scottish bar, 1861; registrar of friendly societies for Scotland, 1879; hon. LL.D. Edinburgh, 1881; sheriff-principal at Glasgow, 1903; edited many legal works.

GWATKIN, HENRY MELVILL (1844-1916), historian, theologian, and conchologist; B.A., St. John's College, Cambridge; Dixie professor of ecclesiastical history, Cambridge, 1891-1916; Gifford lecturer, Edinburgh, 1903; works include 'Studies of Arianism' (1882), 'The Knowledge of God' (1906), and 'Early Church History' (1909); a distinguished teacher.

GWYNN, JOHN (1827-1917), scholar and divine; B.A. and fellow, Trinity College, Dublin; country parson in co. Donegal, 1864-89; regius professor of divinity, Trinity College, Dublin, 1888-1917; published numerous Syriac studies and edition of 'Book of Armagh' (1913).

HACKER, ARTHUR (1858-1919), painter; studied at Royal Academy Schools and in Paris; painted subject pictures, chief being 'The Annunciation' (1892), London street scenes, and portraits. A.R.A., 1894; R.A., 1910.

HADEN, SIR FRANCIS SRYMOUR (1818-1910), etcher and surgeon; studied medicine at the Sorbonne and at Grenoble; F.R.C.S., 1857; formed large private practice in London and did much public work; published pamphlets strongly opposed to cremation; devoted leisure to etching, mainly of landscape from 1843 onwards; influenced by Whistler, whose half-sister he married; chief works include 'Thames Fishermen', 'Shore Mill Pond', 'Breaking up of the Agamemnon'; his drypoints executed in 1877, 'Windmill Hill', 'Sawley Abbey', 'Essex Farm', 'Boat House' show vigorous style; founder and president of the Society of Painter Etchers, 1880; knighted, 1894; member of several French artistic societies; exhibited at Royal Academy, 1860-85; worked also in water colour and black chalk; chief collections of work are in British Museum and New York Public Library; pioneer of scientific criticism of Rembrandt's etchings; published 'The Etched Work of Rembrandt', 1879, 'About Etching', 1879, and kindred works; portraits by Jacobus Hood, Alphonse Legros, and others.

HAGGARD, SIR HENRY RIDER (1856-1926), novelist; went to South Africa as secretary to Sir Redvers Buller, governor of Natal, 1876; master and registrar of Transvaal high court, 1878; returned to England and settled in Norfolk, 1879; travelled round world as member of Dominions royal commission, 1912-17; knighted, 1912; K.B.E., 1919; had two interests, agriculture and romantic writing; works include 'Rural England' (1902); 'King Solomon's Mines' (1885); 'She' (1887); and 'Ayasha' (1905).

HAIG, DOUGLAS, first EARL HAIG (1861-1928), field-marshal; educated at Royal Military College, Sandhurst; gazetted to 7th Hussars, 1886; entered Staff College, 1896; special service officer employed in Sudan campaign, 1898; accompanied Major-General French (afterwards Earl of Ypres, q. v.) to South Africa as staff officer, 1899; conspicuous for ingenuity, enterprise, and brilliant staff work; column commander, 1900-2; inspector-general of cavalry to Lord Kitchener in India, 1903-6; major-general, 1904; a director on general staff at War Office, 1906; responsible for scheme of Imperial General Staff and drafting of first British field service regulations; chief of staff to Sir O'Moore Creagh [q. v.] in India, 1909-11; commanded at Aldershot, 1911; aide-de-camp general, 1914; took to France 1st Army Corps on outbreak of European War, Aug. 1914; urged on Lord Kitchener necessity of creating great national army; conducted orderly retreat of I Corps after battle of Mons, Aug.-Sept.; won confidence of his men and of commander-in-chief; at first Battle of Ypres (19 Oct.-22 Nov.), his magnificent defence, imperturbable calm, and tactical skill made him national figure; commanded First Army, 1915; planned successful attack on Neuve Chapelle, which marked beginning of new epoch in War, March; entrusted with attack on Ghose, September; succeeded French as commander-in-chief, Dec.; at Joffre's request prepared counter-offensive to relieve Verdun, which resulted in Battle of Somme, July-Nov. 1916; directed to conform to instructions of General Nivelle, new French commander-in-chief, at Allied Conference at Calais, 1917; Vimy ridge captured by British, but failure of French attacks produced break-down of French 'moral'; to cover which British continued attacks, capturing Messines ridge (June) and attacking Ypres front (July); after exhausting effort Passchendaele captured, November; situation critical for Allies in winter of 1917-18; expected German blow fell upon British Third and Fifth Armies, March 1918; secured appointment of Foch to control operations on Western front, March; his courage and resolution inspired his men to resist second great German attack in Flanders, April; loyally supported Foch; his conviction that time had come for supreme effort, issuing in decision to make general advance against enemy, secured victory in 1918; led armies to Rhine; commander-in-chief Home Forces, 1919-21; received thanks of parliament, £100,000, and created earl, 1919; devoted himself entirely to cause of ex-service men; president of British Legion and chairman of United Services Fund.

HAIG-BROWN, WILLIAM (1823-1907), master of Charterhouse; educated at Christ's Hospital and Pembroke College, Cambridge; second classic, 1846; M.A., 1849; LL.D., 1864; fellow, 1848; hon. fellow, 1891; appointed headmaster of Charterhouse School, 1863; active in advocating removal of school from London to Godalming, 1864; school opened at Godalming, 1879; numbers rose from 150 in 1872 to 500 in 1876; made many additions and improvements; known as 'our second Founder'; appointed master of the Charterhouse, 1897; honorary canon of Winchester, 1891; published 'Charterhouse, Past and Present', 1879, 'Carthusian Memorials', verse, 1906, and other works; bronze statue by Harry Bates and portrait by Frank Holl at Godalming.

HAIGH, ARTHUR ELAM (1855-1906), classical scholar; B.A. Corpus Christi College, Oxford (first class classic), 1878; won several university classical scholarships; fellow of Hertford College, 1878-86; fellow and tutor of Corpus, 1901; author of 'The Attic Theatre', 1889, and 'The Tragic Drama of the Greeks', 1896.

HAINE, SIR FREDERICK PAUL (1819-1909), field-marshal; joined 4th (King's Own) regiment, 1839; served in 1st Sikh war; military secretary to Lord Gough [q. v.], 1846-9; served at Alma and Balaclava; prominent in Inkermann; military secretary to Sir Patrick Grant [q. v.] at Madras, 1856-60; commanded Mysore division, 1865-70; commander-in-chief at Madras, 1871-5; K.C.B., 1871; lieutenant-general, 1873; commander-in-chief in India, 1876-81; superintended Afghan war, 1878-9; general and G.O.B., 1877; O.I.E., 1878; G.O.S.I., 1879; differed from the viceroy, Lord Lytton, in regard to the plans of attack on Afghanistan, 1878-9; suggested the relief of Kandahar by Roberts's force from Kabul, 1880; declined baronetcy; field-marshal, 1890; 'Life' by R. S. Sait, 1911.

HALLAM, RICHARD BURDON, VISCOUNT HALDANE, of Clova (1856-1936), statesman, lawyer, and philosopher; grandson of James Alexander Haldane [q. v.]; educated at Edinburgh Academy and universities of Göttingen and Edinburgh (M.A., with first class honours in philosophy); called to bar (Lincoln's Inn), 1879; most successful in type of legal work involving consideration of legal principles rather than mere interpretation of facts; junior to Horace (afterwards Lord) Davey [q. v.], 1883; liberal M.P., East Lothian, 1888-1911; Q.O., 1890; 'went special', 1897; employed in Canadian and Indian cases and other appeals before Privy Council; also dealt with considerable number of appeals before House of Lords, including important United Free Church of Scotland case (1900); lord chancellor, 1913-15; secured increase in number of lords of appeal and raised Judicial Committee of Privy Council to position in which it commanded increasing confidence at home and in Dominions; secretary of state for war, 1906-12; took office under difficult conditions, chief of which was indifference of liberal party to army; made extensive study of whole problem of army organisation; Imperial General Staff created, 1909; carried through House of Commons legislation necessary to give effect to schemes of army reform; these included formation of Militia into special reserve, creation of Officers' Training Corps, and improvement of medical and nursing services under Territorial system; created viscount, 1911; sent by Cabinet on abortive mission to Germany, 1912; owing to this later groundlessly accused of pro-German sympathies; interested in higher education and administration, one of his principal efforts on behalf of university organisation being directed towards establishment of provincial or 'civic' universities; chairman of small committee whose recommendations resulted in creation of Universities Grants Committee, 1904; chairman of royal committee on university education in London, 1909; worked towards increasing efficiency of public administration; after leaving office (1915) became progressively estranged from official liberal party; lord chancellor in labour administration, 1924; led small number of labour peers who formed official opposition in House of Lords, 1925-8; F.R.S., 1906; F.B.A., 1914; his works include 'The Pathway to Reality' (1903), 'The Reign of Relativity' (1921), 'The Philosophy of Humanism' (1922), and 'Human Experience' (1926).

HALBURTON, ARTHUR LAWRENCE, first baron HALBURTON (1832-1907), civil servant; son of Thomas Chandler Halburton [q. v.]; born and educated at Windsor, Nova Scotia; called to bar there, 1855; joined commissariat department of British army, 1855; served in Crimea and in Canada; civilian assistant director of supplies and transports, 1869; director, 1879; supervised victualling of eight campaigns; K.O.B., 1888; permanent under-secretary for war, 1895-7; G.O.B., 1897; raised to peerage, 1900; vigorously defended short military service in 'The Times', 1897; in later years advocated universal military training; Memoir by J. B. Atlay, 1909.

HALL, CHRISTOPHER NEWMAN (1816-1902), congregationalist divine; son of John Vine Hall [q. v.]; ordained, 1842; accomplished preacher of evangelical fervour; minister of Surrey chapel, 1854; LL.B. London, 1856; chairman of congregational union, 1866; built Christ Church, Westminster Bridge Road, 1876; resigned pastorate, 1893; hon. D.D. Edinburgh, 1893; wrote many devotional works and hymns; autobiography published, 1898.

HALL, SIR EDWARD MARSHALL (1868-1927), lawyer; called to bar (Inner Temple), 1883; first real opportunity, murder case (Rees v. Hermann), when he obtained verdict of manslaughter, 1894; Q.C., 1898; conservative M.P., Southport division, Lancashire, 1900-6; East Toxteth division, Liverpool, 1910-16; practice temporarily affected by Court of Appeal's criticism of his conduct in libel case against 'Daily Mail', 1901; greatest triumph, Russell divorce case, 1923; recorder of Guildford, 1916; knighted, 1917; at his best, a powerful advocate.

HALL, FITZEDWARD (1825-1901), philologist; born at Troy, New York; went to India, 1846; tutor (1860) and professor of Sanskrit (1863) at Benares Government College; served in Sepoy mutiny; hon. D.C.L. Oxford, 1860; settled in London, 1862; professor of Sanskrit at King's College, and librarian to India office; while in India discovered many Sanskrit MSS., and edited many Sanskrit and Hindi literary works and treatises of Hindu philosophy; edited works for Early English Text Society, 1864-9, published many philological researches, and from 1878 helped in preparation of 'New English Dictionary' and Joseph Wright's 'Dialect Dictionary'; hon. LL.D. Harvard, 1896.

HALL, HARRY REGINALD HOLLAND (1873-1980), archaeologist; B.A., St. John's College, Oxford, 1896; assistant, department of Egyptian and Assyrian antiquities, British Museum, 1896; took part in Egypt Exploration Fund excavations in winter of 1902-4-5-6; deputy keeper, department of Egyptian and Assyrian antiquities, 1919; keeper, 1924; F.B.A., 1928; works include 'The Oldest Civilisation of Greece' (1901) and 'The Ancient History of the Near East' (1913).

HALL, SIR JOHN (1824-1907), premier of New Zealand; born at Hull; employed at London General Post Office, 1843-52; emigrated to Lyttelton, New Zealand, for sheep-farming, 1853; first mayor of Christchurch, 1862-3; elected for Christchurch to first house of representatives, 1855; colonial secretary, 1856; postmaster-general and electric telegraph commissioner, 1866-9; called to legislative council, 1873; colonial secretary, 1873-82; opposed (secular) Education Act of 1877; premier, 1879-82; K.C.M.G., 1883; his ministry repealed Sir George Grey's land-tax, passed triennial parliaments bill and universal suffrage bill; Hall introduced woman's suffrage amendment into electoral bill, 1893.

HALLÉ (formerly NORMAN-NFRUDA), WILMA MARIA FRANCISCA, LADY (1839-1911), violinist; daughter of Josef Nedvitz; born in Moravia; appeared in London, 1849; married Ludwig Norman, 1864, and secondly Sir Charles Hallé [q. v.], 1888; teacher in Berlin, 1898; violinist to Queen Alexandra, 1901.

HALLIDAY, SIR FREDERICK JAMES (1806-1901), first lieutenant-governor of Bengal; joined Bengal civil service, 1835; judicial and revenue secretary in Bengal, 1838; secretary in the home department, 1849-53; first lieutenant-governor of Bengal, 1854-9; reorganized police, improved roads, and advanced education; initiated Calcutta University, 1856; suppressed rising of Santal tribes, 1855; helped to check Sepoy mutiny in Bengal, 1858; created K.C.B., 1860; involved in long controversy—from 1857 to 1858—with a subordinate, William Taylor [q. v.], commissioner of Patna, whom he removed from his office, 1857; member of council of India, 1868-86; an accomplished musician, he frequently performed in concerts in Bengal, London, and elsewhere.

HALSBURY, first EARL OF (1823-1921), lord chancellor. [See GIFFARD, HARDINGE STANLEY.]

HAMLEDEN, second VISCOUNT (1868-1928), philanthropist. [See SMITH, WILLIAM FREDERICK DANVESH.]

HAMMOND SMITH, JAMES (1879-1901), mathematician. [See Smith.]

HAMILTON, DAVID JAMES (1840-1909), pathologist; studied medicine at Edinburgh; worked at pathology at Vienna and Paris, 1874-6; professor of pathology at Aberdeen, 1882-1908; pioneer of bacteriological diagnosis of diphtheria and typhoid; investigated 'braxy' and 'loupings' in sheep; published standard textbook on pathology (2 vols. 1889-94); F.R.S., 1908; hon. LL.D. Edinburgh, 1907.

HAMILTON, SIR EDWARD WALTER (1847-1908), treasury official; son of Walter Kerr Hamilton [q. v.]; educated at Eton and Christ Church, Oxford; private secretary successively to Robert Lowe and Gladstone, 1872-88; treasury official, 1886-1907; permanent secretary to the treasury (with Sir George Murray), 1903-7; K.O.B., 1894; G.C.B., 1906; P.C., 1908; specially connected with Goschen's financial measures, of which he wrote an account, 1889; published monograph on Gladstone, 1898.

HAMILTON, EUGENE JACOB LEE (1846-1907), poet and novelist. [See LEE-HAMILTON.]

HAMILTON, LORD GEORGE FRANCIS (1846-1937), statesman; son of first Duke of Abercorn [q. v.]; conservative M.P., Middlesex, 1868-84; for Ealing division of county, 1885-1906; under-secretary for India, 1874-80; introduced Indian Loans Bill, 1874; first lord of Admiralty, 1885-8, 1896-92; his administration period of extensive naval reform and construction; secretary of state for India, 1898-1903; decided not to evacuate Chitral, 1896; faced with revolt of Wazir and Afridi, 1897; had to deal with problems of famine and plague; his suggestion of dispatch of troops to Cape in South African War accepted, 1899; resigned as free-trader, 1903; chairman of royal commission on poor law and unemployment, 1906-9; on Mesopotamian campaign, 1916-17.

HAMILTON, JAMES, second DUKE OF ABERCORN (1838-1913); son of James Hamilton, first Duke [q.v.]; conservative M.P., co. Donegal, 1860-80; succeeded father, 1886; K.G., 1892; official figurehead of Irish landlords in land war; resided Home Rule.

HAMILTON, Sir RICHARD VESSEY (1829-1913), admiral; entered navy, 1843; served on Arctic voyages, 1850-4; in Crimean and second Chinese wars, 1856-7; attained flag rank, 1877; vice-admiral, 1884; commander-in-chief, China station, 1885-8; admiral and K.C.B., 1887; first sea lord, 1899-91; G.C.B., 1896.

HANBURY, second VISCOUNT (1841-1906), governor of New South Wales. [See BRAND, HENRY ROBERT.]

HANBURY, ELIZABETH (1793-1901), centenarian and philanthropist; of quaker parentage; visited prisons with Elizabeth Fry [q.v.]; married Cornelius Hanbury, 1836; active in anti-slavery movement and prison reform; aided in her work by her daughter CHARLOTTE (1830-1900) who established mission at Tanager for ameliorating lot of Moorish prisoners; autobiography published, 1901.

HANBURY, Sir JAMES ARTHUR (1832-1908), surgeon-general; M.B. Trinity College, Dublin, 1863; entered army medical service; F.R.C.S. England, 1887; served in Afghan war, 1878-9; at battle of Tel-el-Kebir, 1882; K.O.B., 1889; surgeon-general of forces in Madras, 1888-92; surgeon-general, 1892.

HANBURY, ROBERT WILLIAM (1845-1903), politician; educated at Rugby and Corpus Christi College, Oxford; conservative M.P. for Tamworth, 1872-8, for North Staffordshire 1878-80, and for Preston, 1885-1903; ceaselessly attacked policy of Gladstone's government, 1892-5; P.C. and financial secretary of the treasury, 1895-1900; joined cabinet as president of board of agriculture, 1900.

HANKIN, ST. JOHN EMILE CLAVERING (1869-1909), playwright; educated at Malvern and Merton College, Oxford; wrote plays of realistic frankness; his 'The Return of the Prodigal', 1905, 'The Charity that began at Home', 1906, 'The Cassilis Engagement' (the most popular of his plays), 1907, were published in 1907 as 'Three Plays with Happy Endings'; pushed realism further in 'The Last of the De Mullins', 1908; cynically satirized middle class convention and sentiment.

HANLAN (properly HANLON), EDWARD (1855-1909), Canadian seaman; born at Toronto; rowing champion of Canada, 1877, of America, 1878, of England, 1879, and of the world, 1880; retained the last title, 1881-4.

HARBER, Sir HENRY (1823-1911), pioneer of industrial life assurance; accountant of Prudential Mutual Assurance Association, 1852; started scheme of life assurance for working classes and proved its practicability, 1864; secretary, 1866; actuary, 1870; resident director, 1873; chairman, 1905; president, 1907; knighted, 1897; master of Carpenters Company, 1893; founded working men's convalescent home at Rustington, 1893; represented Hampstead on London county council, 1889-94; first mayor, 1900; generously supported local charities; published 'Mortality Experience of the Prudential Assurance Company', 1871.

HARCOURT, AUGUSTUS GEORGE VERNON (1834-1919), chemist; B.A. Balliol College, Oxford; assistant to (Sir) B. G. Brodie [q.v.]; L.R.S. reader in chemistry and a senior student of Christ Church, Oxford, 1869; tutor, 1864-1902; F.R.S., 1863; researched on rate of chemical change, on coal-gas, and chloroform as anæsthetic.

HARCOURT, LEBVISON FRANCIS VERNON (1855-1907), civil engineer. [See VISCOUNT-HARCOURT.]

HARCOURT, LEWIS, first VISCOUNT-HARCOURT (1865-1932), politician; son of Sir William Harcourt [q.v.]; private secretary to father, 1881-6, 1892-5, 1898-1904; liberal M.P., Rosendale division of Lancashire, 1904-16; helped to found Free Trade Union; joined Liberal Cabinet as first commissioner of works, 1906-10; with Viscount Esher [q.v.] founded London Museum, 1911; secretary of state for Colonies, 1910-16; his main interest economic and scientific development; returned to Office of Works, 1918-16; created viscount, 1917.

HARCOURT, Sir WILLIAM GEORGE GRANVILLE VENABLES VERNON (1837-1904), statesman; born at York; son of William Vernon Harcourt [q.v.], and grandson of Edward Harcourt [q.v.]; of Plantagenet descent; educated privately and at Trinity College, Cambridge; member of 'Society of Apostles' and of Union Debating Society; contributed to 'Morning Chronicle' while an undergraduate; called to bar, 1884; acquired large practice at the parliamentary bar; wrote regularly for newly-founded 'Saturday Review', 1885-9; contributed to 'The Times' under signature of 'Historicus' many letters on international law in regard to American war from 1861 onwards; letters were published separately as 'Letters by Historicus on . . . International Law', 1863, and 'American Neutrality', 1866; made Q.C., 1866; member of Neutrality Laws Commission, 1869; served also on royal commissions on naturalization laws, 1870, and on extradition, 1870; Whewell professor of international law at Cambridge, 1869-87; contributed further letters to 'The Times' on parliamentary reform, redistribution of seats, and Irish Church disestablishment, 1866-9; engaged in party politics, 1867; returned liberal M.P. for Oxford, 1868; declined post of judge advocate general; active in discussion on Irish Church bill; candid critic of liberal government; chairman of committee whose deliberations resulted in registration of parliamentary voters bill, 1871; championed religious equality in debates on elementary education bill and on university tests bill, 1870; advocated abolition of purchase of commissions in army, 1871; opposed payment of election expenses by constituencies; urged law reform, and helped to pass the Judicature Act of 1873; member of select committee on civil service expenditure, 1873; succeeded Sir Henry James [q.v.] as solicitor-general and knighted, 1873; while in opposition, he supported a public worship regulation bill, 1874; opposed royal titles bill and merchant shipping bill, 1876; vigorously denounced Turkey, 1876-8; severely criticized conservative government's policy in Afghanistan and South Africa, 1878-9; by speeches and letters to 'The Times' greatly influenced political opinion; made home secretary and P.C. in Gladstone's administration, April 1880; on defeat at Oxford, was returned M.P. for Derby, May 1880; introduced Ground Game Act, giving occupier equal right with landlord to kill ground game; recommended central control of London water supply, 1880; advocated birch instead of detention for juvenile offenders, and proposed commission of inquiry into industrial schools, 1881; during troubles in Ireland he carried peace preservation (Ireland) bill (1881), prevention of crimes (Ireland) bill (1882), and explosive substances bill (1883); by his firmness stamped out the dynamite conspiracy in London, 1883; improved labour conditions in coal mining; introduced local government board (Scotland) bill, which was rejected by the Lords, 1883; introduced but abandoned London government bill, 1884; active in franchise agitation, 1884; replaced clause in registration bill abolishing electoral disqualification on receipt of medical relief, 1885; dissociated himself from Mr. Chamberlain's radicalism, 1885; joined Gladstone's cabinet as chancellor of the exchequer on Gladstone's acceptance of home rule, Feb.-July 1896; criticized new conservative government, and attempted to reunite liberal party; attacked Irish coercion policy of Lord Salisbury's government; censured government's treatment of 'The Times' attacks on Parnell; supported Irish land bill and Allotments Act, 1887; opposed cession of Heligoland to Germany, 1890; persuaded Gladstone to repudiate Parnell's leadership of Irish party after divorce proceedings, Nov. 1890; in his speeches which won him popularity through the country he urged much domestic reform; opposed Mr. Balfour's Irish local government bill, 1899; again chancellor of the exchequer in Gladstone's fourth administration, 1899; had charge of local veto bill, which was abandoned; passed home rule bill through Commons; carried parish councils bill, which was greatly amended by the Lords, 1894; bitterly denounced upper house; served under new prime minister, Lord Rosebery, as leader of the House of Commons, 1894; introduced death duties budget which imposed a single graduated tax on real and personal property and revolutionized existing system of taxation; raised income tax and duties on beer and spirits; this budget established his financial reputation; he passed local government bill for Scotland; introduced local liquor control bill, 1895; passed fourth budget (May 1895); resigned on defeat of government on motion dealing with cordite supply (June); was defeated at Derby (July) and elected for West Monmouth; denounced advance of Anglo-Egyptian army in Sudan, and urged inquiry into Jameson Raid; as member of committee he made searching examination of Cecil Rhodes, but defended committee's report from radical attack, 1897; opposed unionist education bill (1896) and agricultural rating bill; supported Gladstone's campaign of Armenian massacres in opposition to Lord Rosebery, 1896; urged annexation of Crete by Greece; championed protestantism and attacked ritualism in his letters to 'The Times' on 'Lawlessness in the Church,' which led to tangible reforms, 1898; resigned leadership of liberal party, Dec. 1898; was opposed to extreme imperialist policy; censured English conduct of Boer war, Jan. 1900; denounced the war as 'unjust and engineered,' 1901; protested against introduction of forced Chinese labour into South Africa, 1903; resisted proposed tax on imported corn and Mr. Balfour's education bill, 1902; reiterated faith in free trade in opposition to Mr. Chamberlain's fiscal reform proposals, 1903; declined peerage, 1903; hon. fellow Trinity College, Cambridge, 1904; succeeded to family estates at Nuneham, Oxfordshire, 1904; last of the old school of parliamentarians; speeches abound in argument and irony; an aristocrat by instinct; fond of gardening and dairy-farming; his son, Lewis, became colonial secretary, 1910; portraits by Watts and A. S. Cope; bust and statues by Mr. Waldo Story.

HARDIE, JAMES KIRK (1856-1915), socialist and labour leader; miner in Lanarkshire, 1866; dismissed as agitator, 1878; took up journalism and began to work for organization of miners; successively miners' county agent for Lanarkshire and secretary for Ayrshire; secretary of Scottish miners' federation, 1886; left liberals and became chairman of newly-formed Scottish labour party, 1888; founded 'Labour Leader', 1889; independent labour M.P., South West Ham, 1892-5; chairman of newly-formed Independent Labour party, 1893-1900, and 1913-15; M.P., Merthyr Burghs, 1900-15; first leader of Labour Party in parliament, 1906-7; excellent speaker; did more than any man to create British political labour movement.

HARDIE, WILLIAM ROSS (1862-1916), classical scholar; M.A. Edinburgh; scholar, B.A., and fellow, Balliol College, Oxford; tutor, 1885-98; professor of humanity, Edinburgh, 1895-1916; brilliant composer and teacher; wrote 'Lectures on Classical Subjects' (1903), 'Latin Prose Composition' (1908), 'Silvulae Academicæ' (1911), 'Rosæ Metricæ' (1920).

HARDWICKE, sixth EARL OF (1867-1904), politician. [See YORKE, ALBERT EDWARD PHILIP HENRY.]

HARDY, FREDERIC DANIEL (1827-1911), painter of domestic subjects and portraits; exhibited at Royal Academy, 1861-98; pictures fetched high prices; represented in public galleries in London, Leicester, Wolverhampton, and Leeds.

HARDY, GATHORNE GATHORNE, first EARL OF CRANBROOK (1814-1906), statesman. [See GATHORNE-HARDY.]

HARDY, HERBERT HARDY COZENS, first BARON COZENS-HARDY, of Letheringsett (1838-1920), judge. [See COZENS-HARDY.]

HARDY, THOMAS (1840-1928), poet and novelist; came of native Dorset stock on both sides; inherited tradition of rural music, sacred and profane; his experiences of rural life supplied many years later rich material for his art; educated at private school at Dorchester; pupil of ecclesiastical architect at Dorchester, 1856; continued to study Latin and Greek; became acquainted with William Barnes [q. v.], the Dorset poet; carried out architectural work in London, 1862-7; employed by (Sir) A. W. Blomfield [q. v.]; his interest at this time centred almost entirely on poetry; his first novel, 'The Poor Man and the Lady,' accepted for publication (1869), but he destroyed the manuscript on being advised by Meredith not to publish; gradually abandoned architecture for fiction; published 'Desperate Remedies' (1871), 'Under the Greenwood Tree' (1872), 'A Pair of Blue Eyes' (1873), 'Far from the Madding Crowd' (1874), 'The Hand of Ethelberta' (1875), and 'The Return of the Native' (1878); thenceforth for nearly twenty years his fiction was not only his profession (a fact which he somewhat regretted as he wished to devote himself to poetry), but an art of noble form, amazing wealth of substance, and profound significance; his later novels include 'The Trumpet Major' (1880), 'Two on a Tower' (1882), 'The Mayor of Casterbridge' (1886), 'The Woodlanders' (1887), 'Tess of the D'Urbervilles' (1901), and 'Jude the Obscure' (1896); abandoned fiction, which had now served his turn, practically and artistically, for poetry; published two collections of lyrics, 'Wessex Poems' (1888), and 'Poems of Past and Present' (1901); published his greatest single achievement, dramatic epic on the Napoleonic theme, 'The Dynasts,' in three parts, 1903, 1906, 1908; a grand exhibition of absolute determinism; published 'Time's Laughingstocks' (a collection of lyrics), 1909; this inaugurated period of wholly lyrical activity and one of daring development, only exception being 'The Famous Tragedy of the Queen of Cornwall' (1923).

HARE, AUGUSTUS JOHN OUTHBERT (1834-1905), author; born in Rome; nephew of Augustus and Julius Hare [q. v.]; B.A., University College, Oxford, 1857; lived mostly in Italy and on Riviera, 1863-70; published 'Memorials of a Quiet Life' [i.e. of Mrs. Augustus Hare, his aunt], 3 vols. 1873-6; accomplished water-colour artist; book and art collector; compiled numerous guide books—to Rome, 2 vols. 1871, London, 1878, Italy, 2 vols. 1883-4, and France, 4 vols. 1890-5; also published 'The Story of my Life', 6 vols. 1896-1900, and 'Life of Baroness Bunsen', 2 vols. 1878.

HARE, SIR JOHN (FAIRS) (1844-1921), actor, whose original name was JOHN FAIRS; made first professional appearance at Liverpool, 1864; acted, chiefly in T. W. Robertson's plays, with Prince of Wales's company, London, 1865-74; actor-manager, with W. H. Kendal [q. v.], of Court Theatre, 1874-9, and St. James's Theatre, 1879-98; manager of Garrick Theatre, 1889-95; toured in America and provinces; knighted, 1907; helped considerably to mould and develop modern English acting tradition which avoids both formality and rhetoric.

HARLAND, HENRY (1861-1906), novelist; born at St. Petersburg of American parents; commenced literary career under pseudonym Sidney Lusk; showed mastery of short story in 'Grey Roses', 1895, and 'Comedies and Errors', 1898; literary editor of 'Yellow Book', 1894-7; chief works were 'The Cardinal's Snuff Box', 1900, and 'My Friend Prospero', 1904.

HARLEY, ROBERT (1828-1910), mathematician; congregational minister at Brighouse and Leicester, 1854-72, and subsequently at Oxford and in Australia; vice-principal of Mill Hill School, 1872-81; principal of Huddersfield College, 1882-5; made researches in higher algebra, especially in the theory of quintics; F.R.S., 1863.

HARNSWORTH, ALFRED CHARLES WILLIAM, VISCOUNT NORTHCLEFFE (1865-1922), journalist and newspaper proprietor; largely self-educated; helped to give his younger brothers start in life; took up free-lance journalism, 1883; gained practical experience with publishing firm in Coventry, 1885-7; with his brother Harold (afterwards Viscount Rothermere) formed general publishing business in London, 1887; issued from his growing number of periodicals, including 'Answers' (1888); acquired 'Evening News', 1894; founded 'Daily Mail,' an elaborately planned halfpenny morning newspaper, which was his greatest achievement in creative journalism and opened new epoch in Fleet Street, 1896; enlisted services of number of skilled writers; advertised and stimulated inventions of day, financed exploration schemes, and offered prizes for various kinds of skill, including aviation feats later on; founded 'Daily Mirror', 1903; first decade of twentieth century zenith of his career; won remarkable position in English life and amassed huge fortune; leased famous Tudor mansion, Sutton Place, Surrey, where he entertained stream of British and foreign visitors, 1899-1917; created baronet, 1903; baron, 1908; chief proprietor of 'The Times' on formation of company, 1908; never had more difficult task than in struggle to put 'Times' on its feet; question of price, which he changed seven times in little more than seven years, constant anxiety; at critical moment wholly responsible for saving it from extinction, but when he did it needed steadiness added to vitality; transformed by European War into public figure; placed himself at head of all popular movements of moment; initiated 'Times' fund for sick and wounded which reached nearly £17,000,000; paid several visits to armies in France and Italy; on invitation of Mr. Lloyd George undertook British war mission in U.S.A., 1917; created viscount, 1917; director of propaganda in enemy countries, 1918; after the Armistice became estranged from and bitterly attacked Mr. Lloyd George; influence of 'Times' potent in bringing about Irish settlement, 1921; celebrated twenty-fifth birthday of 'Daily Mail' at Olympia with great magnificence, 1921; made world tour, 1921-2; a consummate journalist, who changed whole course of British journalism by making it both alive and prosperous.

HARPER, SIR GEORGE MONTAGUE (1865-1922), lieutenant-general; entered Royal Engineers, 1884; served in South African War, 1898-1900; deputy-director, military operations, War Office, 1911; went to France on outbreak of European War, 1914; commanded 51st (Highland) division, Territorial Force, 1915-18; took part in battles of Somme (1916), Arras, Ypres, and Cambrai (1917); commanded IV Army Corps, 1918; lieutenant-general, 1919; commander-in-chief, Southern command, 1919; K.C.B., 1918.

HARRINGTON, TIMOTHY CHARLES (1851-1910), Irish politician; founded 'Kerry Sentinel,' 1877; imprisoned under Coercion Acts, 1881 and 1883; as secretary of national league, devised 'Plan of Campaign' for land war, 1886; nationalist M.P. for co. Westmeath, 1883-5, and for Dublin (harbour) division, 1885-1910; called to Irish bar, 1887; counsel for Parnell in Parnell commission, 1888-9; remained faithful to Parnell after Parnell's divorce action; helped to reunite Irish party, 1900; lord mayor of Dublin, 1901-4.

HARRIS, FREDERICK LEVERTON (1864-1926), politician and art collector; shipowner; conservative M.P. Tynemouth, 1900-6; unionist M.P., Stepney, 1907-11; East Worcestershire, 1914-18; largely contributed to defeat of Bill embodying Declaration of London, 1910; joined trade division of Admiralty, 1914; largely devised and directed blockade of Germany, 1915-19; P.O., 1916; bequests include 'grangerised' life of Fanny Burney to National Portrait Gallery and majolica collection to Fitzwilliam Museum, Cambridge.

HARRIS, THOMAS LAKE (1823-1906), mystic; emigrated with parents from Buckinghamshire to America, 1828; organized 'independent Christian congregation' on Swedenborgian principles in New York, 1848; claimed to be a 'medium'; published, from 1850 onwards, lengthy poems which were (he claimed) revealed to him in trances; edited 'Herald of Light,' 1857-61; paid visits to England, 1859-61, 1865-6; set up a community near Wassaic, 1861; joined in America by Laurence Oliphant [q. v.], with whose money Harris purchased farms at Brocton, Lake Erie, 1886, and engaged in vine-growing; exerted complete sway over Oliphant until legally compelled to restore Oliphant's property, 1881; removed to Santa Rosa, 1875; advocated theory of celestial marriages, 1876; proclaimed his attainment of immortality, 1891; depicted by Oliphant as David Masollam in 'Masollam,' 1886; published much mystical prose and verse; 'Life' by A. A. Cuthbert.

HARRISON, FREDERIO (1831-1923), author and positivist; B.A., Wadham College, Oxford; fellow, 1854-6; called to bar (Lincoln's Inn), 1858; at Oxford adopted liberal tenets and positivist doctrines, the latter owing to influence of Richard Congreve [q. v.]; president of English Positivist Committee, 1880-1905; influenced life and thought of his time by vigour as man of practical experience; served on royal commission on trades unions, 1867-9; secretary, royal commission for digesting the law, 1869-70; professor of jurisprudence, constitutional and international law for Council of Legal Education, 1877-89; travelled widely; a prolific writer on historical and literary subjects; his works include 'Cromwell' (1888) and 'Chatham' (1905), both in 'Twelve English Statesmen' series; 'William the Silent' (1897), 'Ruskin' (1902), and 'Theophano: the Crusade of the Tenth Century,' a romance (1904).

HARRISON, JANE ELLEN (1850-1928), classical scholar; finished her education at Cheltenham College; student at Newnham College, Cambridge, 1874-9; obtained second class in classical tripos, 1879; studied archaeology in London and paid three visits to Greece, 1880-86; lecturer in classical archaeology at Newnham College, her home until 1922, 1898; took up study of Russian during European War; works include 'The Mythology and Monuments of Ancient Greece' (1890), 'The Protegens to the Study of Greek Religion' (1903), and 'Themis, a Study of the Social Origins of Greek Religion' (1912).

HARRISON, REGINALD (1837-1908), surgeon; M.R.C.S., 1859; F.R.C.S., 1866; surgeon at Royal Infirmary, Liverpool (1867-89), and lecturer on anatomy (1868) and on surgery (1872) at medical school there; helped to convert school into medical faculty of Liverpool University; vice-president (1894-6) of Royal College of Surgeons; Hunterian professor of surgery, 1890-1, and Bradshaw lecturer, 1896; president of Medical Society of London, 1890; established system of street ambulances in Liverpool.

HART, SIR ROBERT, first baronet (1855-1911), inspector-general of customs in China; B.A., Queen's College, Belfast, 1853; M.A., 1871; hon. LL.D., 1882; entered Chinese consular service, 1854; assistant at Ningpo, 1856-8, and at Canton, 1858; secretary to allied Anglo-French commissioners at Canton; joined Chinese imperial maritime customs service as deputy commissioner at Canton, 1859; organized customs service at Foochow and other ports, 1861-3; commissioner of customs at Shanghai, 1863; inspector-general, 1863-1906; met Gordon after Taiping rebellion, 1864; reconciled Gordon and Li Hung Chang; remained in Peking from 1864 till 1908; revisited Europe only twice, in 1868 and 1878; practical creator of Chinese imperial customs; controlled also imperial posts from 1896; helped to settle difficulties between Great Britain and China, 1875, which resulted in Chefoo convention, 1876, and those in Formosa between China and France, 1885; advocated necessary reforms in China, 1894-5; besieged in British legation at Peking during Boxer outbreak, 1900; organized native customs service, 1901; helped in re-establishment of Manchu dynasty; published experiences in 'These from the Land of Sinim,' 1901; authority terminated by Chinese government, which subordinated his service to a board of Chinese officials, 1906; K.C.M.G., 1882; G.C.M.G., 1889; baronet, 1893; 'Life' by niece, Juliet Fregon, 1909.

HARTINGTON, MARQUESS OF (1833-1908), statesman. [See CAVENDISH, SPENCER COMPTON.]

HARTLEY, SIR CHARLES AUGUSTUS (1825-1915), civil engineer; served in Crimean War; chief engineer to European Commission of Danube, 1856-1907; earned sobriquet 'father of the Danube' for work in clearing and making navigable Sulina and St. George estuaries; knighted, 1862; left Rumania, 1873; K.C.M.G., 1894; member of International Technical Commission of Suez Canal, 1884-1906; advice sought by Indian, Russian, and American governments.

HARTHORNE, ALBERT (1839-1910), archaeologist; son of Charles Henry Hartshorne [q. v.]; secretary of Archaeological Institute of Great Britain, 1876-83, 1886-94; edited 'Archaeological Journal,' 1878-92; F.S.A., 1882; published 'Old English Glasses,' 1897; 'Oxford, 1691-1712,' 1910; and works on monumental offices and English churches.

HASTIE, WILLIAM (1842-1903), professor of divinity at Glasgow; M.A. Edinburgh, 1867; B.D., 1869; Croall lecturer, 1892; hon. D.D. Edinburgh, 1894; principal of Church of Scotland College, Ocalutta, 1878; relieved of post, 1883; professor of divinity at Glasgow, 1895; translated many German theological works; wrote 'Theology as Science,' 1899, 'The Theology of the Reformed Church,' 1904, as well as 'La Vita Mia,' a sonnet sequence, 1896, 'The Vision of God,' 1898, and other verse.

HASTINGS, JAMES (1852-1923), editor and divine; engaged in pastoral work of Scottish Free Church, 1884-1911; founder and editor of 'Expository Times,' 1884-1911; works include 'Dictionary of the Bible' (1898-1904) and 'Encyclopedia of Religion and Ethics' (1908-21).

HATTON, HAROLD HENEGAGE FINCH (1856-1904), imperialist politician. [See FINCH-HATTON.]

HATTON, JOSEPH (1841-1907), novelist and journalist; editor successively of 'Bristol Mirror,' 1863-8, 'Gentleman's Magazine,' 1868, 'Sunday Times,' and 'People,' 1899; published American experiences in 'To-day in America,' 2 vols. 1881; accompanied Henry Irving to America 1883; chronicled Irving's 'Impressions of America,' 2 vols. 1884, and J. L. Toole's 'Reminiscences,' 2 vols. 1889; published novels 'Olytie,' 1874—which he dramatised and 'By Order of the Oar,' 1890, 'The New Ceylon,' 1885, 'Journalistic London,' 1883, and other works.

HAYLOCK, SIR ARTHUR ELIBANK (1844-1908), colonial governor; son of William Haylock [q. v.]; joined army, 1863; retired, 1877; held administrative posts in West India, 1874-81; G.C.M.G., 1880; governor of West African settlements, 1881; forcibly settled frontier dispute with Liberia, and occupied territories between rivers Sherbro and Mano, 1893-5; K.C.M.G., 1884; governor of Natal (1886-9), of Ceylon (1890-5), where he extended railways and abolished levy on rice cultivation, of Madras (1895-1901), and of Tasmania (1901-4); G.C.M.G., 1895; G.O.I.E., 1896; G.O.S.I., 1901.

HAYERFIELD, FRANCIS JOHN (1860-1919), Roman historian and archaeologist; scholar of Winchester and New College, Oxford; a senior student of Christ Church, 1893-1907; Camden professor of ancient history and fellow of Brasenose, 1907-19; created scientific study of Roman Britain; works include 'Romanisation of Roman Britain' (1906) and 'Roman Occupation of Britain' (Ford Lectures, published 1934).

HAWES, HUGH REGINALD (1838-1901), author and preacher; grandson of Thomas Hawes [q.v.]; showed musical ability, especially as violinist, from boyhood; lame through hip disease; B.A., Trinity College, Cambridge, 1859; started university magazine 'Lion', travelled for health in Italy, 1869-60; incumbent of St. James, Westmoreland Street, Marylebone, from 1866 till death; by means of somewhat sensational methods filled the church; organised 'Sunday evenings for the people'; pioneer of Sunday opening of museums; published 'Music and Morale', 1871. 'My Musical Life', 1884, 'Old Violins', 1898; theological writings include 'Thoughts for the Times', 1872, 'Winged Words', 1885, and 'Christ and Christianity', 5 vols. 1886-7; successful lecturer on music; Lowell lecturer at Boston, 1885; toured the colonies, 1893; described experiences in 'Travel and Talk', 3 vols. 1896; visited Rome, 1897; married in 1867 MARY (d. 1898), daughter of Thomas Musgrave Joy [q.v.]; she published 'Chaucer for Children', 1877, 'Chaucer for Schools', 1880, and other works; a capable artist, she exhibited at Royal Academy.

HAWES, MARY. [See under HAWES, HUGH REGINALD.]

HAWKER, MARY ELIZABETH (1848-1908), novelist writing under the pseudonym of LANOE FALCONER; granddaughter of Peter Hawker [q.v.]; gained success as novelist by 'Mademoiselle Ire', 1890, translated into many foreign languages, 'Cecilia de Noel', and 'The Hôtel d'Angleterre', 1891.

HAWKINS, HENRY, BARON BRAMPTON (1817-1907), judge; son of solicitor; called to bar, 1843; Q.C., 1858; obtained foremost place among leaders of bar; defended Simon Bernard (1852), Sir John Dean Paul (q.v. 1855), and Miss Suggden in Lord St. Leonards' will case (1875-6); appeared for defence against Arthur Orton [q.v.], claimant in Tichborne ejectment case; led for crown in criminal action against claimant for perjury, 1872-4; a master in cross-examination; largely employed in compensation and election petition cases; appointed judge of queen's bench division and knighted, 1876; transferred to exchequer division; tried the Stauntons for murder in the 'Penge case', 1877; tried other murder cases, and unjustly obtained the nickname of 'Hanging Hawkins'; an admirable criminal judge, patient and thorough; favoured leniency for first offences; as civil judge less successful, being verbose, tautological, and contradictory in judgments; resigned judgeship and sworn P.C., 1898; created peer, 1899; fond of horse-racing; joined Roman Catholic communion after retirement from bench; portraits by John Collier and Robert Barnes. 'Reminiscences' (3 vols.) published, 1904.

HAWTREY, SIR CHARLES HENRY (1858-1923), actor; joined the stage, 1881; re-wrote a German farce which he entitled 'The Private Secretary' and which ran 1884-6; altogether managed eighteen London theatres, including the Globe and the Comedy, and produced about one hundred plays; knighted, 1922; excelled in staging farce and light comedy; made capital out of his facial immobility.

HAYES, EDWIN (1819-1904), marine painter; studied art in Dublin; exhibited at Royal Academy, 1845-1904; member of Royal Hibernian Academy, 1870; chief works were 'Off Dover', 1891, 'Crossing the Bar', 1896; represented in Tate and other public galleries.

HAYMAN, HENRY (1823-1904), hon. canon of Carlisle and headmaster of Rugby; educated at Merchant Taylors' School and St. John's College, Oxford; B.A., 1846; M.A., 1849; D.D., 1870; fellow, 1844-55; treasurer of the union; headmaster of St. Olave's, Southwark, 1855-9, of Cheltenham, 1859-68, and Bradfield, 1868-9; elected headmaster of Rugby, under protest from masters, 1869; instituted unsuccessful proceedings against governors for dismissal, 1874; nominated to crown living of Aldingham, Lancashire, 1874; hon. canon of Carlisle, 1884; published classical translations, an edition of Homer's 'Odyssey', 3 vols. 1881-6, sermons, and essays.

HAYNE, CHARLES HAYNE SHALE- (1833-1909), liberal politician. [See SHALE-HAYNE.]

HAYWARD, ROBERT BALDWIN (1829-1908), mathematician; B.A., St. John's College, Cambridge (fourth wrangler), 1850; fellow 1852-60; mathematical master at Harrow, 1859-93; published original researches; F.R.S., 1876; original member of Alpine Club, 1868.

HAZLITT, WILLIAM CAREW (1834-1913), bibliographer and man of letters; grandson of William Hazlitt [q.v.], the essayist; works include 'History of ... Republic of Venice' (1888, &c.) and 'Handbook to Popular, Poetical, and Dramatic Literature of Great Britain' (1867).

HEAD, BARCLAY VINCENT (1844-1914), Greek numismatist; entered coins department, British Museum, 1864; keeper, 1893-1906; produced important series of Greek coin catalogues; chief work, 'Historia Numorum' (1887).

HEADLAM, WALTER GEORGE (1866-1908), scholar and poet; educated at Harrow and King's College, Cambridge; gained many university classical prizes, 1885-7; B.A., 1887; M.A., 1891; Litt.D. 1903; fellow, 1890; rarely surpassed in Greek versions of English poetry; translated poems by Meleager, 1890, and Aeschylus, 1900-3; his 'Letters and Poems', 1900, edited with memoir by his brother.

HEADLAM-MORLEY, SIR JAMES WYCLIFFE (1863-1939), political historian; B.A., King's College, Cambridge, 1887; fellow, 1890-6; professor of Greek and ancient history, Queen's College, London, 1894-1900; staff inspector of secondary schools, Board of Education, 1903-14; historical adviser to propaganda department, Wellington House, 1914-17; to Foreign Office, 1920-8; knighted, 1929; works include 'Bismarck and the German Empire' (1899) and 'The History of Twelve Days' (1915), material for third edition of which formed vol. xi of G. P. Gooch and H. W. V. Temperley's 'British Documents on the Origins of the War' (1926).

HEARN, MARY ANNE, 'MARIANNE FARNINGHAM' (1834-1909), hymn writer and author; edited 'Sunday School Times' from 1885; published forty volumes of essays and hymns, which included 'Watching and Waiting for me'; autobiography published, 1907.

HEATH, CHRISTOPHER (1835-1905), surgeon; son of Christopher Heath [q.v.]; studied medicine at King's College, London; M.R.C.S., 1856; F.R.C.S., 1860; became surgeon (1866) and Holme professor of clinical surgery (1875) at University College Hospital; at Royal College of Surgeons Hunterian professor of surgery (1886-7), Bradshaw lecturer (1892), Hunterian orator (1897), and president (1897); visited America, 1897; great teacher of anatomy and surgery, but backward in new bacteriological science; published many works on anatomy and surgery.

HEATH, SIR LEOPOLD GEORGE (1817-1907), admiral; entered R.N. College, Portsmouth, 1830; served in Mediterranean and East Indies; commander, 1847; employed at destruction of Lagos, 1850, and in Crimean war, 1853-4; principal agent of transports and C.B., 1855; commodore in command in East Indies, 1867-70; K.C.B., 1870; vice-president of ordnance select committee, 1870-1; rear-admiral, 1871; admiral, 1884; published 'Letters from the Black Sea', 1867.

HEATHCOTE, JOHN MOYER (1834-1913), tennis player; B.A., Trinity College, Cambridge; pupil of Edmund Tompkins, professional tennis champion; amateur tennis champion, 1859-61, 1883, 1886; at height of form, 1869; fine all-round player.

HEATON, SIR JOHN HENNIKER, first baronet (1848-1914), postal reformer; went to Australia, 1864; journalist in Sydney; settled in London, 1884; conservative M.P., Canterbury, 1885-1910; by his postal reform campaign (opened 1886) won imperial penny postage (1895), Anglo-American (1903), Anglo-Australian (1903-11); baronet, 1911.

HEAVILIDE, OLIVER (1850-1928), mathematical physicist and electrician; by self-training acquired remarkable skill in application of mathematics to electro-dynamics; pursued his studies in Camden Town, 1876-89; subsequently worked at Paignton, Newton Abbot, and Torquay, in his latter days living in great seclusion; propounded theory of 'surface conduction'; enriched and clarified language of electro-dynamics; introduced 'Expansion Theorem', or operational calculus; his 'distortionless' case of wide application in general dynamics; F.R.S., 1881.

HEWSON, ANNIE FRENCH (1825-1905), novelist writing as Mrs. ALEXANDER; daughter of Robert French

Dublin solicitor; settled with parents in London; friend of W. H. Wills [q. v.]; married (1858) Alexander Hector (d. 1878), explorer, merchant, and archaeologist; lived in Germany and France, 1876-82, and St. Andrews, 1882-5; published her best-known novel, 'The Woolding o't', 1878, and over forty others.

HECTOR, SIR JAMES (1854-1907), Canadian geologist; M.D. Edinburgh, 1886; surgeon and geologist on exploring expedition of Captain John Palliser [q. v.] to western North America, 1857-60; discovered Hector's Pass; director of geological survey of New Zealand, 1865; reported on fossiliferous formations of New Zealand; observed volcanic and glacial phenomena; O.M.G., 1875; K.O.M.G., 1887; F.R.S., 1886; Lyell medalist of Geological Society, 1876; died at Wellington, N.Z.; published 'Outlines of New Zealand Geology', 1886.

HEINEMANN, WILLIAM (1863-1920), publisher; set up business in London, 1890; published novels by R. L. Stevenson, Kipling, Sarah Grand, Flora Annie Steel, John Galsworthy, Joseph Conrad, H. G. Wells, &c.; plays by Sir Arthur Pinero, W. Somerset Maugham, Israel Zangwill, &c.; produced International Library of translations of fiction; commissioned translations of Dostoevsky, Turgenev, Tolstoy, Ibsen, Bjørnson, Rolland; chief literary enterprise, Loeb classical library of translations.

HELLMUTH, ISAAC (1817-1901), bishop of Huron; born near Warsaw of Hebrew parents; joined Church of England in Liverpool, 1841; emigrated to Canada, 1844; ordained and made professor of Hebrew at Bishop's College, Lennoxville, 1846; D.D. Lambeth, 1853; D.C.L. Trinity College, Toronto, 1854; visited England (1861) and collected funds for new Huron evangelical theological college at London, Ontario; first principal, 1863; bishop of Huron, 1871-3; founded Western University, 1878; coadjutor to Robert Bickersteth, bishop of Ripon [q. v.], 1883-4; published theological works.

HEMMING, GEORGE WIRGMAN (1821-1906), mathematician and law reporter; B.A., St. John's College, Cambridge (senior wrangler and first Smith's prizeman), and fellow, 1844; barrister of Lincoln's Inn, 1850; treasurer, 1897; Q.C., 1875; junior counsel to treasury, 1871-5; published works on calculus, 1848, and plane trigonometry, 1851; edited 'Equity Cases' and 'Chancery Appeals,' subsequently merged in 'Law Reports' of Chancery division.

HEMPHILL, CHARLES HARE, first BARON HEMPHILL (1822-1908), lawyer and politician; son of Mrs. Barbara Hemphill [q. v.]; B.A., Trinity College, Dublin, 1843; called to Irish bar, 1845; acquired large practice in Leinster circuit; Q.C., 1860; Irish county court judge from 1863 till passing of County Courts (Ireland) Act, 1877; serjeant-at-law, 1882; supported Gladstone's home rule policy (1886), but failed in efforts to enter parliament; Irish solicitor-general under Gladstone, 1889-5; Irish P.C., 1895; liberal M.P. for North Tyrone, 1895-1906; raised to peerage, 1906.

HENDERSON, SIR DAVID (1862-1921), lieutenant-general; entered army, 1883; served in South African War, 1899-1903; explored to fly, 1911; director of military training, War Office, 1912-13; director-general of military aeronautics, 1913; general officer commanding Royal Flying Corps, 1914-17; K.O.B., 1914; lieutenant-general, 1917; K.C.V.O., 1919.

HENDERSON, GEORGE FRANCIS ROBERT (1854-1903), colonel and military writer; son of William George Henderson [q. v.]; scholar of St. John's College, Oxford; entered Sandhurst, 1876; commanded a company at Tel-el-Kebir, 1882; served in ordnance store department, 1885-90; published 'The Campaigns of Fredericksburg', 1886; instructor at Sandhurst in military topography and tactics, 1890; exercised great influence as professor of military art and history at Staff College, 1892-5; published 'Stonewall Jackson and the American Civil War', 2 vols. 1898; accompanied Lord Roberts to the Cape, 1899; director of military intelligence and C.B., 1900; died at Amman.

HENDERSON, JOSEPH (1833-1906), portrait and marine painter; studied art at Trustees' Academy, Edinburgh; treated genre subjects till 1871, when he devoted himself to the sea; painted in oil and water-colour; exhibited at Royal Academy 1871-88; best pictures shown at the Royal Glasgow Institute; 'The Flowing Tide' is in the Glasgow Gallery.

HENDERSON, WILLIAM GEORGE (1819-1905), dean of Carlisle; B.A., Magdalen College, Oxford (first class classic), 1840; M.A., 1843; D.C.L., 1853; D.D., 1882; fellow, 1847-53; headmaster of Victoria College, Jersey, 1852-69, and of Leeds Grammar School, 1862-84; dean of Carlisle, 1884; edited for Surtees Society the Latin miscell of York and Hereford.

HENSLY, WILLIAM ERNEST (1849-1905), poet, critic, and dramatist; born at Gloucester; pupil there of T. B. Brown [q. v.]; a cripple from boyhood; in Edinburgh infirmary, 1873-5; his 'Hospital Verses,' some of which were published in 'Cornhill Magazine' (July 1875), led the editor, Leslie Stephen, to visit him and introduce him to R. L. Stevenson; worked in Edinburgh on staff of 'Encyclopaedia Britannica,' 1875; settled in London (1877-8) as editor of weekly journal, 'London'; while editor of 'Magazine of Art' (1882-3), championed Rodin and Whistler; became (1889) editor of 'Scots Observer,' renamed in 1891 the 'National Observer,' an imperialist weekly paper; encouraged young authors; edited 'New Review,' 1894-8; obtained poetic fame by 'Book of Verses,' 1888; wrote 'London Voluntaries,' 1895, 'For England's Sake' (patriotic songs), 1900, and 'Hawthorn and Lavender' (lyrics), 1901; published literary 'Views and Reviews,' 1890, and a companion volume on art, 1902; collaborated with R. L. Stevenson in the plays 'Deacon Brodie,' 'Beau Austin,' 'Admiral Guinea,' and 'Macaire'; initiated series of reprints of 'Tudor Translations,' 1892; joint compiler of 'Slang Dictionary,' 1894-1904; contributed essay on Burns's life to, and helped in, centenary edition of poetry of Robert Burns, 4 vols. 1896-7; compiled 'Lyra Heroica,' 1891; hon. LL.D. St. Andrews, 1893; granted civil list pension, 1898; portrayed as 'Burl' in R. L. Stevenson's essay, 'Talk and Talkers,' works collected in 6 vols., 1908; bust by Rodin, 1886, in National Portrait Gallery; memorial in St. Paul's Cathedral crypt.

HENWELL, SARA (See under BRAY, CAROLINE).

HENNESSY, JOHN BOBANAU NICKERILLIU (1829-1910), deputy surveyor-general of India, 1893-4; born at Fatehpur; worked on trigonometrical survey in jungle tracts of Bengal and in Punjab from 1844; studied mathematics at Jesus College, Cambridge, 1863-5; organized the reproduction of survey sheets in India by means of photo-zinographic process, 1865; superintendent of survey, 1874; F.R.S., 1876; hon. M.A. Cambridge, 1876; C.I.E., 1885.

HENNESSY, HENRY (1826-1901), physicist; brother of Sir John Pope-Hennessy [q. v.]; professor of physics at Roman Catholic University, Dublin, 1855-74; at Royal College of Science, Dublin, 1874-90; vice-president of Royal Irish Academy, 1870-3; F.R.S., 1858; made valuable researches in meteorology and climatology.

HENRY, MITCHELL (1826-1910), Irish politician; studied medicine at Manchester; F.R.C.S., 1854; M.P. for Co. Galway, 1871-85; supported Isaac Butt [q. v.]; opposed Gladstone's Irish university bill on question of sectarian education; persistently denounced over-taxation of Ireland, 1874-7; bought large estate of Kylesmore, co. Galway, and reclaimed bog land; disapproved of Land League operations; elected M.P. for Blackfriars division of Glasgow, 1885; voted against home rule, 1886; retired on defeat, 1886; chairman of firm of A. & S. Henry, merchants, of Manchester, 1889-93.

HENTY, GEORGE ALFRED (1832-1902), writer for boys; educated at Westminster and Oslus College, Cambridge; served in Crimea with hospital commissariat department; adopted journalism, 1865; correspondent to 'Standard' during Austro-Italian war (1866), in Abyssinia (1867-9), Franco-German war (1870-1), in Ashanti (1873-4), and on Prince of Wales's Indian tour (1875), and elsewhere; published his first boys' book, 'Out in the Pampas,' 1868, and from 1876 brought out some three volumes a year, dealing mainly with military history; edited 'Union Jack,' 1880-3; keen yachtsman; also published some twelve orthodox novels; 'Life' by G. Manville Fenn, 1907.

HERRERT, AUBURON EDWARD WILLIAM MOLYNEUX (1838-1906), political philosopher and author; son of third earl of Carnarvon [q. v.]; educated at Eton and St. John's College, Oxford; fellow, 1855-69; joined army, 1858; resigned, 1863; president of Union at Oxford, 1863; D.C.L., 1865; present during Prusso-Danish war, 1864; in America during civil war, and at Sedan in Franco-German war; private secretary to Sir Stafford Northcote, 1866-8; abandoned conservative views; liberal M.P. for Nottingham, 1870-4; declared himself a republican, 1873; supported Joseph Aloh [q. v.] and Agricultural Labourers' Union, 1877; championed Charles Bradlaugh, 1880; became ardent disciple of Herbert Spencer and an agnostic; published 'A Politician in Trouble about his Soul', 1884; issued a monthly 'Organ of Voluntary Taxation', 1890-1901, and 'The Voluntarist Creed', 1908; engaged in farming in the New Forest from 1874 till death; relinquished sport on becoming vegetarian; interested in prehistoric remains and in psychic research; wrote verse.

HERBERT, AUBERON THOMAS, eighth BARON LUCAS (1876-1916), politician and airman; son of Hon. Auberon Herbert [q.v.]; B.A., Balliol College, Oxford; succeeded maternal uncle, 1906; held office in liberal government, 1908-15; P.C., 1912; joined Royal Flying Corps, 1915; missing in France.

HERBERT, GEORGE EDWARD STANHOPE MOLYNEUX, fifth Earl of Carnarvon (1866-1923), Egyptologist; son of fourth Earl [q.v.]; educated at Eton and Trinity College, Cambridge; succeeded father, 1890; wintered in Egypt from 1903; began sixteen years' collaboration in excavation with Mr. Howard Carter, 1907; after European War obtained concession to excavate in Valley of the Tombs of the Kings near Thebes; tomb of King Tutankhamun, of Dynasty XVIII, discovered, Nov. 1923; actual burial chamber and store-chamber unsealed, Feb. 1923; a wealth of treasures revealed; died at Cairo.

HERBERT, SIR ROBERT GEORGE WYNDHAM (1831-1906), colonial official; scholar of Eton and Balliol College, Oxford; fellow of All Souls from 1864 till death; D.C.L., 1869; private secretary to Gladstone, 1855; called to bar, 1858; went to Queensland as colonial secretary, 1869; member of legislative council and first premier, 1860-5; permanent under-secretary for the colonies in London, 1871-92; agent-general for Tasmania, 1893-6; K.C.B., 1882; G.C.B., 1902; hon. LL.D., Cambridge, 1886.

HERDMAN, SIR WILLIAM ABBOTT (1858-1924), marine naturalist; M.A., Edinburgh University; assistant to Sir C. W. Thomson [q.v.] in working on Challenger collections; first Derby professor of natural history, Liverpool University, 1881-1919; devoted attention to co-ordination of fishing industry with scientific research; his encouragement of plankton survey in Irish Sea especially noteworthy; F.R.S., 1892; C.B.E., 1920; knighted, 1922.

HERFORD, BROOKE (1830-1903), Unitarian divine; brother of William Henry Herford [q.v.]; Unitarian minister from 1851; founded and edited 'Unitarian Herald', 1861; minister at Strangeways, Manchester (1864-76), in Chicago (1876-82), and Boston (1882-92); preacher to Harvard University and D.D., 1891; minister of Roselyn Hill chapel, Hampstead, 1892-1901; president of British and Foreign Unitarian Association, 1898-9; published 'Brief Account of Unitarianism', 1903, sermons, tracts, and hymns; Lives by John Cuckson, 1904, and P. H. Wicksteed, 1904.

HERFORD, WILLIAM HENRY (1820-1908), writer on education; studied for Unitarian ministry at York and Manchester; spent three years in Bonn and Berlin; imbibed Pestalozzi's and Froebel's educational ideas on visit to Pestalozzian school at Hofwyl, near Berne, 1847; managed Pestalozzian school at Lancaster, 1850-61; inspiring preacher, teacher, and lecturer in Manchester from 1863; directed co-educational school for younger children at Fallowfield, Manchester, 1873-86; published 'The School: an Essay towards Humane Education', 1889, 'The Student's Froebel', 1893, and translated works on education.

HERKOWITZ, SIR HUBERT VON (1849-1914), painter; born in Bavaria; brought to England, 1867; studied at South Kensington art schools; achieved great success with picture, 'The Last Master-Sunday at the Royal Hospital, Chelsea', 1875; A.R.A., 1879; portraits include those of Wagner, Ruskin, Lord Kelvin, and Marquess of Salisbury; subject-pictures include 'Found' (1888) and 'On Strike' (1890); R.A., 1890; founded and directed school of art at Bushey, 1885-1904; Slade professor of fine art at Oxford, 1888-94; knighted, 1907; naturalized; wrote on etching, &c.

HERRING, GEORGE (1832-1906), philanthropist; at first a turf commission agent and owner of racehorses; subsequently made fortune as financial commission agent in City of London; chairman of City of London Electric Lighting Company; devoted wealth to London Sunday Hospital Fund from 1899, to Salvation Army land scheme at Borted, Essex, and to North-West London Hospital, Camden Town; bequests to charities under will totalled 900,000.

HERSCHEL, ALEXANDER STEWART (1836-1907),

astronomer; son of Sir John Herschel [q.v.]; born in South Africa; B.A., Trinity College, Cambridge (30th wrangler), 1859; studied meteorology at Royal School of Mines, London, 1861; professor of physics at Glasgow 1866-71, and at Durham College, Newcastle, 1871-86; reported on observations of meteors to British Association, 1869-81; experimented in photography; F.R.A.S., 1867; F.R.S., 1884; D.C.L., Durham, 1886; observed solar eclipse in Spain, 1905.

HERTLET, SIR EDWARD (1824-1902), librarian of the foreign office; assistant to father, Lewis Hertlet [q.v.], at foreign office library, 1840; sub-librarian, 1855; librarian, 1857; attached to mission to Berlin congress and knighted, 1878; C.B., 1874; K.C.B., 1892; compiled 'Hertlet's Commercial Treaties', vols. xii-xix, 1871-95, 'Recollections of the Foreign Office', 1901, and other works.

HESELTINE, PHILIP ARNOLD (1894-1930), writer on music, and musical composer under the pseudonym of PETER WARLOCK; influenced by Frederick Delius, D. H. Lawrence [q.v.], and Bernard van Dieren; compositions include songs and part songs, instrumental and choral works; his music that of a belated Elizabethan.

HEWLETT, MAURICE HENRY (1861-1923), novelist, poet, and essayist; made his name by romantic fiction, but regarded himself as a poet; works include, 'The Forest Lovers' (1898), 'The Life of Richard Yea-and-Nay' (1900), 'The Queen's Quair' (1904), 'Rest Harrow' (1910), and 'The Song of the Plow' (1916).

HIBBERT, SIR JOHN TOMLINSON (1824-1908), politician; B.A., St. John's College, Cambridge, 1847; M.A., 1851; called to bar, 1849; liberal M.P. for Oldham, 1862-74, 1877-88, 1892-5; held subordinate offices in Gladstone's four administrations; served on various commissions, and was interested in poor law reform; P.C., 1886; K.C.B., 1893; constable of Lancaster castle, 1907-8.

HICKS, EDWARD LEE (1843-1919), bishop of Lincoln; B.A., Brasenose College, Oxford; fellow of Corpus Christi College, Oxford, 1868; rector of Fenny Compton, Warwickshire, 1873; principal of Hulme Hall, Manchester, 1886; canon of Manchester and rector of St. Philip's, Salford, 1892; bishop of Lincoln, 1910; writer on Greek epigraphy; a strong teetotaler.

HICKS, ROBERT DREW (1850-1929), classical scholar; B.A., Trinity College, Cambridge; fellow, 1876-1929; became blind, 1900; among the most learned students of Greek philosophy in his generation; chief work, edition of Aristotle's 'De Anima' (1907).

HICKS REACH, SIR MICHAEL EDWARD, ninth baronet, and first EARL ST. ALDWIN (1837-1916), statesman; educated at Eton and Christ Church, Oxford; succeeded to baronetcy, 1854; conservative M.P., East Gloucestershire, 1864-85, West Bristol, 1885-1906; parliamentary secretary of Poor Law Board, 1868; under-secretary for Home Department 1868; in opposition, 1869-74; chief secretary for Ireland, and showed sympathy with reform, 1874-8; entered Cabinet, 1876; colonial secretary, 1878-90; chiefly preoccupied with South African affairs; followed general lines of policy of predecessor, the fourth Lord Carnarvon; supported Sir Bartle Frere [q.v.] until October 1878; sympathized with Frere throughout, but after that date British policy in South Africa largely controlled by Disraeli; in opposition, 1880-5; attacked government for treatment of General Gordon, 1884; chancellor of exchequer and leader of House of Commons, 1885-6; as leader of opposition, conducted victorious anti-Home Rule campaign, 1886; made way for Lord Randolph Churchill as chancellor of exchequer and leader of Commons, 1886; Irish secretary, 1886-7; president of Board of Trade, 1888-92; chancellor of exchequer, 1895-1902; opponent of 'tariff reform'; created viscount, 1906; earl, 1915.

HILKE, HENRY (1838-1904), musical composer; held many posts as organist; Mus.Bac. Oxford, 1863; Mus.Doc. 1867; lecturer on harmony and composition at Owens College, Manchester, 1876; professor at Royal Manchester College of Music; composed organ music, glee, cantatas, oratorios, anthems; published educational works on music; edited 'Wesley Tune Book'.

HILL, ALEXANDER STAVELEY (1828-1906), barrister and politician; B.A., Exeter College, Oxford, 1852; D.C.L., 1855; fellow, 1854-64; called to bar, 1851; Q.C., 1868; treasurer of Inner Temple, 1866; acquired large parliamentary and probate practice; recorder of Banbury, 1866-1903; conservative M.P. for Coventry and Staffordshire, 1868-1900; P.C., 1882; early advocate of tariff reform; formed large cattle ranch in Canada, 1871; hon. LL.D., Toronto, 1892; wrote 'Faction of the Court of Probate', 1899.

HILL, ALSAGER HAY (1859-1906), social reformer; LL.B., Trinity Hall, Cambridge, 1882; called to bar, 1884; urged more scientific classification of paupers and national system of labour registration for unemployed, 1887-8; established labour exchange in London (1871) and edited 'Labour News', organ of communication between masters and men seeking work; vice-president of National Sunday League, 1876-80; published 'Rhymes with Good Reason', 1870-1, and other verse.

HILL, FRANK HARRISON (1830-1910), journalist; studied for Unitarian ministry at Manchester under Dr. James Martineau [q.v.], 1846-51; adopted profession of journalism; editor of 'Northern Whig', Belfast, 1861-5; alone of journalists in Ireland supported North in American war; friend of Harriet Martineau, Browning, and Crabb Robinson; assistant editor of 'Daily News', 1865; editor, 1869-86; made paper an influential party organ; wrote with keen insight and caustic pen; retired owing to opposition to Gladstone's home rule policy, 1886; leader writer of the 'World', 1894-1906; published 'Political Portraits', 1873, and 'Life of George Canning', 1881.

HILL, GEORGE HIRKBECK NORMAN (1835-1903), editor of Boswell's 'Life of Johnson'; grandson of Thomas Wright Hill [q.v.]; B.A., Pembroke College, Oxford, 1858; joined at the University Old Mortality Club, and came to know Burne-Jones and Rossetti; D.O.L., 1871; private schoolmaster, 1858-75; elaborately edited Boswell's 'Life of Johnson', 6 vols. 1887, 'Johnson's Letters', 2 vols. 1892, 'Johnsonian Miscellanies', 2 vols. 1897, and 'Johnson's Lives of the English Poets', 3 vols. 1905; described a tour in Scotland as 'Footsteps of Samuel Johnson', 1889; published also 'Life' of his uncle, Sir Rowland Hill, 2 vols. 1880, and 'Letters of Rossetti to William Allingham', 1897; his 'Letters' published, 1903 and 1906.

HILL, OCTAVIA (1838-1912), philanthropist; granddaughter of Dr. Thomas Southwood Smith [q.v.]; early influenced by Christian Socialists, especially F. D. Maurice [q.v.]; helped in artistic training by John Ruskin; opened school with sisters in Marylebone, impressed by urgency of housing problem in which the interested Ruskin, 1864; first houses for improvement purchased through him, 1865; undertaking placed on business footing; through fund raised by friends, enabled to devote herself to housing reform, 1874; appointed manager of Southwark property by Ecclesiastical Commissioners, 1884; owed much to co-operation of sisters and workers trained by her; supporter of Charity Organisation, Kyrie, and Commons Preservation societies; co-founder of National Trust; held aloof from political measures for social reform.

HILL, ROSAMOND DAVENPORT (1825-1902), educational administrator; daughter of Matthew Davenport Hill [q.v.]; settled with parents at Bristol, 1851; assisted her father and Mary Carpenter [q.v.]; visited Mettray reformatory, 1855; founded on Mettray principles girls' industrial school at Bristol, 1866; visited prisons in Australia, 1872-4; published 'What We Saw in Australia', 1874; member of London school board, 1879-97; visited schools in United States and Canada, 1888; resisted provision of free meals in London schools; wrote 'Elementary Education in England', 1893.

HILL, ARNOLD FRANK (1867-1917), shipbuilder and philanthropist; B.A., University College, Oxford; joined directorate of Thames Ironworks and Shipbuilding Company, Blackwall; lived in Canning Town, giving much time and thought to improvement and recreation of firm's workpeople, 1880-5; considerable prosperity enjoyed by firm, 1890-1900; after launching of the 'Thunderer', Thames Ironworks, unable to compete with Northern shipyards, compelled to close down, 1911.

HILL, SAM JOHN (1854-1902), major-general; born in Bengal; joined Bombay engineers, 1854; in Persian expedition, 1857; field engineer in Abyssinian expedition, 1867; commandant of Bombay sappers at Kirkee, 1871-83; commanded division of Kandahar field force, 1878-80; at defence of Kandahar, C.B., 1881; commanding royal engineer of Burma expeditionary force, 1886-97; major-general, 1887; K.C.B., 1900; published 'The Bombay Field Force', 1880, and 'Points of a Bachelors', 1903.

HIND, HENRY YOUNG (1825-1908), geologist and explorer; went to Canada, 1846; professor of chemistry and geology in Trinity University, Toronto, 1853-64; conducted government explorations and geological surveys; explored Nova Scotia goldfields, 1869-71; discovered extensive cod banks off shore above Belle Isle, 1876; published accounts of his explorations; arranged scientific evidence in fisheries controversy between America and Canada, 1877; D.O.L., King's College, Windsor, N.S.

HIND, RICHARD DACRE ACHER (1849-1910), Greek scholar and Platonist. [See ACHER-HIND.]

HINGSTON-RANDOLPHE (formerly HINGSTON), FRANCIS CHARLES (1833-1910), antiquary; B.A., Exeter College, Oxford, 1855; M.A., 1859; rector of Ringmore, Devonshire, 1860-1910; early developed antiquarian tastes; edited Capgrave's chronicle and other works in Rolls series, 1858-60; prebendary of Exeter Cathedral, 1885; edited 'Episcopal Registers' of diocese, 11 parts, 1886-1909; wrote also on church architecture.

HINGLEY, SIR BENJAMIN, first baronet (1830-1905), ironmaster; head of father's chainmaking firm at Netherton, 1865; manufactured anchors; influential in Midlands in preservation of industrial peace; mayor of Dudley, 1890; liberal M.P. for North Worcestershire, 1885; joined liberal-unionists, 1886; returned to liberalism, 1892; baronet, 1893.

HINGSTON, SIR WILLIAM HALES (1829-1907), Canadian surgeon; born in province of Quebec; studied medicine at McGill University and Edinburgh; L.R.C.S., 1852; hon. F.R.C.S., 1900; practised in Montreal from 1854; joined staff of Hôtel Dieu, 1860; founded Women's Hospital; professor of clinical surgery at Loy University, 1878; first to remove the tongue and lower jaw in one operation, 1872; mayor of Montreal, 1875-6; knighted 1895; senator, 1896; wrote on climate of Canada, and vaccination.

HIPKINS, ALFRED JAMES (1826-1903), musical antiquary; accomplished interpreter of Chopin on piano; studied history of keyboard instruments; published 'Musical Instruments, Historic, Rare and Unique', 1881; F.S.A., 1886; left collection of musical instruments to Royal College of Music.

HOARE, JOSEPH CHARLES (1851-1906), bishop of Victoria, Hongkong, from 1898; B.A., Trinity College, Cambridge, 1874; D.D., 1898; joined C.M.S. Mid-China mission at Ningpo, 1875; founded there training college for native evangelists; drowned in Castle Peak Bay while on preaching tour; contributed much to vernacular literature.

HOBBS, JOHN OLIVER (pseudonym) (1867-1906), novelist and dramatist. [See CRAIGIE, PEARL MARY TERESA.]

HOBHOUSE, ARTHUR, BARON HOBHOUSE of Hadspen (1819-1904), judge; son of Henry Hobhouse [q.v.]; educated at Eton and Balliol College, Oxford; B.A. (first class classic), 1840; called to bar, 1845; acquired large Chancery practice; Q.C., 1862; treasurer of Lincoln's Inn, 1880-1; charity commissioner, 1866; one of three commissioners for re-organizing endowed schools, 1869-72; law member of council of governor-general of India, 1872-7; responsible for Specific Relief Act, 1877; opposed Lord Lytton's Afghan policy; K.O.S.I., 1877; member of judicial committee of privy council, 1881-1901; raised to peerage to try appeal cases in House of Lords, 1885; member of London school board, 1883-4; alderman of London County Council, 1888; 'Life' by L. T. Hobhouse and J. L. Hammond, 1905.

HOBHOUSE, EDMUND (1817-1904), bishop of Nelson, New Zealand, and antiquary; brother of Baron Hobhouse [q.v.]; educated at Eton and Balliol College, Oxford; B.A. 1838; D.D., 1858; fellow of Merton, 1841-58; vicar of St. Peter in the East, Oxford, 1843-58; bishop of Nelson, 1858-65; assistant to bishops Selwyn and Macdagan at Lichfield, 1869-81; edited records for Somerset Record Society (1887-84), which he helped to found.

HOBHOUSE, LEONARD TRELAUNY (1864-1929), philosopher and journalist; B.A., Corpus Christi College, Oxford, 1887; tutor of Corpus, 1890; fellow, 1894; on staff of 'Manchester Guardian', 1897-1903; first professor of sociology, London University, 1907-29; died at Alençon, Normandy; works include, 'The Labour Movement' (1893), 'The Theory of Knowledge' (1896), 'Mind in Evolution' (1901), 'Morals in Evolution' (1906), 'Development and Purpose' (1913), 'The Metaphysical Theory of the State' (1918), 'The Rational Good' (1921), 'The Elements of Social Justice' (1929), 'Social Development' (1924).

HODGETTS, JAMES FREDERICK (1838-1906), commander and archaeologist; in East India Company's fleet in Burmese war, 1851; commander in Indian navy; professor of seamanship in Berlin, St. Petersburg, and Moscow till 1881; published stories for boys and archaeological works.

HODGKIN, THOMAS (1881-1918), historian; B.A., University College, London; partner in banking firm at Newcastle, 1888-1908; active quaker; chief works, 'Italy and her Invaders' (1878-89) and 'History of England from the Earliest Times to the Norman Conquest' (1906).

HODGSON, RICHARD DAORE (1848-1910), Greek scholar and Platonist. [See ARCHER-HIND.]

HODGSON, GEADWORTH HOLLWAY (1839-1919), philosopher; B.A., Corpus Christi College, Oxford; chief works, 'Time and Space' (1884), 'Theory of Practice' (1870), 'Philosophy of Reflection' (1878), and 'Metaphysics of Experience' (1898).

HOGSON, HENRIETTA (1841-1910), actress; went on stage, 1858; met Henry Irving (1860), and with him went to Manchester; popular burlesque actress; first appeared in London, 1866; joined Queen's Theatre company, 1867; married a second husband (1868), Henry Labouchere [q.v.], who acquired sole control of Queen's Theatre, 1870; appeared there as Imogen in 'Cymbeline', 1871; assumed management of Royalty Theatre, Oct. 1871; inaugurated system of the unseen orchestra; revived 'Wild Oats' (Dec. 1871), and won applause as Peg Woffington, 1878; introduced Mrs. Langtry to stage, 1881; retired to Florence, 1903.

HONEY, FRANCES SARAH (MRS. CASHEL HONY) (1830-1908), novelist; born JOHNSTON; married John Cashel Honey, C.M.G., 1858; contributed short stories to 'Chambers's Journal', 1865-94; wrote eleven novels dealing with fashionable society; helped Edmund Yates [q.v.] in his novels; often visited Paris; translated many French and Italian works; received civil list pension, 1892.

HOFFMEYER, JAN HENDRIK (1845-1909), South African politician; born and educated at Cape Town, edited 'Ons Land' from 1871; formed at Cape Town 'Farmers' Association', 1878, amalgamated with the Afrikaner Bond, 1883; chairman till 1898; member for Stellenbosch of Cape parliament, 1879-98; effective leader of constitutional Afrikanerdom; made the Dutch a political force; refused premiership, 1884; member of executive council of Cape Colony; as delegate in London (1887), proposed closer imperial union by means of imperial tariff of customs; negotiated for the British government with President Kruger the Swaziland convention, 1890; supporter of Cecil Rhodes till Jameson Raid of 1896; initiated Bloemfontein conference between Lord Milner and President Kruger, 1899; advocated conciliation after war, 1903; favoured federation in South Africa.

HOGARTH, DAVID GEORGE (1862-1937), scholar and traveller; B.A., Magdalen College, Oxford, 1885; Craven travelling fellow, 1886; travelled and excavated in Asia Minor, Cyprus, and Egypt, 1887-96; fellow of Magdalen, 1886; director of British School of Archaeology, Athens, 1897-1900; joined (Sir) Arthur Evans in beginning of excavations at Onosmos, 1900; keeper of Ashmolean Museum, Oxford, 1908-37; developed museum, especially in departments of Cretan and Hittite archaeology; commander, Royal Naval Volunteer Reserve, 1915-19; director of Arab Bureau, Cairo, 1916; F.B.A., 1906; C.M.G., 1918; works include, 'A Wandering Scholar in the Levant' (1896), 'The Nearer East' (1907), 'The Penetration of Arabia' (1904).

HOGG, QUINTIN (1848-1903), philanthropist; son of Sir James Weir Hogg [q.v.]; educated at Ston; partner in London firm of Hogg, Curtis, and Campbell, sugar merchants; started ragged school for boys at Charing Cross, 1844-5; purchased Royal Polytechnic Institution, Regent Street, and opened it for athletic, intellectual, spiritual, and social recreation, 1852; opened day school there and organized holiday tours (1856) and a labour bureau (1891); his success led to spread of polytechnic movement in London; alderman of London County Council, 1889-94; published 'The Story of Peter' (religious addresses), 1900; bronze group statue by Sir George Frampton in Langham Place; 'Lids' by daughter, 1904.

HOLDEN, LUTHER (1815-1906), surgeon; studied at St. Bartholomew's Hospital, Berlin, and Paris; M.R.C.S., 1838; F.R.C.S., 1844; president, 1878; Hunterian orator, 1881; demonstrator (1846), lecturer on surgical anatomy (1859-71), surgeon (1865) at St. Bartholomew's Hospital; on retirement (1881) spent much time in foreign travel; good linguist, classic, and sportsman; primarily interested in anatomical study of surgery; published 'Human Osteology', 3 vols. 1856, and other medical works; portrait by Millais.

HOLDEN, SIR FREDERICK WILLIAM (1850-1909), first speaker of the Australian Commonwealth house of representatives, 1901-8; born in South Australia; editor and proprietor of 'Burra Record'; mayor of Burra, 1886-1890; member of legislative assembly of S. Australia from 1887; treasurer of colony, 1889-90, 1894-5; premier, 1892 and 1899; commissioner of public works, 1898; K.C.M.G., 1902.

HOLDEN, SIR THOMAS WILLIAM, first baronet (1849-1924), Indian civil servant; born in New Brunswick; passed into Indian civil service, 1870; proceeded to India, 1872; employed as secretary in board of revenue, &c., at Allahabad, 1876; under-secretary to government of India, revenue department, 1881-5; director of land records and agriculture, 1888; assisted in famine relief operations, 1896-7; secretary to government of India, revenue and agricultural department, 1898-1901; secretary, revenue, statistics, and commerce department, India Office, 1901-12; permanent under-secretary of state, India Office, 1912-19; created baronet, 1920.

HOLDEN, SIR THOMAS HUNGERFORD (1843-1929), Anglo-Indian frontier surveyor; entered Royal Engineers, 1862; sent to India, 1865; temporary assistant surveyor, Bhutan expedition, 1868-6; subsequently appointed permanently to Survey Department; began long connexion with North-West Frontier as survey officer with Southern Afghanistan field force, 1878; served on Russo-Afghan Boundary Commission, 1884-6; superintendent of frontier surveys, 1892-8; member of Pamirs commission, 1898; commissioner for Perso-Baluch boundary, 1898; for Argentine-Chile boundary, 1902-3; K.C.M.G., 1903.

HOLE, SAMUEL REYNOLDS (1819-1904), dean of Rochester and author; B.A., Brasenose College, Oxford, 1844; M.A., 1878; published 'Hints to Freshmen, 1847; vicar of Caunton, 1850-87; prebendary of Lincoln, 1878; enthusiastic huntsman, sportsman, and gardener; close friend of John Leech [q.v.] from 1858, who introduced him to Thackeray; contributed to 'Punch'; a successful rosegrower and organizer of flower shows; his 'Book about Roses' (1869) popularized rose growing; a popular preacher and platform orator; dean of Rochester and D.D. Lambeth, 1887; lectured in United States, 1894; a humorous and charming letter writer; 'Letters' edited with memoir by G. A. B. Dewar, 1907; published 'Memories', 1892, 'More Memories', 1894, and 'Then and Now', 1901; wrote hymns, sermons, and addresses.

HOLIDAY, HENRY (1839-1937), painter and worker in stained glass; his best-known painting, 'Dante and Beatrice', exhibited 1883; worked for Powell Glass Works, Whitefriars, as designer of cartoons for stained glass, from 1863; examples of his work to be seen all over England, on continent of Europe, and in United States.

HOLLAND, SIR JOHN (1820-1910), solicitor; admitted solicitor, 1844; president of Law Society, 1878-9; knighted, 1902; published 'Jottings of an Old Solicitor', 1906.

HOLLAND, HENRY SCOTT (1847-1916), theologian and preacher; B.A., Balliol College, Oxford; a senior student of Christ Church, 1870-84; canon of St. Paul's, 1884-1911; position became identified with social and economic questions; helped to found Christian Social Union, and edited 'Commonwealth', 1895-1913; contributed to 'Luz Mundl', 1899; regius professor of divinity at Oxford, 1911-18; raised standard required for divinity degrees; published little except sermons and articles largely owing to indifferent health; liberal in politics and theology, but high churchman.

HOLLAND, SIR HENRY THURSTAN, second baronet, and first viscount KNUTSFORD (1828-1914); son of Sir Henry Holland [q.v.], first baronet; B.A., Trinity College, Cambridge; called to bar (Inner Temple), 1846; assistant under-secretary for Colonies, 1870-4; succeeded father, 1878; conservative M.P., Midhurst, 1874-88; P.O., 1888; secretary of state for colonies, 1898-93; created baron and G.O.M.G., 1888; viscount, 1898.

HOLLAND, SIR THOMAS BRISKINE (1832-1920), jurist; son of Rev. T. A. Holland [q.v.]; B.A., Magdalen College, Oxford, 1856; called to bar (Lincoln's Inn), 1863; Chichele professor of international law and diplomacy, Oxford, 1874-1910; fellow of All Souls College, 1876-1906; K.C. and F.B.A., 1901; knighted, 1917; works include, edition of text of 'De Jure Belli' of Alberico Gentili (q.v., 1917); 'Letters to 'The Times'' on War and Neutrality (1909, 1931); 'The Elements of Jurisprudence' (1880, 18th ed. 1924); this, his most important book, belongs to school of English analytical jurisprudence founded by John Austin (q.v.).

HOLLINGSHEAD, JOHN (1827-1904), journalist and theatrical manager; after some commercial travelling, became joint-editor with W. Moy Thomas (q.v.) of 'Weekly Mail', 1856; joined staff of 'Household Words', 1857; wrote 'The Birthplace of Podgers', 1858; his contributions to press were republished in several volumes, 1859-62; one of first contributors to 'Cornhill Magazine', 1859; dramatic critic to 'Daily News', 1863-8; occasional contributor to 'Punch'; took part in such public movements as reform of entertainment licensing regulations and of copyright law; stage director of Alhambra, 1865-8; first manager of Gaiety Theatre, 1868-88; inaugurated 'matinées', produced mainly burlesque, but also operas and serious drama; introduced Ibsen to English public in 'Pillars of Society', 1880; brought complete 'Comédie Française' company, including Sarah Bernhardt and the Coquelines to London, 1879; also managed for short time Opera Comique, London; lost fortune in theatrical speculation; published 'My Lifetime', 2 vols. 1895, and 'Gaiety Chronicles', 1898.

HOLLOWELL, JAMES HIRST (1851-1909), advocate of unsectarian education; early became temperance agent and lecturer; joined congregational ministry, 1875; serving in London, Nottingham, and Rochdale; founded Northern Counties Education League for unsectarian education; organised 'passive resistance movement', 1903; an untiring pamphleteer.

HOLMAN-HUNT, WILLIAM (1827-1910), painter. [See HUNT.]

HOLME, CHARLES (1848-1923), founder and editor of 'The Studio' magazine; in woollen business, 1871-93; became interested in art; founded 'The Studio', a magazine of fine and applied art, 1893; primary aim not commercial, but illustration and furtherance of good design.

HOLMES, AUGUSTA (MARY ANNE) (1847-1903), composer; born in Paris; pupil of César Franck; published compositions from 1862 onwards; chief were 'In Exitu Israel', 1874, 'Ireland', 1882 (a symphonic poem), 'Ode Triomphale', 1889, 'La Montagne Noire' (opera); became Roman Catholic, 1902; died at Versailles.

HOLMES, SIR RICHARD RIVINGTON (1835-1911), librarian of Windsor Castle, 1870-1908; son of John Holmes (q.v.); assistant at British Museum, 1854; archaeologist to Abyssinian expedition, 1868; purchased Abyssinian MSS. for British Museum; rearranged and augmented the royal collections; K.C.V.O., 1905; a delicate pen draughtsman, water-colour artist, stained glass designer, and designer of bookbindings; F.S.A., 1880; compiled lives of Queen Victoria, 1897, King Edward VII, 1910, and works on Windsor.

HOLMES, THOMAS (1846-1918), police-court missionary and philanthropist; iron-moulder, 1858-79; police-court missionary, Lambeth (1885-9), North London (1889-1906); founded Home Workers' Aid Association to redress conditions of sweated female labour, 1904; secretary to Howard Association for prison and criminal law reform, 1905-16; wrote on problems connected with crime.

HOLMES, TIMOTHY (1826-1907), surgeon; B.A. Pembroke College, Cambridge (2nd wrangler and twelfth classic), 1847; hon. fellow, 1902; hon. M.S., 1900; F.R.C.S., 1853; house surgeon at St. George's Hospital; surgeon, 1867-87; Hunterian professor of surgery at Royal College of Surgeons, 1878; president of Royal Medical Society, 1900; edited 'A System of Surgery', 4 vols. 1880-4; wrote 'Life' of Sir Benjamin Brodie, 1898.

HOLROYD, SIR CHARLES (1861-1917), painter-etcher and director of National Gallery, London; studied art under Alphonse Legros (q.v.) at Slade School, London; fellow of Society of Painter-Etchers, 1885; travelled in Italy, 1888-91 and 1894-7; exhibited at Royal Academy, but chiefly excelled as etcher of figure subjects, landscapes (English and Italian), and portraits; first keeper of Tate Gallery, 1897-1906; knighted, 1903; director of National Gallery, 1906-16; wrote 'Michael Angelo Buonarroti' (1903).

HOLROYD, HENRY NORTH, third BARON OF

SHEFFIELD (1832-1909), patron of cricket; grandson of first earl (q.v.); in diplomatic service, 1862-6; conservative M.P. for East Sussex, 1857-65; president of Sussex county cricket club from 1879; arranged first-class cricket matches at Sheffield Park; took English team to Australia, 1891-3; sold his Gibbon MSS. to British Museum, 1895; died at Beaulieu.

HOLYOAKE, GEORGE JACOB (1817-1906), co-operator and secularist; at first a tinmith and white-smith of Birmingham; joined Birmingham reform league, 1831; became a Chartist, 1832; joined Owenites, 1838; present at Birmingham Chartist riots, 1839; minister to Owenites at Worcester, 1840; became rationalist; edited 'Oracle of Reason', 1841; sentenced at Gloucester to six months' imprisonment for blasphemy, 1842; published account of trial, 1851; came to London, 1843, advocating freedom of thought and co-operation and co-partnership; edited 'Reasoner', 1846, and 'Leader', 1850; invented the term 'secularism', which he explained in pamphlet, 1854; advocated abolition of paper duties, extension of the franchise, and electoral reform; twice visited Canada and United States to study economic conditions; started 'The Secular Review', 1876; chief publications include 'A History of Co-operation', 1876-7, 'Self-help by the People', 1855, lives of Tom Paine, 1861, Robert Owen, 1859, and John Stuart Mill, 1873, besides his autobiographical books, 'Sixty Years of an Agitator's Life', 2 vols. 1892, and 'By-gones worth Remembering', 1906; Lives by J. MacCabe, 2 vols. 1908, and C. W. F. Goss, 1908.

HOOD, ARTHUR WILLIAM ALCAND, first BARON HOOD, of Arvalon (1824-1901), admiral; entered navy, 1836; commander, 1854; served in China, 1857-8, and in North American Station, 1862-6; in charge of Royal Naval College, Portsmouth, 1866; director of naval ordinance, 1869-74; C.B., 1871; commanded Channel fleet, 1878-82; first sea lord of admiralty, 1885; admiral and K.C.B., 1885; G.C.B., 1889; raised to peerage, 1892.

HOOD, SIR HORACE LAMBERT ALEXANDER (1870-1916), rear-admiral; entered royal navy, 1882; served in Nile campaign, 1887-8; D.S.O. for attack on Derwishes at Illig, Somaliland, 1904; commanded Naval College, Osborne, 1910-13; rear-admiral, 1913; naval secretary to first lord of admiralty, 1914; commanded third battle squadron of grand fleet, with flag on board 'Invincible', 1915; blown up at Battle of Jutland, 1916; posthumous K.C.B.

HOOK, JAMES CLARKE (1819-1907), painter; studied at Royal Academy Schools; exhibited at Academy from 1839; A.R.A., 1850; R.A., 1860; subjects mainly old-fashioned genre of historical anecdote until 1854, when he visited Cloyly; thenceforth treated English coast scenery; praised by Ruskin; best-known works were 'Pamphilus Relating his Story', 1844, 'Lufti, Boy!', 1859, 'The Samphire Gatherer', 1875, 'The Stream', 1885 (now in Tate Gallery); also painted portraits.

HOOKER, SIR JOSEPH DALTON (1817-1911), botanist and traveller; son of Sir William Jackson Hooker (q.v.); graduated M.D. Glasgow, 1839; inherited from father a passion for botanical research; naturalist in Sir J. C. Ross's Antarctic expedition, 1839-43; published botanical results in six volumes, 1844-60; became intimate with Darwin, and collaborated with him in researches into the origin of species from 1843; greatly advanced the knowledge of geographical distribution of species; rejected theory of multiple origins of 'Flora Antarctica', 1844-7; appointed botanist to Geological Survey, 1845; F.R.S., 1847; explored Sikkim, part of Eastern Nepal, and passed into Tibet, 1848-9, making observations in geology and meteorology; travelled in Eastern Bengal, 1850-1, collecting plants representing some 700 species; published 'Himalayan Journals', 1854, and 'Illustrations of Sikkim-Himalayan Plants', 1855; appointed assistant director at Kew, 1855; published in 1860 his 'Introductory Essay on the Flora of Tasmania', in which he adopted the newly propounded Darwin-Wallace theory that species are derivative and mutable; went on scientific expedition to Syria and examined cedar grove on Mt. Lebanon, 1860; began with George Bentham (q.v.) the 'Genera Plantarum', 1862 (last part issued, 1883); succeeded father as director at Kew, 1865; published 'Handbook of the New Zealand Flora', 1867, and 'Student's Flora of the British Islands', 1870; explored with John Ball (1818-89, q.v.) the Great Atlas in Morocco; reached Tagherot Pass; president of Royal Society, 1873-8; visited the rocky mountains of Colorado and Utah, 1877; published report of botanical researches, 1881; published 'Flora of British India', 7 vols. 1882-97, in which he described nearly 17,000 species; retired from Kew, 1888; edited Sir Joseph Banks's 'Journal', 1896, and wrote on Indian Flora in 'Imperial Gazetteer of India', 1904; C.B., 1869; K.O.S.I., 1877; G.O.S.I., 1897; O.M., 1907; received many honours from English and foreign scientific societies and universities; portraits by George Richmond, the Hon. John Collier, and Sir Hubert von Herkomer; buried at Kew.

HOPE, JOHN ADRIAN LOUIS, seventh EARL OF HOPESTOUN and first MARQUESS OF LINLITHGOW (1860-1908), first governor-general of the commonwealth of Australia; succeeded to earldom, 1873; conservative lord-in-waiting to Queen Victoria, 1885-9; governor of Victoria and G.O.M.G., 1889; paymaster-general, 1896-8; lord chamberlain, 1898; president of Institution of Naval Architects, 1898-1900; first governor-general of commonwealth of Australia, 1900-2; K.T. and G.C.V.O., 1900; resigned owing to insufficient salary, May 1902; created Marquess of Linlithgow, Oct. 1903; secretary of state for Scotland, 1906; sold Rosyth for naval base to government, 1903; died at Pau; a keen sportsman and huntsman.

HOPE, LAURENCE (pseudonym) (1865-1904), poetess. [See NICOLSON, ADLEA FLORENCE.]

HOPE, SIR WILLIAM HENRY ST. JOHN (1854-1919), antiquary; B.A., Peterhouse, Cambridge; carried out excavations at Dale Abbey, Repton Priory, Lewes Priory, and Alnwick Abbey; F.S.A., 1884; assistant secretary to Society of Antiquaries, 1885-1910; knighted, 1914; writings include numerous ecclesiastical and heraldic works and over 200 papers.

HOPESTOUN, seventh EARL OF (1860-1908), first governor-general of the commonwealth of Australia. [See HOPE, JOHN ADRIAN LOUIS.]

HOPKINS, EDWARD JOHN (1818-1901), organist; organist at Temple Church, London, 1843-98; hon. Mus.Doc. Toronto, 1886; compiled 'Temple Church Choral Service Book', 1867, and 'Temple Psalter', 1883; wrote 'The Organ, its History and Construction', 1855, a standard work; 'Life' by Dr. C. W. Pearce, 1910.

HOPKINS, JANE ELLICE (1836-1904), social reformer; daughter of William Hopkins [q.v.]; worked among navvies at Cambridge; removed to Brighton; edited 'Life and Letters' of James Hinton [q.v.], 1878; founded White Cross League, 1886; published 'Active Service', 1872-4, 'The Power of Womanhood', 1899, and 'The Story of Life', 1903.

HOPKINSON, BERTRAM (1874-1918), engineer and physicist; son of Dr. John Hopkinson, F.R.S. [q.v.]; B.A., Trinity College, Cambridge; professor of mechanism and applied mechanics at Cambridge, 1903-18; F.R.S., 1910; joined Royal Engineers, 1914; carried out investigations for government on explosives and aircraft equipment; C.M.G., 1918; killed flying.

HOPWOOD, CHARLES HENRY (1829-1904), recorder of Liverpool, 1886-1904; called to bar, 1853; Q.C., 1874; treasurer of Middle Temple, 1895; edited 'Registration Cases, 1863-72', 3 vols. 1868-79; liberal M.P. for Stockport, 1874-85, and for Middleton division of Lancashire, 1892-5; energetic supporter of principle of personal liberty, of trade unionism, and adult suffrage; opposed severity of punishment and as recorder inflicted short sentences; founded Romilly Society, 1897; edited 'Middle Temple Records', 1904.

HORNBY, JAMES JOHN (1826-1909), provost of Eton; son of Admiral Sir Phipps Hornby [q.v.]; educated at Eton and Balliol College, Oxford; first-class classic and fellow of Brasenose, 1849; rowed in Oxford eight, 1849 and 1851; M.A., 1851; D.D., 1869; principal of Bishop Cosin's Hall, Durham, 1853-64; headmaster of Eton, 1868-84; provost, 1884-1909; pioneer of Alpine climbing; hon. D.C.L. Durham, 1882.

HORNE, HENRY SINCLAIR, BARON HORNE, of Strikcoke, co. Caithness (1861-1929), general; joined Royal Artillery, 1880; served in South African war, 1899-1902; inspector, horse and field artillery, 1912; proceeded to France as brigadier-general commanding Royal Artillery, I Army Corps, 1914; took part in retreat from Mons, battles of Marne, Aisne, and first battle of Ypres; commanded second division of I Corps, 1915; accompanied Lord Kitchener [q.v.] to Dardanelles, 1915; commanded XV Corps and took part in battle of Somme, 1916; commanded First Army, 1916; assault on Vimy ridge successfully carried out by First Army, 1917; ridge saved during great German attack, 1918; advance of First Army during 1918 ended with occupation of Mons (Nov.); general, 1919; received thanks of parliament, £50,000, and created baron, 1919; commander-in-chief, Eastern command, 1919-23; retired, 1926.

HORNIMAN, FREDERICK JOHN (1835-1906), founder of the Horniman Museum; joined father's tea packing business; travelled extensively, making natural history collections; built Horniman's Museum at Forest Hill, 1897, and presented it to London County Council, 1901; liberal M.P. for Falmouth and Penryn boroughs, 1895-1904.

HORSLEY, JOHN CALCOTT (1817-1902), painter; son of William Horsley [q.v.]; studied art at Royal Academy, where he exhibited from 1839; opposed to study of nude model; painted domestic scenes, e.g. 'Holy Communion', 'The Gaele's Daughter', 'L'Allegro', and 'Il Penseroso'; also painted portraits; A.R.A., 1855; R.A., 1856; treasurer, 1882-97; organized 'Old Masters' exhibitions at Academy, 1875-90; interested in music; friend of Mendelssohn and John Leech; published 'Recollections of a Royal Academician', 1903.

HORSLEY, JOHN WILLIAM (1845-1921), philanthropist; chaplain to Clerkenwell Prison, 1876-86; vicar of Holy Trinity, Woolwich, 1889; rector of St. Peter's, Walworth, 1894; mayor of Southwark, 1910; works on social questions include 'Jottings from Jail' (1887) and 'How Criminals are Made and Prevented' (1912).

HORSLEY, SIR VICTOR ALEXANDER HADEN (1857-1916), physiologist and surgeon; son of John Calcott Horsley, R.A. [q.v.]; educated at University College Hospital; professor-superintendent to Brown Institution (University of London), 1884-90; pursued there three main lines of study—action of thyroid gland, protective treatment against rabies, and localization of function in the brain; F.R.S., professor of pathology, University College, and surgeon to National Hospital for Paralysis and Epilepsy, Queen Square, 1886; knighted, 1902; consultant to Mediterranean expeditionary force, 1915; died at Amarah; one of the foremost surgeons of his day; a prolific writer.

HORNE, CHARLES (1863-1929), civil servant in Sarawak, ethnologist, and naturalist; cadet in Sarawak civil service, 1884; rose to be divisional resident; member of supreme council and judge of supreme court of Sarawak, 1904; established friendly relations with and brought under control warlike natives; retired, 1907; a keen naturalist, who enriched zoological and botanical records with many new species, &c., and benefited British national collections; successfully investigated principal cause of disease beri-beri; carried out important ethnographical research among Sarawak tribes; wrote several books on subject; made first reliable map of Sarawak.

HORNE, SIR ALEXANDER (1853-1925), diplomatist and Chinese explorer; joined Chinese consular service, 1876; sent on special service to Chungking, Szechwan, 1882; undertook travels in the interior; served in Canton, Wenchow, Chefoo, Amoy, Tamsui, Wuhu; twice in charge of consulate at Newchang; first consul-general at Chingtu, Szechwan, 1903; British delegate at Shanghai International Opium Commission, 1909; retired, having travelled in twenty-one out of twenty-two Chinese provinces, 1912; knighted, 1907; unrivalled in knowledge and presentation of possibilities of Chinese trade; author of many books on China.

HOPKINS, SIR ANTHONY HILEY (1828-1901), admiral; entered navy, 1842; served against Arab slavers in Mozambique; in Kafir war, 1861-2; in China, 1857-8; commander, 1858; at reduction of Taku forts; commanded in North American, Channel, and Australian waters, 1869-78; C.B., 1877; rear-admiral, 1879; lord commissioner of admiralty, 1880; K.C.B., 1885; commander-in-chief in Mediterranean, 1889-91; admiral and senior naval lord of admiralty, 1891; G.C.B., 1893.

HOUGHTON, WILLIAM STANLEY (1881-1913), dramatist; engaged in father's cloth business in Manchester, 1897-1912; from 1900 made play-making and acting his hobby; contributed theatrical notices to 'Manchester Guardian', 1906-13; performed dramatic works include 'The Dear Departed' (1908), 'Independent Means' (1909), 'The Younger Generation' and 'The Master of the House' (1910), 'Fancy-Free' (1911), and 'Hindle Wakes' (1913); influenced by Ibsen; portrayed Lancashire life; reached height of his art in 'Hindle Wakes'.

HOWARD, SIR EBENEZER (1850-1925), originator of the garden city movement and founder of Letchworth and Welwyn garden cities; clerk in City of London; memo-grapher in Chicago, 1879-7; influenced by outcome of teaching of Emerson, Lowell, and Whitman; shorthand writer to official reporters to Houses of Parliament; carried on shorthand business of his own until 1920; influenced by Edward Bellamy's 'Looking Backward'; published 'Tomorrow', 1898; set himself to find remedy for unhealthy conditions produced by overcrowding in great cities and for depopulation of country-side; proposed to build new towns called 'garden cities', both residential and industrial, surrounded by rural belt; formed Garden City Association, 1899; estate of Letchworth, Hertfordshire, bought and development begun, 1903; principle that town should own land adopted in modified form; bought, and subsequently developed, Welwyn estate, Hertfordshire, 1919; president of International Garden Cities and Town Planning Association, 1900-28; exercised important influence on town planning; knighted, 1927.

HOWARD, GEORGE JAMES, ninth EARL OF CARLISLE (1843-1911), amateur artist; grandson of sixth earl [q.v.]; educated at Eton and Trinity College, Cambridge; liberal M.P. for East Cumberland, 1879-80, 1881-5; joined liberal unionists, 1880; succeeded to earldom, 1889; closed public-houses on his Yorkshire and Cumberland estates; skilled water-colour landscape painter; published 'A Picture Songbook', 1910; trustee of National Gallery, to which was transferred his Mabuse's 'Adoration of the Magi', 1911; his son, CHARLES JAMES STANLEY HOWARD, tenth earl (1867-1912), was unionist M.P. for South Birmingham, 1904-11, and parliamentary whip.

HOWARD, HENRY FITZALAN, fifteenth DUKE OF NORFOLK (1847-1917); son of H. G. FitzAlan-Howard, fourteenth duke [q.v.]; succeeded father, 1860; educated at Oratory School, Edglaston; as young man took up cause of his co-religionists, especially Irish Catholics; postmaster-general, 1896-1900; maintained close relations with Vatican; as Earl Marshal largely responsible for coronation ceremonies of Edward VII and George V; great builder of Gothic churches.

HOWARD, ROSALIND FRANCES, COUNTESS OF CARLISLE (1846-1921), promoter of women's political rights and of temperance reform; daughter of Edward John, second Baron Stanley of Alderley [q.v.]; married George Howard, afterwards ninth earl of Carlisle [q.v.], 1864; supported Home Rule; president of National British Women's Temperance Association (1903) and of Women's Liberal Federation (1891-1901, 1906-14); possessed remarkable business ability.

HOWELL, DAVID (1831-1903), dean of St. David's; held various Welsh livings, 1861-97; dean of St. David's, 1897-1903; member of first Cardiff school board, 1875; well versed in Welsh literature and hymnology; gifted orator of evangelical fervour; mediator between church and Welsh nonconformity.

HOWELL, GEORGE (1833-1910), labour leader and writer; joined Chartists, 1847; prominent in 'nine hours' struggle, 1859; joined 'the Junta' which directed trade union affairs, 1860; secretary to parliamentary committee of trade unions congress, 1871-5; prominent in securing Trade Unions Acts of 1871 and 1876; liberal M.P. for Bethnal Green, 1886-96; received civil list pension, 1906; publications include 'Trade Unionism New and Old', 1891, 'Labour Legislation, Labour Movements and Labour Leaders', 1902; his economic library is in the Bishopsgate Institute.

HOWES, THOMAS GEORGE BOND (1853-1906), zoologist; assisted Huxley at Royal College of Science, South Kensington, till 1880; succeeded Huxley as professor of zoology, 1896; excellent teacher of biology and skilled draughtsman; published Atlases of 'Elementary Biology', 1886, and 'Zootomy', 1902; made researches into comparative anatomy of the vertebrata; F.R.S., 1897; LL.D. St. Andrews, 1898.

HOWITT, ALFRED WILLIAM (1830-1906), Australian anthropologist; son of William and Mary Howitt [q.v.]; left Nottingham for Australia, 1862; explored central Australia, 1859; brought back remains of R. O'Hara Burke [q.v.] and W. J. Wills [q.v.] to Melbourne, 1863; police magistrate of Gippsland, 1863-89; made study of Australian aboriginals; admitted a member of the Kurnai tribe; with Lorimer Fison [q.v.] published 'Kamilaroi and Kurnai', 1880, and 'The Kurnai Tribe', 1880; secretary of mines in Victoria, 1889, and commissioner of audit, 1896; chairman of royal commission on coal-mining, 1905-6; chief work, 'The Native Tribes of South-East Australia', 1904; C.M.G., 1906; died at Melbourne.

HOWLAND, SIR WILLIAM PHARCE (1811-1907),

Canadian statesman; born in New York; went to Canada, 1830; bought mills near Toronto, 1840; liberal M.P. for West York, Ontario, 1857; finance minister, 1862 and 1866; receiver-general, 1863; postmaster-general, 1864-6; at Canadian federation conference in London, 1866; minister of inland revenue in first confederation cabinet, 1867-8; lieutenant-governor of Ontario, 1868-73; K.C.M.G., 1879; promoted building of Canadian Pacific Railway, 1880.

HUBBARD, LOUISA MARIA (1836-1906), social reformer; born in St. Petersburg; her 'Work for Ladies in Elementary Schools', 1873, led to the establishment of training college for girls at Chichester, 1873; published 'The Englishwoman's Year Book', 1875-98; advocated nursing, massage, typewriting, and gardening as middle-class women's occupations; helped to form Working Ladies' Guild, 1876, and Teachers' Guild, 1884; 'Memoir' by E. A. Pratt, 1898.

HUDDART, JAMES (1847-1901), Australian shipowner; joined uncle's shipping firm at Geelong, Australia, 1864; founded intercolonial steamship line, 1870; aimed at 'All Red Route' by starting Canadian-Australian Royal Mail Steamship line between Sydney and Vancouver (1893) and a line between Canada and England (1894); scheme failed through lack of English support.

HUDLESTON (formerly SIMPSON), WILLFRED HUDLESTON (1828-1909), geologist; educated at Uppingham and St. John's College, Cambridge; made ornithological collections in Lapland, Algeria, Eastern Atlas, Greece, and Turkey, 1855-60; F.G.S., 1867; president, 1892-4; F.R.S., 1884; travelled in India, 1895; published sixty papers dealing with jurassic system and colite gastropods, 1887-96, and Indian, Syrian, and African geology.

HUDSON, CHARLES THOMAS (1828-1903), naturalist; B.A., St. John's College, Cambridge (16th wrangler), 1852; M.A., 1855; LL.D., 1866; headmaster of Bristol grammar school, 1855-60; conducted private school at Clifton, 1861-81; devoted leisure to microscopical research, and to study of Rotifera; president of Royal Microscopical Society, 1888-90; F.R.S., 1889; published 'The Rotifers: or Wheel-Animalcules', 1886-7.

HUDSON, SIR ROBERT ARUNDELL (1864-1927), political organizer; obtained post in National Liberal Federation, Birmingham, 1883; removed with Federation to London, 1886; secretary of Federation and of Liberal Central Association, 1893; influential in guiding party through troublous period; successful chairman of joint finance committee of British Red Cross Society and Order of St. John of Jerusalem, 1914; knighted, 1906; G.B.E., 1918.

HUDSON, WILLIAM HENRY (1841-1922), naturalist and writer; born near Buenos Aires; ran wild on farms and ranches of Rio de la Plata; watched bird life of great plains with care and passion; his career entirely changed by fever, which affected his heart, at age of fifteen; went to England, 1869; lived for some years in drab London boarding-house surroundings and in considerable poverty; published 'The Purple Land that England Lost', 1885; 'A Crystal Age', 1887; 'Argentine Ornithology' (with Dr. P. L. Sclater), 1888-9; 'The Naturalist in La Plata' (1892), first book to bring him into prominence; followed it with 'Birds in a Village' (1893); thenceforth his books had increasing sale; awarded civil list pension, 1901; his most interesting book 'Far Away and Long Ago' (1918); his philosophy of life based upon observation of animal world; possessed an absolute freedom of spirit and detachment combined with great sensitiveness and receptivity and an almost mystical sense of natural beauty.

HÜGEL, FRIEDRICH VON, Baron of the Holy Roman Empire (1852-1925), theologian. [See VON HÜGEL.]

HUGGINS, SIR WILLIAM (1824-1910), astronomer; son of London silk mercer; educated at City of London School; after a few years in business, built observatory at Tulse Hill, 1856; applied to stars the methods of Kirchhoff's researches (1862) into chemical constitution of sun; with William Allen Miller [q.v.] devised the star spectroscope, and presented to Royal Society results of first investigations with it in 'Lines of the Spectra of Some of the Fixed Stars', 1863, showing that in structure the stars resemble the sun; F.R.S., 1866; awarded royal medal, 1866; president, 1900-6; president of the Royal Astronomical Society, 1876-8; made observations of nebula in Orion (1866) and of several comets; examined motions of Sirius (1868) and other stars; with refracting telescope determined (1870-5) the velocity of stars; photographed successfully the spectrum of Vega (1876), of larger stars, of the moon, and the planets; method applied to Great Nebula in Orion, 1883; hon. LL.D. Cambridge, 1870; D.C.L. Oxford, 1871; awarded medals from Royal and Royal Astronomical societies, and from foreign and American societies; awarded civil list pension, 1890; president of British Association, 1891; K.C.B., 1897; O.M., 1903; observed the new star in Auriga, 1893; made valuable researches as to extent and presence of calcium in sun, 1897; published results of work in 'An Atlas of Representative Stellar Spectra', 1900, and 'The Scientific Papers of Sir William Huggins', 1909; helped much by his wife in his researches; portrait by the Hon. John Collier.

HUGHES, ARTHUR (1833-1915), painter; studied under Alfred Stevens at Somerset House school of design and at Royal Academy Schools; adopted pre-Raphaelite principles; exhibited at Royal Academy, 1856-1908; chief pictures 'The Knight of the Sun' and 'Home from Sea'; illustrated poems of Tennyson, Christina Rossetti, works of George MacDonald, &c.

HUGHES, EDWARD (1833-1908), portrait painter; taught by father and by John Pye [q.v.]; student at Royal Academy Schools; exhibited at Royal Academy from 1847, at first subject pictures, but later portraits; excelled in portraits of ladies, who included Queen Mary and Queen Alexandra; idealised sitters; work reproduced in 'The Book of Beauty', 1896.

HUGHES, HUGH PRIOR (1847-1903), methodist divine; B.A. London, 1869; M.A., 1881; from 1884 leader in London of the methodist 'forward movement'; started 'Methodist Times', 1885, and West London Mission, 1886; promoted Free Church Congress, 1892; first president of Evangelical Free Churches, 1896, and president of Wesleyan Methodist Conference, 1898; magnetic evangelical preacher; a radical in politics, but an imperialist; supported Boer war, 1899-1901; opposed conservative Education Act, 1902; published religious works; 'Life' by his daughter, 1904.

HUGHES, JOHN (1842-1902), Wesleyan methodist divine; entered ministry, 1867; an eloquent preacher and writer in Welsh of religious prose and verse under bardic name of 'Glanystwyth'.

HUGHES, SIR SAM (1853-1921), Canadian soldier and politician; born in Ontario; represented Victoria county in federal house as conservative, 1892-1921; served in South African war, 1899; minister of militia and defence, 1911-16; K.C.B., 1916; lieutenant-general, 1916.

HUME, FREDERICK EDWARD (1841-1909), botanist and artist; skilful sketcher of plants and flowers; his best work, 'Familiar Wild Flowers', 9 vols. 1876-1909; also published works on ornament, heraldry, flower lore, and art students' text-books; F.S.A., 1873.

HUTCHINSON, SIR EDWARD (1869-1925), newspaper proprietor; entered father's newspaper business in Manchester, 1895; produced 'Daily Sketch', 1909; retired, after selling for £8,000,000 his fourteen periodicals to Allied Newspapers Limited, 1923; created baronet, 1921; interests as newspaper proprietor commercial and free from political interference; interested in racing.

HUME, ALLAN COTTEAVIAN (1829-1913), Indian civil servant and ornithologist; son of Joseph Hume [q.v.]; joined Bengal civil service, 1849; C.B. for services in Indian Mutiny, 1860; retired, 1882; worked for Indian parliamentary system through 'Indian National Congress' convoked under his guidance, 1885-94; left India, 1894; collaborated in standard work on Indian game birds.

HUME, MARTIN ANDREW SHARP (1843-1910), author; visited relatives in Spain, 1860; travelled extensively in Central and South America; published 'The Courtships of Queen Elizabeth' and 'The Year after the Armada', 1898; editor of 'Spanish State Papers' at Public Record Office, 1895; published histories of Spain, 1898, and Modern Spain, 1899, and other works on Spanish history and literature; later works include 'Queens of Old Spain', 1907, 'Queen Elizabeth and Her England', 1910; lectured on Spanish history at Cambridge and elsewhere; hon. M.A. Cambridge, 1908.

HUME, WILLIAM HOTMAN (1827-1910), painter; born in Wood Street, Chesapeake; son of a warehouseman; studied art at British Museum and National Gallery from 1848; at Academy Schools, 1844; made acquaintance of Millais and D. G. Rossetti, 1844; exhibited at Academy from 1847; introduced Rossetti to Millais; founded in 1848 with them the pre-Raphaelite Brotherhood, which was joined subsequently by Woolner, W. M. Rossetti, James Collinson, and F. G. Stephens; consistently carried on the brotherhood's principles till death; his first pre-Raphaelite picture, 'Helen', hung in Royal Academy, 1849; visited France and Belgium with Rossetti, 1849; removed to Chelsea; found valuable patron in Thomas Combe [q.v.]; his 'Valentine rescuing Sylvia from Proteus' (1851), attacked by 'The Times', was powerfully defended by Ruskin, with whom he became intimate for life; 'The Hiredling Shepherd' (1852) praised by Carlyle; exhibited at Academy 'Claudio and Isabella' and 'Strayed Sheep', 1853, and in 1854 'The Awakened Conscience' and 'The Light of the World' (now at Keeble College, Oxford; later replica in St. Paul's Cathedral); travelled in Egypt and Palestine, 1854; began at Jerusalem 'The Finding of the Saviour in the Temple' (finished, 1860), and painted on the Dead Sea 'The Scapegoat' (exhibited, 1856); settled at Pimlico, soon removing to Tor Villa, Campden Hill, 1856; worked at illustrations to poems of Tennyson (1857), whom he accompanied on tour in Cornwall and Devonshire, 1860; refused associateship of the Royal Academy (1856), where he ceased to exhibit after 1874; helped to form Hogarth Club, 1858; designed furniture, setting fashion developed by William Morris; in Florence, where his first wife died, 1866; painted there 'Isabella and the Pot of Basil'; in Holy Land, 1869-71; painted at Jerusalem 'The Shadow of Death' (or 'The Shadow of the Cross'), 1870-1; after return to London (1871-5) was again in Holy Land, 1875-8; there painted 'Nazareth' and 'The Triumph of the Innocents'; on voyage out painted 'The Ship', 1875 (now in Tate Gallery); exhibited at the newly founded Grosvenor Gallery from 1877; sent there portraits of his sons, of Sir Richard Owen (1881), and of Dante Rossetti (1884), as well as 'Amaryllis' (1885); executed a water-colour, 'Christ among the Doctors', 1886, and 'May Morning on Magdalen Tower, Oxford', 1891; travelled through Italy and Greece to Egypt and Palestine, 1892; painted 'The Miracle of Sacred Fire', 1899; occasionally practised modelling with success; published 'Pre-Raphaelitism and the Pre-Raphaelite Brotherhood', 3 vols. 1905; O.M. and hon. D.C.L. Oxford 1905; buried in crypt of St. Paul's Cathedral; portraits by himself and Sir William Richmond.

HUNTER, COLIN (1841-1904), sea painter; after four years in Glasgow shipping office turned to seascape painting, 1861; exhibited 97 pictures, mainly seascapes, at Royal Academy from 1868; his chief works include 'Trawlers, waiting for Darkness', 1873, 'Their Only Harvest', 1878 (in Tate Gallery), and 'Signs of Herring', 1899; A.R.A., 1884; vigorous water-colour artist and etcher.

HUNTER, SIR ROBERT (1844-1913), solicitor, and authority on commons and public rights; partner in firm of solicitors to Commons Preservation Society, 1869; most notable case, Epping Forest, 1871-4; solicitor to General Post Office, 1882-1913; helped to found National Trust, 1896; knighted, 1894; K.C.B., 1911.

HUNTER, SIR WILLIAM GUYER (1837-1909), surgeon-general; F.R.C.S., 1858; M.D., 1867; F.R.C.P., 1875; joined Bengal medical service, 1850; civil surgeon in Upper Sindh during Mutiny, 1857; professor of medicine in Grant Medical College, Bombay, 1858; principal, 1876; surgeon-general, 1877; vice-chancellor of Bombay University, 1880; K.C.M.G., 1884; hon. LL.D. Aberdeen, 1894; member of London school board, 1886-7; conservative M.P. for Central Hackney, 1885-92.

HUNTINGTON, GEORGE (1836-1906), rector of Tenby from 1867; his ritualistic sympathies led to controversy with his bishop, 1877; publications include 'Church's Work in Our Large Towns', 1868, 'Random Recollections', 1895, sermons, and addresses.

HURLSTONE, WILLIAM YEATES (1876-1906), musical composer and pianist; grandson of Frederick Yeates Hurlstone [q.v.]; composed from age of nine; published orchestral compositions, pianoforte concertos, and cantatas.

HUTCHINSON, SIR JONATHAN (1828-1915), surgeon; educated at York medical school and St. Bartholomew's Hospital, London; assistant surgeon to London Hospital, 1854; full surgeon, 1868; F.R.C.S., 1868; Hunterian professor, 1879-83; F.R.S., 1885; left staff of London Hospital as emeritus professor of surgery, 1888; president of Royal College of Surgeons, 1889; delivered Hunterian oration, 1891; knighted, 1908; specialist of great repute on ophthalmology, dermatology, and especially on syphilis; works include 'Illustrations of Clinical Surgery' (1878-84) and 'Archives of Surgery' (1889-1900); formed museum of specimens and drawings.

HUTH, ALFRED HENRY (1850-1910), bibliophile; son of Henry Huth [q.v.]; travelled in East with Henry Thomas Buckle [q.v.]; 1861-2; publications include 'The Marriage of Near Kin', 1876, and 'Life' of Buckle, 3 vols. 1880; helped to found Bibliographical Society, 1893; by will left fifty volumes to British Museum; sale of part of collection realised over 108,000. (1911-12).

HUTTON, ALFRED (1839-1910), swordman; joined 79th highlanders, 1859; captain, 1868; organised Cameron Fencing Club, for which he published 'Swordsmanship', 1869; on retiring from army (1873) practised modern fencing and revived older systems; published 'Cold Steel', 1889, 'Fixed Bayonets', 1890, 'The Swordman', 1891, 'Old Sword Play', 1892, and 'The Sword and the Centuries', 1901; F.S.A., 1894; founder and chairman of Central London Throat and Ear Hospital, 1874; bequeathed collection of fencing literature to Victoria and Albert Museum.

HUTTON, FREDERICK WOLLASTON (1836-1905), geologist; served in Indian mercantile marine; in army, 1855-65; in Crimea and Indian Mutiny; emigrated to New Zealand, 1866; professor of geology in New Zealand University, 1890-3; curator of museum, 1893; interested in ornithology and ethnology; writings include 'Elementary Geology', 1876, 'The Lesson of Evolution', 1902, and works on fauna of New Zealand, 1904; F.R.S., 1892.

HUTTON, GEORGE CLARK (1825-1908), Presbyterian divine; educated at Edinburgh University; hon. D.D., 1906; United Presbyterian minister at Paisley from 1851 till death; advocated 'voluntary' movement in religion; strenuously advocated disestablishment of Church of Scotland in speeches and pamphlets; urged state secular education; moderator of synod, 1884; principal of United Presbyterian Theological College, 1893; co-principal with G. C. M. Douglas [q.v.] of United Free Church College, Glasgow, till 1903; moderator of United Free Church general assembly, 1906; a trenchant controversialist; evangelical preacher; published several religious works; 'Life' by Alexander Oliver, 1910.

HUTTON, WILLIAM HOLDEN (1860-1930), historian and dean of Winchester; B.A., Magdalen College, Oxford, 1882; first class in modern history; fellow of St. John's College, Oxford, 1884-1923; deacon, 1885; priest, 1886; archdeacon of Northampton and canon residentiary of Peterborough Cathedral, 1911; university reader in Indian history, 1912-30; dean of Winchester, 1919-30; died at Freiburg im Breisgau; works include lives of Wellesey (1893); More (1895); Land (1896); 'The English Church ... 1625-1714' (1903); and 'Lives of the English Saints' (Bampton Lectures, 1903).

HYNDMAN, HENRY MAYERS (1842-1921), socialist leader; on staff of 'Pall Mall Gazette', 1871-80; took lead in forming (Social) Democratic Federation, 1881; agitated among unemployed; opposed South African war; left British Socialist Party and formed National Socialist Party, 1916; published 'England for All' (1881), several books defending political Marxism, and two autobiographical works.

IMBERTON, SIR DENZIL CHARLES JELF (1847-1908), lieutenant-governor of the Punjab; passed into Indian civil service, 1863; assistant settlement officer at Karnal, 1871; published lucid report of district (1883) containing scholarly research into tribal and agricultural systems; reported on Punjab census of 1881, and based on it 'Outlines of Punjab Ethnography', 1883; compiled 'Punjab Gazetteer', 1883; head of department of public instruction, 1884; his report (1891) on working of Doocan Agriculturists' Relief Act of 1879 led to its amendment in interest of peasantry; O.S.I., 1896; chief commissioner of Central Provinces, 1898; joined viceroy's council, 1902; active in measures for prevention of famine; carried Co-operation Credit Act, 1904; K.O.S.I., 1908; lieutenant-governor of the Punjab, 1907-8; repressed disorders in Lahore and Rawalpindi; portrait by H. Oliver at Lahore.

IMBERTON, SIR HENRY JOHN SELWIN, seventh baronet, and BARON ROCKWOOD (1826-1902), politician. (See SELWIN-IMBERTON.)

IGNATIUS, PATRICK (1837-1906), preacher. (See LYN, JOSEPH LYNCHETTER.)

ILBERT, SIR COURTENAY PEREGRINE (1841-

1924), parliamentary draftsman; B.A., Balliol College, Oxford; Hertford, Ireland, Craven, and Eldon law scholar; first classes in honour moderations and 'literae humaniores'; fellow of Balliol, 1864; called to bar (Lincoln's Inn), 1869; joined department for drafting parliamentary bills; law member, council of governor-general of India, 1882-6; assistant parliamentary counsel to Treasury, 1886; parliamentary counsel, 1899-1902; clerk of House of Commons, 1902-31; K.C.S.I., 1895; K.C.B., 1908; G.C.B., 1911.

IMAGE, SELWYN (1849-1930), artist; B.A., New College, Oxford; disciple of John Ruskin; ordained, 1872; Slade professor of fine art at Oxford, 1910-16; best known by his designs for stained glass; also designed decorative title-pages, &c.; produced landscape drawings and water-colours.

INCE, WILLIAM (1825-1910), regius professor of divinity at Oxford; B.A., Lincoln College, Oxford (first class in lit. hum.), 1846; M.A., 1849; D.D., 1878; fellow of Exeter College, 1847; tutor, 1850; sub-rector, 1857-78; hon. fellow, 1882; regius professor of divinity and canon of Christ Church, 1878-1910; active in administration of Christ Church; an evangelical and moderate Anglican; published 'The Life and Times of St. Athanasius', 1896, and doctrinal pamphlets.

INDERWICK, FREDERICK ANDREW (1836-1904), lawyer and antiquary; called to bar (Inner Temple), 1858; Q.C., 1874; leader in probate and divorce division from 1876; commissioner in lunacy, 1903; liberal M.P. for Rye, 1880-5; mayor of Winchester, 1892-3; F.S.A., 1894; published, besides legal and historical works, 'Calendar of the Inner Temple Records, 1506-1714', 3 vols. 1896-1901.

INGLIS, ELSIE MAUD (1864-1917), physician and surgeon; born in India; studied medicine at Edinburgh, Glasgow, and Dublin; joint-surgeon to Edinburgh Bruntsfield Hospital and Dispensary and private practitioner in Edinburgh; inaugurated there maternity hospice staffed by women, 1901; founded Scottish Women's Suffrage Federation (1906) from which sprang Scottish Women's Hospitals committee (1914); joined Serbian unit, 1915; remained at post at Krushatz during German and Austrian invasion, 1915-16; organized two units in aid of Serbian division in Russia, 1916; worked at Braila, Galatz, and Reni, remaining till withdrawal of Serbs (1917).

INGRAM, JOHN KELLS (1823-1907), scholar, economist, and poet; brother of Thomas Dunbar Ingram [q.v.]; senior moderator, Trinity College, Dublin, 1842; fellow, 1844; senior fellow, 1884; senior lecturer, 1887; D.Litt., 1891; helped to found Dublin Philosophical Society (1842), and contributed to 'Transactions' abstruse papers in pure geometry; contributed sonnets to 'Dublin University Magazine', 1840; composed 'Who fears to speak of Ninety-eight?' which, printed anonymously in 'Nation' newspaper (1 April 1843), brought him fame as a popular nationalist poet; member of Royal Irish Academy, 1847; studied mathematics, classics, and metaphysics; met Carlyle in Dublin, 1849; visited Comte, 1865, and accepted his beliefs; professor of oratory at Trinity College, 1852-66; regius professor of Greek, 1866-77; librarian, 1879-87; vice-provost, 1898-9; started and edited 'Hermathena', 1874; trustee of the National Library of Ireland, 1881; hon. LL.D. Glasgow, 1893; president of Royal Irish Academy, 1892-6; helped to found Dublin Statistical Society, 1847; president, 1878-80; prepared for the society 'Considerations on the State of Ireland', 1863; wrote papers on poor law, 1875-6; vindicated economics as integral branch of sociology; contributed articles to 'Encyclopaedia Britannica' (9th edit.), of which those on political economy (1885) and slavery (1887) were separately published; his 'History of Political Economy' (1888) was translated into most European languages and Japanese; his economic views were coloured by Comtism; he declared his positivist beliefs in 'Outlines of the History of Religion', 1900; published other positivist works from 1901 to 1906, and issued 'Sonnets and other Poems', 1900. He distrusted Parnell and his nationalist associates, but opposed South African war, 1899.

INGRAM, THOMAS DUNBAR (1826-1901), Irish historical writer and lawyer; LL.B., Queen's College, Belfast, 1853; called to bar 1856; professor of Hindu law in Presidency College, Calcutta, 1866-77; author of 'A Critical Examination of Irish History', 2 vols., posthumous, 1904, and other works.

INNES, JAMES JOHN MCLEOD (1830-1907),

lieutenant-general royal (Bengal) engineers; born in Bengal; joined Bengal engineers, 1848; in Mutiny in charge of Machi Bhowan fort, and of mining operations at defence of Lucknow, which he described in 'Lucknow and Oude in the Mutiny,' 1896; awarded V.C. for gallantry at Sutanpur, 1858; accountant-general in Indian public works department, 1870-7; inspector-general of military works, 1882-8; lieutenant-general, 1886; C.B., 1907; published 'The Sepoy Revolt of 1857,' 1907, and 'Lives of Sir Henry Lawrence, 1898, and Sir James Browne, 1905.

IRBY, LEONARD HOWARD LOYD (1836-1905), lieutenant-colonel and ornithologist; son of Frederick Paul Irby [q.v.]; entered army, 1854; served at Sevastopol and at Lucknow; at Gibraltar (1864-73) devoted himself to ornithology; retired as lieutenant-colonel, 1874; published 'Ornithology of the Straits of Gibraltar,' 1875, and 'Key List of British Birds,' 1888; ardent lepidopterologist.

IRELAND, WILLIAM WOTHERSPOON (1832-1909), physician; M.D. Edinburgh, 1856; joined East India Company's service, 1856; severely wounded at siege of Delhi, 1856; retired on pension, 1859; medical superintendent of Scottish National Institution for Imbecile Children, 1869; wrote with authority on Idiocy and imbecility; applied medico-psychological knowledge to explain lives of celebrated men in 'The Blot upon the Brain,' 1885, and 'Through the Ivory Gate,' 1889; wrote also Life of Sir Harry Vane, 1905.

IRVINE, WILLIAM (1840-1911), Mogul historian; joined Indian civil service, 1863; magistrate and collector in North-West provinces, 1863-89; published 'Rent Digest,' 1868; wrote on Mogul history for 'Journal of Asiatic Society of Bengal,' 1896-1908; published 'The Army of the Indian Moghuls,' 1903, and translated and edited N. Manucci's account of India (1658-1707), which was published by the Indian government, 1907.

IRVING, SIR HENRY (1839-1905), actor, whose original name was JOHN HENRY BRODBRICK; born at Keinton Mandeville, Somerset; came of yeoman stock; clerk in London firm of East India merchants, 1852-6; made first appearance as actor at Lyceum Theatre, Sunderland, as Gaston in 'Richelieu,' 1856; in Edinburgh, 1857-9, where his mannerisms were criticized; first appeared in London, 1859; at Manchester under Charles Calvert, 1860-5; first acted role of Hamlet (his first Shakespearean character), 1864; after much provincial work, he toured with J. L. Toole, 1866; at Queen's Theatre, London, played Petruchio to Miss Ellen Terry's Katherine, Dec. 1867, and Bill Sikes in Oxfenford's 'Oliver Twist,' 1869; made first notable success in London as Digby Grant in Albery's 'Two Roses' at Vandeville, 1870; joined Bateman's company at Lyceum Theatre, 1871; became famous by his acting in 'The Bella,' Nov. 1871 to May 1872; took title parts of 'Charles I,' 1872, 'Eugene Aram,' 1873, and 'Richelieu,' 1873; showed originality in conception, but criticized for affectations, monotony, and weakness of voice; scored triumph as Hamlet, 1874; appeared as Macbeth, 1876, and Othello, 1876, and in 'Richard III,' 'The Lyons Mail,' 1877, and 'Louis XI,' 1878; became lessee and manager of Lyceum (1878), and began association—lasting till 1902—with Miss Ellen Terry; played Hamlet to her Ophelia, 1878; produced 'Merchant of Venice,' 1880, 'The Corsican Brothers,' 1880, Tennyson's 'The Cup,' 1881, 'Romeo and Juliet' (elaborately mounted) and 'Much Ado About Nothing,' 1882-3; made first of eight tours to America, 1883-4; on return produced 'Twelfth Night,' May 1884; gave weird and striking impersonation of Mephistopheles in Wills's 'Faust,' 1885-7; revived 'Macbeth,' 1888-9; with Miss Terry he appeared before Queen Victoria at Sandringham, April 1889; produced 'Henry VIII' (with splendid staging), Jan. 1892, and 'King Lear,' Nov. 1893; Tennyson's 'Becket' (Feb. 1893) proved one of Irving's greatest personal and financial triumphs; made fourth and most successful American tour, 1893-4; produced 'Waterloo,' 1894, 'King Arthur,' 1895, 'Cymbeline,' Sept. 1896, and 'Richard III,' Dec.; suffered pecuniary losses; transferred control of Lyceum to a company, 1898; appeared in Sardou's 'Robespierre,' 1899, and in 'Coriolanus,' 1901; revived 'Faust' and 'Merchant of Venice' at Lyceum, 1902; last appearance there, 19 July; produced at Drury Lane Sardou's 'Dante,' 1903; made eighth American tour, 1903-4; died in Bradford after acting in 'Becket' earlier in the evening, 1908; his ashes buried in Westminster Abbey; contributed to the 'Nineteenth Century'

'An Actor's Notes,' 1877-87; superintended the 'Henry Irving Shakespeare,' 1888; received hon. degrees from Dublin, Cambridge, and Glasgow; first actor to be knighted, 1895; Rede lecturer at Cambridge, 1898. An intellectual actor, of magnetic personality, but of mannered elocution and gait, he attracted again to theatre the intelligent playgoer and revived popular interest in Shakespeare. He neglected modern drama and depended much on sumptuous and elaborate mountings for which he secured assistance from leading artists and composers. Portraits in oils by Whistler, Edwin Long, Bastien-Lepage, the Hon. John Collier, Millais, James Archer, J. S. Sargent; in statuary by R. Jackson, W. Brodie, E. Onslow Ford, C. Pollock, Thomas Brock; 'Lives' by Austen Breerton, Bram Stoker, Percy Fitzgerald, William Archer, and F. A. Marshall.

IVEAGH, FIRST EARL OF (1847-1927), philanthropist. [See GUINNESS, EDWARD CECIL.]

IWAN-MÜLLER, ERNEST BRUCE (1858-1910), journalist; B.A., New College, Oxford (first class in lit. hum.), 1876; editor of the Tory 'Manchester Courier,' 1884-93; assistant editor of 'Pall Mall Gazette,' 1893-6; leader writer for 'Daily Telegraph,' 1896-1910; visited South Africa during Boer war, Ireland (1907), and Paris (1908); well versed in foreign politics; published 'Lord Milner in South Africa,' 1902, and 'Ireland To-day and To-morrow,' 1907.

JACKIE, WILLIAM (1841-1907), ironmaster and author; started iron works at Glasgow, 1880; liberal M.P. for Leith Burghs, 1885-6, for Stirling, 1892-5; wrote lives of Bismarck, 1899, and James Watt, 1901; hon. LL.D. Glasgow, 1899; bequeathed 20,000*l.* to Glasgow University for chair of modern languages.

JACKSON, SIR CYRIL (1863-1924), educationalist; B.A., New College, Oxford; inspector-general of schools and permanent head of education department, Western Australia, 1896-1903; chief inspector, board of education, 1903-6; served on numerous commissions and committees on unemployment, boy labour, &c.; member of London County Council, Limehouse division, 1907-13; chairman of Council, 1915; K.B.E., 1917.

JACKSON, SIR FREDERICK JOHN (1860-1929), explorer, naturalist, and administrator; joined service of Imperial British East Africa Company, 1888; first-class administrative assistant, Uganda, 1894; vice-consul, 1895; deputy commissioner, 1896; helped to quell mutiny of Sudanese troops employed in Uganda, 1897; deputy commissioner, East Africa Protectorate, under Sir C. N. E. Elliot, 1902; lieutenant-governor of Protectorate, 1907; governor of Uganda, 1911-17; formed collection of over 13,000 specimens of birds; O.M.G., 1902; K.C.M.G., 1913.

JACKSON, HENRY (1839-1921), regius professor of Greek at Cambridge; B.A., Trinity College, Cambridge; fellow, 1864; praefector in ancient philosophy, 1875; vice-master, 1914; regius professor of Greek, 1906; O.M., 1908; principal contribution to learning, his doctrine of Plato's 'later theory of Ideas.'

JACKSON, SIR HENRY BRADWARDINE (1855-1929), admiral of the fleet and pioneer of wireless telegraphy; entered royal navy, 1868; qualified as torpedo lieutenant; conceived idea of employing wireless waves to announce to capital ships approach of friendly torpedo boat, 1890; as commander of 'Defiance' successfully experimented with coherers, 1895-6; met Guglielmo Marconi, 1896; contract placed with Marconi Company for supply of wireless installation to many ships of royal navy, 1900; communicated important paper on transmission of electric waves to Royal Society, 1902; assistant director of torpedoes, admiralty, 1902; third sea lord and controller of navy, 1905-8; commanded third cruiser squadron, Mediterranean, 1908; chief of war staff, admiralty, 1913; first sea lord, 1915; president, Royal Naval College, Greenwich, 1916-19; admiral of the fleet, 1919; chairman, Radio Research Board, Department of Scientific and Industrial Research; F.R.S., 1901; K.C.V.O., 1906.

JACKSON, JOHN (1833-1901), professional cricketer; member of Nottinghamshire cricket eleven; leading bowler in England, 1857; played for Players v. Gentlemen, 1859-64; visited America, 1859, and Australia, 1863; often caricatured by Leech in 'Punch' as 'demon bowler.'

JACKSON, JOHN HUGHLINGS (1855-1911), physician; studied medicine at York and St. Bartholomew's Hospital; M.R.C.S., 1886; M.D. St. Andrews, 1860; physician at London Hospital (1883-94) and at National Hospital for Proliferation, Queen Square (1893-1906); F.R.C.P., 1888; Gulstonian lecturer, 1869; Grosian lecturer, 1884; Lumleian lecturer, 1890; F.R.S., 1878; studied speech defect in brain disease, the occurrence of focal epileptic discharges (known as Jacksonian epilepsy), and showed that certain regions of the brain were definitely related to certain limb movements; formulated theory of levels in the nervous system, showing that the highest and most recently developed functions go first in process of disease; also investigated 'uncinate' epilepsy; one of the first to use ophthalmoscope in England in diagnosing eye diseases; published many scientific papers.

JACKSON, MASON (1819-1903), wood engraver; pupil of brother John Jackson [q.v.]; art editor to Illustrated London News, 1860; published The Pictorial Press: its Origin and Progress, 1886.

JACKSON, SAMUEL PHILLIPS (1830-1904), water-colour artist; born at Bristol; son of Samuel Jackson [q.v.]; painted land- and seascapes; exhibited mainly at Royal Water Colour Society; member, 1878; work praised by Ruskin; showed preference for Devon and Cornish coast scenes and Thames views; skilful interpreter of west country atmosphere; an efficient photographer.

JACKSON, SIR THOMAS GRAHAM, first baronet (1855-1924), architect; B.A., Wadham College; entered office of Sir G. G. Scott [q.v.], 1888; contributed greatly towards changing appearance of Oxford; his Oxford buildings include, New Examination Schools (foundations laid 1876); new buildings at Brasenose College (1888-9, 1907-11); chapel of Hertford College (finished 1908); his outstanding achievement in buildings connected with schools, Giggleswick School chapel; his buildings especially notable for their ornament; R.A., 1896; baronet, 1913.

JACKSON, WILLIAM LAWIES, first BARON ALLERTON (1840-1917), politician; made father's almost bankrupt tanning business one of the largest in England; conservative M.P., North Leeds, 1880; financial secretary to Treasury, 1885-91; P.C., 1890; F.R.S., 1891; chairman of Jameson Raid inquiry, 1896-7; created baron, 1902; rendered great financial services to Leeds.

JACOB, EDGAR (1844-1920), bishop of Newcastle and of St. Albans; grandson of John Jacob [q.v.], Gurnsey topographer; educated at Winchester and New College, Oxford; domestic chaplain to Robert Milman [q.v.]; bishop of Calcutta, 1872-8; vicar of Portsea, 1878-95; bishop of Newcastle, 1896-1903; of St. Albans, 1903-19; successfully worked for division of latter see; published lectures and addresses.

JAMES, HENRY, LORD JAMES OF HEREFORD (1828-1911), lawyer and statesman; interested in cricket; president of M.C.C., 1889; called to bar, 1852; an excellent criminal advocate; Q.C., 1860; treasurer of Middle Temple, 1888; liberal M.P. for Taunton, 1869-85; solicitor-general under Gladstone, Sept. 1873; attorney-general, Nov. 1873, and 1880-6; drafted and carried corrupt practices bill, 1883; P.C., 1885; opposed Gladstone's Irish policy and joined liberal unionists; unionist M.P. for Bury, 1886-95; resumed private bar practice; appeared for 'The Times' before Parnell commission, 1888-9, summing up clients' case in a notable twelve days' speech; attorney-general of duchy of Cornwall, 1892-5; hon. LL.D. Cambridge, 1893; raised to peerage, and joined unionist cabinet as chancellor of the duchy of Lancaster, 1895; served on judicial committee of privy council from 1896; able chairman of coal conciliation board, 1898-1909; resigned office, 1903; G.O.V.O., 1902; opposed to Mr. Balfour's education policy and tariff reform proposals; opposed rejection of budget by House of Lords, 1909.

JAMES, HENRY (1843-1916), novelist; born in New York; educated in New York, London, Paris, and Geneva; studied law at Harvard; settled in Europe, 1875; lived in London, 1876-98, and at Rye, 1898-1916; found material for novels in society life of London; naturalised, 1915; in O.M., 1916; work as novelist falls into three periods: in first, chiefly occupied with 'international' subject, impact of American life upon European civilisation; novels of this period, 'Roderick Hudson' (1875), 'The American' (1877), 'Daisy Miller' (1879), and 'The Portrait of a Lady' (1881); in second period dealt with subjects from English life, social, political, and artistic; novels of this period, 'The Tragical History' (1890), 'The Spoils of Poynton' (1897), 'What Maisie Knew' (1897), and 'The Awkward Age' (1899); began to develop extremely intricate style to match subtlety of perceptions and discriminations; in third period, which contains 'The Wings of the Dove' (1902), 'The Ambassadors' (1908), and 'The Golden Bowl' (1904), returned to 'international' theme; explored with greater thoroughness than any previous novelist nature and possibilities of art of fiction; in later works subjects appear hardly equal to immense elaboration of treatment; also wrote short stories, plays, and reminiscences.

JAMES, JAMES (1832-1902), joint-composer with his father of 'Land of My Fathers,' the Welsh national anthem, 1860; it attracted public favour at eisteddfods at Pontypridd, 1857, and Llangollen, 1858, was included in 'Gems of Welsh Melody,' 1860, and was sung at Bangor national eisteddfod, 1874, serving thenceforth as Welsh national anthem.

JAMESON, ANDREW, LORD ARDWALL (1845-1911), Scottish judge; M.A. St. Andrews, 1865; hon. LL.D., 1905; called to Scottish bar, 1870; sheriff of Roxburghshire, 1886, Ross, 1890, and Perthshire, 1891; raised to bench and peerage, 1905; frequent arbitrator in industrial disputes; interested in Scottish Free Church affairs.

JAMESON, SIR LEANDER STARR, baronet (1853-1917), South African statesman; born in Edinburgh; M.D. London, 1877; went out as doctor to Kimberley, 1878; formed friendship with Cecil John Rhodes [q.v.], undertook three missions to Matabele chief, Lobengula, 1889-90; in consequence effective confirmation of mineral rights concession obtained by British South Africa Company; accompanied, as Rhodes's personal representative, expedition of A. R. Colquhoun, first administrator of Mashonaland, 1890; administrator of Mashonaland, 1891; accompanied force dispatched by company to punish Lobengula for raids by Matabele 'impis' on Mashonas under British protection; Bulawayo occupied, 1893; Matabeleland placed under Jameson's administration, 1894; C.B., 1894; carried out famous 'Raid' over Transvaal border in 'Uitlander' interests, Dec. 1895; surrendered to Boer commandant, P. A. Cronje, Jan. 1896; handed over to British authorities and sent to England for trial; imprisoned in Holloway jail, but quickly released; entered Cape parliament as member for Kimberley, 1900; succeeded Rhodes as leader of progressive party at Cape, 1902; prime minister of Cape Colony, 1904-8; attended Imperial Conference in London, and P.C., 1907; with General Botha [q.v.] played chief part in South African National Convention, 1908-9; entered first Union parliament as member for Harbour division of Capetown, 1910; leader of opposition; baronet, 1911; retired, 1912; died in London.

JAPP, ALEXANDER HAY (1837-1905), author and publisher; at first a tailor's book-keeper in Edinburgh; attended classes in Edinburgh University, 1860-1; literary adviser in London to Isbister & Co., 1864; assisted in editing 'Good Words,' 'Sunday Magazine,' and 'Contemporary Review'; LL.D. Glasgow, 1879; F.R.S. Edinburgh, 1880; wrote much under various pseudonyms, the chief being 'H. A. Page' and 'A. F. Scot'; edited De Quincey's 'Posthumous Works,' 1891-3, and 'De Quincey Memorials,' 1891; his works include studies of Hawthorne, 1872, of Thoreau, 1878, of De Quincey, 2 vols. 1877, and R. L. Stevenson (of whose 'Treasure Island' he had negotiated the publication), 1905; he also published verse and studies in German literature, natural history, and anthropology.

JARDINE, SIR ROBERT, first baronet (1825-1906), East India merchant and racehorse owner; partner in uncle's London firm of East India merchants, 1859; succeeded uncle as head of firm, and inherited his property in Perthshire and Dumfriesshire, 1881; liberal M.P. for Ashburton, 1865, for Dumfriesshire burghs, 1868-74 and 1880-92; baronet, 1885; keen agriculturist and breeder of stock; won Two Thousand Guineas and Derby with Pretender, 1869, the Osceawitch, 1877, and the Waterloo (coursing) Cup, 1873; art collector.

JAYNE, FRANCIS JOHN (1848-1931), bishop of Chester; educated at Rugby and Wadham College, Oxford; first classes in classics and law and modern history; fellow of Jesus College, Oxford, 1868; ordained, 1870; tutor of Keble College, Oxford, 1871; principal of St. David's College, Lampeter, 1879-86; vicar of Leeds, 1888-9; bishop of Chester, 1889-1919; a moderate churchman with exceptional administrative talents.

JEAFFRESON, JOHN CORDY (1831-1901), author; B.A. Pembroke College, Oxford, 1852; private tutor in London, 1853-8; published many novels, including 'Live It Down,' 1863; made some reputation as an anecdotal anthologist in books 'about doctors,' 1860, 'about lawyers,' 1866, and 'about the clergy,' 1870; called to bar, 1859, but did not practise; inspector of MSS. for Royal Historical MSS. Commission, 1874-87; author of 'The Real Lord Byron', 1883, 'The Real Shelley', 1886, 'Lady Hamilton and Lord Nelson', 1888, and 'The Queen of Naples and Lord Nelson', 1889.

JEFFS, EGLANTYNE (1876-1928), philanthropist; educated at Lady Margaret Hall, Oxford; engaged in social work and travel, 1900-14; initiated 'Save the Children Fund' (afterwards International Union), 1919; movement spread into forty countries and sums contributed reached five and a half millions; thousands of Greek, Bulgarian, Rumanian, Armenian, Polish, and Russian children fed and provided for; work made permanent by League of Nations' Declaration of Geneva (children's charter), 1924; died at Geneva.

JEFFS, SIR RICHARD CLAVERTHOUSE (1841-1905), Greek scholar; born at Dundee; great-nephew of John Jebb [q.v.]; educated at Charterhouse and Trinity College, Cambridge; Porson scholar, 1859; Craven scholar, 1860; senior classic and first chancellor's medalist, 1862; fellow and classical lecturer, 1863; hon. fellow, 1888; public orator, 1869; helped to found Cambridge Philological Society, 1868; published 'The Characters of Theophrastus', 1870, and translations into Greek and Latin verse, 1878; professor of Greek at Glasgow, 1875-89; lectured upon modern as well as classical Greek; visited Greece, 1878; wrote 'Attic Orators', 2 vols. 1876, 'Primer of Greek Literature', 1877, 'Modern Greece', 1880, monograph on 'Bentley' (in 'Man of Letters' series), 1882, and 'Homer', 1887; visited America, 1884; hon. LL.D. Harvard; regius professor of Greek at Cambridge, 1889-1905; conservative M.P. for the university, 1891-1905; served on many education commissions; Rede lecturer, Cambridge, 1890; Romanes lecturer, Oxford, 1899; delivered lectures at Johns Hopkins University (1893) on 'The Growth and Influence of Greek Poetry' (published 1893); edited Bacchylides, 1905; chief work was edition of Sophocles, 7 vols. 1883-96: an eighth volume containing the Fragmenta was unfinished; helped to found Society for Promotion of Hellenic Studies, 1879, and the British School of Archaeology at Athens, 1887; F.B.A., 1902; close friend of Tennyson; received hon. degrees from Edinburgh, Dublin, Cambridge, Oxford, and Bologna; professor of ancient history, Royal Academy, 1898; knighted, 1900; trustee of British Museum, 1903; O.M., 1905; 'Essays and Letters' and 'Life and Letters' edited by widow, 1907.

JELF, GEORGE EDWARD (1834-1908), master of Charterhouse; son of Richard William Jelf [q.v.]; educated at Charterhouse and Christ Church, Oxford; B.A., 1856; M.A., 1859; D.D., 1907; hon. canon of St. Albans, 1878; residentiary canon of Rochester, 1880-1907; master of Charterhouse, 1907; a moderate high churchman, he exercised considerable influence by his popular devotional publications; memoir by widow, 1909.

JENKINS, EBENEZER EVANS (1850-1905), Wesleyan minister and missionary; worked at Madras till 1865; superintendent of the Hackney circuit from 1865; president of the Wesleyan Conference, 1880; memoir by son, 1906.

JENKINS, JOHN EDWARD (1858-1910), politician and satirist; born at Bangalore; called to bar (Lincoln's Inn), 1884; retained by Aborigines Protection Society for British Guiana coöperative commission, 1870; gained repute as author of 'Ginx's Baby' (anonymous), 1870, a satire on sectarian education; originated Imperial Federation movement, 1871; first agent-general for Canada, 1874-8; radical M.P. for Dundee, 1874-80; wrote other political satires and novels.

JENKINS, SIR LAWRENCE HUGH (1867-1928), Indian judge; called to bar (Lincoln's Inn), 1883; judge, high court of Calcutta, 1898; chief justice, high court of judicature, Bombay, 1899-1908; member of Council of India, 1908-9; took large part in drafting Morley-Minto reforms; chief justice of Bengal, 1909-15; dealt with complicated conspiracy cases; member of judicial committee of Privy Council, 1916; knighted, 1899; master of Indian law and custom.

JENKINSON, FRANCIS JOHN HENRY (1853-1925), librarian; B.A. Trinity College, Cambridge; fellow of Trinity, 1878; University Librarian, 1898-1925; specialised in study of 'Inconspicuous' and extended Library's acquisitions particularly among fifteenth-century books; famous reader in bibliography at Cambridge, 1907-8; an authority on 'Lepidoptera'; works include edition of 'Hesperides Yemina' (1906).

JENNER-JUST, HERBERT (1806-1904), cricketer; son of Sir Herbert Jenner [q.v.]; educated at Eton and Trinity Hall, Cambridge; LL.B., 1839; LL.D., 1855; called to bar, 1831; captain of first Cambridge cricket XI to meet Oxford, 1837; prominent in all first-class cricket till 1882, especially as wicket-keeper; president of M.C.C., 1833.

JEPHSON, ARTHUR JEREMY MOUNTNEY (1858-1908), explorer; accompanied Stanley through forests to Lake Albert for relief of Emin Pasha, 1888; imprisoned with Emin at Dufie, August 1888; rejoined Stanley at Kavali (Feb. 1889), and subsequently rescued Emin; queen's messenger, 1895; published 'Emin Pasha and the Rebellion at the Equator', 1890, and native folk tales.

JEROME, JEROME KLAPKA (1859-1927), novelist and playwright; went on the stage and finally took to journalism; a founder of 'The Idler' magazine, 1892; his best-known book, 'Three Men in a Boat' (1889); his best-known play, 'The Passing of the Third Floor Back' (1908). JERSEY, seventh EARL OF (1845-1915), colonial governor. [See VILLIERS, VICTOR ALBERT GEORGE CHILD.]

JERROFT, AUGUSTUS (1823-1914), schoolmaster and historical writer; B.A. St. John's College, Cambridge; headmaster of King Edward VI's School, Norwich, which he transformed into modern public school, 1859-79; rector of Scarning, Norfolk, 1879-1911; works include 'One Generation of a Norfolk House' (the Walpoles, 1878), and 'The Coming of the Friars' (1889); edited 'Visitations of Diocese of Norwich, 1492-1632' (1888), &c.

JEUNE, FRANCIS HENRY, BARON ST. HELIER (1843-1905), judge; eldest son of Francis Jeune [q.v.]; scholar of Harrow and Balliol College, Oxford; first class classic, 1865; obtained Stanhope (1863) and Arnold (1867) essay prizes; called to bar, 1868; original fellow of Hertford College, 1874; counsel for 'Titchborne' plaintiff in action of ejectment, 1871-2; had large ecclesiastical practice; counsel for evangelicals in Mackonochie case; counsel for Louis Riel [q.v.] in application for leave to appeal; chancellor of several dioceses; Q.O., 1888; counsel for Edward King [q.v.] in ritual case, 1889-90; judge of probate, divorce, and admiralty division, and knighted, 1891; president of probate division, 1892; made court a model of efficiency and dispatch; judge advocate general without payment, 1892-1904; K.C.B., 1897; G.C.B., 1903; resigned presidency of probate division through ill health and created a peer, Jan. 1905; portrait by Sir Hubert von Herkomer.

JEX-BLAKE, SOPHIA LOUISE (1840-1912), physician; sister of T. W. Jex-Blake [q.v.]; medical student at Edinburgh, 1869-72; on being refused, with other women students, right to graduate, founded London School of Medicine for Women, 1874; gained legal right to practise in Great Britain, 1877; practised in Edinburgh, 1878-99.

JEX-BLAKE, THOMAS WILLIAM (1832-1915), schoolmaster and dean of Wells; educated at Rugby and University College, Oxford; fellow of Queen's College, Oxford, 1856; assistant master at Rugby, 1858-68; principal of Cheltenham College, 1868-74; headmaster of Rugby, which he restored to prosperity, 1874-87; dean of Wells, 1891-1910.

JOHNS, CLAUDE HERMANN WALTER (1857-1920), Assyriologist; B.A., Queens' College, Cambridge; rector of St. Botolph's, Cambridge, 1892-1909; lecturer in Assyriology at Queens', 1895, and in Assyrian at King's College, London, 1904; master of St. Catharine's College, Cambridge, and canon of Norwich, 1909-19; chief work 'Assyrian Deeds and Documents' (1898-1923).

JOHNSON, LIONEL PIGOT (1867-1903), critic and poet; scholar of Winchester College; edited 'The Wykehamist', 1884-6; B.A., New College, Oxford (first class in lit. hum.), 1890; entered on literary career in London, 1890, contributing to magazines and reviews; joined Church of Rome, 1891; published his first volume of poems, 1895, in which he gave expression to a 'catholic puritanism'; in 'Ireland and other Poems', 1897, he betrayed an intense love for Ireland; also wrote 'The Art of Thomas Hardy', 1894, and 'Post Lantinnus: Essays and Critical Papers' (posthumous), 1911.

JOHNSON, WILLIAM PIERCEVAL (1854-1926), archdeacon of Nyssa, 1896-1926; B.A., University College, Oxford; joined Universities' Mission to Central Africa, under Bishop E. Steers [q.v.], 1876; deacon, 1876; priest, 1878; worked on and by Lake Nyasa, 1881-1926; made translations in several African languages.

JOHNSON, SIR HARRY HAMILTON (1866-1907), explorer and administrator; displayed precocious scienti-

so, linguistic, and artistic interests; became interested in problem of partition of Africa, 1879; joined seventh Earl of Mayo on expedition through Southern Angola, 1882; penetrated alone into Congo basin, where he won friendship of (Sir) Henry Morton Stanley [q. v.]. 1882; undertook scientific and political mission to Mount Kilimanjaro and surroundings, 1884; vice-consul, Cameroen and Niger Delta, 1886; helped to open navigable mouths of Niger to legitimate trade; formed friendly alliance with Cecil Rhodes [q. v.]; British consul, Portuguese East Africa, 1889; extended British protectorate over Shire Highlands to include Nyasaland, &c.; British commissioner for South Central Africa, 1891-6; consul-general, Tunisia, 1897-9; special commissioner, Uganda, where he achieved administrative success and pursued geographical, ethnological, and naturalist studies, 1899-1901; occupied with Liberian affairs, 1904-6; K.O.B., 1886.

JOHNSTON, WILLIAM (1829-1905), of Ballykilbeg, Orangeman; B.A., Trinity College, Dublin, 1855; M.A., 1856; called to Irish bar, 1873; entered Orange order, 1848; proposed institution of triennial council of Orangemen, 1865; imprisoned for organising and leading a demonstration against Party Processions Act, 1868; independent conservative M.P. for Belfast, 1868-78; inspector of Irish fisheries, 1878; dismissed for violent speeches against Land League and home rule, 1885; M.P. for South Belfast, 1885 till death; firm advocate of 'the three F's' (fair rent, free sale, fixity of tenure), and of temperance.

JOLY, CHARLES JASPER (1864-1906), royal astronomer of Ireland; mathematical scholar of Trinity College, Dublin, 1882; obtained 'studentship', 1886; fellow, 1894-7; made researches in physics, and especially studied the properties of linear vector functions; royal astronomer of Ireland at Dunsink, 1897; edited and enlarged Hamilton's 'Elements of Quaternions', 3 vols. 1899-1901; contributed numerous papers on quaternions and kindred subjects to Royal Irish Academy; published 'A manual of Quaternions', 1905; accompanied eclipse expedition to Spain, 1900; F.R.S., 1904; member of Alpine Club.

JOLY DE LOTBÈRE, SIR HENRY GUSTAVE (1829-1908), Canadian politician; born at Épervay, France; called to Canadian bar, 1855; liberal member of Canadian House of Assembly for Lotbinière, 1861; opposed federation movement; member of Quebec Legislative Assembly, 1867-74; Q.O., 1878; formed government, 1878-9; K.C.M.G., 1895; minister of inland revenue and P.C., 1897; as lieutenant-governor of British Columbia (1900-6) entertained Prince and Princess of Wales, 1901; promoted interests of agriculture and forestry.

JONES, SIR ALFRED LEWIS (1846-1909), man of business; born at Carmarthen; became partner of Messrs. Elder, Dempster's shipping firm at Liverpool, 1879; gained monopoly of West African shipping trade; founded Bank of British West Africa, 1897; revived the Canaries, inaugurating there banana industry (1884) and tourist traffic, and establishing coaling station at Las Palmas; inaugurated new steamship service with Jamaica from Bristol (1901) for banana traffic; helped to found Liverpool School of Tropical Medicine, 1899; K.O.M.G., 1901; hon. fellow of Jesus College, Oxford, 1906.

JONES, SIR HENRY (1853-1923), philosopher; master of Ironworks School, Brynmaman, 1878; M.A., Glasgow University, 1878; influenced by Edward Caird [q. v.]; professor of philosophy and political economy, University College of North Wales, Bangor, 1884; professor of logic, rhetoric, and metaphysics, St. Andrews, 1891; professor of moral philosophy, Glasgow, 1894-1923; called himself a 'spiritual realist'; fullest statement of his metaphysics given in his last volume, 'A Faith that Enquires' (1923); his greatest contribution to contemporary philosophy his own teaching; interested in educational reform; F.B.A., 1904; knighted, 1912.

JONES, HENRY ARTHUR (1851-1999), dramatist; commercial traveller in London, Bradford, and Exeter districts, 1869-79; thereafter relied for livelihood solely on writing of plays; these include, 'The Silver King' (1883), 'Saints and Sinners' (1884), 'Judah' (1890), 'The Dancing Girl' (1891), 'The Tempter' (1893), 'The Case of Belshazzar's Feast' (1894), 'Michael and his Lost Angel' (1896), 'The Lure' (1897), 'Mrs. Dane's Defence' (1900), 'The Hypocrite' (1906), 'The Divine Gift' (1913, never produced), 'The Lie' (1914); played an important part in revival of English drama; excelled as a craftsman.

JONES, HENRY CADMAN (1818-1902), law reporter; educated at Trinity College, Cambridge; second wrangler, second Smith's prizeman, and fellow, 1841; called to bar, 1845; edited Chancery reports from 1857 till 1865.

JONES, SIR JOHN MORRIS (1864-1939), Welsh poet and grammarian. [See MORRIS-JONES.]

JONES, JOHN VRIAMU (1856-1901), physicist; son of Thomas Jones (1819-82, q. v.); educated at University College, London (B.Sc. and fellow), and Balliol College, Oxford; first class in mathematics, 1879, and natural science, 1880; first principal of University College of South Wales, Cardiff, 1883; first vice-chancellor of University of Wales, 1893; engaged in physical researches dealing especially with the determination of the ohm; F.R.S., 1894; member of Alpine Club; died at Geneva; Memoir by Prof. E. B. Poulton, 1910.

JONES, THOMAS RUPERT (1819-1911), geologist and palaeontologist; educated at Ilminster, where he studied geology of district; studied medicine at Newbury; published 'Monograph on the Cretaceous Entomostraca of England', 1849, and papers on the geology of Newbury, 1854, and of the Kennet valley, 1871; assistant secretary of Geological Society, 1851-63; professor of geology at Royal Military College, Sandhurst, 1862; interested in South African geology; F.R.S., 1873; president of Geologists' Association, 1879-81.

JONES, WILLIAM WEST (1858-1908), archbishop of Capetown; B.A., St. John's College, Oxford, 1880; M.A., 1883; fellow, 1889-79; hon. fellow, 1893; hon. D.D., 1874; vicar of Summerstown, 1864-74; bishop of Capetown, 1874; see elevated to archbishopric, 1897; a strong high churchman, popular with English and Dutch alike.

JORDAN, SIR JOHN NEWELL (1852-1925), diplomatist; B.A., Queen's College, Belfast; joined Chinese consular service in Peking, 1876; appointed to legation in Peking, 1886; assistant Chinese secretary, 1889; full secretary, 1891; consul-general, Seoul, Korea, 1896; chargé d'affaires, 1898; minister-resident, 1901; envoy-extraordinary and minister-plenipotentiary to court of Peking, 1906; co-operated with Sir Alexander Hosie [q. v.] in successful attempt to stop export to China of Indian opium; retired, 1920; K.O.M.G., 1904; K.C.B., 1909; G.C.M.G., 1920.

JOYCE, SIR MATTHEW INGLE (1839-1930), judge; called to bar (Lincoln's Inn), 1865; junior equity counsel to Treasury, 1886-1900; judge of High Court and knighted, 1900; P.O. on resignation, 1915.

KANE, ROBERT ROMNEY (1842-1903), writer on Irish land law; son of Sir Robert Kane [q. v.]; M.A., Queen's College, Cork, 1868; hon. LL.D., 1883; called to Irish bar, 1865; professor of jurisprudence at King's Inns, Dublin, 1873; legal assistant commissioner under Irish Land Act of 1881, 1881-92; county court judge, Ireland, 1892.

KRAY, JOHN SHYMOUR (1839-1909), Anglo-Indian politician; went to India to manage branches of Government Bank of Bengal, 1862; opened successful banking business and cotton mills at Hyderabad; sympathized with Indian nationalists; liberal M.C. for Elgin and Nairn, 1889-95.

KENTLEY, CHARLES ROBERT BELL (1848-1909), surgeon; entered St. Bartholomew's Hospital, 1871; F.R.O.S., 1876; L.R.C.P., 1873; on staff of West London Hospital from 1878 till death; introduced there antiseptic methods of surgery; advocated appendicectomy; wrote handbook on orthopaedic surgery, 1900, and other medical works.

KEKWICH, SIR ARTHUR (1832-1907), judge; educated at Eton and Balliol College, Oxford; B.A., 1854; fellow of Exeter, 1854-8; called to bar, 1858; Q.C., 1877; had large junior practice at Chancery bar, but was unsuccessful as leader; judge, 1886; knighted, 1887; expeditious judge, but his judgments were often reversed on appeal; a strong churchman and conservative.

KEKWICH, ROBERT GEORGE (1854-1914), major-general; nephew of Sir A. Kekwich [q. v.]; entered army, 1874; lieutenant-colonel in Loyal North Lancashire, 1898; during South African War defended Kimberley from Boers, 15 October 1898-15 February 1900; C.B., 1900; major-general, 1903.

KELLY, FREDERICK SEPTIMUS (1881-1916), musician and carman; born at Sydney; educated at Eton and Balliol; rowed for Oxford; at Henley won Grand Challenge cup, Stewards' cup, Diamond sculls, Wingfield sculls; one of the greatest scullers of all time; studied pianoforte at Frankfurt-on-Main, 1908-9; left wide range of compositions; joined Royal Naval division, 1914; D.S.O. for gallantry in Gallipoli, 1915; killed in France.

KELLY, JAMES FITZMAURICE (1857-1923), historian of Spanish literature. [See FITZMAURICE-KELLY.]

KELLY, MARY ANNE, 'EVA' (1826-1910), Irish poetess. [See O'DONERTY, MARY ANNE.]

KELLY, WILLIAM (1821-1906), Plymouth brother and biblical critic; joined Plymouth brethren, 1841; edited collected works of John Nelson Darby [q.v.], 34 vols. 1867-83; seceded from Darbyites on point of church discipline, 1879; a voluminous scriptural commentator and controversialist; Memoir by Heyman Wreford, 1906.

KELLY-KENNY, SIR THOMAS (1840-1914), general; joined army, 1858; took sixth division out to South African war, 1900; took part in engagements of Klip Kraal Drift, Paardeberg, Poplar Grove, and Driefontein; left in command in Free State, 1900; K.C.B., 1902; general, 1905.

KELTIE, SIR JOHN SCOTT (1840-1927), geographer; took up journalism; edited 'Statesman's Year Book, 1884-1897'; inspector of geographical education for Royal Geographical Society, 1884; produced important report, 1886; librarian and subsequently secretary of Society, publications of which he re-organized; inaugurated and edited 'Geographical Journal', 1893; editor and author of several geographical works; knighted, 1918.

KELVIN, first BARON (1824-1907), scientist and inventor. [See THOMSON, WILLIAM.]

KEMBALL, SIR ARNOLD BURROWES (1890-1908), general, colonel commandant royal artillery; born in Bombay; joined Bombay artillery, 1837; present at Ghazni and Kabul; in Persian war, 1856-7; distinguished in expedition against Ahwas; C.B., 1857; consul general at Bagdad, 1859; K.O.S.B., 1866; accompanied Shah of Persia to England, 1873; on international commission for delimiting Turco-Persian frontier, 1875; military commissioner with Turkish army in Servo-Turkish and Russo-Turkish wars; lieutenant-general and K.C.B., 1878; interested in Persian and East African development; advocated construction of Uganda railway; general, 1880.

KEMBLE, HENRY (1848-1907), comedian; grandson of Charles Kemble [q.v.] and nephew of Fanny Kemble [q.v.]; made professional debut at Dublin, 1867; with Mr. John Hare's company, 1875; joined the Bancrofts (1876), with whom he played Dolly Spanker in 'London Assurance' and Sir Oliver Surface in 'The School for Scandal'; played Polonius to Herbert Tree's Hamlet, 1891.

KENDAL, WILLIAM HUNTER (1843-1917), actor-manager, whose original name was WILLIAM HUNTER GEMSTON; went on professional stage, 1861; partner with Sir John Hare [q.v.], first at Court Theatre and later at St. James's Theatre; best parts those in 'Peril', 'The Queen's Shilling', 'Diplomacy', 'A White Lie', and 'The Elder Miss Blomont'; overshadowed by his wife, Margaret Robertson.

KENNEDY, SIR ALEXANDER BLACKIE WILLIAM (1847-1923), engineer; nephew of John Stuart Blackie [q.v.]; gained first experience in marine engine construction; professor of engineering, University College, London, where he founded influential school, 1874-89; established pioneer engineering laboratory there, 1878; began practice, which soon became one of largest in country, as consulting engineer at Westminster, 1889; engineer to Westminster Electric Supply Corporation, of which he planned whole system and works, 1899; also engineer to other electric companies; closely connected with development of electric transport; undertook exploration of Petra, 1922; published 'Petra; its History and Monuments', a valuable monograph, 1925; F.R.S., 1887; knighted, 1905.

KENNEDY, SIR WILLIAM RANN (1846-1915), judge; grandson of Rev. Rann Kennedy [q.v.]; B.A., King's College, Cambridge (senior classic); called to bar (Lincoln's Inn), 1871; Q.C., 1885; judge in queen's bench division and knighted, 1892; lord justice of court of appeal and P.C., 1907; F.B.A., 1909.

KENNY, COURTNEY STANHOPE (1847-1930), legal scholar; B.A., Downing College, Cambridge; senior in law and history tripos, 1874; fellow of Downing, 1875; called to bar (Lincoln's Inn), 1881; liberal M.P., Barnsley division of Yorkshire, 1885-9; university reader in English law, Cambridge, 1888; Downing professor of laws of England, Cambridge, 1907-18; F.B.A., 1908; an outstandingly successful law teacher; his most important work, 'Outlines of Criminal Law' (1902, 14th edit. 1932).

KENNY, JOHN (1852-1909), protestant agitator; early joined anti-Romanist agitation; started protestant book depot in Paternoster Row, 1885; secretary of Protestant Truth Society, 1890; organized 'Wicliffite' itinerant preachers for the denunciation of ritualism, 1898; publicly objected to confirmation of bishops Mandell Creighton, 1897, Winnington-Ingram and Gore, 1901; fatally wounded in religious riot at Liverpool; 'Life' by J. C. Wilcox, 1903.

KENT, (WILLIAM) CHARLES (MARK) (1823-1902), author; a strict Roman Catholic; editor and proprietor of the 'Sun', a London evening paper, 1855-71, and editor of the 'Weekly Register', a Roman Catholic periodical, 1874-81; called to bar, 1859, but did not practise; wrote for 'Household Words' and 'All the Year Round', and grew intimate with Charles Dickens, who addressed to him his last letter (8 June 1870, now in British Museum); collected his 'Poems' in 1870; prepared popular complete editions of works of great writers, including Charles Lamb, 1878; received civil list pension, 1887.

KENTON, GEORGE THOMAS (1840-1908), politician; educated at Harrow and Christ Church, Oxford; called to bar, 1869; conservative M.P. for Denbigh boroughs, 1865-86, 1900-5; mainly instrumental in passing the Welsh Intermediate Education Act, 1889.

KENYON-SLANEY, WILLIAM SLANEY (1847-1908), colonel and politician; born at Rajkot, India; educated at Eton and Christ Church, Oxford; joined army, 1867; present at Tel-el-Kebir, 1882; retired with rank of colonel, 1897; conservative M.P. for Newport division of Shropshire, 1886-1908; ardent tariff reformer; author of the 'Kenyon-Slaney clause' in Education Act of 1902; P.C., 1904; Memoir by Walter Durnford, 1909.

KEPPEL, SIR GEORGE OLOF ROOS (1866-1921), soldier and Anglo-Indian administrator. [See ROOS-KEPPEL.]

KEPPEL, SIR HENRY (1809-1904), admiral of the fleet; entered navy, 1822; commander, 1833; served in West and East Indies, and in China war, 1841-2; senior officer at Singapore, 1842; helped in suppressing Borneo piracy, 1843-4; served with distinction in Baltic campaign, 1854; C.B., 1856; second in command on China station, 1856; K.C.B.; groom-in-waiting to Queen Victoria, 1858-60; commander-in-chief on Cape and Brazilian stations, 1860; on China station, 1866; admiral, 1869; G.C.B., 1871; commander-in-chief at Devonport, 1872-5; admiral of the fleet, 1877; intimate friend of King Edward VII; published 'A Sailor's Life under Four Sovereigns', 3 vols. 1899; 'Life' by Sir Algernon West, 1905.

KER, WILLIAM PATON (1855-1923), scholar and author; educated at Glasgow University and Balliol College, Oxford; assistant to professor of humanity, Edinburgh, 1878-83; fellow of All Souls College, Oxford, 1879-1923; professor of English literature and history, university college of South Wales, Cardiff, 1883; Quain professor of English language and literature, University College, London, 1889-1922; director of department of Scandinavian studies, 1917-23; professor of poetry, Oxford, 1920; died in Italy; his works include 'Epic and Romance' (1897); 'The Dark Ages' (1904); 'English Literature; Medieval' (1912); editions of Dryden's 'Essays' (1900) and of Lord Berners's translation of Froissart's 'Chronicles' (1901-3).

KERR, JOHN (1824-1907), physicist; pupil of Lord Kelvin at Glasgow University; lecturer in mathematics to Glasgow Free Church Training College for Teachers, 1857-1901; made important discoveries in nature of light, 1875-6; author of 'An Elementary Treatise on Rational Mechanics', 1867; hon. LL.D. Glasgow, 1867; F.R.S., 1890; royal medalist, 1898; awarded civil list pension, 1902.

KERR, ROBERT (1823-1904), architect; cousin of Joseph Hume [q.v.]; did much to develop Royal Institute of British Architects; professor of arts of construction, King's College, London, 1861-90; designed many buildings in London and country; published many architectural works.

KERR, LORD WALTER TALBOT (1839-1897), admiral of the fleet; brother of ninth Marquess of Lothian [q.v.]; entered navy, 1853; served in naval brigade throughout Indian Mutiny, 1857-8; captain, 1873; flag-captain to Sir Beeschamp Seymour (afterwards Lord Alcester), 1874-7, 1880-1; naval private secretary to Lord George Hamilton [q.v.], first lord of Admiralty, 1888; rear-admiral, 1889; fourth naval lord, 1892; second naval lord, 1893-5; vice-admiral commanding Channel squadron, 1895; first naval lord, 1899-1904; admiral, 1900; admiral of the fleet, 1904; a thorough seaman and wise administrator.

KIDD, BENJAMIN (1858-1916), sociologist; clerk in Inland Revenue department, 1877-84; published 'Social Evolution', which had remarkable success partly due to its violent attack on socialism, 1894; its main theme is glorification of religion and attack on reason; other works include 'Principles of Western Civilization' (1902) and 'Science of Power' (posthumous, 1918).

KILLICK, WILLIAM DOOL (1806-1902), ecclesiastical historian; after education at Belfast, entered Presbyterian ministry, 1829; minister of Raphoe, co. Donegal, 1829-41; studied deeply church history; professor of church history at Presbyterian college, Belfast, 1841-89; president of the college, 1869; D.D. Glasgow, 1846; LL.D., 1901; his voluminous historical works include 'The Ancient Church', 1859, and 'The Ecclesiastical History of Ireland', vols. 1875; he also published 'Reminiscences of a Long Life', 1901.

KIMBERLEY, first EARL OF (1826-1902), statesman. [See WOODHOUSE, JOHN.]

KINAHAN, GEORGE HENRY (1829-1908), geologist; entered Irish geological survey, 1854; as district surveyor (1869) prepared geological maps; author of 'Manual of the Geology of Ireland', 1878, 'Economic Geology of Ireland', 1889, and other kindred works.

KINCAID, LORD (1828-1909), Scottish judge. [See GLOAG, WILLIAM ELLIS.]

KING, EDWARD (1820-1910), bishop of Lincoln; B.A., Oriel College, Oxford, 1851; influenced by tractarian movement and by Charles Marriott [q. v.]; curate of Wheatley, near Cuddesdon, 1854-8; chaplain of Cuddesdon theological college, 1858-63; appointed principal of college, and vicar of Cuddesdon, 1863; professor of pastoral theology at Oxford and canon of Christ Church, 1873; exerted much influence on religious life of Oxford; bishop of Lincoln, 1885; specially interested in youths and in confirmations; a high churchman, he taught real objective presence and practised confession; prosecuted for illegal ritualist practices by the Church Association, 1889; archbishop's judgment (1890) was substantially in King's favour, and was upheld on appeal, 1892; the trial enhanced his popularity in Lincolnshire; a staunch toy, active in opposition to education bills of liberal government; favoured franchise bill of 1884; had great faculty for sympathy, and perfect refinement of thought and bearing; published many devotional works, sermons, and pamphlets; portraits by George Richmond at Cuddesdon and by W. W. Ouless at Lincoln; two churches at Grimsby erected to his memory; 'Life' by G. W. E. Russell, 1911.

KING, SIR GEORGE (1840-1909), Indian botanist; studied medicine and botany at Aberdeen University; M.B., 1866; hon. LL.D., 1884; entered Indian medical service, 1865, Indian forest service, 1869; superintendent of Royal Botanic Garden, Calcutta, and of cinchona cultivation in Bengal, 1871; organised botanical survey of India; inaugurated economic method of separating quinine from cinchona, 1887; O.I.E., 1890; K.C.I.E., 1898; F.R.S., 1887; made study of flora of Malayan Peninsula.

KING, HAYNES (1831-1904), genre painter; born at Barbados; exhibited at Royal Academy, 1860-1904; influenced by Thomas Faed [q. v.]; works include 'Looking Out', 1860, 'The New Ground, 1892, 'Latest Intelligence', 1904.

KINGSBURGH, LORD (1836-1919), lord justice-clerk of Scotland. [See MACDONALD, SIR JOHN HAY ATHOL.]

KINGSBOTE, SIR ROBERT NIGEL FITZHARDINGE (1830-1908), agriculturist; in Scots fusilier guards, 1846-56; served in Crimea; C.B., 1855; liberal M.P. for western division of Gloucestershire, 1852-89; inherited estate at Kingscote, 1861; parliamentary groom-in-waiting to Queen Victoria, 1859-66; extra squerry to King Edward VII when Prince of Wales, 1867; commissioner of woods and forests, 1885-96; paymaster-general of the royal household, 1901; K.C.B., 1899; G.C.V.O., 1902; president of Royal Agricultural Society, 1878; hon. LL.D. Cambridge, 1894; member of royal commissions on agriculture, 1879 and 1883.

KINGSFORD, CHARLES LETHBRIDGE (1862-1926), historian and topographer; B.A., St. John's College, Oxford; Board of Education official, 1890-1913; F.R.A., 1924; his works include 'Henry V' (1901), editions of three unprinted 'Chronicles of London' (1905) and of Stow's 'Survey of London' (1908); 'English Historical Literature in the Fifteenth Century' (1913); 'Prejudice and Promise in Fifteenth Century England' (1925); 'The Early History of Piccadilly . . .' (1925).

KINGSTON, CHARLES CAMERON (1850-1908), Australian statesman; born at Adelaide; admitted to colonial bar, 1873; Q.C., 1889; radical member for West Adelaide in house of representatives of South Australia, 1881-1900; attorney-general, 1884-5 and 1887-9; chief secretary, 1892-3; premier and attorney-general, 1893-9; defeated bills for imposition of land taxes, and for employers' liability; helped to secure woman suffrage, factory legislation, state banking, protective tariff, and payment of members; represented S. Australia at Queen Victoria's diamond jubilee; hon. D.O.L. Oxford, and P.C., 1897; took prominent part in securing enactment of Australian commonwealth constitution bill, 1900; elected to legislative council of South Australia, 1900; minister of trade and customs in first commonwealth administration, 1901-3.

KINNEAR, ALEXANDER SMITH, first BARON KINNEAR (1833-1917), judge; advocate at Scots bar, 1856; Q.C., 1881; lord ordinary, 1882-90; member of first division, 1890-1913; created baron, 1897.

KINSE, SAMUEL (1826-1903), writer on the Bible; Ph.D., Jena University, 1859; rector of Holy Trinity, Minorities (1889-99), of which he wrote a history, 1890; published 'Moses and Geology', 1882, and 'Graven in the Rock', 1891.

KINROSS, first BARON (1837-1905), Scottish judge. [See BALFOUR, JOHN BLAIR.]

KIRK, SIR JOHN (1832-1922), naturalist and administrator; M.D., Edinburgh University; physician and naturalist to David Livingstone [q. v.] on second Zambesi expedition, 1858-63; vice-consul, Zanzibar, 1866; assistant political agent, 1868; consul-general, 1873; political agent, 1880; persuaded Sultan to abolish slave-trade, 1875; checkmated German designs on Zanzibar; was instrumental in persuading Sultan to make great concessions of mainland territory to East African Association, 1887; F.R.S., 1887; K.O.M.G., 1881.

KIRK, SIR JOHN (1847-1922), philanthropist; entered service of Ragged School Union, 1867; secretary, 1879; knighted and styled director, 1907; largely responsible for survival of Union after 1870 and for increase in activities and annual income.

KITCHENER, HORATIO HERBERT, first EARL KITCHENER, of Khartoum and of Broome (1850-1916), field-marshal; educated at Royal Military Academy, Woolwich; received commission in Royal Engineers, 1871; lent to Palestine Exploration Fund, 1874; sent to survey Cyprus, 1878; second in command of Egyptian cavalry, 1882; served in (Viscount) Wolsley's expedition for relief of General Gordon, 1884-5; governor-general of Eastern Sudan, 1886; adjutant-general of Egyptian army, 1888; contributed to defeat of Dervishes at Toski, 1889; C.B., 1889; sirdar of Egyptian army, 1892; prepared army for conquest of Sudan, 1892-6; K.O.M.G., 1894; major-general and K.C.B. for services in River war, 1896; well-planned and well-executed campaign resulted in annihilation of Khalifa's army at Omdurman, with great loss of Dervishes, and reoccupation of Khartoum, 1898; had interview at Fashoda on White Nile with Major Marchand, leader of small French expedition, resulting in its withdrawal, 1898; baron, 1898; governor-general of Sudan and completed its pacification, 1899; Lord Roberts's chief of staff in South Africa, 1899; frequently employed as second in command and representative of commander-in-chief in his absence; ordered attack and directed preliminary operations at Paardeberg, Feb. 1900; suppressed rebellion of Cape Boers round Priaka and cleared southern portion of Orange Free State; as commander-in-chief organized tactics against guerilla warfare of Boers, Nov. 1900-May 1903; viscount and O.M., 1903; commander-in-chief in India, 1903-9; prevailed with (Viscount) Morley, secretary of state for India, to abolish system of dual military control; initiated numerous reforms, including improvement of central administration, redistribution of troops, modernisation of system of training, and establishment of Staff College for India; field-marshal, 1909; British agent and consul-general in Egypt, 1911; kept Egypt quiet during period of unrest in Near East; carl, 1914; secretary of state for war, 1914; possessed first-hand knowledge of military resources of Empire but had little experience of organisation of army at home or of working of war office and cabinet; envisaged long war; increased British army from six regular and fourteen territorial divisions to seventy divisions, 3,000,000 men having voluntarily joined colours, 1914-16; K.G., 1918; relations with colleagues in cabinet sometimes strained; went to Near East and advised abandonment of Dardanelles enterprise, 1915; went down on H.M.S. 'Hampshire' off Ormuz on way to Russia.

KNOX, GEORGE WILLIAM (1827-1913), dean of Winchester, 1883-94, and of Durham, 1894-1913; B.A., Christ Church, Oxford; censor of Oxford non-collegiate students, 1868-83; wrote 'History of France' (1873-7).

KITSON, JAMES, first BARON AIREDALE (1835-1911), ironmaster; placed (1854) in charge of father's Monkbridge ironworks, which became limited liability company, 1886; president of Iron and Steel Institute, 1889-91; first lord mayor of Leeds, 1896-7; benefactor to Leeds hospitals and art gallery; hon. D.Sc., 1904; honorary freeman, 1906; president of National Liberal Federation, 1883-90; M.P. for Colne Valley, 1892-1903; baronet, 1886; P.C., 1906; raised to peerage, 1907.

KITTON, FREDERICK GEORGE (1856-1904), writer on Dickens; began life as wood-engraver and etcher; publications include 'Dickensiana' (a bibliography), 1886, 'Dickens and his Illustrators', 1899, and 'The Dickens Country', 1905; his Dickens library presented to Guildhall Library, 1908.

KNIGHT, JOSEPH (1839-1907), dramatic critic; joined father's business of cloth merchant at Leeds at nineteen; devoted to literature through life; embarked on journalistic career in London, 1860; dramatic critic of 'Athenaeum' from 1867 till death; chief contributor of lives of actors and actresses to this Dictionary; editor of 'Notes and Queries' from 1883 to 1907; his numerous literary friends and associates included John Westland Marston [q.v.] and D. G. Rossetti, whose life he wrote in 'Great Writers' series, 1887; F.S.A., 1893; a popular member of the Garrick Club from 1883.

KNIGHT, JOSEPH (1837-1909), landscape painter and engraver; lost right arm at seven; exhibited mainly Welsh subjects at Royal Academy and elsewhere; fellow of Society of Painter Etchers, 1883.

KNOLLYS, FRANCIS, first VISCOUNT KNOLLYS, of Caversham (1837-1934), private secretary to King Edward VII; son of General Sir W. T. Knollys [q.v.]; educated at Royal Military College, Sandhurst; entered civil service; private secretary to Albert Edward, Prince of Wales, 1870; accompanied him to India, 1875; created baron, 1902; viscount, 1911; a strong liberal; excelled in art of letter-writing.

KNOTT, RALPH (1878-1939), architect; entered office of Sir A. Webb [q.v.] as draughtsman; won competition for design of new London County Hall on south side of river at Westminster, 1908; two-thirds of building completed and opened, 1923; one of the most successful public buildings of the time; R.I.B.A., 1921.

KNOWLES, SIR JAMES THOMAS (1831-1908), founder and editor of the 'Nineteenth Century', and architect; joined his father's office as architect; practised his profession for thirty years; designed 'Thatched House Club', St. James's Street, 1865; laid out Leicester Square for Baron Albert Grant, 1874; published 'The Story of King Arthur and his Knights', 1862, which attracted Tennyson and led to a close intimacy with the poet; founded Metaphysical Society, 1869, which lasted till 1881, and included leaders of all schools of thought; with Gladstone, who joined the society, Knowles's relations were as close as those with Tennyson; editor of 'Contemporary Review' from 1870 to 1877, when he founded the highly successful 'Nineteenth Century' with himself as editor; 'signed writing' by eminent persons was Knowles's main editorial principle; K.C.V.O., 1903.

KNOX, SIR GEORGE EDWARD (1846-1925), Indian civil servant; born at Madras; entered Indian civil service, 1864; posted to Meerut, 1867; judge of small causes court, Allahabad, 1877; legal remembrancer to local government of North-Western Provinces and Oudh, 1885; judge of high court of judicature, Allahabad, 1890; knighted, 1906; died at Naini Tal; his legal and linguistic equipment (learned Urdu, Sanskrit, Arabic, Persian) outstanding.

KNOX, ISA (1831-1903), poetical writer; born ORAIG; early contributed to 'Scotsman' under name of 'Isa'; married cousin, John Knox, an iron merchant, 1866; won prize for Burns centenary poem at Crystal Palace, 1866; published verse and fiction.

KNOX-LITTLE, WILLIAM JOHN (1891-1915), divine and preacher; born in co. Tyrone; B.A., Trinity College, Cambridge; rector of St. Alban's, Chesham, Manchester, 1875-89; canon of Worcester, 1881; vicar of Hoar Cross, Staffordshire, 1885-1907; enjoyed great popularity as extempore preacher, especially at missions; high churchman; published sermons and other works.

KNOTSFORD, first VISCOUNT (1826-1914). [See HOLLAND, SIR HENRY THURSTAN.]

KYNASTON (formerly SNOW), HERBERT (1835-1910), classical scholar; educated at Eton and St. John's College, Cambridge; first Porson scholar and senior classic, 1857; fellow, 1858; M.A., 1860; D.D., 1882; rowed in university boat, 1856 and 1858; member of Alpine Club; principal of Cheltenham College, 1874-88; canon of Durham and professor of Greek in the university, 1889; edited 'Theocritus', 1869, and 'Poetae Graeci', 1879; 'Life' by E. D. Stone, 1912.

LABOUCHÈRE, HENRY DU PRÉ (1831-1913), journalist and politician; nephew of Henry Labouchère, first Baron Taunton [q.v.]; educated at Eton and Trinity College, Cambridge; in diplomatic service, 1854-64; wrote for 'Daily News' and 'World', and established reputation as journalist; founded weekly journal, 'Truth', notable for its exposure of fraudulent enterprises, 1876; liberal M.P., Northampton, with Charles Bradlaugh [q.v.] as his colleague, 1880; held seat till 1905; became one of the most powerful radicals in Commons; attacked home and foreign policy of whigs and worked for reorganization of liberal party; designs frustrated by decision of Joseph Chamberlain [q.v.] to vote against first Home Rule Bill, 1886; died near Florence.

LABOUCHÈRE, HENRIETTA (1841-1910), actress. [See HODSON.]

LAFOIT, EUGÈNE (1837-1908), science teacher in India; born at Mons, Belgium; was admitted a Jesuit, 1854; inaugurated science teaching in Bengal at St. Xavier's College, Calcutta, 1865; rector of the College, 1873-1904; fellow of Calcutta University, 1877; hon. D.Sc., 1908; C.I.E., 1880; died at Darjeeling.

LAIDLAW, ANNA ROSENA (1819-1901), pianist; studied music in Edinburgh, Königsberg, and London; made successful appearances in Germany and Austria; praised by Schumann; pianist to Queen of Hanover until 1840, when she settled in London; retired on marriage to George Thomson, 1852.

LAIDLAW, JOHN (1832-1906), presbyterian divine and theologian; student at Edinburgh University; hon. M.A., 1854; hon. D.D., 1880; studied theology in Edinburgh and Germany; minister at Perth, 1863-73, and Aberdeen, 1872-81; professor of systematic theology, New College, Edinburgh, 1881-1904; a conservative theologian; author of 'The Biblical Doctrine of Man', 1879, and 'The Miracles of Our Lord', 1890.

LAMBERT, BROOKE (1834-1901), social reformer; student at King's College, London, under F. D. Maurice; B.A., Brasenose College, Oxford, 1858; M.A., 1861; B.C.L., 1863; vicar of St. Mark's, Whitechapel, 1866-70; as vestryman and guardian he made thorough study of poor law and local government; in work on pauperism, 1871, anticipated scientific statistical researches of Charles Booth [q.v.]; resigned through ill-health, 1870; went to West Indies to restore health; held living of Tamworth, 1872-8; helped to found London University Extension Society, 1879; vicar of Greenwich, 1880-1901, where he continued his activity in social and educational reform; a prominent freemason; published volumes of sermons.

LAMBERT, GEORGE (1843-1915), tennis player; went to Hampton Court Palace tennis court, 1866; head professional at Marylebone Cricket Club court at Lord's, 1869-89; champion, 1870-85.

LAMBURNE, first BARON (1847-1925), politician. [See LOOKWOOD, ANSELMO MARK RICHARD.]

LANE, SIR HUGH PERCY (1878-1915), art collector and critic; born in co. Cork; picture dealer in London, 1898; formed gallery of modern art in Dublin; knighted, 1909; director of Irish National Gallery, 1914; torpedoed on 'Lusitania'; his will caused controversy between Dublin and London National galleries.

LANE, JOHN (1854-1935), publisher; clerk in Railway Clearing House, 1869-87; set up as bookseller and then as publisher in Vigo Street with Elkin Matthews, 1887-94; first book under imprint of 'Rodley Head' appeared, 1889; moved to the Albany, 1894; poetry published by firm includes works of William Watson, Francis Thompson, and Richard Le Gallienne; novels include those of W. J. Locke [q.v.]; produced quarterly 'Yellow Book'; with which famous poets, essayists, dramatists, story-tellers, and artists contributed, 1894-7.

LANE, ANDREW (1844-1915), scholar, folk-helms, poet, and man of letters; educated at St. Andrews and Glasgow universities and Balliol College, Oxford; fellow of Merton College, Oxford, 1868; settled in London and devoted himself to journalism and letters, 1875; poetical works include 'Ballads and Lyrics of Old France' (1872); 'xiii Ballads in Blue China' (1880), and 'Helen of Troy' (1889); as anthropologist proved that folk-lore is foundation of higher or literary mythology; works on this subject include 'Custom and Myth' (1884), 'Myth, Ritual, and Religion' (1887), and 'The Making of Religion' (1898); classical works include prose translation of 'Odyssey' (with H. B. Butcher, 1879), of 'Iliad' (with Walter Leaf and Ernest Myers, 1883), and three books on Homeric question, 'Homer and the Epic' (1893), 'Homer and his Age' (1896), and 'The World of Homer' (1910); historical works include 'Pickle the Spy' (1897), 'The Companions of Pickle' (1898), 'Prince Charles Edward' (1900), and 'History of Scotland' (1900-7); also author of 'Life and Letters of J. G. Lockhart' (1896), and of essays, novels, and children's books; a founder of Psychical Research Society.

LANG, JOHN MARSHALL (1834-1909), principal of Aberdeen University; educated at Glasgow University; hon. D.D., 1873; hon. LL.D., 1901; minister of East Parish of St. Nicholas, Aberdeen, 1856-65, and of Anderson church, Glasgow, 1865-8; introduced there improvements in ritual, including first organ used in Church of Scotland and psalms chanted in prose version; minister of Morningside, Edinburgh, 1868-78, and Barony of Glasgow, 1878-1901; served on school board, on commission for housing of poor, and kindred bodies in Glasgow; instituted Sunday evening services in Glasgow; visited Australia, 1897; convener of Assembly's commission of inquiry into religious condition of the people of Scotland, 1890-6; moderator of general assembly, 1893; promoted Pan-Presbyterian Alliance for union of the churches; principal of Aberdeen University, 1898-1909; O.V.O., 1906; Baird lecturer at Glasgow, 1901; author of many devotional works; memories, by his widow, 1910.

LANGVIN, SIR HECTOR LOUIS (1826-1906), Canadian statesman; born at Quebec; called to bar of Lower Canada, 1850; mayor of Quebec, 1858-60; member of Canadian legislative assembly, 1857-67; Q.C., 1864; solicitor-general for Lower Canada, 1864-6; postmaster-general, 1866-7; helped to form Dominion of Canada; member of Dominion House of Commons, 1867-96; secretary of state, 1867-9; minister of public works, 1869-73, 1879-91; postmaster-general, 1878-9; led French-Canadian conservative party from 1873; K.C.M.G., 1881; died at Quebec.

LANGFORD, JOHN ALFRED (1823-1903), Birmingham antiquary and journalist; contributed to 'Howitt's Journal'; joined Unitarians under George Dawson [q.v.]; carried on printing business at Birmingham, 1852-6; closely associated with 'Birmingham Daily Press', 1856, and 'Birmingham Daily Gazette', 1862-8; an ardent liberal, he helped in party organisation; joined Gladstonian section of party, 1886; author of 'Century of Birmingham Life', 3 vols. 1868, and 'Modern Birmingham', 3 vols. 1873-7, poems and dramas.

LANGLEY, JOHN NEWPORT (1852-1925), physiologist; B.A., St. John's College, Cambridge; fellow of Trinity College, Cambridge, 1877; carried out his first researches on new drug, pilocarpine, and then proceeded to study of secretory process; lecturer at Trinity College and university lecturer in histology, 1884; professor of physiology, Cambridge University, 1903-25; owned and edited 'Journal of Physiology', 1894-1925; his acquisition of 'Journal', which he thoroughly reformed and made pattern in presentation of scientific work, decisive event for British physiology; climax of his achievement as investigator reached in his research into sympathetic nervous system, 1890-1906; subjected whole of sympathetic ganglionic system to exhaustive analysis; directed energies of workers in newly completed Cambridge physiological laboratory into channels of direct value in time of war, 1914-18; after European war attracted even larger numbers to his school of physiology at Cambridge, which was remarkably productive of distinguished physiologists; F.R.S., 1883; Oronian lecturer, 1906.

LANKESTER, SIR EDWIN RAY (1847-1929), zoologist; son of Edwin Lanckester [q.v.]; B.A., Christ Church, Oxford; Radcliffe travelling fellow, 1870; studied marine zoology at Naples, 1871-3; fellow and tutor, Exeter College, Oxford, 1879; Jodrell professor of zoology, University College, London, 1874-91; Linacre professor of comparative anatomy, Oxford, 1891-8; director of natural history departments and keeper of zoology, British Museum, South Kensington, 1898-1907; Fulerian professor of physiology and comparative anatomy, Royal Institution, 1898-1900; F.R.S., 1876; K.C.B., 1907; soon recognised as leading British authority on zoology; most distinguished as morphologist; his pioneer researches on embryology of Mollusca have had lasting influence on science of embryology; his researches on protozoan parasites important for study of disease; edited 'Quarterly Journal of Microscopical Science', 1878-1920; founded Marine Biological Association, 1884.

LANE-DOWNE, fifth MARQUESS OF (1845-1927). [See PETTY-FITZMAURICE, HENRY CHARLES KEITH.]

LANCZOS, SIR FRANK OAVENDISH (1841-1920), diplomatist; entered diplomatic service, 1861; agent and consul-general, Bulgaria, 1879-87; British minister to Rumania, 1887, to Persia, 1891; ambassador to Russia, 1894, to Berlin, 1898-1906; worked for Anglo-German amity till 1914; K.C.M.G., 1886; P.C., 1892.

LAZOWSKA, (JANE) EMILY DE (1846-1905), novelist. [See GERARD.]

LATEY, JOHN (1842-1902), journalist; art and literary editor of 'Penny Illustrated Paper', 1861-1901; parliamentary reporter to 'Illustrated London News' for fifteen years; co-editor (1881-2) with Mayne Reid [q.v.] of 'The Boys' Illustrated News'; edited 'Sketch', 1899-1902; author of 'The Showman's Panorama', 1880, and novels.

LATHAM, HENRY (1821-1902), master of Trinity Hall, Cambridge; B.A., Trinity College, Cambridge (18th wrangler), 1845; appointed clerical fellow of Trinity Hall, 1847; senior tutor, 1855; broadened aims of the college by destroying its exclusively legal associations; attracted promising men from other colleges; resigned tutorship, 1885; succeeded Sir Henry Sumner Maine [q.v.] as master, 1888; rebuilt college and reconstructed lodge and hall; published 'Pastor Pastorum', 1890, and other devotional works.

LAUGHTON, SIR JOHN KNOX (1830-1915), naval historian; B.A., Caius College, Cambridge; naval instructor in royal navy, 1853; transferred to Royal Naval College, Portsmouth, 1866; instructor at Greenwich naval university, 1873-85; lectured on naval history at Greenwich, 1876-89; professor of history, King's College, London, 1885-1914; founded Navy Records Society, 1893; first secretary, 1893-1912; knighted, 1907; edited 'Memoirs relating to Lord Torrington' (1889), Lord Barham's papers (1907-10), &c.; wrote books on Nelson, &c.; contributor to this Dictionary.

LAURIE, JAMES STUART (1832-1904), inspector of schools, 1854-63; held educational posts in Ireland and Ceylon; called to bar, 1871; published school hand-books.

LAURIE, SIMON SOMERVILLE (1829-1909), educational reformer; elder brother of James Stuart Laurie [q.v.]; M.A. Edinburgh University, 1849; secretary to education committee of Church of Scotland at Edinburgh, 1855-1905; his reports as visitor and examiner for Dick Bequest Trust (1858-1907) gave masterly expositions of educational principles and practice; his report on the Edinburgh Merchant Company's 'hospitals' led to their reform by Act of Parliament, 1869; secretary to royal commission on endowed schools in Scotland, 1878; first Bell professor of education in Edinburgh University, 1876-1903; president of Teachers' Guild of Great Britain, 1891; hon. LL.D. of St. Andrews, Edinburgh, and Aberdeen universities; wrote on 'Training of Teachers', 1883, 'Institutes of Education', 1892, and 'Educational Opinion from the Renaissance', 1903; his philosophical works include 'Metaphysics, Nova et Vetera', 1884, and 'Ethica', 1885; Gifford lecturer in natural theology at Edinburgh, 1908-9; embodied these lectures in 'Synthetic', 1906.

LAURIE, SIR WILFRID (1841-1919), Canadian statesman; French Canadian; born near Montreal; elected to legislature of Quebec, 1871; liberal member of Canadian parliament for Drummond-Arthabaska, 1874; entered cabinet of Alexander Mackenzie [q.v.], 1877; member for Quebec East, 1877-1919; in opposition, 1878-96; leader of liberal party in succession to Edward Blake [q.v.], 1888; prime minister of Canada, 1896-1911; knighted, 1897; attacked by nationalist leader, Bourassa, for sending contingents to help of Great Britain in Boer war (1900) and for policy of Canadian navy (1910); supported conservative government's war policy (1914-18), but refused to form coalition (1917).

LAW, ANDREW BONAR (1858-1923), statesman; born in New Brunswick; brought up in Glasgow by his mother's relations from age of eleven; educated at Glasgow high school; entered his Kidston relations' firm of merchant bankers, 1874; junior partner in Glasgow firm of William Jacks & Co., iron-merchants, 1885; a director of Clydesdale Bank and chairman of Glasgow Iron Trade Association; unionist M.P., Blackfriars and Hutchesontown division of Glasgow, 1900-6; parliamentary secretary to board of trade, 1903; supported Joseph Chamberlain's scheme of colonial preference and tariff reform, 1903; returned M.P., Dulwich, at by-election, 1906; with Austen Chamberlain now recognized as most effective advocate of fiscal change in unionist party; denounced Mr. Lloyd George's budget of 1909 as socialism 'pure and unadulterated'; again returned for Dulwich, Jan. 1910; failed to capture North-west Manchester, Dec.; returned M.P., Bootle division of Lancashire, at by-election, 1911; supported Lord Lansdowne and Mr. Balfour in decision to accept Parliament Bill, 1911; elected leader of opposition in House of Commons, 1911; with Sir Edward Carson shared leadership of faction which carried opposition to Irish home rule to brink of civil war; on outbreak of European war tendered Mr. Asquith support of unionist party in resisting German aggression, Aug. 1914; relegated to insignificant position of secretary for colonies in first coalition ministry, May 1915; led group in cabinet which pressed for evacuation of Dardanelles, autumn 1915; took charge of Compulsory Military Service Bill, Jan. 1916; invited by King George V to form administration, Dec.; on failure to secure co-operation first of Mr. Lloyd George and then of Mr. Asquith advised king to call on Mr. Lloyd George; chancellor of exchequer and leader of House of Commons in Mr. Lloyd George's government; this 'most perfect partnership in political history' profoundly affected fortunes of war; issued series of War Loans on lower interest basis for long terms, one of the greatest achievements in history of British finance; his campaign for national war bonds (Oct. 1917) provided state with continuous flow of money until end of war; introduced war budgets of 1917 and 1918; the 1918 budget unparalleled in demands which it made on nation; throughout these anxious years couched his appeals for sacrifice in markedly sober speeches; supported continuance of coalition, 1918; M.P., Central Glasgow, 1918; lord privy seal and leader of House of Commons, 1918; signatory of treaty of Versailles, 1919; resigned, owing to ill-health, March 1921; emerged from retirement in order to recommend Irish treaty, autumn 1921; prime minister, with purely conservative government, at head of party, Oct. 1922; outlined programme of negotiation as best method of securing national recovery; presided at conference of Allied prime ministers on subject of reparations in London (Dec. 1922) and Paris (Jan. 1923); conference broke down owing to failure of English and French to come to agreement over policy with regard to German finance; with utmost reluctance accepted settlement demanded by U.S.A. with regard to British debt to her, Jan. 1923; resigned office, May 1928; not one of England's greatest prime ministers, but supreme as leader of House of Commons.

LAW, DAVID (1831-1901), etcher and water-colour painter; student at Trustees' Academy, Edinburgh, 1845-50; engraver in ordnance survey office, Southampton, 1850-70; helped to found Royal Society of Painter Etchers, 1881; his etchings after Turner and Corot were in great demand, 1875-90; best work done in water-colour.

LAW, SIR EDWARD FITZGERALD (1844-1908), expert in state finance; joined royal artillery, 1863; retired, 1872; started business agency in Russia; acting consul at St. Petersburg, 1880-1; commercial and financial attaché for Russia, Persia, and Asiatic Turkey, 1888; British delegate for negotiating commercial treaty with Turkey, 1890; reported on Greek finance, 1892-3, and on railway development in Asiatic Turkey, 1895; as commercial secretary at Vienna negotiated commercial treaty with Bulgaria, 1896-7; British delegate at Constantinople for determining Greece's war indemnity to Turkey, 1897; president of international commission on Greek finance, 1898; K.C.M.G., 1898; finance member of Government in India, 1900; completed currency reform and reduced arrears of land revenue, income and salt taxes, O.S.I., 1903; K.O.S.I., 1906; an active champion of imperial preference and tariff reform; represented Great Britain on Ocrean reform commission, and on committee to found bank of Morocco, 1906; died in Paris; buried at Albans; 'Life' by Sir T. Morison and G. P. Hutchinson, 1911.

LAW, THOMAS GRAVES (1836-1904), historian and bibliographer; grandson of Edward Law, first earl of Ellenborough [q.v.], and brother of Augustus Henry Law [q.v.]; educated at Winchester, University College, London, and Stonyhurst; Roman catholic priest, 1860-78; keeper to Signet Library, Edinburgh, 1878-1904; helped to found Scottish History Society, 1886; hon. LL.D. Edinburgh, 1898; wrote much on sixteenth-century religious history; 'Collected Essays' were posthumously issued, 1904.

LAWES (afterwards LAWES-WITTEWONGE), SIR CHARLES BENNET, second baronet (1843-1911), sculptor and athlete; son of Sir John Bennet Lawes, first baronet [q.v.], of Rothamsted; educated at Eton and Trinity College, Cambridge; B.A., 1866; distinguished oarsman at Cambridge and Henley, runner and cyclist; exhibited sculpture at Royal Academy, 1873-1908; unsuccessful defendant in libel action brought by R. C. Belt, a sculptor, 1882; succeeded to baronetcy and Rothamsted property, 1900.

LAWES, WILLIAM GEORGE (1839-1907), missionary; worked at Niue in South Seas, 1861-72; completed translation of New Testament into Niue, 1886; settled at Port Moresby, New Guinea, 1874-94; with James Chalmers [q.v.] greatly helped British administration and development of British New Guinea; hon. D.D. Glasgow, 1895; settled at Sydney, 1906, where he died.

LAWLEY, FRANCIS CHARLES (1825-1901), sportsman and journalist; B.A., Balliol College, Oxford, 1848; fellow of All Souls, 1848-53; B.C.L., 1861; liberal M.P. for Beverley, 1853; private secretary to Gladstone; lost fortune in gambling and speculation; imputations of dishonesty in stock exchange dealings led to cancelling of his appointment as governor of South Australia, 1864; settled in America, 1854-65; sent vivid accounts of civil war to 'The Times'; returned to London, 1866; wrote on sport in 'Daily Telegraph' and 'Baily's Magazine'.

LAWRENCE, DAVID HERBERT (1885-1980), poet, novelist, and essayist; schoolmaster at Croydon until 1911; thenceforth devoted himself to literature; passionately sensitive to nature; published novels, 'The White Peacock' (1911), 'The Trespasser' (1912), and 'Sons and Lovers' (1913), and 'Love Poems and Others' (1913); by 1914 had won certain reputation as author; indifferent to material success and always possessed simple tastes; his desire to receive sympathetic response to his writings, which he believed to be of value to mankind, defeated by disarray of European war; felt keenly condemnation for indecency of his novel 'The Rainbow', published 1915; left England, largely because of hostile attitude towards himself and his writings, 1919; lived in Italy, Sicily, and Mexico, and then in Italy again; his later works include 'Sea and Sardinia' (1921) and 'Lady Chatterley's Lover' (1928), prosecution of which caused great stir; died at Venice.

LAWSON, EDWARD LEVY, first BARON BURNHAM (1833-1916), newspaper proprietor. [See LEVY-LAWSON.]

LAWSON, GEORGE (1831-1908), ophthalmic surgeon; entered King's College Hospital, 1848; M.R.C.S., 1852; F.R.C.S., 1857; joined army as surgeon, 1854; served in Crimea; surgeon at Royal London Ophthalmic Hospital, Moorfields, from 1862; surgeon-oculist to Queen Victoria from 1866; published works on eye diseases.

LAWSON, GEORGE ANDERSON (1832-1904), sculptor; studied at Royal Scottish Academy Schools and in Rome; exhibited at Royal Academy from 1863; works include his popular 'Dominie Sampson', 1868, Burns memorial at Ayr, and the Wellington monument at Liverpool.

LAWSON, SIR WILFRID, second baronet (1829-1906), politician and temperance advocate; son of Sir Wilfrid Lawson, an advanced liberal; keen sportsman, huntsman, angler, and agriculturist; liberal M.P. for Carlisle, 1859-61, 1848-65; supported motion for Sunday closing of public houses, 1865; introduced (1864) and frequently re-introduced (1869-74) his 'permissive' later known as 'local veto bill'; carried resolution for local option in 1880, in 1881, and in 1883; president of United Kingdom Alliance, 1879; succeeded to baronetcy and estates, 1867; supported Sir Charles Dilke's motion for inquiry into Queen Victoria's expenditure, 1872; advocated Sunday closing in Ireland, 1878-9 (measure carried, 1879); opposed parliamentary adjournment for the Derby, 1874; supported Charles Bradlaugh's claims for religious freedom, 1880; opposed liberal government's Egyptian policy, 1882-3; M.P. for Cockermouth, 1886-1900; supported Gladstone's home rule policy and opposed Mr. Balfour's coercion measures; M.P. for Camborne, 1903, and again for Cockermouth, 1906; passionately denounced Boer war and defended free trade; of spontaneous humour, he seasoned his speeches with genial sarcasm and humorous quotation; easy writer of light verse; published 'Cartoons in Rhyme and Line' (illustrated by Sir F. C. Gould), 1906; memoir by G. W. E. Russell, 1909.

LEACH, ARTHUR FRANCIS (1861-1915), historical writer; educated at Winchester and New College, Oxford; fellow of All Souls, 1874-81; assistant charity commissioner (Endowed Schools department), 1884; second charity commissioner, 1906-15; works include 'English Schools at the Reformation (1546-1548)' (1896), and 'Schools of Medieval England' (1916).

LEADER, BENJAMIN WILLIAMS (1831-1923), painter; born WILLIAMS; brother of Sir E. L. Williams [q.v.]; entered Royal Academy Schools, 1854; painter of landscapes in Worcestershire and Wales; his pictures include 'February Full-Dyke' (1881) and 'In the Evening there shall be Light' (1882); R.A., 1898.

LEADER, JOHN TEMPLE (1810-1903), politician and connoisseur; educated at Charterhouse, 1823, and at Christ Church, Oxford, 1828; knew from youth Brougham, his father's friend; liberal M.P. for Bridgewater, 1835; acted with Grote, Molesworth, and the philosophical radicals; favoured the Chartists; unsuccessfully contested Westminster at a by-election (May 1837) against Sir Francis Burdett; M.P. for Westminster, Aug. 1837-47; prominent in London society; frequent traveller in Italy and France; saw much in London of Louis Napoleon, afterwards Napoleon III; in 1844 his career underwent sudden change, and he left England for permanent residence abroad; at Cannes joined Brougham, and bought property for building; chiefly spent his long exile at Florence, in and near which he bought and restored several old residences, visited the gigantic castle of Vincigliata, where he was visited by many distinguished persons, including Queen Victoria (1858) and Gladstone; directed compilation of many archaeological treatises on Vincigliata and adjoining places; wrote with Giuseppe Marcotti lives of Sir John Hawkwood, 1889, and of Sir Robert Dudley, Duke of Northumberland, 1895; left £7,000 for restoration of central bronze door of Duomo at Florence.

LEAF, WALTER (1862-1927), classical scholar and banker; educated at Harrow and Trinity College, Cambridge; bracketed senior classic, 1874; entered family business, silks and ribbons dealers, 1875; retired and devoted more attention to banking, 1892; a director of London and Westminster Bank, 1891; chairman, 1918; chairman, Institute of Bankers, 1919; president, International Chamber of Commerce, 1924; his reputation rests chiefly on his work as Homeric scholar; his publications include 'Banking' (1926), an edition of the 'Iliad' (1886-8, 2nd edit. 1900-2), 'Troy . . . ' (1912), 'Homer and History' (1915), and 'Strabo on the Troad' (1923).

LEAKE, GEORGE (1856-1902), premier of Western Australia; born at Perth, Western Australia; barrister of supreme court; crown solicitor, 1883-94; member of legislative assembly, 1890-1900; Q.C., 1898; twice premier of Western Australia, and attorney-general, May 1901-June 1902; died at Perth; a strong advocate of federation.

LECKY, SQUIRE THORNTON STRATFORD (1838-1902), writer on navigation; served on merchant vessels from age of fourteen, becoming expert in navigation of Pacific; detected off Rio de Janeiro submerged 'Lecky Rock,' 1865; showed many errors in South American charts and surveyed most of South American coast; served in Egyptian war of 1882; chief work on navigation was 'Wrinkles in Practical Navigation,' 1881 (15th edit. 1895); marine superintendent of Great Western Railway, 1884; younger brother of Trinity House; F.R.A.S. and F.R.G.S.; died at Las Palmas.

LECKY, WILLIAM EDWARD HARTPOLE (1838-1903), historian and essayist; born near Dublin; of Scottish descent; educated at Cheltenham, 1853-5, and at Trinity College, Dublin, studying desultorily history and philosophy; B.A., 1859; M.A., 1865; after a volume of poems (1859) he published anonymously 'The Religious Tendencies of the Age,' 1860, and 'Leaders of Public Opinion in Ireland,' 1863 (revised edit. 1903), which met at first with little success; spent holidays abroad, especially in Spain and Italy; his essay on 'The Declining Sense of the Miraculous' (1863) subsequently formed first two chapters of his abstruse, discursive, but lucid 'History of Rationalism' (2 vols. 1865), which brought him his first fame; a liberal in politics, he condemned Disraeli's reform bill of 1867, but supported Irish Church disestablishment and Irish Land Act of 1870; published 'History of European Morals,' 2 vols. 1869; married in 1871 Elizabeth van Dedem, maid of honour to Queen Sophia of the Netherlands, and settled at 38 Onslow Gardens, Kensington; meanwhile collected material for his 'History of England in the Eighteenth Century,' making extensive researches in Dublin (vols. 1 and 2 appeared in 1878; vols. 3 and 4 in 1882; vols. 5 and 6 in 1887; vols. 7 and 8 in 1890; cabinet edition, 12 vols. 1892; last 5 volumes devoted to History of Ireland); that work, which aimed at refuting Froude's calumnies of Irish people, was praised by Lord Acton and American critics. Lecky declined regius professorship of modern history at Oxford, 1892; hon. D.C.L. Oxford, 1888; Litt.D. Cambridge, 1891; LL.D., Dublin (1879), St. Andrews (1885), Glasgow (1895); became a liberal unionist in 1886; wrote weighty letters to 'The Times' and elsewhere (1886, 1892-3) in opposition to home rule; M.P. for Dublin University, 1895-1902; favoured establishment of a Roman Catholic university in Ireland; supported Sir Horace Plunkett's agricultural policy there; opposed old age pensions and favoured international arbitration; a fluent, rapid, but monotonous speaker; his later works were 'Democracy and Liberty,' 2 vols. 1896 (a revised edition of 1899 gave an admirable estimate of Gladstone's work and character); 'The Map of Life,' 1899, and 'Historical and Political Essays' (posthumous, 1908); F.B.A. and O.M., 1902; Lecky chair of history founded at Trinity College, Dublin, to which were left all his MSS.; portraits by Watts and H. T. Wells in National Portrait Gallery; memoir by widow, 1909.

LEDWIDGE, FRANCIS (1891-1917), poet; engaged in rural occupations in Slane district, co. Meath; although a strong nationalist, joined army, 1914; killed in Belgium; wrote about the countryside; 'Complete Poems' published posthumously, 1919.

LEE, FREDERICK GEORGE (1832-1902), theological writer; educated at St. Edmund Hall, Oxford; won Newdigate prize for English poem, 1854; vicar of All Saints, Lambeth, 1867-99; practised an advanced ritualism; vindicated the validity of Church of England orders, 1870; subsequently questioned their validity and founded Order of Corporate Reunion to restore to Church of England valid orders; consecrated by catholic prelates Bishop of Dorchester, 1877; F.S.A., 1857; historical works, which are partisan and untrustworthy, include 'Historical Sketches of the Reformation,' 1879, and 'The Church under Queen Elizabeth,' 3rd edit. 1897; published also 'History of Thame,' 1886, verse, devotional and antiquarian works; joined Roman Catholic Church, 1901.

LEE, RAWDON BRIGGS (1815-1908), writer on dogs; succeeded father as editor of the 'Kendal Mercury' till 1885; devoted much time to breeding of dogs; his English setter, Richmond, was sent to Australia to improve the breed; kennel editor of 'Field,' 1883-1907; wrote accounts of fox terrier, 1889, and modern dogs of Great Britain, 3 vols. 1894 and 1897.

LEE, SIR SIDNEY (1859-1926), Shakespearean scholar and editor of the DICTIONARY OF NATIONAL BIOGRAPHY; educated at City of London School, where interest in Elizabethan literature was stimulated by Dr. E. A. Abbott [q.v.]; B.A., Balliol College, Oxford; began his Shakespearean studies as undergraduate with two articles in 'Gentleman's Magazine,' 1880; assistant editor to (Sir) Leslie Stephen [q.v.] on foundation of Dictionary of National Biography, 1883; his exact and scholarly methods well fitted for organizing editorial work; joint editor, 1890; sole editor, 1891-1901 and 1910-12, retaining general oversight of Dictionary, 1901-18; preserved balance and uniformity of Dictionary; his greatest asset as editor was his personality; Dictionary completed in 63 volumes, 1900; First Supplement issued in 3 volumes, 1901; out of his Dictionary articles developed 'Life of William Shakespeare' (1898) and 'Queen Victoria' (1909); 'Life of Shakespeare,' which passed through fourteen editions, a work of exegesis of first order; furnished reliable basis for sound aesthetic appreciation by his study of origin and formation of Shakespeare's text and influence of foreign literature on Shakespeare's subject-matter; subsequently developed former theme by publishing facsimiles of earliest editions of some of Shakespeare's works; developed latter theme by extensive examination, chiefly in articles and lectures, of foreign influence on Elizabethan literature in general and on Shakespeare in particular; his 'Queen Victoria' first serious attempt to present queen's public and private life as whole; although information available, especially on latter part of reign, restricted, as pioneer piece of work remarkably successful; superintended summary of Dictionary which appeared as INDEX AND SUPPLEMENT (1903), volume of ERBATA (1904), and release of Dictionary and First Supplement (1909); Clark lecturer in English literature, Trinity College, Cambridge, 1901-2; toured universities and colleges of U.S.A., 1903; edited Second Supplement of Dictionary, 1910-12; neither First nor Second Supplement preserved exactly standard of selection maintained in main work; First Supplement tended to restrict admission, while Second Supplement was far more inclusive than main Dictionary; president (1890) of Elizabethan Literary Society at Toynbee Hall, which he and Frederick Rogers developed into centre of Elizabethan study; a founder of English Association, 1906; president, 1917; appointed to new chair of English language and literature at East London College, London University, 1913; retired, 1924; his last work of importance, 'Life of King Edward VII,' undertaken at request of King George V; first volume published, 1925; second, completed by F. S. Markham, published, 1927; documents in royal archives as well as several private collections of King Edward's letters placed at his disposal; as with Victoria, Edward VII's personality and influence made central study; considerable space devoted to international affairs; F.B.A., 1910; knighted, 1911.

LEE-HAMILTON, BUGENE JACOB (1845-1907), poet and novelist; educated at Oriel College, Oxford; held minor diplomatic posts at Paris and Lisbon, 1871-3; disabled for twenty years through nervous disease; lived at Florence and became a centre of intellectual society; published 'Imaginary Sonnets,' 1888, and 'The Sonnets of the Wingless Hours,' 1894; was restored to health, 1897; published also a tragedy, two novels, and a metrical translation of Dante's 'Inferno,' 1898.

LEE-WARNER, SIR WILLIAM (1846-1914), Indian civil servant and author; B.A., St. John's College, Cambridge; entered Indian civil service, 1867; served in India, 1869-95; secretary of political and secret department at India office, 1895-1912; K.C.S.I., 1898; G.C.S.I., 1911; works include 'Protected Princes of India' (1894), revised as 'Native States of India' (1916).

LEFROY, WILLIAM (1886-1909), dean of Norwich; B.A., Trinity College, Dublin, 1883; B.D., 1887; D.D., 1889; obtained fame as evangelical preacher; incumbent of St. Andrew's Chapel, Renshaw Street, Liverpool, 1866; archdeacon of Warrington, 1887; Donnellan lecturer at Dublin, 1887; member of Liverpool school board from 1876; dean of Norwich, 1889-1909; a member of the Alpine Club; helped to build several English churches in Switzerland; died and was buried at Riffel Alp; published theological works; 'Life' by H. Leeds, 1909.

LEGG, JOHN WIOCKHAM (1843-1921), physician and liturgist; M.D., University College, London, 1868; joined staff of St. Bartholomew's Hospital, London, 1870; abandoned medicine, 1887; F.S.A., 1875; distinguished student of liturgies; works include editions of Quignion Breviary of 1535 (1888), 'Second Recension of Quignion Breviary' (1908, 1912), 'Westminster Missal' (1891-7), and 'Sarum Missal' (1916), and 'English Church Life' [1660-1833] (1914); high churchman.

LEGRON, ALPHONSE (1837-1911), painter, sculptor, and etcher; born at Dijon; worked in Paris as scene-painter; exhibited at Salon, 1857; enrolled by Champfleury among the 'Realists'; exhibited 'Angelus,' 1859, 'Ex Voto,' 1861, and 'Le Lutrin,' 1863; earned living by etchings and lithographs; encouraged by Whistler to come to London, 1863; Slade professor of fine art at University College, London, 1878-92; designed fountains for gardens at Welbeck, 1897; exhibited paintings, etchings, and medals at Royal Academy, 1864-83; fellow of Society of Painter Etchers, 1880, and hon. fellow of Royal Scottish Academy, 1911; works are in public galleries in Paris, Dijon, London, Manchester, and Liverpool, as well as in private collections.

LEHMANN, RUDOLF (1819-1906), painter; born near Hamburg; studied art at Paris, Munich, and Rome; first visited London, 1840; exhibited at Royal Academy from 1851, and at other English galleries, mainly subject pictures and portraits of prominent persons; lived in Italy, mostly at Rome, 1844-46; best-known portraits were those of Helen Farnth, Robert Browning, Viscount Goughen; intimate friend of Browning; published

'Reminiscences,' 1894, and 'Men and Women of the Century' (portrait sketches), 1898.

LEIGHSTON, second EARL OF (1832-1909), agriculturist. (See COKE, THOMAS WILLIAM.)

LEIGHTON, STANLEY (1837-1901), politician and antiquary; educated at Harrow and Balliol College, Oxford; B.A. and M.A., 1864; called to bar, 1861; conservative M.P. for North Shropshire, 1878-85, and Oswestry, 1888-1901; ardent supporter of the church in parliament; F.S.A., 1880; founded Shropshire Parish Register Society, 1897; accomplished amateur artist; wrote and illustrated 'Shropshire Houses, Past and Present,' 1901.

LEININGEN, PRINCE ERNEST LEOPOLD VICTOR CHARLES AUGUSTE JOSEPH EMICH (1880-1904), admiral, reigning prince of Leiningen; born at Amorbach, Bavaria; entered British navy, 1849; served in Burmese war, 1851-3; served against Russians on the Danube, 1854; took part in Baltic campaign, 1856; commander and captain from 1858 of royal yacht 'Alberta,' which (with Queen Victoria on board) accidentally ran down schooner yacht 'Mistletoe' in Stokes Bay, Aug. 1875; vice-admiral, 1881; commander-in-chief at the Nile, 1885-7; admiral, 1887; G.C.B., 1866; G.O.V.O., 1898; died at Amorbach.

LEINHMAN, THOMAS (1825-1904), Scottish divine and liturgist; M.A. Glasgow University, 1843; D.D., 1871; presbyterian minister at Linton, Teviotdale, 1855-95; with G. W. Sprott [q.v.] published an annotated edition of 'The Book of Common Order'; advocated observance of the five great Christian festivals by the Church of Scotland, 1888; helped to found Scottish Church Society, 1892; thrice president; writings include 'The Moulding of the Scottish Reformation,' 1897; moderator of general assembly, 1898.

LEINHMAN, SIR WILLIAM BOOG (1865-1926), bacteriologist; M.B., C.M., Glasgow; entered Army Medical Service, 1887; served in Wairarita campaign, 1894-5; assistant professor of pathology, Army Medical School (Netley), 1900; professor of pathology, Army Medical School (Millbank), 1903-13; was office expert on tropical diseases, 1914; adviser in pathology to British Expeditionary Force in France, 1914-18; director of pathology, war office, 1919-23; medical director-general, Army Medical Services, and lieutenant-general, 1923; knighted, 1909; F.R.S., 1910; famous for his work on anti-typhoid inoculation and kala-azar.

LE JEUNE, HENRY (1819-1904), historical and genre painter; studied art at Royal Academy Schools; exhibited at Academy, 1840-94, and British Institution, 1842-63; curator of painting school of Royal Academy, 1848-64; A.R.A., 1863; painted subjects from Bible, Shakespeare, and Spenser; later devoted himself to painting children, as in 'Little Bo-Peep' and 'My Little Model'; musician and chess player.

LEMMENS-SHERINGTON, HELEN (1834-1906), soprano vocalist; studied music at Brussels under Cornells, 1859; first appeared at London concerts, 1856; married Nicolas Jacques Lemmens, 1857; leading English soprano from 1860, singing in English opera (1860-5) and in Italian opera (1866); showed great power in oratorio music, as in Mendelssohn's 'Elijah' and Haydn's 'Creation'; sang in first performance of Bach's 'High Mass,' 1876; teacher of singing at Brussels conservatoire, 1881-91; occasionally revisited England; died at Brussels.

LEMPRIERE, CHARLES (1818-1901), writer and politician; son of John Lempriere, D.D. [q.v.]; B.O.L., St. John's College, Oxford, 1843; D.O.L., 1847; called to bar, 1844; agent of conservative party from 1850; sent on private mission to Mexico, to watch British interests, 1861; published 'The American Crisis Considered,' 1861, and 'Notes on Mexico,' 1862; colonial secretary of the Bahamas, 1867; compelled to resign owing to his Tory opinions; wrote for the American 'Tribune'; organized unsuccessful English colony at Buckhorn, West Virginia, 1873.

LEWIS, SIR JOHN (1838-1906), newspaper proprietor; sub-editor and reporter of 'Hull Advertiser,' 1847-51; editor of bi-weekly 'Dundee Advertiser,' 1851; raised paper to high rank; became part proprietor, 1852; issued 'Advertiser' daily, 1861; established office in London, 1870; first to attempt illustrations in daily paper; founded first halfpenny daily in Scotland, 1859; the weekly 'People's Journal,' 1868, and literary weekly, 'People's Friend,' 1869; started 'Evening Telegraph,' 1877; liberal M.P. for Dundee, 1889-1906; supported railway and factory labour legislation and home rule bill, 1893; knighted, 1893; hon. LL.D. St. Andrews, 1904; thrice visited America and Canada, India (1896), and Near East; died at Delmonte, California, on third American tour.

LEWIS, SIR WILLIAM CHRISTOPHER (1825-1902), journalist; brother of Sir John Leng [q.v.]; contributed to 'Dundee Advertiser' from 1859; managing editor and owner (1884) of 'Sheffield Daily Telegraph', which became a powerful conservative organ; first to set up linotype machines; denounced trade unionist terrorism at Sheffield, 1867, and obtained royal commission of inquiry into his allegations; knighted, 1887.

LEWNOX, CHARLES HENRY GORDON, sixth DUKE OF RICHMOND and first DUKE OF GORDON (1818-1903), lord-president of the council. [See GORDON-LEWNOX.]

LENO, DAN (1860-1904), music-hall singer and dancer, whose true name was GEORGE GALVIN; made first appearance in London as 'Little George' the contortionist, 1864; took to clog-dancing and singing, 1869; admired by Charles Dickens at Belfast, 1869; won clog-dancing championship of the world at Leeds, 1890; made first appearance as 'Dan Leno' in London, 1883; appeared in Drury Lane pantomime from 1888-9 annually till death; played at Sandringham before King Edward VII, Nov. 1901; most memorable songs a mixture of song and 'patter'; lavish in charity; wrote burlesque autobiography, 'Dan Leno: his Book', 1901.

LE SAGE, SIR JOHN MERRY (1837-1928), journalist and managing editor of 'Daily Telegraph' for nearly forty years; on staff of 'Telegraph', 1863-1923; sometimes acted as special correspondent abroad; displayed great executive ability; enjoyed confidence of three generations of Levy family; strongly maintained middle-class traditions of 'Telegraph'; shaken by rise of new, twentieth-century journalism; knighted, 1918.

LESLIE, SIR BRADFORD (1831-1936), civil engineer; son of C. B. Leslie [q.v.]; painter; apprenticed to civil engineer, I. K. Brunel [q.v.], 1847; in service of Eastern Bengal Railway Company, acting under W. Purdon as resident engineer in charge of large bridges and viaducts, 1868-62; re-entered service, 1865; chief resident engineer for extension of line in northern delta, 1867-71; this included his first great achievement in India, bridge over Goral; constructed an original floating bridge over Hugli, 1873-4; municipal engineer of Calcutta, 1873-6; agent and chief engineer, East Indian Railway Company, 1876; superintended construction of bridge over Hugli at Naihati; K.C.I.E., 1887.

LEVER, WILLIAM HESKETH, first VISCOUNT LEVERHULME (1851-1935), soap manufacturer; entered father's grocery business in Bolton, 1867; partner, 1872; with his brother began to trade on his own account, specialising in soap, for which he chose name 'Sunlight', 1884; began to manufacture it, 1885; inaugurated new town, Port Sunlight, on Mersey, near Bebington, Cheshire, as centre for his works and workpeople, 1888; Lever Brothers made limited company, 1890; public company, 1894; by purchase or by interchange of shares exercised wide control over soap-making trade; liberal M.P., Wirral division of Cheshire, 1906-9; brought and won libel action against Northcliffe press, 1907; established crushing mills in Nigeria for supply of palm-oil for his soap; assiduous in care for Port Sunlight, on which he lavished many gifts, including art gallery; an enthusiastic collector of pictures, &c.; presented Stafford House (which, as Lancaster House, houses London Museum) to nation; baronet, 1911; baron, 1917; viscount, 1922.

LEVERHULME, first VISCOUNT (1851-1925), soap manufacturer. [See LEVER, WILLIAM HESKETH.]

LEVERSON-GOWER (EDWARD) FREDERICK (1810-1907), politician; son of first Earl Granville [q.v.]; educated at Eton and Christ Church, Oxford; B.A., 1840; called to bar, 1846; liberal M.P. for Derby, 1846-7, Stoke-on-Trent, 1853-7, and Bodmin, 1858-85; chairman of National School of Cookery, 1874-1908; visited India, 1860-1, and Russia, 1886; a conspicuous figure in society; edited his mother's 'Letters', 1894, and published 'Bygone Years', 1906.

LEVY-LAWSON, EDWARD, first BARON BURNHAM (1853-1916), newspaper proprietor; son of Joseph Moses Levy [q.v.]; assumed additional surname of Lawson, 1875; began career as dramatic critic to 'Sunday Times'; became editor of 'Daily Telegraph' shortly after its acquisition by his father, 1886; managing proprietor and sole controller, 1888; humanised his newspaper; paper's support transferred from Gladstone to Beaconsfield, 1879; after 1888 paper definitely unionist and imperialist; organized appeals to public for national and charitable efforts through 'Daily Telegraph' funds; sponsored enterprises such as Assyrian expedition of George Smith [q.v.], 1873; baronet, 1892; created baron on retirement from active control of paper, 1903; K.C.V.O., 1904.

LEWIS, AGNES (1842-1928), discoverer of the 'Sinai Palimpsest'; born SMITH; married S. S. Lewis [q.v.], 1887; with her twin sister, Margaret Gibson, visited St. Catherine's convent, Mount Sinai, 1892; discovered among Syriac manuscripts palimpsest containing ancient text of Gospels; photographed and subsequently (1893) transcribed manuscript.

LEWIS, BUNNELL (1824-1908), classical archaeologist; B.A., London, 1843; M.A., 1849; fellow of University College, London, 1847; professor of Latin, Queen's College, Cork, 1849-1905; F.S.A., 1865; made researches into surviving Roman antiquities in Europe; contributed to 'Archaeological Journal', 1876-1907; bequeathed library and £1,000 for classical prize to University College.

LEWIS, EVAN (1818-1901), dean of Bangor; B.A. Jesus College, Oxford, 1841; M.A., 1863; held livings of Aberdare (1869-66) and Dolgellau (1866-84); chancellor (1872-6), canon residentiary (1877-84), and dean of Bangor (1884-1901); influenced by tractarian movement; his teaching as curate on the sacraments led to a long controversy, 1850-3; his best work was Welsh treatise on Apostolic succession, 1851; his elder brother, DAVID LEWIS (1814-1895), vice-principal of Jesus College, Oxford, 1845-6, joined Roman Church, 1846, and translated theological works from Latin and Spanish.

LEWIS, SIR GEORGE HENRY, first baronet (1833-1911), solicitor; joined father's firm of solicitors, 1851; established reputation in connexion with Balham mystery, 1876 [see GULLEY, JAMES MANN]; obtained monopoly of 'society' cases; unrivalled in knowledge of criminals and in thoroughness of investigation; acted for incriminated nationalists before the Parnell commission, 1888-9; intimate with King Edward VII; C.V.O., 1905; knighted, 1892; baronet, 1902; advocate of Prisoners' Evidence Act of 1898, of court of criminal appeal, 1908, and Moneylenders Act, 1900.

LEWIS, JOHN TRAVERS (1835-1901), archbishop of Ontario; B.A., Trinity College, Dublin, 1848; ordained, 1848; settled in Canada, 1849; first bishop of Ontario, 1861; metropolitan of Canada, 1893; and archbishop of Ontario, 1894; his advocacy (1864) of national council for whole Anglican Church led to first Lambeth conference, 1867; hon. D.D. Oxford, 1897; hon. LL.D. Dublin.

LEWIS, RICHARD (1821-1905), bishop of Llandaff; B.A., Worcester College, Oxford, 1843; D.D., 1882; travelled in Europe and Near East, 1843-4; ordained, 1844; rector of Lampeter Velfry, 1851-83; archdeacon of St. David's 1878-83; bishop of Llandaff, 1883-1905; inaugurated Bishop of Llandaff's Church Extension Fund, for erection of new churches and support of additional curates, thus greatly extending work of diocese; established annual diocesan conference, 1884; a broad and tolerant churchman, but uncompromising on question of church schools; took seat in House of Lords, 1885; unsympathetic with modern Welsh nationalism; statue by Goscombe John in Llandaff Cathedral and portrait by A. S. Cope in Llandaff Palace; his son, ARTHUR GRUFFTH Poyer LEWIS (1848-1909), rowed for Oxford in university boat-race, 1870, and was recorder of Carmarthen, 1890-1906.

LEWIS, WILLIAM THOMAS, first BARON MERTHYR, of Senghnydd (1837-1914), engineer and coal-owner; controller of Marquess of Bute's Welsh estates, 1881; main colliery interests latterly in Rhondda valley and Senghnydd districts; served on royal commissions dealing with coal industry and labour problems; promoted industrial peace; knighted, 1888; created baronet, 1896; baron, 1911.

LIBERTY, SIR ARTHUR LASENBY (1842-1917), fabric manufacturer; opened business in Regent Street, London (afterwards Liberty & Co.), 1875; dealt in Oriental fabrics and produced British machine-made stuffs which equalled hand-made products of Asia; friend of pre-Raphaelite painters; knighted, 1912.

LIDDESDALE, WILLIAM (1832-1909), governor of the Bank of England; born at St. Petersburg; son of a Russian merchant; director (1870), deputy governor (1887), and governor (1889) of Bank of England; concerned in G. J. Goschen's reduction of interest on national debt, 1888; by his firm action liquidated Messrs. Baring's affairs and increased the City's confidence in the Bank, 1890; F.O., 1891; concluded negotiations with government which took shape in Bank Act of 1892.

LINCOLNSHIRE, MARQUESS OF (1848-1928), politician. [See WYNN-CARRINGTON, CHARLES ROBERT.]

LINDLEY, NATHANIEL, BARON LINDLEY (1828-1921), lord of appeal; son of John Lindley, F.R.S. [q.v.]; educated at University College School, London; called to bar (Middle Temple), 1850; published 'A Treatise on the Law of Partnership', &c., publicly noticed by judges, 1860; career assured by success as junior for Overend, Gurney & Co., in City financial crisis, 1866; reputation enhanced by case of 'Knox v. Gye' (1871) and action concerning 'Frou-frou'; Q.C., 1873; judge of common pleas and knighted, 1878; lord justice of appeal, 1881; master of the Rolls, 1897; F.R.S., 1897; lord of appeal in ordinary, 1900-5; life peer, 1900; remarkable for impartiality and versatility.

LINDSAY, DAVID (1856-1922), explorer; born in Southern Australia; entered Southern Australia survey department, 1873; led expedition for scientific exploration of interior of Western Australia, financed by Sir Thomas Elder, 1891; results fell short of expectations, but auriferous area revealed.

LINDSAY, JAMES GAVIN (1836-1903), colonel R.E.; joined Madras engineers, 1854; served in Indian Mutiny; as engineer-in-chief constructed northern Bengal railway, 1872; showed capacity in dealing with Bengal famine, 1873-4; colonel, 1882; built Sukkur-Sibi railway in second Afghan war, 1878-80; took part in relief of Kandahar; finished Southern Maharashtra railway, 1891.

LINDSAY, JAMES LUDOVIC, twenty-sixth EARL OF CRAWFORD and ninth EARL OF BALCARRES (1847-1913), astronomer, collector, and bibliophile; son of twenty-fifth earl [q.v.]; erected Dun Echt observatory, near Aberdeen, 1872; succeeded father, 1880; collector of French Revolution documents, &c.; published 'Bibliotheca Lindesiana' (1883-1913); F.R.S., 1878; K.T., 1896.

LINDSAY (afterwards LOYD-LINDSAY), ROBERT JAMES, BARON WANTAGE (1832-1901), soldier and politician; joined Scots guards, 1850; retired as lieutenant-colonel, 1859; served with distinction in Crimea; received V.C., 1857; assumed name of Loyd-Lindsay on marriage, 1868; a pioneer of Volunteer movement, 1859; conservative M.P. for Berkshire, 1865-86; financial secretary to war office, 1877-80; represented Red Cross Aid Society, which he helped to found (1870), in Franco-Prussian and Turko-Servian wars; K.C.B., 1881; raised to peerage, 1885; a prominent freemason; leading agriculturist in Berkshire; discriminating art patron; helped to found Reading University College (afterwards Reading University); memoir by Lady Wantage, 1907.

LINDSAY, THOMAS MARTIN (1843-1914), historian; educated at Glasgow and Edinburgh universities; entered ministry of Free Church of Scotland, 1869; professor of church history at Free Church theological college, Glasgow, 1872; principal, 1902; interested in missions and social problems; chief works, 'Luther and the German Reformation' (1900) and 'A History of the Reformation in Europe' (1906-7).

LINGEN, RALPH ROBERT WHEELER, BARON LINGEN (1816-1906), civil servant; educated at Trinity College, Oxford; friend of Jowett, Froude, and Frederick Temple; Ireland and Hertford scholar (1838-9); B.A., 1840; won Latin Essay (1843) and Eldon scholarship (1846); fellow of Balliol, 1841; hon. D.O.L., 1881; hon. fellow of Trinity, 1888; called to bar, 1847; secretary to education office, 1848-69; worked harmoniously under Lord Granville and Robert Lowe [q.v.]; issued code advocating payment by results in accordance with report of Newcastle commission of inquiry, 1861; code severely criticized by Lord Robert Cecil (Lord Salisbury) and W. E. Forster; C.B., 1869; permanent secretary of the treasury, 1869-85; vigilant guardian of public purse; K.C.B., 1878; raised to peerage, 1885; alderman of first London county council, 1889-92.

LINLATHGOW, first MARQUESS OF (1860-1908), first governor-general of the commonwealth of Australia. [See GORT, JOHN ADRIAN LOUIS.]

LISTER, ARTHUR (1830-1906), botanist; son of Joseph Jackson Lister [q.v.]; published 'A Monograph of the Mycetozoa', 1884, and 'Guide to the British Mycetozoa', 1905; F.R.S., 1898.

LISTER, JOSEPH, first BARON LISTER, of Lyme Regis (1857-1912), founder of antiseptic surgery; son of Joseph Jackson Lister, F.R.S. [q.v.]; educated at Grove House School, Tottenham, and University College, London; especially influenced during his medical studies by Wharton Jones, professor of ophthalmic medicine and surgery, and William Sharpey [q.v.], professor of physiology; after taking M.B. (1859) carried out researches on physiological problems; went to Edinburgh to study method of James Syme [q.v.], celebrated surgeon, 1863; settled in Edinburgh; assistant surgeon to Royal Infirmary, 1864; professor of surgery, Glasgow University, and F.R.S., 1860; surgeon to Glasgow Infirmary, 1861; professor of clinical surgery, Edinburgh, 1869-77; at King's College, London, 1877-92; baronet, 1883; president of Royal Society, 1894-1900; baron, 1897; O.M., 1902; devoted himself to prevention of mortality from injuries and wounds by studying inflammation and suppuration; influenced by researches of Louis Pasteur; employed carbolic acid to destroy germs and prevent septic infection; successfully applied treatment to cases of compound fracture; invented new operations and improved technique of old ones by introducing use of absorbable ligatures and drainage tubes; vanishing of septic diseases caused practice of surgery to undergo complete revolution and enormously enlarged its field.

LISTER, SAMUEL CUNLIFFE, first BARON MASHAM (1815-1906), inventor; brother carried on worsted mill at Manningham till 1839; took out over 150 patents for inventions; evolved Lister-Cartwright (1846), the 'square motion' (1846), and 'square nip' (1850) wool-combing machines, which cheapened cloth, advanced Bradford's prosperity, and created Australian wool trade; successfully converted silk waste into silk velvets, poplins, and the like; invented (1848) a compressed air brake for railways; purchased Ackton colliery in Yorkshire, where the works were destroyed in coal strike of 1893; early advocated tariff reform; presented Lister Park to Bradford city; raised to peerage, 1891; hon. LL.D. Leeds University; ardent art collector and sportsman; published account of his inventions, 1905; statue by Matthew Noble in Lister Park, Bradford.

LITTLE, WILLIAM JOHN KNOX- (1839-1918), divine and preacher. [See KNOX-LITTLE.]

LITTLE, SIR RALPH DANIEL MAKINSON (1835-1908), barrister; B.A. London, 1854; called to bar, 1857; Q.C., 1873; treasurer of Middle Temple, 1900-1; C.B., 1890; knighted, 1902; chairman of Middlesex sessions county council from 1889 to death; was often criticized for long sentences on habitual criminals.

LIVING, GEORGE DOWNING (1827-1924), chemist; B.A. St. John's College, Cambridge; eleventh wrangler, 1850; senior in new natural sciences tripos, 1851; fellow of St. John's, 1853; professor of chemistry, Staff College and Royal Military College, Sandhurst, 1880; professor of chemistry, Cambridge, 1891-1908; carried out in collaboration with (Sir) James Dewar [q.v.] spectroscopic investigations, 1878-1900; subjects investigated include the reversal of the lines of metallic vapour, the spectrum of carbon, ultra-violet spectra, and sun-spots; seventy-eight joint papers republished in a single volume, 1915; superintended erection of new university chemical laboratory from 1888; professorial fellow of St. John's, 1889; F.R.S., 1879; published 'Chemical Equilibrium the Result of the Dissipation of Energy' (1885).

LIVESSEY, SIR GEORGE THOMAS (1834-1908), promoter of labour co-partnership; joined South Metropolitan Gas Company, 1848; assistant manager, 1857; engineer and secretary, 1871; chairman of board of directors, 1885; adopted principle of sliding scale, 1876; admitted foremen (1886) and workmen (1889) to share in profits; capitalized bonus of workmen, who became shareholders (1894) and were admitted to board of directors (1898); sat on labour commission, 1891-4; knighted, 1902; erected 'Livessey' library, Chamberwell; 'Livessey' professorship of coal gas and fuel industries was founded at Leeds University.

LLANDAFF, VISCOUNT (1826-1913), lawyer and politician. [See MATTHEWS, HENRY.]

LOYD, MARIE (pseudonym) (1870-1922), music-hall comedian. [See WOOD, MATILDA ALICE VICTORIA.]

LOATES, THOMAS (1867-1910), jockey; first rode a winner, 1888; won Derby, 1889; headed list of winning jockeys, 1889, 1890, and 1893; won on Lexington the Two Thousand Guinea, Derby, and St. Leger, 1893, and on St. Frusquin the Two Thousand Guinea, 1894; a resourceful rider; amassed large fortune.

LOEB, SIR CHARLES STEWART (1846-1938), social worker; born in Bengal; B.A., Balliol College, Oxford; influenced by T. H. Green and Arnold Toynbee [qq. v.]; secretary to council of Charity Organisation Society, 1876-1914; his enthusiastic idealism, combined with common sense and efficiency, infected paid staff and volunteers; made influence of Society felt in social legislation and in institution of hospital almoners; member of several royal commissions, 1893-1909; majority report on poor laws largely his work; Tooke professor of economic science and statistics, King's College, London, 1904-8; knighted 1915.

LOCKIE, WILLIAM JOHN (1863-1930), novelist; born in British Guiana; B.A., St. John's College, Cambridge; schoolmaster; secretary, Royal Institute of British Architects, 1897-1907; died at Cannes; his novels include 'The Morals of Marcus Ordeyne' (1906), 'The Beloved Vagabond' (1906), 'The Glory of Clementina Wing' (1911), and 'The Joyous Adventures of Aristide Fufol' (1912).

LOCKIE, CHARLES (1820-1901), tenor vocalist; sang in Rossini's 'Stabat Mater', 1842, and created tenor part in Mendelssohn's 'Elijah' at Birmingham, 1846.

LOCKWOOD, AMELIUS MARK RICHARD, first BARON LAMOURNE (1847-1928), politician; joined army, 1866; conservative M.P., Epping, 1892-1917; baron, 1917; exercised considerable independent influence in House of Commons; vice-president, Royal Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals; served on royal commission on vivisection, 1906-8; a noted horticulturist; P.C., 1905; lord-lieutenant of Essex, 1919.

LOCKYER, SIR (JOSEPH) NORMAN (1836-1920), astronomer; clerk in war office, 1857; made pioneer observations of spectrum of sun-spots, 1866, and of solar prominence, 1868; coined terms 'chromosphere' and 'helium', 1868; secretary to royal commission on scientific instruction and advancement of science, 1870; transferred to Science and Art Department, South Kensington, 1875; director of Solar Physics Observatory and professor of astronomical physics, Royal College of Science, 1890-1913; F.R.S., 1869; Rumford medalist, 1874; C.B., 1894; K.O.B., 1897; wrote numerous astronomical books.

LOFTIE, WILLIAM JOHN (1839-1911), antiquary; ordained, 1865; assistant chaplain, Chapel Royal, Savoy, 1871-95; F.S.A., 1872; frequent contributor to reviews; travelled much in Egypt; a keen Egyptologist; wrote much on British art and architecture, especially interested in London history and London buildings; chief works were 'Memorials of the Savoy', 1878, and 'A History of London', 3 vols. 1883.

LOFTUS, LORD AUGUSTUS WILLIAM FREDERICK SPENCER (1817-1904), diplomatist; son of second marquess of Ely; attaché to British legation at Berlin, 1837-44; at Stuttgart and Baden Baden, 1844-71; joined Sir Stratford Canning [q. v.] in special mission to European courts and witnessed revolutionary incidents in Germany and Austria, 1848; secretary of legation at Berlin, 1853; reported as to British consulates on German shores of Baltic after Crimean war; envoy extraordinary to Emperor of Austria, 1858; warned Austrian government of England's friendship to Italy, 1858; transferred to Berlin (1860), where he favoured Denmark's claims in Schleswig-Holstein crisis; at Munich, 1863-6; returned to Berlin, 1866; G.O.B., 1866; P.O., 1868; managed soldes de captivité for French prisoners of war in Germany, 1870; at St. Petersburg, 1871-9; attended Tsar Alexander on visit to England, 1874; conferred with Prince Gortschakoff with a view to prevent Russo-Turkish war, 1876; suggested Anglo-Russian understanding, which was brought about by Lord Salisbury and the Russian ambassador in London; governor of New South Wales, 1879-88; entertained Princes Albert Edward and George, 1881; published 'Diplomatic Reminiscences', 4 vols. 1893-4.

LOGUE, MICHAEL (1840-1924), cardinal; entered Maynooth College, 1857; deacon, 1864; priest and professor of dogmatic theology, Irish College, Paris, 1866; curate of Glenswilly, co. Donegal, 1874; dean at Maynooth, 1876; professor of theology, Maynooth, 1878; bishop of Raphoe, 1879; archbishop of Armagh, 1898; cardinal, with title of Santa Maria della Pace, 1898; exercised great influence in Irish politics, largely contributing to eventual deposition of C. S. Parnell from leadership of nationalist party; a great church builder; mediated between Irish people and British government, 1910-21.

LOHMANN, GEORGE ALFRED (1865-1901), Surrey cricketer; won great success as medium-pace bowler for Surrey from 1885 to 1890; thrice visited Australia; played for Players v. Gentlemen, 1886-86; a good hitting batsman and first-class fieldman; raised Surrey to leading position.

LONDONDERRY, sixth MARQUESS OF (1852-1915), politician. [See VANE-TEMPEST-STEWART, CHARLES STEWART.]

LONG, WALTER HUME, first VISCOUNT LONG OF WHARFALL (1854-1924), statesman; educated at Harrow and Christ Church, Oxford; conservative M.P., North Wiltshire, 1880-5; East Wiltshire, 1885-92; West Derby division of Liverpool, 1893-1900; South Bristol, 1900-6; South County Dublin, 1906-10; Strand division of Middlesex, 1910-18; St. George's, Westminster, 1918-21; belonged to 'country party' on entry into parliament, 1880; parliamentary secretary to local government board, 1886-92; took large part in framing and getting through House of Commons Local Government Act, which created county councils throughout Great Britain, 1888; president of board of agriculture, with seat in cabinet, 1895-1900; popularity of his appointment soon impaired by his vigorous and successful measures to stamp out rabies, which met with violent opposition; president of local government board, 1900-5; secured passing of Metropolitan Water Act, in teeth of bitter opposition, 1902; successful chief secretary for Ireland, 1905-6; created Union Defence League, 1907; president of local government board, 1915-16; secretary of state for colonies, 1916-18; first lord of admiralty, 1919-21; F.R.S., 1902; created viscount, 1921.

LONGHURST, WILLIAM HENRY (1819-1904), organist and composer; chorister (1828), assistant organist (1836), and organist (1873-95) of Canterbury Cathedral; Mus. Doc. 1875; published church music.

LOPES, SIR LOPES MASSEY, third baronet (1818-1908), politician and agriculturist; educated at Winchester and Oriel College, Oxford; B.A., 1842; M.A., 1845; conservative M.P. for Westbury, 1857-68, for South Devon, 1868-95; urged grievance of burden of local taxation; helped to carry Agricultural Ratings Act, 1879; civil lord of the admiralty, 1874-80; P.C., 1885; alderman of Devonshire county council, 1889-1904; a scientific farmer, he spent much money on improving his estates.

LORD, THOMAS (1808-1908), Congregational minister; held Midland pastorates (1834-79) till he settled at Horncastle, where he preached in his 101st year; original member of Peace Society; published devotional works.

LOBEURN, EARL (1846-1923), lord chancellor. [See REID, ROBERT THRESHIE.]

LORIMER, SIR ROBERT STODART (1864-1929), architect; son of Professor James Lorimer [q. v.]; apprenticed to Sir Rowand Anderson, architect, 1885; entered office of G. F. Bodley [q. v.], 1889; returning to Edinburgh, began long series of restorations, which were among his most pleasing works, 1892; designed many large Scottish country houses; his churches include St. Peter's (Roman Catholic), Morningside, Edinburgh (1906); designed chapel of Order of the Thistle, St. Giles's Cathedral, Edinburgh, 1900-11; recognized as leading architect of Scotland, 1914-18; after European war chiefly occupied on memorials, most important being Scottish National War Memorial, Edinburgh (1918-27); knighted, 1911; saviour of crafts in Scotland; restored to Scotland vital and characteristic architecture.

LOTINIERE, SIR HENRY GUSTAVE JOLY DE (1829-1908), Canadian politician. [See JOLY DE LOTINIERE.]

LOVELACE, second EARL OF (1839-1906), author of 'Astarte'. [See MILBANK, RALPH GORDON NOEL KING.]

LOVETT, RICHARD (1851-1904), author; spent boyhood (1858-67) in United States; B.A. London, 1873; M.A., 1873; book editor of Religious Tract Society, 1882; secretary, 1899; wrote centenary history of London Missionary Society, 1899; wrote lives of James Gilmour, 1892, and James Chalmers, 1903; author of 'The Printed English Bible', 1895.

LOW, ALEXANDER, LORD LOW (1845-1910), Scottish judge; B.A., St. John's College, Cambridge, 1867; passed to Scottish bar, 1870; raised to bench, 1890; his decision against minority's claim to 'Free Church' property (1900) was reversed by House of Lords, 1904.

LOW, SIR ROBERT CUNLIFFE (1838-1911), general; son of Sir John Low [q. v.]; joined Indian army, 1854; served in Indian Mutiny at Delhi and Lucknow; lieutenant-colonel, 1878; director of the transport service on march from Kabul to Kandahar; O.B., 1880; actively engaged in Upper Burma, 1886-7; K.O.B., 1887; commander-in-chief of Chitral relief expedition, 1895; lieutenant-general and G.O.B., 1896; commanded Bombay army, 1898-1909; general, 1900; keeper of crown jewels at Tower of London, 1909-11.

LOWE, SIR DRURY CURZON DRURY- (1830-1908), lieutenant-general. [See DRURY-LOWE.]

LOWEY, HENRY DAWSON (1869-1906), author; wrote Cornish stories for 'National Observer' from 1891; on staff of 'Pall Mall Gazette' (1895) and 'Morning Post' (1897); published novels and 'The Hundred Windows' (poems), 1904.

LOWTHE, JAMES (1840-1904), politician and sportsman; educated at Westminster and Trinity College, Cambridge; B.A., 1863; M.A., 1866; called to bar, 1864, but did not practise; conservative M.P. for York City, 1865-80, for Isle of Thanet, 1888-1904; parliamentary secretary to the poor law board under Disraeli, 1867-8; opposed Irish land bill, 1870; under-secretary for the colonies, 1874-8; chief secretary to lord-lieutenant of Ireland, 1878-80; P.O., 1878; opposed establishment of county councils (1888) and advocated protection; took part in Yorkshire local affairs; bred racehorses from 1873; senior steward of Jockey Club, 1889.

LOWY, ALBERT or ABRAHAM (1816-1908), Hebrew scholar; born in Moravia; studied at Vienna University; helped to found 'Die Einheit', a society for promoting welfare of Jews; came to London for support of scheme, 1840; with Jewish reformers in London founded West London Synagogue, 1842, and became first minister, 1842-92; helped to form Anglo-Jewish Association, 1870; secretary, 1875-89; catalogued Lord Crawford's Samaritan literature, 1872, and Hebrew books of City of London, 1891; founded Society of Hebrew Literature, 1870; hon. LL.D. St. Andrews, 1893.

LOYD-LINDSAY, ROBERT JAMES, BARON WANTAGE (1833-1901), soldier and politician. [See LINDSAY.]

LUARD, SIR WILLIAM GARNEAM (1830-1910), admiral; of Huguenot origin; joined navy, 1835; served in China war, 1841; commander, 1850; took part in capture of Rangoon and of Pegu (1852) and in operations in Japan in Straits of Shimonoseki, 1864; O.B., 1864; captain superintendent of Sheerness dockyard, 1870-5; superintendent of Malta dockyard, 1878-9; vice-admiral, 1879; president of Royal Naval College, Greenwich, 1882-5; admiral, 1886; K.O.B., 1897.

LUECKE, SIR JOHN, fourth baronet, and first BARON AVEBURY (1824-1913), banker, scientist, and author; son of Sir J. W. Lubbock [q.v.], third baronet; educated at Eton, but early installed in his father's bank; succeeded father, 1866; liberal M.P., Maidstone, 1870 and 1874, London University, 1880-1900; secured passage of Bank Holidays Act (1871), Act for Preservation of Ancient Monuments (1882), Early Closing Act (1904), &c.; P.C., 1890; created baron, 1900; held leading position in banking world; his researches on ants his most valuable contribution to science; F.R.S., 1858; author of numerous scientific and ethical works.

LUBY, THOMAS CLARK (1831-1901), Fenian; B.A., Trinity College, Dublin, 1845; abandoned theological studies for nationalist propaganda; planned risings in Ireland, 1848-9; captured and imprisoned; went to Australia; on return started with James Stephens [q.v.] Fenian movement, 1853; founded Irish Republican Brotherhood, 1858; sent as envoy from Ireland to America to collect funds, 1863; on return revived waning enthusiasm, and launched 'Irish People' newspaper as organ of party (Nov. 1863-Sept. 1868); sentenced to twenty years penal servitude for treason-felony, 1866; set at liberty, 1871; settled in New York and engaged in journalism; distrusted home rule movement under Parnell; wrote 'Lives of . . . Representative Irishmen', 1878.

LUCAS, eighth BARON (1876-1916), politician and airman. [See HENRIET, AUBREON THOMAS.]

LUCAS, KEITH (1879-1916), physiologist; B.A., Trinity College, Cambridge; fellow of Trinity, 1904; science lecturer, 1906; Croonian lecturer of Royal Society, 1912; F.R.S., 1912; researched on muscle and nerve problems; services enlisted for Royal Aircraft Factory, Farnborough, 1914; killed flying.

LUDLOCK, HERBERT MONTAGUE (1832-1909), dean of Lichfield; educated at Shrewsbury and Jesus College, Cambridge; B.A., 1858; M.A., 1863; D.D., 1879; won university theological prizes and scholarships; fellow, 1862; vicar of All Saints', Cambridge, 1865-75; principal of Ely Theological College, 1876-87; residentiary canon of Ely, 1878-92; dean of Lichfield, 1892-1909; a high churchman, he exerted influence through his devotional writings, which included 'After Death', 1879, and 'The Intermediate State', 1890.

LUDY, SIR HENRY WILLIAM (1843-1924), journalist; employed by various newspapers and engaged in freelance journalism, 1864-73; engaged by 'Daily News', 1873; manager of its parliamentary staff and writer of parliamentary summary; as 'Toby, M.P.', wrote 'Essence of Parliament' for 'Punch', 1881-1916; knighted, 1909; his close personal relations with prominent politicians made his work first-hand.

LUDLOW, JOHN MALCOLM FORBES (1891-1911), social reformer; born at Nimach, India; educated in Paris; called to bar, 1843; practised as conveyancer, 1845-74; advocate of reforms in India and of abolition of slavery; member of anti-corn-law league; in Paris during revolution of 1848; friend of F. D. Maurice, Charles Kingsley, and Tom Hughes; one of founders of Christian Socialist movement; promoted labour co-partnership, 1850; founded and edited weekly 'Christian Socialist', 1850; helped to found Working Men's College (1854), lecturing there on law and English and Indian history; wrote historical works, including 'Popular Epics of the Middle Ages', 3 vols. 1865; secretary to royal commission on friendly societies, 1870-4; chief registrar of friendly societies, 1875-91; O.B., 1887.

LUKE, JEMIMA (1813-1906), hymn writer; born THOMPSON; enthusiastic nonconformist; author of children's hymn, 'I think when I read that sweet story of old, 1840, and autobiography, 1900.

LUKIN, SIR HENRY TIMSON (1860-1955), major-general; served in Zulu war, 1879; South African war, 1899-1902; commandant-general, Cape Colonial forces, 1904-12; inspector-general, Permanent Force, Union of South Africa, 1912; commanded 1st South African infantry brigade in Egypt, gaining victory at Agagiya, 1916; commanded brigade in France, April; major-general, commanding 9th division, Dec.; K.C.B., 1918; died in Cape Colony.

LUTON, JOSEPH HIRST (1836-1906), scholar and schoolmaster; B.A., St. John's College, Cambridge (fifth class), 1858; M.A. and fellow, 1861; ordained, 1859; D.D., 1896; sur-master in St. Paul's School, 1864-99; published 'Wakefield Worthies', 1864; published 'Life of Dean Colet', 1887, and edited and translated many of Colet's works; Hulsean lecturer (1887) and Seatonian prizeman (1897) of Cambridge; other works were life of St. John of Damascus, 1882, and an edition of More's 'Utopia', 1895.

LUNE, SIR CHARLES MONTAGUE (1852-1930), judge; son of Sir Robert Lush [q.v.]; B.A., Trinity College, Cambridge; called to bar (Gray's Inn), 1879; K.C., 1902; judge, king's bench division and knighted, 1910; retired, 1925; an eloquent advocate, but hesitant judge; wrote 'Law of Husband and Wife' (1884).

LUKE, SIR ANDREW, baronet (1810-1909), lord mayor of London; started grocery business in Greenock, 1835; founded business in London, 1840; chairman of Imperial Bank from 1863; lord mayor of London, 1875; raised £150,000 for relief of Bengal famine; baronet, 1874; liberal M.P. for Finsbury, 1865-85; became liberal unionist, 1886.

LUTZ, (WILHELM) MEYER (1829-1903), musical composer; born in Bavaria; settled in England, 1843; toured provinces with Italian operatic singers; conductor of Gaiety Theatre, 1869-96, and organist of St. George's Cathedral, Southwark; composed, besides church music, operettas for the Gaiety Theatre.

LYALL, SIR ALFRED COWIN (1835-1911), Anglo-Indian administrator and writer; son of Alfred Lyall [q.v.]; educated at Eton and Halesbury; joined Indian civil service, 1856; actively served in Mysore, 1857-8; made commissioner of West Berar (1867), home secretary to Indian government (1873), and governor-general's agent in Rajputana (1874); foreign secretary to Indian government, 1878-81; took part in negotiations at Kabul and Kandahar, 1880, and advocated definite treaty with Russia in regard to Afghanistan, 1881; O.B., 1879; K.O.B., 1881; lieutenant-governor of North-West Provinces and Oudh, 1882-7; founded new University of Allahabad; returned to England, 1887; member of India council in London, 1887-1902; K.C.I.B., 1887; G.O.I.B., 1896; P.O., 1902; filled distinguished place in English society; Rede lecturer at Cambridge, 1891; Ford lecturer at Oxford, 1908; published 'Verses Written in India,' 1889, 'Asiatic Studies,' 2 series, 1882 and 1899, 'Rise of British Dominion in India, 1892, and life of the Marquess of Dufferin, 2 vols. 1905; hon. D.O.L. Oxford, 1889; LL.D. Cambridge, 1891; F.B.A., 1903; trustee of British Museum, 1911; a liberal unionist, free trader, and opponent of women's suffrage.

LYALL, SIR CHARLES JAMES (1848-1930), Indian civil servant and Orientalist; entered Indian civil service, 1865; held secretariats, &c., in India, 1867-94; chief commissioner of Central Provinces, 1896; K.O.S.I., 1897; secretary of judicial and public department, India office, 1898-1910; works include series on early Arabic literature.

LYALL, EDNA (pseudonym) (1857-1908), novelist. [See BAYLY, ADA ELLEN.]

LYNNE, JOSEPH LEYORSTER [Father Ignatius] (1837-1908), preacher; educated at St. Paul's School and Trinity College, Glenalmond; ordained, 1860; developed advanced views; curate to George Rundle Prynce [q.v.] at Plymouth; studied Benedictine Order at Bruges, 1861; on return to London replaced A. H. Mackenochie [q.v.] as curate of St. George's in the East; resigned on assuming Benedictine habit; formed a monastic community at Claydon, near Ipswich, 1863; removed to Elm Hill, near Norwich, 1863-6, where he frequently came into conflict with the bishop; built Llanthony Abbey, 1869; the community dwindled owing to quarrels; an eloquent preacher; made missionary tour through Canada and America, 1890-1; memoir by Baroness de Bertouche, 1904.

LYNNE, SIR WILLIAM JOHN (1844-1913), Australian politician; born in Tasmania; entered New South Wales legislative assembly, 1880; premier, 1899; minister of home affairs in first Commonwealth ministry, 1901; minister of trade and customs, 1903-8-7; treasurer, 1907-8; K.O.M.G., 1900; protectionist with rather narrowly Australian outlook.

LYONS, SIR ALGERNON MCLENNAN (1833-1908), admiral of the fleet; born at Bombay; entered navy, 1847; served on China and Mediterranean stations; distinguished himself in Crimean war; promoted commander, 1868; commodore in charge at Jamaica, 1875-8; rear-admiral, 1878; commander-in-chief in Pacific, 1881; in command of North America and West Indies station, 1886; admiral, 1888; commander-in-chief at Plymouth, 1892-6; admiral of the fleet, 1897; K.O.B., 1899; G.C.B., 1897.

LYTTELTON, ALFRED (1857-1913), lawyer and statesman; son of fourth Baron Lyttelton [q.v.]; educated at Eton and Trinity College, Cambridge; practised successfully at bar, 1881-1903; liberal-unionist M.P., Leamington, 1896; chairman of commission to South Africa, 1900; colonial secretary, 1903-4; sanctioned, in face of opposition, introduction of Chinese coolies into Rand, 1904; prepared way for development of Imperial Conference; M.P., St. George's, Hanover Square, 1906; first-class cricketer and for long amateur tennis champion.

LYTTELTON, ARTHUR TEMPLE (1852-1903), suffragan bishop of Southampton; son of fourth Baron Lyttelton [q.v.]; educated at Eton and Trinity College, Cambridge; B.A., 1874; M.A., 1877; D.D., 1898; tutor of Keble College, Oxford, 1878-89; first master of Selwyn College, Cambridge, 1882-93; Hulsean lecturer, 1891; vicar of Eccles, Lancashire, 1892-8; suffragan bishop of Southampton, 1878-1903; a high churchman; published 'Modern Poets of Faith, Doubt, and Unbelief,' 1904.

MACAG, SIR ARTHUR VERNON (1848-1908), gynaecologist and obstetrician; B.A., Trinity College, Dublin, 1864; M.B. and M.Ch., 1868; M.A.O., 1877; studied medicine at Berlin, 1869-73; served as volunteer in Prussian army, 1870; fellow of King and Queen's College of Physicians, Ireland; master of the Rotunda Hospital, Dublin, 1882; introduced newer obstetric methods despite opposition; applied Listerian principles in midwifery; president of Royal College of Physicians, Ireland, 1903-4; knighted, 1903; contributed to Dublin scientific journals.

MACARA, SIR CHARLES WRIGHT, first baronet (1846-1939), cotton spinner; managing partner of Henry Bammerman & Sons, cotton spinners and merchanta, of Manchester, 1880; president, Federation of Master Cotton Spinners' Associations, 1884-1914; founded International Federation of Master Cotton Spinners and Manufacturers' Associations, 1904; chairman, 1904-16; baronet, 1911.

MACARTHUR, CHARLES (1844-1910), politician and writer on marine insurance; won reputation by 'The Policy of Marine Insurance Popularly Examined,' 1871; established own business as an average adjuster at Liverpool, 1874; president of Liverpool Chamber of Commerce, 1892-6; liberal unionist M.P. for Exchange division of Liverpool, 1897-1906, and for Kirkdale, 1907-10; championed shipping and protestant church interests in parliament; wrote on 'Evidences of Natural Religion,' 1880.

MACARTHUR, MARY REID (1880-1921), women's labour organizer. [See ANDERSON.]

MCARTHY, JUSTIN (1830-1912), Irish politician, historian, and novelist; leader-writer on 'Daily News,' 1871; M.P., co. Longford, 1879, Derry city, 1886, North Longford, 1893-1900; chairman of anti-Parnellite nationalist party, 1890-6; wrote 'History of Our Own Times' (1877), 'Dear Lady Disdain' (1876), 'Miss Misanthrope' (1878), &c.

MACARTNEY, SIR SAMUEL HALLIDAY (1833-1908), official in the Chinese service; studied medicine at Edinburgh University, 1852-6; joined medical staff in Crimean war, 1855; M.D., 1855; served in Indian Mutiny (1859) and in China (1860-2); entered Chinese service, 1862; commanded Chinese troops co-operating with Gordon; took Fung Ching and Seedong, 1863; mediated between Gordon and Li Hung Chang regarding murder of Taping leaders at Soochow, 1864; in charge of arsenal at Nanking, 1865-75; secretary to the Chinese legation in London, 1877-1906; adviser of Chinese government; C.M.G., 1881; K.O.M.G., 1886; 'Life' by D. O. Boulger, 1908.

MACAULAY, JAMES (1817-1902), author; M.A. and M.D. Edinburgh, 1838; a strenuous opponent of vivisection; tutor in Italy and Spain, and Madeira, F.R.C.S. Edinburgh, 1862; edited 'Leisure Hour,' 'Sunday at Home,' and the R.T.S. periodicals; helped to found 'Boy's Own Paper' and 'Girl's Own Paper,' 1879; published accounts of travels in America, 1871, and Ireland, 1872; wrote narratives of adventure for boys and girls.

MACBAIN, ALEXANDER (1856-1907), Celtic scholar; graduate of King's College, Aberdeen, 1880; rector of Baining's school, Inverness, from 1881; published 'Celtic Mythology and Religion,' 1886, and a Gaelic Dictionary, 1896; edited many Celtic and Gaelic works; hon. LL.D. Aberdeen, 1901; awarded civil list pension, 1905.

MACBETH, ROBERT WALKER (1848-1910), painter and etcher; son of Norman Macbeth [q.v.]; studied at schools of Royal Scottish Academy and of Royal Academy; frequent exhibitor at Academy; an able etcher of pictures by Velasquez and Titian; A.R.A., 1883; R.A., 1903.

MACCALLUM, ANDREW (1821-1902), landscape painter; apprenticed to Nottingham hosiery business; studied art at Nottingham; art teacher in Manchester and Stourbridge, 1850-4; exhibited at Royal Academy, 1850-86; went to Italy, 1854; painted landscapes in Windsor Forest, in Switzerland, Germany, Italy, Paris, and Egypt; lectured on art; work represented in Tate Gallery, Victoria and Albert Museum, and in Nottingham Art Gallery.

MACALMONT, HARRY LESLIE BLUNDELL (1861-1902), sportsman; joined army, 1881; inherited some £4,000,000, 1894; won £37,455 with horse Isinglass, who won the Two Thousand Guineas, Derby, and St. Leger in 1893, and was sire of Cherry Lass and Glass Doll, winners of the Oaks, 1905 and 1907; conservative M.P. for Newmarket, 1895-1902; C.B. for services in South African war.

MCLEAN, FRANK (1837-1904), civil engineer and amateur astronomer; B.A., Trinity College, Cambridge (37th wrangler), 1860; partner in father's engineering firm, 1862-70; built private observatory near Tunbridge Wells; designed a star spectroscope; published results of systematic survey of spectra of stars brighter than magnitude 3^d, 1898; F.R.A.S., 1877; hon. LL.D. Glasgow, 1894; F.R.S., 1895; bequeathed large sums of money to Cambridge and Birmingham universities for physical research.

MCCLINTOCK, SIR FRANCIS LEOPOLD (1819-1907), admiral; entered navy, 1831; served under Sir James Clark Ross [q.v.] 1848, Sir Erasmus Ommanney [q.v.], 1850, and Sir Edward Belcher [q.v.], 1852, in Arctic voyages; commanded expedition in search of Sir John Franklin [q.v.] 1861; published account of his voyage and fate of Franklin and his companions, 1859; knighted, 1860; commodore in charge at Jamaica, 1865-8; admiral superintendent of Portsmouth dockyard, 1872-7; vice-admiral, 1877; admiral, 1884; K.O.B., 1891; portraits by Stephen Pearce in National Portrait Gallery; 'Life' by Sir C. R. Mackham.

MACCUBBIE, SIR JOHN DAVID (1860-1929), schoolmaster; B.A., London and Trinity College, Cambridge; professor of astronomy, Queen's College, London, 1889-94; headmaster, Mill Hill School, 1891-1929; raised it from being comparatively unknown Nonconformist school of sixty boys to status of successful public school with over three hundred boys; knighted, 1913; contributed to educational, musical, and religious life of his time.

MACOAN, JAMES OARLILE (1829-1904), author and journalist; called to bar, 1856; practised in supreme consular court at Constantinople till 1864; published 'Egypt as it is', 1877, and 'Egypt under Ismail', 1889; wrote sympathetically of the Turks in 'Turkey in Asia', 3 vols. 1879; protestant home ruler M.P. for Wicklow county, 1860-5.

MACCOLL, MALCOLM (1831-1907), high-church divine and author; ordained, 1856; attracted notice of Gladstone, who presented him to City living of St. George's, Botolph Lane, 1871-91, and to canonry of Ripon, 1884; took frequent part in ecclesiastical and political controversies; supported Gladstone's Irish Church and home rule policies; visited Eastern Europe with Canon Liddon, 1876, and denounced Bulgarian atrocities; hon. D.D. Edinburgh, 1899.

MACCOLL, NORMAN (1843-1904), editor of the 'Athenaeum' and Spanish scholar; B.A., Downing College, Cambridge, 1866; M.A., 1869; fellow, 1868; called to bar, 1875; editor of 'Athenaeum', 1871-1900; published 'Select Plays of Calderon', 1888, and translations of Cervantes' 'Exemplary Novels', 2 vols. 1902, and of his 'Miscellaneous Poems', posthumous, 1912; endowed MacColl lectureship in Spanish and Portuguese at Cambridge.

MACCORMAC, SIR WILLIAM, first baronet (1836-1901), surgeon; B.A., Queen's University, Belfast, 1855; M.A., 1858; M.D., 1857; hon. M.Ch., 1879; D.Sc., 1882; hon. M.D. and M.Ch. Dublin, 1900; studied surgery in Berlin; M.R.C.S., 1857; F.R.C.S., Ireland, 1864; volunteered for surgical service in Franco-German war, 1870; lecturer on surgery at St. Thomas's Hospital, 1873-95; chief surgeon to National Aid Society in Turco-Serbian war; knighted for services as secretary to seventh international medical congress, 1881; baronet, 1897; K.C.V.O., 1898; president of the Royal College of Surgeons, 1896-1900; government consulting surgeon to the field force in South African war, 1899-1900; K.C.B., 1901; publications include account of his work at Sedan, 1870, and 'Surgical Operations', 1885-9.

MACCORMICK, SIR WILLIAM SYMINGTON (1850-1930), scholar and administrator; grandson of Rev. William Symington [q.v.]; M.A. Glasgow University; professor of English literature, University College, Dundee, 1890; first secretary of Carnegie Trust for Universities of Scotland, 1901; connected with every important government step to aid university education from 1906 onwards; chairman of Advisory Council for Scientific and Industrial Research, 1915; of Treasury University Grants Committee, 1919; knighted, 1911; F.R.S., 1928; died at sea; works include 'The MSS. of Chaucer's Canterbury Tales' (posthumous, 1933).

MACCUDDEN, JAMES THOMAS BYFORD (1895-1918), airman; joined royal flying corps, 1913; went to France as air mechanic, 1914; learned to fly, 1916; became leading British fighting pilot; brought down fifty-four enemy aeroplanes; M.C. and D.S.O., 1917; V.C., 1918; killed flying in France.

MACCUMBE, HAMISH [JAMES] (1868-1916), musical composer; studied at Royal College of Music; orchestral and choral works include 'Land of the Mountain and Flood' (1887), 'Ship of the Wind', 'Dowie Dens o' Yarrow', 'Lord Ullin's Daughter', 'Lay of the Last Minstrel', and 'Bonny Kilmeny' (all 1888); composed operas.

MACDERMOT, HUGH HYACINTH O'BORKE, THE MACDERMOT (1834-1904), attorney-general for Ireland; called to bar (King's Inns, Dublin), 1863; benchet, 1884; counsel in leading political cases in Ireland; succeeded father as titular 'Prince of Coolavin', 1873; liberal solicitor-general for Ireland, May-July 1885 and Feb.-Aug. 1886; attorney-general and F.C., 1892-5.

MACDERMOTT, GILBERT HASTINGS (1845-1901), music-hall singer, whose real surname was FARRELL; made some position as an actor and writer of melodramas which included 'Driven from Home', 1871; leaped into fame (1875) by singing on music-hall stage the patriotic song by George William Hunt (1829-1904), 'We don't want to fight,' which became popular watchword of war-party in England during Russo-Turkish war and gave the political terms 'jingo' and 'jingolism' to the English language; last 'lion comique' of English music-hall.

MACDERMOTT, MARTIN (1823-1906), Irish poet and architect; wrote occasional verse for 'Nation' from 1840; delegate to Paris to obtain French republican support for Young Ireland movement, 1848; chief architect to Egyptian government in Alexandria from 1866; retired to London, 1878; prepared anthology of Irish poetry, 1894.

MACDONALD, SIR CLAUDE MAXWELL (1852-1915), soldier and diplomatist; joined army, 1872; minister at Peking, 1896; organized defence of legations during Boxer rising, 1900; minister at Tokio, 1900; ambassador, 1906-13; promoted Anglo-Japanese friendship; K.C.B., 1898; military K.C.R., 1901; P.C., 1906.

MACDONALD, GEORGE (1824-1906), poet and novelist; M.A., King's College, Aberdeen, 1845; hon. LL.D., 1868; settled in Manchester, 1853; published narrative poem, 'Within and Without', 1856 (admired by Tennyson and Lady Byron), and 'Phantastes', 1858, a faerie romance in prose; thenceforth largely engaged in prose fiction—either of mystical character, as 'David Elginbrod', 1863, or descriptive of Scottish humble life, as 'Alec Forbes', 1865, and 'Robert Falconer', 1868; long preached as a layman at Manchester; settled in London for life, 1860; friend of F. D. Maurice, Browning, Ruskin, Carlyle, William Morris, and Tennyson; lectured in London and in America, 1872; granted civil list pension, 1877; spent part of each year at Bordighera, 1881-1902; besides novels and children's stories his works include 'Unspoken Sermons', 3 vols. 1867, 1885, and 1889, and 'Letters from Hell', 1884; a collective edition, excluding novels, appeared in 1886 (10 vols.), and his 'Poetical Works' (2 vols.) in 1893; 'Life' by Joseph Johnson, 1906.

MACDONALD, SIR HECTOR ARCHIBALD (1863-1903), major-general; joined army as private in Gordon highlanders, 1870; served with distinction in second Afghan war, 1879-80; won sobriquet of 'Fighting Mac'; promoted second lieutenant, 1880; displayed heroism at battle of Majuba, 1881; shared in Nile expedition (1885), and in reorganization of Egyptian army; distinguished in Sudan campaign, 1888-91; commanded brigade of Egyptian infantry in expedition to Dongola (1896) and at Athara (1898); displayed successful adroitness at Omdurman, Sept. 1898; O.B., 1897; brigadier-general in Punjab, 1899-1900; major-general, Jan. 1900; in South African war prepared way for relief of Kimberley by seizure of Koodoosberg, Feb. 1900; engaged in actions which led to surrender of generals Cronje and Prinsloo, Feb.-May 1900; K.C.B., 1900; placed in command of Belgaum district, 1901, and of troops in Ceylon, 1902; owing to opprobrious accusation, he shot himself at Paris; memorial tower set up at Dingwall, his birthplace.

MACDONALD, SIR JAMES RONALD LESLIE (1862-1927), major-general; gazetted to royal engineers, 1882; attached to military works department, India, 1886-91; chief engineer on preliminary survey for projected Uganda Railway; acting commissioner, Uganda Protectorate, 1893; largely instrumental in securing its safety from rebels, 1897-9; director of balloons (afterwards railways) for China expeditionary force, 1900; commanded military escort of political mission dispatched to Tibet under (Sir) Francis Younghusband, 1903-4; major-general, 1908; general officer commanding in Mauritius, 1909-13; K.C.I.E., 1904.

MACDONALD, JOHN BLAKE (1829-1901), Scottish artist; painted, largely in chiaroscuro, dramatic episodes of Jacobite romance, and later landscape; A.R.S.A., 1862; R.S.A., 1877.

MACDONALD, SIR JOHN DENIS (1826-1906), inspector-general of hospitals and fleets, 1880-6; joined navy as assistant surgeon, 1849; engaged in microscopic study and deep sea investigations; F.R.S., 1869; professor of naval hygiene at Netley, 1872; K.C.B., 1902; published 'Outlines of Naval Hygiene', 1881.

MACDONALD, SIR JOHN HAY ATHOL, LORD KINGSBURGH (1826-1919), lord justice-general of Scotland; called to Scottish bar, 1869; solicitor-general for Scotland, 1876-80; Q.C., 1880; lord advocate, 1886-8, 1886-9; lord justice-clerk and assumed judicial title, 1888; presided over second division of Court of Session, 1888-1915; specialized in criminal law; ardent Volunteer; P.C., 1885; K.C.B., 1900; F.R.S.

MACDONELL, ARTHUR ANTHONY (1854-1930), Sanskrit scholar; born in India; educated at Dresden and Göttingen; B.A., Corpus Christi College, Oxford; deputy to Boden professor of Sanskrit at Oxford and keeper of Indian Institute, 1888; succeeded to these offices and to professorial fellowship at Balliol College, 1899; retired, 1926; raised funds for critical edition of Sanskrit epic, 'Mahā-Bhārata'; visited India, 1907-8 and 1922-3; F.B.A., 1906; as Sanskrit scholar worked chiefly in Vedic field; works include editions of 'Sarvāṅkramani' (1886) and 'Bṛhad-devatā' (1904), 'Vedic Mythology' (1897), and 'Vedic Grammar' (1910).

MACDONELL, SIR HUGH GUION (1832-1904), soldier and diplomatist; served in British Kaffraria with rifle brigade, 1849-53; after holding several minor diplomatic posts (1858-85) was British envoy at Rio, 1888, Copenhagen, 1888, and Lisbon, 1893-1902; tactfully dealt with Anglo-Portuguese difficulties in South African war; K.O.M.G., 1892; G.O.M.G., 1899; P.C., 1902.

MACDONELL, SIR JOHN (1845-1921), jurist; brother of James Macdonell [q.v.]; M.A., Aberdeen; called to bar (Middle Temple), 1873; master of Supreme Court, 1889; senior master and King's Remembrancer, 1912-20; Quain professor of comparative law, University College, London, 1901-20; knighted, 1903; K.C.B., 1914; F.B.A., 1913; writer on legal subjects.

MACDONELL, ANTONY PATRICK, BARON MACDONELL, of Swinford (1844-1926), statesman; B.A., Queen's College, Galway; entered Indian civil service, 1865; accountant-general and later revenue secretary to provincial government, Calcutta, 1881; largely responsible for Tenancy Act, 1885; home secretary to central government, 1886-9; chief commissioner, Central Provinces, 1890; lieutenant-governor, North-Western Provinces and Oudh, 1895; his period of office marked by severe visitations of plague and famine, which he combated with notable energy and ability; chairman of important famine commission, 1901; permanent under-secretary of state, Ireland, 1902-8; attempted to lift long-standing Irish quarrel above bitterness of party warfare, but his administration regarded with suspicion by both parties in Ireland; helped George Wyndham [q.v.], chief secretary for Ireland, to prepare and shape Irish Land Purchase Bill, 1903; unjustly censured by cabinet for his assistance to Lord Dunraven and Irish Reform Association in preparing scheme of 'devolution' for Ireland; secured support of (Viscount) Bryce [q.v.] when he became chief secretary for Ireland, 1905-7; his new scheme of devolution, which formed basis of Irish Council Bill (1907), approved by Bryce; unsupported by A. Birrell in his devolution scheme and in attempts to suppress disorder; after resignation continued to take part in public life; created baron, 1908.

MACDONELL, SIR SCHOMBERG KERR (1861-1915), civil servant; principal private secretary to Marquess of Salisbury, 1888-92, 1895-9, 1900-3; secretary to office of works, 1903-12; K.C.B., 1902; died of wounds in Flanders.

MACE, JAMES [JEM MACE] (1831-1910), pugilist; at first a showman and circus performer; became best boxer of his generation; middle weight champion, 1860; beat Thomas King [q.v.] and Joe Gosse for championship, 1863-6; last surviving representative of old prize ring.

MACVOY, ARTHUR AMBROSE (1878-1937), painter; entered Slade School of Fine Art, 1898; began as painter of poetical landscapes and restful interiors; later became popular as portrait-painter; executed series of portraits in Imperial War Museum; capable of rendering masculine qualities, but it is subjective treatment of women's portraits which gives him unique place among contemporary English portrait-painters.

MACWEN, SIR WILLIAM (1848-1924), surgeon; B.M., O.M. Glasgow University; assistant surgeon, Royal Infirmary, Glasgow, 1876; full surgeon, 1877; regius professor of surgery, Glasgow, 1892-1924; F.R.S., 1895; knighted, 1903; his most important contributions to surgery made in brain surgery and bone surgery; first surgeon deliberately to operate for brain disorders; laid basis of modern brain surgery, especially in mastoid disease; introduced method of implanting small grafts to replace missing parts of limb-bones and new method of rectifying knock-knee.

MACFADYEN, ALLAN (1860-1907), bacteriologist; M.B., O.M. Edinburgh University, 1883; M.D., 1886; B.Sc. in hygiene, 1888; lecturer on bacteriology at College of State Medicine, subsequently amalgamated with Lister Institute, from 1889; director, 1891; secretary, 1903; planned and organized Lister Institute; Fullerton professor of physiology at Royal Institution, 1901-4; lectures published as 'The Cell as the Unit of Life,' posthumous, 1908.

MACFARREN, WALTER CECIL (1828-1905), pianist and composer; brother of Sir George A. Macfarren [q.v.]; studied at Royal Academy of Music; sub-professor of pianoforte there from 1846; composed pianoforte pieces in style of Mendelssohn, vocal works, church services, and overtures; published 'Scale and Arpeggio Manual, 1882, and autobiographical 'Memories,' 1905.

MAGRATH, SIR PATRICK THOMAS (1868-1920), statesman and journalist; born in Newfoundland; editor of Newfoundland 'Evening Herald,' 1894-1907; assistant clerk, Newfoundland House of Assembly, 1897-1900; chief clerk, 1900-11; president, legislative council, 1915-19, 1926-9; K.B.E., 1918.

MACGREGOR, SIR EVAN (1842-1926), civil servant; entered admiralty, 1860; private secretary to successive senior naval lords, 1869-79; principal clerk in secretariat and head of military branch which dealt with fleet operations and political work, 1880; permanent secretary of admiralty, 1884-1907; his period of office one of immense development both in fleet and in administration of navy, witnessing almost entire rebuilding of navy, construction of new harbours, barracks, and dockyards, reforms in naval education and training and in distribution and organization of fleet, and construction of new great fleet; K.C.B., 1892.

MACGREGOR, JAMES (1832-1910), moderator of the general assembly of the Church of Scotland, 1891; student at St. Andrews University, 1848-55; hon. D.D., 1870; served churches at Paisley, Glasgow, and Edinburgh; first minister of St. Cuthbert's, Edinburgh, 1873-1910; a fervent and popular preacher; visited Canada, 1881, and Australia, 1889.

MACGREGOR, SIR WILLIAM (1846-1919), colonial governor; M.D., Aberdeen, 1874; chief medical officer for Fiji, 1875; first administrator (styled lieutenant-governor, 1895) of British New Guinea, 1888; promoted policy of peaceful penetration and exploration; governor of Lagos, where he carried on campaign against malaria, 1899; governor of Newfoundland, 1904; organized and conducted important scientific expedition to Labrador; governor of Queensland, 1909-14; K.O.M.G., 1889; G.C.M.G., 1907; P.C., 1914.

MACLELLAN, JAMES OCTAVIUS (1837-1909), owner and manager of racehorses; joined army, 1854; retired as captain, 1863; won Derby with Hermit, 1867; superintended training of Isinglass [see MCCALMONT, HARRY] and of many other winning horses; his own horses won 540 races, 1864-1902; a good athlete.

MACLEAY, ROBERT (1831-1904), archbishop of Rupert's Land; of presbyterian parentage; M.A. Aberdeen, 1851; B.A., Sidney Sussex College, Cambridge, 1856; M.A., 1858; vicar of Madingley, 1862-5; bishop of Rupert's Land, 1865; reorganized St. John's College, Winnipeg; chancellor of Manitoba University, 1877-1904; subdivided diocese into eight sees; metropolitan of Canada, 1876; archbishop of Rupert's Land and primate of all Canada, 1893; received honorary degrees from Manitoba, Cambridge, Durham, and Aberdeen; 'Life' by Robert Macleay, 1909.

MACINTYRE, DONALD (1831-1903), major-general, Bengal staff corps; won V.C. for gallantry in Lushai expedition, 1871-2; commanded 2nd Prince of Wales's Own Gurkhas with Khyber column in Afghan war, 1878-9, and in Bazar valley expeditions; major-general, 1880; published account of travel and sport in Himalayas, 1889.

MACKEY, JENNAS JAMES GEORGE (1839-1911), legal and historical writer; B.A., University College, Oxford, 1862; M.A., 1866; admitted to Scottish bar, 1864; professor of constitutional law, Edinburgh University, 1874; advocate depute, 1881; sheriff principal of Fife and Kinross, 1886-1901; LL.D. Edinburgh, 1889; works include 'The Practice of the Court of Session,' 2 vols. 1877-9, 'William Dunbar,' 1889, and 'A History of Fife and Kinross,' 1896.

MACKEY, ALEXANDER (1833-1903), promoter of education in Scotland; M.A. St. Andrews; LL.D., 1891; developed educational methods and organization as schoolmaster at Torryburn; editor of 'Educational News,' 1878; president of Educational Institute of Scotland, 1881; member of Edinburgh school board, 1897; published educational works.

MACKAY, DONALD JAMES, eleventh BARON RRAY (1858-1921), governor of Bombay (1888-90), and first president of British Academy (1901-7); born at The Hague; educated at Leyden; entered Dutch foreign office; settled in England, 1875; naturalised, 1877; created baron of United Kingdom, 1881; under-secretary of state for India, 1894-5; interested in international law and politics.

MACKAY, MARY (1855-1924), novelist; known as MARIE CORRELL; daughter of Charles Mackay [q.v.]; showed precocious talent for piano-playing; published her first article, signed 'Marie Correll', 1883; published her first novel, 1886; achieved popularity of inescapable significance with 'Barabbas' (1893); this was succeeded by 'The Sorrows of Satan' (1895), topical, daring, and transcendental, which secured hysterical triumph and marked climax of her career, established her position of most popular novelist in Great Britain, which she held for twelve years, marked her determination to flout critics, and showed her inward conviction of her own authority and message; later works include 'The Mighty Atom' (1896); voiced mass-sentiment of pre-war bourgeoisie; settled in Stratford-on-Avon, to which she was benefactress, 1901.

MACKECHNIE, WILLIAM SHARP (1863-1930), constitutional historian; M.A. Glasgow University; solicitor in Glasgow, 1890-1915; lecturer in constitutional law and history, Glasgow University, 1894; professor of conveyancing, Glasgow, 1916-27; his chief work, 'Magna Carta' (1905), in which the Charter is represented as a feudal document only accidentally serving interests of others than the baronial class; others include 'The State and the Individual' (1896), and 'The New Democracy and the Constitution' (1913).

MACKENNAL, ALEXANDER (1835-1904), Congregational divine; student at Glasgow University, 1851-4; hon. D.D., 1887; B.A. London, 1887; minister at Bowdon, Cheshire, 1877 to death; chairman of Congregational Union, 1887; frequently visited America from 1889; advocated co-operative union of churches; secretary (1892-8) and president (1899) of National Free Church Council; published many theological works, and life of J. A. Macfadyen, D.D., 1891; 'Life' by D. Macfadyen, 1905.

MACKENZIE, SIR ALEXANDER (1842-1902), lieutenant-governor of Bengal; joined Indian civil service, 1862; under-secretary to local government, Bengal, 1866; home secretary to government of India, 1882; helped to shape Bengal Tenancy Act of 1885; C.S.I., 1886; chief commissioner of Central Provinces, 1887-90, and of Burma, 1890-5; K.C.S.I., 1891; suppressed hill tribe raids and restored order, 1892; lieutenant-governor of Bengal, 1898-8; made sanitary survey of Calcutta; enlarged powers of Bengal municipalities; co-operated with Assam in Lushai expedition of 1895-6; expedited land settlement operations in Behar and Orissa; dealt efficiently with the famine of 1896-7 and the plague; published 'History of the Relations of Government with the Hill Tribes of the North-East Frontier of Bengal', 1884.

MACKENZIE, SIR GEORGE SUTHERLAND (1844-1910), explorer and administrator; born at Bolarum, India; as representative of a London firm of East India merchants (1866) opened up trade route through Persian interior from Persian Gulf; pioneer explorer of Persian interior; managing director of Imperial British East Africa Company, 1888; developed East Africa, and explored interior as far as Uganda; C.B., 1897; K.O.M.G., 1902.

MACKENZIE, SIR JAMES (1853-1925), physician and clinical researcher; M.A. Edinburgh University, 1878; practised at Burnley, 1879-1907; consulting practitioner, London, 1907; F.R.S., 1915; knighted, 1918; best known for his researches into the nature of irregularities of heart's rhythm; his works include 'The Study of the Pulse' (1909) and 'Diseases of the Heart' (1908).

MACKENZIE, SIR JOHN (1856-1901), minister of lands in New Zealand; emigrated from Ross-shire to New Zealand, 1860; minister of lands and immigration, 1881-1900; successfully purchased and divided large estates among small farmers; passed Lands for Settlement Act, 1894; member of legislative council and K.O.M.G., 1901.

MACKENZIE, SIR STEPHEN (1844-1909), physician; brother of Sir Mervin Mackenzie [q.v.]; student at London Hospital, 1866; M.R.C.S. 1868; M.B. Aberdeen, 1878; M.D., 1878; F.R.C.P., 1879; physician at London Hospital, 1886, and at London Ophthalmic Hospital, 1884; made original researches into skin diseases and ophthalmology; knighted, 1908.

MACKENZIE, SIR WILLIAM (1849-1925), Canadian financier and railway builder; born in Upper Canada; became contractor, 1871; partner with (Sir) Donald Mann, 1886; their first line, Lake Manitoba Railway; Canadian Northern Railway Company incorporated, 1899; line completed from Port Arthur to Winnipeg, 1902; from Winnipeg to Edmonton, 1906; by 1915 trains were running from Montreal to Vancouver; financed all these operations; knighted, 1911; died at Toronto.

MACKINLAY, ANTOINETTE (1850-1904), contralto singer. [See STEWART.]

MACKINNON, SIR WILLIAM HENRY (1852-1929), general; appointed to grenadier guards, 1870; colonel commandant, City of London Imperial volunteers, Dec. 1899; took unit out to South Africa, Jan. 1900; its most outstanding experiences battles of Doornkop (29 May) and Diamond Hill (13 June), but all its achievements completely justified faith of its commandant, whose military reputation was enhanced by its exploits; director-general of newly formed Territorial Force, 1908; general officer commanding-in-chief, Western command, 1910; full general, 1913; K.C.B., 1908.

MACKINTOSH, CHARLES RENNIE (1868-1928), architect and painter; studied art and architecture in Glasgow; won competition for new building of Glasgow School of Art, 1894; evinced great originality in this his chief architectural work; Mackintosh exhibitions held in Venice, Munich, Dresden, Budapest, and Moscow; founded foreign school ('Suprematist'); subsequently devoted himself with great success to water-colours.

MACKINTOSH, JOHN (1833-1907), Scottish historian; published 'History of Civilisation in Scotland,' 4 vols. 1878-88; LL.D. Aberdeen, 1880.

MACLACHLAN, ROBERT (1837-1904), entomologist; published 'Catalogue of British Neuroptera,' 1870, and 'Synopsis of the Trichoptera of the European Fauna,' 1874-84; F.R.S., 1877; president of Entomological Society, 1888-6, and editor from 1884 and proprietor (1902) of 'Entomological Monthly Magazine.'

MACLAGAN, CHRISTIAN (1811-1901), Scottish archaeologist; devoted time and money to removal of slums in Stirling; made valuable researches into and published works on prehistoric remains in Scotland; prepared skilful rubbings from sculptured stones; lady associate of Scottish Society of Antiquaries, 1871.

MACLAGAN, WILLIAM DALEYMPLE (1836-1910), successively bishop of Lichfield and archbishop of York; studied law at Edinburgh University; an officer in Madras cavalry, 1847-9; B.A., Peterhouse, Cambridge, 1857; ordained, 1856; serving curacies in London until 1869; rector of Newington, 1869-75; of St. Mary Abbot, Kensington, 1875-8; bishop of Lichfield, 1878-91; interested in unity of Christendom; attended conference of Old Catholics at Bonn, 1887; archbishop of York, 1891-1908; established training college for clergy at York, 1892; discouraged advanced ritual; inaugurated Poor Benefices Fund; responsible with Archbishop Temple for reply to Pope Leo XIII's Bull denying validity of Anglican orders, 1896; crowned Queen Alexandra, 1902; resigned archbishopric, 1908; published small volume of poems, 1858; composed hymns (including 'The Saints of God') and hymn tunes; portrait by the Hon. John Collier at Peterhouse, Cambridge; 'Life' by F. D. How, 1911.

MACLAREN, ALEXANDER (1856-1910), Baptist divine; student at Glasgow University; B.A. London, 1884; successful minister at Southampton, 1884-88, and Union Chapel, Manchester, 1888-1908; rebuilt Union Chapel (1889) and added schools (1890); built new churches and missions in poor districts; exerted great influence as preacher of sermons showing both literary and exegetical skill; president of Baptist Union, 1878 and 1901, and of Baptist World Congress in London, 1905; hon. D.D. Edinburgh, 1877; Glasgow, 1907; Litt.D. Manchester, 1909; visited Australia, 1888, and Italy, 1886 and 1908; published devotional works and scripture expositions; edited in 'Expositor's Bible,' Colombian and Ephestian, 1887, and 'The Pulpit,' 3 vols. 1893-4; 'Lives' by J. C. Carlisle, 1901, D. Williams, 1910, and E. T. McLaren, 1911.

MACLAREN, IAN (pseudonym) (1851-1907), Presbyterian divine and author. [See WATSON, JOHN.]

MACLAREN, JOHN, LORD MACLAREN (1831-1910), Scottish judge; son of Duncan McLaren [q.v.]; passed to Scottish bar, 1856; reorganised Scottish Liberals and arranged Gladstone's 'Midlothian campaign.' 1879-80; M.P. for Wigton, 1880; appointed lord advocate (April), losing seat on seeking re-election; elected for Edinburgh, Jan. 1881; accepted under pressure from Gladstone and Sir William Harcourt Scottish judgeship, 1881; an eminently successful judge; edited works on Scottish law; a student of astronomy and mathematics; hon. LL.D. Edinburgh, 1882, Glasgow, 1883, and Aberdeen, 1906.

MACLEAN, SIR HARRY AUBREY DE VERE (1848-1920); served in army, 1869-76; laid of infantry and instructor to forces attached to court of sultans of Morocco, 1877-1909; O.M.G., for services rendered to British legation at Tangier, 1898; K.C.M.G., 1901; kidnapped and held to ransom by rebel sheriff, Raisuli, 1907; died at Tangier.

MACLEAN, JAMES MACKENZIE (1835-1906), journalist and politician; educated at Christ's Hospital; edited 'Newcastle Chronicle,' 1855-8; a leader-writer for 'Manchester Guardian,' 1859; edited 'Bombay Gazette,' 1859-61; proprietor from 1864; an independent critic both of Indian aspirations and of Indian government; greatly influenced public opinion in Bombay; appointed a magistrate, 1862; helped in creation of semi-elective municipal corporations, 1873; welcomed Prince of Wales to Bombay, 1875; returned home, 1879; had interest in and regularly contributed to 'Western Mail,' Cardiff, from 1882; supporter of Lord Randolph Churchill; conservative M.P. for Oldham, 1885-92, and for Cardiff, 1895-1900; opposed South African war, 1899; supported free trade, 1903; broke with conservative party, and wrote for liberal journals; published 'Recollections of Westminster and India,' 1903.

MACLEAR, GEORGE FREDERICK (1833-1902), theological writer; B.A., Trinity College, Cambridge, 1855; first class in theological tripos, 1856; M.A., 1860; D.D., 1872; reader at the Temple, 1865-70; assistant at (1860-6) and headmaster of (1867-80) King's College School, London; warden of St. Augustine's Missionary College, Canterbury, 1880-1902; hon. canon of Canterbury Cathedral, 1886; works include lucid text-books on Bible history, 1862, and 'The Conversion of the West,' 4 vols. 1878.

MACLEAR, JOHN FIOT LEE PEARSE (1838-1907), admiral; son of Sir Thomas Maclear [q.v.]; born at Cape Town; entered navy, 1851; commander, 1868; went as commander of 'Challenger' with Sir George Nares [q.v.] on a voyage of discovery round the world, 1872-6; surveyed straits of Magellan in 'Alert,' 1879-82; on surveying service, 1883; admiral, 1907; died at Niagara.

MACLEOD, FIONA (pseudonym) (1858-1908), romanticist. [See SHARP, WILLIAM.]

MACLEOD, HENRY DUNNING (1821-1902), economist; B.A., Trinity College, Cambridge, 1843; M.A., 1848; called to bar, 1849; published 'The Theory and Practice of Banking,' 1856; lectured on banking at Cambridge, London, Edinburgh, and Aberdeen, 1877-82; made valuable contributions to historical side of economic science; in 'Elements of Political Economy' (1858) first applied term 'Gresham's Law' to principle that 'bad money drives out good'; awarded civil list pension, 1892; also wrote 'The Theory of Credit,' 2 vols. 1889-91, and 'The History of Banking in Great Britain,' 1896.

MACLURE, EDWARD CRAIG (1835-1906), dean of Manchester; B.A., Brasenose College, Oxford, 1856; M.A., 1858; D.D., 1880; vicar of Rochdale, 1877-90; dean of Manchester, 1890-1906; chairman of Manchester school board, 1891-1903; member of royal commission on secondary education, 1894; hon. LL.D. Victoria University, Manchester, 1905.

MACLURE, SIR JOHN WILLIAM, first baronet (1836-1901), brother of B. C. MacLure [q.v.]; secretary of Lancashire cotton relief fund, 1848; conservative M.P. for Stretford, 1866-1901; baronet, 1899.

MACMURDO, CHARLES ALEXANDER (1830-1904), general and geologist; joined Indian army, 1847; commanded troops in Sukhot district during Indian Mutiny; Punjab commander, 1872-85; lieutenant-general, 1893; edited 'Records of Geological Survey of India,' vol. x, 1877; pioneer in study of petrology and in metamorphism and foliation of rocks; F.R.S., 1879; Royal Medalist, 1898; F.R.S., 1898.

MACMURDO, FREDY ALEXANDER (1854-1939), mathematician; born at Malta; educated at the Royal Military Academy, Woolwich; served with royal artillery in India; mathematical instructor, Royal Military Academy, 1882; professor of physics, Ordnance College, 1890-7; retired from army to devote himself to mathematical and scientific pursuits, 1898; deputy warden of standards, 1904-30; F.R.S., 1890; president, London Mathematical Society, 1894-5; chiefly studied 'theory of algebraic forms; his works include 'Combinatory Analysis' (1915).

MACMILLAN, HUGH (1833-1903), religious writer; Free Church minister at Glasgow (1864-78) and Greenock (1878-1901); made wide fame through 'Bible Teachings in Nature,' 1867, and 'The Ministry of Nature,' 1871; hon. LL.D. St. Andrews, 1871; hon. D.D. Edinburgh, 1879, and Glasgow; F.R.S. Edinburgh, and F.S.A. Scotland; Cunningham (1894) and Gunning (1897) lecturer at Edinburgh; moderator of general assembly of Free Church, 1897; voluminous author of works mainly dealing with relations of religion and science.

MACMAGHTEN, SIR EDWARD, fourth baronet, and BARON MACMAGHTEN, of Runrerry (1830-1913), judge; educated at Trinity College, Dublin, and Trinity College, Cambridge; bracketed senior classic, 1852; fellow of Trinity, Cambridge, 1853; called to bar (Lincoln's Inn), 1857; equity junior, 1857-80; Q.C., 1880; conservative M.P., co. Antrim, 1880, North Antrim, 1885; lord of appeal in ordinary, 1887; G.O.M.G., 1903; G.O.B., and succeeded brother in baronetcy, 1911; took active part both in Commons and Lords in debates on Irish questions; as judge possessed remarkable power of combining learning, style, and humour.

MCNAIR, JOHN FREDERICK ADOLPHUS (1828-1910), colonial official; joined Madras artillery, 1845; at Singapore efficient superintendent of convicts, 1858; controller of convicts (1867), colonial secretary (1868), member of the executive council of Straits Settlements (from 1869) and surveyor-general (from 1873); lieutenant-governor of Penang, 1881-4; chief commissioner in Perak, 1875-6; O.M.G., 1878; wrote accounts of Perak (1878) and Singapore convict prison (1899).

MCNEILL, SIR JOHN CARSTAIRS (1831-1904), major-general; joined Bengal native infantry, 1850; served with distinction at Lucknow, 1857-8; won V.C. in Maori war, 1864; on staff of Red River expedition, 1870; O.M.G., 1876; chief of staff in Ashanti war, 1873-4; O.B., 1874; K.O.M.G., 1880; major-general and K.O.B., 1882; commanded second infantry brigade in Sudan campaign, 1885; criticized for lack of caution; retired, 1890; G.O.V.O., 1901.

MACNEILL, JOHN GORDON SWIFT (1849-1926), Irish politician and jurist; closely connected with Protestant Ireland; B.A., Christ Church, Oxford; called to Irish bar, 1876; professor of constitutional and criminal law, King's Inns, Dublin, 1882-8; joint Home Government Association founded by Isaac Butt [q.v.], 1870; nationalist M.P., South Donegal, 1867-1918; had real veneration for parliament; professor of constitutional law, National University of Ireland, 1909-26.

MACPHERSON, SIR JOHN MOLESWORTH (1853-1914), Anglo-Indian legislative draftsman; son of John Macpherson, M.D. [q.v.]; born in Calcutta; called to English bar, 1876; deputy secretary to Indian government in legislative department, 1877; permanent secretary, 1896-1911; knighted, 1911.

MCQUEEN, SIR JOHN WITHERS (1838-1909), major-general; born in Calcutta; joined 27th Bengal native infantry, 1854; recommended for V.C. for bravery at the Secundrabad, 1857; commanded 8th Punjab rifles in Jowaki expedition, 1877-8; of great service in Afghan war, 1878-80; O.B., 1879; brigadier-general in command of Hyderabad contingent, 1885; commanded expedition against Black Mountain tribes, 1888; K.O.B., 1890; major-general, 1901; G.O.B., 1907.

MACROBERT, WILLIAM KENNETH (1831-1906), bishop of Marburg; B.A., Brasenose College, Oxford, 1853; M.A., 1856; consecrated by Bishop Gray of Cape Town bishop of Marburg in Natal in opposition to Bishop Colenso, 1869; an uncompromising high churchman; resigned bishopric, 1891; canon of Ely and assistant bishop, 1892.

MC TAGGART, JOHN M'TAGGART ELLIS (1846-1935), philosopher; B.A., Trinity College, Cambridge; first class in moral sciences tripos, 1888; prize fellow of Trinity, 1891; college lecturer in moral sciences, 1897-1923; F.B.A., 1906; an atheist who believed in human immortality; his earlier work devoted to expounding and defending method and some results of Hegel's 'Logic' in 'Studies in the Hegelian Dialectic' (1896), 'Studies in Hegelian Cosmology' (1901), 'Commentary on Hegel's Logic' (1910); other works include 'Some Dogmas of Religion' (1906) and 'The Nature of Existence' (1921, 1927).

M'TAGGART, WILLIAM (1855-1910), artist; fellow student at Trustees' Academy, Edinburgh, with W. Q. Orcharson, Tom Graham, and John MacWhirter; A.R.S.A., 1869; R.S.A., 1870; exhibited at Royal Academy, 1866-75; vice-president of the Royal Scottish Water Colour Society, 1878; early engaged in portraiture, genre pictures, and land- and sea-scapes; later confined his work to land- and sea-scapes.

MACWHEITER, JOHN (1839-1911), landscape painter; fellow student with William M'Taggart [q.v.] at Trustees' Academy, Edinburgh; made direct study of nature; annually visited Continent; A.R.S.A., 1867; removed to London, 1869; A.R.A., 1879; hon. R.S.A., 1893; R.A., 1893; published 'Landscape Painting in Water Colours', 1901; painted popular landscapes and studies of trees; his best-known work, 'June in the Austrian Tyrol', in Tate gallery.

MAIDEN, FREDERIC WILLIAM (1839-1904), numismatist; assistant in coin department of British Museum, 1859-68; chief librarian at Brighton public library, 1888-1903; published 'The Coins of the Jews', 1881 and a manual of Roman coins, 1861.

MAIDEN, KATHERINE OECIL (1875-1911), novelist. [See THURSTON.]

MAIDEN, THOMAS MORE (1844-1902), Irish gynaecologist; M.R.C.S., 1862; raised Irish ambulance corps in Franco-Prussian war, 1870; master of the National Lying-in Hospital, Dublin, 1878; F.R.C.S. Edinburgh, 1883; recognized as a foremost gynaecologist; voluminous writings include 'Uterine Tumours', 1887, 'Clinical Gynaecology', 1893, and accounts of his family.

MAGRATH, JOHN RICHARD (1839-1930), provost of Queen's College, Oxford; born in Guernsey; B.A., Oriel College, Oxford; fellow of Queen's College, 1860; ordained, 1863; tutor of Queen's, 1864; dean, 1864-77; chaplain, 1867-78; bursar, 1874-8; pro-convict, 1877; provost, 1878-1930; member of Hibernian Council, 1878-99; curator of University Chest, 1885-1908; delegate of University Press, 1894-1920; vice-chancellor, 1894-8; alderman, 1889-95; supported movement for higher education of women; greatly interested in northern schools linked with Queen's, particularly St. Bee's; identified himself with reforms of Statutory Commission of 1877; a keen sportsman; his works include 'The Queen's College' (1921).

MAGUIRE, JAMES ROCHFORD (1855-1935), sometime president of British South Africa Company; B.A., Merion College, Oxford; friend of Cecil Rhodes [q.v.]; Parnellite M.P., North Donegal, 1890; M.P., West Clare, 1892-5; one of the emissaries sent by Rhodes to obtain mineral concessions from Matabele chief, Lobengula, at Bulawayo, 1883; vice-president, British South Africa Company, 1904; president, 1923.

MALAFFY, SIR JOHN PENTLAND (1839-1919), provost of Trinity College, Dublin; born in Switzerland; B.A., Trinity College, Dublin (first senior moderator in classics and logic), 1859; fellow, and ordained, 1864; first professor of ancient history at Dublin, 1869; provost of Trinity, 1914-19; G.B.E. 1918; reputation chiefly rests on works dealing with life, literature, and history of ancient Greeks; these include 'Prolegomena to Ancient History' (1871), 'Greek Social Life from Homer to Menander' (1874), 'History of Classical Greek Literature' (1880), 'Story of Alexander's Empire' (1887), 'Greek Life and Thought from Alexander to the Roman Conquest' (1887), 'The Greek World under Roman Sway' (1890), and 'Problems in Greek History' (1892); turned his attention to papyri, 1890; produced 'Pindars Petrie Papyrus' (1891, &c.) and 'The Empire of the Ptolemies' (1896); a remarkably versatile writer of great shrewdness and sagacity.

MAHON, SIR BRYAN THOMAS (1862-1930), general; gazetted to 8th Hussars, 1883; served in Egypt, playing active part in operations in Dongola (1890) and Nile valley (1897) which led to final destruction of Dervish power, 1898-1900; left Egypt for South Africa on special service, Jan. 1900; commanded column which achieved relief of Mafeking, a notable operation on which his reputation chiefly rests, 17 May; governor of Kordofan, 1901-4; commanded district of Belgazun, India, 1904-9; Lucknow division, 1909-12; appointed to command 10th (Irish) division of new armies, 1914; took division to Gallipoli, 1915; commander-in-chief, Salonika army, 1915-16; commander-in-chief, Ireland, 1916-18; military commander, Lille, 1918-19; K.C.B., 1922.

MAIR, WILLIAM (1880-1930), Scottish divine; served ministries in Established Church, 1861-1903; moderator of general assembly, 1897; pioneer in cause of church reunion and authority on Scottish ecclesiastical law.

MAITLAND, AGNES CATHERINE (1850-1906), principal of Somerville College, Oxford; early became authority on domestic economy; published 'The Rudiments of Cookery' (35th thousand, 1910) and other cookery books and novels; principal of Somerville College, Oxford, 1889-1906; largely increased numbers and extended buildings; developed tutorial system, and erected college library.

MAITLAND, FREDERIC WILLIAM (1850-1906), Downing professor of the laws of England at Cambridge; son of John Gorham Maitland [q.v.]; educated at Eton and Trinity College, Cambridge; senior in moral science tripos, 1872; Whewell international law scholar, 1873; president of Union; obtained 'blue' for running; B.A., 1873; M.A., 1876; hon. LL.D., 1891; called to bar, 1876; reader in English law at Cambridge, 1884; Downing professor, 1888-1906; founded Selden Society for encouraging study of history of English law, editing several volumes, 1887; literary director, 1895; published 'Bracton's Note-Book', 3 vols. 1887, and 'History of English Law before the time of Edward I' (with Sir Frederick Pollock, 2 vols. 1895); traced Roman influence in English law in thirteenth century in 'Bracton and Azo', Selden Soc., 1895, and in 'Roman Canon Law in the Church of England', 1898; made researches into legal effect of the Reformation; edited and translated MSS. of Year Books in old legal Anglo-French, temp. Edward II, 4 vols. 1903-7; advocated simplification and codification of English law; ardent alpinist; Ford lecturer, Oxford, 1897; Rede lecturer, Cambridge, 1901; D.C.L. Oxford, 1899; LL.D. Glasgow, Cracow, and Moscow; original F.R.S.A., 1902; hon. fellow, Trinity College, Cambridge; died at Las Palmas; other publications include 'Life and Letters of Leslie Stephen', 1906, and posthumously 'The Constitutional History of England', 1908, and 'Collected Works', 1911.

MALET, SIR EDWARD BALDWIN, fourth baronet (1837-1908), diplomatist; born at The Hague; son of Sir Alexander Malet, second baronet [q.v.]; attaché to his father at Frankfurt, 1864; served under Lord Lyons at Washington, 1862-5, and Paris, 1867-71; negotiated meeting of Jules Favre and Bismarck at Ferrières, 1870; in charge of embassy at Paris, March-June 1871; C.B., 1871; secretary of legation at Peking, 1871, Rome, 1875, and Constantinople, 1878; British agent and consul-general in Egypt, 1879-93; K.C.B., 1881; helped to restore financial stability and soothe native unrest in Egypt; reconstituted government machinery and developed scheme of reorganization, 1882-3; British envoy at Brussels, 1883, and Berlin, 1884-95, where he settled rival British and German claims in the Congo and in Samoa; P.O. and G.O.M.G., 1885; G.C.B., 1886; a British member of the international court of arbitration at The Hague, 1899; succeeded brother, 1904; author of 'Shifting Scenes', 1901, and an unfinished memoir of his service in Egypt, posthumous, 1909.

MALLOCK, WILLIAM HURRELL (1849-1923), author; nephew of R. H. W. and J. A. Froude [qq.v.]; B.A., Balliol College, Oxford; his satires include 'The New Republic' (1877), in which he demonstrates impossible position of undogmatic belief; his novels include 'The Old Order Changes' (1886); his political writings include 'Social Equality' (1882), in which he seeks to combat revolutionary ideas about distribution of wealth, especially ownership of land.

MALLORY, GEORGE LEIGH (1886-1924), mountaineer; educated at Winchester, where R. L. G. Irving introduced him to climbing; B.A., Magdalene College, Cambridge; assistant master, Charterhouse, 1910-16; returned there after serving in European war, 1915; lecturer and assistant-secretary, Board of Extra Mountaineering Expeditions, 1921, 1922, and 1924; perished in attempt on summit, 1924.

MALORE, SYLVESTER (1822-1906), Irish ecclesiastical historian; vicar-general of Kilrush, 1873-1906; canon and archdeacon; made valuable researches in his 'Church History of Ireland, 1169-1643', 1867; promoter of preservation of Irish language.

MANLEY, WILLIAM GEORGE NICHOLAS (1831-

1901), surgeon-general; M.R.O.S., 1851; joined army medical staff, 1855; present at Sevastopol; won V.O. in New Zealand war, 1863-4; in charge of division of British ambulance corps in Franco-Prussian war, 1870; at siege of Paris, 1870; in Afghan war, 1878-9; principal medical officer in Egyptian war, 1882; surgeon-general, 1884; C.B., 1894.

MANH, ARTHUR HENRY (1860-1920), organist; chorister at Norwich Cathedral, B.Mus., New College, Oxford, 1874; organist of King's College, Cambridge, 1878-1920; with his active co-operation lay clerks replaced by choral scholars and a residential school for choir-boys established; his Festival Choir, which continued under his name until 1912, established 1887; this choir presented a fine series of works by Elgar, Beethoven, Brahms, etc.; rearranged Handel MSS. at Fitzwilliam Museum, 1889-92; fellow of King's, 1922.

MANNERS, (LORD) JOHN JAMES ROBERT, seventh DUKE OF RUTLAND (1818-1900), politician; brother of sixth duke [q.v.]; M.A., Trinity College, Cambridge, 1839; published verse account of foreign travel in 1839-40, 'England's Trust and other Poems', 1841 (containing a couplet on English nobility which obtained permanent currency), 'English Ballads and other Poems', 1850, and notes of Irish and Scotch tours, 1848-9; conservative M.P. for Newark, 1841-7; under Disraeli's influence joined 'Young England Party'; freely criticized Peel's administration, 1843-4; advocated public holidays, 1843, factory reform, 1844, and a general system of allotments; with Disraeli and George Smythe toured through industrial districts of Lancashire, 1844; figures in 'Cottingsby', 1844, 'Sytbil', 1845, and 'Endymion', 1880; advocated disestablishment of the Irish Church and supported proposed grant to Maynooth, 1845; differences of opinion on religious and free trade questions led to dissolution of 'Young England Party', 1847; unsuccessfully contested as protectionist Liverpool, 1847, and City of London, 1849; conservative member for Colchester, 1850-7, North Leicestershire, 1867-85, and Melton, 1885-8; P.O., 1852; first commissioner of works, and cabinet minister, Feb.-Dec. 1852, 1858-9, and 1866-8; accepted Disraeli's reform bill of 1867; post-master-general, 1874-80 and 1885-6; reduced minimum telegram charge to sixpence, Oct. 1885; opposed extension of franchise without redistribution, 1884-5; chancellor of duchy of Lancaster, 1886-92; succeeded to dukedom, 1888; K.G., 1891; made Baron Roos of Helvoirt, 1896; LL.D. Cambridge, 1862; D.C.L. Oxford, 1876; G.C.B., 1880.

MANNING, JOHN EDMONDSON (1848-1910), Unitarian divine; B.A. London, 1872; M.A., 1876; minister at Upper Chapel, Sheffield, 1889-1902, of which he wrote a history, 1900; tutor at Unitarian home missionary college, Manchester.

MANNES, SIR AUGUST (1825-1907), conductor of the Crystal Palace concerts from 1855 to 1901; born at Stolzenburg, Pomerania; bandmaster in Von Roon's regiment at Koenigsberg, 1851; came to England, 1854; transformed wind band at Crystal Palace into full orchestra; conducted Saturday concerts there for forty years; introduced works by Schumann, Schubert, and Brahms; frequently (from 1861) devoted programme to living English composers; conducted Handel triennial festivals, 1883-1900.

MANNEL-PLYDELL, JOHN CLAVELL (1817-1902), Dorset antiquary; B.A., St. John's College, Cambridge, 1839; built Milborne Reformatory, 1856; founded Dorset Natural History Club, 1878; made valuable geological finds in Dorsetshire; published the 'Flora', 1874, 'Birds', 1888, and 'Mollusca', 1898, of Dorsetshire.

MANNERGEL, JAMES (1834-1905), civil engineer; worked in Brazil, 1856-9; practised at Westminster from 1866 till death; specialized in water and sewage works; constructed reservoirs and aqueduct from valleys of Eian and Cherwon rivers to Birmingham, 1894-1904; carried out sewage disposal for several midland towns; prepared schemes for sewerage of Lower Thames valley; on royal commission on metropolitan water supply, 1892-3; F.R.S., 1901; president of Institution of Civil Engineers, 1900-1.

MANSFIELD, KATHERINE (pseudonym), writer. [See MURRY, KATHLEEN.]

MANSFIELD, ROBERT BLACHFORD (1824-1908), author and oarsman; brother of Charles Blachford Mansfield [q.v.]; educated at Eton and University College, Oxford; B.A., 1846; called to bar, 1849; pioneer of English golf, 1857; rowed in university boat-race, 1843; pioneer of English rowing in Germany; recorded his German experiences in 'The Log of the Water Lily', 1851, and 'The Water-Lily on the Danube', 1852.

MANSON, SIR PATRICK (1844-1922), physician and parasitologist; M.B., C.M. Aberdeen, 1865; medical officer for Formosa to Chinese Imperial Maritime Customs, 1866; at Amoy, 1871-83; while working on elephantoid diseases discovered developmental phase in life of flaria worms in tissues of the blood-sucking insect, mosquito; settled in Hong Kong, where he instituted school of medicine which developed into university and medical school of Hong Kong, 1883-9; physician to Seamen's Hospital, London, 1892; propounded his mosquito-malaria theory, which was confirmed by other researchers; physician and adviser to colonial office, 1897; instrumental in foundation of London School of Tropical Medicine, 1899; F.R.S., 1900; K.C.M.G., 1903; the 'father of tropical medicine'; published works on tropical diseases.

MAPLE, SIR JOHN BLUNDELL, baronet (1845-1903), merchant and sportsman; joined (1862) father's furnishing firm in Tottenham Court Road, which was converted into limited liability company, with Maple as chairman, 1891; conservative M.P. for Dulwich, 1887-1903; knighted, 1892; baronet, 1897; racehorse breeder and owner; won 544 races; headed list of winning owners, 1891; won Cesarewitch, 1894, and Two-Thousand Guineas, 1895; rebuilt University College Hospital, 1897-1906.

MAPLESON, JAMES HENRY (1830-1901), operatic manager; studied violin and pianoforte at Royal Academy of Music, 1844, and singing in Italy; managed Italian opera season from 1858 variously at Drury Lane, Lyceum Theatre, and Covent Garden; produced Gounod's 'Faust', 1863, and Bizet's 'Carmen', 1878; from 1878 took touring companies to America in winter; engaged Adelina Patti, 1881-5; his repertory of Italian opera lost vogue from 1887; published 'Memoirs', 2 vols. 1888.

MAROTHEE, EDWARD DILLON (1835-1908), surgeon; M.D. Queen's University, Dublin, 1857; F.R.C.S. Ireland, 1869; surgeon of St. Vincent's Hospital, Dublin, 1859; professor of hygiene in Royal College of Surgeons, 1864; professor of anatomy and physiology, 1867; president, 1879; first medical officer of health for Dublin; wrote much on diseases of the skin and public health.

MAPPIN, SIR FREDERICK THORPE, first baronet (1821-1910), benefactor to Sheffield; head of father's cutlery business, 1841-59; senior partner in firm of Turton & Sons, steel manufacturers, 1859-85; mayor of Sheffield, 1877-8; a founder and benefactor of Sheffield Technical School; largely endowed Sheffield University; first senior pro-chancellor, 1905; director of Midland Railway, 1869-1900; enthusiastic Volunteer; whig M.P. for East Retford, 1880-5, and for Hallamshire, 1885-1906; baronet, 1886; added 80 pictures to Mappin Art Gallery, founded by uncle; first hon. freeman of Sheffield, 1900.

MARJORIBANKS, EDWARD, second BARON TREDEWORTH (1849-1909), politician; educated at Harrow and Christ Church, Oxford; a keen sportsman through life; toured round world, 1872-3; abandoned law for politics; liberal M.P. for North Berwickshire, 1880-94; comptroller of Queen Victoria's household and P.C., 1886; parliamentary secretary to the Treasury and chief liberal whip under Gladstone, 1892; succeeded to peerage, 1894; joined Lord Rosebery's cabinet as lord privy seal and chancellor of the duchy of Lancaster, 1894-5; married (1873) Lady Fanny (d. 1904), sister of Lord Randolph Churchill, a successful society and political hostess; suffered financial losses, 1904; first lord of the admiralty in Campbell-Bannerman's ministry, 1905-8; maintained policy of England's naval supremacy; incurred public censure for alleged premature disclosure of naval estimates to German Emperor, 1908; K.T., 1908; lord president of council under Mr. Asquith, 1908; died of cerebral malady.

MARKHAM, SIR ALBERT HASTINGS (1841-1918), admiral and Arctic explorer; entered navy, 1856; commanded 'Alert' in Arctic expedition of Sir G. S. Nares [q.v.], 1875-6; record of latitude reached without dogs not beaten till 1895; rear-admiral, 1891; K.O.B., 1908.

MARKHAM, SIR CLEMENTS ROBERT (1830-1916), geographer and historical writer; grandson of William Markham [q.v.], archbishop of York; served in navy, 1844-51; entered civil service, 1853; in charge of geographical work of India office, 1867-77; O.B., 1871; F.R.S., 1872; accompanied Arctic expedition of Sir G. S. Nares [q.v.], 1875; president of Hakluyt Society, 1889-1909, and of Royal Geographical Society, 1898-1908; K.C.B., 1896; promoted Antarctic exploration.

MARKE, DAVID WOOLF (1811-1909), Goldsmith professor of Hebrew at University College, London, from 1844 to 1896; secretary to the Hebrew congregation at Liverpool, 1838; first minister with Albert Lowry [q. v.] of newly established West London congregation, 1842-95; prepared reformed Prayer-book, and obtained licence for marriages, 1857; hon. D.D. Cincinnati; published lectures on Messianic law.

MARRIOTT, SIR WILLIAM THACKERAY (1834-1903), judge advocate-general; B.A., St. John's College, Cambridge, 1858; curate of St. George's, Hulme, 1858; renounced orders, 1861; called to bar, 1864; acquired lucrative practice in railway and compensation cases; Q.C., 1877; liberal M.P. for Brighton, 1880-4; re-elected for Brighton as conservative, 1884-93; P.C., 1885; judge advocate-general, 1885-92; knighted, 1888; chancellor of Primrose League, 1892; counsel for ex-Khedive Ismail Pasha in claims against Egyptian government, 1897-8; made unsuccessful financial speculations; died at Aix la Chapelle.

MARSDEN, ALEXANDER EDWIN (1823-1903), surgeon; son of William Marsden [q. v.]; M.R.C.S., 1854; M.D. St. Andrews, 1862; F.R.C.S. Edinburgh, 1868; served as surgeon at Santari and Sevastopol; surgeon to Royal Free Hospital, 1883-84, and to Brompton Cancer Hospital; published works on cancer.

MARSHALL, ALFRED (1842-1924), economist; educated at Merchant Taylors' School and St. John's College, Cambridge; second wrangler, 1865; fellow of St. John's, 1865-77; came into intellectual circle of which Henry Sidgwick was chief, 1867; passed from study of metaphysics to that of political economy; lecturer in moral science, St. John's, 1868; first principal of University College, Bristol, 1877-81; professor of political economy, Bristol, 1877-83; fellow and lecturer in political economy, Balliol College, Oxford, 1883-5; professor of political economy, Cambridge, 1885-1908; served on royal commissions on labour, 1891-4, the aged poor, 1893, and local taxation, 1899; on Indian currency committee, 1899; his works include 'The Economics of Industry' (1879); 'Principles of Economics' (1890), 'Industry and Trade' (1919), and 'Money, Credit, and Commerce' (1923).

MARSHALL, GEORGE WILLIAM (1839-1905), genealogist; B.A., Peterhouse, Cambridge; LL.M., 1864; LL.D., 1874; called to bar, 1865; founded 'The Genealogist', 1877; works include 'The Genealogist's Guide', 1879, and 'Handbook to the Ancient Courts of Probate', 1889; F.S.A., 1879; helped to found Parish Register Society, 1890; Rouge Croix pursuant of arms, 1887; York Herald, 1904; made for College of Arms unique collection of parish registers.

MARSHALL, JULIAN (1836-1903), art collector and author; in family flax-spinning business at Leeds, 1855-61; formed collection of engravings embracing leading works of ancient and modern schools, 1861, of musical autographs, and of book plates; contributed to Grove's 'Dictionary of Music'; wrote 'Annals of Tennis', 1878, and other kindred works.

MARSHALL HALL, SIR EDWARD (1858-1927), lawyer. [See HALL.]

MARTIN, SIR THEODORE (1816-1909), man of letters; educated at Edinburgh High School and University, 1830-3; hon. LL.D., 1875; practised as solicitor in Edinburgh until 1846, when he migrated to London to become parliamentary agent; his parliamentary work the main occupation of his life; contributed before leaving Edinburgh humorous prose and verse to 'Tait's' and 'Fraser's' magazines under pseudonym of Bon Gaultier; soon collaborated with William Edmondstone Aytoun [q. v.]; together they published 'Bon Gaultier's Ballads' (1846, 16th ed. 1903), a notable collection of witty parodies; devoted to the drama, was fascinated by the acting of Helen Faucit [q. v.], for whom he adapted from the Danish 'King René's' Daughter, 1849; married Miss Faucit at Brighton, 1851, and settled for life at 81 Onslow Square, Kensington; acquired in 1861 country residence Bryntillyo; wrote on dramatic themes in 'Fraser's Magazine', 1855-65, the 'Quarterly Review', and 'Blackwood'; translated Oehlenschläger's German romantic drama, 'Aladdin', 1864, and 'Correggio', 1867, the works of Horace (1860, 1863) and of Catullus (1861), Dante's 'Vita Nuova', 1863, Goethe's 'Faust' (pt. I, 1865, pt. II, 1866), poems and ballads of Heine, 1878, and the 'Aeneid', 1874, 1894; on recommendation of his friend Sir Arthur Hallé, Martin prepared for Queen Victoria a life of the Prince Consort, 5 vols. 1875-80; O.B., 1878; K.O.B., 1880; K.C.V.O., 1886; wrote life of Lord Lyndhurst, 1883; lord rector of St. Andrews University, 1881; privately circulated 'Queen Victoria as I knew her', 1901 (published, 1908); a trustee of Shakespeare's birthplace from 1889 till death, and an active member of the Royal Literary Fund from 1868.

MARTIN, SIR THOMAS ACQUIN (1850-1906), industrial pioneer in India and agent-general for Afghanistan; founded engineering firm in Calcutta, which took over Bengal Iron and Steel Company (1889) and worked iron deposits at Manharpur; pioneer of light railways in India; built many jute mills and controlled large collieries and engineered water supplies in Bengal; appointed agent to Amir of Afghanistan (1887), for whom he built an arsenal, a mint, and various factories; accompanied Amir's son to England on diplomatic mission, and knighted, 1895.

MARTIN, VIOLET FLORENCE (1862-1915), novelist under the pseudonym of MARTIN ROSS; member of ancient Galway family; wrote books in collaboration with her cousin, Miss E. G. Somerville, describing Anglo-Irish life; best-known novels 'The Real Charlotte' (1894) and 'The Irish R.M.' series (begun 1899).

MARWICK, SIR JAMES DAVID (1826-1908), legal and historical writer; founded legal firm of Watt & Marwick in Edinburgh, 1855; town clerk of Edinburgh, 1860-73, and of Glasgow, 1873-1903; extended city of Glasgow by annexing fourteen suburban burghs, 1881-91; F.R.S. Edinburgh, 1884; hon. LL.D. Glasgow, 1878; knighted, 1888; helped to found Scottish Burgh Record Society, Edinburgh, editing its publications from 1868 to 1897.

MASHEM, first BARON (1815-1906), inventor. [See LISTER, SAMUEL CUNLIFFE.]

MASKELYNE, MERVYN HERBERT NEVIL STORY- (1823-1911), mineralogist. [See STORY-MASKELYNE.]

MASON, ARTHUR JAMES (1851-1928), theological scholar and preacher; B.A., Trinity College, Cambridge; fellow of Trinity, 1873; assistant tutor, 1874; honorary canon and diocesan missionary, Truro, 1878; vicar of All Hallows, Barking, 1884-95; honorary canon of Canterbury, 1893; Lady Margaret's professor of divinity and fellow of Jesus College, Cambridge, 1895; master of Pembroke College, Cambridge, 1903; withdrew to Canterbury, 1912; the trusted adviser and helper of successive archbishops in current ecclesiastical affairs; belonged to older school of 'high' churchmen; wrote theological and historical works.

MASSEY, GERALD (1828-1907), poet; after scanty education was put to work at Tring at age of eight; studied for himself; published at Tring 'Poems and Chansons', 1848; joined Chartists; helped to edit 'The Spirit of Freedom', 1849; soon turned to Christian socialism; wrote for the 'Christian Socialist'; brought out 'Voices of Freedom and Lyrics of Love', 1850, and 'The Ballad of Babe Christabel and other Poems', 1854; his lyrical impulse was widely acknowledged; other volumes of verse followed; complete poetical works, Boston, 1857, London, 1861; a selection, 'My Lyrical Life', appeared in 1899; his career suggested that of Felix Holt to George Eliot; he became a journalist and popular lecturer, living for a time at Edinburgh, and from 1863 to 1877 near Little Gaddesden in a farmhouse provided by Lord Brownlow; wrote on Shakespeare's Sonnets, 1866 (reissued, 1888); thrice lectured in America; developed faith in spiritualism and finally took to writing on old Egyptian civilisation.

MASSEY, WILLIAM FERGUSON (1856-1935), prime minister of New Zealand; born co. Kerry; emigrated to New Zealand and took up farming, 1870; conservative member, New Zealand house of representatives, 1894-1895; chief opposition whip, 1895-1908; leader of conservative opposition, 1908-12; prime minister, as leader of 'reform party', 1912-25; formed national government, 1915; led New Zealand very ably through European war.

MASINGHAM, HENRY WILLIAM (1860-1934), journalist; joined staff of 'Eastern Daily Press', 1877; came to London, 1885; editor of 'Star', 1890; of 'Labour World', 1891; occupied various positions on staff of 'Daily Chronicle', 1892-5; editor, 1896; resigned because of his opposition to South African war, 1899; editor of 'The Nation', 1907-25; formed this liberal weekly journal into powerful organ of advanced but independent opinion; joined labour party and transferred his 'Wayfarer's Diary' to 'New Statesman', 1928; showed passionate energy for human welfare.

MASSON, DAVID (1822-1907), biographer and editor; M.A. Aberdeen University, 1839; studied divinity at Edinburgh, 1839-42, but abandoned thoughts of entering ministry; visited London, 1843; introduced by Thomas Carlyle to editor of 'Fraser's Magazine', 1844; wrote for W. & R. Chambers text-books on Roman, ancient, medieval, and modern history, 1847-56; removed to London, 1847; intimate with the Carlyles, Thackeray, Douglas Jerrold, and Mark Lemon; professor of English literature at University College, London, 1853-65; published 'Essays, chiefly on English Poets', 1859; started (1859) 'Life of Milton' (6 vols. 1859-80), the standard authority; started, 1859, and edited till 1867, 'Macmillan's Magazine'; professor of rhetoric and English literature at Edinburgh University, 1865-95; a popular teacher; supporter of women's higher education; edited 'Privy Council Register of Scotland', 1880-99; Rhind lecturer, 1886; historiographer royal for Scotland, 1896; hon. R.S.A., 1896; hon. LL.D. Aberdeen; Litt.D. Dublin; voluminous writings include editions of Goldsmith (1869), Milton (3 vols. 1874), and De Quincey (14 vols. 1889-90); biographies of Drummond of Hawthornden, 1873, and De Quincey, 1878; 'Edinburgh Sketches and Memories', 1892, and (posthumously) 'Memories of London in the Forties', 1908, and 'Memories of Two Cities', 1911.

MASSEY, WILLIAM GODFREY DUNHAM (1838-1906), lieutenant-general; B.A., Trinity College, Dublin, 1859; LL.D., 1873; entered army, 1854; served at the Redan, where his gallantry earned him the sobriquet of 'Redan' Massey; commanded royal Irish lancers, 1871-9; prominent in battle of Chancellors (Oct. 1879), in Afghan war; cut off by Afghans at Killa Kazi, Dec. 1879; removed from command for rash advance, 1880; C.B., 1887; in command of troops in Ceylon, 1888-93; lieutenant-general, 1893.

MASTERMAN, CHARLES FREDERICK GURNEY (1874-1927), politician, author, and journalist; B.A., Christ's College, Cambridge; liberal M.P., West Ham (North), 1906-11; for South-west Bethnal Green, 1911-14; under-secretary, local government board, 1908; under-secretary of state, home department, 1909; financial secretary to treasury, 1912; chancellor, duchy of Lancaster, with seat in cabinet, 1914-15; director, Wellington House (propaganda department), 1914-18; M.P., Rushmore division of Manchester, 1923-4; works include 'The Condition of England' (1909).

MASTERS, MAXWELL TYLDEN (1833-1907), botanist; M.R.C.S., 1856; M.D. St. Andrews, 1862; lecturer on botany at St. George's Hospital medical school, 1855-68; published valuable researches in his 'Vegetable Teratology', 1869; principal editor of 'Gardeners' Chronicle', 1866; active supporter of Royal Horticultural Society; wrote much on passion flowers and conifers in botanical works and journals; revised Hentley's 'Elementary Course of Botany', 1870, and wrote 'Botany for Beginners', 1872, and 'Plant Life', 1883; F.R.S., 1870.

MATHESON, GEORGE (1842-1906), theologian and hymn writer; known as 'the blind preacher'; blind from boyhood; B.A. Glasgow University, 1861; M.A., 1862; minister of Innellan church, 1868-86, and of St. Bernard's parish church, Edinburgh, 1886-99; issued popular theological and devotional works which had a wide vogue; they include 'The Growth of the Spirit of Christianity', 2 vols. 1877, 'The Psalmist and the Scientist', 1887, 'Sacred Songs', 1890 (3rd edit. 1904), and studies of representative men and women of the Bible, 4 ser., 1902-7; D.D. Edinburgh, 1879; LL.D., 1897; F.R.S. Edinburgh, 1903; 'Life' by D. Macmillan, 1907.

MATHEW, SIR JAMES CHARLES (1830-1908), judge; senior moderator, Trinity College, Dublin, 1850; called to bar (Lincoln's Inn), 1861; had vast city practice as a junior; among treasury counsel on prosecution of the Tichborne claimant, 1872; made judge of queen's bench division and knighted, 1881; obtained institution of commercial court, 1898; as first judge, gave concise and terse judgments; as chairman of royal commission of inquiry into evictions in Ireland, created precedent of refusing to allow cross-examination by counsel, which led to resignation of many members of commission, 1899; judge of court of appeal, 1901-6; ready, facile, and humorous speaker; an ardent radical and devout Roman Catholic.

MATHEWS, CHARLES EDWARD (1824-1906), Alpine climber and writer; solicitor at Birmingham from 1848; clerk of the peace, 1891-1906; founded Children's Hospital there, 1864; lifelong friend of Chamberlain; helped to found Alpine Club, 1857; president, 1878-80; prominent in conquest of Alps; wrote critical and exhaustive 'Annals of Mont Blanc, 1898; memorial at Chamonix.

MATTHEWS, SIR CHARLES WILLIE, baronet (1850-1920), lawyer; called to bar (Middle Temple), 1879; director of public prosecutions, 1908-20; appeared in criminal trials and sensational civil cases; knighted, 1907; baronet, 1917.

MATTHEWS, SIR LLOYD WILLIAM (1850-1901), general and prime minister of Zanzibar; entered navy, 1863; served in Ashanti campaign, 1873-4; retired with rank of lieutenant, 1881; in command of Zanzibar army, with rank of brigadier-general, 1877; obtained abolition of slavery in Zanzibar, 1890; Zanzibar declared British protectorate, 1890; prime minister and treasurer of reconstituted government, 1891; introduced modern agricultural methods; C.M.G., 1880; K.C.M.G., 1894; died at Zanzibar.

MATTHEWS, HENRY, VISCOUNT LLANDAFF (1826-1915), lawyer and politician; son of Henry Matthews [q.v.]; born in Ceylon; educated at universities of Paris and London; called to bar (Lincoln's Inn), 1850; Q.C., 1868; conservative M.P., Dungeness, 1868-74, East Birmingham, 1886; home secretary, 1886-93; first Roman Catholic since passing of Emancipation Act to become cabinet minister; created baron, 1895; a founder of Westminster Cathedral.

MATTHEWS, SIR WILLIAM (1844-1922), civil engineer; pupil in office of Sir John Coode [q.v.], harbour engineer; partner in Oodde's firm, consulting engineers to crown agents for colonies, 1892; frequently employed by admiralty on works at naval bases; K.C.M.G., 1906.

MATURIN, BASIL WILLIAM (1847-1915), Catholic preacher and writer; B.A., Trinity College, Dublin; ordained, 1870; member of Society of St. John the Evangelist, Cowley, 1873-97; received into Roman Church, 1897; ordained, 1898; torpedoed on 'Lusitania' returning from third visit to America.

MAUDE, SIR (FREDERICK) STANLEY (1864-1917), lieutenant-general; born at Gibraltar; educated at Eton and Sandhurst; joined 2nd coldstream guards, 1884; entered Staff College, Camberley, 1895; served in South African war, 1899-1901; D.S.O., 1901; military secretary to Earl of Minto, governor-general of Canada, 1901-5; C.M.G., 1905; held staff appointments in England and Ireland, 1906-14; served in France, Aug. to Nov. 1914; C.B., 1915; major-general and appointed to command thirteenth division at Dardanelles, 1915; took prominent part in evacuation of Suvla and Helles, 1915-16; took division to Mesopotamia, 1916; assumed command of army in Mesopotamia and created K.C.B., 1916; recovered Kut and captured Bagdad, 1917; died of cholera at Bagdad.

MAURICE, SIR JOHN FREDERICK (1841-1912), major-general; son of Frederick Denison Maurice [q.v.]; joined royal artillery, 1862; served in war office and in Ashanti, South Africa, Egypt, and Sudan, 1873-85; professor of military art and history at Staff College, 1885; commanded artillery, Woolwich district, 1895; major-general, 1895; K.C.B., 1900; works include prize essay which greatly influenced army reform; edited first two volumes of official 'History of the War in South Africa, 1898-1908' (1906-7).

MAWDSLEY, JAMES (1848-1909), trade union leader; secretary of Amalgamated Society of Cotton Spinners, 1878; developed trade union policy in Lancashire; negotiated conciliation scheme—the Brooklands agreement—referring trade disputes to arbitration, 1883; member of royal commission on labour questions, 1891-4.

MAXIM, SIR HIRAM STEVENS (1840-1916), engineer and inventor; born in Maine, U.S.A.; chief engineer to United States Electric Lighting Company, 1878; came to England and opened workshop in London, c. 1889; naturalized, 1900; knighted, 1901; chief inventions electrical pressure regulator (1881), rapid firing gun with completely automatic action (adopted by British army, 1889, and navy, 1892), steam-driven flying-machine (1889-94), and maxinite, a smokeless powder (1889).

MAXWELL, SIR JOHN GRENFELL (1849-1959), general; grandson of Vice-Admiral J. P. Grenfell [q.v.] and cousin of first Baron Grenfell [q.v.]; gazetted to 42nd foot, 1879; served in Egypt, 1882-1900; present at battle of Tsi-el-Kebir, 1882; accompanied Lord Wolseley on his fruitless attempt to relieve General Gordon, 1884-5; took part in Sudan frontier operations, 1885-9; served under Lord Kitchener in reconquest of Sudan, 1896-8; proceeded to Cape, Feb. 1900; appointed military governor of Pretoria, June; chief staff officer to Duke of Connaught in Ireland, London, and Malta, 1902-8; commanded British troops in Egypt, 1908-12; resumed command, 1914-16, an important and exacting position; commander-in-chief in Ireland, 1916; commander-in-chief, Northern command, 1916-19; full general, 1919; K.O.B., 1900; died at Cape Town.

MAXWELL, MARY ELIZABETH (1837-1915), better known as MISS BRADDON, novelist; sister of Sir Edward N. C. Braddon [q.v.]; her best-known novel, 'Lady Audley's Secret' (1862), had an immediate and very great success and made her fortune; published about eighty novels between 1862 and 1911; also wrote many plays, edited several magazines, and contributed to periodicals; plots of novels concerned with crime, but not a mere sensationalist; married John Maxwell, a publisher, 1874.

MAY, PHILIP WILLIAM [PHIL MAY] (1884-1903), humorous draughtsman; a caricature by him of Irving, Bancroft, and Toole (1883) attracted notice of Lionel Brough, who introduced him to editor of 'Society', for which he executed drawings; in Australia, 1885-8, contributing to the 'Sydney Bulletin'; studied art in Paris; made sketches for 'St. Stephen's Review'; from 1892 issued 'Phil May's Winter Annual'; made reputation as comic artist of low life in 'Daily Graphic' and other illustrated papers; published 'Phil May's Sketch Book: Fifty Cartoons', 1895, and his vivid 'Guttertimes: Fifty Original Sketches', 1896; member of the 'Punch' table from 1896 to death; a rapid cartoonist of vigour and vivacity; sociable and generous to a fault; mural tablet set up on birthplace at Leeds, 1910; his 'Picture Book' edited with life by G. R. Halkett, 1903.

MAY, SIR WILLIAM HENRY (1849-1930), admiral of the fleet; entered royal navy, 1863; navigating officer of the 'Alert' in Arctic expedition led by Sir G. S. Nares [q.v.], 1875-6; joined torpedo-school ship 'Vernon', 1877-80; captain, 1887; naval attaché to European states, 1891-3; rear-admiral, 1901; third sea lord and controller of navy, 1901-5; during his controllership 'Dreadnought' policy initiated; commander-in-chief, Atlantic fleet, 1906-7; second sea lord, 1907-9; successfully protested against reduction in naval expenditure, 1907; commander of Home fleet, 1909-11; devoted his attention to reforms in naval tactics; commander-in-chief, Devonport, 1911-13; admiral of the fleet, 1913; member of Dardanelles commission, 1916-17; K.C.V.O., 1904.

MAYOR, JOHN EYTON HICKERSTETH (1825-1910), classical scholar and divine; revelled in classical literature from age of six; educated at Christ's Hospital, at Shrewsbury, and St. John's College, Cambridge; third classic, 1848; fellow, 1849; master at Marlborough, 1849-53; prepared edition of 'Juvenal' 1853 (3rd edit. 1881); classical tutor at St. John's from 1853; an accomplished linguist; published lives of Nicholas Ferrar (1855), Matthew Robinson (1856), Ambrose Bonwicke (1870), and William Bedell (1870), and edited Ascham's 'Scholemaster' (1863); edited transcript of admissions to St. John's College; published Baker's 'History of St. John's College', 2 vols. 1889; university librarian, 1864-7; completed catalogue of MSS.; university professor of Latin, 1872 to death; edited (with Dr. J. E. Lumby) Bede's 'Ecclesiastical History', bks. iii and iv, 1878; visited Leyden and Rome, 1875; advocate of vegetarian diet from middle life; master of St. John's, 1902; hon. D.C.L. Oxford, 1896; LL.D. Aberdeen, 1892, and St. Andrews, 1906; D.D. Glasgow, 1901; original F.B.A., 1902; had power of accumulating knowledge but small faculty of construction; projected uncompleted commentary on Seneca and a Latin Dictionary; edited works by Cicero, Pliny, Homer, Quintilian, and volumes for the Rolls and Early English Text societies; published also 'A Bibliography of Latin Literature', 1875, a 'First Greek Reader', 1868, and 'First German Reader', 1910; portrait by Herkomer at St. John's College, Cambridge.

MEADE, RICHARD JAMES, fourth BARON CLAWWILLIAM in the Irish peerage, and second BARON CLAWWILLIAM in the peerage of the United Kingdom (1832-1907), admiral of the fleet; entered navy, 1848; served in Russian war, 1852; wounded at storming of Canton, 1857; junior sea lord, 1874-80; C.B., 1877; succeeded to earldom, 1879; commanded flying squadron, 1880-3; K.C.M.G., 1889; commander-in-chief on North American station, 1886-8, and at Portsmouth, 1891-4; admiral, 1886; K.C.B., 1887; admiral of the fleet and G.C.B., 1895.

MEAKIN, JAMES EDWARD BUDGETT (1866-1906), historian of the Moors; edited 'Times of Morocco', founded (1884) by his father; visited Mohammedan settlements in Asia and Africa, 1893; settled down to journalism in England, 1897; helped to found 'British Institute of Social Service', 1905; published 'The Moorish Empire', 1899, 'The Land of the Moors', 1901, and 'The Moors', 1902.

MEATH, twelfth EARL OF (1841-1929). [See BRABAZON, RICHARD.]

MEDD, PETER GOLDSMITH (1829-1908), theologian; B.A., University College, Oxford, 1852; M.A., 1855; fellow, 1852-77; rector of North Cerney, Glos., 1876-1908; hon. canon of St. Albans, 1877; Bampton lecturer, Oxford, 1882; edited Andrewes's 'Greek Devotions', 1892; wrote 'The One Mediator', 1884, and other theological works.

MEDLICOTT, HENRY BENEDICT (1829-1905), geologist; B.A. in civil engineering, Trinity College, Dublin, 1850; M.A., 1870; joined Italian geological survey, 1854; professor of geology at Rurki from 1862; volunteer in Indian Mutiny; made study of structure of Himalayas; superintendent of Indian survey, 1876; F.R.S., 1877; president of Asiatic Society of Bengal, 1879-81; wrote on geology of Punjab, 1874, and of India, 2 vols. 1879, with W. T. Blanford.

MELICK, JOHN, JOHN MILLER DOW (1836-1906), writer of school books; M.A. Edinburgh, 1858; war correspondent in Danish-German war, 1864; first professor of education in St. Andrews University, 1876; raised standard of school books in his 'English Language', 1886, 'The British Empire', 1891, 'The Art of Writing English', 1899, and 'English Literature', 1904.

MELCHETT, first BARON (1868-1930), industrialist, financier, and politician. [See MOND, ALFRED MORITZ.]

MELDELM, CHARLES (1821-1901), meteorologist; M.A., Marischal College, Aberdeen, 1844; professor of mathematics, Royal College of Mauritius, 1848; founded Mauritius Meteorological Society, 1861; in charge of Mauritius government observatory, 1862-96; studied laws of cyclones in Indian ocean; F.R.S., 1876; O.M.G., 1886.

MELLON, SARAH JANE (1824-1909), actress; born Woolgar; made début at Plymouth, 1838; long associated with Adelphi from 1843; original Lemuel there in Buckstone's 'Flowers of the Forest', 1847; at Lyceum appeared as Floriel in burlesque of 'Perdita', 1856, and as Ophelia, 1857; married Alfred Mellon [q.v.], 1858; played Catherine Duval at Adelphi in 'The Dead Heart', 1859; Mrs. Cratchit in 'The Christmas Carol', 1860; and Anne Chute in 'The Colleen Bawn', 1860; subsequently lost vogue; reappeared as Mrs. O'Kelly in 'The Shaughraun', and created Miss Sniffe in 'A Bridal Tour', 1880; retired, 1883; versatile actress in tragedy, comedy, burlesque, or farce.

MELVILLE, ARTHUR (1855-1904), artist; studied at Royal Scottish Academy and in Paris, 1878; travelled in Egypt, Persia, and Turkey, 1881-3; moulded the Glasgow artistic movement; exhibited several oil portraits at Edinburgh, including 'The Flower Girl', 1883, and 'Portrait of a Lady', before settling in London, 1888; visited Spain, 1889-92 and 1904, and Venice, 1894; A.R.S.A., 1898; member of Royal Water Colour Society, 1900; works include 'A Moorish Procession', 'Christmas Eve', 'The Capture of a Spy', and 'The Little Bull Fight'.

MEREDELTH, GEORGE (1828-1909), novelist and poet; grandson of Melchizedek Meredith (d. 1804), a prosperous tailor and naval outfitter of Portsmouth [see the novel 'Evan Harrington']; was privately educated at Portsmouth and Southsea and at the Moravian school at Newfield, where he became an adept at German, 1843-4; was articled to a London solicitor of Bohemian tastes, 1845; soon turning to journalism, he contributed poems to 'Household Words' and to 'Chambers's Journal'; making acquaintance of a son of Thomas Love Peacock [q.v.] he married Peacock's daughter, 9 Aug. 1849; boarding at Weybridge he came to know there Sir Alexander and Lady Duff Gordon, and afterwards settled in a cottage at Lower Halford. In 1855 he was deserted by his wife (d. 1861), who had borne him a son, Arthur Gryllsdyth (1853-1890). Meanwhile, besides writing for 'Fraser's Magazine', he published 'Poems'

(with dedication to Parnock), 1851; 'The Shaving of Shagpat: an Arabian Entertainment', 1856, and 'Farina, a Legend of Cologne', 1857. 'The Ordeal of Richard Feverel', the first of his great novels, came out in 1859; the book introduced him to Swinburne and the pre-Raphaelite group, while through the Duff Gordons his acquaintance with other notable people quickly grew, but few copies of the book were sold, and his means were long scanty and precarious. He worked regularly for the 'Ipswich Journal', 1859-75; contributed to 'Once a Week' six poems, 1859, and a new novel, 'Evan Harrington', serially through 1860; made his residence at Copsam near Esher, 1860, where his intimate circle soon included Frederick Augustus Maxse [q.v.], J. A. Cotter Morison [q.v.], and others; found his chief recreation in long walks in Surrey and occasionally in France and Switzerland; lodged for a time with Rossetti and Swinburne at the Queen's House, Chelsea, 1861-2; published 'Modern Love and Poems of the English Roadside', 1862; became contributor to the 'Morning Post', 1862; was reader to Chapman & Hall from 1862 to 1894; brought out in 1864 'Emilia in England' (later renamed 'Sandra Belloni'); married his second wife Sept. 1864, and after some years at Norbiton finally settled for life at Flint Cottage facing Boxhill, 1867. There his second wife died, 17 Sept. 1889, leaving a son and daughter. He published 'Rhoda Fleming', 1865; contributed serially to 'Fortnightly Review' in 1866 'Vittoria', a sequel to 'Emilia', which was expanded in separate issue; went to Italy as special correspondent for 'Morning Post' during war with Austria, 1866; contributed serially to the 'Cornhill' 'The Adventures of Harry Richmond' (separately issued in 1871); published 'Odes in Contribution to the Song of French History', 1871, 'Beauchamp's Career', 1876 (after serial issue in condensed form in the 'Fortnightly', 1875), and the 'Egoist', 1879 (after serial issue in 'Glasgow Weekly Herald'); delivered (1 Feb. 1877) at London Institution a characteristic lecture on 'The Idea of Comedy and the Uses of the Comic Spirit' (printed in 'New Quarterly Magazine', 1877, and separately, 1897); published 'The Tragic Comedians', embodying the love story of Ferdinand Lassalle, the German socialist, in Dec. 1880 (after serial issue in 'Fortnightly'), and 'Poems and Lyrics of the Joy of Earth', 1883. Though both his novels and poetry won growing appreciation from critical circles, the public showed small interest until publication of 'Diana of the Crossways', 1885 (after serial issue in the 'Fortnightly'). There followed 'Ballads and Poems of Tragic Life', 1887, 'A Reading of Earth', 1888 (two of his most characteristic volumes of verse), and the last three novels, 'One of Our Conquerors', 1891, 'Lord Ormont and his Aminta' (serially issued in 'Fall Mall Magazine', 1894), and 'The Amazing Marriage', begun in 1870 and serially issued in 'Scribner's Magazine' through 1895. In his last years he published many expressions of opinion on public questions, but was from 1893 disabled from active exercise by paraplegia. He received in old age many marks of public regard. Addresses were presented by his admirers on both his seventieth and eightieth birthdays. He was president of the Society of Authors from 1892 to death, and was admitted to Order of Merit, 1906. He died at Flint Cottage, 18 May, and was buried in Dorking cemetery, 25 May, 1909; a memorial service was held in Westminster Abbey on day of funeral. There appeared posthumously 'Celt and Saxon', an unfinished story ('Fortnightly', 1910), and 'The Sentimentalists', a conversational comedy, was produced at Duke of York's Theatre, March 1910; 'Last Poems' came out in 1910. Two collections were made of his work; the edition de luxe (36 vols. 1896-1911), and the memorial edition (27 vols. 1909-11). A collection of his letters appeared in 1913. A portrait by Watts is in National Portrait Gallery.

MERIVALE, SIR WILLIAM RALPH (1840-1923), Canadian politician; born Upper Canada; called to bar of Upper Canada; represented London as conservative in legislative assembly of Ontario, 1873; leader of opposition, 1878; retired from politics and appointed chief justice, common pleas division of Ontario high court of justice, 1894; chief justice of Ontario, 1913; took important part in codifying laws of province and in affairs of Toronto University.

MERIVALE, HERMAN CHARLES (1839-1906), playwright and novelist; son of Herman Merivale [q.v.]; educated at Harrow and Balliol College, Oxford;

B.A., 1861; called to bar, 1864; edited 'Annual Register', 1870-80; collaborated in 'All for Her', 1876, and 'Forget Me Not', 1879, plays which attained great success; his 'The White Pilgrim' (1883) shows high qualities of poetic drama; skilful adapter of foreign dramas; wrote excellent farces and burlesques, including 'The Butler', 1886, and 'The Don', 1888, written for J. L. Toole; published novel, 'Fancit of Balliol', 3 vols. 1882, and a children's fairy tale, 'Binko's Blues', 1884; lost fortune through default of trustee, 1900; awarded civil list pension, 1900.

MERRIMAN, HENRY SETON (pseudonym) (1863-1903), novelist. [See SCOTT, HUGH-STOWELL.]

MERRIMAN, JOHN XAVIER (1841-1926), South African statesman; son of N. J. Merriman [q.v.]; taken to South Africa, 1848; educated in England; returned to Cape, where he practised as land surveyor, 1861; elected to Cape house of assembly, 1869; joined cabinet of (Sir) J. O. Molteno [q.v.] as commissioner of crown lands and public works, 1875-7; secretary of war during Kaffir war, 1877-8; associated with J. W. Sauer, 1881-1913; commissioner of public works, Scanlen ministry, 1884-5; treasurer-general, Rhodes ministry, 1890-3; Schreiner ministry, 1898-1900; prime minister, 1908-10; concerned with twofold task of hastening forward union and restoring finances of Cape Colony; died at Stellenbosch.

MERRY, WILLIAM WALTER (1835-1918), classical scholar; B.A., Balliol College, Oxford; fellow and classical tutor, Lincoln College, 1859-84; rector, 1884-1918; ordained, 1860; public orator, 1880-1910; completed large edition of 'Odyssey' begun by James Riddell [q.v.]; edited plays of Aristophanes, &c.

MERRY DEL VAL, RAFAEL (1865-1930), cardinal; studied for priesthood at Ushaw College, Durham (1883-5) and in Rome (1885-91); ordained priest, 1886; secretary to papal commission on Anglican orders, 1896; apostolic delegate to Canada, 1897; consistorial secretary, 1903; pontifical secretary of state, 1903-14; cardinal priest with titular church of Santa Prassede, 1903; archbishop of St. Peter's, 1914; secretary of Holy Office, 1914-30; died in Rome.

MESSEY, first VISCOUNT (1840-1929), judge. [See BIGHAM, JOHN CHARLES.]

MERTHYE, first BARON (1837-1914), engineer and coal-owner. [See LEWIS, WILLIAM THOMAS.]

METCALFE, SIR CHARLES HERBERT THEOPHILUS, sixth baronet (1853-1928), civil engineer; born at Simla; great-nephew of Baron Metcalfe [q.v.]; B.A. University College, Oxford; succeeded father, 1883; apprenticed to engineering firm of Fox & Sons; his most important work accomplished in South Africa, where he lived increasingly continuously, 1882-1914; friend of Cecil Rhodes [q.v.], whose dreams of northward expansion in Africa he realized by his railway work; together with firm of Fox, consulting engineer for various lines constituting Rhodesia railway system, Benguela Railway through Portuguese West Africa, &c.

METHUEN, SIR ALGERNON METHUEN MARSHALL, baronet (1856-1924), publisher, whose original name was ALGERNON STEDMAN; B.A., Wadham College, Oxford; private schoolmaster, 1880-95; opened publishing office in London as Methuen & Co., 1889; firm's range catholic, but specialized in educational and topographical works; firm's authors included Kipling, Corelli, Belloc, J. B. Bury, Chesterton, Conrad, 'Anthony Hope', E. V. Lucas; baronet, 1916.

MEUX (formerly LAMETON), SIR HEDWORTH (1856-1939), admiral; entered royal navy, 1870; captain, 1889; naval private secretary to first lord of admiralty, 1894-7; landed with naval brigade in time to join garrison in Ladysmith, Oct. 1899; rear-admiral, 1902; commanded cruiser division of Mediterranean fleet, 1904-6; vice-admiral, 1908; commander-in-chief, China, 1908-10; changed his name to Meux on coming into large fortune under will of Lady Meux, 1911; admiral, 1911; commander-in-chief, Portsmouth, 1912-16; admiral of the fleet, 1918; secured safe passage of transports conveying British Expeditionary Force to France; conservative M.P., Portsmouth, 1916-18; K.C.V.O., 1906; K.C.B., 1908.

MEW, CHARLOTTE MARY (1869-1928), poet; lived nearly all her life in Bloomsbury; published poems, stories, essays, studies in periodicals, and two volumes of verse (1915 and, posthumous publication, 1929).

MEYER, FREDERICK BROTHERTON (1847-1929), Baptist divine; B.A. London University; served Baptist ministries in York and Leicester; Melbourne Hall,

(with dedication to Peacock), 1851; 'The Shaving of Shagpat: an Arabian Entertainment', 1856, and 'Farrina, a Legend of Cologne', 1857. 'The Ordeal of Richard Feverel', the first of his great novels, came out in 1859; the book introduced him to Swinburne and the pre-Raphaelite group, while through the Duff Gordons his acquaintance with other notable people quickly grew, but few copies of the book were sold, and his means were long scanty and precarious. He worked regularly for the 'Liverpool Journal', 1858-76; contributed to 'Once a Week' six poems, 1859, and a new novel, 'Evan Harrington', serially through 1860; made his residence at Coptham near Esher, 1860, where his intimate circle soon included Frederick Augustus Madox [q. v.], J. A. Cockfield Morrison [q. v.], and others; found his chief recreation in long walks in Surrey and occasionally in France and Switzerland; lodged for a time with Rossetti and Swinburne at the Queen's House, Chelsea, 1861-2; published 'Modern Love and Poems of the English Roadside', 1862; became contributor to the 'Morning Post', 1862; was reader to Chapman & Hall from 1862 to 1894; brought out in 1864 'Emilia in England' (later renamed 'Sandra Belloni'); married his second wife Sept. 1864, and after some years at Norbiton finally settled for life at Flint Cottage facing Boxhill, 1867. There his second wife died, 17 Sept. 1889, leaving a son and daughter. He published 'Rhoda Fleming', 1865; contributed a sequel to 'Emilia', which was expanded in separate issue; went to Italy as special correspondent for 'Morning Post' during war with Austria, 1866; contributed serially to the 'Cornhill' 'The Adventures of Harry Richmond' (separately issued in 1871); published 'Odes in Contribution to the Song of French History', 1871, 'Beauchamp's Career', 1876 (after serial issue in condensed form in the 'Fortnightly', 1875), and the 'Egoist', 1879 (after serial issue in 'Glasgow Weekly Herald'); delivered (1 Feb. 1877) at London Institution a characteristic lecture on 'The Idea of Comedy and the Uses of the Comic Spirit' (printed in 'New Quarterly Magazine', 1877, and separately, 1897); published 'The Tragic Comedians', embodying the love story of Ferdinand Lassalle, the German socialist, in Dec. 1880 (after serial issue in 'Fortnightly'), and 'Poems and Lyrics of the Joy of Earth', 1883. Though both his novels and poetry won growing appreciation from critical circles, the public showed small interest until publication of 'Diana of the Crossways', 1885 (after serial issue in the 'Fortnightly'). There followed 'Ballads and Poems of Tragic Life', 1887, 'A Reading of Earth', 1888 (two of his most characteristic volumes of verse), and the last three novels, 'One of Our Conquerors', 1891, 'Lord Ormont and his Aminta' (serially issued in 'Pall Mall Magazine', 1894), and 'The Amazing Marriage', begun in 1870 and serially issued in 'Scribner's Magazine' through 1895. In his last years he published many expressions of opinion on public questions, but was from 1893 disabled from active exercise by paraplegia. He received in old age many marks of public regard. Addresses were presented by his admirers on both his seventieth and eightieth birthdays. He was president of the Society of Authors from 1892 to death, and was admitted to Order of Merit, 1905. He died at Flint Cottage, 18 May, and was buried in Dorking cemetery, 23 May, 1906; a memorial service was held in Westminster Abbey on day of funeral. There appeared posthumously 'Celt and Saxon', an unfinished story ('Fortnightly', 1910), and 'The Sentimentalists', a conversational comedy, was produced at Duke of York's Theatre, March 1910; 'Last Poems' came out in 1910. Two collections were made of his work; the edition de luxe (36 vols. 1896-1911), and the memorial edition (27 vols. 1909-11). A collection of his letters appeared in 1912. A portrait by Watts is in National Portrait Gallery.

MEREDITH, SIR WILLIAM RALPH (1840-1923), Canadian politician; born Upper Canada; called to bar of Upper Canada; represented London as conservative in legislative assembly of Ontario, 1873; leader of opposition, 1878; retired from politics and appointed chief justice, common pleas division of Ontario high court of justice, 1894; chief justice of Ontario, 1913; took important part in codifying laws of province and in affairs of Toronto University.

MERIVALE, HERMAN CHARLES (1839-1906), playwright and novelist; son of Herman Merivale [q. v.]; educated at Harrow and Balliol College, Oxford;

B.A., 1861; called to bar, 1864; edited 'Annual Register', 1870-80; collaborated in 'All for Her', 1878, and 'Forget Me Not', 1879, plays which attained great success; his 'The White Pilgrim' (1883) shows high qualities of poetic drama; skilful adapter of foreign dramas; wrote excellent farces and burlesques, including 'The Butler', 1886, and 'The Don', 1888, written for J. L. Toole; published novel, 'Faucit of Balliol', 3 vols. 1882, and a children's fairy tale, 'Binko's Blues', 1884; lost fortune through default of trustee, 1900; awarded civil list pension, 1900.

MERRIMAN, HENRY SETON (pseudonym) (1863-1903), novelist. [See SCOTT, HUGH-STOWELL.]

MERRIMAN, JOHN XAVIER (1841-1926), South African statesman; son of N. J. Merriman [q. v.]; taken to South Africa, 1848; educated in England; returned to Cape, where he practised as land surveyor, 1861; elected to Cape house of assembly, 1869; joined cabinet of (Sir) J. C. Molteno [q. v.] as commissioner of crown lands and public works, 1875-7; secretary of war during Kaffir war, 1877-8; associated with J. W. Sauer, 1881-1913; commissioner of public works, Sauten ministry, 1881-4; treasurer-general, Rhodes ministry, 1890-5; Schreiner ministry, 1898-1900; prime minister, 1908-10; concerned with twofold task of hastening forward union and restoring finances of Cape Colony; died at Stellenbosch.

MERRY, WILLIAM WALTER (1835-1918), classical scholar, B.A., Balliol College, Oxford; fellow and classical tutor, Lincoln College, 1859-64; rector, 1884-1918; ordained, 1860; public orator, 1880-1910; completed large edition of 'Odyssey' begun by James Riddell [q. v.]; edited plays of Aristophanes, &c.

MERRY DEL VAL, RAFAEL (1865-1930), cardinal; studied for priesthood at Ushaw College, Durham (1883-5) and in Rome (1885-91); ordained priest, 1888; secretary to papal commission on Anglican orders, 1896; apostolic delegate to Canada, 1897; consistorial secretary, 1903; pontifical secretary of state, 1903-14; cardinal priest with titular church of Santa Prassede, 1903; arch-priest of St. Peter's, 1914; secretary of Holy Office, 1914-30; died in Rome.

MERSEY, first VISCOUNT (1840-1929), judge. [See BIGHAM, JOHN CHARLES.]

MERTHYR, first BARON (1837-1914), engineer and coal-owner. [See LEWIS, WILLIAM THOMAS.]

METCALFE, SIR CHARLES HERBERT THEOPHILUS, sixth baronet (1835-1928), civil engineer; born at Simla; great-nephew of Baron Metcalfe [q. v.]; B.A., University College, Oxford; succeeded father, 1883; apprenticed to engineering firm of Fox & Sons; his most important work accomplished in South Africa, where he lived increasingly continuously, 1882-1914; friend of Cecil Rhodes [q. v.], whose dreams of northward expansion in Africa he realized by his railway work; together with firm of Fox, consulting engineer for various lines constituting Rhodesia railway system, Benguela Railway through Portuguese West Africa, &c.

METHUEN, SIR ALGERNON METHUEN MARSHALL, baronet (1856-1924), publisher, whose original name was ALGERNON STEDMAN; B.A., Wadham College, Oxford; private schoolmaster, 1880-95; opened publishing office in London as Methuen & Co., 1889; firm's range catholic, but specialized in educational and topographical works; firm's authors included Kipling, Corelli, Belloc, J. B. Bury, Chesterton, Conrad, 'Anthony Hope', E. V. Lucas; baronet, 1916.

MEUX (formerly LAMTON), SIR HEDWORTH (1856-1939), admiral; entered royal navy, 1870; captain, 1889; naval private secretary to first lord of admiralty, 1894-7; landed with naval brigade in time to join garrison in Ladysmith, Oct. 1899; rear-admiral, 1902; commanded cruiser division of Mediterranean fleet, 1904-6; vice-admiral, 1908; commander-in-chief, China, 1908-10; changed his name to Meux on coming into large fortune under will of Lady Meux, 1911; admiral, 1911; commander-in-chief, Portsmouth, 1912-16; admiral of the fleet, 1916; secured safe passage of transports conveying British Expeditionary Force to France; conservative M.P., Portsmouth, 1916-18; K.C.V.O., 1906; K.C.B., 1908.

MEW, CHARLOTTE MARY (1869-1938), poet; lived nearly all her life in Bloomsbury; published poems, stories, essays, studies in periodicals, and two volumes of verse (1915 and, posthumous publication, 1939).

MEYER, FREDERICK BROTHERTON (1847-1929), Baptist divine; B.A. London University; served Baptist ministries in York and Leicester; Melbourne Hall,

Leicester, built for his pastorate after 1878; later, minister at Regent's Park Chapel and Christ Church, Westminster Bridge Road, London; a prolific writer; travelled widely for religious purposes.

MEYER, SIR WILLIAM STEVENSON (1860-1933), Indian civil servant; born in Moldavia; joined Indian civil service in Madras, 1881; deputy secretary, finance department, government of India, 1898; Indian editor, 'Imperial Gazetteer of India,' 1903-8; financial secretary, government of India, 1908; secretary of military finance, 1906; finance member, government of India, 1913-18; his administration of military finance unjustly criticised for parsimony; first high commissioner of India, 1920-3; largely instrumental in procuring open market for government requirements not available in India; K.O.I.B., 1909.

MEYNELL, ALICE CHRISTIANA GERTRUDE (1847-1932), poet, essayist, and journalist; born THOMPSON; joined Roman Church, c. 1873; married Wilfrid Meynell, 1877; her first volume of poems, 'Preludes,' published, 1876; of essays, 'The Rhythm of Life,' 1893; championship of Coventry Patmore and George Meredith, and poems addressed to her by Francis Thompson, did much to secure early prestige for her writings; a marked difference noticeable between her earlier and later poems; published several further volumes of essays and edited various anthologies; admirer of seventeenth-century poetry.

MEYRICK, FREDERICK (1827-1906), divine; B.A., Trinity College, Oxford, 1847; M.A., 1850; fellow, 1847; travelled on Continent; founder and secretary of Anglo-Continental Society, 1853; rector of Bickling, Norfolk, 1868-1903; non-residential canon of Lincoln, 1869; helped to organise Bonn conferences on reunion, 1874-5; an ardent evangelical controversialist; wrote several anti-Roman pamphlets, as well as 'The Church in Spain,' 1892, and 'Memories of Life at Oxford,' 1906.

MICHELL, SIR LEWIS LOYD (1842-1928), South African banker and politician; joined London and South African Bank, 1863; sent to Port Elizabeth, Cape Colony, 1864; manager, Standard Bank of South Africa and Port Elizabeth, c. 1873; transferred to Cape Town, 1885; sole general manager of Standard Bank, South Africa, 1895-1902; executor of Cecil Rhodes [q.v.]; directed financing of British army's requirements during South African war, 1899-1902; chairman, De Beers Consolidated Mines and director, British South Africa Company, 1902; member, Cape house of assembly, 1902; minister without portfolio in Jameson's cabinet, 1903-5; knighted, 1902; wrote 'Life of Rhodes (1910); died at Cape Town.

MICHEL, ALEXANDER (1832-1902), writer on China; prominent in Chinese commerce at Hong Kong and Shanghai from 1853; helped in negotiations with Taiping rebels, 1861; explored Yangtze valley and Szechuan, 1869; special correspondent to 'The Times' in Sino-Japanese war, 1895; wrote 'The Englishman in China,' 2 vols. 1900, and 'China and Christianity,' 1900.

MICKLETHWAITE, JOHN THOMAS (1843-1906), architect; pupil of George Gilbert Scott [q.v.], 1862; partner with fellow pupil, Somers Clarke, 1876-92; churches designed by him include St. Hilda, Leeds, St. Peter, Becking, and St. Bartholomew's, East Ham; executed much internal decoration, chancels, and screens; architect to St. George's Chapel, Windsor, 1900; surveyor to dean and chapter of Westminster Abbey, 1898; restored south transept and west front; F.S.A., 1870; vice-president, 1902; helped to found Alcuin Club and Henry Bradshaw Society; published 'Ornaments of the Rubric,' 1897.

MIDLAND, ALBERT (1825-1909), hymn writer; tinsmith and ironmonger; joined Plymouth brethren; wrote over 800 hymns, the best-known, 'There's a Friend for little children,' being composed in 1859; hymns marked by religious emotion and love of children; published several volumes of verse.

MILBANK, RALPH GORDON NOEL KING, second EARL OF LOVELACE (1829-1906), author of 'Astarte'; grandson of poet Byron; spent a year in Iceland, 1861; a bold Alpinist and accomplished linguist; his privately printed 'Astarte' (1908), vindicting his grandmother, Lady Byron, from aspersions cast on her, and incriminating Lord Byron, provoked replies from John Murray and Richard McGee.

MILFORD HAYES, first MARQUESS OF (1854-1931), admiral of the fleet. [See MOUNTBATTEN, LOUIS ALEXANDER.]

MILNER, SIR JAMES PHROY, second baronet (1844-1906), sportsman; joined army, 1868; served in South Africa, 1900-1; won Derby with Saintfoin, 1890; purchased mare Roquebrune (1894), who, mated with Saintfoin, produced Rock Sand, winner of Two Thousand Guineas, Derby, and St. Leger in 1908; headed list of winning owners, 1903 and 1904.

MILLIGAN, SIR WILLIAM (1864-1939), laryngologist and otologist; son of William Milligan [q.v.]; grandson of D. M. Moir [q.v.]; M.D. Aberdeen University; successful aural surgeon and laryngologist in Manchester; advocate of radium; knighted, 1914.

MILNE, JOHN (1850-1913), mining engineer and seismologist; educated at King's College, London, and Royal School of Mines; professor of geology and mining, Imperial College, Tokio, 1876; first professor of seismology, Imperial university, Tokio; established seismic survey of Japan; secretary to seismological committee of British Association, 1898-1913; devised seismograph; travelled widely.

MILNER, ALFRED, VISCOUNT MILNER (1854-1925), statesman; born in Hesse-Darmstadt; educated at Tübingen, King's College, London, and Balliol College, Oxford; obtained first classes in classical moderations (1874) and Literae humaniores (1876); won Hertford (1874), Craven (1877), Eidon (1878), and Derby (1878) scholarships; president of Union, 1878; in society of his Oxford friends developed passion for public work, political and social; fellow of New College, Oxford, 1876; called to bar (Inner Temple), 1881; joined staff of 'Pall Mall Gazette,' 1882-5; in London maintained association with his Oxford friends, notably Arnold Toynbee [q.v.], by whom he was profoundly influenced; took part in University Extension Society founded by S. A. Barnett [q.v.]; co-operated in foundation of Toynbee Hall, Whitechapel, 1884; private secretary to G. J. (afterwards Viscount) Goschen, whose ideas on social reform and foreign and imperial policy coincided with his own, 1884; actively co-operated with Goschen in forming Liberal Unionist Association, 1886; secretary to Goschen as chancellor of exchequer, 1887-9; director-general of accounts, Egypt, 1889; under-secretary for finance, Egypt, 1890-3; rendered great services to Great Britain's task in Egypt, especially by his book, 'England in Egypt' (1892); chairman, board of inland revenue, 1892-7; had large share in introducing new form of death duties devised by Sir William Harcourt [q.v.]; high commissioner for South Africa, 1897-1905; went out with open mind as to rights in dispute between Boers and Britons and resolved to form judgement on spot; learned Dutch; attempted to effect friendly and informal relations with President Kruger; came to understanding with Cecil Rhodes [q.v.]; concluded that there was no solution of political troubles of South Africa except reform in Transvaal or war, 1898; warned Cape Dutch against dialloyalty; although his objects and those of Joseph Chamberlain, secretary of state for colonies, were identical in South Africa, namely to secure justice and reasonable liberty for Uitlanders and to ensure Great Britain's right to be alone responsible for whole of South Africa's foreign relations, his forward policy was somewhat distrusted by Chamberlain; forwarded to Chamberlain petition of Uitlanders recounting their grievances, March 1899; himself set out grievances in famous cable pronouncing case for intervention by British government to be overwhelming, May; met Kruger at abortive conference at Bloemfontein, 31 May; over-hasty in breaking off conference; on outbreak of war (Oct.) British colonies, in spite of his urgent representations, almost defenceless; Mafeking and Kimberley enabled to hold out largely through his insistence; his months of anxiety relieved by Lord Roberts's capture of Pretoria and resignation of ministry of W. P. Schreiner [q.v.], June 1900; administrator of Orange River Colony and Transvaal, 1900; went to England, where he was received with extraordinary honour, May 1901; while there made preparations for starting his schemes of reorganisation and social reform in new colonies; with Kitchener signed treaty of Vereeniging on behalf of British government, May 1902; differed from Kitchener in his greater rigidity; immediately set about task of repatriating Boers on their farms; organised permanent system of education; succeeded, in spite of Boer opposition, in establishing English as medium of instruction; greatly encouraged improved methods and results in farming; stimulated land settlement by British farmers in order to introduce English ideas into country districts; set before him ultimate aim of union of all

South African colonies and early secured co-operative measures; aroused controversy by sympathy with idea of suspending Cape constitution; visited by Chamberlain, now in general accord with his South African policy, 1903; obtained consent of Alfred Lyttelton (q.v.), secretary of state for colonies, to import Chinese labour into Rand, 1908; policy aroused violent opposition, especially from liberal party; acquiesced in grant of representative institutions to Transvaal, 1905; left South Africa, 1906; in spite of his very real success in repairing ravages of South African war, failed to touch hearts or win confidence of Boers; took little part in politics for some time after return, but carried on remunerative work in City and occupied himself with Rhodes Trust; supported movements for national service and tariff reform; opposed Mr. Lloyd George's budget (1909), which he advised Lords to reject, Parliament Bill (1911), and home rule; during European war successfully presided over committee to increase food production of country; member of Mr. Lloyd George's small War Cabinet, 1916; accompanied him to Allied conference in Rome, Jan. 1917; sent to Amiens front in order to report on serious state of affairs owing to great German attack and breakdown of co-operation between two Allied commands, March 1918; took upon himself responsibility for momentous decision of enforcing unity of command; owing to his initiative, General Foch placed in supreme command of Allied armies on western front, thereby procuring turning-point of war; secretary of state for war, 1918; his great reform in administration, inauguration of Army Education branch; his sane utterances with regard to peace absurdly denounced as pro-German; secretary of state for colonies, 1918-21; visited Egypt in order to report on her future relations with Great Britain, 1919-20; chancellor-elect of Oxford University, 1925; baron, 1901; viceroy, 1902; K.G., 1921; a great public servant, whose chief contribution to contemporary political thought was conviction of need for imperial unity.

MILTO, fourth EARL OF (1845-1914), governor-general of Canada and viceroy of India. [See ELLIOT, GILBERT JOHN MURRAY KYNRMOND.]

MITCHELL, SIR ARTHUR (1828-1909), Scottish commissioner in lunacy (1870-96) and antiquary; M.A. Aberdeen, 1846; M.D., 1860; hon. LL.D., 1875; member of English commission on criminal lunacy, 1880; F.S.A. Scotland, 1887; made study of superstition in Scottish Highlands; first Rhind lecturer in archaeology, Edinburgh; C.B., 1886; K.C.B., 1887; hon. F.R.C.P. Ireland, 1891; published 'The Past in the Present', 1880, and edited 'Macfarlane's Topographical Collections', 3 vols. 1906-8.

MITCHELL, JOHN MURRAY (1815-1904), Presbyterian missionary and Orientalist; M.A. Marischal College, Aberdeen, 1833; hon. LL.D., 1858; missionary in Bombay, 1836; made many converts among Marathia; founded flourishing Free Church mission at Pune, 1843; in Bengal, 1867-73; formed 'Union Church' at Simla; minister of Scottish church at Nice, 1888-98; Duff missionary lecturer at Edinburgh, 1903; published 'Hinduism Past and Present', 1886, 'The Great Religions of India', posthumous, 1908, and metrical translations from Indian poets.

MITFORD, ALGERNON BERTRAM FREEMAN- first BARON REDSDALE in the second creation (1837-1916), diplomatist and author; great-grandson of William Mitford (q.v.), the historian; educated at Eton and Christ Church, Oxford; entered foreign office, 1858; attaché in Japan, 1866-70; resigned from diplomatic service, 1873; secretary to board of works, 1874-86; as heir to cousin assumed additional name and arms of Mitford and went to live at Batford Park, Gloucestershire, 1886; conservative M.P., Stratford-on-Avon division of Warwickshire, 1892-8; created baron, 1903; works include 'Tales of Old Japan' (1871) and his autobiography ('Memories', 1915).

MOERLEY, ROBERT CAMPBELL (1848-1903), theologian; son of George Moerley (q.v.); scholar of Winchester and New College, Oxford; B.A., 1867; won Newdigate prize, 1867; M.A., 1870; D.D., 1897; a senior student of Christ Church, 1867-80; principal of Diocesan Theological College, Salisbury, 1878; hon. canon of Chester, 1890; regius professor of pastoral theology at Oxford and canon of Christ Church, 1892-1903; contributed 'The Incarnation as the Basis of Dogma' to 'Lux Mundi', 1889; chief work was 'Atonement and Personality', 1901.

MOCATTA, FREDERICK DAVID (1828-1906), Jewish philanthropist; in father's bullion broker's business, 1843-74; promoter of Charity Organisation Society, 1869; interested in housing of working classes and liberal benefactor of London hospitals; organised Board of Guardians of the Jewish Poor (founded 1869); generous supporter of Jewish charities; encouraged Jewish literature and research; F.S.A., 1889; published 'The Jews and the Inquisition', 1877; memoir published, 1912.

MOENI, WILLIAM JOHN CHARLES (1835-1904), Huguenot antiquary; settled in Hampshire, devoting himself to yachting and antiquarian research; held captive in South Italy by brigands for four months, 1865; published experiences in 'English Travellers and Italian Brigands', 1866; helped to found Huguenot Society of London, 1886; president, 1899-1902; edited for society registers of Walloons at Norwich (1887-8), of French Church, Threadneedle Street (1896), and of Dutch Church, Colchester (1906); F.S.A., 1886.

MOIR, FRANK LEWIS (1862-1904), song composer; composed ballads, church music, and organ voluntaries; best-known songs were 'Down the Vale', 1886, and 'Only Once More', 1893.

MOLLOY, GERALD (1834-1906), rector of the Catholic University of Dublin from 1883 till death; professor of theology at Maynooth, 1867; professor of natural philosophy, Catholic University, Dublin, 1874; rector, 1883; D.Sc. Royal University of Ireland, 1879; commissioner of inquiry into educational endowments in Ireland, 1885-94; vice-chancellor of Royal University, 1903; published 'Geology and Revelation', 1870, and 'Gleanings in Science', 1888.

MOLLOY, JAMES LYNAM (1837-1909), composer; M.A. Catholic University, Dublin, 1868; called to English bar, 1863; composed songs (of which 'Darby and Joan', 'The Kerry Dance', 'Love's Old Sweet Song' had wide vogue) and operettas; wrote 'Our Autumn Holiday on French Rivers', 1874.

MOLLOY, JOSEPH FITZGERALD (1858-1908), miscellaneous writer; published 'Songs of Passion and Pain', 1881, 'London under the Four Georges', 4 vols. 1892-3, and 'London under Charles II', 2 vols. 1895, lives of Peg Woffington, 2 vols. 1884, and Edmund Kean, 2 vols. 1888, 'Romance of the Irish State', 2 vols. 1897, and many novels.

MOLYNEUX, SIR ROBERT HENRY MORE- (1838-1904), admiral. [See MORE-MOLYNEUX.]

MONCREIFF, HENRY JAMES, second BARON MONCREIFF, of Tulibole (1840-1909), Scottish judge; son of first baron (q.v.); B.A. and LL.B., Trinity College, Cambridge, 1861; passed to Scottish bar, 1863; whig advocate-depute, 1863-6; reappointed under Gladstone, 1868 and 1880; joined liberal unionists, 1886; sheriff of Renfrew and Rute, 1881; Scottish judge, 1888-1905.

MONCREIFF, SIR ALEXANDER (1829-1906), colonel and engineer; joined army, 1855; served in Crimea; colonel, 1878; invented Moncrieff system of raising and lowering guns, and devised means of laying and sighting them when thus mounted; designed hydropneumatic carriage for similar purposes, 1869; F.R.S., 1871; C.B., 1880; K.O.B., 1890; a keen sportsman, amateur artist, and golfer.

MOND, ALFRED MORITZ, first BARON MEICHERT (1868-1930), industrialist, financier, and politician; son of Ludwig Mond (q.v.); educated at Cheltenham, Cambridge, and Edinburgh; called to bar (Inner Temple), 1894; managing director of father's chemical business; advocated and worked for principles of co-ordination and co-operation as bases of industrial enterprise; became prominent for number and importance of enterprises with which he was connected and for scale of amalgamations incorporated in firm of Imperial Chemical Industries, Ltd., 1896; instituted Mond-Turner conference to discuss problems arising between employers and employed, 1927; liberal M.P. Chester, 1906; Swansea, 1910-23; Carmarthen, 1924-3; first commissioner of works, 1916-31; minister of health, 1921-3; became protectionist after European war; convert to conservatism, 1926; an enthusiastic Zionist; created baronet, 1910; baron, 1928; P.O., 1915; F.R.S., 1920.

MOND, LUDWIG (1839-1909), chemical technologist, manufacturer, and art collector; born and educated at Cassel; employed in soda works near Cassel, 1859; in England (1868) took out patent for recovery of sulphur from Leblanc alkali waste; joined firm at Wilnes to push process, 1867; bought English patent of ammonia-soda process, and with J. T. Brunner started alkali works at Winnington near Northwich, 1872; firm became Brunner, Mond & Co. (1881), with Mond as managing director (in 1909 employing 4,000 workmen); invented Mond producer-gas plant (patented 1888) for the production of ammonia and cheap producer-gas; his efforts to recover chlorine wasted in ammonia-soda process, and his use of nickel compounds to purify producer-gas, led to discovery of nickel carbonyl, and of a method for extracting metallic nickel from its ores; Mond formed 'Mond Nickel Company', with mines in Canada and works near Swansea, 1888; active in founding Society of Chemical Industry and its 'Journal', 1881; F.R.S., 1891; received honorary doctorates from Padua, Heidelberg, Manchester, and Oxford; left fortune of over £1,000,000; took out forty-nine patents and published many scientific papers; founded Davy-Faraday Laboratory for chemical research at Royal Institution, 1896; left large sums to Royal Society and Heidelberg for research; benefactor to town of Cassel and to Jewish charities; bequeathed (contingently on wife's death) art collection, mainly early Italian pictures, to National Gallery.

MONCKHOUSE, WILLIAM COSMO (1840-1901), poet and critic; clerk in board of trade, 1856; assistant secretary to finance department at death; published poems, 'A Dream of Idleness', 1865, and 'Corn and Poppies', 1890; a novel, 1868; 'Masterpieces of English Art', 1869; lives of Turner, 1879, and Tenniel, 1901, and 'Earlier English Water Colour Painters', 1890.

MONRO, SIR CHARLES CARMICHAEL, baronet (1880-1979), general; grandson of Alexander Monro, tertius (1773-1859, q.v.); gazetted to 2nd foot, 1879; served in South African war, 1899-1900; chief instructor, Hythe School of Musketry, 1901-3; commandant, 1903-7; virtually responsible for evolution of new system of infantry fire-tactics; commanded 18th Infantry Brigade, Ireland, 1907-12; major-general, 1910; commanded 2nd division, Aldershot, 1914; proceeded to France, Aug.; received command of 1 Corps, Dec.; commanded Third Army, with rank of general, July 1915; placed in command of Mediterranean Expeditionary Force at Gallipoli, Oct.; successfully advocated and effected (Jan. 1916) complete withdrawal from Peninsula; commanded First Army in France, 1916; commander-in-chief, India, 1916-20; successfully developed Indian military power, 1917-18; ably handled unrest in India following war; governor of Gibraltar, 1923-8; K.C.B., 1915; baronet and Bath King-of-Arms, 1921.

MONRO, CHARLES HENRY (1885-1908), author; educated at Harrow; B.A., Caius College, Cambridge (first class classic), and fellow, 1887; law lecturer, 1872-96; planned but left unfinished a complete translation of Justinian's 'Digest', 2 vols. 1904-9; memorial fellowship and Celtic lectureship founded at Caius College.

MONRO, DAVID BINNING (1856-1905), classical scholar; educated at Glasgow University and Balliol College, Oxford; B.A. (first class classic), 1883; Ireland scholar, 1888; fellow of Oriel, 1888; vice-provost, 1874; provost, 1882; vice-chancellor of university, 1901-4; published a Homeric Grammar, 1883 (an authoritative work), a school edition of 'Iliad', 2 vols. 1884-9, and 'Odyssey', xiii-xxiv, 1901; edited complete text, 1896; sought in philology the solution of Homeric problems; founded Oxford Philological Society, 1870; original F.B.A., 1902; hon. D.O.L. Oxford, 1904; LL.D. Glasgow, 1883; Doc.Litt. Dublin, 1892; died in Switzerland.

MONSON, SIR EDMUND JOHN, first baronet (1834-1909), diplomatist; educated at Eton and Balliol College, Oxford; B.A. (first class in history), 1855; M.A. and fellow of All Souls, 1858; held various minor posts in diplomatic service, 1856-68; consul in Azores, 1869-71; consul-general at Buda-Pesth, 1871; British representative at Cetinje during war of Serbia and Montenegro with Turkey, 1876-7; O.B., 1878; employed in Uruguay (1879-84), Buenos Ayres (1884), Copenhagen (1884-8), Athens (1888), and Brussels (1892); K.O.M.G., 1886; G.O.M.G., 1892; ambassador at Vienna and P.C., 1893, and Paris, 1896-1904; G.O.B., 1896; tactfully settled disputes with French in Newfoundland, New Hebrides, and East and West Africa; hon. D.O.L. Oxford, 1898; LL.D. Cambridge, 1905; G.O.V.O., 1903; baronet, 1905; received grand cross of legion of honour.

MONTAGU DE BEAULIEU, second baron (1846-1929), pioneer of motoring. [See DOUGLAS-SCOTT-MONTAGU, JOHN WALTER EDWARD.]

MONTAGU, EDWIN SAMUEL (1879-1924), statesman; son of first Baron Swythling (q.v.); B.A., Trinity College, Cambridge; president of Union, 1902; Liberal M.P., Chester division, Cambridgeshire, 1906-22;

private secretary to Mr. Asquith, 1906-10; parliamentary under-secretary of state for India, 1910-14; financial secretary to Treasury, 1914-16; chancellor of duchy of Lancaster with seat in cabinet, 1916; minister of munitions, 1916; resigned, Dec. 1918; secretary of state for India, June 1917-March 1922; his first task, declaration of goal of British policy regarding constitutional change in India, namely 'progressive realisation of responsible government' in India, Aug. 1917; toured round provinces of India with small delegation, Nov. 1917-May 1918; outcome of this delegation, drafting of 'Report on Indian Constitutional Reforms', 1918; handled his problems with elasticity and resilience, and by pertinacity, drive, and determination rallied bulk of opinion to his scheme, which passed into law as Government of India Act, 1919; central feature, extension of self-government operating through 'dyarchy'; forced to resign owing to divergences with his colleagues over Turkish policy.

MONTAGU, LORD ROBERT (1825-1903), politician and controversialist; M.A., Trinity College, Cambridge, 1849; conservative M.P. for Huntingdonshire, 1856-74; champion of church rates and trade unions; vice-president of the committee of council on education, charity commissioner, and P.C., 1867; criticized education bill of 1870; conservative home-rule M.P. for Westminster, 1874-80; condemned conservative policy in Afghan war; joined Church of Rome (1870), but rejoined English Church on ethical and political grounds (1882) and attacked Romanists in published volumes.

MONTAGU, SAMUEL, first baron SWATTHLING (1832-1911), foreign exchange banker and Jewish philanthropist; founded with brother and brother-in-law the foreign exchange and banking firm of Samuel Montagu & Co., 1853; acquired large exchange business and helped to make London the clearing house of the international money market; engaged in large transactions in silver; liberal M.P. for Whitechapel, 1885-1900; chief author of Weights and Measures Acts, 1897; ardent supporter of bimetalism; member of select committee on alien immigration, 1888; took leading part in Jewish religious, social, and charitable work; founded Jewish Working Men's Club, 1870; formed federation of smaller East End synagogues, 1887; gave to London county council £10,000 for Tottenham housing scheme, 1903; travelled abroad in interests of oppressed Jews; visited Russia to investigate condition of Jews (1886), but was expelled; president of Russo-Jewish committee, 1896-1909; collector of works of art and of old English silver; F.S.A., 1897; baronet, 1894; raised to peerage, 1907.

MONTAGU-DOUGLAS-SCOTT, LORD CHARLES THOMAS (1839-1911), admiral. [See SCOTT.]

MONTAGUE, CHARLES EDWARD (1867-1928), man of letters and journalist; B.A., Balliol College, Oxford; on staff of 'Manchester Guardian', 1890-1914, 1919-25; second in command, 1898; a brilliant, many-sided journalist; made his mark as dramatic critic; served in European war, 1914-19; works include 'A Hind Let Loose' (1910), 'Disenchantment' (1922), 'Fiery Particles' (1923), 'The Right Place' (1924), 'Rough Justice' (1926), 'Action' (1928).

MONTAETH, SIR JAMES (1847-1929), Indian civil servant; passed Indian civil service examination, 1868; appointed to Bombay Presidency, 1870; chief secretary to government of Bombay, 1896; successfully dealt with Bombay famines, 1896-7 and 1899-1902; introduced Land Revenue Code Amendment Bill, which greatly benefited Bombay agriculturists, 1901; K.C.S.I., 1903.

MONTGOMERIE, ROBERT ARCHIBALD JAMES (1855-1908), rear-admiral; entered navy, 1869; served in Egyptian war, 1882; in charge of naval transport in Nile expedition, 1885-6; commanded field battery in Viti expedition; O.B., 1892; conducted bombardment of Puerto Cabello, 1903; inspecting captain of boys' training ships, 1904; O.M.G., 1904; rear-admiral, 1905; O.V.O., 1907; champion heavy weight boxer of navy.

MONTGOMERY, RAYMOND HARVEY DE, third viscount FRANKFORT DE MONTGOMERY (1858-1908), major-general. [See DE MONTGOMERY.]

MONTGOMERY, WILLIAM FLAVELLE (1866-1913), journalist, and biographer of Disraeli; joined editorial staff of 'The Times', 1895; chosen to undertake authoritative biography of Lord Beaconsfield; published first volume, 1910, second, 1912; work completed by G. E. Buckle.

MOORE, SIR FREDERICK ROBERT (1852-1927), South African statesman; born in Natal; Kimberley diamond digger, 1872-9; afterwards farmer in Natal; represented Weenen county in Natal legislative assembly, 1886; on grant of responsible government (1893) held portfolio of native affairs until 1897, and again 1899-1903; prime minister, 1906; worked whole-heartedly for unification of South Africa; held portfolio of commerce and customs in General Botha's federal ministry, 1910; senator, 1910-20; knighted, 1911.

MOOR, SIR RALPH DENHAM RAYMENT (1860-1909), first high commissioner of Southern Nigeria, 1900-3; commandant of constabulary in Oil Rivers Protectorate, 1891; vice-consul, 1892; consul, 1896; commissioner and consul-general of newly formed Niger Coast Protectorate, 1896-1900.

MOORE, ARTHUR WILLIAM (1853-1909), Manx antiquary; educated at Eton and Trinity College, Cambridge; second in historical tripos, 1876; M.A., 1879; won blue for Rugby football; speaker of House of Keys, 1898-1909; championed house in disputes with governor; wrote on meteorology of the island; O.V.O., 1902; founded Manx Language Society, 1899; wrote on Manx folklore, 1891, music, 1896, and records, 1906; his 'History of the Isle of Man', 1900, is an authoritative work.

MOORE, EDWARD (1835-1916), principal of St. Edmund Hall, Oxford, and Dante scholar; B.A., Pembroke College, Oxford; fellow of Queen's, 1856; principal of St. Edmund Hall, 1864-1913; preserved its independence; canon of Canterbury, 1903; works include 'Contributions to the Textual Criticism of the "Divina Commedia"' (1889) and 'Oxford Dante' (1894).

MOORE, STUART AROBIALD (1842-1907), legal antiquary; F.S.A., 1869; called to bar, 1884; published volumes (1888 and 1903) on the history and law relating to foreshore and fishery rights; keen yachtsman; edited antiquarian works for Camden Society and Roxburghe Club.

MOORE, TEMPLE LUSHINGTON (1856-1920), architect; pupil (1875-8) of George Gilbert Scott; junior, with whom he maintained close professional association, 1878-90; employed pure Gothic style; designs include seventeen important new churches (1885-1917), nave of Hexham Abbey (1902-3), Anglican cathedral, Nairobi (1914), chapels of Fussy House, Oxford, and Bishop's Hostel, Lincoln, and several houses.

MOORHOUSE, JAMES (1826-1915), bishop of Melbourne and afterwards of Manchester; B.A., St. John's College, Cambridge; prebendary of St. Paul's, 1874; bishop of Melbourne, 1876-86; presided over synod at Sydney which framed constitution of Church in Australia; bishop of Manchester, 1886-1903.

MORAN, PATRICK FRANCIS (1830-1911), cardinal archbishop of Sydney; nephew of Cardinal Cullen [q.v.]; educated at Rome; priest, 1853; vice-principal of St. Agatha's College, Rome, 1856-60; private secretary to Cardinal Cullen, 1866-78; archbishop of Sydney, 1884; cardinal, 1888; militant churchman and a keen controversialist; built many Roman Catholic institutions in New South Wales; prominent in Australian politics; advocated home rule, and supported Australian federation; publications include 'The Catholic Archbishops of Dublin', 1864, and 'The Catholics of Ireland . . . in the 18th Century', 1899.

MORANT, SIR ROBERT LAURIE (1863-1920), civil servant; B.A., New College, Oxford; assistant director of special inquiries and reports, education department, 1895; assistant private secretary to eighth Duke of Devonshire [q.v.], 1902; passing of Education Act (1902) largely due to him; permanent secretary, board of education, which he entirely remodelled, 1905-11; chairman, National Health Insurance Commission, which he organised, 1911-19; first secretary, ministry of health, which he constructed, 1919-20; C.B., 1902; K.C.B., 1907; one of the greatest of civil servants.

MORE-MOLYNEUX, SIR ROBERT HENRY (1838-1904), admiral; joined navy, 1853; served in Crimea, 1854, on West Coast of Africa, 1859; commander, 1865; on North America and West Indies station, 1867; commanded 'Euby' in Russian war, 1877-8; at bombardment of Alexandria; C.B., protected Suakin till arrival of Sir Gerald Graham; K.C.B., 1886; captain superintendent of Sheerness dockyard, 1886-8; admiral, 1899; president of Royal Naval College, Greenwich, 1900-3; G.C.B., 1903; died at Cairo.

MORESBY, JOHN (1830-1933), admiral and explorer; son of Sir Fairfax Moresby [q.v.]; entered royal navy, 1843; took part in suppression of Taitape rebellion, 1861; commanded paddle sloop 'Basilisk' on Australian station, 1871; with 'Basilisk' carried out important explorations in Torres straits and on New Guinea coasts, 1872-4; his surveys covered 1,200 miles of unknown coast-line and about 100 islands; senior naval officer, Bermuda dockyard, 1878-81; rear-admiral and assessor to board of trade, 1881; vice-admiral, 1888; admiral, 1893.

MORFILL, WILLIAM RICHARD (1834-1909), Slavonic scholar; B.A., Oriel College, Oxford, 1857; M.A., 1860; travelled much in Slavonic countries, studying their history and literature; university reader in Russian at Oxford, 1889; Ph.D. Prague; F.B.A., 1903; wrote Grammar of Polish (1884), Serbian (1887), Russian (1889), Czech (1889), and Bulgarian (1897), and histories of Russia (1886 and 1902), Poland (1893), and of Slavonic literature (1883); he also knew Welsh, old Irish, and Turkish; bequeathed Slavonic library to Queen's College, Oxford.

MORGAN, EDWARD DELMAR (1840-1909), linguist and traveller; lived in St. Petersburg; travelled in Persia, 1872, Little Russia, and Lower Congo, 1883; hon. secretary of Hakluyt Society, 1886-82, editing 'Anthony's' 'Jenkinson's' travels, 1886; translated works by the Central Asian explorer Przhevalsky, 1876-8.

MORIARTY, HENRY AUGUSTUS (1815-1906), captain in the navy; prepared vessels for bombardment of Sveaborg, 1856; navigated 'Great Eastern' when employed for laying Atlantic cables, 1865-6; C.B., 1866; Queen's harbourmaster, Portsmouth, 1869-74; captain, 1874; nautical expert before parliamentary committees; published volumes of sailing directions, 1887-92.

MORLAND, SIR THOMAS LETHBRIDGE NAPIER (1865-1925), general; born at Montreal, Canada; gazetted into king's royal rifle corps, 1884; transferred to West African frontier force, 1898; took part in six minor campaigns in Nigeria, 1898-1903; inspector-general, West African frontier force, 1904-9; major-general, 1913; commanded 5th division, 1914-9; X Army Corps, 1915-18; XIII Army Corps, 1918-19; commander-in-chief, army of occupation, Cologne, 1920-2; at Aldershot, 1922-3; general, 1922; K.C.B., 1915; died at Montreal.

MORLEY, third EARL OF (1848-1905), chairman of committees of the House of Lords. [See PARKER, ALBERT EDMUND.]

MORLEY, JOHN, VISCOUNT MORLEY OF BLACKBURN (1833-1923), statesman and man of letters; educated at Cheltenham College and Lincoln College, Oxford; freelance journalist in London, 1860-3; joined staff of 'Saturday Review', 1863; became acquainted with George Meredith and John Stuart Mill, to both of whom he owed much; editor of 'Portnightly Review', which he made influential organ of liberal opinion, 1867-82; in close sympathy with Frederic Harrison [q.v.], who assisted him with 'Fortnightly', and leading positivists; published his first study of Burke, 1867; attempted unsuccessfully to enter parliament, 1868-9; admirer of Huxley; his studies of Frenchmen of the Revolution and their precursors including 'Voltaire' (1872) and 'Rousseau' (1873) conveyed a message of rationalism and progress to his generation; through his radical opinions and views on national education brought into contact with Joseph Chamberlain [q.v.]; worked with Chamberlain and Sir Charles Dilke [q.v.] at programme of disestablishment, secular education, land reform, and progressive taxation; adopted pacific outlook on foreign and imperial policy; published 'Burke' ('English Men of Letters' series), 1879; editor of 'Pall Mall Gazette', which he changed from conservatism and imperialism to radicalism and Cobdenism, 1880; again attempted unsuccessfully to enter parliament, 1880; published 'Life of Cobden', one of his best writings and a classic among English political biographies, 1881; M.P., Newcastle-upon-Tyne, 1883-95; although only moderately successful as speaker his moral leadership gave him position of independence and influence; broke with Chamberlain over Irish question; chief secretary for Ireland, 1886; took leading part in Round Table Conference, the object of which was to bring about concordat with Chamberlain and Sir G. O. Trevelyan [q.v.] on Irish question, 1887; during years of opposition his energies largely absorbed in denouncing Lord Salisbury's policy of coercion; one of the most popular orators on liberal platforms; edited 'English Men of Letters' series; published 'Walpole' in 'Twelve English Statesmen' series, 1889; chief secretary for Ireland, 1899-5; achieved his main task of helping Gladstone to prepare and carry through House of Commons second Home Rule Bill; M.P., Montrose Burghs, 1896-1908; with Sir William Harcourt [q.v.] resisted policy which found expression in Boer war; published 'Oliver Cromwell', 1900; published 'Life of Gladstone', his most important work, 3 vols. 1908; secretary of state for India, 1905-10; planned series of reforms which aimed at gradually associating people of India with civil administration and government; created viscount, 1908; helped to conduct Parliament Bill limiting Lords' veto through Upper House, 1911; with John Burns resigned from cabinet on government's decision to intervene in European war, 1914; in retirement occupied himself with affairs of Manchester University, of which he had been elected chancellor (1908); O.M., 1902; remained to end of his life agnostic, liberal, and individualist.

MORRIS, SIR LEWIS (1833-1907), poet and Welsh educationist; born at Carmarthen; B.A. (first class in literae humaniores), Jesus College, Oxford, 1856; M.A., 1858; won chancellor's prize for English essay, 1858; fellow, 1877; called to bar, 1861; practised as conveyancer in London till 1880; published anonymously 'Songs of Two Worlds', sonorous and optimistic verse (3 series, 1871, 1874, 1878, republished in one vol., 1878); imitated Tennyson's 'Tithonus' in a series of blank verse monologues, collected as 'The Epio of Hades' (1877), which was popular with the middle classes and reached a 45th edition; there followed 'Gwen: a Drama in Monologue', 1879, 'The Ode of Life' (descriptive poems), 1880, 'Songs Unsung', 1883 (the first volume issued under author's name), 'Gylcia: a tragedy', 1886, and 'Songs of Britain', 1887; collected editions appeared in 1882 (3 vols.) and in 1890, 'A Vision of Saints' in 1890, and subsequently other collections of lyrics; his work was ridiculed in 'Saturday Review'. Morris published a volume of essays, 'The New Rambler', 1905; was hon. secretary (1878), hon. treasurer (1889), and vice-president (1896) of University College of Wales, Aberystwyth; helped in establishing University of Wales, 1893; hon. D.Litt., 1904; knighted, 1898; an advanced liberal, but failed in attempts to enter parliament.

MORRIS, MICHAEL, LORD MORRIS AND KILLANIN (1836-1901), lord chief justice of Ireland; senior moderator in ethics and logic, Trinity College, Dublin, 1846; hon. LL.D., 1887; called to Irish bar, 1849; recorder of Galway, 1857-65; Q.C., 1863; independent conservative M.P. for Galway, 1865; solicitor-general for Ireland, July 1866; attorney-general, Nov.; Irish P.O.; puisne judge of court of common pleas, 1867; lord chief justice of Ireland, 1867; baronet, 1885; member of judicial committee of English privy council, receiving life peerage, 1889; bencher of Lincoln's Inn, 1890; commissioner of Irish national education; vice-chancellor of Royal University, Ireland, 1899; made hereditary baron of Killanin, 1900; an opponent of home rule, but a cautious critic of English rule in Ireland.

MORRIS, PHILIP RICHARD (1836-1902), painter; won travelling studentship at Royal Academy Schools, 1858; exhibited at Academy, 1866-1901; A.R.A., 1877; early painted sea pictures, later religious subjects; best-known works were 'Sons of the Brave' and 'The First Communion'.

MORRIS, TOM (1821-1908), golfer; apprenticed to Allan Robertson, golfer of St. Andrews and golf ball maker; won open golf championship, 1861-2-4-6; green-keeper to St. Andrews Golf Club, 1863-1903; 'Life' by W. W. Tulloch, 1907.

MORRIS, WILLIAM O'CONNOR (1824-1904), Irish county court judge and historian; B.A., Oriel College, Oxford, 1848; called to Irish bar, 1854; professor of common and criminal law in King's Inns, Dublin, 1862; contributed to 'Edinburgh Review', and wrote articles on land tenure in 'The Times', 1870; county court judge for Louth, 1872, and Kerry, 1878; disapproved of Land Act of 1881; transferred as judge for Sligo and Roscommon, 1886; published superficial but independent studies of Hannibal (1890), Napoleon (1890), Moltaire (1893), Nelson (1898), and Wellington (1904); 'Ireland from 1494 to 1868, 1894, and 'Ireland from '98 to '98', 1898.

MORRIS AND KILLANIN, LORD (1826-1901), lord chief justice of Ireland. [See MORRIS, MICHAEL.]

MORRIS-JONES, SIR JOHN (1864-1939), Welsh poet and grammarian; educated at Christ College, Brecon; B.A., Jesus College, Oxford; turned from mathematics to devote himself wholly to study of Welsh; a founder of 'Dafydd ap Gwilym Society' at Oxford; specialized in philology and Welsh verse; lecturer in Welsh, Bangor University College, 1889; professor of Welsh, 1895-1929; by his series of adjudications at National Eisteddfod, Llandudno, raised standard of poetic diction; his chief works, 'Cerdd Dafod' (1925) and 'Welsh Grammar' (1918); knighted, 1918.

MOOREHEAD, WALTER (1856-1921), man of business and philanthropist; educated at Eton and Balliol; liberal M.P., Plymouth, 1881-74; liberal unionist M.P., Skipton division of Yorkshire, 1886-92, 1895-1900; inherited large fortune which he increased; entertained many eminent friends at Malham Tarn, Yorkshire; benefactions include gifts to northern universities, Giggleswick School, King Edward's Hospital Fund (annual contribution for many years £10,000), Palestine Exploration Fund, Oxford University (£50,000) and Bodleian Library (£50,000).

MOORELEY, HENRY GWYN JEFFREYS (1887-1915), experimental physicist; son of Professor Henry Nottidge Mooreley [q.v.]; B.A., Trinity College, Oxford; physics lecturer, Manchester University, 1910-14; carried out important researches on X-ray spectra of elements; killed in action at Gallipoli.

MOTT, SIR FREDERICK WALKER (1853-1926), neuro-pathologist; M.D., University College, London; held various posts at Charing Cross Hospital school, from 1884; pathologist to London county council asylums, 1895-1923; best known for his determination of association between syphilitic infection and other bodily changes and mental disorders; did notable work on shell-shock during European war; F.R.S., 1896; K.B.E., 1919; his numerous honours include Croonian lectureship (1900), Lettsomian lectureship (1916), and Harveian oratorship (1925) of Royal College of Physicians, London; his works include 'Archives of Neurology and Psychiatry'.

MOULE, GEORGE EVANS (1828-1912), missionary bishop in mid-China; second son of Rev. Henry Moule [q.v.]; B.A., Corpus Christi College, Cambridge; went as missionary to China, 1857; first bishop of mid-China, 1880-1906.

MOULE, HANDLEY CARR GLYN (1841-1920), bishop of Durham; eighth son of Rev. Henry Moule [q.v.]; B.A., Trinity College, Cambridge; principal of Ridley Hall, Cambridge, 1880-99; Norrisonian professor of divinity, 1899-1901; bishop of Durham, 1901-20; an evangelist; wrote theological and devotional works.

MOULTON, JAMES HOPE (1863-1917), classical and Iranian scholar and student of Zoroastrianism; son of Rev. W. F. Moulton [q.v.]; B.A., King's College, Cambridge; Greenwood professor of Hellenistic Greek and Indo-European philology, Manchester, 1908; torpedoed in Mediterranean returning from India; works include 'Prolegomena' to unfinished 'Grammar of New Testament Greek' (1906) and 'Early Zoroastrianism' (1913).

MOULTON, JOHN FLETCHER, BARON MOULTON (1844-1934), lord of appeal in ordinary; brother of W. F. Moulton [q.v.]; B.A., St. John's College, Cambridge (senior wrangler with highest total of marks ever gained), 1868; fellow of Christ's, Cambridge, 1868-78; called to bar (Middle Temple), 1874; Q.C., 1885; specialised in patent actions; liberal M.P., Clapham division of Battersea, 1885-86, South Hackney, 1894-5, Launceston division of Cornwall, 1898-1906; lord justice of appeal, knight, and P.O., 1906; lord of appeal in ordinary, 1912; created K.C.B., 1915, G.B.E., 1917, for brilliant organisation of Explosives Supply Department, 1914-18.

MOUNTBA滕, LOUIS ALEXANDER, first MARQUESS OF MILFORD HAVEN, formerly styled PRINCE LOUIS ALEXANDER OF BATTENBERG (1854-1921), admiral of the fleet; son of Prince Alexander of Hesse; born at Gratz, Austria; naturalized and entered British royal naval intelligence at admiralty, 1902-5; rear-admiral, 1904; commander-in-chief, Atlantic fleet, 1908-10; vice-admiral, 1910; first sea-lord, 1912; resigned, Oct. 1914; relinquished German titles and created marquess, 1917; admiral, 1919.

MOUNTFORT, EDWARD WILLIAM (1855-1906), architect; won open competition for Sheffield town hall, 1890; designed several London buildings, including the Central Criminal Court, Old Bailey; style developed from Renaissance to classic method.

MOULT STEPHEN, first BARON (1828-1921), financier and philanthropist. [See STEPHEN, GEORGE.]

MOWAT, SIR OLIVER (1820-1908), Canadian statesman; born at Kingston, Ontario; called to bar of Upper Canada, 1841; leader of chancery bar at Toronto; Q.C., 1856; on commission to consolidate statutes of Upper Canada; radical member of legislative assembly, 1857; advocated federation of Upper and Lower Canada, and representation by population, 1859; as postmaster-general carried out considerable economies, 1863; took part in conference for federation, 1864; vice-chancellor of Ontario, 1864-73; premier, 1873-96; responsible for Ballot Act, 1874, Manhood Suffrage Act, 1886, and Acts to simplify and cheapen judicial procedure; championed provincial rights in matters of legal appointments, regulation of companies, and control of liquor traffic; gained victory for Ontario over Manitoba in delimitation of boundaries, 1884; K.O.M.G., 1892; G.O.M.G., 1898; as Dominion minister of justice, 1896-7, suggested compromise with Roman Catholics in Manitoba school question; lieutenant-governor of Ontario, 1897; advocated reciprocity with America.

MOWATT, SIR FRANCIS (1857-1919), civil servant; clerk in Treasury, 1886; assistant secretary, 1888; permanent secretary, 1894-1903; raised reputation of department for promptness and efficiency; owing to misunderstanding offered to resign, 1900; served on numerous royal commissions and committees; C.B., 1884; K.C.B., 1896; G.C.B., 1901; P.C., 1906.

MUDDMAN, SIR ALEXANDER PHILLIPS (1876-1929), Indian civil servant; joined Indian civil service, 1899; secretary to government and nominated official member of central legislature, 1915; president of council of state, 1921; ordinary member of governor-general's council in charge of home department, 1924; governor of United Provinces, 1928; knighted, 1922; K.C.S.I., 1926; died in India.

MUIR, SIR WILLIAM (1819-1905), Indian administrator and principal of Edinburgh University; brother of John Muir (q.v.); joined East India Company's service, 1837; head of intelligence department at Agra during Mutiny, 1857; related experiences in 'Agra in the Mutiny', 1896; secretary to Lord Canning's government at Allahabad, 1858; foreign secretary under Lord Lawrence and K.C.S.I., 1867; lieutenant-governor of North-West Provinces, 1868-74; founded Muir College and University at Allahabad; financial member of Lord Northbrook's council, 1874-6; member of Council of India in London, 1876-85; principal of Edinburgh University, 1885-1905; president of Royal Asiatic Society, 1884; hon. D.C.L. Oxford, 1889; LL.D. Edinburgh and Glasgow, Ph.D. Bologna, 1888; published standard 'Life of Mahomet', 4 vols. 1858-61, 'Annals of the Warly Caliphate', 1883, and 'Mameluke Dynasty of Egypt', 1898; Redie lecturer at Cambridge 1881; with his brother endowed Shaw professorship of Sanskrit at Edinburgh, 1869.

MULLER, ERNEST BRUCE IWAN (1853-1910), journalist. See IWAN-MÜLLER.

MULLINE, EDWIN BOSCOE (1848-1907), sculptor; studied art at Lambeth, Royal Academy and Munich; executed ideal works such as 'Cain', 'Innocence', 'Rest', and several portraits, including Dr. Martineau (bust), Gladstone (statuette), Queen Victoria, William Barnes (statues); decorated many London buildings; published 'A Primer of Sculpture', 1892.

MURPHY, ARTHUR JOSEPH (1898-1910), poet and civil servant; B.A., Trinity College, Cambridge, 1881; M.A., 1886; called to bar, 1885; in ecclesiastical commissioners' office, 1888-89; published poetic idylls, 'Benoni', 1882, 'Verena New and Old', 1886, and 'Dorothy', 1890; work praised by Browning for craftsmanship; later works include 'Poema, chiefly Lyric and Elegiac', 1901, and 'Relicta', 1909; F.S.A., supporter of Working Men's College.

MURDO, HECTOR HUGH (1870-1916), writer of fiction; born in Burma; took up journalism in London; works include 'The Westminster Alice' (political sketches, 1907), 'Reginald' (1904), 'Reginald in Russia' (1910), 'Chronicles of Clorvia' (1911), 'Beasts and Super-Beasts' (1914), all short stories, and 'The Unbearable Bassington' (1913), a novel; employed pseudonym 'Saki'; killed in action in France.

MURDO, JAMES (1829-1908), premier of Victoria, Australia; emigrated to Victoria, 1858, working as printer till 1865; founded Federal Banking Company, 1889, and Real Estate Bank, 1887; liberal minister of public instruction, Aug.-Oct. 1875; treasurer and premier, 1880-1902; agent-general in London, 1902; temperance advocate.

MURDOCK, WILLIAM LLOYD (1856-1911), Australian cricketer; born in Victoria, Australia; practised as solicitor; played cricket for New South Wales, 1878-84; known in colonies as 'W. G. Grace of Australia'; acquired fame first as wicket-keeper and finally as batsman; member (1878) and captain (1880-2, 1884, 1890) of Australian teams to England; made record Australian individual score (211) against England, 1884; visited America, 1878, and South Africa, 1891-2; settled in England, 1891; captained Sussex team, 1898-9; died at Melbourne; published handbook of cricket, 1893.

MURRAY, ALEXANDER STUART (1841-1904), keeper of Greek and Roman antiquities in the British Museum from 1886; brother of G. R. M. Murray (q.v.); M.A. Edinburgh University; assistant at British Museum, 1867; as keeper reorganized galleries of Greek and Roman antiquities; frequently visited classical sites; LL.D. Glasgow, 1891; F.S.A., 1889; F.B.A., 1903; independent works include 'A History of Greek Sculpture', 2 vols. 1880-3, 'Handbook of Archaeology', 1893, 'Greek Bronzes', 1898, and 'The Sculptures of the Parthenon', 1908.

MURRAY, CHARLES ADOLPHUS, seventh Earl of Dunmore (1841-1907), explorer; joined army, 1860; lord-in-waiting to Queen Victoria, 1874-80; explored Kashmir and Tibet, 1892; published account in 'The Pamirs', 1898; wrote 'Ordnale', a novel, 1893; joined Christian scientists late in life.

MURRAY, DAVID CHRISTIE (1847-1907), novelist and journalist; reporter to 'Birmingham Morning News' till 1865; parliamentary reporter for 'Daily News', 1871; contributed articles to 'Referee', collected as 'Guesses at Truth', 1908; travelled much on Continent and in colonies; represented 'The Times' in Rumania, Turkish war, 1877-8; a prolific and vigorous novelist; novels include 'Rainbow Gold', 1885, and 'Aunt Rachel', 1886; he published also 'A Novelist's Notebook', 1887, and 'Recollections', posthumous, 1908.

MURRAY, GEORGE ROBERT MILNE (1858-1911), botanist; assistant at British Museum, 1876; keeper of botanical department, 1895-1905; director of scientific staff of Captain E. F. Scott's Antarctic expedition, 1901; F.R.S., 1897; made special study of marine algae; wrote works on 'Cryptogamic Botany', 1889, and on seaweeds, 1896; edited 'Phycological Monographs', 1899.

MURRAY, SIR JAMES AUGUSTUS HENRY (1837-1915), lexicographer; educated at Cavers and Minto schools; headmaster of Hawick Subscription Academy, 1857; took up study of languages; on staff of Mill Hill School, 1870-85; B.A. London University, 1878; editor of 'New English Dictionary on Historical Principles' projected by Clarendon Press, 1879; removed to Oxford in order to devote himself to this work, 1885; conceived and settled some of greatest lexicographical achievements of present age, although his editorial responsibility only covered it (A.-D. H.-K. O. P. T.); edited Sir David Lyndesay's 'Works', 1871, 'The Complaynt of Scotland' and 'The Romance and Prophecies of Thomas of Errol-doune'; wrote 'Dialect of the Southern Counties of Scotland' (1873); F.B.A., 1901; knighted, 1908.

MURRAY, SIR JAMES WOLFE (1853-1919), lieutenant-general; entered army from Woolwich, 1872; engaged for many years in staff and extra-regimental service; K.O.B., for services in South African war, 1901; quartermaster-general in India and major-general, 1903; lieutenant-general, 1909; chief of Imperial General Staff, 1914.

MURRAY, SIR JOHN (1841-1914), marine naturalist and cartographer; born at Cobourg, Ontario; came to Scotland to complete his education, 1858; naturalist in charge of collections on 'Challenger' expedition directed by (Sir) O. W. Thomson (q.v.), 1872-3; chief assistant in 'Challenger Office', Edinburgh, 1878; director of office and editor of 'Report on the Scientific Results of the Voyage of H.M.S. Challenger' (1880-95), 1882-95; explored Faroe Channel, 1880-2; carried out bathymetrical survey of Scottish freshwater lochs, 1897-1905; leased, explored, and financed scientific expeditions to Christmas Island; explored North Atlantic, 1910; F.R.S. 1896; K.O.B., 1898; works include 'On the Origin and Structure of Coral Reefs and Islands' (1880), 'Deep Sea Deposits' (1891), and 'Depths of the Sea' (1913), the two latter in collaboration.

MURRAY, SIR JOHN (1861-1939), publisher; son of John Murray (1808-92, q.v.); entered father's publishing house, Albemarle Street, London; head of firm, 1897; edited 'Quarterly Review', 1922-3; K.C.V.O., 1904; his works include editions of Gibbon's 'Autobiography' (1897) and Byron's 'Correspondence' (1923).

MURRY, KATHLEEN (1868-1923), writer under the pseudonym of KATHERINE MANSFIELD; born in New Zealand; educated in England; married John Middleton Murry, the critic, 1918; died in France; her works include short stories, 'In a German Pension' (1911), 'Prelude' (1918), 'Je ne parle pas français' (1919), 'Bilias' (1920), 'The Garden Party' (1922), and two posthumous collections: 'Poems' (1925), 'Journal' (1927), 'Letters' (1928).

MUSGRAVE, SIR JAMES, baronet (1826-1904), benefactor of Belfast; established firm of iron founders in Belfast; chairman of Belfast harbour commission, 1887-1903; greatly improved harbour and constructed 'Musgrave Channel' and docks; founded Musgrave chair of pathology in Queen's College, Belfast, 1901; baronet, 1897.

MUYBRIDGE, RADWEARD (1830-1904), investigator of animal locomotion, whose original name was EDWARD JAMES MUGGERIDGE; born at Kingston-on-Thames; emigrated to America; as government director of photographic surveys, he proved that the trotting horse has at times all feet off the ground, 1872; published researches in 'The Horse in Motion', 1878; invented the 'zoopraxiscope', 1881, which projected animated pictures on a screen; published further researches in 'Animals in Locomotion' (profusely illustrated, 1887, abridged as 'Animals in Motion', 1899) and other works; led way to invention of cinematograph; bequeathed £5,000, with his zoopraxiscope and lantern slides, to Kingston public library.

MYERS, ERNEST JAMES (1844-1921), poet and translator; son of Rev. Frederic Myers [q.v.] and brother of F. W. H. Myers [q.v.]; B.A., Balliol College, Oxford; works include four volumes of verse (1877-1904), and prose translations of Pindar's 'Odes' (1874) and of last eight books of 'Iliad' (in collaboration, 1882); enthusiast for Greece.

NARES, SIR GEORGE STRONG (1831-1915), admiral and Arctic explorer; great-grandson of Sir George Nares [q.v.]; entered navy, 1845; captain of H.M.S. 'Challenger' dispatched by government to explore Southern oceans, 1873-4; led government Arctic expedition in 'Alert' and 'Discovery', 1875-6; F.R.S., 1876; K.C.B., 1876; rear-admiral, 1887; vice-admiral, 1892.

NEIL, ROBERT ALEXANDER (1852-1901), classical and Oriental scholar; graduate of Aberdeen University, 1870; hon. LL.D., 1891; scholar of Peterhouse, Cambridge; Craven University scholar, 1875; second classic, 1876; fellow of Pembroke College and successful classical lecturer there from 1876 to death; read Sanskrit with B. B. Cowell and with him edited the 'Divyāvadāna' (1886) and joined in translating the 'Jātaka' (6 vols. 1897-1907); university lecturer on Sanskrit, 1884; edited Aristophanes' 'Knights', 1901; interested in ancient and medieval architecture.

NEIL, SAMUEL (1828-1901), author; rector of Moffat Academy, 1859-73; edited 'Moffat Register', 1857, and 'British Controversialist' (40 vols., 1850-73); published works on philosophy, rhetoric, and elocution as well as 'Shakespeare: a Critical Biography', 1861, and 'Home of Shakespeare described', 1871; prominent in educational and philanthropic affairs in Edinburgh from 1873; helped to found Educational Institute of Scotland; edited 'The Home Teacher' (6 vols.), 1886.

NEILSON, GEORGE (1858-1923), historian and antiquary; procurator fiscal of police, Glasgow, 1891; stipendiary police magistrate of Glasgow, 1910; charter scholar and expert palaeographer; correspondent of F. W. Maitland [q.v.]; his works include 'Trial by Combat' (1890), 'Feet, its meaning and derivation' (1894), 'Annals of the Solway' (1899), 'John Harbour' (1900), and 'Huchown of the Auld Ryals' (1902); co-editor of 'Acta Dominirom Concilii, 1496-1501' (1918).

NEILSON, SIR HUGH MUIR (1858-1906), premier of Queensland; emigrated with father from Kilmarnock to Queensland, 1853; minister for railways, 1888-90; and treasurer, Oct. 1892-3; restored confidence after bank crisis of 1893; K.C.M.G., 1896; hon. D.C.L. Oxford and P.C., 1897; president of legislative council, 1898; Lieutenant-governor of Queensland; opposed Australian federation; died near Toowoomba.

NEUDA, WILMA MARIA FRANCISCA (1839-1911), violinist. [See HALL, LADY.]

NESTLÉ, EDITH (1858-1924), writer of children's books, poet, and novelist. [See BLAND, EDITH.]

NETTLESHP, EDWARD (1845-1913), ophthalmic surgeon; brother of Henry [q.v.], John Trivett [q.v.], and Richard Lewis Nettleship [q.v.]; student at Moorfields Eye Hospital; F.R.C.S., 1870; ophthalmic surgeon to St. Thomas's Hospital and surgeon to Royal London Ophthalmic Hospital; F.R.S., 1912.

NETTLESHP, JOHN TRIVETT (1841-1902), animal painter and author; brother of Edward [q.v.], Henry [q.v.], and Richard Lewis Nettleship [q.v.]; studied art at Heatherley's; executed black and white sketches of biblical scenes; exhibited studies of lions, tigers, &c., at Royal Academy, 1874-1901; painted in India a cheetah hunt for Gaekwar of Baroda, 1880; early admirer of Browning; published 'Essays on Robert Browning's Poetry', 1868 (new edit. 1895), and a volume on George Morland, 1888.

NEUBAUER, ADOLF (1833-1907), Orientalist; born at Kottos, Hungary; studied for rabbinate at Prague and Munich; studied medieval Jewish MSS. at Paris, 1857-68; published 'La Géographie du Talmud', 1868 (crowned by the French academy); catalogued Hebrew MSS. in the Bodleian, Oxford, 1868-86; sub-librarian of Bodleian, 1873-99; obtained for library many items from 'Geniseh' (i.e. synagogue depositories) at Osnaburg which he catalogued, 1886; edited from Bodleian and Hosen MSS. Arabic text of Hebrew dictionary of Abu'l-Walid (11th cent.), 1875; two volumes on French rabbis (1877, 1898) embodied much recondite research; reader in Rabbinic Hebrew at Oxford University, 1884-1900; other works include 'Medieval Jewish Chronicles', 2 vols. 1887-95; created M.A. Oxford, 1878; hon. fellow of Exeter College, 1890; hon. Ph.D. Heidelberg.

NEVILLE, HENRY (1837-1910), actor, whose full name was THOMAS HENRY GARTSIDE NEVILLE; first appeared in London at Lyceum, 1860; made reputation at Olympic Theatre, 1862-8; original Bob Brierley in 'The Ticket of Leave Man', 1868, Job Armoody in 'Lost in London', 1867, and Jean Valjean in 'The Yellow Passport'; his own version of 'Les Misérables', 1868; successful lessee of Olympic, 1873-9; original George Kingsmith in H. A. Jones's 'Saints and Sinners', 1884; thenceforth acted the romantic hero in melodrama; toured in America, 1890-1; taught acting and wrote about the stage.

NEWBOLT, WILLIAM CHARLES EDMUND (1844-1930), divine and preacher; B.A., Pembroke College, Oxford; ordained deacon for parish of Wantage, 1868; worked under W. J. Butler [q.v.]; vicar of Dymock, Gloucestershire, 1870-7; of Malvern Link, 1877-88; principal of Ely Theological College, 1887-90; canon of St. Paul's Cathedral, London, 1890-1930; an unswerving champion of Tractarian orthodoxy; chiefly to be remembered for his work for clergy; conducted retreats and heard confessions of priests; a leading speaker in Convocation.

NEWMAN, WILLIAM LAMBERT (1834-1923), scholar and philosopher; B.A., Balliol College, Oxford; Hertford scholar, 1853; Ireland scholar, 1854; fellow of Balliol, 1854; through his lectures exercised a unique influence on teaching of history and political economy at Oxford; retired to Cheltenham, owing to ill-health, 1870; published an edition of Aristotle (4 vols. 1887, 1902).

NEWMARCH, CHARLES HENRY (1824-1903), divine and author; wrote 'Recollections of Rugby', 1848, and 'Remains of Roman Art in Cirencester', 1850; B.A., Corpus Christi College, Cambridge, 1855; rector of Belton, Rutland, 1856-63.

NEWMAN, SIR GEORGE, first baronet (1851-1910), newspaper and magazine projector; at sixteen joined London firm of dealers in fancy goods; conceived and produced at Manchester successful weekly periodical, 'Tit-Bits', 1881; transferred publication to London, 1884; instituted prize competitions and insurance policies in connexion with the paper; brought out 'Strand Magazine', 1891; started the 'Westminster Gazette' as liberal organ, 1893; his firm became a limited company, 1891, and was reconstructed, 1897; liberal M.P. for Newmarket, 1895-96, and for Swansea, 1900-10; baronet, 1898; presented library buildings to Putney, 1897; fitted out Borchgrevink's Norwegian South Polar expedition, 1898; 'Life by Hilda Friederichs', 1911.

NEWTOM, ALFRED (1829-1907), zoologist; born at Geneva; B.A., Magdalene College, Cambridge, 1853; made ornithological researches in Lapland (with John Wolley, ornithologist, 1853 and 1858), in West Indies (1857), and Spitzbergen (1864); first professor of zoology at Cambridge, 1866-1907; pioneer of zoological study there; F.R.S., 1870; wrote 'Ornithology of Iceland', 1863, 'Ootheca Wolleryana', 1863-1902, 'Dictionary of Birds', 1892-6; edited 'Ibis' from 1865 to 1870.

NEWTOM, ERNEST (1856-1922), architect; entered office of R. N. Shaw [q.v.], 1873; began to work independently, 1879; mainly engaged on small suburban houses, 1879-89; his earliest important work, House of Retreat, Lloyd Square, Clerkenwell (1880); Bullers Wood, Chiselmurst (1889) a marked advance on stylistic tendency of good work of time; designed many country houses; president, Royal Institute of British Architects, 1914; R.A., 1919; O.B.E., 1920; serenity of his touch influenced contemporary English domestic architecture.

NICOLSON, SIR CHARLES, first baronet (1808-1908), chancellor of the University of Sydney, New South Wales; M.D. Edinburgh University, 1835; settled in Sydney, 1834; speaker of New South Wales, 1847-48; president of legislative council of new colony, Queensland, 1860; helped to found Sydney University; obtained royal charter, 1858; chancellor, 1854-62; knighted, 1852; baronet, 1859; returned for good to England, 1862; hon. D.C.L. Oxford, 1867; LL.D. Cambridge, 1868, Edinburgh, 1886.

NICOLSON, EDWARD WILLIAMS BYRON (1849-1915), scholar and librarian; B.A., Trinity College, Oxford; librarian of London Institution, 1873-82; Bodley's Librarian, Oxford, 1882-1912; thoroughly reorganized and greatly extended Bodleian Library; interests included biblical criticism, Celtic antiquities, comparative philology, folk-lore, music, palaeography, numismatics, athletics; wrote on many of these subjects.

NICOLSON, GEORGE (1847-1908), botanist; assistant at Kew, 1876; curator, 1886-1901; helped Sir Joseph Hooker to extend the arboretum at Kew, for which his own collection was purchased, 1889; his herbarium of British plants was presented to Aberdeen University; chief work was 'The Dictionary of Gardening', 4 vols. 1885-9, 3 suppl. vols. 1900-1.

NICOLSON, JOSEPH SHIELD (1850-1927), economist; B.A., King's College, London, and Trinity College, Cambridge; professor of political economy and mercantile law, Edinburgh University, 1880-1925; maintained highest Scottish traditions; obtained position of exceptional authority on questions of imperial economic policy, of currency, and banking; did much to bring academic life into touch with that of community; pioneer of economic history in Scotland; his main work, 'Principles of Political Economy' (1893-1901); his numerous minor writings constitute guide to economic controversies of half-century ending 1925.

NICOLSON, WILLIAM GUSTAVUS, BARON NICOLSON, of Roundhay (1845-1918), field-marshal; joined royal engineers from Woolwich, 1865; served almost continuously in India, 1871-99; K.C.B. and adjutant-general in India, 1893; director of transport in South African war and engaged in operations in Orange Free State and Transvaal, 1900; director of military operations, war office, 1901; chief British military attaché with Japanese army, 1904; quartermaster-general, 1905; general, 1906; chief of Imperial General Staff and G.C.B., 1908; field-marshal, 1911; baron, 1912.

NICOL, FRANKINE (1825-1904), painter; studied art at Trustees' Academy, Edinburgh; taught art at Dublin, 1846-50; settled in Edinburgh, 1850; A.R.S.A., 1851; R.S.A., 1859; came to London, 1862; exhibited at Royal Academy, 1851-79; A.R.A., 1866; painter in oils and water colours; depicted humours of Irish peasant life; chief works include 'Irish Merry Making', 1856, 'Donnybrook Fair, 1859, 'Unwillingly to School', 1877.

NICOLL, SIR WILLIAM ROBERTSON (1851-1923), journalist and man of letters; M.A. Aberdeen University, 1870; trained for Free Church ministry; ordained to first charge, Dufftown, Banffshire, 1874; moved to Kelso, 1877; resigned owing to ill-health, 1885; moved to London; editor of 'The Expositor', 1885-1923; of 'The British Weekly', which he made very influential, 1886-1923; founder and editor of 'The Bookman', 1891-1923; knighted for services to liberal party, 1909.

NICOLSON, ADELA FLORENCE (1865-1904), poetess under the pseudonym of LAURENCE HOPE; settled in India; married Malcolm Hassels Nicolson (q.v.), 1889; chief work was 'The Garden of Kama', 1901, lyrics showing Oriental passion; committed suicide.

NICOLSON, SIR ARTHUR, eleventh baronet, and first BARON CARNOCK (1849-1928), diplomatist; entered foreign office, 1870; assistant private secretary to Lord Granville, 1872; third secretary, Berlin, 1874; second secretary, Constantinople, 1879; secretary of legation, Teheran, 1886-8; consul-general, Budapest, 1888-93; secretary of embassy, Constantinople, 1893; minister, Tangier, 1895; ambassador, Madrid, 1904; British delegate, conference on Morocco, Algiers, 1905; ambassador, St. Petersburg, 1906; under-secretary of state for foreign affairs, 1910-16; advocated policy of keeping Russia in entente; created baron, 1916.

NICOLSON, MALCOLM HASSELS (1843-1904), general; entered Indian army, 1869; served in Abyssinian campaign, 1867-8, and in Afghan war, 1878-80; distinguished in Zhob valley campaign, 1890; O.B., 1891; lieutenant-general, 1899.

NIGHTINGALE, FLORENCE (1820-1910), reformer of hospital nursing; born in Florence; early engaged in cottage visiting and in nursing; visited hospitals in London and abroad from 1844 to 1855; toured in Egypt, 1849-50; inspected Roman Catholic schools and hospital at Alexandria; on way home she visited Kaiserswerth Institute for deaconesses and nurses, 1850; trained as sick nurse there, 1851; superintendent of Hospital for invalid Gentlewomen, Chandos Street, 1853; accepted invitation of Sidney Herbert, secretary for war, to take out nurses to Crimea soon after outbreak of Crimean war; reached Scutari, 4 Nov. 1854; known there as 'The Lady-in-chief'; by powers of organization and discipline she revolutionized the conditions at the barrack hospital; established kitchen and laundry, and looked after soldiers' wives and children; christened by wounded patients 'The Lady with the Lamp'; by sanitary reforms she lessened the cases of cholera, typhus, and dysentery; visited Balaklava hospitals, where she was attacked with fever, May 1855; returned to Scutari, and provided reading and recreation rooms for the soldiers; on return to England she visited Queen Victoria at Balmoral, Sept. 1856; Nightingale School and Home for Nurses established as memorial of her services at St. Thomas's Hospital, 1860; published 'Notes on . . . Hospital Administration of the British Army', 1857; was consulted by foreign governments in American civil war, 1862-4, and Franco-German war, 1870-1; prominent in establishing nursing home in Liverpool Infirmary, 1862, the East London Nursing Society, 1868, the Workhouse Nursing Association, 1874, and the Queen's Jubilee Nursing Institute, 1890; familiar, through correspondence, with all phases of Indian social life, she powerfully advocated native education and village sanitation; her 'Notes on Nursing', 1860, went through many editions; received Order of Merit, 1907, freedom of City of London, 1908, and honours from Germany, France, and Norway; raised nursing to an honoured vocation in England; a memorial tablet set up on her birthplace at Florence; portraits by A. L. Egg, R.A. (in National Portrait Gallery), Sir W. B. Richmond, R.A. (at Claydon House), and by Countess Feodora Gleichen (at Windsor Castle).

NIXON, SIR JOHN ECCLES (1857-1921), general; entered army from Sandhurst, 1875; served with 18th Bengal cavalry, 1878-1903; served on staff in Chitral relief force, 1895; in Tochi field force, 1897-8; served in South African war, 1901-2; C.B., 1902; returned to India on conclusion of war; second-class district commander, 1903; inspector-general of cavalry, 1906; divisional commander, 1908; lieutenant-general, 1909; K.C.B., 1911; general-officer-commanding Southern army of India, 1913; general, 1914; transferred to command of Northern army, 1915; after entry of Turkey into European war appointed to command Mesopotamian expedition, 1915; secured control of Basra vilayet; Kut occupied (Sept.); being satisfied of sufficiency of his forces, received permission from home government to advance on Bagdad (Oct.); failed in attempt to relieve (Sir) Charles V. F. Townshend [q.v.], who, after being defeated at Ctesiphon (Nov.), was besieged in Kut (Dec. 1915-April 1916); relinquished command, Jan. 1916; summoned to appear before Mesopotamia commission of inquiry in England (Aug.); received largest share of blame for failure of expedition on account of his undue optimism, but his explanation accepted as satisfactory by Army Council, 1918; G.O.M.G., 1919.

NOBLE, SIR ANDREW, first baronet (1831-1915), physicist, and artilleryist; served with royal artillery, 1849-60; secretary to committees formed to investigate new rifled breech-loading field gun advocated by (Lord) Armstrong [q.v.], 1858; partner in Armstrong's Elswick Ordnance Company, 1860; chairman of Armstrong, Whitworth & Co., 1900-15; K.C.B., 1893; baronet, 1902; carried out important experiments in gunnery and explosives to which are due exact science of ballistics and revolution in composition of gunpowder and design of guns.

NODAL, JOHN HOWARD (1831-1900), journalist and writer on dialect; of quaker parentage; sub-editor of 'Manchester Courier', 1864, and of 'Manchester City News', 1871-1904; on staff of 'Saturday Review' 1874-85; compiled (with George Milner) 'Glossary of the Lancashire Dialect', 3 parts, 1875-82, and 'Bibliography of Acworth School', 1889.

ACWORTH, fifteenth DUKE OF (1847-1917). [See HOWARD, HENRY PITKALAN.]

NORMAN, CONOLLY (1853-1908), alienist; F.R.C.S. Ireland, 1876; F.R.O.P. Ireland, 1890; made special study of insanity; medical superintendent of the Richmond Asylum, Dublin, 1886-1908; introduced humane methods and advocated system of boarding out; hon. LL.D. Dublin University, 1907.

NORMAN, SIR FRANCIS BOOTH (1830-1901), Lieutenant-general; joined Bengal army, 1848; served in Indian Mutiny, in Bhutan and Hasara campaigns, 1868, and in Afghan war, 1878-80; present at battle of Kandahar, 1880; C.B.; commanded brigade in Burmese war, 1885-6; K.C.B., 1886; major-general, 1889.

NORMAN, SIR WYLLIE WYLLIE (1826-1904), field-marshal and administrator; went out from London to his father, who was in business in Calcutta, 1843; joined Bengal army, 1844; took active part in Sikh war, 1848-9; served in Kohat pass expedition, 1850; conspicuous in actions round Delhi, and at Aligarh and Agre, 1857; proceeded with Sir Colin Campbell to relief of Lucknow; present at battle of Cawnpore, Dec. 1857, and at capture of Lucknow, March 1858; in campaign in Oudh, 1858-9; C.B., 1859; A.D.C. to Queen Victoria, 1863-9; major-general, 1869; first secretary to Indian government in military department, 1869-70; member of governor-general's council, 1870-7; opposed to Lord Lytton's forward policy and resigned, 1877; K.C.B., 1873; Lieutenant-general, 1877; member of council of India, 1878-83; general, 1883; governor of Jamaica, 1883-9; tactfully settled constitutional crisis; G.O.M.G. and G.C.B., 1887; governor of Queensland, 1889-95; declined governor-generalship of India, 1893; president of royal commission on conditions of West India sugar-growing colonies, 1896; governor of Chelsea Hospital, 1901-4; field-marshal, 1902; 'Life' by Sir W. Lee-Warner, 1908.

NORMAN-WERUDA, WILMA MARIA FRANCISCA (1839-1911), violinist. [See HALL, LADY.]

NORTHROCK, first EARL OF (1836-1904), statesman. [See BARING, THOMAS GEORGE.]

NORTHSHILL, VISCOUNT (1845-1922), journalist and newspaper proprietor. [See HARMSWORTH, ALFRED CHARLES WILLIAM.]

NORTHCOTE, HENRY STAFFORD, BARON NORTHCOTE, of Exeter (1846-1911), governor-general of the Australian Commonwealth; son of first earl of Iddesleigh [q.v.]; educated at Eton and Merton College, Oxford; B.A., 1869; M.A., 1873; clerk in foreign office, 1868; secretary to British members of the claims commission at Washington relating to the Alabama, 1871-3; private secretary to his father when chancellor of exchequer, 1877-80; conservative M.P. for Exeter, 1880-99; financial secretary to war office, 1885-6; surveyor-general of ordnance, 1886-7; C.B., 1880; baronet, 1887; governor of Bombay, 1899-1903; raised to peerage and G.C.I.B., 1900; efficiently dealt with plague and famine, and preserved the fine Gursaj breed of cattle; passed useful measures of land revenue reform, and District Municipalities Act; governor-general of Australian Commonwealth, 1903-7; G.O.M.G., 1904; travelled widely through Commonwealth and encouraged immigration; P.C., 1909.

NORTHCOTE, JAMES SPENCER (1831-1907), president of Oscott College and archaeologist; B.A. Corpus Christi College, Oxford (first class classic), 1841; M.A., 1844; ordained, 1844; joined Roman communion, 1846; in Italy studied Christian archaeology, 1847-50; editor of 'Rambler', 1852-4; ordained priest, 1855; canon of St. Chad's Cathedral Church, Birmingham, 1860; provost of cathedral chapter, 1884; president of Oscott College, 1861-77; remodelled studies on public school lines; chief work was 'Roma Sotterranea', 1869, the standard English treatise on the catacombs.

NORTHUMBRLAND, eighth DUKE OF (1830-1893). [See FERRY, ALAN IAN.]

NORTON, first BARON (1814-1906), statesman. [See ADDERLEY, CHARLES ROWLEY.]

NORTON, JOHN (1823-1904), architect; pupil of Benjamin Ferrey [q.v.]; hon. secretary of Arundel Society, 1848-58; had large practice in domestic and ecclesiastical buildings; worked in Gothic style.

NORTON-GRIFFITHS, SIR JOHN, first baronet (1871-1930), engineer; engineer in South Africa; served in South African war, 1899-1902; in England founded firm of Griffiths & Co., public works contractors; conservative M.P., Wednesbury, 1910-18; Wandsworth Central, 1918-24; organised and equipped second regiment of King Edward's horse, Aug. 1914; organised, and served with, coal-miners and other underground workers for military purposes in European war; sent on special mission to Rumania, 1916; K.O.B., 1917; baronet, 1922; died near Alexandria.

NOVELLO, CLARA ANASTASIA (1818-1908), oratorio and operatic prima donna; daughter of Vincent Novello [q.v.]; studied music in Paris; first appeared in public at Windsor, 1833; admired by Charles Lamb; praised by Mendelssohn and Schumann; able interpreter of Handel's solos; sang much in Germany and Italy, where she was immensely popular; original soprano soloist in Rossini's 'Stabat Mater'; appeared in English opera, 1843; married Count Gleditsch, 1843; specially distinguished for rendering of 'I know that my Redeemer liveth' in Handel's 'Messiah'; retired 1860; lived in Rome and Fermo; wrote 'Reminiscences,' published in 1910.

NUNBURGHOLME, first BARON (1833-1907), ship-owner and politician. [See WILSON, CHARLES HENRY.]

NUNN, JOSHUA ARTHUR (1853-1908), colonel, army veterinary service; M.R.C.V.S., 1877; F.R.C.V.S., 1886; served as veterinary surgeon in Afghan war, 1879-80; reported on diseases of cattle for Punjab government, 1880-5; principal of Lahore veterinary school, 1890-8; C.I.E., 1895; principal veterinary officer in England (eastern command), 1904-5, in South Africa, 1905-6, and India, 1906-7; C.B., 1906; works include 'Stable Management in India', 1896, and 'Veterinary Toxicology', 1907.

MUTT, ALFRED TRÜBNER (1866-1910), publisher, folk-loreist, and Celtic scholar; became head of father's foreign book-selling and publishing firm in London, 1878; publisher of 'Tudor Library,' 'Tudor Translations,' and works by W. E. Henley and fairy tale collections; founded the 'Folklore Journal'; president of 'Folklore Society,' 1897-8; helped to found Irish Texts Society, 1898; published 'Studies on the Legend of the Holy Grail,' 1888, and many papers on Celtic folklore.

MUTTALL, ENOS (1842-1916), bishop of Jamaica, primate and first archbishop of the West Indies; went to Jamaica as lay Wesleyan missionary, 1862; took Anglican orders, 1866; contributed important share to reorganisation of disestablished Church of England in Jamaica; bishop of Jamaica, 1880; primate of West Indies, 1893; styled archbishop, 1897.

OAKLEY, SIR HERBERT STANLEY (1830-1903), musical composer; son of Sir Herbert Oakley, third baronet [q.v.]; B.A., Christ Church, Oxford, 1853; M.A., 1856; Reid professor of music in Edinburgh University, 1865-91; knighted, 1876; prolific composer of vocal and instrumental music; wrote hymn tunes 'Edina,' 1862, and 'Abends,' 1871.

OATES, LAWRENCE EDWARD GRACE (1860-1912), Antarctic explorer; entered army, 1900; captain, 1906; joined Antarctic expedition led by Captain B. F. Scott, R.N. [q.v.], 1910; member of sledging party which reached South Pole, Jan. 1912; on the return journey 'walked willingly to his death in a blizzard to try and save his comrades beset by hardships.'

O'BRIEN, CHARLOTTE GRACE (1845-1909), Irish author and social reformer; lived at Brussels with father, William Smith O'Brien [q.v.], 1854-6; wrote much on Irish politics; urged improved steamship accommodation for Irish emigrant girls; works include a novel, 'Light and Shade,' 1878, and 'Lyrics,' 1880, and articles on flora of Shannon district; 'Selections' appeared in 1909.

O'BRIEN, CORNELIUS (1843-1906), Roman Catholic archbishop of Halifax, Nova Scotia, from 1889; born in Prince Edward Island; studied for priesthood in Rome, 1864-71; rector of cathedral of Charlottetown, 1871-4; founded collegiate school in Halifax, the germ of the future university; president of Royal Society of Canada, 1896; published theological works and novels.

O'NEILL, IGNATIUS JOHN BARON SHANDOWN (1847-1930), lord chancellor of Ireland; called to Irish bar, 1881; his success ensured by defence of Canon Keller, parish priest of Youghal, 1887; Q.O., 1889; sympathised with liberal government; sergeant-at-law, 1910; solicitor-general for Ireland, 1911; attorney-general and P.O. for Ireland, 1912; lord chancellor, 1913; baronet, 1916; ousted from chancellorship by conservative pressure, 1918; baron, 1918; moved to England; called to English bar (Middle Temple), 1928.

O'BRIEN, JAMES FRANÇOIS XAVIER (1828-1905), Irish politician; studied medicine in Paris; at New Orleans enlisted in William Walker's expedition to Nicaragua, 1856; met James Stephens [q.v.] at New Orleans and joined local Fenian organization, 1868; assistant surgeon in American civil war, 1861; arrested in Fenian rising near Cork, March 1867; death sentence for treason commuted to penal servitude; released, March 1869; nationalist M.P. for South Mayo, 1868-96; and for Cork city from 1896 till death; succeeded from Parnell, 1891; was general secretary of United Irish League of Great Britain.

O'BRIEN, PETER, BARON O'BRIEN, of Kilfenora (1842-1914), lord chief justice of Ireland; called to Irish bar, 1868; Q.C., 1880; sergeant, 1884; solicitor-general, 1887; attorney-general, 1888; lord chief justice, 1889-1913; baronet, 1891; baron, 1900.

O'BRIEN, WILLIAM (1852-1928), Irish nationalist leader; editor of 'United Ireland', organ of Land League movement, 1881; imprisoned and journal suppressed, 1881-2; nationalist M.P., Mallow, 1883; with John Dillon [q.v.] started 'plan of campaign', 1886; again imprisoned, 1887; M.P. North-east Cork, 1887-92; arrested, but escaped to U.S.A., 1890; refused to succeed Parnell as leader, 1890; M.P., Cork city, 1892; attempted to solve Irish problem by conciliation and union of all classes, creeds, and political parties; convened Land Conference, which led to Land Purchase Act (1903), 1902; left Irish parliamentary party; M.P., Cork city, 1910; founded 'All for Ireland' League, supported by independent parliamentary party; retired with followers at general election, 1918.

O'CALLAGHAN, SIR FRANCIS LANGFORD (1839-1909), civil engineer; entered public works department of India, 1862; C.I.E., 1883; constructed railway through Bolan pass to Quetta, and made C.S.I., 1887; chief engineer and consulting engineer for state railways, 1889; secretary to public works department, 1892-4; K.C.M.G., 1902; M.I.C.E., 1872.

O'CONNOR, CHARLES YELVERTON (1843-1909), civil engineer; emigrated to New Zealand, 1865; under secretary for public works, 1883-90; marine engineer for colony, 1890-1; engineer-in-chief to Western Australia, 1891-1902; constructed Fremantle harbour, 1892-1902; and Coolgardie water supply, 1898-1903; C.M.G., 1897; wrote reports on his chief undertakings.

O'CONNOR, JAMES (1836-1910), Irish journalist and politician; an early Fenian; imprisoned for sedition, 1866-70; sub-editor of 'United Ireland', 1881; imprisoned in Kilmainham, Dec. 1881; edited anti-Parnellite 'Weekly Nationalist Press', 1887; nationalist M.P. for West Wicklow, 1892-1910; published 'Recollections of Richard Pigott', 1889.

O'CONNOR, THOMAS POWER (1848-1929), journalist and politician; B.A., Queen's College, Galway; took up journalism; employed in London office of 'New York Herald'; Parnellite M.P., Galway, 1880; M.P. Scotland division of Liverpool, 1885-1929; founded 'T.P.'s Weekly', 1902; as journalist, not publicist but observer and chronicler of life; as parliamentarian, subordinate member for Irish party which he served by ready pen; first president, British Film Censors, 1917.

O'CONNOR, CHARLES OWEN, styled THE O'CONNOR DON (1838-1906), Irish Roman Catholic politician; liberal M.P. for Roscommon county, from 1860 till 1880; frequently spoke on Irish education and land tenure; hon. LL.D. Royal University of Ireland, 1899; mainly responsible for Irish Sunday Closing Act, 1879; active member of Beesborough land commission, 1880; chairman of royal commission on financial relations between Great Britain and Ireland, 1896; Irish P.O., 1881; president of Royal Irish Academy and Irish Language Society.

O'CONNOR, SIR NICHOLAS RODERICK (1843-1908), diplomatist; entered diplomatic service, 1866; served under Lord Lyons in Paris, 1877-83; secretary of legation at Peking, 1885; successfully negotiated difficulties with China in regard to temporary British occupation of Port Hamilton, 1885, and annexation of Upper Burma, 1886; O.M.G. and C.B., 1886; consul-general in Bulgaria, 1887; concluded commercial treaty between Great Britain and Bulgaria, 1889; envoy to Emperor of China at Peking, 1893; active in negotiations with powers after China-Japanese war, 1894-5; K.C.B., 1896; ambassador at St.

Petersburg, 1895; attended coronation of Tsar Nicholas II, 1896; G.C.M.G. and P.O., 1896; had disagreement with Russian foreign minister in regard to Russian lease from China of Port Arthur, 1897; G.C.B., 1897; transferred to Constantinople, 1898-1908; settled Turco-Egyptian boundary in Sinaitic peninsula, and British frontier in hinterland of Aden; died at Constantinople.

O'DOHERTY, KEVIN (1820-1905), Irish and Australian politician; contributed to 'Nation', 1848; transported for treason to Australia, 1849; pardoned, 1856; took medical degrees in Ireland, 1857 and 1859; settled in Brisbane; member of Queensland legislative assembly and of legislative council, 1877-80; nationalist M.P. for North Meath, 1885-8; returned to Brisbane, 1888, where he died in poverty.

O'DOHERTY, MARY ANNE (1826-1910), Irish poetess; born KELLY; wife of K. I. O'Doherty [q.v.]; as 'Eva' wrote Irish patriotic verse for 'Nation' and other Irish papers; 'Poems' published at San Francisco, 1877; 'Selections', 1908; died at Brisbane.

O'DONNELL, PATRICK (1856-1927), cardinal; educated at Catholic University, Maynooth; ordained priest, 1880; professor of theology, Maynooth, 1880; bishop of Raphoe, 1888-1925; archbishop of Armagh, 1924; cardinal, 1925; presided at national convention, 1900; supported policy of John Redmond [q.v.] during European war, 1914-18.

OSLE, JOHN WILLIAM (1824-1905), physician; B.A., Trinity College, Oxford, 1847; M.A. and B.M.; 1851; D.M., 1857; F.R.C.P., 1858; vice-president, 1884; physician to St. George's Hospital, 1866-76; made special study of nervous diseases; founded 'St. George's Hospital Reports', 1866; contributed largely to medical journals.

O'SHAUGHNESSY, JOHN (1821-1905), Irish biographer and historian; writer; emigrated to Quebec, 1842; ordained Roman Catholic missionary priest at Missouri, 1847; returned to Ireland, 1853; Irish priest of St. Mary's, Irishtown, 1880-1905; canon, 1886; wrote 'The Lives of the Irish Saints', 10 vols., 1875-1905, 'Life and Scenery in Missouri', 1890, and poems.

O'SHEA, KEVIN CHRISTOPHER (1892-1927), Irish statesman; Sinn Féin M.P., Queen's County, 1918; assistant minister for local government in revolutionary ministry, 1919; minister for economic affairs in provisional government of Arthur Griffith [q.v.], 1922; vice-president of executive council and minister for justice, 1922; established Civic Guard, 1922, new judiciary, 1924; aimed at free and undivided Ireland within British Commonwealth; assassinated near Dublin.

OLDHAM, HENRY (1815-1902), obstetric physician; studied medicine at Guy's Hospital; M.R.O.S., 1837; F.R.O.P., 1857; M.D. St. Andrews, 1858; physician, accoucheur and lecturer on midwifery at Guy's Hospital, 1849-69; president of Obstetrical Society of London, 1863-5. His nephew, CHARLES JAMES OLDHAM (1843-1907), ophthalmic surgeon at Brighton, was an educational benefactor.

OLEARY, JOHN (1830-1907), Fenian leader; while law student of Trinity College, Dublin, he was imprisoned for share in attack on police near Clonmel, 1848; studied medicine at Queen's College, Galway, 1851-5; contributed to 'Nation'; joined advanced Fenian movement, and went to America in its behalf, 1859; edited in Dublin Fenian weekly journal 'Irish People', 1863; paper seized by government, and O'Leary with others was arrested, 1865; he spent nine years in prison; retired to Paris, 1874; returned to Dublin, 1885, where he was prominent in literary society; published 'Recollections of Fenians and Fenianism', 1896.

OLIVER, SAMUEL PASFIELD (1838-1907), geographer and antiquary; joined royal artillery, 1859; served in China; toured in Japan, 1861; explored Madagascar, closely studying its history and ethnology, 1862-3; joined exploring expedition to Central America, 1867; made archaeological explorations in Brittany, 1868, on the Mediterranean coasts, 1872, and Cornwall, 1878; resigned commission, 1878; F.R.G.S., 1866; F.S.A., 1874; published 'On and Off Duty', 1881, 'Madagascar and the Malagasy', 1866, and 'Madagascar', 2 vols., 1886; compiled abridged official accounts of 'The Second Afghan War, 1878-80', 1906, and edited journals of early travel.

OLIPHANT, SIR WILLIAM (1823-1902), general; joined Bengal artillery, 1839; distinguished himself at Jhina Ghat, 1845, and Gwalior campaign, 1845; raised battery of horse artillery and marched across India to join Sir Charles Napier in Sind; commanded battery at Peshawar in expedition against frontier tribes, 1851; served in Crimean war, 1854, and throughout Indian Mutiny, 1857-9; distinguished for great bravery during relief of Lucknow; lieutenant-colonel, V.C., and C.B., 1858; in expedition against Waziris gained sobriquet of 'Hell-fire Jack,' 1859-60; held commands at Peshawar, Gwalior, Ambala, and Lucknow, 1861-75; major-general, 1877; general, 1883; colonel, commandant of royal artillery, 1888; K.C.B., 1888; G.C.B., 1900.

OSMANNEY, SIR ERASMUS (1814-1904), admiral; entered navy, 1836; took part in battle of Navarino, 1827; served under Captain James Clark Ross [q. v.] in Baffin's Bay, 1836; commander, 1840; captain, 1846; second in command of Franklin search expedition, 1850; organized system of sledge journeys; discovered first traces of Franklin's fate, Aug. 1850; received Arctic medal, 1851; during Crimean war blockaded Archangel, 1854; did blockade work in Gulf of Riga, 1855; in West Indies, 1857, and in Mediterranean, 1859; C.B., 1867; F.R.S., 1868; vice-admiral, 1871; knighted, 1877; admiral, 1877; K.C.B., 1902.

OSMANNEY, GEORGE DRUCE WYNNIE (1819-1902), theologian; brother of Sir E. Osmanney [q. v.]; B.A., Trinity College, Cambridge, 1842; M.A., 1845; vicar of Draycot, 1875-88; prebendary of Wells, 1884; voluminous and lucid writer on Achanian creed.

OSLOW, WILLIAM HILLIER, fourth EARL OF OSLOW (1853-1911), governor of New Zealand; educated at Eton and Exeter College, Oxford; conservative under-secretary of state for colonies, 1887; parliamentary secretary to board of trade, 1888; delegate to sugar bounties conference, 1887-8; K.O.M.G., 1887; governor of New Zealand, 1889-99; G.O.M.G., 1889; under-secretary of state for India, 1895-1900; and for colonies, 1900-3; joined cabinet as president of board of agriculture, and P.C. 1903; chairman of committees in House of Lords, 1905-11; president of Royal Statistical Society, 1905-6; alderman of London county council, 1896-9.

OFFENHEIM, LASSA FRANCIS LAWRENCE (1858-1919), jurist; born near Frankfurt-on-Main; settled in London, 1885; naturalized, 1900; Whewell professor of international law, Cambridge, 1908-19; chief work, 'International Law: A Treatise' (1905-6).

OSCHARDSON, SIR WILLIAM QUILLER (1832-1910), artist; fellow student with Tom Graham [q. v.] and John Pettie [q. v.] at Trustees' Academy, Edinburgh, under Scott, Lauder [q. v.]; exhibited at Royal Scottish Academy, from 1848; painted historical pictures; his 'Challenged' (1865) first brought him fame; exhibited Shakespearean subjects, 1865-74; A.R.A., 1868; visited Venice, 1870, painting Venetian subjects, 1870-4; exhibited at Academy 'The Queen of the Swords,' 1877; R.A. 1877; thenceforth his main subjects were either dramatic episodes of social life or incidents from careers of the great; they comprised 'The Social Eddy,' 1878, 'Hard Hit,' 1879, and 'Napoleon on Board the Bellerophon,' 1880, the 'Mariage de Convenience' series, 1884 and 1886, 'The First Cloud,' 1887; he also won success as portrait painter, showing appreciation of character and subtle draughtsmanship; hon. R.S.A., 1871; D.C.L. Oxford, 1890; knighted, 1907; memorial exhibition of his work at Royal Academy winter exhibition, 1911.

ORD, WILLIAM MILLER (1834-1902), physician; studied at St. Thomas's Hospital medical school, 1852; M.B. London, 1857; M.D., 1877; F.R.C.P., 1878; dean of medical school, 1876-87; physician, 1877-98; elucidated diseases known as myxoedema; gave Bradshaw lecture on subject at Royal College of Physicians, 1898; president of Medical Society of London, 1885; contributed much to medical literature; a foremost clinical teacher.

O'REIL, MAX (pseudonym) (1848-1903), humorous writer. [See BLOUNT, LEON PAUL.]

OSMEROD, ELEANOR ANNE (1828-1901), economic entomologist; daughter of George Osmerod [q. v.]; helped Royal Horticultural Society in forming collection of economic entomology, 1868; first woman fellow of Meteorological Society, 1878; published twenty-four 'Annual Reports of Observations of Injurious Insects,' 1877-1900; led useful crusade against insect pests; consulting entomologist to Royal Agricultural Society, 1882-92; lecturer at Royal Agricultural College, Cirencester, 1881-4; hon. LL.D. Edinburgh, 1900; her publications include 'Guide to the Methods of Insect Life,' 1884, 'A Text Book of Agricultural Entomology,' 1892, and 'Handbook of Insects Injurious to Orchard and Bush Fruits,' 1898; benefactor to Edinburgh University; 'Autobiography' published, 1904.

ORR, ALEXANDRA SUTHERLAND (1828-1903), biographer of Browning; sister of Lord Leighton [q. v.]; married Sutherland George Gordon Orr, 1867; in India during Mutiny; settled in London, 1869; became intimate with Browning, whom she first met in Paris in 1855; generously supported Browning Society, 1881; published 'Handbook to the Works of Robert Browning,' 1885 (6th edit. 1892), and his 'Life and Letters,' 1891 (revised edit. 1908).

OSBORNE, WALTER FREDERICK (1859-1903), painter; studied art at Royal Hibernian Academy Schools and Antwerp; painted field and street life in England, Ireland, and Brittany; regularly exhibited at Royal Hibernian and Royal Academies; made sketches in Spain, 1895, and Holland, 1896; R.H.A., 1886; works include 'A Cottage Garden' (in National Gallery of Ireland), 'Life in the Streets,' 1902 (Chantry bequest), and many good portraits.

O'SHEA, JOHN AUGUSTUS (1839-1906), Irish journalist; educated at Catholic University, Dublin; Paris correspondent of 'Irishman,' conducted by Richard Pigott [q. v.]; special correspondent to 'Standard,' 1869-94; reported siege of Paris, Carlist war, and Bengal famine; published experiences in 'An Iron-bound City,' 2 vols. 1886, 'Roundabout Recollections,' 2 vols. 1892, and other works.

O'SHEA, WILLIAM HENRY (1840-1903), Irish politician; married Katharine Page Wood, 1867; made acquaintance of Parnell, 1880; home ruler M.P. for County Clare, 1880-5; attempted compromise between Parnell and liberal leaders, 1882-4; was returned through Parnell's influence M.P. for Galway, 1886; obtained (Nov. 1890) divorce from wife, who married Parnell, the co-respondent, June 1891.

OSLER, ABRAHAM FOLLETT (1808-1903), meteorologist; managed from 1831 father's Birmingham glass business; made first self-recording pressure plate anemometer and rain gauge, 1835; invention adopted at Greenwich (1841) and elsewhere; applied self-recording method to cup anemometer for measuring horizontal motion of the air; examined hourly and diurnal variations of the wind; showed relation of atmospheric disturbances to the great trade winds; set up in Birmingham standard clock with transit instrument and astronomical clock, 1842; devised instrument for craniometry; F.R.S., 1855; benefactor to Birmingham University.

OSLER, SIR WILLIAM, baronet (1849-1919), regius professor of medicine at Oxford; nephew of Edward Osler [q. v.]; born at Bond Heath, Ontario; studied medicine at universities of Toronto and McGill, Montreal; professor of institutes of medicine, McGill, 1874-84; professor of medicine, university of Pennsylvania (Philadelphia), 1884-9; professor of medicine Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore, 1889-1904; built up there first organized clinical unit in any Anglo-Saxon country; combined best features of English and German systems; F.R.C.P., 1884; F.R.S., 1898; regius professor of medicine at Oxford, 1904-19; baronet, 1911; principal work, 'The Principles and Practice of Medicine' (1891, 9th edit. 1920); a great teacher and man of wide sympathies.

O'SULLIVAN, CORNELIUS (1841-1907), brewers' chemist; studied at Royal School of Mines; student assistant to Prof. A. W. von Hofmann, chemist; became head of analytical staff of Messrs. Bass & Co., Burton-on-Trent; voluminous writings on technology of brewing include 'On Maltose,' 1876, and 'Presence of Raffinose in Barley,' 1886; elucidated distinct character of maltose; F.R.S., 1885.

OTTE, ELISE (1818-1903), scholar and historian; born at Copenhagen; step-daughter of Benjamin Thorpe [q. v.], who taught her Anglo-Saxon and Icelandic; published 'History of Scandinavia,' 1874, and Danish and Swedish grammars and translations.

OUIDA (pseudonym) (1839-1908), novelist. [See DE LA RAMPE, MARIE LOUISE.]

OVERTON, JOHN HENRY (1835-1903), canon of Peterborough and church historian; educated at Rugby and Lincoln College, Oxford; B.A., 1858; M.A., 1860; prebendary of Lincoln Cathedral, 1879; rector of Epworth, 1885-98, and of Gumley from 1898 till death; hon. D.D. Edinburgh, 1889; canon of Peterborough, 1903; voluminous writings include 'The English Church in the 18th Century' (with C. J. Abbey, vols. 1878), 'The Evangelical Revival in the 18th Century,' 1886, and biographies of William Law, 1881, John Wesley, 1891, and 'The Nonjurors,' 1902.

OVERTOUN, BARON (1843-1908), Scottish churchman and philanthropist. [See WHITE, JOHN CAMPBELL.]

OWEN, JOHN (1854-1926), bishop of St. David's; B.A., Jesus College, Oxford; educated as Calvinistic Methodist, but joined English Church, 1879; professor of Welsh and lecturer in classics, St. David's College, Lampeter, 1879; ordained deacon, 1879; priest, 1880; warden and headmaster, Llandovery College, 1888-9; dean of St. Asaph, 1889; took active part in 'tithe war', 1890; principal of St. David's College, Lampeter, 1892; active in establishing university of Wales and in drafting its charter; secured new charter for Lampeter; bishop of St. David's, 1897-1926; greatly improved conditions in large, poor, and difficult diocese; largely instigated passing of parliamentary Default Bill, which resulted in county councils accepting Education Act of 1902; laboured incessantly in opposition to disestablishment of Welsh Church, 1906-14; on accomplishment of disestablishment accepted situation courageously and helped to refashion Church's constitution, 1915-19; active in procuring passing of Welsh Church Temporalities Act, which greatly mitigated severity of original Act, 1919; conducted proceedings in parish church of Llandrindod when bishop of St. Asaph was elected first archbishop and metropolitan of Wales; devoted himself to building up Church in Wales, 1920-6; reluctantly consented to division of his diocese by creation of diocese of Swansea and Brecon, 1923; endowed with exceptional energy and burning enthusiasm.

OWEN, ROBERT (1820-1902), theologian; B.A., Jesus College, Oxford, 1842; M.A., 1845; B.D., 1862; fellow, 1846-64; accepted tractarian view of catholic Church of England; advocated its disestablishment and disendowment; published 'An Introduction to the Study of Dogmatic Theology', 1858, 'Institutes of Canon Law', 1864, and 'The Kymry', 1891.

OXFORD AND ASQUITH, first EARL OF (1852-1928), statesman. [See ASQUITH, HERBERT HENRY.]

PAGE, H. A. (pseudonym) (1837-1905), author and publisher. [See JAPP, ALEXANDER HAY.]

PAGET, FRANCIS (1851-1911), bishop of Oxford; son of Sir James Paget, first baronet [q.v.]; educated at Shrewsbury and Christ Church, Oxford; Hertford scholar and chancellor's Latin verse prizeman; B.A., 1873; M.A., 1876; D.D., 1885; tutor, 1876; regius professor of pastoral theology and canon of Christ Church, 1886-92; contributed an essay on 'Sacraments' to 'Lux Mundi', 1889; dean of Christ Church, 1892-1901; bishop of Oxford, 1901-11; declined see of Winchester, 1903; member of commission on ecclesiastical discipline, 1904-6; published introduction to Hooker's 'Ecclesiastical Polity', Bk. v., 1899, 'Faculties and Difficulties for Belief and Disbelief', 1887, 'The Spirit of Discipline', 1891, and other sermons; memoir by Stephen Paget and J. M. O. Crum, 1912.

PAGET, SIDNEY EDWARD (1860-1908), painter and illustrator; studied art at schools of Royal Academy, where he exhibited, 1879-1905; works include 'Lancelot and Elaine' and portraits of Lord Winterstoke and Dr. Weymouth; illustrated in black and white in English and American magazines.

PAGET, STEPHEN (1856-1926), biographer and essayist; son of Sir James Paget [q.v.]; and brother of Francis Paget [q.v.]; B.A., Christ Church, Oxford; F.R.C.S., 1886; practised surgery until 1897; won confidence as secretary to association of physicians and surgeons formed to watch working of 1877 Act concerning experiments on animals, 1888; published 'Experiments on Animals' (1900); founded Research Defence Society, 1908; literary works include 'Memoirs and Letters of Sir James Paget' (1899), 'Francis Paget' (in collaboration, 1912), 'Henry Scott Holland' (1921), and several volumes of essays.

PAIN, BARRY ERIC ODELL (1864-1928), humorist; B.A., Corpus Christi College, Cambridge; became well known as a novelist and writer of short stories, mainly of a humorous character; his works include 'Eliza' (the first of a series, 1900), 'Mrs. Murphy' (1913), and 'Edwards' (1916).

PAKEWELL, SIR FRANCIS JOHN (1833-1906), diplomatist; secretary of legation at Buenos Ayres, 1864; served at Rio de Janeiro, Stockholm, Brussels, Washington, and Copenhagen, 1866-78; consul-general at Santiago, 1878-86; British commissioner for claims after war between Chile and Bolivia and Peru, 1883; envoy at Buenos Ayres, 1888-96, and Stockholm, 1896-1902; K.O.M.G., 1898; died at Alameda.

PALGRAVE, SIR REGINALD FRANCIS DOUCE (1826-1904), clerk of the House of Commons from 1886 to 1900; son of Sir Francis Palgrave [q.v.]; admitted solicitor, 1861; obtained clerkship in House of Commons, 1863; C.B., 1887; K.C.B., 1892; edited 'Rules . . . of Procedure of the House of Commons' (8th-11th edn.), 1886-96; proficient water-colour artist; published 'The House of Commons', 1869, and 'The Chairman's Handbook', 1877.

FALLEN, CHRISTOPHER (1831-1920), lord chief baron of the exchequer in Ireland; B.A., Trinity College, Dublin; called to Irish bar, 1855; Q.C., 1866; solicitor-general for Ireland, 1872; attorney-general, 1872; chief baron of Irish court of exchequer, 1874-1916; P.C. (Ireland), 1872, (England), 1892; a prominent educationist.

PALMER, SIR ARTHUR POWER (1840-1904), general; entered Indian army, 1857; served in Mutiny, 1857, in North-West frontier campaign, 1863-4, and Abyssinian expedition, 1868; quartermaster-general to Kuram field force, 1878-80; assistant adjutant-general in Bengal, 1880-5; active in expedition to Suakin and raid on Thakul; C.B., 1886; commanded force in Northern Chin Hills in Burma expedition, 1892-3; K.C.B., 1894; major-general, 1893; lieutenant-general, 1897; in Tirah campaign, 1897-8; commanded Punjab frontier force, 1898-1900; general, 1899; commander-in-chief in India, 1900-2; G.C.I.E., 1901; G.C.B., 1903.

PALMER, SIR CHARLES MARK, first baronet (1822-1907), shipowner and ironmaster; joined in founding at South Shields firm for manufacture of coke, 1830; founded shipping service for carrying coals from north of England to London; established (1851) shipyard near Jarrow, which developed from a small village into a large town; first mayor, 1875; constructed battleships; first to manufacture rolled armour plate; liberal M.P. for North Durham, 1874-85, and for Jarrow, 1885-1907; baronet, 1886.

PALMER, SIR ELWIN MITFORD (1852-1906), finance officer in India and Egypt; assistant comptroller-general to Indian government, 1871-85; director-general of accounts in Egypt, 1885; O.M.G., 1888; financial adviser to khedive, 1889-98; first governor of National Bank of Egypt at Cairo, 1898; K.C.M.G., 1892; K.C.B., 1897.

PALMER, GEORGE HERBERT (1846-1926), musician; ordained, 1869; priest-organist, St. Barnabas's church, Pimlico, 1876-83; his life-work, rediscovery of true plain chant tradition and adaptation of ancient melodies to English texts; helped to found Plainsong and Medieval Music Society, 1888; issued many volumes of liturgical music.

PALMER, GEORGE WILLIAM (1851-1913), biscuit manufacturer; son of George Palmer [q.v.]; founder of Huntley & Palmer's biscuit factory at Reading; associated with the business from youth; liberal M.P., Reading, 1892-5, 1898-1904; P.C., 1906; generous benefactor to University College, afterwards Reading University.

PANKHURST, EMMELINE (1858-1928), leader of the militant movement for women's suffrage; born GOULDEN; married R. M. Pankhurst, a radical Manchester barrister, 1879; took up suffrage work; widowed, 1898; registrar of births and deaths, Rusholme, until 1907; with her eldest daughter, Christabel, founded new women's suffrage society, Women's Social and Political Union, 1903; began to adopt sensational methods of propaganda, 1905; imprisoned in Holloway jail, 1908; militant suffragette campaign intensified, 1909; visited United States, 1909, 1911, 1913; constantly arrested, released as result of hunger-striking, and re-arrested, 1912-14; maintained truce to militancy during European war, 1914-18; took little part in agitation leading to first instalment of women's suffrage, 1918.

PARKIN, WILLIAM DOUGLAS (1833-1904), writer on dialect; son of Sir Woodbine Parish [q.v.]; B.C.L., Trinity College, Oxford, 1858; vicar of Selmeiston, Sussex, from 1863 to death; published dictionary of Sussex dialect and provincialisms, 1875.

PARKER, ALBERT EDMUND, third EARL OF MORLEY (1843-1905), chairman of committees of the House of Lords, 1889-1905; educated at Eton and Balliol College, Oxford; B.A., 1865; lord-in-waiting to Queen Victoria, under Gladstone, 1868-74; under-secretary for war, 1880-5; first commissioner of public works, Feb.-April, 1886; resigned on home rule question, 1886; active in Devonshire affairs.

PARKER, CHARLES STUART (1829-1910), politician and author; educated at Eton and University College, Oxford; with G. J. Goschen and G. C. Brodrick formed Oxford Essay Club, 1852; B.A. and M.A., 1855; fellow, 1854-68; hon. fellow, 1899; organised university Volunteer corps; ardent Alpinist; friend of Gladstone; urged university reform and national system of elementary education; private secretary to Edward Cardwell [q.v.], 1864-6; liberal M.P. for Perthshire, 1868-74, and for Perth, 1872-93; member of committees on public schools (1867-74), military education (1869), and Scotch educational endowments (1879); published lives of Sir Robert Peel, 5 vols. 1891-3, and Sir James Graham, 2 vols. 1907; hon. LL.D. Glasgow; D.C.L. Oxford, 1908; P.C., 1907; bequeathed £5,000 to University College, Oxford.

PARKER, JOSEPH (1830-1902), Congregationalist divine; studied for Congregational ministry in London, 1852; ordained minister at Banbury, 1853-8; minister of Cavendish chapel, Manchester, 1858-69; D.D. Chicago, 1863; minister of Poultry church, London, 1869; instituted Thursday noonday service; removed congregation to City Temple, 1874; chairman of Congregational Union, 1884 and 1901; president of National Free Church Council, 1902; original and fervid preacher; visited America five times; chief publication was 'The People's Bible', 25 vols. 1888-95; voluminous writings include 'Ecce Deus' (a reply to 'Ecce Homo') 1867, 'The City Temple Pulpit', 1899, 'A Preacher's Life', autobiography, 1899, and some fiction; lives by A. Dawson, 1901, W. Adamson, 1902, and G. Pike, 1904; portrait by R. Gibb (1894) and bust by C. B. Birch (1883) at City Temple.

PARKER, ROBERT JOHN, BARON PARKER, of Weddington (1857-1918), judge; educated at Westminster, Eton, and King's College, Cambridge; called to bar (Lincoln's Inn), 1883; junior equity counsel to Treasury, 1900; chancery judge, 1906; specialized in patent cases; lord of appeal and P.C., 1913; in House of Lords gained authoritative position as judge of final appeal; dealt in mastery fashion with prize appeals heard during European war, 1914-18; most striking characteristic of his judgments was their intellectual compactness; brought before House of Lords detailed scheme for formation of League of Nations, 1918.

PARKIN, SIR GEORGE ROBERT (1846-1922), educationist and imperialist; born in Canada; B.A. New Brunswick University, Fredericton; headmaster, collegiate school, Fredericton, 1871-99; devoted himself to cause of Imperial Federation League, 1899; principal, Upper Canada College, Toronto, 1895-1902; first organizing secretary of Rhodes Scholarship Trust and settled permanently in England, 1902; K.C.M.G., 1920; his works include 'Imperial Federation' (1892).

PARR, LOUISA (d. 1905), novelist; born TAYLOR; married George Parr, 1866; novels include 'How it All Happened', 1868, 'Dorothy Fox', 1871, and 'Adam and Eve', 1880; wrote life of Mrs. Craik, 1897.

PARRATT, SIR WALTER (1841-1924), organist and composer; as a boy filled various posts as organist in and near Huddersfield, his native town; organist of Great Withey church, Worcestershire, 1864; organist of Wigan parish church, 1868; organist of Magdalen College, Oxford, 1872-83; organist of St. George's chapel, Windsor, 1893-1924; chief professor of organ, Royal College of Music, 1882; founded 'school of organ playing'; private organist to Queen Victoria, 1892; master of queen's music, 1893; professor of music, Oxford University, 1908-18; composer chiefly of church music; knighted, 1892.

PARRY, SIR CHARLES HUBERT HASTINGS, baronet (1846-1918), composer, musical historian, and director of the Royal College of Music; son of Thomas Gambler Parry [q.v.]; educated at Eton and Exeter College, Oxford; studied piano under Edward Dannreuther; influenced by Wagner; professor at Royal College of Music, 1883; director, 1898; choragus at Oxford, 1884; professor of music, 1899-1908; knighted, 1908; baronet, 1902; formative period as composer closed, 1880; new period opened with 'Scenes from Shelley's Prometheus Unbound', for solo voices, chorus, and orchestra (performed, 1880), and closed with most famous of his works, setting to Milton's ode 'At a solemn Music' (performed, 1887); other settings include music to Aristophanes' 'The Birds' (1884), 'The Frogs' (1894), 'The Clouds' (1906), and 'The Acharnians' (1914); fresh stage in his career marked by performance of his first oratorio, 'Judith' (1888), followed by 'Job' (1892) and 'King Saul' (1894); in last period, beginning with symphonic ode 'War and Peace' (1908), wrote series of works dealing with his thoughts on problems of human race; assistant editor of Grove's 'Dictionary of Music and Musicians'; his own works include 'Art of Music' (1892), 'Oxford History of Music', vol. III (1902), and 'Johann Sebastian Bach' (1909).

PARRY, JOSEPH (1841-1903), musical composer; went with family to America, 1854; won prizes for composition at Danville (Pennsylvania) extended (1860) and at national extendeds at Swanswick (1863), Llandudno (1864), and Chester (1868); removed to London, 1868; Mus. Bac. Cambridge, 1871; Mus. Doc., 1878; professor of music at University College of Wales, Aberystwyth, 1873-9, and at University College, Cardiff, 1888-1903; composed operas 'Bloodwen' (1878), 'Virginia' (1882), 'Sylvia' (1889), oratorios, cantatas, and hymn tunes (including 'Aberystwyth') and anthems; edited 'Cambrian Minstrelsie', 6 vols. 1893, and 'Dr. Parry's Book of Songs'; his son, JOSEPH HAYDN PARRY (1864-94), was professor at Guildhall school of music, 1890, and composed operas.

PARSONS, ALFRED WILLIAM (1847-1920), painter and illustrator; B.A., 1911; president, Royal Society of Painters in Water Colours, 1914-20; painted landscapes; chief picture, 'When Nature Painted All Things Gay' (1887).

PARSONS, LAURENCE, fourth EARL OF ROSS (1840-1908), astronomer; son of third earl [q.v.]; B.A., Trinity College, Dublin, 1864; representative Irish peer, 1868; K.P., 1890; lord-lieutenant of King's co., 1892; 1908; made researches into astrophysics at Birr Castle, Parsonstown; published 'Account of Observations of Great Nebula in Orion from 1848 to 1867', 1867; made from 1868 prolonged investigations into radiation of heat from the moon; chancellor of Dublin University, 1895; hon. D.C.L. Oxford, 1870; LL.D. Dublin, 1879, and Cambridge, 1890; F.R.S. and F.R.A.S., 1867; president of Royal Irish Academy, 1894-1901.

PATON, DIARMID NOEL (1859-1928), physiologist; son of Sir J. N. Paton [q.v.]; M.B., C.M., Edinburgh; superintendent of research laboratory, Royal College of Physicians, Edinburgh, 1889; regius professor of physiology, Glasgow, 1906-28; pioneer in study of metabolism and nutrition; F.R.S., 1914; his chief work, 'Poverty, Nutrition, and Growth' (in collaboration, 1926).

PATON, JOHN BROWN (1830-1911), nonconformist divine and philanthropist; B.A. London, 1849; M.A., 1854; Congregational minister in Sheffield, 1854-63; first principal of Congregational Institute, Nottingham, 1863-98; D.D. Glasgow, 1882; took part in many movements for social regeneration; founded National Home Reading Union, 1889, Bible Reading and Prayer Union, 1892, English Land Colonization Society, 1892, and Boys and Girls League of Honour, 1906; edited with R. W. Dale 'The Eclectic Review', 1858-61; consulting editor of 'Contemporary Review', 1882-8; publications include 'Criticisms and Essays', 2 vols. 1892-7, and 'Christ and Civilization', 1910; 'Life' by James Marchant, 1909.

PATON, JOHN GIBSON (1824-1907), missionary to the New Hebrides; city missionary in Glasgow; ordained by reformed Presbyterian church of Scotland, 1858, and went with wife to establish mission station in island of Tanna in New Hebrides, where he stayed four years; fled from native persecution to New South Wales, where he pleaded for supply of missionaries; settled on island of Aniwa, 1866-81; from 1881 lived at Melbourne, safeguarding interests of natives; died at Melbourne; his 'Autobiography' edited by his brother James, 2 pts., 1889, and 'Later Years and Farewell' by his son, 1910.

PATON, SIR JOSEPH NOEL (1821-1901), artist; brother of Walter Hugh Paton [q.v.]; influenced by William Blake's designs; A.R.S.A., 1847; R.S.A., 1840; exhibited at Royal Academy, 1856-69; painted mythological or historical scenes, as 'Hesperus', 1868, 'Luther at Erfurt', 1861, and 'The Fairy Raid', 1867; Queen Victoria's dinner for Scotland, 1868; knighted, 1867; painted religious pictures, including 'Mort Janua Vitae', 1866, 'Vigilate at Orate', 1889, and 'Beati Mundo Cordes', 1890, which were sent on tour through the country; correct draughtsman but lacked appreciation of colour; published verse and collected armour; hon. LL.D. Edinburgh, 1876.

PAUL, CHARLES KEGAN (1838-1902), author and publisher; educated at Eton and Exeter College, Oxford; B.A., 1849; chaplain at Eton, 1853; became vegetarian and positivist, 1884; joined Free Christian Union (Unitarian), 1870; edited 'New Quarterly Magazine', 1873; resigned Church of England living, 1874; published account of William Godwin, 2 vols, 1876; took over publishing firm of H. S. King, 1877; published 'The Nineteenth Century' works by Tennyson, Thomas Hardy, Meredith, and Stevenson, the 'International Scientific series', and 'Last Journals of General Gordon'; joined Church of Rome, 1890; published 'Biographical Sketches', 1883, 'Memoires', 1899, verse, and translations.

PAUL, WILLIAM (1822-1905), horticulturist; founded nursery business at Waltham Cross; published 'The Rose Garden', 1848 (10th edit, 1903), and 'American Plants', 1858; issued 'The Rose Annual', 1858-81, and 'The Florist and Pomologist', 1869-74; a fluent lecturer; collected rich library of old gardening books.

PAUNCEFOTE, JULIAN, BARON PAUNCEFOTE, of Preston (1828-1902), diplomatist; born at Munich; called to bar, 1852; attorney-general of Hong Kong, 1865-72; knighted, 1873; chief justice of Leeward Islands, 1874; legal under-secretary at foreign office, 1876; K.C.M.G. and C.B., 1880; permanent under-secretary, 1882; commissioner at Paris concerning free navigation of Suez canal, 1885; G.C.M.G., 1885; K.C.B., 1888; envoy extraordinary to United States, 1889; raised to rank of ambassador, 1893; dealt tactfully with questions of Canadian seal fishing in Behring Sea, 1892, the boundary between Venezuela and British Guiana, 1895-9, and Spanish-American war, 1898; senior British delegate at Hague peace conference, 1899; raised to peerage, 1899; signed 'Hay-Pauncefote treaty' (1901), granting all nations equal passage through Panama canal; died at Washington; hon. LL.D. Harvard and Columbia, 1900.

PAYV, FREDERICK WILLIAM (1829-1911), physician; student at Guy's Hospital; M.B., 1852; studied diabetes under Claude Bernard in Paris; lecturer at Guy's Hospital from 1854; physician, 1871; F.R.C.P., 1860; Harveian orator, 1866; president of various medical societies; first chairman of permanent committee of international congress of medicine, 1909; F.R.S., 1863; hon. LL.D. Glasgow, 1888; pioneer among modern chemical pathologists; founded modern theory of diabetes; initiated 'Payv's test' for sugar; writings include treatises on diabetes, 1862, food and dietetics, 1873, and carbohydrate metabolism, 1906.

PAYNE, EDWARD JOHN (1844-1904), historian; B.A., Charsley's Hall, Oxford, 1871; fellow of University College, 1872-99; called to bar, 1877; hon. recorder of Wycombe, 1883-1904; published 'History of European Colonies', 1875, 'Colonies and Colonial Federation', 1904, and his unfinished 'History of the New World called America', 2 vols. 1892-9; wrote much on music; accomplished violinist.

PAYNE, JOSEPH FRANK (1840-1910), physician; son of Joseph Payne [q.v.]; B.A., Magdalen College, Oxford, 1862; fellow, 1865-83; hon. fellow, 1906; B.Sc. London, 1865; M.B. Oxford, 1867; M.D., 1880; F.R.C.P., 1873; assistant physician at St. Thomas's Hospital, 1871; physician, 1887; chief medical witness in Staunton poisoning case, 1877; published 'Manual of General Pathology', 1888, and work on skin diseases, 1889; president of Epidemiological (1892) and Pathological (1897) societies; reported on plague at Vetlianka, 1879; wrote much on history of medicine; works include lives of Linacre, 1881, Thomas Sydenham, 1900, 'English Medicine in Anglo-Saxon Times', 1904; Harveian orator (1898) and FitzPatrick lecturer (1903-4) at College of Physicians; Harveian librarian, 1899; member of royal commission on tuberculosis, 1890; collected fine medical library.

PEACOCKE, JOSEPH FERGUSON (1835-1916), archbishop of Dublin; B.A., Trinity College, Dublin; rector of St. George's, Dublin, 1873, of Monkstown, co. Dublin, 1878; bishop of Meath, 1894; archbishop of Dublin, 1897-1915.

PEAKE, ARTHUR SAMUEL (1865-1939), theologian and biblical scholar; B.A., St. John's College, Oxford; theological fellow, Merton College, Oxford, 1890-7; tutor in charge of curriculum, Hartley Primitive Methodist College, Manchester, 1899; first Rylands professor of biblical criticism and exegesis, Manchester University, 1904; possessed vast knowledge of current literature, native and foreign, in field of biblical studies; his original works diffused methods and results of sound biblical learning.

PEARCE, ERNEST HAROLD (1865-1930), bishop of Worcester; educated at Christ's Hospital and Peterhouse, Cambridge; ordained, 1889; metropolitan district secretary, British and Foreign Bible Society, 1892; vicar of Christ Church, Newgate Street, London, 1899-1912; established close connexion with Mansion House and City life; ecclesiastical correspondent to 'The Times', 1899; canon of Westminster Abbey, 1911; assistant chaplain-general, war office, 1915-18; bishop of Worcester, 1918-30; maintained lifelong connexion with Christ's Hospital; his works include 'The Annals of Christ's Hospital', 1901, 'The Monks of Westminster' (1916), 'Thomas de Cobham, Bishop of Worcester' (1923), 'The Register of Thomas de Cobham, 1317-1327' (1930).

PEARCE, STEPHEN (1819-1904), portrait and equestrian painter; pupil of Sir Martin Archer Shee [q.v.], 1841; exhibited at Royal Academy, 1849-85; painted portraits of Arctic explorers (now in National Portrait Gallery) and equestrian portraits, the chief being 'Couraging at Ashdown Park', 1869; wrote 'Memories of the Past', 1903.

PEARCE, SIR WILLIAM GEORGE, second baronet, of Cardie (1861-1907), shipbuilder; son of Sir William Pearce [q.v.]; B.A. and LL.B. Trinity College, Cambridge, 1884; M.A., 1888; chairman of Fairfield Shipbuilding Company, Glasgow, 1888; conservative M.P. for Plymouth, 1892-5; left property estimated at £150,000 to Trinity College, Cambridge.

PEARS, SIR HDWIN (1835-1919), barrister-at-law, publicist, and historical writer; called to bar (Middle Temple, 1870; practised at consular bar, Constantinople, 1873-1914; president, 1881; knighted, 1909; died at Malta; wrote 'Life of Abdul Hamid' (1917) and two standard monographs on Byzantine history.

PEARSON, SIR CHARLES JOHN, LORD PEARSON (1843-1910), Scottish judge; B.A., Corpus Christi College, Oxford (first class in literae humaniores), 1865; called to English and Scottish bars, 1870; knighted, 1887; sheriff of Renfrew and Bute, 1888, and Perthshire, 1889; conservative M.P. for Edinburgh and St. Andrews universities, 1890-4; Q.C., 1890; solicitor-general for Scotland, 1890-2, 1895-6; lord advocate and P.C., 1891; raised to Scottish bench, 1896.

PEARSON, SIR CYRIL ARTHUR, first baronet (1866-1921), newspaper proprietor; brought out 'Pearson's Weekly', 1890, and 'Daily Express' 1900; purchased 'Standard', 1904; sold these papers on going blind, 1910-12; founded St. Dunstan's, Regent's Park, for blinded soldiers and sailors, 1915; baronet, 1916; G.B.E., 1917.

PEARSON, WERTMAN DICKINSON, first Viscount Cowdray (1856-1937), contractor; partner in grandfather's firm of contractors, Bradford, afterwards London, 1875; went to Mexico, 1889; acquired extensive tracts of land, rich in oil; firm's contracts include completion of Blackwall tunnel under Thames, extension of Dover harbour, and building of dam across Blue Nile above Khartoum; liberal M.P., Colchester, 1895-1910; baronet, 1894; baron, 1910; viscount, 1917; a generous public benefactor.

PEASE, SIR ARTHUR FRANCIS, first baronet, of Hummersknot (1866-1927), coalowner and industrialist; grandson of Joseph Pease [q.v.]; chairman and managing director of Pease & Partners, Darlington, 1906; became known as prominent negotiator when organised demand for minimum wage arose among miners; second civil lord of admiralty, 1918-19; baronet, 1920.

PEASE, SIR JOSEPH WHITWELL, first baronet, of Hutton Lowcross and Pinchinthorpe (1838-1903), director of mercantile enterprise; entered Pease banking and other firms at Darlington, 1845; chairman of North Eastern Railway, 1894; liberal M.P. for South Durham, 1865-85, and Barnard Castle, 1885-1903; president of Peace Society; first Quaker baronet, 1882.

PEEE, SIR UTHBERT EDGAR, second baronet (1855-1901), amateur astronomer and meteorologist; B.A., Pembroke College, Cambridge, 1880; M.A., 1884; visited Iceland, 1881; set up observatories at Wimbeldon, 1883, and Rousdon, 1884; observed transit of Venus in Queensland, 1883; at Rousdon made systematic astronomical and meteorological observations, of which he published annual reports; F.R.A.S., 1884; F.S.A., 1890.

PEEL, ARTHUR WELLESLEY, first Viscount Peel (1829-1912), Speaker of the House of Commons; youngest son of Sir Robert Peel, second baronet, prime minister [q.v.]; educated at Eton and Balliol College, Oxford; liberal M.P., Warwick, 1865-85, Warwick and Leamington, 1885-95; Speaker, 1884-95; first to use power of applying closure for combating Irish 'obstruction', 1885; created viscount, 1896.

PEEL, SIR FREDERICK (1823-1906), railway commissioner; second son of Sir Robert Peel, second baronet [q.v.]; educated at Harrow and Trinity College, Cambridge; B.A. (sixth class), 1846; M.A., 1849; called to bar, 1849; liberal M.P. for Leominster, 1842-53, and for Bury, 1852-7, 1859-65; under-secretary for colonies, 1861-5; introduced clergy reserves bill, 1863; under-secretary for war, 1865-7; severely censured for failures of Crimean war; P.O., 1867; financial secretary to the treasury, 1859-65; K.C.M.G., 1868; member of railway and canal commission from 1873 to death.

PEEL, JAMES (1811-1906), landscape painter; exhibited landscapes at Royal Academy, 1842-98, and Royal Society of British Artists from 1845; work shows sincere feeling for nature and excellent technique.

PEEL, SIR JAMES BRAITHWAITE (1833-1906), Indian administrator; son of Thomas Williamson Pele [q.v.]; B.A., Oriol College, Oxford (first class classic), 1856; joined Indian civil service, 1856; settled claims of ruler of Bhavnagar against British government, 1859; under-secretary to Bombay government, 1860; passed enactments in favour of depressed landowners in Bombay; registrar-general of assurances, 1867; director of public instruction, Bombay, 1869-73; as political agent of Kathiawar (1874-8) pacified discontent of native chiefs; built bridges, roads, and railways, 1877; averted threatened famine, 1877; member of famine commission, 1878-80; acting chief secretary to Bombay government, 1879-82; C.S.I., 1879; member of council at Bombay, 1882-8; carried through Local Boards and District Municipalities Acts, 1884, and amendment to Bombay Land Revenue code, 1886; vice-chancellor of Bombay University, 1884; member of supreme council, 1886-7; member of India council in London, 1887-1902; urged increased powers for provincial councils; member of royal commission on administration of Indian expenditure, 1895-1900; K.C.S.I., 1888.

PEELE, JOHN (1837-1910), master of Christ's College, Cambridge, and philologist; educated at Repton and Christ's College, Cambridge; won Craven scholarship, 1859, and chancellor's medal, 1860; senior classic and fellow, 1860; tutor, 1871-84; master, 1887-1910; M.A., 1863; Litt.D., 1884; teacher of Sanskrit at Cambridge till 1867; published volume on Greek and Latin philology, 1869, and a primer of philology, 1877; university reader in comparative philology, 1884-91; vice-chancellor, 1891-3; advocated degrees for women; president of council of Newnham College, 1895; hon. Litt.D., Trinity College, Dublin, 1892; F.B.A., 1904; compiled biographical register (vol. 1, 1900) and history (1900) of Christ's College.

PELHAM, HENRY FRANCIS (1846-1907), Camden professor of ancient history, Oxford, from 1889; son of John Thomas Pelham, bishop of Norwich [q.v.]; educated at Harrow and Trinity College, Oxford; B.A. (first class in literae humaniores) and fellow, 1869; won chancellor's English essay prize, 1870; tutor, 1870-89; fellow of Braenose, 1889; president of Trinity, 1897; original F.B.A., 1902; hon. LL.D. Aberdeen, 1906; F.S.A., 1890; prominent in founding British schools at Rome and Athens; published 'Outlines of Roman History', 1893, and 'Essays on Roman History', posthumous, 1911.

PELLEGRINI, HARRY GABRIEL (1874-1913), comedian; directed troupe of entertainers named 'The Follies', famous for their 'potted plays' and 'potted opera', 1896-1912; opened on his own account in London, 1907; accomplished composer, producer, and comedian.

PELL, ALBERT (1820-1907), agriculturist; hon. M.A. Trinity College, Cambridge, 1842; settled on farm at Haselbeach, 1846; founder and first chairman (1866) of central chamber of agriculture; conservative M.P. for South Leicestershire, 1848-85; as guardian in Leicestershire and London, became an authority on poor law; advocated abolition of outdoor relief; chairman of central poor law conference, 1876-98; studied agricultural questions in Canada and America, 1879; sat on royal commissions on city guilds and aged poor; member of council of Royal Agricultural Society, 1866; pioneer of teaching of agriculture at Cambridge; hon. LL.D., 1894; his 'Reminiscences' edited by Thomas Mackay, 1908.

PENNING, EDWARD HENRY (1822-1911), lawyer; educated at Harrow and Christ Church, Oxford; B.A., 1844; called to bar (Lincoln's Inn), 1848; Q.C., 1874; treasurer, 1906-7; had large practice at parliamentary bar; conducted bill for creating Manchester Ship Canal, 1885; counsel for Cecil Rhodes before parliamentary committee to inquire into Jameson Raid, 1897; prominent in London literary society; brilliant talker and accomplished musician; privately printed much vers de société; adaptations from Greek and Latin, and classical plays in English; contributed to Grove's 'Dictionary of Music'.

PENBERTON, THOMAS EDGAR (1849-1906), biographer of the stage; published novels, including 'A Very Old Question', 1877, and comedies; collaborated in plays 'Sue' and 'Hold Up' with Bret Harte, whose life he wrote, 1902; dramatic critic of 'Birmingham Daily Post', 1883-1900; wrote memoirs of B. A. Sotherton, 1889, the Kendals, 1891, T. W. Robertson, 1892, and works on Dickens.

PENLEY, WILLIAM SYDNEY (1859-1912), actor-manager; grandson of Aaron Penley [q.v.]; went on stage, 1871; most successful in humorous parts such as Lay Brother Pelican in Chassigne's 'Palks', 1883, the title-role of 'The Private Secretary', 1884-8, and most notably Lord Fancourt Babberley in 'Charley's Aunt', of which he gave 1,466 consecutive performances, 1893-7; managed several theatres.

PENNANT, GEORGE SHOLTO GORDON DOUGLAS, second BARON PENNYN (1836-1907), landowner. [See DOUGLAS-PENNANT.]

PENNYN, second BARON [See DOUGLAS-PENNANT, GEORGE SHOLTO GORDON.]

PENROSE, FRANCIS CRANMER (1817-1908), archaeologist and astronomer; son of John Penrose [q.v.] and Elisabeth Penrose, 'Mrs. Markham' [q.v.]; educated at Winchester and Magdalene College, Cambridge; B.A., 1843; hon. fellow, 1884; rowed in university boat-race, 1840-2; studied art and architecture on Continent, 1842-5; at Rome criticized pitch of pediment of Pantheon; at Athens (1845-7) made careful measurements of Greek classical buildings; published 'Principles of Athenian Architecture', 1851 (enlarged edit. 1888); surveyor of St. Paul's Cathedral from 1852, where he did much restoration and decoration; interested in astronomical study; published 'The Prediction and Reduction of Occultations and Eclipses', 1869; observed eclipses of sun at Jerez, 1870, and at Denver, U.S.A., 1878; made researches into orientation of temples; F.R.A.S., 1867; F.R.S., 1894; built entrance gate at Magdalene and wing at St. John's, Cambridge; designed British school at Athens, 1882-6; president of Royal Institute of British Architects, 1894-6; F.S.A., 1898; hon. Litt.D. Cambridge, 1898; hon. D.C.L. Oxford.

PENTLAND, first BARON (1860-1935), politician. [See SINCLAIR, JOHN.]

PERCIVAL, JOHN (1834-1918), schoolmaster and bishop; B.A., Queen's College, Oxford (double first classes); first headmaster of Clifton College, for which he won recognized place among great public schools, 1860-79; president of Trinity College, Oxford, where he was less successful, 1879-87; canon of Bristol, 1882-7; headmaster of Rugby, 1887-95; bishop of Hereford, 1895-1917.

PERCY, ALAN IAN, eighth DUKE OF NORTHUMBERLAND (1880-1930); brother of Earl Percy [q.v.]; joined grenadier guards, 1900; served in South African war, 1901-2, and with Egyptian army, 1907-10; official 'eyewitness' in France, 1914-16; subsequently served in war office intelligence department; succeeded father, 1918; took prominent part in public life; extreme right-wing conservative; author of political and military essays and articles.

PERCY, HENRY ALGERNON GEORGE, EARL PERCY (1871-1909), politician and traveller; educated at Eton and Christ Church, Oxford; obtained first class in literae humaniores, 1893, and Newdigate prize for English verse, 1892; conservative M.P. for South Kensington, 1898-1909; parliamentary under-secretary for India, 1902-3, and for foreign affairs, 1903-5; published accounts of travel in 'Notes of a Diary in Asiatic Turkey', 1896, and 'The Highlands of Asiatic Turkey', 1901; traveller of National Portrait Gallery, 1901; hon. D.C.L. Durham, 1907.

PERREIRA, GEORGE EDWARD (1865-1923), soldier and traveller; joined army, 1884; served in China, South Africa, Manchuria; military attaché, Peking, 1905-10; served in European war; brigadier-general, 1919; left Peking for Lhasa, entered by no European since 1846, Jan. 1921; arrived Oct. 1922, after travelling nearly 7,000 miles; died at Kanse, Szechwan, en route to explore Tibetan-Szechwan border; travelled nearly 46,000 miles on foot in China; C.M.G., 1908; C.B., 1917.

PERKIN, SIR WILLIAM HENRY (1838-1907), chemist; pupil and assistant of Hofmann at Royal College of Chemistry; discovered 'azodinitrylamine', 1856, and the first aniline dye, 'aniline purple' or 'mauve', 1856; opened chemical factory at Green-Field Green for its manufacture; improved methods of silk dyeing; developed coal tar industry by cheapening process of manufacturing artificial alizarin; published description of 'Perkin synthesis' of unsaturated organic acids, 1867; devoted main energies to investigation of constitution of chemical molecules; president of Chemical Society, 1883-5, and Society of Chemical Industry, 1884-6; F.R.S., 1866; royal medallist, 1878; master of Leather-sellers' Company, 1896; knighted on jubilee of aniline discovery (1906), and received hon. degrees from English and foreign universities; 'Perkin Memorial Fund' and 'Perkin medal' founded for researches in chemical industry; portrait by A. S. Cope in National Portrait Gallery.

PERKIN, WILLIAM HENRY (1860-1929), organic chemist; son of Sir W. H. Perkin [q.v.]; educated at City of London School; entered Royal College of Science, South Kensington, 1877; studied chemistry at Würzburg and at Munich (under Adolf von Baeyer); professor of chemistry, Heriot-Watt College, Edinburgh, 1887; professor of organic chemistry, Owens College, Manchester, 1892; organized school of organic chemistry, prosecuting analytic and synthetic investigations, directing and encouraging work of others, and providing necessary facilities; Waynflete professor of chemistry, Oxford, 1912; produced change in attitude of Oxford to chemistry; established strong school of original research; new laboratory completed through munificence of C. W. Dyson Perrins, 1915; fellow of Magdalen College; F.R.S., 1890; his researches include work on formation of rings of carbon atoms and berberine; a lucid teacher; a skilled amateur musician and gardener; collaborated with F. S. Kipping in writing three chemical works.

PERKINS, SIR ZENEAS (1834-1901), general; colonel commandant royal engineers (late Bengal) from 1895; joined Bengal engineers, 1851; served in relief of Delhi, 1856; constructed 'Perkins' battery' at Delhi; executive engineer at Morshedabad and Darjeeling, 1865-78; superintending engineer in North-West Provinces, 1870; as commanding royal engineer of Kuram field force (1878) facilitated advance on Kabul; C.B., 1879; present at victory of Charasiab and entry into Kabul; commanding royal engineer in march to Kandahar, 1880; inspector-general of military works, 1881; chief engineer of Central Provinces, 1883-6, and of Punjab, 1886-9; major-general, 1887; commanded Oudh division, 1890-1; lieutenant-general, 1890; K.C.B., 1897.

PEROWNE, EDWARD HENRY (1826-1906), master of Corpus Christi College, Cambridge; B.A., Corpus Christi College, Cambridge (senior classic), 1850; M.A., 1853; D.D., 1863; fellow, 1858; master, 1879-1906; vice-chancellor of university, 1879-81; a strong evangelical; published theological works.

PEROWNE, JOHN JAMES STEWART (1825-1904), bishop of Worcester; brother of E. H. Perowne [q.v.]; B.A., Corpus Christi College, Cambridge, 1845; M.A., 1848; D.D., 1873; fellow, 1851; vice-principal of St. David's College, Lampeter, 1862-73; canon of Llandaff, 1869-78; member of Old Testament revision company, 1870; fellow of Trinity College, Cambridge, 1873-8; Hulsean professor of divinity, 1875-8; dean of Peterborough, 1878-91; member of Ecclesiastical County Commission, 1881; bishop of Worcester, 1891-1901; obtained suffragan bishopric and facilitated division of diocese; published translation and commentary on the Psalms, 1864, and edited 'Cambridge Bible' and 'Greek Testament for Schools', and the 'Letters of Bishop Thirlwall', 1881.

PERRY, WALTER COPLAND (1814-1911), school-master and archaeologist; educated at Manchester College, York, and Göttingen; Ph.D., 1837; classical tutor at Manchester College, 1837-9; Congregational minister at George's Meeting, Exeter, 1839-44; called to bar, 1851; schoolmaster at Bonn, 1844-75; secured the formation (1878) of large collection of casts at British Museum, of which he published catalogue, 1884; voluminous writings include 'German University Education', 1846, 'The Franks', 1857, 'Greek and Roman Sculpture', 1862, and 'Sicily in Fable, History, Art, and Song', 1906.

PETERSON, SIR WILLIAM (1856-1921), classical scholar and educationist; educated at Edinburgh

University and Corpus Christi College, Oxford; first principal of University College, Dundee, 1882-85; principal of McGill University, Montreal, 1896-1919; K.O.M.G., 1916.

PETIT, SIR DINSHAW MANOCKJEE, first baronet (1825-1901), Parsi merchant and philanthropist; born at Bombay; partner in father's broking business at Bombay, 1852-64; started Manockjee Petit cotton mill at Bombay, 1860; acquired chief interest in other mills, and converted Bombay into great industrial centre; sheriff of Bombay, 1886-7; first Parsi member of legislative council of governor-general, 1866-8; knighted, 1887; baronet, 1890; founded at Bombay hospitals for women and children, lepers, and animals; statue by Sir Thomas Brock at Bombay.

PETRE, SIR GEORGE GLYNN (1822-1905), diplomatist; entered diplomatic service, 1846; held minor posts at several European capitals till 1868; secretary of embassy at Berlin, 1868-73; British envoy at Buenos Ayres, 1881-4, and at Lisbon, 1884-93; conciliated Portuguese ministers in long dispute concerning free transit of English vessels and missions over waterways of Zambezi, Shire, and Pungwe rivers, 1890-1; C.B., 1886; K.C.M.G., 1890.

PETRIE, WILLIAM (1821-1908), electrician; studied magnetism and electricity at Frankfurt-on-Main, 1840; made study of electric lighting problems, 1846-53; invented self-regulating arc lamp, 1847-8; efforts to promote electric illumination financially disastrous; subsequently devoted himself to improving electro-chemical processes.

PETTIGREW, JAMES BELL (1834-1908), anatomist; studied arts at Glasgow University and medicine at Edinburgh; M.D., 1861; Croonian lecturer at Royal Society, 1860; F.R.S., 1869; curator of museum of Royal College of Surgeons, Edinburgh, 1869; F.R.S. Edinburgh, 1872; F.R.C.P.E., 1873; Chanda professor of medicine and anatomy, St. Andrews, 1875; hon. LL.D. Glasgow, 1883; studied flight of insects and birds, and experimented in artificial flight; published 'Animal Locomotion' (in 'International Scientific Series', 1873), and 'Design in Nature', 3 vols. 1908.

PETTY-TITZMAURICE, HENRY CHARLES KEITH, fifth MARQUESS OF LANSDOWNE (1845-1927); son of fourth marquess of Lansdowne [q.v.]; educated at Eton and Balliol College, Oxford; influenced by Benjamin Jowett; succeeded father, 1866; inherited liberal traditions; junior lord of Treasury, 1869; under-secretary for war, 1872-4; under-secretary of state for India, 1880; resigned, owing to his lack of sympathy as Irish landlord with Gladstone's Irish policy, 1880; governor-general of Canada, 1883-8; his period of office saw completion of Canadian Pacific Railway (1886), dispute with U.S.A. over delimitation of Newfoundland fisheries, and second rebellion of Louis Riel (q.v., 1885); viceroy of India, 1888-94; his term of office marked by no sensational incidents, although troublesome situation arose in connexion with Indian currency, with which he dealt successfully; secretary of state for war, 1895-1900; supported new commander-in-chief, Lord Wolseley, and carried through reforms which transferred much administrative power to secretary of state; greatly but unjustly criticised for initial British military failures in South African war, 1899; secretary of state for foreign affairs, 1900-5; excellently equipped for his office; responsible for negotiation of the two great alliances with Japan (1902) and France (1904); made unsuccessful approaches for alliance with Germany; came into conflict with U.S.A. over blockade of Venezuela (1903) and question of Alaskan boundary (1903); leader of conservatives in House of Lords, 1903; on accession of liberals to power (1905) had to decide how far revisionary powers of Upper House should be exercised in constant collisions of opinion between two Houses; introduced Bill for internal reform of House of Lords, 1911; abstained from voting on Parliament Bill, but failed to carry with him whole of his followers, 1911; held meeting with Bonar Law and a few other colleagues at Lansdowne House which pledged unionist party to support France and had effect of deciding cabinet to embark on war, 9 Aug. 1914; joined first Coalition administration as member of inner committee responsible for conduct of war; at invitation of prime minister, Mr. Asquith, set out in private memorandum his views as to possibility of peace 'of accommodation', Nov. 1916; this memorandum afterwards held to be prime cause of break-up of first Coalition government; published his famous letter to 'Daily Telegraph' on same lines as memorandum of 1916, 29 Nov. 1917; although written with approval of his colleagues, the letter, which appeared at inopportune moment, was repudiated by government and press, and brought on him reproaches for disloyalty to Allied cause and 'excommunication' from conservative party; during last years suffered from ill-health and lived in retirement; felt very keenly destruction of his Irish home, Derreen, co. Kerry, by 'Irregulars', 1923; K.G., 1894.

PHILIP, Sir JOHN BUDD (1838-1906), judge in India and author; B.A., Pembroke College, Cambridge (sixth wrangler), 1847; M.A., 1850; fellow of Clare, 1847-48; called to bar, 1854; judge of high court of Bengal, 1864-76; knighted, 1877; chief justice of Ceylon, 1877-9; revised civil and criminal code; chairman of Devonshire quarter sessions, 1881-86; published 'The Aryan village in India and Ceylon', 1880, and mathematical and legal works.

PHILLIMORE, JOHN SWINNERTON (1873-1936), classical scholar and poet; cousin of first Baron Phillimore [q.v.]; educated at Westminster and Christ Church, Oxford; first classes in classical moderations (1893) and literae humaniores (1895); Hertford, Craven, and Ireland scholar; president of Union, 1895; professor of Greek, Glasgow University, 1899; of humanity, 1906; a notable teacher; joined Roman Church, 1906; his works include text of Properius (1901), 'Index Verborum' of Properius (1906), translation of Philostratus's Apollonius of Tyana (1912), and two volumes of poems (1902 and 1918).

PHILLIMORE, Sir WALTER GEORGE FRANK, second baronet, and first Baron Phillimore, of Shipkirk (1845-1929), judge, ecclesiastical lawyer, and international jurist; son of Sir R. J. Phillimore, first baronet [q.v.]; grandson of Joseph Phillimore [q.v.]; cousin of J. S. Phillimore [q.v.]; educated at Westminster and Christ Church, Oxford; first classes in classical moderations, literae humaniores, and law and modern history; fellow of All Souls College; called to bar (Middle Temple), 1868; joined western circuit; counsel in many famous ecclesiastical cases; for many years leader of admiralty court; succeeded father, 1885; judge of queen's bench division, 1897-1913; not one of the greatest common law judges; lord justice of appeal and P.C., 1913-16; distinguished himself in court of appeal; baron, 1918; acquired European reputation as international jurist; a devout churchman.

PHILLIPS, Sir CLAUDE (1846-1924), art critic; B.A., London University; called to bar (Inner Temple), 1883; travelled abroad for artistic study; art-critic to 'Daily Telegraph', 1897; keeper of Wallace Collection, 1897-1911; knighted, 1911; wrote five valuable numbers of 'Portfolio' monographs.

PHILLIPS, STEPHEN (1844-1915), poet and dramatist; educated at Oundle; member of (Sir) Frank Benson's theatrical company, c. 1885-92; adopted letters as profession, c. 1898; poetical works include 'Orestes and Other Poems' (1884), 'Primavera' (1890, containing, with other poems, 'To a Lost Love' and 'A Dream'), 'Brennus' (1894), 'Christ in Hades' and 'The Apparition' (1897), 'Marpeasa' and 'The Wife' (1898, the last four contained in 'Poems', 1898), 'New Poems' (1908), and 'The New Inferno' (1911); at his best in his shorter lyrics; dramatic works include 'Paolo and Francesca' (1900), 'Herod' (1901), 'Ulysses' (1909), 'The Sin of David' (1904), and 'Nero' (1906); gained great reputation as dramatic poet, but his genius, although intense, of limited range; plays spoiled by over theatricality in production; sank into obscurity in later years.

PHILLIPS, WILLIAM (1823-1906), botanist and antiquary; enthusiastic volunteer in youth; engaged in botanical research, 1861; founded Shropshire Archaeological and Natural History Society 1878; published 'Guide to the Botany of Shrewsbury', 1878, and 'Manual of the British Dicotyledones', 1887; did much archaeological research in Shropshire; edited 'Shropshire Notes and Queries' and 'The Otley Papers' 1894-8, 'Quarter Sessions Rolls of 1662-9', and Shropshire parish registers.

PIATTI, ALFREDO CARLO (1822-1901), violoncellist and composer; born at Bergamo; studied at Milan, 1832-7; played for List at Munich; first appeared in London, 1844; led violoncello at leading concerts from 1861; played at Monday Popular Concerts from 1869 to 1896; died near Bergamo; unsurpassed in execution, tone, and expression; composed sonatas, concertos, and caprices.

PICKARD, BENJAMIN (1842-1904), trade union leader; worked in mines from age of twelve; secretary of West Yorkshire Miners' Association, 1876, and of Amalgamated Yorkshire Miners' Association, 1881; played leading part in miners' dispute of 1893; liberal M.P. for Northampton, 1888-1904.

PRIEFORD, WILLIAM, BARON STERNDALS (1848-1938), judge; B.A., Exeter College, Oxford; called to bar (Inner Temple), 1874; joined northern circuit, 1878; a 'local' at Liverpool; moved to London, 1892; Q.C., 1895; continued for a time on northern circuit, of which he became de facto leader; did much work in commercial court, 1896-1907; recorder of Oldham, 1901; of Liverpool, 1904; leading counsel for Great Britain at Inquiry in Paris on Dogger Bank incident, 1906; additional judge of high court, king's bench division, and knighted, 1907; proved ideal judge, the substance of his decisions being almost invariably right; active in promoting movements for unification of maritime law; lord justice of appeal and privy councillor, 1914; member of Dardanelles commission, 1916; chairman, 1917; president of probate, divorce, and admiralty division of high court and created baron, 1918; master of the Rolls, 1919.

PRYOR, JAMES ALLANSON (1832-1910), politician and author; son of Sir James Allanson-Pyctor [q.v.]; M.A. London, 1856; Congregational minister at Manchester (1856-65), Leicester (1865-7), and Hackney (1867-79); his secular lectures on Sunday afternoons anticipated Pleasant Sunday Afternoon movement; member of London school board, 1870-9; radical M.P. for Leicester, 1884-94; works include 'Oliver Cromwell, 1882, a life of his father, 1891, 'The Bible in School', 1901, 'Pantheism', 1906, and 'Spinoza', 1907.

PRIEOR, BARON (1840-1903), politician. [See DE WORMS, HENRY.]

PRIOR, WILLIAM JAMES, VISCOUNT PIRRIE (1847-1924), shipbuilder; born at Quebec; entered shipbuilding firm of Harland & Wolff, Belfast, 1863; partner, 1874; later chairman of board; identified with all important contemporary developments in naval architecture and marine engineering; many improvements due to him or his firm; his firm sole builders for White Star and Bibby lines; comptroller-general of merchant shipbuilding, 1918; lord mayor of Belfast, 1896-7; baron, 1906; viscount, 1921.

PITTMAN, Sir HENRY ALFRED (1808-1908), centenarian; B.A., Trinity College, Cambridge, 1832; M.B., 1835; M.D., 1841; F.R.C.P., 1845; registrar of College of Physicians, 1848-59; assistant physician (1846) and physician (1857) at St. George's Hospital; active in organization of College of Physicians; knighted, 1883; largely responsible for first edition of 'Nomenclature of Diseases', 1869.

PLATY, CHARLES DOMINIC (1875-1921), Catholic divine and social worker; educated at Stonyhurst; entered Jesuit novitiate, 1894; rector of Jesuit hall, Oxford, 1916; obtained for it, under title of Campion Hall, status of permanent private hall of university, 1918; founded Catholic Social Guild.

PLATTS, JOHN THOMPSON (1830-1904), Persian scholar; born at Calcutta; held educational posts in North-West and Central provinces of India, 1858-72; teacher of Persian in Oxford University, 1880; hon. M.A., 1881; compiled Hindustani and Persian grammars and dictionaries, and translated Persian and Hindustani texts.

PLAYFAIR, WILLIAM SMOULT (1838-1903), obstetric physician; brother of Lyon, first Lord Playfair [q.v.]; M.D. Edinburgh, 1866; professor of surgery at Calcutta Medical College, 1869-80; M.R.C.P., 1863; F.R.C.P., 1870; professor of obstetric medicine in King's College and obstetric physician to King's College Hospital, 1879-98; hon. I.L.D. St. Andrews, 1885, and Edinburgh, 1898; author of 'Science and Practice of Midwifery', 1876, and 'System of Gynaecology' (with Sir Clifford Allbutt), 1896.

PLAYDELL, JOHN OLAVELL MANSER (1817-1903), Dorset antiquary. [See MANSER-PLAYDELL.]

PLUNKETT, Sir FRANCIS RICHARD (1835-1907), diplomatist; British envoy at Tokio, 1868-8; K.C.M.G., 1888; senior British delegate at conferences on revising treaties between Japan and European powers; minister at Stockholm, 1898-92, and Brussels, 1895-1900; British commissioner at sugar conference at Brussels, 1898-9; ambassador at Vienna, 1900-5; G.C.M.G., 1894; P.O., 1900; G.C.B., 1901; G.O.V.O., 1908; died in Paris.

PODMORE, FRANK (1856-1910), writer on physical research; B.A., Pembroke College, Oxford, 1877; clerk in Post Office, 1878-1907; member of council of Society for Psychical Research, 1889-1909; argued for psychological, as opposed to spiritualist, causality; helped to found, and originated title of, Fabian Society, 1884; writings include 'Studies in Psychical Research', 1897; 'Modern Spiritualism', 1903; 'Life of Robert Owen, 1906, and 'Telepathic Hallucinations', 1910.

POLAND, SIR HARRY BODKIN (1829-1928), criminal lawyer; called to bar (Inner Temple), 1861; appeared for Crown in successful prosecution of Sir J. D. Paul [q. v.], 1865; counsel to Treasury at central criminal court and adviser to home office in criminal matters, 1866-88; cases in which he appeared for Crown include those of 'Lennie' mutineers (1876), Wainwrights (1876), 'Francis' (1876), and Stauntons (1877); defended Governor B. J. Eyre [q. v.] in both civil and criminal proceedings, 1868; recorder of Dover, 1874-1901; Q.C., 1888; became leading counsel for defence in criminal cases; retired and knighted, 1895.

POLLEN, JOHN HUNGERFORD (1830-1902), artist and author; educated at Eton and Christ Church, Oxford; B.A., 1842; M.A., 1844; fellow of, Merton, 1842-52; pro-vice-chancellor, Leeds, 1847-52; joined Church of Rome, 1852; designed ceiling in Merton College chapel, 1850; professor of fine arts at Catholic University, Dublin, 1855-7; joined William Morris Burne-Jones, and others in fresco decoration of Oxford Union Society, 1858; friend of Turner, Millais, and Ruskin; decorated many private houses in England, and built church of St. Mary, Rhyll, 1863; editor of art and industrial departments of South Kensington Museum, 1863-76; private secretary to Marquess of Ripon from 1876; visited India, 1884; did much to reform taste in domestic furniture and decoration; published 'Universal Catalogue of Books on Art', 3 vols. 1870-7, and many official catalogues for South Kensington; 'Life' by Anne Pollen, 1912.

POORE, GEORGE VIVIAN (1843-1904), physician and authority on sanitation; studied medicine at University College Hospital; M.R.C.S., 1866; M.B. and B.S. London, 1868; M.D. 1871; F.R.C.P., 1877; professor of medical jurisprudence at University College Hospital, 1878-93; physician, 1883-1903; published 'Text Book of Electricity in Medicine and Surgery', 1876, 'A Treatise on Medical Jurisprudence', 1901, 'Essays on Rural Hygiene', 1893, and 'The Dwelling House', 2nd ed. 1898.

POPE, GEORGE UGLOW (1820-1908), missionary and Tamil scholar; born in Nova Scotia; brother of William Burt Pope [q. v.]; went to Madras for missionary work, 1839; ordained, 1843; worked in Tinnevely and Tanjore till 1859; founder and headmaster of Ootacamund grammar school, 1859; principal of Bangalore College, 1870; hon. D.D. Lambeth, 1864; teacher of Tamil and Telugu in Oxford University, 1884; hon. M.A., 1886; published in Tamil 'First Catechism of Tamil Grammar', 1842 (reissued with translation, 1895), and other Tamil handbooks; edited classical Tamil works, 'Kural', 1886, 'Nāḷadiyār', 1898, and 'Tiruvacagam', 1900; began catalogue of Tamil books at British Museum, 1890; friend of Browning, whose 'Death in the Desert' he edited, 1897.

POPE, SAMUEL (1826-1901), barrister; called to bar (Middle Temple), 1858; treasurer, 1888-9; recorder of Bolton and Q.C., 1869; leader of the parliamentary bar; temperance advocate and freemason.

POPE, WILLIAM BURT (1822-1903), Wesleyan divine; born in Nova Scotia; served Wesleyan ministries from 1843 to 1867; tutor of systematic theology at Didsbury, 1867-86; hon. D.D. Edinburgh, 1877; president of Wesleyan conference, 1877; publications include 'Compendium of Christian Theology', 3 vols. 1875; edited 'London Quarterly Review', 1860-86; 'Life' by B. W. Moss, 1903.

PORTAL, MELVILLE (1819-1904), politician; educated at Eton and Christ Church, Oxford; B.A., 1842; M.A., 1844; president of Union, 1842; called to bar, 1846; conservative M.P. for northern division of Hampshire, 1849-57; chairman of Hampshire quarter sessions, 1879-1903; reformed treatment of prisoners; published 'The Great Hall of Winchester Castle', 1899.

PORTER, SIR ANDREW MARSHALL, first baronet (1837-1919), judge; son of Rev. J. S. Porter [q. v.]; called to Irish bar, 1860; Q.C., 1873; liberal M.P. for London-derry, and Irish solicitor-general, 1881; attorney-general and P.O. (Ireland), 1888; master of the Rolls in Ireland, 1893-1906; baronet, 1905.

POWELL, JOHN PERCIVAL (1855-1936), classical scholar; B.A., Trinity College, Cambridge; fellow, 1876; classical lecturer, 1884-1909; professor of comparative philology, University College, London, 1880-1910; in charge of 'Classical Review', 1899-1907; of 'Classical Quarterly', 1907-11; largely instrumental in founding Classical Association, 1908; professor of Latin, Liverpool, 1909-20; F.B.A., 1907; his emendations less convincing than his collation and criticism of manuscript evidence; his works include 'Select Elegies of Propertius' (1881), editions of Books VII and VIII of Lucan (1896, 1917), text and translation of Tibullus (1918), 'New Latin Primer' (1888), and edition of 'Corpus Poetarum Latinorum' (1892-4, 1904-5).

POTI, ALFRED (1822-1908), principal of Ouddesdon College; educated at Eton and Magdalen College, Oxford; B.A., 1844; M.A., 1847; B.D., 1864; fellow, 1868; first principal of Ouddesdon Theological College, 1864-8; held various livings, 1867-69; archdeacon of Berkshire, 1869-1903; learned in ecclesiastical law.

POWELL, FREDERICK YORK (1850-1904), regius professor of modern history at Oxford; after two years at Rugby joined Sweden, and studied German and Icelandic; B.A., Christ Church, Oxford, 1877; called to bar, 1874; lecturer in law at Christ Church, 1874-94; student of Christ Church, 1884-94; taught Old English, Old French, and Old German, in addition to law; published 'Early England' for 'Epochs of English History' series, 1876; compiled 'Jointly with Gaudbrand Vigfusson' [q. v.] an 'Icelandic Prose Reader', 1879, and 'Corpus Poeticum Boreale', 2 vols. 1881 (collection of ancient northern poetry with biographies of the poets), as well as 'Origines Islandicæ, poetum', 1906; helped to found 'English Historical Review', 1885; wrote history of 'England to Death of Henry VII.', 1885, and edited 'English History from Contemporary Writers', 1885; regius professor of modern history at Oxford, 1894-1904; translated 'Færeyinga Saga', 1896, and quatrains from 'Omār Kaḡyām', 1901; friend of Verlaine, Verhaeren, and Rodin; president of Irish Text Society; active in foundation of Ruskin College, Oxford, 1899; 'socialist and jingo'; hon. LL.D. Glasgow, 1901; 'Life and Letters' edited by O. Elton, 2 vols. 1906.

POWELL, SIR RICHARD DOUGLAS, first baronet (1843-1935), physician; studied medicine at University College and Hospital, London; owed much to Sir William Jenner [q. v.]; assistant physician, Charing Cross Hospital, 1871; to Middlesex Hospital, 1878; physician, 1880; consulting physician, 1900; also attached to Brompton Hospital; connected with the court for 38 years; very active in life of London medical societies; baronet, 1897; his works include 'Pulmonary Tuberculosis' (6 editions, 1872-1921).

POWER, SIR WILLIAM HENRY (1842-1916), expert in public health; medical inspector, local government board, 1871-87; carried out original work in connexion with infectious diseases; principal medical officer to board, 1900-3; F.R.S., 1896; K.C.B., 1908.

POYNTER, SIR EDWARD JOHN, first baronet (1836-1919), painter and president of the Royal Academy; son of Ambrose Poynter [q. v.]; born in Paris; studied art in London and Paris; exhibited at Royal Academy, 1861-1919; A.R.A., 1868; R.A. 1877; first Slade professor of fine art at University College, London, 1871-5; director for art and principal of National Art Training School, South Kensington, 1875-81; director of National Gallery, 1894-1904; president of Royal Academy, 1896-1916; knighted, 1896; baronet, 1902; gained reputation as painter of subject-pictures in oil and water-colour; reached highest level in four large oil-pictures for Earl of Wharcliffe, 1873-9; executed decorative designs, including frescoes; implanted French principles in English art teaching.

POTTS, JOHN HENRY (1852-1914), physicist; B.A., Trinity College, Cambridge; fellow of Trinity, 1878; professor of physics, Mason College, Birmingham (afterwards Birmingham University), 1880-1914; F.R.S., 1888; most important contributions to physics two Royal Society papers which revolutionised ideas about motion of energy in the electric field; advanced knowledge of pressure of light; 'Collected Scientific Papers' published, 1920.

PRATT, HODGSON (1834-1907), peace advocate; joined East India Company's service at Calcutta, 1847; helped to found Vernacular Literature Society, 1851; settled in England, 1861; active in industrial co-operative movement; president of Working Men's Club Union, 1885-1902; helped to found International Arbitration and Peace Association, 1880; founded and edited its 'Journal,' 1884; died at La Fecq; memorial lecture and scholarship established, 1911.

PRATT, JOSEPH BISHOP (1854-1910), engraver; pupil of David Lucas; from 1896 engraved almost exclusively subjects after Georgian painters, including Bealburn's 'Mrs. Gregory and Lawrence's 'Mrs. Outhbert'; also engraved state portraits by Sir Luke Fildes of Edward VII, 1903, and Queen Alexandra, 1906.

PRATT, SIR WILLIAM HENRY (1884-1913), electrical engineer; in service of Post Office, 1870-1904; engineer in chief, 1899-9; F.R.S., 1881; K.C.B., 1899; studied telegraphy and telephony; early pioneer of wireless telegraphy; introduced improvements in railway signalling.

PRENDERGAST, SIR HARRY NORTH DALRYMPLE (1834-1913), general; son of Thomas Prendergast [q. v.]; born in India; entered army, 1854; V.C. for gallantry during Indian Mutiny, 1857; in command of British Burma division occupied Mandalay, 1885; K.C.B., 1885; general, 1887; G.C.B., 1902.

PRENE, FREDERICK GEORGE HILTON (1842-1909), antiquary; succeeded father as chief acting partner of Child's Bank, Temple Bar, of which he published an account, 1875; compiled 'Handbook of London Bankers,' 1877; ardent Egyptologist, numismatist, and geologist; formed various antiquarian collections, of which that illustrating prehistoric and Roman London became nucleus of London Museum, 1911; the others realised on his death some £15,000, 1909-11; director of Society of Antiquaries, 1894-1909; died at Cannes; also wrote 'The Signs of Old Lombard Street,' 1887.

PRICE, THOMAS (1852-1909), premier of South Australia; born near Wrexham; emigrated to Adelaide, 1883; labour member of house of assembly, 1893; secretary (1900) and parliamentary leader (1901) of labour party; first labour premier, commissioner of public works, and minister of education, 1905-9.

PRINCE, ARCHIBALD PHILIP, fifth EARL OF ROSEBURY (1847-1929), statesman and author; grandson of fourth earl of Rosebery [q. v.]; nephew of fifth Earl Stanhope [q. v.]; educated at Eton and Christ Church, Oxford; succeeded grandfather, 1868; announced his adhesion to liberal cause, 1869; began his career as owner of racehorses, 1869; by 1871 outstanding figure among his contemporaries; elected lord rector of Aberdeen University, 1878; of Edinburgh University, 1880; active in pressing Scottish claims; under-secretary of home office with special charge of Scottish business in House of Lords, 1881; visited New Zealand and Australia, where in course of a series of public speeches he developed his view of imperial relations, based on conception of 'commonwealth of nations,' 1883-4; urged appointment of select committee to consider reform of House of Lords, 1884; first commissioner of works with seat in cabinet as lord privy seal, 1885; secretary for foreign affairs, 1886; in his foreign policy adopted decided attitude on several occasions; in distrusting Russia, maintaining an attitude of friendship towards France, and in laying stress on common interests of Germany and Great Britain secured continuity with policy of Lord Salisbury; declared his adhesion to Gladstonian liberalism in speeches up and down country, 1887; did more than any other contemporary statesman to dissociate idea of empire from aggrandizement and to reconcile liberal opinion to new conception of imperial relations; brought forward further proposals for reform of House of Lords, 1888; chairman of New London county council, 1889-90; secretary of state for foreign affairs, 1892; K.G., 1892; came into conflict with Sir William Harcourt [q. v.] over Uganda and Egypt; intervened successfully in great coal strike, 1893; prime minister, 1894; differences within cabinet soon apparent, friction between prime minister and Harcourt being especially marked; again pressed for reform of House of Lords, 1894; resigned, 1895; as result of Mr. Gladstone's attitude towards Armenian massacres, which threatened to involve Great Britain in war, resigned leadership of liberal party, Oct. 1896; formation of Liberal League, of which he was president, marked definite split between two wings, insular and imperial, of liberal party, Feb. 1902; criticized Anglo-French agreement, 1904; dissociated himself from home rule; severed himself from liberal party, 1906; denounced Mr. Lloyd George's budget, 1909; twice brought forward resolutions for reform of House of Lords, 1910; denounced Parliament Bill, but voted for it as lesser evil than creation of peers to ensure passing of Bill; his works include 'William Pitt' (1891) and 'Sir Robert Peel' (1899) in 'Twelve English Statesmen' series, 'Oliver Cromwell' (1899), 'Napoleon: the Last Phase' (1900), 'Lord Randolph Churchill' (1904), 'Chatham: his Early Life and Connections' (1910), and 'William Windham' (1912); had very successful career as owner of racehorses, winning Derby three times; a notable orator; drawn into politics largely by force of circumstances, and unsuited for public life as he found it; his name not associated with any notable parliamentary measure; proved unequal to re-uniting party shattered by home rule; but will be remembered as missionary of imperial ideas and advocate of reform of House of Lords as means to creation of strong second chamber.

PRINROSE, SIR HENRY WILLIAM (1846-1933), civil servant; B.A., Balliol College, Oxford; entered Treasury, 1869; secretary to H.M. office of works, 1887-95; chairman of board of inland revenue, 1899-1907; member of royal commissions on civil service (1912) and railways (1913); K.C.B., 1899; P.C., 1912.

PRINGLE, WILLIAM MATTHEW RUTHERFORD (1874-1938), politician; M.A., Glasgow University; called to bar (Middle Temple), 1904; Liberal M.P., North-West Lanarkshire, 1910-18; for Penistone division of Yorkshire, 1923-4; devoted adherent of Mr. Asquith; worked unremittingly to try to heal breach in liberal party; had great knowledge of parliamentary procedure.

PRINSEP, VALENTINE CAMERON [VAL PRINSEF] (1838-1904), artist; born at Calcutta; son of Henry Thoby Prinsep [q. v.]; intimate from youth with G. F. Watts; pupil of Gleyre in Paris; influenced by Lord Leighton; exhibited at Royal Academy from 1862 to death; chief works were 'Miriam watching the Infant Moses,' 'Bacchus and Ariadne,' 'The Gleaners,' and 'A Minuet'; painted Lord Lytton's Indian durbar, 1876; A.R.A., 1878; R.A., 1894.

PRIOR, MELTON (1845-1910), war artist; draughtsman for 'Illustrated London News' from 1868; war correspondent for the paper from 1873, depicting all the great wars between Ashanti campaign, 1873, and Russo-Japanese war, 1904; accompanied Edward, Prince of Wales, to Athens, 1875, and George, Prince of Wales, to Canada, 1901, and to Delhi durbar, 1903; his 'Campaigns of a War Correspondent' edited by S. L. Bensusan, 1912.

PRITCHARD, SIR CHARLES BRADLEY (1837-1903), Anglo-Indian administrator; son of Charles Pritchard (1808-1893, q. v.); joined Indian civil service, 1858; at first collector of Bombay salt revenue; suppressed smuggling; reformed system of manufacture and sale of opium and native spirits from 1877; commissioner of customs, 1881, and of salt, 1883; C.S.I., 1886; commissioner of Sind, 1887-9; revenue member of government of Bombay, 1890; K.C.I.E., 1891; member for public works department on viceroy's council, 1893.

PRITCHETT, ROBERT TAYLOR (1828-1907), gunmaker and draughtsman; invented with W. E. Metford [q. v.] 'Pritchett bullet,' 1863, and three-grooved rifle, 1864; exhibited at Royal Academy from 1851; joined staff of 'Punch'; painted many water-colour drawings of royal functions; published accounts of visits to Holland, 1871, and Norway, 1878; artist to Lord [q. v.] and Lady Brassey on tours in 'Sunbeam,' 1883 and 1885; illustrated books and magazines; collected curios and pipes; wrote and illustrated 'Smokiana,' 1890.

PROBERT, LEWIS (1841-1908), Welsh divine; Congregational minister in Rhondda valley and Portmadoc, 1867-96; principal of Congregational College, Bangor, 1896-1908; chairman of Welsh Congregational Union, 1901; published Welsh theological works.

PROCTOR, FRANCIS (1813-1905), divine; B.A., St. Catharine's College, Cambridge, 1834; fellow and tutor, 1842-7; vicar of Wilton, Norfolk, 1847-1905; author of 'A History of the Book of Common Prayer,' 1855, often reprinted; edited 'Sorum Breviary,' 3 vols. 1857-86.

PROCTOR, ROBERT GEORGE COLLIER (1868-1903), bibliographer; grandson of John Payne Collier [q. v.]; B.A. Corpus Christi College, Oxford, 1890; catalogued 3,000 incunabula at the Bodleian Library, 1891-3; assistant in printed books department, British Museum, from 1895 to death; completed in 1898 'Index of Early Printed Books to the year M.D.'; devised a new Greek type; interested himself in Icelandic literature; disappeared while on solitary walking tour in Tyrol; 'Bibliographical Essays' collected in 1906.

PROBERT, JOHN LUMSDEN (1834-1902), physician and art critic; M.B. London, 1857; good etcher; revived taste for miniatures; published 'A History of Miniature Art', 1887.

PROTHERO, SIR GEORGE WALTER (1848-1922), historian; B.A., King's College, Cambridge; fellow, 1873; university lecturer in history, 1884; professor of modern history, Edinburgh, 1894-99; editor of 'Quarterly Review', 1899-1922; co-editor of 'Cambridge Modern History', 1901-12; general editor of Foreign Office Peace Handbooks, 1917-19; F.B.A., 1903; K.B.E., 1920; his works include 'Simon de Montfort' (1877), and 'Select Statutes . . . of the Reigns of Elizabeth and James I' (1894).

PROUT, EBENEZER (1835-1909), musical composer; B.A. London, 1864; organist in London chapels from 1861; professor of pianoforte at Crystal Palace School of Art, 1881-85; editor of 'Monthly Musical Record', 1871-5; introduced Wagner's operas to musical public; composed organ concerto in E minor, 1871, cantatas, orchestral symphonies, and overtures; publications include primers on Instrumentation, 1877, Harmony, 1889, Counterpoint, 1890, Fugue, 1891, and 'The Orchestra', 2 vols. 1897; professor at Royal Academy of Music, 1879, and Guildhall School of Music, 1884, and at Dublin University, 1894; hon. Mus. Doc. Dublin.

PRYNNE, GEORGE RUNDLE (1818-1903), hymn writer; B.A., Catharine Hall, Cambridge, 1840; M.A., 1861; incumbent of St. Peter's, Plymouth, from 1848 to death; his championship of Dr. Fusey's views on Anglican catholicism and extreme ritualism involved him in much controversy and litigation, 1850-2; vice-president of English Church Union, 1901; chief work was 'The Eucharistic Manual', 1866 (10th edit. 1895); author of 'Jesus, meek and gentle, 1866, and other hymns; 'Life' by A. C. Kelway, 1905.

PUDDICOOME, ANNE ADALISA (1836-1908), novelist writing under the pseudonym of ALLEN RAINE; daughter of Benjamin Evans, solicitor; married Beynon Puddicombe, 1872; wrote simple love stories; found difficulty in finding a publisher for her first work, 'A Welsh Slinger', 1877; her novels, which include 'Torn Sails', 1898, 'By Berwen Banks', 1899, and 'On the Wings of the Wind', 1903, had a wide circulation.

PULLER, HENRY WILLIAM (1836-1903), pamphleteer; B.A., Clare College, Cambridge, 1859; M.A., 1862; vicar, choral of York Minster, 1862, and Salisbury Cathedral, 1863-75; obtained fame by allegorical pamphlet 'The Fight at Dame Europa's School', 1870 (1893 thousand, 1874), accusing England of cowardice in observing neutrality in Franco-Prussian war; chaplain on 'Alert' in Arctic expedition of Sir George Nares [q. v.], 1875-6; edited John Murray's 'Handbooks' of travel from 1876; criticized educational system in stories of school life.

PTNE, LOUISA FANNY BODDA (1832-1904), soprano vocalist. [See BODDA PTNE.]

QUARRIE, WILLIAM (1829-1903), philanthropist; entered a pin factory at Glasgow at seven; started boot business at twenty; founded shoeback, news, and parcels brigades in Glasgow, 1864; opened orphan home, 1871; purchased farm of forty acres at Bridge of Weir (1876) where he opened the 'Orphan Homes of Scotland' (1878), which subsequently consisted of fifty villas, with church, poultry farm, consumptive sanatoria, and cemetery.

QUILTER, HARRY (1851-1907), art critic; B.A., Trinity College, Cambridge, 1874; M.A., 1877; called to bar, 1878; art critic and journalist mainly for 'Spectator' and 'The Times', 1878-87; evoked anger and attack from Whistler by his frank criticisms; exhibited oil-paintings in London, 1884-93; edited ambitious 'Universal Review', 1888-90; conducted 'rational' boarding schools at Mitcham and Liverpool, 1894-6; published 'What's What', 1902; art collections realised over £14,000, 1906; published verse, prose, essays, and works on art.

QUILTER, SIR WILLIAM OUTHBERT, first baronet (1841-1911), art collector and politician; brother of H. Quilter [q. v.]; founder and director of National Telephone Co., 1881; developed Bawdsey Estate near Felixstowe, 1883; agriculturist, cattle breeder, and yachtsman; liberal M.P. (1885) and unionist M.P. (1886-1905) for Sudbury; baronet, 1897; formed great art collection which realised £87,780 in 1909.

QUIN, WINDAVEN THOMAS WYNNDHAM, fourth EARL OF DUNRAVEN and MOUNT-BAIL in the peerage of Ireland and second BARON KERRY of the United Kingdom (1841-1896), Irish politician; son of third earl [q. v.]; entered army, 1862; as war-correspondent for 'Daily Telegraph' present at capture of Magdala (1868) and at Versailles (1871); succeeded father, 1871; settled at Adare, co. Limerick; under-secretary for colonies, 1886-6, 1886-7; chairman, House of Lords Committee on Sweating, 1888-90; of Irish Land Conference, report of which became basis for Wyndham Land Act (1903), 1902-3; active on Irish Reform Committee, which advocated policy of 'devolution'; believed in solution of Irish difficulty on federal lines; nominated to serve on first senate of Irish Free State, 1921; a noted sportsman, especially famous for horse-breeding and yachting.

RADCLIFFE-CROCKER, HENRY (1845-1909), dermatologist; studied medicine at University College Hospital, London; M.R.C.S., 1873; L.R.C.P., 1874; B.S., 1874; M.D., 1876; F.R.C.P., 1887; physician and dermatologist at University College Hospital from 1879; member of English and foreign dermatological societies; prominent in affairs of British Medical Association; died at Engelberg, Switzerland; distinguished leprologist; published 'Diseases of the Skin', 1883 (3rd edit. 2 vols. 1908), and 'The Atlas of Diseases of the Skin', 2 vols. 1896; his library, with £1,600 to found scholarship in dermatology, was presented by his widow to University College Hospital.

RAE, WILLIAM FRASER (1835-1905), author; called to bar, 1861; abandoned law for journalism; special correspondent to 'Daily News' in Canada and America; newspaper articles were collected in volumes on Canada and America, Austria and Egypt; he translated Taine's 'Notes on England', 1873; wrote much on 'Junius' problem and on eighteenth-century political history; chief work was 'Sheridan, a Biography', 2 vols. 1896; edited from original MSS. Sheridan's plays, 1902; he also wrote some fiction.

RAGGE, MARIC (1821-1907), sculptor; born at Canarsay, came to London, 1850; executed memorials to Beaconsfield (in Parliament Square) and Gladstone (at Manchester); exhibited busts at Royal Academy, 1878-96.

RAITTON, HERBERT (1858-1910), black-and-white draughtsman; abandoned architecture for book illustration; depicted old buildings with rare delicacy.

RAINE, ALLEN (pseudonym) (1836-1908), novelist. [See PUDDICOOME, ANNE ADALISA.]

RAINES, SIR JULIUS AUGUSTUS ROBERT (1827-1909), general; entered army, 1842; served in Crimean war, 1854-5; commanded 95th regiment throughout Indian Mutiny, 1857-9; C.B., 1859; commanded expedition into Arabia, 1865-6; lieutenant-general, 1877; general, 1881; K.C.B., 1893; G.C.B., 1906; published 'The 95th (Derbyshire) Regiment in Central India', 1900.

RAINY ROBERT (1826-1906), Scottish divine; M.A. Glasgow University, 1844; D.D. 1863; studied for Free Church ministry at Free Church New College, Edinburgh, 1844; minister at Free High Church, Edin., burgh, 1854-63; professor of church history in Free Church College, 1862; principal, 1874-1901; moderator of assembly, 1887, 1900, 1905; advocated 'voluntary' policy; achieved union of reformed presbyterian synod with Free Church, 1876; as convener of 'highland committee' from 1881 raised much money for church endowment; helped to pass the Declaratory Act, 1892; secured union with United Presbyterian Church, 1900; first moderator; writings include 'Three Lectures on the Church of Scotland' (1872, a reply to Dean Stanley), 'The Bible and Criticism', 1878; 'Lives by R. Mackintosh and P. C. Simpson'; his son, ADAM ROLLAND RAINY (1862-1911), surgeon-oculist, was liberal M.P. for Kilmarnock Burghs, 1906-11.

RALEIGH, SIR WALTER ALEXANDER (1861-1929), critic and essayist; son of Alexander Raleigh [q. v.]; B.A., University College, London, and King's College, Cambridge; professor of modern literature, University College, Liverpool, 1889; professor of English language and literature, Glasgow University, 1900; first holder of new chair of English literature at Oxford and fellow of Magdalen College, 1904; Merton professor of English literature and fellow of Merton, 1914; contributed greatly to development of school of English language and literature, his lectures arousing great enthusiasm; his thoughts after 1914 occupied by European war; Clark lecturer in English literature, Trinity College, Cambridge, 1899 and 1911; Leslie Stephen lecturer, 1907; knighted, 1911; his works include 'Style' (1897), 'Milton' (1900), 'Wordsworth' (1903), 'The English Voyages of the Sixteenth Century' (1906), 'Shakespeare' (1907), 'Six Essays on Johnson' (1910), an edition of the 'Complete Works of George Savile, first Marquess of Halifax' (1913), 'The War in the Air'

(1927, vol. 1 of the official history of the Royal Air Force), and many war pamphlets.

RAMIER, MARIE LOUISE DE LA, 'OUIDA,' novelist. [See DE LA RAMIER.]

RAMSAY, ALEXANDER (1852-1909), Scottish journalist; editor of 'Banffshire Journal' from 1847 to death; edited 'Aberdeen-Angus Herd Book,' 1872-1906; hon. LL.D. Aberdeen, 1898; wrote 'History of Agricultural Society of Scotland,' 1879.

RAMSAY, SIR JAMES HENRY, tenth baronet, of Bamff (1852-1925), historian; son of Sir George Ramsay, ninth baronet [q.v.], and nephew of William Ramsay [q.v.]; born at Versailles, B.A., Christ Church, Oxford; student, 1854-61; succeeded father, 1871; F.B.A., 1916; his life-work, writing of the political history of York from the end of Middle Ages; 'Lancaster and York: 1592-1488' (1892), 'The Foundations of England' (1898), 'The Angevin Empire, 1154-1216' (1903), 'The Dawn of the Constitution, 1216-1307' (1908), and 'The Genesis of Lancaster, 1307-1399' (1913); a chronicler rather than a historian, who suffered from comparative isolation, but the narrative part of whose work is invaluable.

RAMSAY, SIR WILLIAM (1852-1916), chemical discoverer; educated at Glasgow University; Ph.D. Tübingen; taught at Glasgow University and carried out investigations in organic chemistry, 1872-80; professor of chemistry, University College, Bristol, 1880-7; principal, 1881; professor of general chemistry, University College, London, 1887-1913; F.R.S., 1888; K.C.B., 1905; Nobel prizeman, 1904; his scientific work in London of three periods; first line of investigation physico-chemical, including determination of molecular complexity of pure liquids; second, discovery of chemically inert elementary gases, argon (in collaboration with J. W. Strutt, third Baron Rayleigh, q.v.), helium, neon, krypton, and xenon; third, proof that the emanation of radium produces helium during its atomic disintegration; greatest chemical discoverer of his time.

RANDALL, RICHARD WILLIAM (1824-1906), dean of Chichester; B.A., Christ Church, Oxford, 1846; M.A., 1849; D.D., 1892; vicar of All Saints, Clifton, 1868-92; hon. canon of Gloucester, 1891; dean of Chichester, 1892-1903; strong ritualist; wrote devotional works.

RANDEGGER, ALBERTO (1832-1911), musician; born at Trieste; settled in London, 1854; organist at St. Paul's, Regent's Park, 1859-70; joined staff of Royal Academy of Music, 1868, and Royal College of Music, 1896; composed grand opera 'Bianca Capello,' operettas, and cantatas; wrote primer on 'Singing'; conducted Italian opera for Sir Augustus Harris, 1887-98, and Norwich triennial festivals, 1881-1905.

RANDLES, MARSHALL (1826-1904), Wesleyan divine; member of legal conference, 1882; tutor of systematic theology at Didsbury, 1836; president of Conference, 1896; advocated total abstinence in 'Britain's Bane and Antidote,' 1864; theological works include 'For Ever, an Essay on Everlasting Punishment,' 1871.

RANDOLPH, FRANCIS CHARLES HINGESTON- (1832-1910), antiquary. [See HINGESTON-RANDOLPH.]

RANDOLPH, SIR GEORGE GRANVILLE (1818-1907), admiral; entered navy, 1830; served off Spain, in the Mediterranean, and in East Indies; in Black Sea and Crimean operations, 1854-5; commodore at Cape of Good Hope, 1867-9; C.B., 1869; vice-admiral, 1877; admiral, 1884; K.C.B., 1897; published 'Problems in Naval Tactics,' 1879; F.R.G.S.

RANSOM, WILLIAM HENRY (1824-1907), physician and embryologist; fellow pupil with Huxley at University College, London; fellow, 1896; M.D. London, 1860; F.R.C.P., 1869; physician to Nottingham General Hospital, 1854-90; F.R.S., 1870; published original researches into oology; devised gas-heating disinfecting stove, 1870; helped to establish University College, Nottingham; published 'The Inflammation Idea in General Pathology,' 1906.

RAFFES, ROBERT WILLIAM (1842-1916), classical scholar; B.A., Trinity College, Oxford; first classes in classical moderations and litterae humaniores; life fellow of Trinity, 1871; tutor, and subsequently lecturer and bursar; vice-president, 1894; declined presidency three times; lectured mainly on Homer, Virgil, Aristophanes, and Tacitus; founded Oxford University Appointments Committee, 1894.

RASHDALL, HASTINGS (1858-1934), moral philosopher, theologian, and historian of universities; educated at Harrow and New College, Oxford; ordained, 1884; fellow of Hertford College, Oxford, 1888; of New College, 1895-1917; taught philosophy for the school of litterae humaniores; canon of Hereford, 1909; dean of Carlisle, 1917-34; an active member of the Christian Social Union; F.B.A., 1909; a figure of importance in English religious thought as a leader of liberal school of Anglicanism; had little sympathy with mystical element in religion, and was above all a moralist; his works include 'The Universities of Europe in the Middle Ages' (expanded from his chancellor's English essay prize [1888], 1896), 'The Theory of Good and Evil' (which embodies his teaching on moral philosophy, 1907), and 'The Idea of Atonement in Christian Theology' (his Bampton lectures [1915], 1919).

RASSAM, HORMUZD (1826-1910), Assyrian explorer; born in Asiatic Turkey; son of Nestorian Christian; converted in youth to protestantism; assisted Sir A. H. Layard [q.v.] in excavations at Nimroud, 1845, and at Kouyunjik (i.e. Nineveh), 1847; for short period at Magdalen College, Oxford, 1848; continued with Layard excavations at Nineveh and Nimroud, 1849, and in Babylon, 1850-1; discovered palace of Ashur-bani-pal at Nineveh; political interpreter at Aden, 1854-61; magistrate and political resident; represented British interests in Zansibar, 1861; sent with two others commissioned by British government to protest against imprisonment at Magdala, by Theodore, king of Abyssinia, of C. D. Cameron [q.v.] and H. A. Stern [q.v.], 1864; was imprisoned in chains at Magdala, 1866; released on arrival of Sir Robert Napier, 1868; narrated his experiences in 'British Mission to Theodore, King of Abyssinia,' 2 vols. 1869; again employed in Asiatic Turkey to inquire into condition of Christian communities, 1877; from 1876 to 1883 made many important finds in Assyria and Babylonia; after 1883 resided at Brighton, writing on Assyriology and, as a strong evangelical, engaging in religious controversy.

RATHBONE, WILLIAM (1819-1902), philanthropist; after much travel became partner in father's Liverpool mercantile firm, 1841; established Liverpool Training School for Nurses, 1862; helped in founding in London National Association for providing trained nurses, 1874; supported Liverpool Cotton Famine Relief Fund, 1862-3; liberal M.P. for Liverpool, 1868-80, for Carnarvonshire, 1880-5, for North Carnarvonshire, 1885-95; president of University College, Liverpool, from 1892, and of University College of North Wales from 1891; LL.D. Victoria University, 1895; published works on social questions; bronze statue by Sir George Frampton at Liverpool; 'Life' by E. F. Rathbone, 1905.

RATTIGAN, SIR WILLIAM HENRY (1842-1904), Anglo-Indian jurist; born at Delhi; called to bar (Lincoln's Inn), 1873; D.L. Göttingen, 1885; formed extensive practice as a barrister at Lahore; vice-chancellor of Punjab University, 1887-95; D.L., 1896; LL.D. Glasgow, 1901; served on viceroy's legislative council, 1892-3; wrote 'A Digest of Civil and Customary Law of the Punjab,' 1880 (7th edit. 1909); knighted, 1895; Q.C. 1897; settled in England, 1901; liberal unionist M.P. for North East Lanark, 1901-4.

RAVEN, JOHN JAMES (1833-1906), archaeologist and campanologist; B.A., Emmanuel College, Cambridge, 1857; M.A., 1860; D.D., 1879; headmaster of Bungay (1859-66) and Yarmouth (1866-85) grammar schools; hon. canon of Norwich, 1888; F.B.A., 1891; published accounts of the church bells of Cambridgeshire (1849), Suffolk (1890), and England (1906), works on Suffolk, and sermons.

RAVERTY, HENRY GEORGE (1828-1906), soldier and Oriental scholar; served in Indian army, 1845-64; present at Multan and Gujarat, 1848-9; published 'Theaurus of English Hindustani Technical Terms,' 1859, Pushto or Afghan grammar, 1855, dictionary, 1860, and anthology, 1860, as well as 'Notes on Afghanistan and Baluchistan,' 4 pts. 1881-8; translated from Persian Minhaj's 'Tabakat-i-Nasir,' and made many contributions to 'Journal of Asiatic Society, Bengal'; left unpublished MSS. on Afghanistan history.

RAWLING, OECIL GODFREY (1870-1917), soldier and explorer; entered army, 1891; explored unsurveyed Western Tibet and Rudok, 1903, Upper Tsampe (Brahmaputra), 1904-5, Dutch New Guinea, 1909; D.S.O., 1917; killed in action in Flanders.

RAWLINSON, GEORGE (1812-1902), canon of Canterbury; B.A., Trinity College, Oxford, 1838; M.A., 1841; president of Union, 1840; fellow of Exeter College, 1840; Bampton lecturer, 1869; Camden professor of ancient history, 1861-89; canon of Canterbury, 1873; rector of All Hallows, Lombard Street, 1888; edited with brother Sir Henry C. Rawlinson [q. v.] 'The History of Herodotus', 4 vols. 1858-60 (abridged edit. 3 vols. 1897); published 'The Five Great Monarchies [viz. Chaldaea, Assyria, Babylonia, Media, and Persia] of the Ancient Eastern World', 4 vols. 1862-7, 'The Sixth Great Monarchy' (i.e. Parthia), 1873, 'The Seventh Great Monarchy' (i.e. Sassanian or new Persian), 1876, and histories of Ancient Egypt, 3 vols. 1881, and Phoenicia, 1889, and many kindred works; wrote life of his brother, 1898.

RAWLINSON, SIR HENRY SEYMOUR, second baronet and BARON RAWLINSON, of Trent (1864-1925), general; son of Sir H. C. Rawlinson, first baronet [q. v.]; gazetted to king's royal rifle, 1884; served in India and Burma, 1884-9; transferred to Coldstream guards, 1891; passed into Staff College, Camberley, 1893; succeeded father, 1898; served at battles of Atbara and Omdurman, 1898; served in South African war, 1899-1902; brigadier-general and commandant of Staff College, 1903; major-general, 1909; commanded third division, 1910-14; commanded IV Corps, 1914-16; led it at Nerve Chapelle, Aubers Ridge, Festubert, and Loos; in temporary command of First Army, 1915; lieutenant-general in command of Fourth Army, 1916; engaged in battle of Somme, July to Nov.; general, 1917; British military representative on Supreme War Council, 1918; commanded Fifth Army, which he reconstituted as Fourth, 1918; attacking astride Somme, fought and won four great battles and eighteen actions, Aug. to Nov.; carried out evacuation of northern Russia by Allied forces, 1919; commander-in-chief, India, 1920-5; carried out reforms in army, introduced process of Indianisation, and opened up North-West Frontier; baron, 1919; died at Delhi.

RAWLINSON, WILLIAM GEORGE (1840-1928), art collector and writer on Turner; collected and studied drawings and engraved work of Turner; produced catalogues of 'Liber Studiorum' (1878) and of 'The Engraved Work of J. M. W. Turner, R.A.' (1908, 1913); sold his collections.

RAWSON, SIR HARRY HOLDSWORTH (1843-1910), admiral; entered navy, 1857; served in China war, 1858-61; reported on capabilities of defence of Suez Canal, 1878; principal transport officer in Egyptian campaign, 1882; C.B.; commander-in-chief at Cape of Good Hope and West coast of Africa station, 1895-8; in command at capture of M'Well and bombardment of Zanzibar, 1895-6; commanded Benin expedition, 1897; K.C.B., 1897; vice-admiral, 1898; commanded Channel squadron, 1898-1901; governor of New South Wales, 1902-9; admiral, 1905; G.C.B., 1904; G.C.M.G., 1908.

RAYLEIGH, third BARON (1849-1919), mathematician and physicist. [See STRUTT, JOHN WILLIAM.]

READ, Sir CHARLES HERCULES (1857-1929), antiquary and art connoisseur; assistant, Department of British and Medieval Antiquities and Ethnography, British Museum, 1880; keeper, 1896; successively secretary and president, Society of Antiquaries; knighted, 1912; F.B.A., 1913; his works include official Museum publications and contributions to publications of learned societies; died at Rapallo.

READ, CLARE SEWBELL (1826-1905), agriculturist; farmed family estates in Norfolk from 1854 to 1896; conservative M.P. for East Norfolk, 1865-7, for South Norfolk, 1868-80, and West Norfolk, 1884-8; served on cattle plague commission, 1865, and on several parliamentary agricultural committees; secretary to local government board, 1874-8; assistant commissioner to inquire into agricultural conditions in Canada and America, 1879; wrote many agricultural papers; chairman of Farmers' Club, 1868 and 1892.

READ, WALTER WILLIAM (1855-1907), Surrey cricketer; by prolific scores raised county to leading position; played for Gentlemen v. Players, 1877-95, and for England v. Australia, 1884-93; visited Australia, 1882-3 and 1887-8, and South Africa, 1891-2; compiled 'Annals of Cricket', 1896.

READ, THOMAS MELLARD (1832-1909), geologist; architect and civil engineer at Liverpool from 1860; laid out Blundellsands estate, 1868; wrote much on glacial and post-glacial geology of Lancashire, on mineral structure of slaty rocks, and on geomorphology; published 'Origin of Mountain Ranges', 1886, and 'Evolution of Earth Structure', 1903; F.G.S., 1872; Murchison medalist, 1896.

REAY, eleventh BARON (1839-1931), governor of

Bombay and first president of the British Academy. [See MACKAY, DONALD JAMES.]

REEDDALE, first BARON (1837-1916), diplomatist and author. [See MITTFORD, ALGERNON HERTRAM FREEMAN.]

REDMOND, JOHN EDWARD (1856-1918), Irish political leader; born at Ballytrent, co. Wexford; educated at Clongowes and Trinity College, Dublin; clerk in House of Commons, 1880; M.P., New Ross, co. Wexford, 1881; sent on political mission to Ireland of Australia and America, 1882-4; chief supporter of Charles Stewart Parnell [q. v.] on split in Irish party, 1890; leader of Parnellite group on Parnell's death, 1891; resigned North Wexford, held since Redistribution Act (1885), 1891; stood for Cork, but heavily defeated; returned for Waterford, sole seat captured by Parnellites; a leading debater in House; adopted statesmanlike policy and conciliatory attitude towards government and anti-Parnellites; chairman of reunited Irish party, 1900; supported land purchase policy of George Wyndham [q. v.]; incurred temporary loss of prestige for himself and party in Ireland through attitude over liberal government's 'devolution' scheme, 1906; recovered ground by 1910; gave tardy support to Irish volunteer movement, 1914; on outbreak of European war (1914) did utmost to promote recruiting in Ireland, but opposed her inclusion in first National Service Bill, 1916; surprised and horrified by Irish Rebellion, 1916; lost the confidence of Ireland, which passed into control of extreme nationalists under De Valera; three main points gained by Irish during his leadership, control of local government, ownership of land, and statutory establishment of Irish parliament with executive responsible to it; nationalist, devoid of hostility to British Empire, who aimed at free Ireland within Empire.

REDMOND, WILLIAM HOBY KEARNEY (1861-1917), Irish nationalist; brother of J. E. Redmond [q. v.]; imprisoned as nationalist 'suspect', 1881; joined brother on political mission to Australia and America, 1883; M.P., Wexford, 1883, North Fermanagh, 1885, East Clare, 1891-1917; re-imprisoned, 1888; violent Parnellite; served in European war; killed in Flanders.

REDPATH, HENRY ADENEY (1848-1908), biblical scholar; B.A., Queen's College, Oxford, 1871; M.A., 1874; D.Litt., 1901; completed 'A Concordance to the Septuagint' begun by Edwin Hatch [q. v.], 3 vols. 1892-1906; Grinfield lecturer on Septuagint at Oxford, 1901-5.

REED, Sir EDWARD JAMES (1830-1906), naval architect; edited 'Mechanic's Magazine', 1853; secretary to newly founded Institution of Naval Architects, 1860; employed by navy to convert wooden men-of-war into armoured ships; chief constructor of the navy, 1863-70; designed and launched 'Bellerophon' on which he introduced longitudinal and bracket frame system, 1865; joined Sir J. Whitworth's ordnance works at Manchester, 1870; designed ships for foreign navies; constructing naval engineer to Indian government and crown colonies, F.R.S., 1876; O.B., 1868; K.C.B., 1880; liberal M.P. for Pembroke boroughs, 1874-80, and for Cardiff, 1880-95, 1900-5; lord of the treasury, 1886; chairman of loan line (1884) and manning of ships (1894) committees; published history of Japan, 2 vols. 1880, 'Treatise on the Stability of Ships', 1884, papers on naval subjects, and verse.

REEVES, Sir WILLIAM CONRAD (1831-1909), chief justice of Barbados; son of negro mother; called to bar, 1863; practised at Barbados; member of local house of assembly, Barbados, 1874; solicitor-general; championed ancient Barbados constitution against schemes of crown government from 1876; attorney-general, 1882; K.C., 1883; chief justice, 1886; knighted, 1889.

REICH, EMIL (1854-1910), historian; born in Hungary, settled in England, 1883, as writer and lecturer at Oxford, Cambridge, and London; voluminous works include 'Graeco-Roman Institutions', 1890, 'Hungarian Literature', 1897, lectures on Plato, 1906, and 'General History of Western Nations—Antiquity', 2 vols. 1908-9; he laid stress as historian on geographical and economic conditions.

REID, AROHBALD DAVID (1844-1908), painter; studied at Trustees' Academy and Royal Scottish Academy, Edinburgh; visited Holland, Italy, and Spain; pupil of Julien at Paris; A.R.S.A., 1889; painted portraits, but mainly sea pieces and landscapes, both in water-colour and in oil; works include 'A Lone Shore', 1875, and 'Harvest Scene', 1878.

REID, SIR GEORGE HOUSTOUN (1845-1918), colonial politician; born in Scotland; taken to Australia, 1859; admitted to colonial bar, 1878; represented East Sydney in legislative assembly, 1880-4, 1885-1901; premier of New South Wales, 1894-9; free-trader, but half-hearted federalist; premier of Australian Commonwealth through coalition with labour party, 1904-5; first Commonwealth high commissioner in London, 1910-15; F.O., 1897; K.C.M.G., 1909; G.C.M.G., 1911; G.O.B., 1916.

REID, JAMES SMITH (1844-1926), classical scholar and ancient historian; B.A., Christ's College, Cambridge; brachetted senior classic, 1868; fellow of Christ's, 1869-73; of Gonville and Caius College, 1878; first professor of ancient history at Cambridge, 1899-1925; F.B.A., 1917; a distinguished Ciceroian scholar; edited works of Cicero; as professor, chiefly concerned with questions of Roman constitutional history.

REID, SIR JOHN WATT (1823-1909), medical director-general of the navy; L.R.C.S. Edinburgh, 1844; M.D. Aberdeen, 1856; entered navy as assistant surgeon, 1845; served as naval surgeon in Black Sea, 1854; in China war, 1857-9; in Ashanti war, 1873-4; deputy inspector-general, 1874-80; inspector-general, 1880-8; K.O.B. 1882.

REID, SIR ROBERT GILLESPIE (1842-1908), Canadian contractor and financier; emigrated from Perthshire to Australia, 1865; subsequently settled at Montreal; carried out many important building and engineering contracts; built bridges across Niagara river at Buffalo, and across the Rio Grande between Texas and Mexico, and railways in Newfoundland; president of Reid-Newfoundland Company, which had control of Newfoundland railways, the St. John's dry dock, and immense tracts of land; knighted, 1907.

REID, ROBERT THRESHIE, EARL LOREBURN (1846-1933), lord chancellor; born at Corfu; educated at Cheltenham and Balliol College, Oxford; first classes in classical moderations and literae humaniores; Ireland scholar; a noted athlete; called to bar (Inner Temple), 1871; joined Oxford circuit; quickly made his mark, particularly in commercial suits; liberal M.P., Hereford, 1880; Q.C., 1882; M.P., Dumfries, as supporter of Mr. Gladstone's Irish policy, 1886-1905; solicitor-general and knighted, May 1894; attorney-general, Oct. 1894; arbitrated successfully in boundary dispute between Venezuela and British Guiana, 1899; standing counsel for Oxford University, 1899-1906; supported Boer cause during South African war, 1899-1902; lord chancellor, with title of Lord Loreburn, 1905; principal legal achievement as lord chancellor establishment of Court of Criminal Appeal, 1907; advocated extension of jurisdiction of county courts; as liberal placed in difficult position of presiding over almost entirely hostile House of Lords; wholeheartedly supported Parliament Bill, 1911; earl, 1911; resigned, 1913.

REID, SIR THOMAS WEMYSS (1842-1905), journalist and biographer; early took up journalism; chief reporter on 'Newcastle Journal', 1861; editor of 'Preston Guardian', 1864; head of reporting staff of 'Leeds Mercury', 1866; obtained admission of provincial reporters to press gallery of House of Commons, 1881; editor of 'Leeds Mercury', 1870-87; of moderate liberal views; supported Gladstone's home rule policy and Forster's education bill; manager of Cassell's publishing firm from 1887 to death; founded (1890) and edited till 1897 the 'Speaker', a weekly liberal organ; friend and supporter of Lord Rosebery; knighted, 1894; hon. LL.D. St. Andrews, 1898; wrote lives of Charlotte Brontë, 1877, W. E. Forster, 2 vols. 1888, Lord Houghton, 2 vols. 1890, Lord Playfair, 1899, and William Black, 1902; a successful novelist; memoirs edited by S. J. Reid, 1905.

RENDAL, SIR ALEXANDER MEADOWS (1829-1918), civil engineer; son of James Meadows Rendel (q.v.), and brother of George Wightwick Rendel (q.v.); head of father's practice, 1856; designed docks and harbours; consulting engineer to Indian State Railways, 1872; K.C.I.E., 1887.

RENDAL, GEORGE WIGHTWICK (1833-1902), civil engineer; son of James Meadows Rendel (q.v.); assistant to father; partner in Sir William Armstrong's ordnance works at Elswick, 1862; responsible for hydraulic method of mounting and working heavy guns and introduction of cruiser, intermediate between armour-clad and unprotected war vessel; extra professional civil lord of admiralty, 1882-5; settled near Naples as director of Armstrong Possuoli company, 1867; friend of Empress Frederick of Germany and Lord Rosebery.

REPPINGTON, CHARLES A COURT (1858-1935), soldier and military writer; joined rifle brigade, 1876; entered Staff College, Camberley, 1887; military attaché, Brussels and The Hague, 1898; served in South African war, 1899-1900; his military career closed owing to an indisposition, 1903; military correspondent first of 'Morning Post', then of 'The Times', 1904-18; returned to 'Morning Post' and later joined 'Daily Telegraph'.

REYNOLDS, JAMES EMERSON (1844-1929), chemist; born in co. Dublin; studied medicine in Edinburgh; abandoned medicine for chemistry; analyst to Royal Dublin Society, 1868-76; discovered thioacarbamide, 1868; professor of chemistry, Royal College of Surgeons, Dublin, 1870-5, at Trinity College, Dublin, 1875-1908; F.R.S., 1880.

REYNOLDS, OSBORNE (1842-1919), engineer and physicist; B.A., Queens' College, Cambridge; professor of engineering, Owens College, Manchester, 1868-1905; conducted long series of investigations into mechanical questions and physical phenomena such as lubrication, laws of flow of water in pipes, &c.; F.R.S., 1877; gold medallist of Royal Society, 1888; collected scientific papers published, 1900-3.

RHODES, CECIL JOHN (1853-1902), Imperialist and benefactor; fifth son of Francis William Rhodes, vicar of Bishop's Stortford, Hertfordshire; was educated at Bishop's Stortford grammar school, 1861-9; owing to failure of health, he went to South Africa to join his eldest brother, who was growing cotton in Natal, 1870; removed to Orange Free State on discovery of diamonds there, 1871; worked with his brother a moderately prosperous claim; meanwhile matriculated at Oriel College, Oxford, 13 Oct. 1873; revisited Oxford at frequent intervals until he succeeded in graduating as a passman B.A. and M.A., 17 Dec. 1881; during this period Rhodes with partners increased his holdings in Kimberley diamond fields, obtaining a large interest in the De Beers mines there; in 1880 he helped to establish De Beers mining company; during 1876 he made solitary journey through Bechuanaland and Transvaal; formed the aspiration to work with Dutch settlers and to federate South Africa under British rule with Cape Dutch assent; was elected to Cape legislature for newly formed constituency of Barkly West (1880) and retained seat for life; in the South African parliament he from the first sought to maintain wide powers of local self-government while extending British settlement and influence; soon concentrated political activities on northern expansion of the British dominion; aided in securing great part of Bechuanaland for the Cape government in spite of rivalry of Transvaal Republic, 1882; when the whole of Bechuanaland was formally annexed, Rhodes was made deputy commissioner, 1884; and he negotiated in person with President Kruger the withdrawal of Boer claims to portions of the territory. After he had made terms with Lobengula, king of Matabeleland, the British South Africa Company was incorporated by royal charter to administer territory north of Bechuanaland, 1889; this territory was named Rhodesia after the projector of the scheme. In 1887 and 1888 Rhodes succeeded in amalgamating the diamond mines about Kimberley under the style of the Consolidated Mines, a corporation of which he became chairman and ruler; by skilful negotiation this new company acquired the interest in the Kimberley mine which had been controlled by Rhodes's chief rival in the diamond fields, Barnett Isaacs Barnato (q.v.); at the same time Rhodes acquired important share in the newly-discovered gold mines on Witwatersrand in the Transvaal and helped to form the corporation known as the Consolidated Goldfields of South Africa. In the organisation of Rhodesia by the chartered company, of which (Sir) L. S. Jameson (q.v.) became administrator in 1890, Rhodes played an energetic part. He directed the war with the Matabeles, 1893-4, whereby he greatly extended the company's territory. From July 1890 to Jan. 1896 he was also prime minister of the Cape; his ministry carried through reforms in local administration and native policy, and sought to unite English and Dutch interests; in pursuit of his ideal of imperial federation he subscribed in 1890 £10,000 to the home rule party in England; in 1893 he reconstructed his ministry owing to internal differences. At the end of 1895 Rhodes secretly encouraged the Uitlander population on the Rand and in the Transvaal to look to an armed insurrection for redress of their grievances against the Transvaal government; the failure of Jameson's precipitate raid in support of this movement (27 Dec. 1895) seriously involved Rhodes; inquiries by both the Cape Parliament and the British House of Commons pronounced Rhodes guilty of grave breaches of duty; resigning office of premier (6 Jan. 1896) and for a time the directorship of the Chartered Company, which he resumed in 1898, he devoted himself to the development of Rhodesia; through his personal influence with the chiefs he effected a permanent peace with the Matabeles after a new outbreak, 1896; and he greatly extended railway and telegraph communication. He was made hon. D.C.L. Oxford, 1899, in spite of some protests. On outbreak of South African war he moved to Kimberley and was besieged there (15 Oct. 1899-16 Feb. 1900); next year he spent much time in Europe, returning to the Cape in Feb. 1902. He died after long suffering from heart disease on 26 March at the village of Muizenburg, being buried among the Matopopo Hills; by his will he left some £6,000,000 to the public service, endowing some 170 scholarships at Oxford for students from the colonies, the United States, and Germany; £100,000 was left to his old college, Oriel; sculptured memorials are at Bulawayo, Grahamstown, Cape Town, Kimberley, and on the Grootte Schuur slopes of Table Mountain outside Cape Town; an unfinished portrait by Watnis is in the National Portrait Gallery.

RHODES, FRANCIS WILLIAM (1851-1906), colonel; brother of C. J. Rhodes (q. v.); joined army, 1873; served in Sudan and Nile expedition, 1884-5; colonel, 1889; military secretary to Lord Harris at Bombay, 1890-3; military member of council in Matabeleland, 1894; imprisoned and fined for complicity in Jameson Raid, 1895-6; war correspondent to 'The Times' at Omdurman, 1898; distinguished himself in South African war, 1899-1900; C.B., 1900; died at Cape Town.

RHONDA, VISCONTI (1856-1918), statesman, colliery proprietor, and financier. [See THOMAS, DAVID ALFRED.]

REYS, SIR JOHN (1840-1915), Celtic scholar; B.A., Jesus College, Oxford; fellow of Merton College, 1869; first Jesus professor of Celtic at Oxford, 1877; fellow and bursar of Jesus, 1881-95; principal, 1895-1915; knighted, 1907; P.C., 1911; served on numerous commissions dealing with education and social advancement especially in Wales, 1881-1915; prolific writer on Celtic philology, phonology, inscriptions, history, religion, ethnology, and folk-lore.

RICHARDS, SIR FREDERICK WILLIAM (1833-1912), admiral; entered navy, 1848; captain, 1866; commanded 'Devastation', first steam turret battleship designed without any sail power, 1873-7; C.B. for services at battle of Ginginhlovo and relief of Eshowe during Zulu war, 1879; K.C.B. for services at Laing's Nek in Boer war, 1881; junior naval lord at admiralty, 1882; largely responsible for able report on manoeuvres of 1888, a determining cause of Naval Defence Act, 1889; vice-admiral, 1888; second naval lord, 1892; admiral, 1893; first naval lord, 1893-9; promoted ship-building and construction of harbours and dockyards; G.C.B., 1895; admiral of fleet, 1898; a leading administrator in naval history.

RICHMOND, SIR WILLIAM BLAKE (1842-1921), artist; son of George Richmond, R.A. (q. v.); entered Royal Academy Schools, 1858; studied in Italy, 1865-9; Slade professor of fine art, Oxford, 1879-83; A.R.A., 1888; I.A., 1895; K.C.B., 1897; painted subject pictures from classical mythology; successful portrait painter; best-known work mosaic decorations for St. Paul's Cathedral.

RICHMOND AND GORDON, sixth DUKE OF (1818-1903), lord-president of the council. [See GORDON-LENNOX, CHARLES HENRY.]

RIDDELL, CHARLES JAMES BUCHANAN (1817-1903), major-general R.A., meteorologist; joined royal artillery, 1834; superintendent of meteorological observatory, Toronto, 1839; assistant superintendent of Ordnance Magnetic Observatories of Royal Military Repository, Woolwich, 1840-4; F.R.S., 1842; served in Crimea and Indian Mutiny; C.B., 1858; major-general, 1866.

RIDDELL, CHARLOTTE ELIZA LAWSON (1832-1906), novelist, known as MRS. J. H. RIDDELL; wrote thirty novels, including 'George Geth of Fen Court', 1864; made commerce a frequent theme; co-proprietor and editor of 'St. James's Magazine' from 1861.

RIDDING, GEORGE (1828-1904), headmaster of Winchester and first bishop of Southwell; educated at Winchester and Balliol College, Oxford; Craven scholar and B.A., 1851; M.A., 1853; D.D., 1869; fellow of Exeter College, 1851; tutor, 1853-63; hon. fellow, 1890; headmaster of Winchester, 1866-84; 'second founder of Winchester,' extending buildings, playing fields, and staff; modernized curriculum; founded school mission at Landport in Portsmouth, 1882; first bishop of Southwell, 1884-1904; created a corporate spirit in diocese; published 'The Revel and the Battle' (sermons), 1897; 'Life' by widow, Lady Laura Ridding, 1908.

RIDGEWAY, SIR JOSEPH WEST (1844-1930), soldier and administrator; entered Bengal Infantry, 1860; political secretary to Major-General (afterwards Earl) Roberts (q. v.), 1879; distinguished himself on English commission sent to determine with Russian commission ill-defined northern boundary of Afghanistan, 1884-6; sent to St. Petersburg to resume negotiations, a final and satisfactory agreement being reached, 1887; under-secretary for Ireland, 1887-92; governor of Isle of Man, 1893-5; of Ceylon, 1896-1903; chairman of committee sent to Africa which reported in favour of granting responsible government to Transvaal and Orange River Colony, 1906; president, British North Borneo Company, 1910; K.C.S.I., 1886.

RIDGEWAY, SIR WILLIAM (1853-1926), classical scholar; educated at Trinity College, Dublin, and Gonville and Caius College, Cambridge; fellow of his college, 1880; professor of Greek, University College, Cork, 1883; Disney professor of archaeology, Cambridge, 1892-1926; Breton reader in classics, 1907-26; opposed granting degrees to women and abolition of compulsory Greek; published 'The Origin of Metallic Currency and Weight Standards,' which threw flood of light on early life of Mediterranean lands, 1892; published first volume of 'Early Age of Greece,' 1901; second volume posthumously published, 1931; this, his chief contribution to history, aroused bitter controversy; other works include 'The Origin and Influence of the Thoroughbred Horse' (1905) and 'The Origin of Tragedy' (1910); F.B.A., 1910; knighted, 1919.

RIDLEY, SIR MATTHEW WHITE, fifth baronet, and first Viscount RIDLEY (1842-1904), home secretary; educated at Harrow and Balliol College, Oxford; B.A. (first class classic), 1865; M.A., 1867; fellow of All Souls, 1866-74; conservative M.P. for North Northumberland, 1868-85; under-secretary to home office, 1878; financial secretary to treasury, 1885; M.P. for Blackpool, 1886-1900; P.C., 1892; home secretary, 1895-1900; raised to peerage, 1900; chairman of North Eastern Railway from 1902; developed town of Blyth; as chairman of board of commissioners he transformed harbour and dock there; president of Royal Agricultural Society, 1888.

RIEU, CHARLES PIERRE HENRI (1820-1902), Orientalist; born at Geneva; studied Arabic and Sanskrit at Bonn; Ph.D., 1843; assistant in department of Oriental MSS. at British Museum, 1847; keeper, 1867-95; compiled catalogues of Oriental, Persian, and Turkish MSS. there; Adams professor of Arabic at Cambridge, 1894-1902.

RIGBY, SIR JOHN (1834-1903), judge; B.A., Trinity College, Cambridge (second wrangler and second Smith's prizeman), and fellow, 1856; M.A., 1859; called to bar, 1860; Q.C., 1880; secured large practice in Court of Appeal and House of Lords; liberal M.P. for Wisbech, 1865-8, for Fonthill, 1892-4; solicitor-general and knighted, 1899; attorney-general, 1894; judge of Court of Appeal and P.C., 1894-1901; a master of the science of equity.

RIGGS, JAMES HARRISON (1821-1909), Wesleyan divine; ordained, 1849; served in successive circuits till 1868; contributor from 1853 and sole editor (1868-98) of 'London Quarterly Review'; explained theological position in 'Principles of Wesleyan Methodism,' 1850, and 'Modern Anglican Theology,' 1857; principal of Westminster (Wesleyan) training college for day school teachers, 1868-1903; favoured denominational schools, 1870; member of London school board, 1870-6; member of royal commission on elementary education, 1886-8; president of Wesleyan conference, 1878 and 1899; carried 'Sandwich compromise,' 1890, giving larger share to laity in work of conference; voluminous writings include 'The Living Wesley,' 1875, 'Oxford High Anglicanism,' 1895, and 'Reminiscences Sixty Years Ago,' 1904; 'Life' by son-in-law, J. Telford, 1909.

RIGGS, JAMES MCMULLEN (1855-1926), biographer, historian, and translator; son of J. H. Rigg [q. v.]; B.A., St. John's College, Oxford; contributed over 600 articles to this DICTIONARY; editorial work includes 'A Calendar of State Papers, ... Rome' (2 vols. [1558-75], 1916, 1926); wrote 'St. Anne of Canterbury' (1896).

RIGGS, SYDNEY (1835-1910), physician; studied medicine at University College, London; M.B., 1860; M.A., 1865; M.R.C.P., 1865; F.R.C.P., 1870; physician to University College Hospital, 1865-1900; Rokeby professor of clinical medicine, 1887-1900; wrote 'A Handbook of Therapeutics', 1869 (13th edit. 1897); made many physiological researches; F.R.S., 1885.

RIPON, first MARQUESS OF (1837-1909), statesman. [See ROBINSON, GEORGE FREDERICK SAMUEL.]

RILEY, SIR HERBERT HOPKINS (1851-1911), Indian civil servant and anthropologist; educated at Winchester and New College, Oxford; B.A., 1875; joined Indian civil service, 1875; under-secretary (1879) and secretary (1903) to Indian government in home department; employed in compiling statistics of castes and occupations of people of Bengal, 1885; C.I.E., 1892; census commissioner, 1899; director of ethnography for India, 1901; C.S.I., 1904; K.C.I.E., 1907; secretary to public and judicial department at India office, 1910; chief anthropological works were 'Anthropometric Data', 2 vols. 1891, 'Tribes and Castes of Bengal', 1891-3, 'Ethnographical Glossary', 2 vols. 1892, and 'The People of India', 1908.

RITCHIE, ANNE ISABELLA, LADY RITCHIE (1837-1919), novelist and woman of letters; daughter of William Makepeace Thackeray [q. v.]; wife of Sir Richmond T. W. Ritchie [q. v.]; works include 'The Village on the Cliff' (1867) and 'Old Kensington' (1873).

RITCHIE, CHARLES THOMSON, first BARON RITCHIE, of Dundee (1838-1906), statesman; after education at City of London School (1849-53), he joined his father's firm, William Ritchie & Son, East India merchants, jute spinners, and manufacturers, of London and Dundee; conservative M.P. for the Tower Hamlets, 1874-85, for St. George's in the East, 1885-92, and for Croydon, 1895-1905; became chairman of a select committee appointed on his own motion (22 April 1879) to consider measures to protect West Indian cane sugar from the injurious effects of the bounty system whereby European countries stimulated the competing production of beet sugar; financial secretary to the admiralty, 1885-6; took steps to accelerate process of shipbuilding and to decrease the cost; became president of local government board, July 1886; was admitted to cabinet, 1887; carried revolutionary local government bill for England and Wales, 1888, which created 'county councils' for counties and large towns, and superseded in London the metropolitan board of works; at the same time he devised complementary scheme of district and parish councils, which he was compelled to drop, but which was made law by his liberal successor in 1894; was responsible for other important administrative acts, including the Public Health Act of 1891; president of board of trade, 1895-1900; carried Conciliation Act for settlement of labour disputes (1896), the Light Railways Act (1896), the Merchant Shipping Act (1898), the Railway Employment (Prevention of Accidents) Act (1900), and Companies Act (1900); established an intelligence branch of commercial labour and statistical departments of board of trade, Oct. 1899; became home secretary Nov. 1900; passed Factory and Workshop Act (1900), Youthful Offenders Act (1901), and Licensing Act (1902); was appointed chancellor of the exchequer, when Mr. Balfour became prime minister, Aug. 1902; dropped in his budget of 1903, in spite of dissent within the cabinet, the shilling a quarter duty on corn which his predecessor, Sir Michael Hicks Beach [q. v.], had imposed the year before; resisted in the cabinet Mr. Chamberlain's proposals of tariff reform; resigned owing to consequent breach in the cabinet, 14 Sept. 1903; explained to his constituents that he was opposed to any fiscal arrangement with the colonies which would compel a tax on the food of the people; raised to peerage, 17 Dec. 1905; died at Biarritz, 19 Jan. 1906; noted in political circles for grasp of complicated detail and shrewd common-sense.

RITCHIE, DAVID GEORGE (1858-1908), philosopher; M.A. Edinburgh University, 1875; hon. LL.D., 1898; B.A., Balliol College, Oxford, 1878; fellow of Jesus College, 1878; tutor of Balliol, 1882-6; professor of logic and metaphysics at St. Andrews, 1894-1903; president of Aristotelian Society, 1898-9; works, influenced by Hegel, include 'Darwinism and Politics', 1899, 'Principles of State Interference', 1891, 'Natural Rights', 1895, and 'Plato', 1903; 'Philosophical Studies' edited with memoir by Frot. B. Latte, 1906.

RITCHIE, SIR RICHMOND THACKERAY WILLOUGHBY (1854-1912), civil servant; born at Calcutta; B.A., Trinity College, Cambridge; entered India Office, 1877; private secretary to secretary of state for India, 1896-1903; secretary in political and secret department, India Office, 1903-9; permanent under-secretary of state, 1909; K.C.B., 1907.

RIVAZ, SIR CHARLES MONTGOMERY (1845-1936), Anglo-Indian administrator; entered Indian civil service, 1864; superintendent of Kapurthala State, 1876-85; commissioner of Lahore, 1887-93; financial commissioner of Punjab, 1892-7; appointed to executive council of governor-general, as member in charge of home department and revenue and agricultural departments, 1897; promoted Punjab Land Alienation Act, 1900; lieutenant-governor of Punjab, 1903-7; K.O.S.I., 1901; a firm and progressive administrator, who ensured for the agricultural population a just and efficient official rule.

RIVIERE, BRITON (1840-1920), painter; son of William Riviere [q. v.]; came of artistic family; educated at Cheltenham and St. Mary Hall, Oxford; exhibited in oil- and water-colour at Royal Academy from 1858; A.R.A., 1877; R.A., 1880; much influenced by artists of new Scottish school, such as Orchardson and Pettie; best known for paintings of lions and other animals, although he himself cared less for these.

ROBECK, SIR JOHN MICHAEL DE, baronet (1862-1928), admiral of the fleet. [See DE ROBECK.]

ROBERTS, ALEXANDER (1836-1901), classical and biblical scholar; M.A., King's College, Old Aberdeen, 1847; D.D. Edinburgh, 1864; member of New Testament revision company, 1870-84; professor of humanity at St. Andrews, 1872-99; voluminous works include 'Greek the Language of Christ and His Apostles', 1888.

ROBERTS, FREDERICK SLEIGH, first MARL ROBERTS, of Kandahar, Pretoria, and Waterford (1832-1914), field-marshal; son of General Sir Abraham Roberts [q. v.]; born at Cawnpore; educated at Sandhurst and Addiscombe; joined Bengal Artillery, 1851; served in Indian Mutiny, 1857-8; won V.C., 1858; accompanied Sir Robert Napier on Abyssinian expedition as assistant quartermaster-general, 1868; C.B., 1871; quartermaster-general of army in India, 1875; advocate of 'forward' policy in India, i.e. prevention of control by Russia of passes of the Himalaya; commander of Punjab frontier force, 1878; major-general and K.C.B. for victory over Afghans at Peiwar Kotol, 1878; defeated Afghans at Charasia and occupied Kabul, 1879; conducted celebrated march from Kabul to Kandahar, resulting in pacification of Afghanistan, 1880; G.O.B., baronet, and commander-in-chief of Madras army, 1880; commander-in-chief in India, 1885-93; baron, 1892; left India for good, 1893; field-marshal, 1896; commander-in-chief in Ireland, 1898-9; appointed to supreme command in South Africa, end of 1899; at once increased number of mounted troops, and with help of Lord Kitchener [q. v.] remodelled transport; decided to invade Free State; received unconditional surrender of General Cronje at Paardeberg, Feb. 1900; occupied Bloemfontein (March), Johannesburg (May), Pretoria (June); defeated General Louis Botha [q. v.] at Diamond Hill (June); captured Machodorp, temporary seat of President Kruger's government (July); returned to England after annexation of Transvaal in Oct.; earl and K.G. for services in saving situation in Boer war, 1900; commander-in-chief, 1900-5; devoted remainder of his life to cause of national service, becoming president of National Service League, 1908; colonel-in-chief of Indian expeditionary force dispatched to France, 1914; died at St. Omer on way to visit it; wrote 'Forty-one Years in India' (1897).

ROBERTS, GEORGE HENRY (1849-1938), politician and labour leader; educated at a Norwich national school; apprenticed to printing trade; became active in Norwich local politics as a leader of Independent Labour Party; labour M.P., Norwich, 1906; left the party, 1914; lord commissioner of Treasury, 1915; parliamentary secretary to board of trade, 1916; minister of labour with seat in cabinet, 1917; broke entirely with labour party, 1918; food-controller, 1919-20; lost seat in standing as unionist, 1923.

ROBERTS, ISAAC (1839-1904), amateur astronomer; master builder in Liverpool, 1860-88; made many geological researches; F.G.S., 1870; experimented in stellar photography at Liverpool from 1888; his photograph of the Pleiades revealed new knowledge of structure of the group, 1888; successfully photographed great nebula in Andromeda (1888) and in Orion (1889); settled at Crowborough, Sussex, 1890; published selections of stellar photographs, 1898 and 1899; F.R.S., 1890; hon. D.Sc. Dublin, 1899; gold medalist, Royal Astronomical Society, 1899; left residue of estate for founding scholarships at Liverpool, Bangor, and Cardiff.

ROBERTS, ROBERT DAVIES (1861-1911), educational administrator; B.Sc. London, 1870; D.Sc., 1878; B.A., Clare College, Cambridge (second in natural science tripos), 1878; M.A., 1878; fellow, 1884-90; university lecturer in geology, Cambridge, 1884; published 'Earth's History: an Introduction to Modern Geology', 1893; secretary to London Society for Extension of University Teaching, 1888-94; in charge of Cambridge syndicate for university extension, 1894-1902; registrar of London University Extension Board, 1902; chairman of executive committee of University of Wales, 1910-11.

ROBERTS-AUSTIN, SIR WILLIAM OHANLBER (1848-1902), metallurgist; associate of Royal School of Mines, South Kensington, 1868; chemist of Royal Mint, 1870-89; chemist and assayer, 1882-1902; professor of metallurgy at Royal School of Mines, 1890-1902; member of war office explosives committee, 1899; initiated alloys research work at Institution of Mechanical Engineers, 1899; invented automatic recording pyrometer, 1891; F.R.S., 1878; hon. general secretary of British Association, 1897-1902; president of Iron and Steel Institute, 1899-1901; hon. D.C.L. Durham, 1897; D.Sc. Manchester, 1901; O.B., 1890; K.C.B., 1899; published 'An Introduction to Metallurgy', 1891 (6th edn, 1910).

ROBERTSON, DOUGLAS MORAY COOPER LAMB AROYLL (1837-1909), ophthalmic surgeon; M.D. St. Andrews, 1867; F.R.C.S. Edinburgh, 1862; president, 1886-7; published researches proving value of Calabar bean in ophthalmology, 1869; ophthalmic surgeon to Royal Infirmary, Edinburgh, 1867-97; described 'the Argyll Robertson pupil' in 'Edinburgh Medical Journal', 1869-70; hon. LL.D. Edinburgh, 1896; died in India on a third visit.

ROBERTSON, SIR GEORGE SCOTT (1852-1916), Anglo-Indian administrator; entered Indian medical service, 1878; surgeon to British political agent in Gilgit, 1889; British agent in Gilgit, 1894; held out, till relieved, in Chitral with small, ill-provisioned force against combined Pathan and rebel Chitral armies, 4 March-20 April, 1895; K.O.S.I., 1895; retired, 1899; liberal M.P., Central Bradford, 1906.

ROBERTSON, JAMES PATRICK BANNERMAN, BARON ROBERTSON, of Forteviot (1848-1909), lord president of the Court of Session in Scotland; M.A. Edinburgh University, 1864; hon. LL.D., 1890; lord rector, 1893; passed to Scottish bar, 1867; Q.C., 1886; solicitor-general for Scotland, 1888 and 1889; conservative M.P. for Buteshire, 1885-6, 1888-91; lord advocate and P.C., 1889; carried Local Government (Scotland) Act, 1889; lord president of the court of session, 1891; life peer, and member of judicial committee of privy council, 1899; chairman of Irish University Commission (report published, 1904); hostile to Mr. Chamberlain's tariff policy.

ROBINSON, FREDERICK WILLIAM (1830-1901), novelist; published 'The House of Elmore', 1856, and some fifty succeeding novels dealing mainly with semi-religious themes or low life: the chief were 'Grandmother's Money', 1860, 'High Church', 1860, 'Christie's Faith', 1867, and 'Anne Judge, Spinster', 1867; edited 'Home Chimes', 1884-93; friend of Swinburne, Theodore Watts Dunton, and Sir Henry Irving.

ROBINSON, GEORGE FREDERICK SAMUEL, first MARQUESS OF RIPON (1837-1909), statesman; born at 10 Downing Street, while his father, first Viscount Goderich and first earl of Ripon (q.v.), was prime minister; was known as Viscount Goderich, 1852-59; attached to Sir Henry Ellis's abortive mission to Brussels to negotiate peace between Austria and Piedmont, 1849; joined F. D. Maurice's Christian Socialist movement and turned intimacy with Thomas Hughes, 1849; pleaded for democracy in 'The Duty of the Age', a Christian Socialist tract which Maurice suppressed as being too radical, 1853; actively engaged in Volunteer movement, 1859; liberal M.P. for Rutherford, 1853-7, and for West Riding of Yorkshire, 1857-9; succeeded his father as Earl of Ripon and his uncle as Earl de Grey, 1859.

became, under Palmerston, under-secretary at the war office, June 1859, at the India office, Jan.-July 1861, and again at the war office, July 1861-April 1863; secretary for war and P.O. with seat in the cabinet, 1863-6; secretary for India, 1866; lord president of council under Gladstone, 1868-73; K.G., 1869; hon. D.C.L. Oxford, 1870; chairman of joint high commission for the settlement of American claims against Great Britain, 1871; made marquess, 23 June 1871; resigned cabinet office, Aug. 1874; was received into Roman Catholic communion, 7 Sept. 1874; appointed governor-general of India, 28 April 1880; settled critical difficulties in Afghanistan, 1880; repealed restrictions on the vernacular press, and encouraged development of self-government in India, 1883; provoked controversy by proposals to subject Europeans and Americans to trial by native Indian magistrates or judges ('the Ibert bill'); accepted a satisfactory compromise; developed system of provincial settlements; retired from India, Dec. 1884; became first lord of the admiralty in Gladstone's first home rule cabinet, 1886; received freedom of City of Dublin, 1888; colonial secretary, 1890-5; lord privy seal with leadership of liberal party in House of Lords, 1905-8.

ROBINSON, SIR JOHN (1839-1903), first prime minister of Natal; left Hull with parents for Natal, 1860; succeeded father as manager of 'Natal Mercury', 1860; member of council for Durban, 1862-82, and from 1884; represented Durban at Colonial Conference in London, 1887; K.C.M.G., 1889; advocated, from 1883 self-government for colony; first prime minister, colonial secretary, and minister of education, 1893-7; published 'A Lifetime in South Africa', 1900.

ROBINSON, SIR JOHN CHARLES (1894-1913), art connoisseur and collector; first superintendent of South Kensington Museum art collections, 1882-89; surveyor of Queen's pictures, 1882-1901; adviser to private collectors; knighted, 1887; J.B., 1901.

ROBINSON, SIR JOHN RICHARD (1838-1903), journalist; sub-editor of Unitarian journal the 'Inquirer', 1848; editor of evening 'Express', 1855; manager of 'Daily News', 1868-1901; obtained descriptive accounts of Franco-German war, 1870, and of Turkish atrocities in Bulgaria, 1876; knighted, 1893; showed sympathy with Boers in South African war, 1899-1902; conspicuous member of Reform Club; 'Recollections' by F. M. Thomas, 1904.

ROBINSON, SIR JOSEPH BENJAMIN, first baronet (1840-1939), South African mine-owner; born in Cape Colony; secured valuable diamond claims at Hebron and in area afterwards famous as Kimberley, 1868-71; reached Rand gold-field, 1868; acquired Randfontein block, 1869; baronet, 1908; died at Cape Town; a bold, far-sighted, energetic, but unlovable industrial pioneer.

ROBINSON, PHILIP STEWART (PHIL ROBINSON) (1847-1902), naturalist and author; born at Chunar, India; assisted father in editing 'Pioneer', 1869; editor of 'Revenue Archives' of Benares province, 1879; pioneer of Anglo-Indian literature, descriptive of natural history; chief works were 'In my Indian Garden', 1878, 'Tigers at Large', 1884, and 'The Valley of Teetotum Trees', 1886.

ROBINSON, VINCENT JOSEPH (1829-1910), connoisseur of Oriental art; published 'Eastern Carpets', 1883; director of Indian section at Paris Exhibition, 1889; F.S.A., 1889; C.I.B., 1891; described his own collections in 'Ancient Furniture and other Objects of Art', 1903; helped to revive European taste for Oriental art.

ROBINSON, WILLIAM LEEFE (1895-1918), airman; joined royal flying corps, 1915; V.O. for shooting down at Ouffies, Hertfordshire, first enemy airship brought down on British soil, 1916; prisoner of war in Germany, 1917-18, succumbing to his bad treatment there, after his return to England.

ROBSON, WILLIAM SNOWDON, BARON ROBSON, of Teanemund (1859-1918), lawyer and politician; B.A., Caius College, Cambridge; called to bar (Inner Temple), 1880; Q.C., 1899; M.P. Bow and Bromley, 1885; South Shields, 1895-1910; solicitor-general and knighted, 1905; attorney-general, 1908; saved budget of 1908; presented British case at Atlantic Fisheries arbitration at The Hague, 1910; lord of appeal in ordinary and P.O., 1910.

ROSE, HENRY JOHN (1830-1915), educational reformer and classical scholar; B.A. 1849, educational reformer and classical scholar; B.A. St. John's College, Cambridge (senior classic), fellow of St. John's, 1854-61; second master, Dulwich College, 1861-5; secretary to Schools Inquiry Commission, 1864; to Endowed Schools Commission, 1865; largely responsible for reforms introduced by commissions; partner in Manchester sewing-cotton manufacturing firm, 1874-94; liberal M.P., Eccles division of Manchester, 1890-5; works include 'Grammar of the Latin Language from Plautus to Suetonius' (1871-4, 7th edit. 1904), distinguished for its wealth of illustration, 'Introduction to Justinian's Digest' (1884), and 'Roman Private Law' (1902).

ROGERS, BENJAMIN BICKLEY (1825-1919), barrister and translator of Aristophanes; B.A., Wadham College, Oxford; fellow of Wadham, 1852-61; called to bar (Lincoln's Inn), 1854; works include annotated verse translations of Aristophanes' 'Clouds' (1852), 'Peace' (1867), 'Wasps' (1875), 'Lysistrata' (1878), and 'Thesmophoriazuse' (1904).

ROGERS, EDMUND DAWSON (1893-1910), journalist and spiritualist; manager of 'Norfolk News', 1845; started 'Eastern Daily Press', first daily paper in eastern counties, 1870; established National Press Agency, 1873; helped to found British National Association of Spiritualists, 1873; founded (1881) and edited from 1894 weekly spiritualist journal, 'Light'; his autobiographical 'Life and Experiences' appeared in 1911.

ROGERS, JAMES GUINNESS (1822-1911), Congregational divine; B.A., Trinity College, Dublin, 1843; minister at Newcastle-on-Tyne, 1846-51, Ashton-under-Lyne, 1851-65, and Clapham, 1865-1900; chairman of the Congregational unions of Lancashire, 1866, Surrey, 1868, and England and Wales, 1874; hon. D.D. Edinburgh, 1895; friend of Gladstone; publications include 'The Church Systems of England in the Nineteenth Century', 1881, 'The Unchanging Faith', 1907, and an 'Autobiography', 1903; edited 'Congregationalist', 1879-86, and 'Congregational Review', 1887-91.

ROLLS, CHARLES STEWART (1877-1910), engineer and aviator; son of first Baron Llangatock; B.A., Trinity College, Cambridge, 1898; M.A., 1902; studied practical engineering; pioneer of motor cars in England; formed motor car business of 'C. S. Rolls & Co.', and established 'Rolls Royce, Ltd.', 1904; ardent aeronaut and expert aviator; crossed and recrossed English Channel in aeroplane without stopping, June 1910; killed at Bournemouth in aeroplane accident; first English victim of aviation; statues by Sir W. Goscombe John at Bournemouth and by W. C. May at Dover; wrote on motors and on his experiences as motorist and aviator.

ROMER, SIR ROBERT (1840-1918), judge; B.A., Trinity Hall, Cambridge (senior wrangler); called to bar (Lincoln's Inn), 1867; Q.C., 1881; practised in court of Sir J. W. Chitty; judge of chancery division and knighted, 1890; lord justice of appeal, 1899-1906; P.C. and F.R.S., 1899; G.C.B., 1901.

ROMAN, STEPHEN (1848-1925), lord justice of appeal in Ireland; B.A., Queen's College, Cork; called to Irish bar, 1870; junior Crown prosecutor for county of Kerry, 1873; counsel to attorney-general, 1883; called to English bar (Inner Temple), 1888; employed on Parnell commission as a junior counsel for 'Times', 1888; Q.C. (Ireland), 1889; senior Crown prosecutor for Cork city and county, 1891; queen's advocate-general for Ireland, 1892; K.O. (England), 1909; lord justice of appeal and P.C. (Ireland), 1915-24; a great advocate.

ROOKWOOD, BARON (1828-1902), politician. [See SELWYN-IBRETON, SIR HENRY JOHN.]

ROOPER, THOMAS GODOLPHIN (1847-1903), writer on education; educated at Harrow and Balliol College, Oxford; B.A., 1870; private tutor to eleventh duke of Bedford, 1871-7; inspector of schools from 1877; improved teaching of geography and methods of teaching of infants; stimulated manual education, and encouraged school gardens; helped to found Hartley University College, Southampton; writings include 'School and Home Life', 1896, 'Educational Studies and Addresses', 1902, 'School Gardens in Germany', 1902; 'Selected Writings' edited with memoir by R. G. Taiton, 1907.

ROOPE, EDWARD CHARLES ROBSON (1848-1906), physician; studied at Guy's Hospital and in Paris; M.R.C.P. Edinburgh, 1875; F.R.C.P., 1877; M.D. Brussels, 1877; had large fashionable London practice; wrote many popular medical works.

ROOPE-KIFFEL, SIR GEORGE OLOF (1866-1921), soldier and Anglo-Indian administrator; joined army, 1886; political agent in Khyber, 1899-1908; C.I.E., 1900; chief commissioner, North-West Frontier Province, and agent to governor-general, 1908-19; K.C.I.E., 1908; G.C.I.E., 1917.

ROSCOE, SIR HENRY ENFIELD (1833-1915), chemist; son of Henry Roscoe [q. v.]; B.A., University College, London; Ph.D. Heidelberg; researched with R. W. von Bunsen on measurement of chemical action of light; professor of chemistry, Owens College, Manchester, 1867-86; knighted, 1884; liberal M.P., South Manchester, 1885; F.C., 1909; his most important contribution to chemistry was preparation of pure vanadium.

ROSSETTI, RITA EARL (1847-1930), statesman and author. [See FRIMCOTE, ABERNETHY PHILIP.]

ROSS, SIR ALEXANDER GEORGE (1840-1910), lieutenant-general; born at Meerut; joined Indian army, 1857; served in Mutiny; present at capture of Magdala, 1867; in Jowaki expedition, 1877; commanded 1st Sikh infantry in Afghan war, 1878-9, in campaign against Mahaud Wazir, 1881, and in Zhoob valley expedition, 1890; lieutenant-general, 1897; C.B., 1887; K.O.B., 1905.

ROSS, SIR JOHN (1829-1906), general; son of Sir Hew Dalrymple Ross [q. v.]; entered army, 1846; served in Canada, 1847-53, in the Crimea, 1854-5, in Indian Mutiny, 1857-9; helped to raise at Lucknow (1858) camel corps, which he commanded at Gowlowie, Calpi, and Jugdespore; C.B., 1861; commanded Larut field force in Malay peninsula, 1875-8; major-general, 1877; in command of second division of Kabul field force, 1878-80; K.O.B., 1881; commanded Poona division, 1881-6; commander-in-chief in Canada, 1888; G.C.B., 1891.

ROSS, JOSEPH THORBURN (1849-1903), artist; art student at Royal Scottish Academy, 1877-80; A.R.S.A., 1896; treated portraiture, land- and sea-scapes, and incident; frequently exhibited abroad; his 'The Bass Rock' in National Gallery of Scotland.

ROSS, MARTIN (pseudonym) (1862-1915), novelist. [See MARTIN, VIOLET FLORENCE.]

ROSS, WILLIAM STEWART, 'SALADIN' (1844-1906), secularist; educated at Glasgow University; early wrote verse and fiction; became under style of Stewart & Co. educational publisher in London, 1873; joint editor from 1880, and sole editor and proprietor from 1884, of 'Agnostic Journal and Secular Review'; works include 'Lays of Romance and Chivalry', 1881, and 'God and His Book', 1887.

ROSSE, fourth EARL OF (1840-1908), astronomer. [See PARSONS, LAURENCE.]

ROSSETTI, WILLIAM MICHAEL (1829-1919), man of letters and art critic; brother of Christina Rossetti [q. v.] and D. G. Rossetti [q. v.]; served in Excise office (later Inland Revenue Board), 1845-94; friend of A. O. Swinburne; works include four editions of D. G. Rossetti's collected works and 'Memoir' (1895), and editions of Christina Rossetti's 'New' and 'Collected Poems' (latter containing memoir, 1904).

ROTTSCHILD, SIR NATHAN MEYER, second baronet, and first BARON ROTTSCHILD, of Tring (1840-1915), banker and philanthropist; son of Lionel Nathan de Rothschild [q. v.]; liberal M.P., Aylesbury, 1865-85; succeeded to baronetcy, 1876; head of firm, 1879; created baron, 1885; first professing Jew to enter House of Lords; P.C. and G.C.V.O., 1902; his munificent benefactions include gifts to Jews throughout the world, whose acknowledged leader he became.

ROUND, JOHN HORACE (1854-1928), historian; grandson of Horatio (Horace) Smith [q. v.]; B.A., Balliol College, Oxford; first class in modern history; influenced by William Stubbs [q. v.]; devoted himself to historical and genealogical studies; first showed real promise in three essays contributed to 'Domesday Studies' (1888, 1891); contributed notes to Pipe Roll Society's volume of 'Ancient Charters, Royal and Private, Prior to A.D. 1900' (1888); his 'Geoffrey de Mandeville, a Study of the Anarchy' (1892), by opening a fresh line of approach to Anglo-Norman history, placed him among leading historians of his day; his 'Dendal England' (1895) includes a convincing description of methods of assessing Danegeld in the eleventh century and demonstrates that tenure by knight service was the creation of William the Conqueror; the chief importance of his 'Commune of London' (1899) lies in a study of the origin of the exchequer and in two contributions to early London history; other works include studies in 'Peerage and Family History' (1901), 'Peerage and Pedigree' (1910), and 'The King's Sergeants and Officers of State' (1911); honorary historical adviser to Crown in peerage cases, 1914-25; founded modern study of Domesday Book; gave new value to genealogical studies; first modern historian to base a narrative on charters; a fierce controversialist, who attacked E. A. Freeman and other scholars.

ROUSBY, WILLIAM WYBERT (1856-1907), actor and theatrical manager; after provincial engagements from 1849 joined Phelps at Sadler's Wells Theatre, 1863; played Romeo at Manchester, 1864; with wife [see ROUSBY, CLARA MARION JESSIE] appeared at Queen's Theatre, London, in leading parts in 'The Fool's Revenge', 'Twixt Axe and Crown', 'As You Like It', and 'King Lear', 1868-74; proprietor of Theatre Royal, Jersey, from 1879.

ROUTE, EDWARD JOHN (1831-1907), mathematician; born at Quebec; son of Sir Randolph Routh [q.v.]; B.A. London, 1849; M.A., 1853; joined Peterhouse, Cambridge, 1850; senior wrangler and Smith's prizeman, 1854; fellow, 1856; hon. fellow, 1883; lecturer in mathematics, 1855-1904; had unprecedented success as private coach; produced among his pupils 28 senior wranglers and 43 Smith's prizemen; F.R.A.S., 1866; F.R.S., 1872; published 'Rigid Dynamics,' 1860 (7th edit. 2 vols. 1905), 'Statics,' 2 vols. 1891, and 'Dynamics of a Particle,' 1898; won Adams prize with 'Treatise on the Stability of a given State of Motion, particularly Steady Motion, which greatly advanced knowledge of dynamics, 1877; hon. LL.D. Glasgow, 1878; hon. Sc.D. Cambridge, 1883, and Dublin, 1892.

ROWE, JOSHUA BROOKING (1837-1908), antiquary and naturalist; admitted solicitor, 1860; made study of Devonshire natural history and archaeology; F.S.A., 1875; part founder of Devon and Cornwall Record Society; writings include 'The Ecclesiastical History of Plymouth,' 4 pts. 1873-6, and 'The History of Plympton Erle,' 1906.

ROWLANDS, DAVID, 'DEWI MON' (1838-1907), Welsh scholar and poet; B.A. London, 1860; held congregational pastorates in Wales, 1861-72; tutor of Brecon Congregational College, 1872-97; principal 1897-1907; wrote much Welsh and English verse; literary editor of 'Cambrian Minstrelsy,' 1893, and of Welsh Congregational Hymnal, 1895; chairman of Congregational Union of Wales, 1902.

ROWNTREE, JOSEPH (1836-1928), cocoa manufacturer and philanthropist; son of Joseph Rowntree (1801-59, q.v.); partnered with his brother, cocoa manufacturer at York, 1869; sole owner of H. I. Rowntree & Co. 1883; chairman of limited company, 1897-1923; built up welfare organisations for his employees.

ROWTON, HENRY (1838-1903), politician and philanthropist. [See CORRY MONTAGU WILLIAM LOWRY.]

RUBOLD, SIR HORACE, eighth baronet (1829-1913), diplomatist; born in Calcutta; entered diplomatic service, 1849; secretary to legation in China, 1859; held minor diplomatic posts, 1862-96; ambassador at Vienna, 1896-1900; succeeded brother, 1877; P.C. 1894; G.C.B. 1897.

RUNDALL, FRANCIS HORNLOW (1823-1908), inspector-general of Indian irrigation; born in Madras; joined Madras engineers, 1841; superintending engineer of the northern circle, 1859; chief engineer in construction of Orissa canals from 1861; chief irrigation engineer and joint secretary to the Bengal government, 1867; commenced the Son irrigation canals; inspector-general of irrigation and deputy secretary to Indian government, 1872-4; C.S.I., 1875; colonel commandant R.E., 1876; general, 1885; examined Nile Delta, 1876-7; lectured and wrote on Indian irrigation.

RUSDEN, GEORGE WILLIAM (1819-1903), historian of Australia and New Zealand; emigrated with father from England to Maitland, New South Wales, 1834; clerk to executive council, Victoria, 1852; clerk of parliament, 1856; retired on pension, 1882, and wrote histories of Australia, 3 vols. 1883, and New Zealand, 3 vols. 1883.

RUSSELL, SIR CHARLES, first baronet (1863-1928), solicitor; sc of Lord Russell of Killowen [q.v.]; admitted solicitor, 1888; employed by British agent Behring Sea arbitration (1893) and by Marquess of Queensbury in Oscar Wilde action (1895); solicitor to Canadian government, 1896; baronet, 1914.

RUSSELL, HENRY CHAMBERLAINE (1836-1907), astronomer; born at West Maitland, New South Wales; B.A. Sydney University, 1858; assistant at Sydney observatory, 1859; government astronomer, 1870-1905; established meteorological stations throughout colony; organized Australian observations of transit of Venus, 1874 (account published, 1892); vice-chancellor of Sydney University, 1891; F.R.S. 1886; O.M.G. 1890.

RUSSELL, THOMAS O'NEILL (1828-1908), a founder of the Gaelic movement in Ireland; urged in 'Irishman' revival of ancient Irish tongue from 1858; commercial traveller in America for nearly thirty years; returned to Ireland, 1895; largely helped to form Gaelic League, 1893, and Fels Ceoil, 1897; published novels and dramas and edited much Gaelic poetry.

RUSSELL, WILLIAM CLARK (1844-1911), novelist; son of Henry Russell [q.v.]; in British merchant service, 1858-66; after engaging in journalism he produced some sixty nautical tales of adventure, chief being 'John Holdsworth, Chief Mate,' 1876, and 'The Wreck of the Grosvenor,' 1877; some of his contributions to 'Daily Telegraph' on sea topics (1882-9) were republished in 'My Watch Below,' 1882, and 'Round the Galley Fire,' 1883; his writings led to improved conditions in merchant service; he also wrote lives of Dampier, 1889, Nelson, 1890, and Collingwood, 1891, and naval ballads.

RUSSELL, SIR WILLIAM HOWARD (1820-1907), war correspondent; educated at Trinity College, Dublin; reported for 'The Times' the Irish general election, 1841, and episodes in repeal agitation in Ireland, 1843; called to bar (Middle Temple), 1850; war correspondent for 'The Times' in Crimea, 1854; applied phrase 'the thin red line' to the British infantry at Balaklava; called attention to the sufferings of English army there through the winter of 1854-5, and inspired the work of Florence Nightingale; hon. LL.D. Trinity College, Dublin, 1856; acted as 'The Times' correspondent in Indian Mutiny, 1858, and in American civil war, 1861-2; wrote a frank account of battle of Bull Run (July 1861), which made him unpopular in America; founded 'Army and Navy Gazette,' 1860; only occasionally worked for 'The Times' after 1863; saw battle of Königgrätz in Prusso-Austrian war, 1866; also served in Franco-German war, 1870, and (for 'Daily Telegraph') in Zulu war, 1879; accompanied Edward, Prince of Wales, through Near East (1869) and India (1875-6); and published accounts of both tours; knighted, 1895; C.V.O., 1902; published, besides experiences as correspondent, accounts of travels in Canada, 3 vols. 1862-5, and the United States, 2 vols. 1882; 'Life' by J. B. Atkins, 2 vols. 1911.

RUSSELL, WILLIAM JAMES (1830-1909), chemist; Ph.D. Heidelberg, 1855; lecturer in chemistry at St. Mary's Hospital, 1868-70, and at St. Bartholomew's, 1870-97; professor of natural philosophy, Bedford College, 1860-70; F.R.S. 1879; president of Chemical Society, 1889-91, and of Institute of Chemistry, 1894-7.

RUTHESFORD, MARK (pseudonym) (1831-1913), novelist, philosophical writer, literary critic, and civil servant. [See WHITE, WILLIAM HALE.]

RUTHERFORD, WILLIAM LUNION (1853-1907), classical scholar; educated at St. Andrews University and Balliol College, Oxford; B.A. 1876; classical master at St. Paul's School, 1876-83; published 'First Greek Grammar,' 1878; 'The New Phrynichus,' 1881, and edition of 'Babrius,' 1883; fellow and tutor of University College, Oxford, 1883; headmaster of Westminster, 1883-1901; hon. LL.D. St. Andrews, 1884; edited 'Thucydides, Bk. IV,' 1889, 'Mimiambi' of Herondas, 1892, and scholia to Aristophanes, 3 vols. 1896-1905; translated St. Paul's Epistle to Romans, 1900.

RUTLAND, seventh DUKE OF (1818-1906), politician.

[See MANNERS, LORD JOHN JAMES ROBERT.]

RYE, MARIA SUSAN (1829-1903), social reformer; sister of Edward Caldwell Rye [q.v.]; founded law-stationer's business for employment of girls, 1859; founded 'Female Middle Class Emigration Society,' 1861; from 1868 devoted herself to emigration of 'gutter children'; opened house at Peckham for waifs and strays, 1869; drafted children after training to house at Niagara, 'Our Western Home' (opened Dec. 1869); pioneer of pauper emigration.

RYE, WILLIAM BRENCHLEY (1818-1901), keeper of printed books in the British Museum; assistant in British Museum Library, 1839; arranged Grenville library, 1846, and reference library, 1857; assistant keeper of printed books, 1857-69; keeper, 1869-75; chief work was 'England as seen by Foreigners,' 1865; a skilful etcher.

RYLE, HERBERT EDWARD (1856-1935), successively Bishop of Exeter and of Winchester and afterwards dean of Westminster; son of Bishop J. C. Ryle [q.v.]; B.A., King's College, Cambridge; fellow, 1881; ordained, 1882; principal of St. David's College, Lampeter, 1886-8; Eussian professor of divinity, Cambridge, 1887; president of Queens' College, Cambridge, 1894; Bishop of Exeter, 1901; of Winchester, 1903; dean of Westminster, 1911-25; his main interest directed to study of Old Testament; an excellent teacher, who strove to commend more assured results of higher criticism; his works include 'The Early Narratives of Genesis' (1892), 'The Canon of the Old Testament' (1892), and 'Philo and Holy Scripture' (1896).

SACKVILLE-WEST, LIONEL SACKVILLE, second BARON SACKVILLE, of Knole (1827-1908), diplomatist; entered diplomatic service, 1847; served under Lord Lyons at Paris through Franco-German war; British envoy at Buenos Ayres, 1872-8, Madrid, 1878-81, and Washington, 1881-8; life threatened by American Fenians, 1882; R.O.M.G., 1886; helped to settle differences between America and Canada regarding fishing rights, 1887-8; was recalled from Washington owing to alleged intervention in American presidential election, Oct. 1888; succeeded brother in barony, 1888; G.O.M.G., 1889; thenceforth lived in retirement at Knole, Sevenoaks.

ST. ALDWIN, first EARL (1837-1916), statesman. [See HICKS BRACH, SIR MICHAEL EDWARD.]

ST. HILMER, BARON (1843-1906), judge. [See JEUNE, FRANCIS HENRY.]

ST. JOHN, SIR SPENSER BUCKINGHAM (1825-1910), diplomatist and author; son of James Augustus St. John [q.v.]; private secretary to Sir James Brooke [q.v.] in Labuan, 1848-46; temporary commissioner of Labuan, 1851-5; British consul-general at Brunel, 1856; explored interior; chargé d'affaires in Hayti, 1863, and in Dominican republic, 1871; resident minister in Hayti, 1872-4; minister residenciary in Peru, 1874-83; K.O.M.G., 1881; envoy extraordinary to Mexico, 1884-93; minister to Sweden, 1892-8; G.O.M.G., 1894; wrote 'Life of Sir James Brooke', 1879, an account of Hayti, 1884, and other works.

ST. JOHN, VANE IRETON SHAPTESBURY (1839-1911), author and journalist; brother of Sir S. B. St. John [q.v.]; pioneer of boys' journals.

SALADIN (pseudonym) (1844-1906), secularist. [See ROSS, WILLIAM STEWART.]

SALAMAN, CHARLES KENSINGTON (1814-1901), musical composer; studied pianoforte in London and Paris; gave annual orchestral concerts in London from 1833; instituted 'Concerti da Camera', 1835; in Rome, 1846-8; gave musically illustrated lectures in London and provinces from 1855; founded Musical Association, 1876; composed songs (the most famous of which was his setting of Shelley's 'I arise from dreams of thee', 1836), orchestral and pianoforte pieces; published 'Jews as they are', 1882.

SALAMAN, JULIA (1812-1906), portrait painter. [See GOODMAN.]

SALISBURY, third MARQUESS OF (1830-1903), prime minister. [See OSBORN, ROBERT ARTHUR TALBOT GASCOYNE.]

SALMON, GEORGE (1819-1904), mathematician and divine; B.A., Trinity College, Dublin (first mathematical moderator), 1838; M.A., 1844; B.D. and D.D., 1859; fellow, 1841; divinity lecturer, 1845; Donegal lecturer in mathematics, 1848-46; published 'Conic Sections', 1847, 'Higher Plane Curves', 1852, 'Modern Higher Algebra', 1859, and 'Geometry of Three Dimensions', 1863 (5th ed. 1912); regius professor of divinity, 1866-88; a strong protestant and liberal evangelical; acute theological critic; published 'Non-Miraculous Christianity', 1881, 'Introduction to the New Testament', 1886, 'The Infallibility of the Church', 1889, and 'The Human Element in the Gospels', posthumous, 1907, and sermons; provost of Trinity College, 1888-1902; member of Royal Irish Academy, 1843, and of many foreign academies; received many honorary degrees; F.R.S., 1863; royal medalist, 1868; original F.B.A., 1902; chancellor of St. Patrick's Cathedral, 1871; portraits by Benjamin Constant and Miss Sara Purser, and marble statue by John Hughes at Dublin; he endowed fund and exhibitions for divinity students at Dublin.

SALOMONS, SIR JULIAN EMANUEL (1835-1909), Australian lawyer and politician; emigrated from Birmingham to Sydney; called to bar at Gray's Inn and of New South Wales, 1861; member of New South Wales legislative assembly, 1869-71, 1887-89; solicitor-general, 1869-70; vice-president of executive council and representative of government in legislative council, 1887-8, 1891-3; agent-general for colony in London, 1899-1900; knighted, 1891.

SALTER, SIR ARTHUR OLAVELL (1869-1939), judge; B.A., King's College, London; called to bar (Middle Temple), 1886; joined Western circuit, 1886; K.C., 1904; recorder of Poole, 1904-17; conservative M.P., Basingstoke division of Hampshire, 1906-17; judge of king's bench division of high court and knighted, 1917; chairman of railway and canal commission, 1928; his most famous criminal cases those of Colonel Rutherford (1919) and Horatio Bottomley (1922).

SALTING, GEORGE (1836-1909), art collector and benefactor; born at Sydney, New South Wales; educated at Eton and Sydney University; B.A., 1857; settled in England, 1867; developed taste for art on a visit to Rome, 1868; for forty years he made collections of art treasures, especially of Chinese porcelain, which he loaned to Victoria and Albert Museum; he also collected Italian and Spanish majolica, small sculptures, statues, and English miniature portraits from Tudor times onward; spent £40,000 at Spitzer sale in Paris, 1893; left fortune of £1,287,900; bequeathed his collections to National Gallery, British Museum, and Victoria and Albert Museum.

SALVIDGE, SIR ARCHIBALD TUTTON JAMES (1863-1928), political organiser; in service of Bunt's Brewery Company, Liverpool; built up Liverpool Working-men's Conservative Association; principal figure in Liverpool conservatism; chairman of National Union of Conservative and Unionist Associations, 1913; knighted, 1918; F.B.E., 1920; P.C., 1922.

SALVIN, FRANCIS HENRY (1817-1904), writer on falconry and cormorant fishing; served in army, 1839-44; went on hawking tour through north of England, 1843; made successful flights with goshawks; revived cormorant fishing in England; collaborated in 'Falconry in the British Isles', 1856, and in 'Falconry, its Claims, History, and Practice', 1869.

SAMPURNE, EDWIN LINLEY (1844-1910), artist in black and white; apprenticed as marine engineer at Greenwich; first contributed to 'Punch', 1867; member of staff, 1871; illustrated 'Essence of Parliament'; cartoonist-in-chief, 1900-10; illustrated books, including Kingsley's 'Water Babies', 1885; combined artistic grace and dignity with firmness and delicacy of line.

SAMUEL, MARCUS, first VISCOUNT HEARSTED, of Maldstone (1853-1927), joint-founder of the Shell Transport and Trading Company; took up business of shipping oil from Russia to Far East; Shell Transport and Trading Company formed, 1897; British and Dutch oil interests in Borneo amalgamated, 1907; greatly assisted Great Britain during European war; knighted, 1898; lord mayor of London, 1902-3; baronet, 1903; baron, 1921; viscount, 1925.

SAMUELSON, SIR BERNHARD, first baronet (1820-1905), ironmaster and promoter of technical education; manager of Manchester firm of engineers, 1842-6; established railway works at Tourn, 1846; purchased (1848) and greatly developed factory of agricultural implements at Banbury; erected blast furnaces near Middlesbrough for ironworking, 1853, which he transferred to Newport, 1863; both firms were turned into limited liability companies, 1887; built Britannia ironworks at Middlesbrough, which produced gigantic output of iron, tar, and by-products; unsuccessful in attempts to make steel from Cleveland ore; liberal M.P. for Banbury, 1859 and 1865-85, and for North Oxfordshire, 1885-95; P.C., 1898; pioneer of tariff reform movement, 1901; served on royal commissions on scientific instruction (1870), on technical instruction (chairman, 1881), and elementary education (1887); chairman of parliamentary committees on patent laws (1871-2) and railways (1875); F.R.S., 1881; part founder and president (1883-5) of Iron and Steel Institute; presented technical institute to Banbury, 1884; baronet, 1884.

SANDAY, WILLIAM (1843-1930), theological scholar; B.A., Corpus Christi College, Oxford; Dean Ireland's professor of exegesis of Holy Scripture, Oxford, 1882; fellow and tutor of Exeter, 1883; Lady Margaret professor of divinity and canon of Christ Church, 1898-1919; F.B.A., 1908; devoted himself to scientific study of New Testament, especially the Gospels; works include 'Portions of the Gospels according to St. Mark and St. Matthew from the Bobbio MS.' (1884), and preliminary studies for a Life of Christ (never written), most important being 'The Life of Christ in Recent Research' (1907).

SANDERS, SAMUEL LOUIS GRAHAM (1861-1906), Tibetan scholar; son of Indian missionary; B.A. Dublin University, 1870; called to bar, 1874; ordained, 1879; chaplain in Bengal, 1884-1904; published works and magazine articles on Tibetan dialects, literature, and topography; chief work 'Manual of Colloquial Tibetan', 1894, 'A Tibetan-English Dictionary', 1902, and 'The Exploration of Tibet', 1904; ardent Italian student.

SANDERSON, EDGAR (1888-1907), historical writer; B.A., Clare College, Cambridge, 1880; M.A., 1885; headmaster of grammar schools at Stockwell, 1871-3, Macclesfield, 1873-7, and Huntingdon, 1877-81; works include 'History of the World,' 1898, and 'The British Empire in the Nineteenth Century,' 6 vols. 1898-9.

SANDERSON, FREDERICK WILLIAM (1857-1922), schoolmaster; B.A., Durham University and Christ's College, Cambridge; assistant master, Dulwich College, 1886; successful in forming engineering side of school; headmaster of Uundle School, 1892-1922; appointed with definite object of reorganizing teaching, introducing fresh subjects of study, and raising numbers and status of school; succeeded in all these objects; established science and engineering sides; new laboratories and workshops built and co-operative method introduced for engineering and other subjects; publicly advocated his views on education.

SANDERSON, SIR JOHN SCOTT BURDON, baronet (1829-1906), regius professor of medicine at Oxford. [See BURDON-SANDERSON.]

SANDERSON, THOMAS HENRY, BARON SANDERSON, of Armthorpe, Yorkshire (1841-1923), civil servant; junior clerk in foreign office, 1859; private secretary to Lord Derby, 1866-8, 1874-8, and to Lord Granville, 1880-5; senior clerk, 1886; assistant under-secretary, 1889; permanent under-secretary, 1894-1906; K.C.M.G., 1887; K.C.B., 1893; G.C.B., 1900; baron, 1906; an efficient administrator of the old school and gifted composer of official dispatches.

SANDERSON, THOMAS JAMES COBDEN (1840-1922), bookbinder and printer. [See COBDEN-SANDERSON.]

SANDHAM, HENRY (1842-1910), painter and illustrator; born in Montreal; travelled in Europe and settled in Boston, 1880; member of Royal Canadian Academy, 1880; painted battle and historical scenes and portraits; chief works were 'The March of Time' and 'The Dawn of Liberty', a good water-colour artist.

SANDYS, (ANTHONY) FREDERICK (AUGUSTUS) (1829-1904), pre-Raphaelite painter; son of drawing master at Norwich; published anonymously 'A Night-mare', a lithographic caricature of Millais's 'Sir Isumbras at the Ford', 1857; formed friendship with D. G. Rossetti (1857) and pre-Raphaelite group, including Whistler, and later with George Meredith; devoted much time to wood block designs, which were praised by Millais and Rossetti; exhibited at Royal Academy subject pictures, including 'Oriana', 'La Belle Ysande', 'Morgan le Fay', 'Cassandra' (praised by Swinburne), 'Mexico', and portraits; gained repute for crayon heads; of bohemian temperament and habits; work mainly in English private collections or in America.

SANDYS, SIR JOHN EDWIN (1844-1922), classical scholar; B.A. (senior classic), St. John's College, Cambridge, 1867; fellow, 1867; lecturer, 1867-1907; public orator, 1876-1919; presented nearly 700 distinguished men for honorary degrees with speeches which, of their kind, were almost perfect; F.B.A., 1909; knighted, 1911; the foremost editor of Greek orators; a great humanist, whose spiritual home was Greece; his chief work 'History of Classical Scholarship,' 1903-8.

SANFORD, GEORGE EDWARD LANGHAM SOMERSET (1840-1901), lieutenant-general; joined royal engineers, 1856; served in China with General Gordon, 1862; executive engineer in Indian public works department, 1873; served in Afriki expedition, 1878, and Afghan war, 1878-9; quartermaster-general in India, 1882-3; commanding royal engineer in Burmese expedition, 1885-6; C.B., 1886; director-general of military works in India, 1888-98; C.S.I., 1890; commanded Meerut district, 1893-8; lieutenant-general, 1898.

SANGER, GEORGE, known as LORD GEORGE SANGER (1825-1911), circus proprietor and showman; brother of John Sanger [q.v.]; started with brother independent show at Stepney Fair, 1849; inaugurated travelling show, 1853; established 'world's fair' at Plymouth, 1860; purchased Astley's amphitheatre and exhibited spectacles there (1871-98) and also at Agricultural Hall and at Margate; frequently toured the Continent; in later life was hampered by American competition; was shot by an employee at Finchley; published autobiography 'Seventy Years a Showman,' 1910.

SANKEY, SIR RICHARD HIERAM (1829-1908), lieutenant-general royal (Madras) engineers; joined Madras engineers, 1846; under-secretary of public works department at Calcutta, 1857; conspicuous in field work in Indian Mutiny at Allahabad, Cawnpore, and Lucknow; field surgeon to the Gurkha force; chief engineer, Mysore, 1864-77; originated irrigation department and built new roads and government offices; commanding royal engineer of Kandahar field force, 1878; C.B., 1879; secretary in public works department, Madras, 1879-83; major-general, 1883; lieutenant-general, 1884; K.C.B., 1892.

SANTLEY, SIR CHARLES (1834-1922), singer; employed in commerce in Liverpool, devoting spare time to music; voice early developed into fine baritone; professional singer, 1855; studied at Milan; made debut in opera at Pavia, 1857; returned to England, 1857; sang in English and Italian opera in London, Manchester, and elsewhere in England, Dublin, Milan, Barcelona, and America; one of his most notable appearances was Valentine in first performance of Faust in England, 1863; prominent figure at Birmingham festivals from 1861; joined Roman Church, 1880; knighted, 1907.

SARGAULT, JOHN (1857-1922), teacher and scholar; B.A., University College, Oxford; master of classical sixth form, Felsted School, 1885; of classical sixth form (second highest division), Westminster School, Jan. 1890-Dec. 1918; his exceptional capacity as a teacher founded upon the versatility of his learning and breadth of his tastes; his works include 'Annals of Westminster School' (1898).

SARGENT, JOHN SINGER (1866-1925), painter; born in Florence of American parentage; began his serious artistic training on entering the studio of Carolus Duran in Paris, 1874; sent his first contribution to Salon, 1877; established for himself recognized position among younger artists of Paris as painter of portraits and subject pictures; his portrait of Madame Gautreau, exhibited at Salon of 1884, achieved succès de scandale; settled in London (Tite Street, Chelsea), 1885; his first considerable public success in England was his study of childhood, 'Carnation, Lily, Lily, Rose' (1885-6); his work as a portrait-painter eventually gained for him an international prestige almost unparalleled; R.A., 1897; his outstanding successes of period 1888-1914 include 'Miss Ellen Terry as Lady Macbeth' (1889), 'Lady Agnew of Lochnaw' (1893), 'Coventry Patmore' (1894), 'W. Graham Robertson' (1894), '(General Sir) Ian Hamilton' (1898), 'Lord Ribblesdale' (1909), 'Henry James' (1913); co-operated with other artists in decorating special libraries floor of Boston (U.S.A.) Public Library, 1890-1916; his later pictures include 'Gassed' (1918) and 'Some General Officers of the Great War' (1922); always retained his American citizenship.

SATOW, SIR ERNEST MASON (1843-1929), diplomatist and historian; educated at Mill Hill School; B.A., University College, London; entered Japanese consular service as student interpreter, 1861; Japanese secretary, British Legation, 1868; consul-general, Bangkok, 1884; minister, 1888; minister, Montevideo, 1888; envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary, Morocco, 1893; minister plenipotentiary, Tokio, 1895-1900; minister, Peking, 1900-6; credit of agreement between China and Powers signed at Peking in 1901 due to him; British member of Court of Arbitration at The Hague, 1906-12; second British delegate to Second Hague Peace Conference, 1907; K.C.M.G., 1896; G.C.M.G., 1909; P.C., 1906; his writings on international law and history include 'A Guide to Diplomatic Practice' (1917); accomplished in both theory and practice of diplomacy and conversant with languages and cultures of China and Japan.

SAUMAREZ, THOMAS (1827-1903), admiral; entered navy, 1841; served in South America and West Africa; commander, 1854; led in attack on Taku forts, 1858; C.B., 1873; admiral, 1886.

SAUNDERS, EDWARD (1848-1910), entomologist; published 'The Hemiptera Heteroptera' (1892), 'The Hymenoptera Aculeata' (1896) of the British Isles, and 'Wild Bees, Wasps and Ants,' 1907; F.R.S., 1909.

SAUNDERS, SIR EDWIN (1814-1901), dentist; dental surgeon and lecturer in dental surgery at St. Thomas's Hospital, 1839-54; F.R.C.S., 1855; dentist to royal family from 1846; obtained foundation of diploma in dental surgery 1859; founder (1857) and president (1864 and 1879) of Odontological Society; knighted, 1883; president of British Dental Association, 1884; author of 'Advice on the Care of the Teeth,' 1837.

SAUNDERS, HOWARD (1835-1907), ornithologist and traveller; went to South America, 1855; crossed Andes and explored the Amazon river, 1860-9; wrote papers on South American, Spanish, and Swiss ornithology; joint editor of 'Ibis,' 1883-8 and 1894-1900; published 'An Illustrated Manual of British Birds,' 1889, and edited 'Yarrell's British Birds,' 1882-5, and other works.

SAUNDERSON, EDWARD JAMES (1837-1906), Irish politician, well-known as Colonel Sanderson (militia batt., royal Irish fusiliers); lived at Nice during boyhood; returned to Ireland, 1858; whig M.P. for co. Cavan, 1865-74; opposed Irish disestablishment, 1869; opposed nationalist movement from 1883; conservative M.P. for North Armagh from 1885 till death; active opponent of home rule bill of 1893; grand master of Orange lodges at Belfast, 1901-3; P.C., 1898; lord-lieutenant of Cavan, 1900; supported South African war; capable artist and boat-builder; ardent protestant; statue by Sir W. Goscomb John at Portadown.

SAVAGE-ARMSTRONG, GEORGE FRANCOIS (1845-1906), poet; brother of Edmund John Armstrong [q. v.]; B.A., Trinity College, Dublin, 1869; hon. M.A., 1873; published much verse, including 'Poems Lyrical and Dramatic,' 1869, and 'Stories of Wicklow,' 1886; professor of history and English literature, Queen's College, Cork, 1870-1905; hon. D.Litt. Queen's University, 1891.

SAVILL, THOMAS DIXON (1855-1910), physician; studied medicine at St. Thomas's and St. Mary's hospitals and on Continent; M.B., 1881; M.D., 1883; F.R.C.P., 1883; medical superintendent of Paddington Infirmary, 1885-92; physician of West End Hospital for Diseases of the Nervous System, 1893; made original researches into nervous diseases and hysteria; published 'A System of Clinical Medicine,' 2 vols. 1903-5; died at Algiers.

SAXE-WEIMAR, PRINCE EDWARD OF (1893-1902), field-marshal. [See EDWARD OF SAXE-WEIMAR.]

SCHARLIEB, DAME MARY ANN DACOMB (1845-1930), gynaecological surgeon; born BRID; married W. M. Scharlieb, barrister, 1865; accompanied him to Madras, 1866; qualified, Madras Medical School, 1877; entered London School of Medicine for Women, 1878; M.B., 1882; instrumental in establishing Royal Victoria Hospital for Caste and Goosha Women, Madras, c. 1884-6; returned to London, 1887; M.D., London University, 1888; lecturer on diseases of women, School of Medicine for Women, 1889; senior surgeon, New Hospital for Women, 1892-1903; gynaecologist, Royal Free Hospital, 1902; D.B.E., 1926.

SCHLIEB, SIR WILLIAM (1840-1925), forester; born in Germany; entered Indian forest department, 1866; conservator of Bengal forests, 1872-9; acting inspector of forests to government of India, 1881; inspector, 1883-5; professor of forestry, Royal Indian Engineering College, Cooper's Hill, Englefield Green, 1885; transferred with forestry branch to Oxford, 1905; built up school of forestry in university; reader, with status of professor, 1911; naturalized, 1886; F.R.S., 1901; K.O.I.E., 1909; his works include 'Manual of Forestry,' 1889-96.

SCHREINER, OLIVE EMILIE ALBERTINA (1855-1920), authoress; sister of W. P. Schreiner [q. v.]; married S. O. Cronwright, 1894; best-known work 'The Story of an African Farm' (1883).

SCHREINER, WILLIAM PHILIP (1857-1910), South African lawyer and statesman; born in Cape Colony; B.A., Downing College, Cambridge (senior jurist); called to bar (Inner Temple) and Cape bar, 1882; Q.C., 1892; prime minister of Cape Colony, 1898-1900; high commissioner for Union of South Africa in London, 1914-19.

SCHUBOW, HENRY EDWARD (1820-1903), chemist; studied chemistry at Berlin and Giessen University; Ph.D.; made exhaustive original researches into colouring matters of vegetable substances, including indigo and chlorophyll, as well as the madder plant; papers 'On Rubian and its Products of Decomposition' from 1851 to 1856; first showed chemical nature of alizarin [see PERKIN, SIR WILLIAM HENRY]; F.R.S., 1850; Davy gold medalist, 1889; president of Society of Chemical Industry, 1896-7; hon. D.Sc. Manchester, 1899; presented in 1895 £20,000 to Owens College, Manchester, for chemical research.

SCOTT, ARCHIBALD (1837-1909), Scottish divine and leader of the general assembly of the Church of Scotland; B.A. Glasgow University, 1856; hon. D.D. 1876; held ministries in Glasgow, Linlithgow, and Edinburgh; chairman of Edinburgh school board, 1878-83; incumbent of St. George's, Edinburgh, from 1890 to death; leader of general assembly from 1887; moderator, 1896; advocated reunion of Scottish presbyterians; published 'Endowed Territorial Work,' 1878, 'Buddhism and Christianity, Croall lecture, 1890, and 'Sacrifice,' Baird lecture, 1894.

SCOTT, LORD CHARLES THOMAS MONTAGU-DOUGLAS- (1839-1911), admiral; son of fifth duke of Buccleuch [q. v.]; entered navy, 1853; served in Baltic, Black Sea, and China campaigns; distinguished in Indian Mutiny; on China station, 1868-71; commanded 'Beauchante,' with royal princes on board, in Mediterranean and West Indies, 1878-83; C.B., 1883; commander-in-chief on Australian station, 1889-92; vice-admiral, 1894; K.C.B., 1898; admiral, 1899; commander-in-chief at Plymouth, 1900-3; G.O.B., 1902.

SCOTT, CLEMENT WILLIAM (1841-1904), dramatic critic; son of William Scott (1813-72, q. v.); junior clerk in war office 1860-79; dramatic critic for 'Sunday Times,' 1863-6, for 'London Figaro,' 1870, and for 'Daily Telegraph,' 1871-68; edited 'The Theatre,' 1880-9; pioneer of picturesque dramatic criticism, some of which he issued in volume form; adapted many French dramas, chiefly by Sardou; contributed to 'Punch' from 1880 sentimental verse, collected in 'Lays of a Londoner,' 1882, and 'Lays and Lyrics,' 1888.

SCOTT, GEORGE HERBERT (1888-1930), airship commander; joined royal naval air service, 1914; during European war developed system of mooring airships at head of mast or tower; commanded 'rigid' airship R. 34 in her Atlantic flight—the first Atlantic airship flight—July 1919; joined technical staff, Royal Airship Works, Cardington, Bedfordshire, 1920; appointed to post in airship directorate, 1924; assistant director, 1930; killed in airship R. 101 disaster near Beauvais, France.

SCOTT, HUGH STOWELL (1862-1903), novelist, writing under the pseudonym of HENRY SETON MERRIMAN; abandoned underwriter's office for foreign travel and novel-writing; published first novel, 'Young Mistle' (3 vols.), anonymously in 1888; his works, which embody much study of foreign nationalities, include 'The Slave of the Lamp,' 1893, 'From one Generation to another,' 1892, 'With Edged Tools,' 1894, 'The Sowers,' 1896, 'In Kedar's Tents,' 1897, 'The Isle of Unrest,' 1900, 'Barlath of the Guard,' 1902; memorial edition of fourteen novels appeared in 14 vols. in 1909-10.

SCOTT, SIR JOHN (1841-1904), judicial adviser to the khedive; B.A., Pembroke College, Oxford, 1864; M.A., 1869; hon. fellow, 1898; obtained cricket 'blue,' 1863; called to bar, 1865; published 'Bills of Exchange,' 1869; English judge of court of international appeal at Alexandria, 1874-82; vice-president, 1881; pasha judge of high court at Bombay, 1882-90; judicial adviser to the khedive, 1891-8; re-created Egyptian judicial system and simplified procedure; K.C.M.G., 1894; hon. D.O.L., Oxford, 1898; deputy judge advocate-general of the army, 1898.

SCOTT, JOHN (1830-1903), shipbuilder and engineer; joined father's shipbuilding firm on the Clyde, becoming its head, 1868; developed marine steam-engine; introduced water-tube boilers into corvettes for French and English navies; associated with Samson Fox [q. v.] in developing corrugated flues; ardent bibliophile, yachtsman, and volunteer; C.B., 1887; vice-president of Institution of Naval Architects, 1903; F.R.S. Edinburgh, and F.S.A. Scotland.

SCOTT, LEADER (pseudonym) (1837-1902), writer on art. [See BAXTER, LUCY.]

SCOTT, SIR PERCY MORETON, first baronet (1853-1924), admiral; entered royal navy, 1866; specialized in gunnery; active in converting gunnery school at Whale Island into model naval barracks and training establishment; developed and introduced number of valuable inventions in signal apparatus and gunnery appliances; as captain of 'Terrible' rendered valuable service in South African war by devising land mountings and carriages for heavy naval guns destined for relief of Ladysmith, 1899; rendered similar services during Boxer rebellion in China, 1900; promoted to flag rank, 1905; inspector of target practice, 1905-7; commanded second cruiser squadron of Channel fleet, 1907; vice-admiral, 1908; admiral, 1913; appointed to admiralty for special service during European war, 1914-18; created anti-aircraft corps; baronet, 1913; his gunnery inventions of great importance.

SCOTT, ROBERT FALCON (1868-1913), naval officer and Antarctic explorer; entered navy, 1880; led National Antarctic expedition in 'Discovery,' 1901-4; expedition surveyed coast of South Victoria Land, interior of Antarctic continent, made southern record, discovered King Edward VII Land, sounded Ross Sea, and investigated nature of ice barrier; captain and C.V.O., 1904; commanded new Antarctic expedition in 'Terra Nova', 1910; reached Pole, 18 Jan. 1912, shortly after Norwegian expedition under Roald Amundsen; perished with remainder of party not far from One Ton depot owing to lack of food and bad weather conditions on return journey (c. 29 March); bodies, together with Scott's diaries, specimens, &c., discovered by search party eight months later.

SEALE-HAYNE, CHARLES HAYNE (1853-1903), liberal politician; called to bar, 1857; liberal M.P. for Ashburton, Devonshire, 1886-1903; paymaster-general, 1892-6; P.C., 1892; by will endowed industrial college near Newton Abbot.

SECOOMBE, THOMAS (1866-1923), critic and biographer; B.A., Balliol College, Oxford; assistant editor, Dictionary of National Biography, 1891-1900; professor of English, Royal Military College, Sandhurst, 1912-19; of English literature, Queen's College, Kingston, Ontario, 1921-3.

SEEDON, RICHARD JOHN (1845-1906), premier of New Zealand; born at St. Helena, Lancashire; left iron foundry at Liverpool for Victoria, 1863; settled as store-keeper in gold mine diggings at Waimea Creek, New Zealand, 1866; removed to goldfields at Kumara, 1874; first mayor; member of parliament for Hokitika, 1879, and for Kumara (renamed Westland, 1890), 1881-1900; joined Young New Zealand reform party; supported great shipping strike (1890), and advocated state ownership and state socialism generally; minister for mines, public works, and defence, 1891-6; abolished sub-letting of government contracts; minister of marine, 1892; premier from May 1893 till death; also minister of native affairs, Sept. 1893-9; carried out predecessor's policy of woman's suffrage, Sept. 1893; consolidated criminal code and introduced local option for control of liquor traffic; held, with the premiership till death, the offices of minister for labour (Jan. 1896), colonial treasurer (June), and minister of defence (1899); was for a time in addition commissioner of customs (1899) and trade (1899-1900); attended Queen Victoria's Diamond Jubilee, 1897; P.C. and hon. LL.D. Cambridge, 1897; passed old age pensions bill, 1898; arranged for universal penny postage (1901), and nationalized coal mines and fire insurance; visited South Africa on his way to attend King Edward VII's coronation, 1902; minister of immigration and of education, 1902; passed Preferential Trade Act favouring British imports; condemned Chinese labour in South Africa, 1904; died at sea on voyage home from Australia; 'Life' by J. Drummond, 1907.

SEDGWICK, ADAM (1854-1913), zoologist; great-nephew of Adam Sedgwick (1785-1873, q.v.); B.A., Trinity College, Cambridge; reader in animal morphology, Cambridge, 1882; F.R.S., 1886; fellow of Trinity, 1897; professor of zoology, Cambridge, 1907, at Imperial College of Science and Technology, South Kensington, 1909.

SEE, SIR JOHN (1844-1907), premier of New South Wales; accompanied parents from England to New South Wales, 1853; built up large produce and shipping business at Sydney; member of New South Wales legislative assembly, 1880-1904; postmaster-general, Oct. to Dec. 1885; treasurer, 1891-4; introduced protectionist tariff; chief secretary and minister for defence, 1899-1901; premier, 1901-4; member of legislative council, 1901-4; K.C.M.G., 1902.

SEEBORN, FREDERIC (1833-1912), historian; educated at Bootham School, York; called to bar, 1856; settled at Hitchin as partner in bank, 1857; strong quaker; works include 'The Oxford Reformers' (1867), 'The English Village Community' (1883), 'The Tribal System in Wales' (1895), and 'Tribal Custom in Anglo-Saxon Law' (1903); last three books embody his principal contribution to historical studies; joined widespread revolt against romantic Germanistic interpretation of medieval history; traced back English system of communal farming to so-called manorial system, which, in his view, already existed in Roman 'villa,' and Celtic tribal community to authority of patriarch.

SEELEY, HARRY GOVIER (1839-1909), geologist and palaeontologist; cousin of Sir J. R. Seeley (q.v.); assisted Adam Sedgwick (1785-1873, q.v.) at Woodwardian museum, Cambridge, 1859-71; published 'Index to the Fossil Remains of Aves, Ornithosauria and Reptilia,' 1869; professor of geography at King's College, London, 1876; lecturer and professor of geology and mineralogy at Coopers Hill, 1890-1908, and at King's College, London, 1896-1908; chief work was 'Researches on the Fossil Reptilia' (10 pts., 1888-96, in Philos. Trans. of Royal Society); F.R.S., 1879; Lyell medallist, Geological Society, 1885.

SEELY, THOMAS GUNN (1846-1910), Wesleyan missionary in China; served at Fatsan, 1868-76; started North River Mission at Shih Chau Foo, 1878; circuit pastor in England, 1882; works include 'Life of Christ' in Chinese, c. 1890, and 'Chinamen at Home,' 1900.

SEELY, first VISCOUNT (1835-1909), Speaker of the House of Commons. (See GULLY, WILLIAM COURT.)

SELOUS, FREDERICK COURTENEY (1851-1917), hunter and explorer; hunter and ivory trader in South Africa, 1871-81; entered service of British South Africa Company and acted as intermediary between Cecil Rhodes (q.v.) and Matabele chief, Lobengula, 1890; guide and chief of pioneers who secured Mashonaland for British Crown; D.S.O., 1916; killed near Kisaki in (German) East Africa.

SELWYN-LEBETSON, SIR HENRY JOHN, seventh baronet, and BARN BOOKWOOD (1826-1902), politician; B.A., St. John's College, Cambridge, 1848; M.A. 1852; conservative M.P. for South Essex, 1865-8, for Western division of Essex, 1868-84, and for Epping division, 1884-92; raised to peerage, 1892; under-secretary to home office, 1874-8; parliamentary secretary to the treasury, 1878; piloted bill for opening Epping Forest to public (1878).

SELWYN, ALFRED RICHARD CECIL (1824-1902), geologist; assistant geologist on geological survey of Great Britain, 1845; made special study of geology of North Wales; director of geological survey of Victoria, Australia, 1852-69, and of Canada, 1869-94; paid special attention to goldfields, mineral areas, and water supply; published official reports; F.R.S., 1874; LL.D. McGill University, 1881; C.M.G., 1886; president of Royal Society of Canada, 1896; died at Vancouver.

SEMON, SIR FELIX (1849-1921), laryngologist; born at Danzig; M.D., Berlin; came to London, 1874; physician in charge of throat department, St. Thomas's Hospital, 1882-97; laryngologist to National Hospital for Paralysis and Epilepsy, 1887-1909; F.R.C.P., 1885; knighted, 1897; naturalized, 1901; K.C.V.O., 1905; especially skilled in diagnosis of cancer of larynx.

SENDALL, SIR WALTER JOSEPH (1832-1904), colonial governor; B.A., Christ's College, Cambridge (first class classic), 1858; M.A., 1867; inspector of schools, 1860-70, and director of education, 1870-2, in Ceylon; poor law inspector in England, 1873-8; assistant secretary of local government board, 1878-85; governor-in-chief of Windward Islands, 1885-9, and of Barbados, 1889-92; high commissioner of Cyprus, 1892-8, and of British Guiana, 1898-1901; C.M.G., 1887; K.C.M.G., 1889; G.C.M.G., 1899; hon. LL.D. Edinburgh; edited 'Literary Remains of C. S. Calverley,' 1885.

SERGEANT, (EMILY FRANCES) ADELIN (1851-1904), novelist; published 'Poems,' 1866; educated at Queen's College, London; private governess, 1870-80; engaged in much social work in London, 1887-1901; joined Roman communion, 1899; described religious development in 'Roads to Rome' (1901); her novels (over ninety) include 'Jacobi's Wife,' 1882, 'Esther Denison,' 1889, and 'The Story of Phil Enderby,' 1898; 'Life' by Winifred Stephens, 1903.

SERGEANT, LEWIS (1841-1902), journalist and author; B.A., St. Catharine's College, Cambridge, 1865; for long period leader writer to 'Daily Chronicle'; editor of 'Educational Times,' 1895-1902; wrote much on modern Greece; other works include 'The Franks,' 1898, and verse and fiction.

SETON, GEORGE (1822-1908), Scottish genealogist, heraldic and legal writer; B.A., Exeter College, Oxford, 1845; M.A., 1848; called to Scottish bar, 1846; superintendent of civil service examinations in Scotland, 1862-89; F.R.S. Edinburgh and P.S.A. Scotland; voluminous writings include 'The Law and Practice of Heraldry in Scotland,' 1863, and a history of the Seton family, 2 vols. 1896.

SEVERN, WALTER (1830-1904), water-colour artist; born near Rome; son of Joseph Severn (q.v.); held post in education department, 1852-85; made art furniture; revived art needlework and embroidery; skilful landscape painter in water-colours; founded Dudley Gallery Art Society, 1885; president, 1883-1904.

SEWELL, ELIZABETH MISSING (1816-1906), author; sister of James Edwards Sewall (q.v.); influenced by Oxford Movement; published 'Amy Herbert,' 1844, and 'Laneton Parsonage,' 3 pts. 1846-8, novels embodying her Anglican views; published 'The Experience of Life', 1853, 'Ursula', 1858, and other novels; took private pupils at Borchurch from 1859 to 1891; founded at Ventnor St. Boniface School for middle-class girls, 1866; wrote also educational and devotional works; 'Autobiography' edited by E. L. Sewell, 1907.

SEWELL, JAMES EDWARDS (1810-1908), warden of New College, Oxford, from 1880 to 1908; educated at Winchester and New College, Oxford; B.A., 1832; M.A., 1835; D.D., 1860; fellow, 1839; vice-chancellor of University, 1874-8.

SEYMOUR, SIR EDWARD HOBART (1840-1939), admiral of the fleet; grandson of Rear-Admiral Sir Michael Seymour [q. v.], first baronet, and nephew of Admiral Sir Michael Seymour [q. v.]; entered royal navy, 1859; served in Crimean war, 1854-6; served in China, being present at capture of Canton, 1857-8; took part in attack on Takou forts, 1860; served against Taiping rebels, 1862; served on west coast of Africa, 1869-70; captain of 'Iris' during Egyptian war, 1882; promoted to flag-rank, 1889; second-in-command of Channel squadron, 1893-4; admiral-superintendent of naval reserves, 1894-7; commander-in-chief, China station, 1897-1901; commanded international naval brigade during Boxer rising, 1900; admiral, 1901; commanded at Devonport, 1903-5; admiral of the fleet, 1905; retired, 1910; G.C.B., 1901; O.M., 1903; a good linguist.

SHACKLETON, SIR ERNEST HENRY (1874-1922), explorer; apprentice in mercantile marine, 1890; served on 'White Star, Shire, and Union Castle Lines; junior officer on National Antarctic expedition under Commander R. F. Scott [q. v.] in 'Discovery', 1901; left sea, 1903; began to mature plans for reaching South Pole; sailed in 'Nimrod', 1907; reached lat. 88° 33' S. on Antarctic plateau; sent parties to South Magnetic Pole and summit of Mount Erebus; commanded trans-Antarctic expedition in 'Endurance', 1914; when ship was crushed in ice, made voyage of 800 miles in small boat through stormy seas to South Georgia in order to bring help to his party, 1916; organized winter equipment of North Russian expeditionary force, 1918-19; sailed in 'Quest', 1921; knighted, 1909; died in South Georgia.

SHADWELL, CHARLES LANCELOT (1840-1919), college archivist and translator of Dante; son of Lancelot Shadwell [q. v.]; B.A., Christ Church, Oxford; fellow of Oriel, 1864-68; provost, 1905-14; published 'Registrium Oriense, 1500-1900' (1893, 1902), and verse translation of Dante's 'Purgatorio'.

SHAND, (afterwards BURNS), ALEXANDER, BARON SHAND, of Woodhouse (1838-1904), judge; studied law at Edinburgh University, 1848-53; passed to Scottish bar, 1853; sheriff of Kincardine, 1862, and of Haddington and Berwick, 1869; raised to bench, 1872; settled in London, 1890; P.C. and member of the judicial committee of privy council, 1890; raised to peerage, 1892; lord of appeal in House of Lords, 1892-1904.

SHAND, ALEXANDER INNES (1832-1907), journalist and critic; M.A. Aberdeen University, 1852; admitted to Scottish bar, 1865; prolific contributor to 'The Times', 'Blackwood's', and 'Saturday Review'; British commissioner at Paris Exhibition, 1883; fine rider, shot, and angler; works include 'Shooting the Rapids', novel, 1873, life of Sir Edward Hamley, 1895, 'The War in the Peninsula', 1898, 'Shooting', 1899, 'Dogs', 1903, 'Old World Travel', 1903, and 'Days of the Past', 1905.

SHANDON, BARON (1857-1930), lord chancellor of Ireland. (See O'BRIEN, IGNATIUS JOHN.)

SHANON, SIR JAMES JEBUSA (1862-1923), painter; born in New York state; studied art in England; gained widespread clientele for his portraits, which constitute the bulk of his paintings; R.A., 1909; knighted, 1923.

SHARP, ORCIL JAMES (1859-1924), musician, author, and collector and arranger of English folk-songs and dances; B.A., Clare College, Cambridge; held posts in Adelaide, Australia, 1882-93; music-master, Ludgrove School, 1893-1910; work on his 'Book of British Song' (1909) probably led him to realize essential importance of traditional art; began researches into survival of traditional music in England, 1903; as result, published 'Folk-Songs from Somerset' (1904), which aroused much interest; elected to committee of Folk-Song Society, 1904; carried on active propaganda on behalf of claims of folk-song; published 'English Folk-Song: Some Conclusions', 1907; visited Appalachian Mountains in search of songs, 1912-18; the other main subject of his activities was the folk-dance, in which he was a pioneer; researched into morris, sword-, and country-dances; founded English Folk-Dance Society, 1911; director, 1913-24.

SHARP, WILLIAM, 'FIONA MACLEOD' (1856-1906), romanticist; educated at Glasgow Academy and University; in lawyer's office, 1874-6; travelled in Australia for health, 1876-8; clerk in London, 1878-81; introduced in 1881 to D. G. Rossetti, whose life he wrote, 1882; published volumes of verse—including 'Romantic Ballads and Poems of Fantasy', 1888; editor of 'Canterbury Poets', 1884; wrote lives of Shelley (1887), Keats (1888), and Browning (1890), and 'The Children of To-morrow' (1889), a romantic tale; visited Canada and America (1889), Scotland, Germany, and Rome (1890); published 'Sospiri di Roma', 1891, 'Life of Joseph Severn', 1892, and dramatic 'Vistas', 1894; began to write mystical prose and verse under pseudonym of 'Fiona Macleod', 1893; such works include 'Pharos: a Romance of the Isles', 1894, 'The Mountain Lovers', 1895, 'The Sir Eater' (Celtic tales), 1896, and plays including 'The House of Ueno', 1900, and 'The Immortal Hour', 1900; uniform edition of 'Fiona's' works appeared in 1910; Sharp kept his identity with 'Fiona' a secret till death; under his own name continued to write stories, including 'The Gypsy Christ', 1895, and 'Wives in Exile', 1896, as well as 'Literary Geography', 1904; died in Sicily, near Mount Etna; memoir by wife, 1910.

SHARPE, RICHARD BOWDLER (1847-1909), ornithologist; first Librarian to Zoological Society, 1866-72; senior assistant of zoological department, British Museum, 1872-95; assistant keeper of vertebrates, 1895; hon. LL.D. Aberdeen, 1891; greatly increased ornithological collection; prepared British Museum Catalogue of Birds (27 vols. 1874-98), and 'Handlist of the Genera and Species of Birds' (5 vols. 1899-1909); edited Allen's 'Naturalist's Library' (16 vols.), contributing 'The Birds of Great Britain' (4 vols. 1894-7); wrote also monographs on kingfishers (1868-71), swallows (1885-94), and birds of paradise (1891-8); founded British Ornithologists' Club, 1892.

SHATTOCK, SAMUEL GEORGE (1852-1934), pathologist; born BETTY; qualified in medicine, University College, London; curator of pathological museum, Royal College of Surgeons, 1897-1924; F.R.S., 1917; for forty years played important part in revolution of outlook on pathology.

SHAUGHNESSY, THOMAS GEORGE, first BARON SHAUGHNESSY, of Montreal, and of Ashford, co. Limerick (1852-1923), Canadian railway administrator; born at Milwaukee, U.S.A.; employed in purchasing department, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railway, 1869; general store-keeper, 1879; general purchasing agent to Canadian Pacific Railway company, at Montreal, 1882; assistant general manager, 1885; vice-president, 1891; president, 1899-1918; chairman of board of directors, 1918; knighted, 1901; K.C.V.O., 1907; baron, 1918; progress of company largely due to him; created its Atlantic fleet.

SHAW, ALFRED (1842-1907), cricketer; played regularly for Nottinghamshire and for Players v. Gentlemen, 1865-87; played for England v. Australia in first test match in England, Sept. 1880; visited America twice (1868 and 1879), and Australia five times, thrice as captain of English team; was privately engaged by Lord Sheffield in Sussex, 1883-94; played for Sussex, 1894-5; called 'The Emperor of Bowlers'; 'Life' by A. W. Pullin, 1902.

SHAW, SIR EYRE MASSEY (1830-1908), head of the London Metropolitan Fire Brigade, 1861-91; B.A., Trinity College, Dublin, 1848; M.A., 1854; in army, 1854-60; chief constable of Belfast, 1869-81; re-organized Belfast fire service; perfected organisation of metropolitan system; wrote many treatises on fire brigade subjects; C.B., 1879; K.C.B., 1891; freeman of City of London, 1892.

SHAW, JAMES JOHNSTON (1845-1910), county court judge; professor of metaphysics in Magee College, Londonderry, 1869-78; called to Irish bar, 1878; Whately professor of political economy, Trinity College, Dublin, 1879-91; commissioner of national education in Ireland, 1891; county court judge of Kerry, 1891, and of Antrim, 1909; framed statutes for Queen's University, Belfast, 1908; pro-chancellor, 1909; recorder of Belfast, 1909; his 'Occasional Papers' collected in 1910.

SHAW, JOHN BYAM LISTER (1872-1919), painter and illustrator; A.R.W.S., 1912; has been called 'a kind of belated pre-Raphaelite'.

SHAW, RICHARD NORMAN (1881-1913), architect;

pupil of William Burn [q. v.]; travelled abroad, 1884-5; published 'Architectural Sketches from the Continent, 1888; chief assistant to George Edmund Street [q. v.], 1889; started practice in London with William Eden Nesfield [q. v.], 1892; A.R.A., 1873; B.A., 1877; trained as 'Gothic' architect; his town houses include many studios for artist clients in so-called 'Queen Anne' style; chief piece of city architecture New Scotland Yard (1891); designed a number of country houses, including Chesham, Northumberland, and Bryanston, Dorset (1890-4), both on the grand scale; pre-eminent among Victorian architects for sincerity of his art.

SHAW-LEFEVRE, GEORGE JOHN, BARON EVERLEY (1831-1928), statesman; son of Sir J. G. Shaw-Lefevre [q. v.] and nephew of Charles Shaw-Lefevre, Viscount Eversley [q. v.]; B.A., Trinity College, Cambridge; Liberal M.P., Reading, 1863-86; instrumental in forming Commons Preservation Society, of which he was almost continuously chairman until death, 1886; secretary to board of trade, 1888; under-secretary to home office, 1871; secretary to admiralty, 1871-4; first commissioner of works, 1880-3; postmaster-general, with seat in cabinet, 1883; M.P., Central Bradford, 1886-95; first commissioner of works, with seat in cabinet, 1893-4; president, local government board, 1894-5; found scope on London county council for devotion to public administrative work; baron, 1906; a statesman and administrator of extraordinary industry and public spirit.

SHEARMAN, SIR MONTAGUE (1857-1930), judge; B.A., St. John's College, Oxford; distinguished both as scholar and athlete; called to bar (Inner Temple), 1881; K.C., 1903; judge of king's bench division of high court and knighted, 1914; presided at some notable trials, including those of Harold Greenwood (1920), Frederick Bywaters and Mrs. Edith Thompson (1922), and murderers of Sir Henry Wilson (q. v., 1922).

SHEFFIELD, third EARL OF (1832-1909), patron of cricket. [See HOLROYD, HENRY NORTH.]

SHEFFIELD, fourth BARON (1839-1925). [See STANLEY, EDWARD LUTHER.]

SHELFORD, SIR WILLIAM (1834-1905), civil engineer; educated at Marlborough; apprenticed as mechanical engineer, 1852; assistant to Sir John Fowler [q. v.], 1856-60; engaged in construction of metropolitan railway; resident engineer on London, Chatham, and Dover Railway, 1860-5; practised on his own account from 1868; engineer of the Hull and Barnsley Railway, 1861-5; visited Canada (1868), Italy (1869), and the Argentine (1890) to report on railway schemes; main work was construction of railways in West Africa from 1893 till 1904; studied and wrote on engineering works of rivers and estuaries; reported on river Tiber and its floods, 1879 and 1886; C.M.G., 1901; K.C.M.G., 1904; 'Life' by Anna E. Shelford, 1907.

SHERSTON, WILLIAM ASHWELL (1850-1908), writer on chemistry; studied chemistry at school of Pharmaceutical Society of Great Britain; demonstrator of practical chemistry there; science master at Clifton College from 1880 to death; collaborated with (Sir) W. A. Tilden and others in much chemical research, especially in ozone; F.R.S., 1898; published works on chemistry.

SHERBORN, CHARLES WILLIAM (1831-1912), engraver; apprenticed to London silver-plate engraver; engraved for London jewellers, 1856-72; his finest achievement series of over 350 book-plates produced between 1881 and 1912; regular exhibitor at Royal Academy.

SHERINGTON, HEBLEN LEMKEN (1834-1906), soprano vocalist. [See LEMKEN-SHERINGTON.]

SHEPHERD, FREDERIC JAMES (1833-1911), painter and decorative artist; served with mercer's and lithographers in London and Manchester, 1847-56; influenced by pre-Raphaelite works at Manchester Exhibition, 1857; successful water-colour artist and book-illustrator; became intimate with Rossetti, whose memorial window in Birkenhead church he designed; settled in London, 1876; later devoted himself to decorative design and oil-painting; most important work was decoration of walls of chapel of Ascension, Baywater Road, from 1889 onwards; he bequeathed fortune to foreign missionary societies; 'Life' by Mrs. Ernestine Mills (1912).

SHIPLEY, SIR ARTHUR EVERETT (1861-1927), zoologist; B.A. (first classes in both parts of natural science tripos, 1883 and 1884), Christ's College, Cambridge; devoted himself to study of zoology under influence of F. M. Balfour [q. v.]; took up subject of parasitic worms; university demonstrator in comparative anatomy, 1886; lecturer in advanced morphology of Invertebrata, 1894; reader in zoology, 1908-30; fellow of Christ's College, 1887; played leading part in administration of affairs of college and university; tutor in natural sciences, Christ's College, 1892; member of council of senate of university, 1896-1908; master of Christ's College, 1910; noted for his hospitality; vice-chancellor, 1917-19; maintained close connexion with colonial office; chairman, Tropical Agriculture Committee, 1919; served on various royal commissions; G.B.E., 1920; his numerous works include 'The Zoology of the Invertebrata' (1893) and 'Text-book of Zoology' (with E. W. MacBride, 1901); edited with (Sir) S. F. Harmer, 'Cambridge Natural History' (1898-1909).

SHEPPARD, SIR SIDNEY GODOLPHIN ALEXANDER (1837-1903), colonial official; born at Brussels; B.A., Hertford College, Oxford, 1863; B.O.L. and M.A., 1864; D.O.L., 1878; called to bar, 1867; migrated to South Africa, 1867; attorney-general of Griqualand West, 1875-8; judge of supreme court of Cape Colony, 1880-5; chief magistrate of British Bechuanaland, 1886-90; C.M.G., 1886; K.O.M.G., 1887; an able Roman-Dutch lawyer.

SHERREFF, MARIA GEORGINA (1816-1906), promoter of women's education. [See GREY.]

SHORE, WILLIAM THOMAS (1840-1905), geologist and antiquary; founded Hampshire Archaeological Society, and wrote much in its 'Transactions' on Hampshire geology; F.G.S., 1878; settled in London, 1896, and worked on London archaeology; publications include 'A History of Hampshire', 1892; a memorial volume of geological papers was collected in 1908.

SHORTER, CLEMENT KING (1857-1926), journalist and author; clerk in Exchequer and Audit department, Somerset House, 1877-90; editor of 'English Illustrated Magazine', 1890; of 'Illustrated London News', 1891; founded and edited for 'Illustrated London News Company' 'Sketch', 1893; parted from 'Illustrated London News' and founded 'Sphere', 1900; remained editor until his death; founded 'Tatler', 1903; his works include 'Charlotte Brontë and her Circle' (1896), 'Napoleon and his Fellow-Travelers' (1908), 'Napoleon in his own Defence' (1910), and 'George Borrow and his Circle' (1913).

SHOOTHOUSE, JOSEPH HENRY (1834-1903), novelist; of quaker parentage; entered father's chemical works at Birmingham, 1850; influenced by Ruskin and pre-Raphaelitism; joined Anglican communion, 1861; his psychological romance, 'John Inglesant', begun in 1866 and finished in 1876, was privately printed in 1880 and published in 1881; work attracted Gladstone, Huxley, Manning, and had wide vogue; other novels include 'Sil Perival', 1886, 'A Teacher of the Violin', 1888; also wrote on 'The Platonism of Wordsworth', 1882; 'Life' by widow, 2 vols. 1905.

SHERWATBURY, ARTHUR (1856-1903), Nottinghamshire cricketer; played regularly for Nottinghamshire from 1875 to 1902; from 1882 visited Australia; leading English batsman from 1883 to 1893; especially successful in 1887; scored sixty centuries in first-class cricket; showed strong defence and unvarying patience; established athletic outfitting business in Nottingham, 1880; shot himself at Gedling, Nottinghamshire.

SHUCKBURGH, EVELYN SHIRLEY (1843-1906), classical scholar; educated at Ipswich grammar school and at Emmanuel College, Cambridge; thirteenth classic, 1866; fellow, 1866-74; president of Union, 1865; assistant master at Eton, 1874-84; edited many elementary school classics translated Polybius, 1889, and 'Cicero's Letters', 1889-1900; edited Suetonius's 'Life of Augustus', 1896; Litt.D. Cambridge, 1902; published 'Life of Augustus', 1903; also wrote histories of Rome (1894) and Greece (to 146 B.C., 1901; to A.D. 14, 1905), and a history of Emmanuel College, 1904.

SHYKING, SIR EDWARD HENRY (1816-1904), physician; of a Hamburg family; studied at Berlin and Bonn universities; M.D. Edinburgh, 1841; hon. LL.D., 1884; practised at Hamburg, 1843-7; F.R.C.P., 1849; vice-president, 1888; assistant physician to St. Mary's Hospital, London, 1851-66; physician, 1866-87; helped to found Epsom College, 1855; president of Harveian Society, 1861; knighted, 1886; invented an anæsthesiometer, 1858; collaborated in 'Manual of Pathological Anatomy', 1854, and wrote many papers on nervous diseases, climatology, and nursing.

SITTON, SIR CLIFFORD (1861-1939), Canadian statesman; born in Ontario; called to bar, 1883; liberal member for North Brandon in Manitoba legislature, 1888; attorney-general and minister of education, 1891; minister of the interior, 1894; contributed greatly to development of Western Canada; resigned, owing to disagreement with prime minister, Sir Wilfrid Laurier [q. v.], 1908; prime agent in defeat of liberal government, 1911; organized commission for conservation of natural resources, 1909; strongly advocated Canadian constitutional equality with Great Britain; K.C.M.G., 1915.

SINMONS, SIR JOHN LINTORN ARABIN (1821-1903), field-marshal and colonel commandant royal engineers; joined royal engineers, 1837; served in Canada, 1839-45; employed under railway commissioners, 1846-54; British commissioner with Omar Pasha's Turkish army on the Danube, 1854; helped in defence of Silistria; commanded 30,000 men at battle of Grurgevo (July); repulsed Russians at Eupatoria; took part with Turkish army in siege of Sevastopol; C.B., Oct. 1855; accompanied Omar Pasha in attempt to relieve Kars (Nov.); made major-general in Turkish army; British commissioner for delimitation of new boundary between Turkey and Russia in Asia, 1857; British consul at Warsaw, 1858-60; commanding royal engineer at Aldershot, 1860-5; director of Royal Engineers' Establishment at Chatham, 1865-8; lieutenant-governor of Royal Military Academy at Woolwich and K.C.B., 1869; governor, 1870-5; lieutenant-general and colonel commandant royal engineers, 1872; member of royal commission on railway accidents, 1874-5; inspector-general of fortifications at the war office, 1876-80; military delegate at Berlin congress, 1878; general, 1877; G.C.B., 1878; member of royal commission on defence of British possessions, 1880-2; governor of Malta, 1884-8; G.C.M.G., 1887; field-marshal, 1890.

SINMON, SIR JOHN (1816-1904), sanitary reformer and pathologist; educated privately at Greenwich and in Germany; apprenticed to Joseph Henry Green [q. v.] at St. Thomas's Hospital, 1833-40; M.R.C.S., 1838; hon. F.R.C.S., 1844; president, 1878-9; senior assistant surgeon at King's College Hospital, 1840-7; and lecturer on pathology, 1847; subsequently surgeon at St. Thomas's Hospital, with which he was associated for life; F.R.S., 1845; first medical officer of health for the City of London, 1848; medical officer of general board of health, 1855-8, and of privy council under Public Health Act, 1858-71; published valuable annual reports, reprinted in 'Public Health Reports', 2 vols. 1887; chief medical officer of newly formed local government board, 1871-6; C.B., 1876; crown member of medical council, 1876-85; K.C.B., 1887; first Harben medallist of the Royal Institution of Public Health (1896) and first Buchanan medallist of the Royal Society (1897) for services to sanitary science; received honorary degrees from Oxford, Cambridge, Edinburgh, Dublin, and Munich; intimate friend of Ruskin; published 'English Sanitary Institutions', 1890, and his 'Personal Recollections', 1898 (revised edit. 1903).

SINMONS, JAMES BEART (1810-1904), veterinary surgeon; consulting veterinary surgeon to Royal Agricultural Society, 1842-1904; president of Royal College of Veterinary Surgeons, 1862-3; reported on continental and London cattle plague, 1857 and 1866; chief inspector of veterinary department of privy council office, 1865-71; principal of Royal Veterinary College, 1871-81; 'Autobiography' privately printed, 1894.

SIMPSON, MAXWELL (1815-1902), chemist; B.A., Trinity College, Dublin, 1837; studied chemistry at University College, London; M.B., 1847; obtained synthetically succinic and other di- and tri-basic acids; professor of chemistry in Queen's College, Cork, 1872-91; F.R.S., 1862; fellow of Royal University of Ireland, 1882-91; hon. D.Sc., 1882; hon. M.D. Dublin, 1884; LL.D., 1878.

SIMPSON, WILFRED HUDESTON (1828-1909), geologist. See HUDESTON.]

SINE, CHARLES (1873-1928), painter; studied art in London and Paris, 1890-2; exhibited at Royal Academy, 1896; took to out-door figure-painting, 1900; began series of mother-and-child pictures, 1901; held successful first 'one-man' show at Leicester Galleries (1908) which established his reputation; 'The Fountain' (1908) and 'The Wood beyond the World' (1913) purchased by Chantrey trustees for Tate Gallery; R.A., 1915; an official artist in France, 1918; keeper of Royal Academy schools, 1920-4; an assiduous and fertile technical experimenter; delighted in painting open-air lyrics.

SINCLAIR, JOHN, first BARON FENTLAND (1860-1926), politician; followed military career, 1879-87; liberal M.P., Dumfries-shire, 1899-5; assistant private secretary to (Sir) Henry Campbell-Bannerman, M.P., Forfarshire, 1897-1909; secretary for Scotland, 1906-12; carried through National Galleries (Scotland) Act (1906), Scottish Education Act (1908), and Small Landholders (Scotland) Bill (1911); baron, 1909; governor of Madras, 1912-19.

SINGLETON, MARY (1843-1905), authoress under the pseudonym of 'VIOLET FANN'. [See CURRIE, MARY MONTGOMERIE, BARONESS CURRIE.]

SINHA, SATYENDRA PRASANNO, first BARON SINHA, of Raipur (1864-1938), Indian statesman; born in Bengal; came to England, 1881; called to bar (Lincoln's Inn), 1881; standing counsel to Bengal government, 1903; officiated as advocate-general, Bengal, 1908; confirmed, 1908; legal member, governor-general's council, 1909; first Indian member of Indian government; president, Indian National Congress, 1915; member, Imperial War Cabinet and Conference in London, 1917; parliamentary under-secretary of state for India, 1918; governor of Bihar and Orissa, 1920-1; member of judicial committee of privy council, 1926; knighted, 1914; K.C., 1918; baron, 1919; P.C., 1919; died in Bengal.

SKELAT, WALTER WILLIAM (1835-1913), philologist; B.A., Christ's College, Cambridge; first Birlington and Bosworth professor of Anglo-Saxon, Cambridge, 1878-1912; works include 'Anglo-Saxon Gospels' (1871-87), Ælfric's 'Lives of Saints' (1881-1900), great edition of 'Piers Plowman' (completed 1886), seven-volume edition of Chaucer (1894-7), and 'Etymological Dictionary' (1879-82).

SKIPPY, JOSEPH (1832-1903), the collier poet; worked in Northumberland collieries from the age of seven; taught himself to read and write; varied work in mines with other employment until 1882; published 'Poems', 1859, 'Poems, Songs and Ballads', 1862, 'The Collier Lad, and other Lyrics', 1864, 'Carols from the Coalfields', 1886; edited the 'Canterbury Poets', 1884-5; custodian of Shakespeare's birthplace, Stratford-on-Avon, 1889-91; was commended by D. G. Rossetti and Burne-Jones; received civil list pensions, 1880-6; 'Life' by R. Spence Watson [q. v.].

SLANEY, WILLIAM SLANEY KENYON- (1847-1908), colonel and politician. [See KENYON-SLANEY.]

SMART, SIR THOMAS WILLIAM (1858-1939), South African politician; L.R.C.S., Ireland; in medical practice, Cape Colony, 1880; member for Wodehouse, Cape house of assembly, 1893; colonial secretary under Sir J. G. Sprigg [q. v.], 1896-8; intimately associated with Cecil Rhodes [q. v.]; commissioner of crown lands and public works under (Sir) L. S. Jameson [q. v.], 1904-8; supported General Botha [q. v.] in work for South African Union; with Jameson organized unionist party, 1910; leader, 1912; secretary of agriculture under General Smuts, 1921-4; K.C.M.G., 1911; died at Cape Town.

SNEATON, DONALD MACKENZIE (1846-1910), Anglo-Indian official; M.A. St. Andrews University; entered Indian civil service, 1865; secretary of land revenue department and director of agriculture, Burma, 1882-6; chief secretary to chief commissioner, 1887; published account of hill races in 'Loyal Karons of Burma', 1887; financial commissioner of Burma, 1891-1902; represented Burma on supreme legislative council, 1898-1902; retired in 1902 to England; liberal M.P. for Stirling-shire, 1906-10.

SMILES, SAMUEL (1812-1904), author and social reformer; educated at Haddington grammar school; apprenticed to local medical practitioners, 1826; studied at Edinburgh University, 1829-32; engaged in practice at Haddington, 1832-8; published 'Physical Education', 1837 (new edit. 1868 and 1905); travelled in Holland and first visited London, 1838; editor of 'Leeds Times', an advanced radical organ, 1838-42; assistant secretary of Leeds and Thirsk Railway, 1845; secretary of South Eastern Railway, 1854-66; president of the National Provident Institution, 1866-71; devoted leisure to advocacy of political and social reform on lines of Manchester school, and to biography of industrial leaders or of humble self-taught students; published 'Life of George Stephenson', 1857, 'Lives of the Engineers', 3 vols. 1861-2, and many similar works; achieved great popular success with 'Self-help', 1859, 'Character', 1871, 'Thrift', 1876, 'Duty', 1880, and 'Life and Labour', 1887; wrote also on 'The Huguenots . . . in England and Ireland', 1867, and 'The Huguenots in France', 1874; hon. LL.D. Edinburgh, 1878; other biographies treated of George Moore the philanthropist, 1878, and of John Murray the publisher, 1891; autobiography posthumously issued, 1905.

SMITH, SIR ARCHIBALD LEVIN (1836-1901), judge; B.A., Trinity College, Cambridge, 1858; rowing blue' (1857-9); good cricketer; president of M.C.C., 1899; called to bar (Inner Temple), 1860; standing junior counsel to treasury, 1879; judge of queen's bench division and knighted, 1883; special commissioner to inquire into 'The Times' allegations against Farnell, 1888; promoted to court of appeal, 1892; master of the Rolls, 1900.

SMITH, ARTHUR LIONEL (1850-1924), historian; educated at Christ's Hospital; B.A., Balliol College, Oxford; Lothian prize essayist, 1874; fellow and lecturer, Trinity College, Oxford, 1874-9; modern history tutor, Balliol, 1879; fellow, 1883; helped to build up position of history school in university; a devoted and successful college tutor; keenly interested in college athletics; dean, 1907; master, 1916; an ardent member of standing joint committee of University Extension Delegacy, 1908; lectured to working-class audiences all over England during European war; served on Archbishops' Committee on Church and State (1914) and 'Christianity and Industrial Problems', 1916-17; his works include 'Church and State in the Middle Ages' (Ford lectures, 1905, 1913).

SMITH, SIR CHARLES BEAN EUAN- (1842-1910), soldier and diplomatist. [See EUAN-SMITH.]

SMITH, DONALD ALEXANDER, first BARON STRATHCONA AND MOUNT ROYAL (1830-1914), Canadian financier; born in Scotland; went to Canada as clerk in Hudson's Bay Company, 1838; a 'chief factor', 1863; head of company's Montreal department, 1868; sent by Canadian government to negotiate with Louis Riel (q. v.); conservative member of federal parliament, 1871-9; with group of colleagues, which included a cousin, George Stephen (afterwards Baron Mount Stephen, q. v.), completed greater part of Great Northern Railway, 1879, and Canadian Pacific Railway, 1885; knighted, 1886; re-entered parliament for Montreal constituency, 1887; governor of Hudson's Bay Company, 1889; high commissioner for Canada, 1896; baron, 1897; raised 'Strathcona's Horse' during Boer war; lived latter years in England and died there.

SMITH, SIR FRANCIS (VILLENEUVE) (1819-1909), chief justice of Tasmania; early accompanied father to Van Diemen's Land; educated at University College, London; B.A. 1840; called to bar (Middle Temple), 1842, and of Van Diemen's Land, 1844; crown solicitor of colony, 1849; attorney-general, 1854-6; attorney-general in first responsible ministry, 1856-7; attorney-general and premier, 1857-60; puisne judge of supreme court, 1860-70; knighted, 1861; chief justice, 1870-84.

SMITH, SIR FREDERICK (1857-1929), major-general, Army Veterinary Service; educated at Royal Veterinary College, London; commissioned to artillery; investigated cause of sore backs among horses belonging to 12th lancers in India, 1880; professor, Army Veterinary School, Aldershot, 1886-91; served in South Africa, 1899-1902; director-general, Army Veterinary Service, and honorary major-general, 1907-10; K.C.M.G., 1918; a prolific writer on veterinary subjects.

SMITH, FREDERICK EDWIN, first EARL OF DIRKENHEAD (1872-1930), lord chancellor; B.A. (first class in jurisprudence, 1895), Wadham College, Oxford; president of Union, 1893; Vinerian scholar and fellow of Merton College, Oxford, 1896; called to bar (Gray's Inn), 1899; began to practise in Liverpool; engaged in several important cases, 1902-6; conservative M.P., Walton division of Liverpool, 1906-18; moved to London; achieved parliamentary reputation by his maiden speech; unfortunately his extravagance and fondness for gaiety soon gave impression that he was a reckless partisan, fighting for his own hand, and not a responsible or serious person either as lawyer or parliamentarian; made many enemies; attacked mass of attempted liberal legislation with great bitterness, but believed that vital issues which he foresaw could only be dealt with by government comprising men of all constitutional parties; opposed Mr. Lloyd George's budget in Commons, but urged friends in Lords to allow it to pass; opposed Parliament Bill, Welsh Disestablishment, and Home Rule in parliament and country, but when party leaders entered into conference (June 1910) advocated party truce and formation of national government; adhered to extreme right wing of conservative party which advocated resistance by Lords to Parliament Bill; at first absorbed in preparations for resistance of Ulster to Home Rule, but later advocated settlement based on exclusion of Ulster; during these years carried on ever-increasing practice at bar; K.C., 1908; after outbreak of European war (1914) constantly engaged on constructive work for government; head of Press Bureau, 1914; solicitor-general in first Coalition government, May 1915; attorney-general, Nov. 1915; greatly concerned with law of prize; most famous cases in which he was engaged in court, S.S. 'Zamora' and S.S. 'Ophelia' (1916), trial of Sir Roger Casement (1916), trial of Wheeler (1917), and Rhodesian land case (1918); member of cabinet until end of war; M.P., West Derby division of Liverpool, 1918; lord chancellor, 1919-22; acquired great authority among his legal colleagues; strove earnestly to do justice; heard many famous cases; among other law reforms accomplished amendment of law relating to transfer of land, 1922; supported Irish treaty, 1921; greatly lamented fall of Coalition government, 1922; secretary of state for India, 1924-8; baronet, 1918; baron, 1919; viscount, 1921; earl, 1922.

SMITH, GEORGE (1824-1901), founder, proprietor, and publisher of the DICTIONARY OF NATIONAL BIOGRAPHY. A memoir of him appears in vol. I of the main work.

SMITH, GEORGE BARNETT (1841-1909), author and journalist; on editorial staff of 'Globe', 1865-8, and 'Echo', 1868-76; compiled lives of Shelley (1877), Gladstone (1879), John Bright (1881), Victor Hugo (1885), and 'History of the English Parliament' (3 vols. 1892); a skilful etcher; was granted civil list pensions in 1891 and 1906.

SMITH, GEORGE MURRAY (1859-1919), eldest son of George Smith (q. v.), founder of the DICTIONARY OF NATIONAL BIOGRAPHY. A note on him appears in vol. I, p. lix, of the main work.

SMITH, GEORGE VANCE (1816?-1902), Unitarian biblical scholar; divinity student at Manchester College, York (removed to Manchester in 1840 and to London in 1853), where he held many offices, 1839-60, finally serving as principal, 1850-3, and as professor of critical and exegetical theology, 1853-7; M.A. and Ph.D., Tubingen, 1857; minister of St. Saviourgate Chapel, York, 1858-75; joined New Testament revision company, 1870; D.D. Jena, 1878; principal of Presbyterian College, Carnarvon, 1876-88; voluminous writings include 'The Bible and Popular Theology', 1871, 'The Prophets and their Interpreters', 1878.

SMITH, GOLDWIN (1823-1910), controversialist; at Eton, 1836-41; matriculated from Christ Church, Oxford, 1841; elected demy of Magdalen College, 1842; showed unusual classical aptitude; made a record as winner of classical prizes; formed in youth lasting liberal opinions on religious and political questions; B.A., 1845; 1848; Stowell hall professor at University College; 1846-47; ordinary fellow, 1850-47; tutor, 1850-4; attacked clerical ascendancy in university; joint secretary of Oxford University commission (1850) and of executive commission which framed new regulations under Oxford University Reform Act, 1855-7; an effective writer in 'Saturday Review', 1855-8; member of royal commission on national education, 1858; regius professor of modern history at Oxford, 1858-66; stimulated thought in Oxford by his professorial lectures; engaged in political agitation and pamphleteering; defined his distrust of imperialism in 'The Empire', 1863 (letters reprinted from the 'Daily News'); was denounced as a mischievous propagandist by Disraeli; diagnosed Irish difficulties in 'Irish History and Irish Character', 1863; influenced by John Bright, he actively advocated cause of North in American civil war; visited America, 1864; joined in attack on Governor Eyre (q. v.) for alleged ill treatment of negroes in Jamaica, 1867; published lectures on 'Three English Statesmen' (Pym, Cromwell, and Pitt), 1867, to provide funds for Jamaica committee; suffered anxiety from illness (1866) of father, who committed suicide next year; resolved on prolonged residence in America; accepted offer of professorship of history at newly founded Cornell University, Ithaca, N.Y. 1868; bade farewell to Oxford in a pamphlet on the 'Reorganization of the University', 1868; reached Ithaca, Nov. 1868; devoted himself zealously to professorial duties there; resented American hostility to England, 1869-70, and Disraeli's attack on him as a 'social parasite' in 'Lothair', 1870; made a tour in Canada, 1870; settled at Toronto, 1871; married there (1875) widow of Henry Boulton, of 'The Grange', which became his permanent residence for life. At Toronto Goldwin Smith was very active in journalism, contributing literary and political essays to daily, weekly, and monthly periodicals of Canada, America, and England; he strongly encouraged sentiment of national independence in Canada from 1871, and a commercial union with the United States from 1888, recommending the amalgamation of the English-speaking race on American continent; on frequent visits to England he took much part in public life there, but declined invitations to stand for parliament or to become master of University College, Oxford, 1881. He was made hon. D.C.L. Oxford, 1888; strenuously opposed Gladstone's home rule policy, 1886; always remained faithful to unionism (cf. 'Irish History and the Irish Question,' 1906); opposed South African war, 1899; explained his pacifist position in 'In the Court of History,' 1903; and warned America against imperialism in 'Commonwealth and Empire,' 1903. Other scattered political writings were collected in 'Lectures and Essays,' 1881, and 'Essays on Questions of the Day,' 1893. Smith continued his historical and literary studies in monograph on Cowper, 1880, 'Specimens of Greek Tragedy,' 1893, 'The United States: an Outline of Political History, 1492-1871,' 1893, and 'The United Kingdom: a Political History,' 2 vols. 1899. He also issued many speculative treatises deprecating orthodox religion, e.g. 'Guesses at the Riddle of Existence,' 1897. Despite the unpopularity of his political and religious views in Canada he won much affectionate respect there by his enlightened activity in educational matters, by his advocacy of purity in public life, and by his philanthropy and private charity. President of American Historical Association, 1904, he laid corner-stone of 'Goldwin Smith Hall' at Cornell, 1904. Dying at 'The Grange,' Toronto, he was buried in St. James's cemetery there. He bequeathed residue of large fortune to Cornell for promotion of liberal studies; 'Reminiscences,' 1911, and 'Correspondence,' 1913, both edited by Arnold Haultain.

SMITH, SIR HENRY BABINGTON (1863-1923), civil servant and financier; son of Archibald Smith (q.v.); educated at Eton and Trinity College, Cambridge; entered education office, 1887; private secretary to Mr. Goschen, 1891; transferred to treasury, 1892; secretary to Post Office, 1903-9; administrator-directeur-général, National Bank of Turkey, 1909; served on numerous financial commissions and committees; K.C.B., 1908.

SMITH, HENRY SPENCER (1812-1901), surgeon; entered St. Bartholomew's Hospital, 1832; M.R.C.S., 1837; F.R.C.S., 1843; senior assistant surgeon at newly founded St. Mary's Hospital, 1851; dean of medical school, 1854-60; stimulated in England microscopic study of tissues by his translation of German works.

SMITH, JAMES HAMBLIN (1829-1901), mathematician; B.A., Oriel College, Cambridge, 1850; M.A., 1853; private coach at Cambridge till death; lecturer in classics at Peterhouse, 1862-73; published handbooks on Statics (1868), Hydrostatics (1868), Trigonometry (1868), Algebra (1869), Geometry (1872), Arithmetic (1877), Heat (1877), and Geometrical Conic Sections (1887).

SMITH, LUCY TOULMIN (1838-1911), scholar; born at Boston, Massachusetts; daughter of Joshua Toulmin Smith (1816-69, q.v.); resided at Highgate, London, from 1842 to 1894; edited works for Early English Text, Camden, and New Shakespeare societies from 1870, as well as 'Leland's Itinerary,' 5 vols. 1906-10; Librarian of Manchester College, Oxford, 1894-1911.

SMITH, REGINALD BOSWORTH (1839-1908), schoolmaster and author; educated at Marlborough and Corpus Christi College, Oxford; B.A. (first class classic), 1862; M.A., 1865; president of Union, 1862; fellow and tutor of Trinity College, Oxford, 1863; classical master at Harrow, 1864-1901; published lectures on Mohammed and Mohammedanism, 1874, 'Carthage and the Carthaginians,' 1878, and 'Life of Lord Lawrence,' 4 vols., 1883; wrote on current political, religious, and educational matters in the reviews; defended Turkish character, urging permanent English occupation of Sudan; opposed disestablishment of Church of England; settled in Dorset, 1901; ardent ornithologist; published 'Bird Life and Bird Lore,' 1908; memoir by his daughter, 1909.

SMITH, REGINALD JOHN (1857-1916), barrister and publisher; B.A., King's College, Cambridge; called to bar (Inner Temple); joined publishing firm of Smith, Elder, & Co., 1884; assumed sole control, 1899; editor of 'Cornhill Magazine,' 1898; publications include centenary editions of Thackeray and Browning, Brout & Gaskell definitive editions, and thin paper edition of DICTIONARY OF NATIONAL BIOGRAPHY (1906).

SMITH, SIR ROSS MACPHERSON (1892-1922), airman; born at Adelaide; during European war served on Gallipoli Peninsula, 1915; transferred to royal flying corps, 1916; after European war, began series of long-distance flights, including first flight from Cairo to Calcutta (1918) and first flight from England to Australia (Nov.-Dec., 1919); killed at Brooklands, K.B.E., 1919.

SMITH, SAMUEL (1858-1906), politician and philanthropist; educated at Edinburgh University; apprenticed to Liverpool cottonbroker, 1858; after visit to North American cotton growing districts (1860) started cotton broking business at Liverpool; visited India (1862-3) to test cotton growing possibilities; president of Liverpool chamber of commerce, 1876; liberal M.P. for Liverpool, 1889-95, and for Flintshire, 1896-1906; friend of Gladstone; promoted Criminal Law Amendment Act, 1886; attacked opium traffic between China and India; advocate of bimetalism; published account of a second visit to India in 'India Revisited,' 1886; champion of native races; urged church disestablishment; P.C., 1905; revisited India, 1904-5 and 1908; died at Calcutta; bequeathed £50,000 to Liverpool institutions; published works on Indian cotton trade and Indian problems and autobiographical 'My Life Work,' 1902.

SMITH, SARAH (1832-1911), authoress under the pseudonym of HESBA STRETTON; first short story, 'The Lucky Leg,' accepted by Dickens for 'Household Words,' 1859; contributed to 'All the Year Round' Christmas numbers till 1866; her 'Jessica's First Prayer' (1866) won lasting popularity and has been translated into every European language and most African and Asiatic tongues; published some fifty other volumes; helped to found London Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Children, 1884.

SMITH, THOMAS (1817-1906), missionary and mathematician; graduated in mathematics at Edinburgh University; hon. M.A., 1858; D.D., 1867; LL.D., 1900; ordained to Scottish mission at Calcutta, 1839; on disruption (1843) joined Free Church; inaugurated first Zenana missions to India, 1854; conducted home mission in Edinburgh, 1859-79; professor of evangelistic theology, New College, Edinburgh, 1880-93; moderator of Free Church general assembly, 1891; works include 'Plane Geometry,' 1857, 'The Life of Euclid,' 1902, and 'Medieval Missions,' 1880.

SMITH, SIR THOMAS, first baronet (1833-1909), surgeon; educated at Tonbridge and St. Bartholomew's Hospital; M.R.C.S., 1854; coached pupils for examinations from 1854, publishing 'Manual of Operative Surgery on the Dead Body,' 1859; F.R.C.S., 1858; demonstrator of operative surgery at St. Bartholomew's, 1859; surgeon, 1873-98; surgeon to Children's Hospital, Great Ormond Street, 1868-83; baronet, 1897; K.C.V.O., 1901; a dexterous operator and sure guide in diagnosis.

SMITH, THOMAS ROGER (1830-1903), architect; entered office of Philip Hardwick (q.v.); designed several buildings in Bombay, 1864; work in England included many board schools, churches, and hospitals; president of Architectural Association, 1860-1 and 1863-4; district surveyor for Southwark and North Lambeth (1874-82) and for West Wandsworth from 1882; master of Carpenters' Company, 1901; professor of architecture at University College, London, 1880-1903; published manual of 'Acoustics,' 1861, and works on architecture.

SMITH, VINCENT ARTHUR (1848-1920), Indian historian and antiquary; son of Aquilla Smith (q.v.); entered Indian civil service, 1871; served in North-West Provinces and Oudh till 1900; O.I.E., 1919; works include 'Early History of India' (1904) and 'Oxford History of India' (1918).

SMITH, WALTER CHALMERS (1824-1908), poet and preacher; M.A., Marischal College, Aberdeen, 1841; Free Church minister at Glasgow and Edinburgh, 1862-94; moderator of general assembly, 1895; D.D. Glasgow, 1869; LL.D. Aberdeen, 1876, and Edinburgh, 1892; published many volumes of verse; a complete edition appeared in 1902.

SMITH, WILLIAM FREDERICK DANVERS, second viscount HAMLETON (1868-1938), philanthropist; son of W. H. Smith (q.v.); B.A., New College, Oxford; head of newspaper-distributing business of W. H. Smith & Son, 1891; opened book-shop branch, 1906; conservative M.P., Strand division of Westminster, 1891-1910; succeeded mother, 1913; did much work for voluntary hospitals.

SMITH, WILLIAM SAUMAREZ (1886-1909), archbishop of Sydney; born at St. Heller, Jersey; B.A., Trinity College, Cambridge (first class classic), 1888; M.A., 1893; Tyrwhitt Hebrew scholar and fellow, 1890; principal of St. Aidan's, Birkenhead, 1898-99; bishop of Sydney, 1890-7, and first archbishop, 1897 till death; hon. D.D. Cambridge, 1890, Oxford, 1897; published theological works and verse.

SMITH-DORRIS, SIR HORACE LOCKWOOD (1888-1980), general; gazetted to 86th foot, 1877; served in Zulul war, 1879; Egyptian war, 1889; present at battle of Ginnia, 1888; passed through Staff College; served in India, 1889-98; present at battle of Omdurman, 1898; served in South African war, 1899-1902; present at battle of Paardeberg and on advance to Pretoria, 1900; major-general, 1901; adjutant-general, India, 1901-3; commanded 4th division, Quetta, 1903-7; commander-in-chief, Aldershot, 1907; transferred to Southern command, 1912; advocated army expansion on Territorial basis; given command of II Corps, Aug. 1914; with II Corps bore brunt of fighting at Mons; decided on his own responsibility to stand fast and await German attack; this decision, which led to battle of Le Cateau (26 Aug.), averted dangerous situation; while general-headquarters was anxious for vigorous attack and placed little faith in Kitchener's new armies, he put high value on them and was content to wait; commanded Second Army, 1915; after first German gas attack (April) recommended withdrawal to line near Ypres; resigned, May; commanded First Army for home defence, 1916; governor of Gibraltar, 1918-23; K.C.B. 1907.

SMYLY, SIR PHILIP CRAMPTON (1888-1904), surgeon and laryngologist; B.A., Trinity College, Dublin, 1889; M.B., 1890; M.D., 1893; F.R.C.S., Ireland, 1893; president, 1878-9; surgeon to Meath Hospital, 1881-1904; president of Laryngological Association, 1889, and of Irish Medical Association, 1900; introduced laryngoscope to Ireland, 1880; knighted, 1892; a musician and freemason.

SMYTH, SIR HENRY AUGUSTUS (1826-1906), general and colonial commandant, royal artillery, from 1894; joined royal artillery, 1843; served in Bermuda, 1847-61; in Nova Scotia, 1851-4; commanded a field battery at Sevastopol, 1855; in Canada, 1861-5; in India, 1867-74; commanded artillery at Sheerness, 1876, and in southern district, 1877-80; on ordnance committee at Woolwich, 1881-3; major-general, 1882; commandant of Woolwich garrison, 1882-8; lieutenant-general, 1886; crushed rising in Zululand, 1887; acting governor of Cape Colony, 1889-90; C.M.G., 1889; K.C.M.G., 1890; governor of Malta, 1890-3; general, 1891.

SMELUR, GEORGE JAMES (1837-1906), metallurgist; student at Royal School of Mines, 1864-7; patented process of eliminating phosphorus from molten pig-iron by oxidation in basic lined enclosure, 1879; process was commercially developed by Sidney Gilechrist Thomas (q.v.) in 1879; Smeltus was awarded gold medal at Paris Exhibition and Bessemer gold medal of Iron and Steel Institute, 1878; F.R.S., 1887; general manager of West Cumberland Iron and Steel Company from 1873 to 1900; an enthusiastic Volunteer and rifle shot.

SNOW, HERBERT (1835-1910), classical scholar. [See KYNASTON.]

SOLOMON, SIR RICHARD (1860-1913), South African statesman; born in Cape Town; attorney-general of Cape Colony, 1898, of Transvaal, 1902; high commissioner for Union of South Africa in London, 1910; K.O.M.G., 1902; K.C.B., 1908.

SOLOMON, SIMON (1840-1906), painter and draughtsman; brother of Abraham Solomon (q.v.); exhibited at Royal Academy from 1858, mainly scriptural subjects, showing sincerity and beauty of colour; became acquainted with Burne-Jones, Rossetti, Swinburne, and Lord Houghton; from 1865 exhibited classical subjects; his 'Bacchus' (1867) praised by Walter Pater; visited Florence (1866) and Rome (1869); published 'A Vision of Love revealed in Sleep', 1871, which was praised by Swinburne; also made a reputation by water-colour and pencil studies; ceased to exhibit after 1879 when vicious indulgences ruined his career; thenceforth he endured great poverty, earning a precarious livelihood by sentimental sketches; his 'A Greek Acolyte' is in Birmingham Art Gallery.

SOLOMON, SOLOMON JOSEPH (1860-1937), painter; studied at Royal Academy schools; settled in London where he gradually made a name as painter of portraits and classical and biblical scenes; R.A., 1906; his works include 'Samson' (1887), 'Niobe' (1888), 'Israel Zangwill' (1894), and 'Boho and Narcissus' (1895); helped to organize 'camouflage' during European war.

SOMERSET, LADY ISABELLA CAROLINE, LADY HENRY SOMERSET (1851-1921), daughter of last Earl Somers; married Lord Henry Somerset, 1872; devoted herself to temperance work; president of British Women's Temperance Association, 1890-1903, of World's Women's Christian Temperance Union, 1898-1906; founded Duxhurst, farm colony for inebriate women near Reigate, 1895.

SOMMERBORN, EDWARD ADOLF (1851-1929), classical scholar and writer on comparative grammar and metre; B.A., University College, Oxford; professor of Greek and Latin at newly founded Mason College, Birmingham (afterwards Birmingham University), 1885-1913; Platonic scholar; published editions of 'Capituli' (1879), 'Mostellaria' (1884), and 'Rudens' (1891); took up reform of grammar teaching and published 'Parallel Grammar' series, which was warmly welcomed in Great Britain and on the Continent; joined J. P. Postgate (q.v.) in forming Classical Association, 1903; much of his grammatical research summed up in 'The Unity of the Latin Subjunctive' (1910) and 'The Soul of Grammar' (1927); insisted upon the humanities taking their proper place in the modern university; took up question of war-guilt during European war; a very exact scholar.

SORBY, HENRY CLIFTON (1826-1908), geologist; of old Sheffield family of cutlers; versatile scientist; made researches in spectroscopy and microscopy, meteorology, archaeology, and architecture; interested in Egyptian hieroglyphics; pioneer of microscopic petrology; published papers on 'Calcareous Grit of Scarborough', 1851, on 'Slaty Cleavage', 1853, and 'On the Microscopic Structure of Crystals', 1858; studied microscopic structure of Irons and steels; F.G.S., 1850; president, 1878-80; F.R.S., 1857; royal medallist, 1874; hon. LL.D. Cambridge, 1897; helped to found Fifth College and bequeathed to Sheffield University his collections, with money to found a chair in geology.

SOTHERBY, SIR EDWARD SOUTHWELL (1813-1902), admiral; joined navy, 1828; served in Syria, 1840; commander, 1841; commanded on East Indies and China station, 1855-8; distinguished in Outh during Indian Mutiny; C.B., 1858; extra A.D.C. to Queen Victoria, 1858-67; commanded Portland coast-guard division, 1863; K.C.B., 1875; admiral, 1879.

SOUTAR, ELLEN (1848-1904), actress. [See FARREN.]

SOUTHERN, ninth EARL OF (1827-1905), poet and antiquary. [See CARNegie, JAMES.]

SOUTHEY, SIR RICHARD (1808-1901), Cape of Good Hope official; went to South Africa, 1820; engaged in farming; served in Kafir war, 1834-5; resident agent with Kafir tribes, 1835-6; farmer at Graaffreinet, 1836-46; civil commissioner and resident magistrate of Swaziland, 1849-52; acting secretary to Cape government, 1852-4; auditor-general, 1859; acting colonial secretary, 1860-1; treasurer and accountant-general and member of executive council, 1861; colonial secretary, 1864-72; opposed responsible government for Cape; lieutenant-governor of province of Griqualand West, 1873-5; member of house of assembly, 1876-8; O.M.G., 1879; K.C.M.G., 1891.

SOUTHWARD, JOHN (1840-1902), writer on typography; son of Liverpool printer; conducted 'Liverpool Observer' from 1857 to 1865; printer's reader in London, 1867-8; travelled in Spain, 1868; edited 'Printers' Register', 1888-90; authoritative works include 'Dictionary of Typography', 1873, 'Practical Printing', 1889, and 'Modern Printing', 1898; was largely responsible for Bigmore and Wyman's 'Bibliography of Printing', 3 vols. 1880-6.

SOUTHWELL, THOMAS (1831-1906), naturalist; in service of Gurney's bank at Lynn, Fakenham, and Norwich from 1846 to 1896; completed Henry Stevenson's 'Birds of Norfolk', 3rd vol. 1890; published 'The Seals and Whales of the British Seas', 1881; edited 'Notes on Natural History of Norfolk', 1902, from Sir Thomas Browne's MSS.

SPENCER, HERBERT (1820-1903), philosopher; educated at day school at Derby, his native place, and from 1833 to 1836 mainly at Hinton Charterhouse near Bath under his uncle Thomas Spencer (q.v.); made little progress in the classics, but was much interested in natural science; after acting as assistant schoolmaster at Derby (1837) he was employed as engineer on Birmingham and Gloucester Railway, 1837-41; wrote letters to 'The Nonconformist' urging limitation of the functions of the state, 1843, which he republished as 'The Proper Sphere of Government,' 1843; sub-editor of the 'Pilot,' the organ of the 'Complete Suffrage Movement,' published at Birmingham, 1844; occupied himself anew with engineering, 1844-6; experimented with mechanical inventions, 1846-7, subsequently inventing an invalid bed, 1866; sub-editor of the 'Economist' in London, 1848-53; visited house of John Chapman, the advanced publisher, 1849; there came to know George Eliot; made acquaintance of Huxley and Tyndall; published 'Social Statics,' 1861, advocating an extreme individualism; contributed articles to the 'Leader,' 'Westminster Review,' and other periodicals, collecting many of these in 'Essays,' 1st ser. 1857, 2nd ser. 1863, 3rd ser. 1864; published 'Principles of Psychology,' 1855 (recast in two vols. 1870-2); during the writing of this book his health gave way, and was never fully restored. During 1858 he planned a system of synthetic philosophy, covering metaphysics, biology, psychology, sociology, and ethics, for publication of which he in 1860 invited subscriptions both in England and America, but this plan, which was for a time successful, broke down about 1865: the deaths of his uncle William and his father in 1866 improved his financial position. In 1861 he issued 'Education,' a treatise aiming at a natural development of the child's intelligence, which became a leading text-book. He published 'First Principles' of his synthetic philosophy, 1862, and 'Principles of Biology,' vol. 4, 1864, vol. II, 1867; joined Jamaica committee for prosecution of Governor Eyre [q. v.], 1866; was elected to Athenaeum Club by the committee, 1868; was offered in 1871 lord readership of St. Andrews University, but declined this, and all later offers of honour; in order to deal with the principles of sociology he employed assistants to collect systematically large masses of facts, of which eight volumes under general title of 'Descriptive Sociology' were issued by 1881, while additional volumes appeared after Spencer's death. He contributed his widely read 'Study of Sociology,' 1873, to 'International Scientific Series,' edited by his American friend, Prof. E. L. Youmans; issued 'Principles of Sociology,' vol. I, 1876, vol. II, 1882, vol. III, 1896; meanwhile wrote 'Data of Ethics' (1879), forming part I of the 'Principles of Ethics' (vol. I, 1892, vol. II, 1893); formed with Frederic Harrison and John Morley and others an anti-aggression league, 1882; visited America, 1882; collected four articles from 'Contemporary Review' to form 'The Man versus the State,' 1884, in which he urged anew the limitation of state functions; attacked the positivist religion in 'The Nature and Reality of Religion,' 1885 (suppressed by Spencer, but re-issued without his knowledge as 'The Insuperable Book'); completed his 'Synthetic Philosophy' in vol. III of the 'Principles of Sociology,' 1896; allowed his portrait to be painted by Sir Hubert von Herkomer for presentation to the Scottish National Portrait Gallery, Edinburgh, 1896; issued 'Various Fragments,' 1897, and 'Facts and Comments,' 1902; died 8 Dec. 1903, after much suffering from shattered nervous system, at Brighton, where he had lived since 1898; he was cremated at Golders Green, his ashes being buried in Highgate Cemetery; left bulk of property in trust for carrying on his 'Descriptive Sociology.' The central doctrines of his philosophy, which exerted an immense influence on his era throughout Europe and America, India and Japan, were on its social side individualism and opposition to war, and on its scientific side evolution and explanation of phenomena from the materialistic standpoint; 'Autobiography' published 1904; 'Life and Letters' by D. Duncan, 1908; an epitome of the 'Synthetic Philosophy' by F. Howard Collins, 5th edit. 1907.

SPOONER, JOHN POYNTEZ, fifth EARL SPENCER (1835-1910), statesman and viceroy of Ireland; educated at Harrow School, 1848-54, and at Trinity College, Cambridge, 1854-7; M.A., 1857; hon. LL.D., 1864; elected Liberal M.P. for South Northamptonshire, 6 April 1857; succeeded father in earldom, 27 Dec.; devoted to sport and shooting; helped to form National Rifle Association, 1860; chairman, 1867-8; groom of the stole to Prince Consort, 1869-71, and to Prince of Wales afterwards Edward VII, 1861-7; made K.G. by Lord Palmerston, 1866; lord-lieutenant of Ireland, under Gladstone without seat in cabinet, 1868-74; firm in maintenance of the law; president of the council, with seat in cabinet, 1880-2; reappointed lord-lieutenant of Ireland on retirement of Lord Cowper, in order to pursue a conciliatory policy; retained seat in cabinet; went to Ireland, 5 May 1882, with Lord Frederick Cavendish as Irish secretary; on assassination of Lord Frederick next day Spencer was compelled to invoke repressive measures and was consequently vilified by mass of the Irish people; reduced Irish disorder; deprecated local government proposals of his cabinet colleagues, Dilke and Chamberlain, just before fall of government, 1886; resented an implied censure on the part of the conservatives in office on his use of 'coercion,' 1885; supported Gladstone's home rule scheme, 1886; again president of the council, 1886; while in opposition he urged the cause of home rule, 1886-92; first lord of the admiralty, 1892-5; insisted on requirements of national security; formulated 'Spencer programme' of shipbuilding, which involved increased expenditure, despite objections of Gladstone while prime minister; succeeded Lord Kimberley as liberal leader in the House of Lords, 1902; amid dissensions in liberal party he was often suggested as best fitted for its leadership; incapacitated by illness from 1905; lord-lieutenant of Northamptonshire, 1879-1908; chairman of Northamptonshire county council, 1889; president of Royal Agricultural Society, 1898; chancellor of Victoria University, Manchester, 1892-1910; sold great part of Althorp library to form John Rylands library at Manchester, 1892.

SPOONER, SIR WALTER BALDWIN (1860-1929), biologist and ethnographer; educated at Owens College, Manchester, and Exeter College, Oxford; B.A. (first class in natural science), 1884; professor of biology, Melbourne University, 1887-1919; F.R.S., 1900; K.C.M.G., 1916; in collaboration with F. J. Gillen, 1894-1912, and afterwards alone, brought to light unknown world of authentic stone-age folk of Central Australia; his works (with F. J. Gillen) include 'Native Tribes of Central Australia' (1889), 'Northern Tribes of Central Australia' (1904), and 'The Arunta' (1927).

SPIERS, RICHARD PHÉNÉ (1838-1916), architect; assistant to Sir Matthew Digby Wyatt [q. v.], 1861; silver and gold medalist, Royal Academy, 1863; travelled abroad and studied water-colour painting, 1865-6; master of Royal Academy architectural school, 1870-1906; his executed works include additions to houses, restorations of churches, and a few new buildings; some of his most valuable work in architectural research contained in 'Architecture, East and West' (collected papers, 1906).

SPOFFORTH, FREDERICK ROBERT (1853-1926), Australian cricketer; born at Balmain; played in second test match between England and Australia, Melbourne, 1877; performed remarkable bowling feats for Australian team at Lord's (May 1878) and at Oval (Aug. 1882); styled 'demon' bowler.

SPOONER, WILLIAM ARCHIBALD (1844-1930), warden of New College, Oxford; B.A., New College; fellow, 1867; lecturer, 1868; tutor, 1869; dean, 1878-89; lectured on ancient history and philosophy; ordained, 1872; warden, 1903-24; devoted to interests of the college; made reconstructed lodgings centre of generous hospitality; did valuable service as 'Greats' examiner; supported promotion of natural science studies in university; poor law guardian and active member of Oxford Charity Organisation Society; suffered from weak eyesight due to albinism and lapse of speech known as 'Spoonersism.'

SPEINGEL, HERMANN JOHANN PHILIPP (1834-1906), chemist; born near Hanover; Ph.D. Heidelberg, 1858; engaged in chemical research in Oxford and London from 1859; patented many safety explosives, liquid and solid; invented mercurial air pump for production of high tenacity (1865), which facilitated many later inventions; F.R.S., 1878; published researches in 'Origin of Melinite and Lyddite,' 1890, and 'The Discovery of Picric Acid,' 1893, in which he complained of infringement of rights to priority in his own discoveries.

SPRING, SIR JOHN GORDON (1830-1918), South African statesman; born at Ipswich; settled in South Africa, 1861; member for East London, 1869-1904; prime minister of Cape Colony, 1878-81, 1886-90, 1896-8; attended premiers conference in London and created P.C. 1897; prime minister, 1900-4; federalist member for East London, 1908; K.C.M.G., 1886.

SPRING-RICE, SIR OSCIL LETHUR (1848-1918), diplomat; grandson of first Baron Montagu [q. v.]; educated at Eton and Balliol College, Oxford; entered foreign office, 1863; at Berlin, 1896-8; British commissioner on 'Caisse de la Dette Publique,' Cairo, 1901-3; secretary of embassy, St. Petersburg, 1903-6; K.C.M.G., 1906; British minister to Persia, 1906-8, to Sweden, 1908-13; ambassador at Washington, 1913-18; acted as conciliatory influence between Great Britain and United States during European war; his tact contributed to America joining Allies; died at Ottawa.

SPROTT, GEORGE WASHINGTON (1829-1909), Scottish divine and liturgical scholar; born in Nova Scotia; B.A. Glasgow, 1849; hon. D.D., 1880; ordained in church of Scotland, 1852; chaplain to Scottish troops in Kandy, 1857-58; prominent in formation of Church Service Society, 1865; published critical edition of 'Book of Common Order,' 1868, and 'Scottish Liturgies of James VI,' 1871; moderator of synod, 1873; minister of North Berwick, 1873-1903; visited Presbyterian churches in Canada, 1879; published lectures (1879) in 'Worship and Offices of the Church of Scotland,' 1882; advocate of church reunion; retired in 1903 to Edinburgh and engaged in literary work; edited liturgical works and wrote a life of his father, 1906.

SPY (pseudonym) (1851-1922), cartoonist. [See WARD, SIR LESLIE.]

SQUIRE, WILLIAM BARCLAY (1855-1927), musical antiquary; B.A., Pembroke College, Cambridge; assistant department of printed books, British Museum, 1885; assistant keeper, with special charge of printed music, 1912-20; honorary curator of King's music library, 1924; music critic to various periodicals; edited English madrigals; F.S.A., 1888.

STABLES, WILLIAM (GORDON) (1840-1910), writer for boys; M.D. and C.M. Aberdeen University, 1862; made a first voyage to Arctic, 1869; assistant surgeon in navy, 1868-71; for two years in merchant service, visiting India, Africa, and South Seas; from 1876 a prolific writer of boys' books of adventure and of historical novels; early pioneer of caravanning, 1886.

STACE, SIR LEE OLIVER FITZMAURICE (1868-1924), soldier and administrator; born at Darjeeling; joined army, 1888; Egyptian army, 1899; commanded Shambé field force, 1902; Sudan agent and director of military intelligence, Cairo, 1908; civil secretary to Sudan government, 1914; acting sirdar of Egyptian army and governor-general of Sudan, 1917; K.B.E., 1918; shot in Cairo street.

STACPOOLE, FREDERICK (1813-1907), engraver in mixed mezzotint of works by contemporary artists; most successful engravings were Lady Butler's 'Roll Call,' 1874, and Holman Hunt's 'Shadow of Death,' 1877; exhibited at Royal Academy, 1842-99; A.R.A., 1880; also painted in oils.

STAFFORD, SIR EDWARD WILLIAM (1819-1901), premier of New Zealand; educated at Trinity College, Dublin; emigrated to Nelson, New Zealand, 1843; elected to house of representatives, 1855; premier and colonial secretary, 1856-61; created three new provinces; transferred land revenue to provincial councils; established itinerant courts of justice and native juries; visited England, 1859; again premier of New Zealand, 1866-9, holding also offices of colonial secretary, 1865-6, colonial treasurer, 1865-6, and postmaster-general, 1865-6 and 1869; premier for a third time, Sept.-Oct. 1873; lived in England from 1874; K.C.M.G., 1879; G.C.M.G., 1887.

STAINER, SIR JOHN (1840-1901), organist and composer; chorister of St. Paul's Cathedral, 1849; graduated B.Mus. from Christ Church, Oxford, 1869; organist of Magdalen College, Oxford, 1869, and of Oxford University, 1861; B.A., St. Edmund Hall, 1864; M.A., 1866; D.Mus., 1865; founded Oxford Philharmonic Society, 1866; organist of St. Paul's Cathedral, 1872-88; organist to Royal Choral Society, 1873-88; professor of organ (1876) and principal (1881) of National Training College of Music; knighted, 1888; professor of music in Oxford University, 1889-99; member of Musicians' Company, 1900; hon. fellow of Magdalen College, Oxford; hon. Mus.D. Durham, 1888, and hon. D.C.L., 1896; compositions include oratorios, 'The Daughter of Jairus,' 1878, 'Crucifixion,' 1887, forty anthems, church services, and over 150 hymn tunes, organ compositions, madrigals, and part songs; edited 'Christmas Carols, New and Old,' 1884; publications include 'Music of the Bible,' 1879, and 'Early Bodleian Music,' 2 vols. 1903; was first editor of Novello's 'Musico Primario,' to which he contributed volumes on 'The Organ' and 'Harmony'; formed unique collection of old song books.

STALEBRIDGE, SIR BARON (1837-1912), railway

administrator and politician. [See GROSVENOR, RICHARD DE AQUILA.]

STANER, SIR LOVELACE TOMLINSON, third baronet (1829-1908), bishop-suffragan of Shrewsbury; educated at Rugby and Trinity College, Cambridge; B.A., 1856; M.A., 1856; D.D., 1888; rector of Stoke-upon-Trent, 1858-92; built at Stoke three churches, five mission churches, and five schools; started night schools there, 1863; chairman of Stoke school board, 1871-88; formed North Staffordshire Coal and Ironstone Workers' Permanent Relief Society, 1870; chairman, 1870-1908; founded Staffordshire Institution for Nurses, 1872; archdeacon of Stoke-upon-Trent, 1877; bishop-suffragan of Shrewsbury, 1888-1905; vicar of St. Chad's, Shrewsbury, 1892-6; rector of Edgmond, 1896-1908; published sermons and charges; memoir by F. D. How, 1910.

STANFORD, SIR CHARLES VILLIERS (1852-1924), composer, conductor, and teacher of music; educated in Dublin; organist and B.A., Trinity College, Cambridge; studied music in Germany; attracted attention by music to Tennyson's 'Queen Mary,' 1876; professor of composition and orchestral playing, Royal College of Music, London, 1883-1924; professor of music, Cambridge, 1887-1924; knighted, 1902; most versatile British composer of latter half of nineteenth century; made great but unsuccessful efforts in cause of English opera; his large-scale choral works, notably 'Requiem' (1897) and 'Stabat Mater' (1907), esteemed in their day and influenced later writers; composed seven symphonies for orchestra alone, best-known being 'The Irish' (1887) and 'L'Allegro ed il Penseroso' (1895); his six Irish rhapsodies more representative of his genius; a prolific writer of chamber music; his church music firmly established in English cathedrals and churches; his reputation most securely established as writer of solo songs; a noted conductor, especially of Bach Choir, London (1885-1902).

STANLEY, EDWARD LYLUPH, fourth BARON SHEFFIELD, of Roscommon, in the peerage of Ireland, and fourth BARON STANLEY OF ALDERLEY, in the peerage of the United Kingdom (1839-1925); son of second Baron Stanley of Alderley [q.v.]; B.A., Balliol College, Oxford; liberal M.P., Oldham, 1860-6; member of London school board, 1876-85, 1888-1904; vice-chairman, 1897-1904; took active part in controversies over organization and administration of public education; successfully resisted proposals to strengthen influence of voluntary or denominational bodies; failed to promote scheme of higher education based on authority of school board; a laborious administrator and educational pioneer; succeeded brother as Baron Stanley, 1903; succeeded kinsman as Baron Sheffield, 1909.

STANLEY, FREDERICK ARTHUR, sixteenth EARL OF DERBY (1841-1908), governor-general of Canada; second son of fourteenth earl [q.v.]; in grenadier guards, 1858-65; conservative M.P. for Preston, 1865-8; civil lord of the admiralty, 1868; M.P. for North Lancashire, 1869-85, and for Blackpool, 1885-6; joined cabinet as secretary of state for war, and P.C., 1878-80; G.O.B., 1880; colonial secretary, 1885-6; raised to peerage, 1886; president of the board of trade, 1886-8; governor-general of Canada, 1888-93; stimulated imperial sentiment in dominion; succeeded to earldom, 1893; prominent in Liverpool affairs; first lord mayor, 1895-6; first chancellor of university from 1903; successful racehorse owner; won Oaks in 1893 and 1906; K.G., 1897; G.C.V.O. 1905.

STANLEY HENRY EDWARD JOHN, third BARON STANLEY OF ALDERLEY (1897-1903), diplomatist and Orientalist; son of second baron [q.v.]; fellow-commoner of Trinity College, Cambridge, 1846-7; entered diplomatic service; secretary of legation at Athens, 1854-9; began extensive travels in the East; adopted Moslem religion; succeeded to peerage and estates in Cheshire and Anglesey, 1869; champion of Church of England in Wales; supported Indian National Congress movement; keen sportsman and strict total abstainer; published 'Essays on East and West,' 1865; translated for Hakluyt Society many Spanish and Portuguese works of travel.

STANLEY, SIR HENRY MORTON (1841-1904), explorer, administrator, author, and journalist, whose real name was JOHN ROWLANDS; born at Denbigh, 29 June 1841; owing to father's early death and mother's neglect, he was brought up in St. Asaph workhouse, 1847-56; after some humble desultory employment he shipped as cabin boy on American packet for New Orleans, 1859; was adopted at New Orleans by cotton-broker,

Henry Stanley (d. 1881), whose name he assumed; became a naturalised American; served as volunteer with confederate army (1861-3), but being taken prisoner he enlisted in United States artillery, from which he was discharged owing to ill-health; suffered much distress; served in U.S.A. navy, 1864-6; made some progress as newspaper correspondent; sought adventure in Asia Minor, 1866; described General Hancock's expedition against Indians in 'Missouri Democrat', 1867; subsequently republished his articles in 'My Ready Travels and Adventures in America and Asia Minor', 1868; showed great resource as special correspondent of 'New York Herald' during Abyssinian war, 1868-9; reported for 'Herald' disturbances in Spain, 1869; was ordered (16 Oct. 1869) by proprietor, Mr. Gordon Bennett, to 'find Livingstone', who was lost in interior of Africa; before proceeding on this mission he attended opening of Suez Canal, and visited Egypt and Palestine and Persia; started from Bagamoyo in Zanzibar for Lake Tanganyika, where Livingstone was believed to be, 31 March 1871; met Livingstone at Ujiji, 10 Nov. 1871; travelled about the district till 18 Feb. 1873 with Livingstone, who declined to accompany Stanley home; described his journey in 'How I found Livingstone', 1873; met in England with much scorn from men of science, but was warmly welcomed by the general English public; described Ashanti war (1873) for 'New York Herald'; embodied experiences in 'Oomassia and Magdala', 1874; on learning of Livingstone's death Stanley undertook expedition to equatorial Africa under joint commission from 'New York Herald' and London 'Daily Telegraph'; left Zanzibar, 11 Nov. 1874; initiated conversion of kingdom of Uganda to Christianity; first traced course of the Congo; laid foundation of Anglo-Egyptian dominions of Upper Nile; emerged upon the shores of the Atlantic (9 Aug. 1877), having opened up the heart of the continent for the first time; published 'Through the Dark Continent', 1878; was refused help in England for developing the Congo district; proposed the scheme to King Leopold II of Belgium, who accepted it, Aug. 1878; helped to organize Congo region for the Belgians (1879-84), and thus inaugurated the Congo State; issued 'The Congo and the founding of its Free State', 1885; lectured in Germany, England, and America on the commercial possibilities of Central Africa, 1884-6; undertook leadership of his final expedition to equatorial Africa in order to rescue Emin Pasha, who had been abandoned in command of Egyptian army, when the Mahdi overran the Sudan; started from the mouth of the Congo, Feb. 1887; divided his forces at Yambuya, June; leaving strong rearguard there, he pushed on through dense tropical forest to the Albert Nyanza, where he arrived, 13 Dec.; sent message to Emin, who visited him there with reluctance; returned to find his rearguard in tragic plight; brought remnant to Lake Albert, Jan. 1889; was joined there by Emin and his party; while marching back to Bagamoyo (4 Dec. 1889), he discovered much new country which ultimately went to form the British East African Protectorate; on arriving in England, although he was attacked for failure to 'rescue' Emin and for sacrificing his rearguard, he was received with enthusiasm and accorded many honours; described his journey in 'In Darkest Africa', 1890, which was an immense sale; married at Westminster Abbey, 12 July 1890, Dorothy Tennant; lectured in America and Australasia: was re-naturalized as British subject; unionist M.P. for North Lambeth, 1895-1900; toured through South Africa, 1897-8; described experiences in 'Through South Africa', 1898; K.C.B., 1899; stricken by paralysis, 15 April 1903; died in London, 10 May 1904; buried in Pirbright churchyard; 'Autobiography' edited by his widow, 1909.

STANLEY, WILLIAM FORD ROBINSON (1839-1902), scientific instrument maker and author; started in London a drawing instrument business, 1864; invented cheap 'Panoptic Stereoscope', 1866; patented application of aluminium to manufacture of mathematical instruments, 1861; greatly improved theodolite and other surveying instruments; published standard work on 'Mathematical Drawing Instruments', 1866; made many scientific inventions; F.G.S., 1864; F.R.A.S., 1864; accomplished musician, artist, photographer, and architect; opened at Norwood Stanley Public Hall (1904) and technical school (1907); also published 'Experimental Researches into ... Fluids', 1881, and 'Surveying and Levelling Instruments', 1890.

STANMORE, first BARON (1899-1913), colonial governor. [See GORDON, ARTHUR CHARLES HAMILTON-].

STANNARD, HENRIETTA ELIZA VAUGHAN (1856-1911), novelist under the pseudonym of JOHN STRANGE WINTER; born FALKNER; contributed to 'Family Herald' from 1874 to 1884 short stories and serials dealing with military life; married Arthur Stannard, 1884; published 'Boodles' Baly', 1886, a work which was admired by Ruskin and was universally popular; edited 'Winter's Weekly', 1892-3; president of Society of Women Journalists, 1901-3.

STANNUS, HUGH HUTTON (1840-1908), architect, author, and lecturer; studied art foundry work at Sheffield; assistant of Alfred Stevens [q. v.], with whom he worked on the Wellington monument in St. Paul's Cathedral; studied architecture at Royal Academy schools, 1879; F.R.I.B.A., 1887; did much private structural and decorative work; taught modelling at Royal Academy, 1881-1900; director of architectural studies at Manchester School of Art, 1900-9; published works on decoration, form-design, and architecture, and 'Alfred Stevens and his Work', 1891.

STANTON, ARTHUR HENRY (1839-1913), divine; B.A., Trinity College, Oxford; curate of St. Alban, Holborn, 1863-1913; under Alexander Heriot Mackonochie [q. v.], 1863-83; adopted advanced ritualistic views, and with Mackonochie subjected to series of ritual prosecutions, 1867-83; inhibited from preaching; attacked again, 1906; exercised great spiritual influence within and beyond his parish; an eloquent preacher.

STARK, ARTHUR JAMES (1831-1902), painter; son of James Stark [q. v.], landscape painter; studied animal painting under Edmund Bristow [q. v.]; exhibited at Royal Academy from 1848 to 1887, and elsewhere; perfected painting of horses at a studio at Tattersall's; depicted homely English scenes and landscapes; one of the last artists of Norwich school; works include 'Interior of a Stable', 1853, 'A Farmyard', 1875, and 'Dartmoor Drift', 1877.

STARLING, ERNEST HENRY (1866-1927), physiologist; educated at Guy's Hospital, London; became head of physiology department there; Jodrell professor of physiology, University College, London, 1899-1923; F.R.S., 1899; first Foulerton research professor of Royal Society, 1893; formed lifelong intellectual alliance with Sir W. M. Bayliss [q. v.]; his most important original investigations cover the secretion of lymph and other body fluids, the discovery of 'secretin' (1903), and laws which govern activity of the heart; successfully advocated more efficient use of respirators by Italian army, 1917; his works include 'Principles of Human Physiology' (1913).

STEAD, WILLIAM THOMAS (1849-1913), journalist and author; editor of 'Northern Echo', Darlington Liberal daily paper, 1871-80; assistant editor of 'Fall Mall Gazette', 1880-3; editor, 1883-90; with (Viscount) Milner inaugurated 'new journalism'; directly responsible for dispatch of General Gordon to Khartoum (1884) and for Criminal Law Amendment Act (1885); started 'Review of Reviews', 1890; took up psychical research; drowned on 'Titanic'.

STEEL, ALIAN GIBSON (1858-1914), cricketer; B.A., Trinity Hall, Cambridge; in Cambridge eleven, 1878-81; captain, 1880; admirable slow bowler; played in Gentlemen's eleven v. Players and in early Australian test matches, in which he proved powerful batsman; called to bar (Inner Temple), 1882; Q.C., 1901.

STEEL, FLORA ANNIE (1847-1929), novelist; born WESTER; married H. W. Steel, Indian civil service, 1867; lived in India, 1868-89; threw herself wholeheartedly into lives of Indians; became familiar with life of country-side and customs of people; penetrated behind purdah; exercised remarkable influence over Indian women; advocated education for them; first government inspectors of girls' schools, 1884; her works include 'The Potter's Thumb' (1894), 'On the Face of the Waters' (1896), 'In the Permanent Way' (1897), and 'The Hosts of the Lord' (1900).

STEEGALL, CHARLES (1826-1906), organist and composer; professor of organ at Royal Academy of Music, 1861-1903; Mus.Bac. and Mus.Doc. Cambridge, 1852; organist of Lincoln's Inn chapel, 1864-1906; composed church music and wrote 'Instruction Book for the Organ', 1878.

STEFANUS, SIR ALEXANDER CONDIE (1860-1908), diplomatist; entered diplomatic service, 1876; at Philippopolis, 1880-1; O.M.C., 1881; in Khorezan, north-east province of Persia, 1882-6; C.S., 1884; present at Penjdeh when affray between troops of Afghanistan and Russia threatened war between England and Russia, 1885; at Sofia, 1886; at Vienna and Paris, 1887; chargé d'affaires at Coburg, 1892-7; minister resident to Saxony and Coburg, 1897-1901; K.O.M.G., 1894; K.C.V.O., 1900; groom-in-waiting to King Edward VII, 1901-8.

STEPHEN, CAROLINE EMILIA (1834-1909), philanthropist; sister of Sir Leslie Stephen [q.v.]; joined Society of Friends, 1879; wrote 'Quaker Strongholds', 1891, 'Light Arising', 1898, and 'A Vision of Faith', posthumous, 1911.

STEPHEN, GEORGE, first BARON MOUNT STEPHEN (1829-1921), financier and philanthropist; born in Scotland; entered business in Montreal, 1860; successful cloth manufacturer; with group of colleagues completed St. Paul and Pacific and Canadian Pacific railways; president of Canadian Pacific Railway Company, 1880-8; settled in England, 1898; created baronet, 1886; baron, 1891.

STEPHEN, SIR LESLIE (1832-1904), first editor of this Dictionary, man of letters, and philosopher; grandson of James Stephen [q.v.]; third son of Sir James Stephen [q.v.], and younger brother of Sir James Fitz-James Stephen [q.v.]; educated at Eton and King's College, London; entered Trinity Hall, Cambridge, 1850; 20th wrangler, 1854; fellow, 1854-67; tutor, 1856; ordained, 1856; interested himself in social life of college and in its athletic prestige; won mile race at university athletic sports, 1860; made his first Alpine ascent of Col du Géant, 1857; joined Alpine Club, 1858; first vanquished the Schreckhorn, 1861; acquired high reputation as mountaineer, 1862-7; president of Alpine Club, 1865-8; published 'Playground of Europe', a collection of mountaineering sketches, 1871. Meanwhile Stephen abandoned his old religious convictions, resigned college tutorship, 1862, and relinquished holy orders, 1875. He aided his friend Henry Fawcett [q.v.] in electoral contests, 1863-4; visited America, 1865, as an enthusiastic supporter of slave emancipation; began literary career in London, 1864. Revisiting America in 1866, he formed close friendships with James Russell Lowell, Charles Eliot Norton, and others. He soon wrote much for 'Saturday Review' and for 'Pall Mall Gazette'; was editor from 1871 to 1882 of 'Cornhill Magazine', where first appeared his 'Hours in a Library' (critical essays; 1st ser. 1874; 2nd ser. 1876; 3rd ser. 1879); wrote on religious and philosophical speculation in 'Fraser's Magazine' and 'Fortnightly Review', collecting contributions in 'Essays on Free Thinking and Plain Speaking', 1873; he published his chief work, 'History of English Thought in the Eighteenth Century', 1876; inaugurated in 1878 with 'Johnson' the 'English Men of Letters' series, to which he also contributed 'Pope, 1880, 'Swift, 1882, 'George Eliot, 1902, and 'Hobbes, 1904; and produced 'Science of Ethics', 1889. He was first editor of this Dictionary, 1882-91; suffered in health from 1889, but on retirement from editorship in 1891 remained a chief contributor. He was first Clark lecturer at Trinity College, Cambridge, 1883; published in later life biography of Henry Fawcett, 1885, 'An Agnostic's Apology', 1893, life of his brother Sir James Fitz-James Stephen, 1895, 'Social Rights and Duties', 3 vols. 1896, 'The English Utilitarians', 3 vols. 1900, 'Studies of a Biographer', 2 ser. 1899-1902, and 'English Literature and Society in the Eighteenth Century—Ford Lectures at Oxford, 1903, 1904; was president of London library from 1892 to death; received hon. degrees from Edinburgh, Oxford, Cambridge, and Harvard, and was made K.C.B., 1902. He married firstly in 1867, Thackeray's younger daughter, Harriet Marian (d. 1875); secondly, in 1878, Julia Prinsep, widow of Herbert Duckworth (d. 1895); his portrait was painted by Watts, 1878; 'Collected Essays', 10 vols., with introds. by James Bryce and Herbert Paul, 1907; 'Life and Letters' by F. W. Maitland, 1906.

STEPHEN, FREDERIC GEORGE (1828-1907), art critic; joined pre-Raphaelite Brotherhood, 1848; exhibited portraits of mother (1859) and father (1854) at Royal Academy; contributed to 'Germ'; art critic to 'Athenaeum', 1861-1901; wrote there valuable series of articles on 'The Private Collections of England'; and publications include unfinished 'Catalogue of Prints and Drawings (Satire) in the British Museum', 4 vols. 1870-83; he championed Rossetti's claims to initiation of pre-Raphaelite movement in his life of Rossetti, 1894; was model for head of Christ in Madox Brown's 'Christ Washing Peter's Feet'.

STEPHENS, JAMES (1826-1901), organizer of the Fenian conspiracy; at first a civil engineer; assisted William Smith O'Brien [q.v.] in Ballinagary affray, 1848; planned unsuccessful plot of kidnapping prime minister, Lord John Russell, Sept. 1848; escaped to Paris, teaching English there for some years; inaugurated Irish Republican Brotherhood on military basis, 1858; visited America (1858-9) to collect funds to provide arms, and stimulated movement there; published (1862) a scheme for the future government of Ireland in the event of success attending conspiracy; founded the 'Irish People' as organ of his party, 1863; on second visit to America (1864) promised a rising in Ireland in Sept. 1865; 'Irish People' offices raided, Sept. 1865; Stephens arrested and imprisoned, 11 Nov.; escaped, 24 Nov.; went to Paris (March 1866) and revisited New York, where in Dec. he was denounced as an impostor; returned to Paris, 1867; wrongly suspected of share in American dynamite plots and expelled from France, 1885; lived in Ireland from 1886.

STEPHENS, JAMES BRUNTON (1835-1902), Queensland poet; educated at Edinburgh University, 1852-4; private tutor on continent of Europe, 1864-7; six years schoolmaster at Greenock; emigrated to Queensland (1866) and engaged there in tutorial work; published poem 'Convict Once', 1871; clerk to colonial secretary, 1883-1902; published fiction and verse; collected edition of poems appeared in 1902.

STEPHENS, WILLIAM RICHARD WOOD (1839-1902), dean of Winchester; B.A., Balliol College, Oxford, 1862; M.A., 1865; D.D., 1901; held Sussex livings, 1870-94; prebendary of Whitching, 1876; dean of Winchester, 1894-1902; F.S.A., 1894; voluminous works include 'Lives of his father-in-law, Dean Hook', 2 vols. 1878, and 'E. A. Freeman', 2 vols. 1895, and 'History of English Church from Norman Conquest to Edward I', 1901; revised Dean Hook's 'Church Dictionary', 1887.

STEPHENSON, SIR FREDERICK CHARLES ARTHUR (1821-1911), general; joined Scots guards, 1837; served throughout Crimean war; in China war, 1858 and 1860; C.B., 1868; lieutenant-general, 1878; commanded army of occupation in Egypt, 1883; K.C.B., 1884; commanded frontier field force and defeated Mahdists at Glinis, Dec. 1885; G.C.B., 1886; colonel of Coldstream guards, 1892; constable of Tower of London, 1898-1911.

STEPHENSON, GEORGE ROBERT (1819-1905), civil engineer; employed by uncle, George Stephenson [q.v.], in drawing office of Manchester and Leeds Railway, 1837-43; resident engineer on new lines of South Eastern Railway; superintended construction of many branch lines in Kent; also constructed lines in Schleswig-Holstein, Jutland, and New Zealand; joint engineer-in-chief for East London Railway, 1864; built many bridges, fixed and swinging, at home and abroad; proprietor of locomotive works at Newcastle-on-Tyne, 1859-86; president of Institution of Civil Engineers, 1875-7.

STERLING, ANTOINETTE (1842-1904), contralto singer; born at Sterlingville, New York State; taught singing in Mississippi State from 1868; studied singing in Germany and London; first appeared in London, 1873; successful in oratorio music and German Lieder; married John MacKinlay, 1875; from 1877 attained much popularity by her rendering of 'The Lost Chord', 'Culler Hearn', and other ballads; toured in Australia, 1893; ardent 'Christian scientist'; memoir by son, 1906.

STERNDALE, BARON (1848-1923), judge. [See PICKFORD, WILLIAM.]

STEVENSON, DAVID WATSON (1842-1904), Scottish sculptor; studied in Rome (1876) and Paris; A.R.S.A., 1877; R.S.A., 1886; executed groups for Prince Consort Memorial, Edinburgh, and monuments of Wallace and Burns.

STEVENSON, JAMES, BARON STEVENSON, of Holmbyrie (1873-1926), administrator; managing director of John Walker & Sons distillers, Kilmarnock; did valuable work for munitions during European war, 1915-18; surveyor-general of supply, war office, 1919-21; as chairman of Exhibition Board, in control of Wembley British Empire Exhibition, 1924 and 1925; baronet, 1917; baron, 1924.

STEVENSON, JOHN JAMES (1831-1908), architect; M.A. Glasgow University; pupil of Sir George Gilbert Scott [q.v.]; in London, 1858-60; evolved a simple type of brick design; built several board schools and churches; built 'The Red House', Baywater Hill; restored many colleges at Oxford and Cambridge; first architect to design interior decorations of sea vessels; published 'House Architecture', 3 vols. 1880; F.S.A., 1884; F.R.I.B.A., 1879.

STEVENSOM, SIR THOMAS (1838-1908), scientific analyst and toxicologist; M.B. London, 1863; M.D., 1864; F.R.C.P., 1871; lecturer at Guy's Hospital on chemistry, 1870-98, and forensic medicine, 1878-1908; analyst to home office, 1872-81; senior scientific analyst, 1881-1908; expert witness in leading poisoning cases from 1881; knighted, 1904; edited medical works.

STEVENSOM, WILLIAM HENRY (1858-1924), historian and philologist; edited Nottingham borough records (4 vols. 1883-9); engaged to calendar muniments of Merton College, Oxford, 1888; research fellow of Exeter College, 1895-1904; produced eleven volumes of Calendar of Close Rolls, 1892-1908; published edition of 'Asser's Life of King Alfred' (1904); fellow and librarian of St. John's College, Oxford, 1904; authority on place-names.

STEWART, CHARLES (1840-1907), comparative anatomist; M.R.C.S., 1869; conservator of Hunterian Museum at Royal College of Surgeons from 1884; Hunterian professor of comparative anatomy and physiology, 1886-1902; Fellerian professor at Royal Institution, 1894-7; president of Linnean society, 1890-4; helped to found Anatomical Society, 1887; F.R.S., 1896; hon. LL.D. Aberdeen, 1899.

STEWART, CHARLES STEWART VANE-TEMPERST, sixth MARQUESS OF LONDONDERRY (1852-1915), politician. [See VANE-TEMPERST-STEWART.]

STEWART, ISLA (1855-1910), hospital matron; nurse at St. Thomas's Hospital, 1879-85; matron and superintendent of nursing at St. Bartholomew's Hospital, 1887-1910; founded League of St. Bartholomew's Hospital Nurses, and Matrons' Council for Great Britain and Ireland, 1894; collaborated in 'Practical Nursing,' 2 vols. 1899-1903.

STEWART, JAMES (1831-1905), African missionary and explorer; educated at Edinburgh and St. Andrews universities; studied theology at New College, Edinburgh, 1855-9, and medicine at the university 1859; influenced in 1857 by David Livingstone (q.v.), he resolved on establishing mission in Central Africa; reached Livingstone's head-quarters at Shupanga, 1862; explored Shire and Zambesi districts, 1862-3; hon. F.R.G.S., 1866; M.B. and C.M. Glasgow, 1866; returned to Africa, reaching Lovedale, Jan. 1867; principal of Lovedale Missionary Institute, which he consolidated and developed, 1870-90; urged foundation of Livingstonia in memory of Livingstone, 1875; organized new settlement at Bandawa, 1876; explored Lake Nyasa, 1877; was consulted by colonial administrators on native questions; established new East African mission, 1891; returned to Scotland, 1892; hon. D.D. Glasgow, 1899; moderator of Free Church General Assembly, 1899; delivered (1902) Duff missionary lectures in Edinburgh on 'Dawn in the Dark Continent' (published 1903); returned to Lovedale, 1904, and died there; author of Kafir phrase book, 1898, and Grammar, 1902.

STEWART, SIR WILLIAM HOUSTON (1822-1901), admiral; son of Sir Houston Stewart (q.v.); entered navy, 1835; served in Carlisle war, 1836-7; and Syrian war, 1840; commander, 1848; in Pacific, 1851-3; ret. took revolted Chilean colony of Punta Arenas; distinguished in Crimean war; captain superintendent of Chatham dockyard, 1862-6; controller of Portsmouth dockyard, 1872-81; K.C.B., 1877; admiral, 1881; G.O.B., 1887.

STEWART, SIR JAMES (1836-1916), judge; B.A., Trinity College, Cambridge (senior wrangler), 1860; called to bar (Lincoln's Inn), 1862; attorney-general's 'devil', 1881-6; chancery judge and knighted, 1886; lord justice of appeal, 1900-5; F.C. 1900.

STEWART, JAMES HUTCHISON (1820-1909), Scottish philosopher; educated at Glasgow University; M.R.C.S. Edinburgh, 1842; F.R.C.S., 1860; abandoned medicine for philosophy; published 'The Secret of Hegel,' 2 vols. 1865, and 'Analysis of Sir William Hamilton's Philosophy,' 1868; sought to refute Huxley's theory of protoplasm, 1868; issued 'Text Book to Kant,' 1881, and other works; hon. LL.D. Edinburgh, 1867; Glasgow, 1901; received civil list pension, 1889.

STODDART, ANDREW ERNEST (1863-1915), cricketer; chosen to play cricket for Middlesex, 1886; scored 456, then highest individual innings recorded, 1886; played regularly for Middlesex, a strong county team, till 1898; visited Australia with teams successful except on last occasion, 1887, 1891, 1894, 1897; in front rank of English amateurs as high scorer and all-round player.

STOKES, ADRIAN (1887-1937), pathologist; born at Lausanne; M.B., Trinity College, Dublin; as officer in royal army medical corps during European war did invaluable work on tetanus, typhoid, jaundice, etc.; professor of bacteriology and preventive medicine, Trinity College, Dublin, 1919; Sir William Dunn professor of pathology, London University, 1922; died at Lagos on Rockefeller Yellow Fever Commission investigation.

STOKES, SIR FREDERICK WILFRED SCOTT (1860-1927), civil engineer; article to a civil engineer, 1878; assistant to B. C. Rapier, of Messrs. Ransomes & Rapier, Ipswich, 1885; engineer and managing director of London office, 1898; managing director, 1897; chairman, 1907; his inventions include improved rotary kilns for cement-making, dam and canal sluices, and a gun; K.B.E., 1917.

STOKES, SIR GEORGE GABRIEL, first baronet (1819-1908), mathematician and physicist; educated at schools at Dublin and Bristol and at Pembroke College, Cambridge; senior wrangler, first Smith's prizeman, and fellow, 1841; master, 1902-3; formed at Cambridge close friendship with Lord Kelvin; contributed to 'Cambridge Mathematical Journal'; Lucasian professor of mathematics from 1849 till death; early developed Lagrange's theory of motion of fluids; created modern theory of motion of viscous fluids; made valuable researches into optics; published 'The Dynamical Theory of Diffraction,' 1849; pioneer in discovery of and development of spectrum analysis; discovered nature of fluorescence (1852) and explored great range of invisible ultra-violet spectrum; virtual founder of modern science of geodesy, 1849; fellow (1851), secretary (1854-85), president (1885-90), and Copley medallist (1893) of the Royal Society; prominent in foundation of observatory for solar physics at South Kensington, 1878; Burnett lecturer at Aberdeen, 1883-5; published lectures on 'Light,' 3 vols. 1884-7; Gifford lecturer at Edinburgh, 1891-3; president of British Association, 1869; conservative M.P. for Cambridge University, 1887-91; baronet, 1889; received many foreign honours and honorary degrees from Oxford, Cambridge, Edinburgh, Dublin, Glasgow, and Aberdeen; his writings were collected in five volumes of 'Mathematical and Physical Papers,' 1880-1905; his 'Scientific Correspondence' was edited by Sir Joseph Larmor, 2 vols. 1907.

STOKES, SIR JOHN (1825-1902), lieutenant-general R.E.; joined royal engineers, 1843; in Cape Colony, 1846-51; served in Kafir wars, 1846-7, 1850-1; instructor in surveying at Royal Military Academy, Woolwich, 1851; served in Crimea; British member of European commission of the Danube, 1856-71; improved mouths and navigation of lower Danube and regulated pilotage; urged on Great Britain measures which led to 'Danube Loan Act'; drafted articles respecting the Danube in the treaty of London, 1871; C.B., 1871; commanding royal engineer of South Wales military district, 1872-5, of Chatham district, 1875; British commissioner on international commission at Constantinople concerning Suez Canal dues, 1873; reported on khedive's financial difficulties and negotiated for the representation of British government on Suez Canal Company's board, 1875-6; became director, 1876; vice-president, 1887; K.C.B., 1877; as member of Channel tunnel committee, opposed its construction, 1882; deputy adjutant-general for royal engineers at war office, 1881-6; lieutenant-general, 1887.

STOKES, WHITLEY (1830-1909), Celtic scholar; son of William Stokes (q.v.); B.A., Trinity College, Dublin, 1851; studied Irish philology from early age; called to bar (Inner Temple), 1858; practised in London till 1862, when he went to India; secretary to legislative department at Calcutta, 1865; law member of council of the governor-general, 1877-82; president of Indian law commission, 1879; published works on Indian law, 1865-91; C.S.I., 1877; O.E.B., 1879; returned to England, 1889; collaborated in series of 'Irish Texts' at Leipzig, 1884-1909, in 'Urkeitschöner Sprachschätze,' 1894, and with John Strachan (q.v.) in 'Thesaurus Palaeohibernicus,' 1901 and 1903; published many Irish texts with translations and glossaries, as well as Cornish and Breton works; original F.B.A., 1902; hon. fellow of Jesus College, Oxford; his library of Celtic printed books at University College, London.

STONEY, BINDON BLOOD (1898-1909), civil engineer; B.A., Trinity College, Dublin, 1880; M.A.

and M.A.I., 1870; hon. LL.D., 1881; chief engineer (1863-98) to Dublin port authority; improved channel between Dublin bay and city, rebuilt quay walls and Grattan and O'Connell bridges; F.R.S., 1881; president of Institution of Civil Engineers of Ireland, 1871-2; member of Royal Irish Academy; published 'The Theory of Strains in Girders and Similar Structures', 2 vols. 1866.

STONEY, GEORGE JOHNSTONE (1826-1911), mathematical physicist; elder brother of Blindon Blood Stoney [q.v.]; B.A., Trinity College, Dublin, 1848; M.A. and Madden prizeman, 1852; assistant at Parsons-town observatory, 1848-52; professor of natural philosophy, Queen's College, Galway, 1852-7; secretary of Queen's University, Dublin, 1857-62; superintendent of civil service examinations in Ireland till 1893; made original contributions to study of physical optics, of molecular physics, of the kinetic theory of gases, and of conditions limiting planetary atmospheres; introduced word 'electron' into scientific vocabulary; wrote also on abstract physics, music, and musical sciences; for twenty years secretary of Royal Dublin Society; first Boyle medallist, 1899; hon. D.Sc., Queen's University, Ireland, 1879; hon. Sc.D., Trinity College, Dublin, 1902; F.R.S., 1861; settled in London, 1893; advocate of women's higher education.

STOFFORD, SIR FREDERICK WILLIAM (1854-1929), general; commissioned to grenadier guards, 1871; served with Egyptian expeditionary force, 1882; with Suakin expeditionary force, 1885; Ashanti expedition, 1895; South African war, 1899-1902; chief of staff of I Army Corps, 1902; major-general and director of military training, war office, 1904; commanded London district, 1906; lieutenant of Tower of London, 1912; commanded First Home Defence Army, 1914; commanded IX Corps of New Army troops at Suvla Bay landing, Dardanelles operations, 1916; K.C.M.G., 1900.

STOBY, ROBERT HERBERT (1835-1907), principal of Glasgow University; son of Robert Stoby (1790-1859, q.v.); educated at Edinburgh and St. Andrews universities; succeeded father as parish minister of Rosneath in Church of Scotland, 1860-86; helped to found Church Service Society, 1865; moderator of general assembly, 1894; senior clerk, 1895-1907; chaplain in ordinary to Queen Victoria and King Edward VII from 1886; professor of church history in Glasgow University, 1886-98; principal, 1898-1907; largely extended university buildings; hon. D.D. Edinburgh, 1874; hon. LL.D. St. Andrews, 1900; prominent freemason; works include Lives of Robert Lee [q.v.], 1870, and of William Carstairs, 1874, and 'The Apocryphal Ministry of the Scottish Church' (Baird lecture), 1897.

STORY-MASKELYNE, MERVYN HERBERT NEVIL (1823-1911), mineralogist; grandson of Nevil Maskelyne [q.v.]; B.A., Wadham College, Oxford, 1845; M.A., 1849; hon. fellow, 1873; pioneer teacher of mineralogy and chemistry in Oxford University from 1851; professor of mineralogy, 1856-95; keeper of the minerals at the British Museum, 1857-80; rearranged and greatly extended the collections, publishing a catalogue (1853) and a guide (1868); made important researches into meteorites and the diamond, based on his lectures 'The Morphology of Crystals', 1895; F.R.S., 1870; vice-president, 1897-9; F.G.S., 1854; Wollstonecraft medallist, 1893; hon. D.Sc. Oxford, 1905; M.P. for Cricklade as liberal, 1890-6, and as liberal unionist, 1886-92; member of Witshire county council, 1889-1904.

STOUT, SIR ROBERT (1844-1930), prime minister and chief justice of New Zealand; emigrated to New Zealand, 1863; solicitor and banker; attorney-general and minister for lands and immigration, 1878; premier, attorney-general, and minister of education in Stout-Vogel ministry, 1884-7; chief justice of New Zealand, 1899-1926; a keen educationist and great advocate; K.C.M.G., 1886.

STRACHAN, JOHN (1869-1907), classical and Celtic scholar; educated at Aberdeen University and Pembroke College, Cambridge; Porson university scholar, 1883; second chancellor's medallist, 1886; after studying Sanskrit and Celtic at Jena, graduated B.A. at Cambridge, 1885; professor of Greek at Owens College, Manchester, where he also taught Celtic and Sanskrit, 1888-1907; collaborated with Whitley Stokes [q.v.] in 'Thesaurus Palaeohibernicus', 2 vols. 1901-3; wrote memoirs on Irish philology and 'An Introduction to Early Welsh', posthumous, 1909; hon. LL.D. Aberdeen, 1900.

STRACHAN-DAVIDSON, JAMES LEIGH (1843-1916), classical scholar; B.A., Balliol College, Oxford; fellow of Balliol, 1866; senior dean, 1878-1907; master, 1907-16; devoted his life to service of his college and university; lectured on Roman history; works include 'Cicero and the Fall of the Roman Republic' (1894) and 'Problems of the Roman Criminal Law' (1912).

STRACHEY, SIR ARTHUR (1858-1901), judge; son of Sir John Strachey [q.v.]; LL.B., Trinity Hall, Cambridge, 1880; called to bar, 1883; judge of high court of Bombay, 1886-9; chief justice of high court, Allahabad and knighted, 1899; died at Simla.

STRACHEY, SIR EDWARD, third baronet (1812-1901), author; brother of Sir John [q.v.] and Sir Richard Strachey [q.v.]; friend of F. D. Maurice; succeeded to uncle's baronetcy and estates in Somerset, 1868; took prominent part in local affairs; made study of Oriental languages and of biblical criticism; works include 'Jewish History and Politics', 1874, 'Miracles and Science', 1884, 'Talk at a Country House', largely autobiographical, 1895; edited Globe edition of Malory's 'Morte d'Arthur', 1868.

STRACHEY, SIR JOHN (1823-1907), Anglo-Indian administrator; entered Bengal civil service, 1842; served at first in North-West provinces; judicial commissioner of Central provinces, 1862; president of permanent sanitary commission, 1864; chief commissioner of Oudh, 1866; member of governor-general's council, 1868; lieutenant-governor of North-West provinces, 1874-6; created agriculture department, extended survey, and constructed railways; restored historic Mogul buildings at Agra, 1876; finance member of governor-general's council, 1876; retired owing to his serious under-estimate of cost of war in Afghanistan, 1880; knighted, 1872; G.C.S.I. 1878; settled in Florence, 1880-3; published lectures on 'India', 1888, and 'Histories and the Rohilla War', 1892; member of council of India, 1885-95; hon. D.C.L. Oxford, 1907.

STRACHEY, JOHN ST. LOE (1860-1927), journalist; son of Sir Edward Strachey, third baronet [q.v.]; B.A., Balliol College, Oxford; called to bar (Inner Temple), 1885; took up journalism, editor of 'Cornhill Magazine', 1896; editor and proprietor of 'Spectator', 1898-1925; made it for years most influential unionist weekly paper; active and influential unionist free-trader; his important registration scheme of 'Surrey Veterans', &c., widely copied before 1914; published numerous books.

STRACHEY, SIR RICHARD (1817-1908), lieutenant-general; joined Bombay engineers, 1836; executive engineer on Ganges Canal, 1843; served in Sutlej campaign at Badiali, Alwal, and Sobroon, 1846; made scientific explorations in Kumaon, Himalayas, and Tibet, 1847-8; collected many new botanical specimens and added much to geological knowledge; stayed in England arranging his collections, 1850-5; F.R.S. 1854; royal medallist, 1897; secretary of newly formed Central provinces, 1856; rebuilt railway station at Allahabad; consulting engineer to government at Calcutta, 1858; reorganized public works department and initiated adequate forest service; secretary and head of public works department, 1862-5; C.S.I. 1866; inspector-general of irrigation, 1866; major-general on retirement, 1871; lieutenant-general and member of council of India, 1875; arranged for purchase of East Indian Railway, 1877; chairman, 1889-1906; British commissioner at Prime Meridian Conference at Washington, 1884; president of Royal Geographical Society, 1887-9; represented India at International monetary conference at Brussels, 1892; hon. LL.D. Cambridge, 1899; founded scientific study of Indian meteorology; chairman of the meteorological council which controlled the meteorological office in London, 1893-5; invented mechanical instruments in connexion with meteorological problems; C.S.I. 1868; G.O.S.I. 1897; collaborated with brother John [q.v.] in 'The Finance and Public Works of India', 1882.

STRANG, WILLIAM (1858-1921), painter and etcher; pupil of Alphonse Legros [q.v.]; his 747 etchings include imaginative compositions (chiefly book illustrations) and portraits; executed portrait drawings and paintings; R.A., 1921.

STRATHCLYDE, BARON (1853-1928), lawyer and politician. [See URR, ALEXANDER.]

STRATHONA AND MOUNT ROYAL, first BARON (1890-1914), Canadian financier. [See SMITH, DONALD ALEXANDER.]

STRETTON, HESBA (pseudonym) (1833-1911) authoress. [See SMITH, SARAH.]

STRONG, SIR SAMUEL HENRY (1825-1909), chief justice of Canada; accompanied father to Canada, 1836; called to bar at Toronto, 1849; Q.C., 1863; vice-chancellor of Ontario, 1869; puisne judge of supreme court of Canada, 1875; chief justice, 1892-1902; knighted, 1893; member of judicial committee of privy council, 1897.

STRONG, SANDFORD ARTHUR (1863-1904), Orientalist and historian of art; B.A., St. John's College, Cambridge, 1884; M.A., 1890; studied Sanskrit at Cambridge; librarian of Indian Institute, Oxford, 1885; professor of Arabic at University College, London, 1895-1904; librarian to Duke of Devonshire at Chatsworth, 1895-1904; librarian to House of Lords, 1897-1904; published Pali and Arabic texts; works include reproductions of drawings at Wilton House, 1900, and Chatsworth, 1902; his 'Critical Studies and Fragments' appeared posthumously in 1905; memorial Arthur Strong Oriental Library at University College, London.

STROTHER, SIR JOHN (1857-1925), educationist and civil servant; educated at Glasgow University and Worcester College, Oxford; inspector of schools in Scotland, 1886; senior examiner, Scottish education department, 1898; assistant secretary, 1900; secretary, 1904-22; K.C.B., 1910; contributed greatly to reform of Scottish education.

STROUT, EDWARD GERALD (1854-1930), agriculturist; brother of third Baron Rayleigh (q.v.); undertook management of Rayleigh Essex estates, 1876; founded London firm of Strutt & Parker, land agents and surveyors, primarily to act as receiver for Lincoln and Essex estates of Guy's Hospital, 1877; successfully developed large scale arable dairy farming on Rayleigh estates; founded Lord Rayleigh's Dairies Ltd., retail selling organization in London; advocated, for maintaining agricultural population, increase of arable land, more small holdings, agricultural education and research, light railways, government assistance in building rural cottages, no adverse legislation against capital invested in soil; gave valuable advice to government in framing agricultural policy, 1914-17.

STROUT, JOHN WILLIAM, third BARON RAYLEIGH (1842-1919), mathematician and physicist; educated privately; B.A., Trinity College, Cambridge (senior wrangler), 1865; first Smith's prizeman, 1866; fellow of Trinity, 1866-71; published first of his 446 scientific papers, 1869; F.R.S., 1873; succeeded father, 1873; early investigations concerned with psychical research; published 'Treatise on the Theory of Sound', 1877; Cavendish professor of experimental physics at Cambridge, 1879-84; directed research on re-determination of electrical units in absolute measure; published series of papers on subject, 1881-83; in private laboratory, 1885; Essex, to pursue research in private laboratory, 1885; secretary of Royal Society, 1885-96; discovered argon (in collaboration with (Sir) William Ramsay, q.v.), 1894; carried out important investigations in physical optics; an original recipient of O.M., 1902; Nobel prizeman, 1904; P.C., 1906; chancellor of Cambridge University, 1908; president of Royal Society, 1905; Rumford medallist, 1914; his researches covered fields of physics, chemistry and mathematics, but only striking discovery that of argon; his scientific supremacy due to aptitude for arranging existing knowledge.

STUBBS, WILLIAM (1825-1901), historian and bishop successively of Chester and Oxford; educated at Ripon grammar school; servitor of Christ Church, Oxford, 1844; B.A. (with first class in literae humaniores) and third in mathematics, 1848; studied historical documents in the Christ Church library; fellow of Trinity College, 1844-50; ordained deacon, 1848, and priest, 1850; Rector of Navestock, Essex, 1850-66; issued 'Registrum Sacrum Anglicanum', 1858 (new edit. 1897); took private pupils, including H. P. Liddon and A. O. Swinburne; appointed librarian at Lambeth, 1862; edited 'Chronicle Memorials of Richard I' for 'Rolls Series', 1864-5; was regius professor of history at Oxford, 1866-84, and ex-officio, fellow of Oriel College; published many of his public professorial lectures in 'Seventeen Lectures on the Study of Medieval and Modern History', 1886; other of his lectures which appeared posthumously treated of 'European History', 1904, 'Early English History', 1906, 'Germany, 476-1500', 2 vols. 1908; disabled by examination and tutorial system at university from carrying out his ideal of thorough 'historical school', he devoted himself to private research; continued his contributions to 'Rolls Series', admirably editing the text of many medieval historical authorities (19 vols. 1864-89); his introductory essays to these volumes were collected posthumously in 1903; in 1870 he issued 'Select Charters and other Illustrations of English Constitutional History from the Earliest Times to the Reign of Edward I'; he made his chief fame by his 'Constitutional History of England down to 1485', vol. i, 1873, vol. ii, 1875, vol. iii, 1878, a massive work of historic synthesis, which gave a new direction to study of medieval English history. Supporting the high church party at Oxford, Stubbs was rector of the Oriel living of Cholderton, Wiltshire, 1875-9, and canon of St. Paul's, 1879-84, working during his periods of residence at St. Paul's on the monuments and impressing his hearers by weighty sermons. He took a leading part as member of the royal commission on ecclesiastical courts, 1881-3. He was bishop of Chester, 1884-7, abandoning historical work with his edition of William of Malmesbury's works (Rolls Series, 2 vols. 1887-9); made energetic attempt to build new churches in his diocese; interested himself in education and archaeology, and was active at Lambeth conference of 1888. Translated to see of Oxford, 1888, he remained there till death; finding routine episcopal work irksome, he obtained appointment of suffragan bishop of Reading, 1889; but he proved his episcopal efficiency in his 'Ordination Addresses', 1901, and 'Visitation Charges', 1904, both published posthumously. He took part while bishop of Oxford in academic affairs; acted as assessor on trial of Edward King, bishop of Lincoln, for ritualistic practices, 1889-90, and approved Archbishop Benson's judgment. He preached with difficulty owing to failing health in St. George's Chapel, Windsor, the day after Queen Victoria's funeral, 3 Feb. 1901. He received Prussian order 'pour le mérite', 1897, and numerous academic honours; 'Letters' edited by W. H. Hutton, 1904.

STURDEE, SIR FREDERICK CHARLES DOVETON, first baronet (1859-1925), admiral of the fleet; entered royal navy, 1871; became torpedo expert; commanded first battle squadron, 1910; vice-admiral, 1913; chief of war staff under Prince Louis of Battenberg, 1914; won decisive victory over Admiral von Spee at battle of Falkland Islands, Dec. 1914; commanded fourth battle squadron, 1915-18; took part in battle of Jutland, 1916; baronet, 1916; admiral, 1917; commander-in-chief at Nore, 1918-21; admiral of fleet, 1921.

STURGIS, JULIAN RUSSELL (1848-1904), novelist; born at Boston, Massachusetts; educated at Eton and Balliol College, Oxford; B.A., 1872; M.A., 1876; called to bar, 1876; works include novels, 'John-a-Dramas', 1878, 'My Friends and I', 1884, and 'Stephen Calmar', 1901, as well as 'Little Comedies', 1879, and 'Comedies New and Old', 1882.

STURT, GEORGE (1863-1927), author under the pseudonym of GEORGE BOURNE; entered firm of wheelwrights at Farnham in which his ancestors had worked since 1706, 1885; his works include 'The Bettesworth Book' (1901), 'The Wheelwright's Shop' (1923), and 'A Small Boy in the Sixties' (1927).

STURT, HENRY GERALD, first BARON ALINGTON (1825-1904), sportsman; educated at Eton and Christ Church, Oxford; B.A., 1845; M.A., 1848; conservative M.P. for Dorchester, 1847-56, and for Dorset county, 1856-76; raised to peerage, 1878; in racing partnership with Sir Frederic Johnstone from 1868; won Derby with St. Blaise (1883) and Common (1891), besides other important races.

SUTHERLAND, ALEXANDER (1852-1902), Australian journalist; emigrated with family from Glasgow to Sydney, 1864; B.A. Melbourne University, 1874; M.A., 1878; London representative of 'South Australian Register', 1898; registrar of Melbourne University, 1901; works include 'Thirty Short Poems', 1890, 'History of Australia', 1897, and 'Origin and Growth of the Moral Instinct', 1898; 'Life' by H. G. Turner, 1908.

SUTHERLAND, SIR THOMAS (1834-1927), chairman of Peninsular and Oriental Steamship Company, 1881-1914; clerk in company's London office, 1855; superintendent of company's Japan and China agencies, 1860; inspector and then assistant manager of company after return to London, 1867; managing director, 1873; chairman of board, 1881; rendered invaluable services to British shipowners by promoting 'Programme de Londres' relating to Suez Canal, 1883; liberal (subsequently liberal unionist) M.P. Greenock, 1884-1900; K.O.M.G., 1891.

SUTTON, HENRY SEPTIMUS (1825-1901), author; born at Nottingham; from an early age a friend of Philip James Bailey and Coventry Patmore; betrayed the influence of Emerson in his mystic prose work, 'Evangel of Love,' 1847; chief of 'Manchester Examiner and Times' reporting staff, 1858; published mystical poems, 'Clifton Grove Garland,' 1848, and 'Quinquenergia,' 1864, which were praised by James Martineau and criticised by Carlyle; edited 'Alliance News,' 1854-98; joined Swedenborgians in 1857, and expounded Swedenborg's writings in various volumes.

SUTTON, MARTIN JOHN (1880-1913), scientific agriculturist; senior partner in seed firm of Sutton & Sons, Reading, 1887; interested in practical agriculture; wrote standard book, 'Permanent and Temporary Pastures'; strong churchman and philanthropist.

SWAIN, JOSEPH (1820-1909), wood-engraver; manager of engraving department of 'Punch,' 1843-4; executed on his own account all engraving of 'Punch' from 1844 to 1900, including 'Punch' cartoons by Sir J. Tenniel [q. v.]; reproduced works by leading artists.

SWAN, JOHN MACALLAN (1847-1910), painter and sculptor; studied art in London and Paris; exhibited at Royal Academy from 1878; made special study of animals; best-known pictures are 'The Prodigal Son' (in Tate Gallery), 'Maternity' (at Amsterdam) and 'A lioness defending her cubs'; sculptured work includes bronze bust of Cecil Rhodes and eight colossal lions for Rhodes's monument at Groote Schuur; A.R.A., 1894; R.A., 1906; hon. LL.D. Aberdeen; many of his studies were acquired for the nation.

SWAN, SIR JOSEPH WILSON (1838-1914), chemist and electrical inventor; partner in firm of chemists, Newcastle-upon-Tyne; studied improvements in collodion process invented by Frederick Scott Archer [q. v.], and produced preparation of collodion for photographic use never excelled; patented 'carbon process' for printing permanent photographs (afterwards known as 'auto-type'); manufacturer celebrated gelatine-silver bromide plates; carried out developments in incandescent electric lighting; F.R.S., 1894; knighted, 1904.

SWAYNE, JOSEPH GRIFFITHS (1819-1903), obstetric physician; studied at Bristol Medical School, Guy's Hospital, and Paris; M.R.C.S., 1841; M.B. London, 1842; M.D. 1845; succeeded father as lecturer on midwifery at Bristol Medical School, 1850-95; physician accoucheur to Bristol general hospital, 1853-78; published 'Obstetric Aphorisms for the Use of Students,' 1856, 10th edit. 1893.

SWAYTELLING, first BARON (1832-1911), foreign exchange banker and Jewish philanthropist. [See MONTAGU, SAMUEL.]

SWEET, HENRY (1845-1912), phonetician, comparative philologist, and anglicist; B.A., Balliol College, Oxford; reader in phonetics at Oxford, only official position which he obtained, 1901; greatest British philologist and chief founder of modern phonetics; works include 'History of English Sounds from the Earliest Period' (1874, enlarged form, 1888), 'Anglo-Saxon Reader' (1876), 'Handbook of Phonetics' (1877), 'The Oldest English Texts' (1885), 'Elementarbuch des gesprochenen Englisch' (1885, English edition, 1890), 'A New English Grammar' (1892, 1898), 'The History of Language' (1900), and 'The Sounds of English' (1908).

SWEET, HENRY BAROLAY (1835-1917), regius professor of divinity at Cambridge; B.A., Caius College, Cambridge; fellow, 1858; professor of pastoral theology, King's College, London, 1882-90; professor of divinity, Cambridge, 1890-1915; his works deal with Greek version of Old Testament, exegesis of New Testament, Christian doctrine, patristic studies, history and interpretation of Apostles, Creed, and Christian worship.

SWINBURNE, ALGERNON CHARLES (1837-1909), poet; spent childhood in Isle of Wight; early developed love for climbing, riding, and swimming; entered Eton, Easter 1849; widely read English literature for himself; avoided games or athletics; won second Prince Consort's prizes for French and Italian (1852) and first prizes (1853); showed proficiency in Greek verse; left school July 1853; matriculated from Balliol College, 24 Jan. 1856; soon dropped youthful high church proclivities for nihilism in religion and republicanism in politics; wrote ode to Mazzini (unpublished), 1857; was introduced in Oxford to D. G. Rossetti, 1857; contributed to 'Undergraduate Papers,' 1857-8; attracted at Balliol kindly notice of Benjamin Jowett, who proved a lifelong friend, and who was his host during many summer holidays; won a second in classical moderations and Taylorian scholarship for French and Italian, Easter 1858; visited France with his parents; joined Old Mortality Club; read privately modern history with William Stubbs [q. v.] in the course of 1859; finally left Oxford, Nov. 1859; spent much time at house of grandfather, Sir John Swinburne, at Capheaton, Northumberland; took lodgings in London, 1860; published 'The Queen Mother and Rosamond. Two Plays,' 1861. In London he lived on terms of close intimacy with Rossetti; made reputation in cultivated society by brilliance of his conversation; at house of Monckton Milnes formed friendship with Sir Richard Burton; came to know George Meredith, 1862; acquired enthusiastic admiration for the work of Victor Hugo, whom he met in Paris, 1862; contributed prose and verse to 'Spectator'; joined Rossetti for a time (1862-3) at 16 Cheyne Walk, Chelsea; on visit to Paris (March 1863) made Whistler's acquaintance; suffered from epileptic fits; in course of a foreign tour (1864) met Landor at Florence; spent the autumn of that year in Cornwall, partly with Jowett; issued, in April 1865, 'Atalanta in Calydon,' which was enthusiastically received; published 'Chastelard' (Dec.) and, in April 1866, 'Poems and Ballads,' which excited storm of hostility and was withdrawn by publisher, Moxon, from circulation; replied to his critics in 'Notes on Poems and Reviews,' Oct., issued A Song of Italy, Feb. 1867, and 'An Appeal to England,' a political pamphlet, in verse (Nov.); formed intimacy with Adah Isaacs Menken [q. v.], 1867; published in prose 'William Blake' and 'Notes on the Royal Academy,' 1868; spent much time with Mazzini and his circle; injured his health by imprudences; was nearly drowned while swimming at Etretat, 1870; published 'Ode on the Proclamation of the French Republic,' Sept. 1870, and his republican 'Songs before Sunrise,' 1871; while staying with Jowett at Loch Tummel (July and Aug. 1871) he made Browning's acquaintance; denounced Robert Buchanan in his pungent 'Under the Microscope,' 1872; published 'Bothwell,' 1874, and 'George Chapman: a Critical Essay,' Dec. 1874; issued 'Essays and Studies' (prose) and 'Songs of Two Nations,' 1875, 'Erechtheus: a Tragedy,' and 'A Note on the Muscovite Crusade,' 1876, 'A Note on Charlotte Brontë,' 1877, and 'Poems and Ballads,' 2nd ser. 1878; in Sept. 1879 he removed, owing to his broken health, from London lodgings to house of Theodore Watts-Dunton [q. v.], The Elms, Putney, where he spent the rest of his life in much retirement; grew increasingly deaf, but his general health was rapidly restored; published, among other later works, 'Studies in Song,' and 'A Study of Shakespeare,' 1880, 'Mary Stuart: a Tragedy,' 1881, 'Tristram of Lyonesse,' 1882, 'A Century of Roundels,' 1883, 'A Midsummer Holiday,' 1884, 'Marino Falieri, a Tragedy,' 1885, 'A Study of Victor Hugo' and 'Miscellanies,' 1886, 'Lochine,' 1887, 'A Study of Ben Jonson' and 'Poems and Ballads,' 3rd ser. 1889, 'The Sisters,' 1892, 'Studies in Prose and Poetry' and 'Astrophel,' 1894, 'The Tale of Balen,' 1896, Rosamund, Queen of the Lombards, 1899, and 'A Channel Passage,' 1904; died at Putney, 10 April 1909, and was buried among the graves of his family at Bonchurch; a portrait by G. F. Watts (May 1867) is in the National Portrait Gallery.

SWINFIN, first BARON (1861-1919), judge. [See EADY, CHARLES SWINFIN.]

SWINTON, ALAN ARCHIBALD CAMPBELL (1863-1930), electrical engineer; apprentice at Armstrong engineering works, Elswick-on-Tyne, 1882; set up independent practice as electrical contractor and consulting engineer in London, 1887; published first photograph produced by X-rays in England, 1896; one of the first radiographers employed by medical profession; intimately connected with early development of steam turbine; F.R.S., 1915.

SYKES, SIR MARK, sixth baronet (1879-1919), traveller, soldier, and politician; brought up as Roman Catholic and had roving education abroad; as a young man travelled in Syria, Mesopotamia, and Southern Kurdistan; honorary attaché to British embassy, Constantinople, 1905-7; conservative M.P., Central Hull, 1911; succeeded father, 1913; largely responsible for 'Sykes-Picot Agreement,' 1916, by which definite spheres of interest in the Near East were assigned to Russia, France, and Great Britain; thenceforth attached to foreign office and employed as chief adviser on Near Eastern policy; sent out to Egypt, 1916 and 1917; to Palestine, 1918; champion of Arab independence and pro-Zionist; died in Paris; wrote books of travel.

SYME, DAVID (1827-1908), Australian newspaper proprietor and economist; studied theology in Scotland and philosophy in Germany; sailed for San Francisco, 1851; settled in Melbourne, 1852; bought 'The Age' newspaper, 1856; edited it from 1860 to 1870, championing protection in working-class interest and attacking capitalism; first in Australia to propose protective duties on imports, and the opening of land to small farmers; obtained disestablishment, payment of members, and free compulsory secular education; paper boycotted by landowners and government, 1863; wielded great influence in appointments of Victorian ministries; through paper obtained anti-sweating and factory Acts and the levy of an income tax; supported Australian federation and conscription and formation of Australian navy; left £50,000 to Victorian charities; published 'Outlines of an Industrial Science,' 1877, 'Representative Government in England,' 1882, and philosophical works; 'Life' by Ambrose Pratt.

SYMES-THOMPSON, EDMUND (1837-1906), physician; educated at King's College and King's College Hospital; M.B., 1859; M.D., 1860; F.R.C.P., 1868; physician (1869) and consulting physician (1889) to Brompton hospital; professor of physics at Gresham College from 1867; president of Harveian Society, 1883; and of British Baineological Society, 1903; published 'Winter Health Resorts in the Alps,' 1888; helped to establish sanatoria at Davos; other works were 'Lectures on Pulmonary Tuberculosis,' 1863, and 'On Influenza,' 1890.

SYMONS, WILLIAM CHRISTIAN (1845-1911), decorative designer, painter in oil and water-colours; educated at Lambeth Art School and Royal Academy; exhibited at Academy from 1869 to death; joined Church of Rome, 1870; designed stained glass windows; began mosaic decorations in Westminster Cathedral, 1899; paintings include 'The Convalescent Connoisseur' (at Dublin) and 'In Hora Mortis' (at Sheffield); excellent in flower pieces.

SYNGE, JOHN MILLINGTON (1871-1909), Irish dramatist; born near Rathfarnham near Dublin; B.A., Trinity College, Dublin, 1892; visited Germany, 1894, and Italy, 1896; settled in Paris, 1895; first visited Aran Islands, 1898; in Paris in 1899 met W. B. Yeats, who persuaded him to describe primitive life in Aran and elsewhere; revisited Aran Islands annually from 1899 to 1902; soon wrote the plays 'The Shadow of the Glen,' performed 1902, and 'Riders to the Sea,' performed 1904; there followed 'The Well of the Saints,' 1905, 'The Playboy of the Western World,' 1907, and 'The Tinker's Wedding,' 1907. Synge lived from 1908 in Ireland, where he found material for his descriptive essays 'In Wicklow' and 'In West Kerry,' which he contributed to 'Manchester Guardian.' He was literary adviser to Abbey Theatre, Dublin, 1904-9; produced his last and unfinished play, 'Deirdre of the Sorrows,' published in 1910; made translations from Villon and Petrarch; he also wrote an account of Aran Islands, 1907; 'Poems and Translations' appeared in 1909; his works were collected in 4 vols. 1910.

TADEMA, SIR LAWRENCE ALMA- (1836-1912), painter. [See ALMA-TADEMA.]

TAIT, PETER GUTHRIE (1831-1901), mathematician and physicist; educated at Edinburgh Academy and University, and at Peterhouse, Cambridge; senior wrangler, first Smith's prizeman, and fellow, 1859; hon. fellow, 1885; wrote with William John Steele 'Dynamics of a Particle,' 1856 (7th edit. 1900); professor of mathematics in Queen's College, Belfast, 1854-60, where he made acquaintance of Sir William R. Hamilton [q.v.]; published 'Elementary Treatise on Quaternions,' 1867; professor of natural philosophy at Edinburgh, 1860-1901; F.R.S. Edinburgh, 1860; became acquainted in 1861 with Lord Kelvin, who collaborated with him in 'Natural Philosophy,' vol. I, 1867; embodied further researches in works on 'Heat,' 1884, 'Light,' 1884, and 'Properties of Matter,' 1885; published 'Thermo-dynamics,' 1868, and 'Recent Advances in Physical Science,' 1876; collaborated with Balfour Stewart [q.v.] in 'The Unseen Universe,' 1875; issued treatises on Dynamics, 1895, and 'Newton's Laws of Motion,' 1899; he investigated properties of ozone, and verified Lord Kelvin's discovery of the 'latent heat of electricity'; Bode lecturer (on thermo-electricity) at Cambridge, 1878; made prolonged researches into knots, the foundations of the kinetic theory of gases, and the flight of a golf ball; Royal medalist of Royal Society, 1886; hon. Sc.D. University of Ireland, 1875; hon. LL.D. Glasgow, 1901; scientific papers collected in 2 vols. 1898-1900; memorial research scholarships and professorship founded at Edinburgh University; 'Life and Scientific Work' by Dr. Knott. His third son, FREDERICK GUTHRIE TAIT (1870-1900), who was killed in South African war (Feb. 1900), was champion amateur golfer in 1896 and 1898.

TALLAGE, WILLIAM (1831-1908), prison reformer; of quaker family; secretary to Society for Abolition of Capital Punishment (1863-6) and to Howard Association (1866-1901); visited prisons on Continent, in colonies, and in Egypt and United States; author of 'Penological and Preventive Principles,' 1888, and autobiographical 'Howard Letters and Memories,' 1906.

TANGYE, SIR RICHARD (1833-1906), engineer; of Cornish quaker family; engaged in teaching till 1851; joined a Birmingham engineering firm, 1852; set up with brothers tool and machinery manufactory at Birmingham, 1856; supplied hydraulic jacks to launch the 'Great Eastern'; growth of business led to building of 'Cornwall Works' near Birmingham, 1862, and works in Belgium, 1863, and London, 1868; instituted Saturday half-holiday for employees, 1873; active in religious, municipal, and political life of Birmingham; staunch liberal and free trader; founded Birmingham 'Daily Argus,' 1891; knighted, 1894; generous benefactor to Birmingham municipal art gallery and school of art; ardent collector of Cromwellian literature and relics; published 'The Two Protectors,' 1899, and autobiographical 'One and All,' 1890, republished as 'The Rise of a Great Industry,' 1905; 'Life' by Stuart J. Reid, 1908.

TARTE, JOSEPH ISRAËL (1848-1907), Canadian statesman and journalist; born in province of Quebec; conducted 'L'Environnement' of Quebec for over twenty years; removed to Montreal (1891) and published the weekly 'Le Cultivateur'; was elected as conservative to the federal parliament at Ottawa, 1891; denounced conservative irregularities in public administration in Quebec, 1891; joined liberal opposition; minister of public works in Laurier administration, 1896-1902; editor of 'La Patrie,' 1902-7.

TASCHEREAU, SIR HENRI ELZÉAR (1836-1911), chief justice of Canada; born in Beauce county, Quebec; called to Quebec bar, 1857; Q.C., 1867; conservative member of Canadian legislative assembly, 1861-7; puisne judge of superior court, 1871-8; judge of supreme court, 1878-1902; chief justice, 1902-8; knighted, 1902; member of judicial committee of privy council, 1904; wrote on Canadian jurisprudence.

TASCHEREAU, SIR HENRI THOMAS (1841-1900), Canadian judge; first cousin of Sir Henri Elzéar Taschereau [q.v.]; B.L. Laval University, 1861; B.C.L., 1862; hon. LL.D. 1890; called to Quebec bar, 1863; sat as liberal in Dominion parliament, 1872-8; puisne judge of superior court of Quebec, 1878-1907; chief justice of the King's Bench, 1907-9; knighted, 1908.

TATA, JAMSETJI NARSARWANJI (1839-1904), pioneer of Indian industries; born in Gujarat; entered father's business, 1858; in China, 1859-63; visited England to study conditions of Lancashire cotton mills, 1872; opened mills at Nagpur (1877), and subsequently at Coorla near Bombay; produced cotton of finer texture and acclimatized Egyptian cotton; obtained reduction of heavy freight charges between Bombay and Far East; opposed imposition of excise duty on products of Indian mills; greatly extended Indian iron ore industry from 1901 and utilized heavy monsoon rainfall of Western Ghats for electric power in Bombay factories; endowed scholarships for Indians for study in Europe; Indian Institute of Science at Bangalore established according to his plans; he died at Nauenheim and was buried at Woking; wrote economic pamphlets.

TAUNTON, ETHELRED LUKE (1867-1907), ecclesiastical historian; ordained Roman Catholic priest, 1883; works include 'History of the Growth of Church Music,' 1887, 'The English Black Monks of St. Benedict,' 3 vols. 1898, 'The History of the Jesuits,' 1901; composed church music.

TAYLOR, CHARLES (1840-1908), master of St. John's College, Cambridge; educated at King's College School, London, and St. John's College, Cambridge; ninth wrangler and second class classic, 1863; obtained first class in theology, 1863; Cross and Tyndal scholar, 1864; helped to found and edit (1863-84) 'The Oxford, Cambridge and Dublin Magazine of Mathematics'; president of Mathematical Association, 1892; ordained, 1866; college lecturer in theology, 1873; edited 'Sayings of the Jewish Fathers in Hebrew and English,' 1877; member of Alpine Club; appointed master of St. John's College and hon. D.D., 1881; vice-chancellor of the University, 1887-9; presented Taylor-Schechter collection of Hebrew MSS. to University library; published volumes on geometrical conics and theological works, including 'The Teaching of the Twelve Apostles,' 1886, and 'The Oxyrhynchus Logia,' 1899.

TAYLOR, CHARLES BELL (1829-1909), ophthalmic surgeon; M.R.C.S., 1862; M.D., Edinburgh, 1864; F.R.C.S. Edinburgh, 1867; settled in Nottingham, 1869; gained European renown as operator for cataract; supported anti-vivisection and anti-vaccination societies, to which he left most of his property.

TAYLOR, HELEN (1831-1907), advocate of women's rights; stepdaughter of John Stuart Mill [q.v.], with whom she lived at Avignon and co-operated in 'The Subjection of Women,' 1869; edited Buckle's works, 1873, Mill's Autobiography, 1873, and Essays, 1874; settled in London on Mill's death (1873), and engaged in social and political life; radical member of London school board, 1876-84; her agitation caused drastic reforms in London industrial schools; she actively opposed Irish coercion policy of liberal government, 1880-6; advocate of land nationalization and taxation of land values; friend of Henry George; helped to found Democratic Federation, 1881; advocated female suffrage; carried on parliamentary election campaign in North Camberwell, although her nomination was subsequently refused, 1886; retired to Avignon, 1886; returned to England, 1904, and died at Torquay; an able public speaker.

TAYLOR, HENRY MARTYN (1842-1927), mathematician; B.A., Trinity College, Cambridge; fellow, 1866; on mathematical staff, 1869-94; mainly interested in geometry in its intuitive aspect; went blind soon after retirement; devoted himself to provision of Braille books on mathematics and natural science, inventing suitable symbols and contrivances; his Embossed Scientific Book Fund taken over by Royal Society; F.R.S., 1898.

TAYLOR, ISAAC (1829-1901), archaeologist and philologist; eldest son of Isaac Taylor (1787-1865, q.v.); B.A., Trinity College, Cambridge (19th wrangler), 1853; M.A., 1857; held livings in London (1856-76) and at Settrington, Yorkshire (1875-1901); canon of York, 1886; wrote sympathetically of Islam in 'Leaves from an Egyptian Note Book,' 1888; philological works include 'Names and Places,' 1884 (enlarged and revised as 'Names and Their Histories,' 1896), and 'The Alphabet,' 2 vols. 1885; other works include 'Memorials of the Taylor Family of Ougar,' 2 vols. 1867, and 'The Origin of the Aryans,' 1869; hon. LL.D., Edinburgh, 1879; D.Litt., Cambridge, 1885; original member of Alpine Club, 1858.

TAYLOR, SIR JOHN (1833-1912), architect; surveyor of royal palaces, public buildings, and royal parks, 1866-98; consulting architect, 1898-1908; K.C.B., 1897; his designs include Bow Street police court and station and bankruptcy buildings; constructed war office (in collaboration).

TAYLOR, JOHN EDWARD (1830-1905), art collector and newspaper proprietor; son of John Edward Taylor [q.v.]; called to bar, 1853; sole proprietor from 1848 of 'Manchester Guardian,' which he converted into a daily in 1856; helped in formation of Press Association, 1868; acquired 'Manchester Evening News,' 1868; early supporter and benefactor of Owens College, Manchester; trustee of Manchester College from 1854 to death; the sale of his art collections (1911) realized some £358,500.

TAYLOR, LOUISA (d. 1903), novelist. [See PARR.]

TAYLOR, WALTER ROSS (1838-1907), Scottish ecclesiastic; educated at Edinburgh University; minister of Kelvinside Free church, Glasgow, from 1868 to death; his moderator he constituted first general assembly of the United Free Church, 1900; active in Free Church crisis of 1904; hon. D.D. Glasgow, 1891; published 'Scottish Church Life in the Nineteenth Century,' 1900.

TEALE, THOMAS PRIDGIN (1831-1923), surgeon; B.A., Brasenose College, Oxford; began practice in Leeds, 1856; surgeon, Leeds General Infirmary, 1864-84; with (Sir) 'R. C. Albutt' [q.v.], pioneer in 'team work' in medicine and surgical treatment of scrofulous neck; favoured operations of lithotomy and ovariectomy; made advances in ophthalmic surgery; pioneer in advocating and practising anaesthesia and antiseptic surgery; stressed importance of sanitation and domestic hygiene; F.R.S., 1888.

TEALL, SIR JETHRO JUSTINIAN HARRIS (1849-1924), geologist; B.A., St. John's College, Cambridge; fellow, 1876-9; published in parts illustrated monograph on 'British Petrography,' 1886-8; joined Geological Survey of Great Britain, 1888; director, 1901-14; fellow of Geological Society, 1873; president, 1900-3; F.R.S., 1890; knighted, 1916; his publications include numerous petrological papers contributed to geological magazines and official memoirs of Geological Survey.

TEARLE, (GEORGE) OSMOND (1852-1901), actor; made debut at Liverpool, 1869; appeared first in 1871 as 'Hamlet,' which he played some 800 times; made first tour in America, 1880; subsequently toured there as Wilfred Denver in 'The Silver King.'

TEMPLE, FREDERICK (1821-1902), archbishop of Canterbury; born at Santa Maura; educated at Blundell's School, Tiverton, and Balliol College, Oxford; graduated double first class in classics and mathematics; friend and contemporary of A. H. Clough, A. P. Stanley, Matthew Arnold, and (Lord) Lingen; lecturer and fellow of Balliol; junior dean, 1845; ordained, 1846; examiner to board of education, 1848-9; principal of Kneller Hall, Twickenham, 1848-55; inspector of men's training colleges, 1856-7; wrote on 'National Education in Oxford Essays,' 1856; headmaster of Rugby School, 1857-69; greatly enlarged the school and modernized the curriculum; member of commission on secondary school education, 1864-8; chairman of governors of Rugby, 1892-1902; provoked unmerited suspicions of his orthodoxy by his essay on 'The Education of the World' in 'Essays and Reviews,' 1860; consecrated, despite strong opposition, bishop of Exeter, 1869; zealous advocate of educational, social, and temperance reform; instrumental in founding secondary schools in Exeter and Plymouth; helped in creation of diocese of Truro, 1876; expressed liberal views in speeches in House of Lords on university tests (1870) and on bill for opening churchyards to nonconformists (1880); Bampton lecturer at Oxford, 1884; bishop of London, 1885-98; mainly instrumental in building Church House, Westminster, 1887; carried through parliament pluralities act amendment bill, 1885; member of royal commission on education, 1888; promoted conciliation scheme in dockers' strike, 1889; archbishop of Canterbury, 1896-1902; made two visitations of his diocese, 1898 and 1902; deprecated use of incense and processional lights and pronounced against the reservation of the sacrament, 1899; hon. LL.D., Cambridge, 1897; hon. freeman of Exeter (1897) and of Tiverton (1900); officiated at Queen Victoria's funeral and King Edward VII's coronation (1901-2); supported M. Balfour's education bill, 1902; ruled temple in character and speech; portrait by Watts at Rugby and by Herkomer at Fulham; monument by Ponroy in St. Paul's Cathedral; memorial speech room at Rugby opened, 1909; chief works were 'Sermons preached in Rugby School Chapel,' 3 series, 1861-71, and 'The Relations between Religion and Science,' Bampton lectures, 1884; Memoirs by seven friends, ed. E. G. Sandford, 2 vols. 1906.

TEMPLE, SIR RICHARD, first baronet (1826-1902), Anglo-Indian administrator; educated at Rugby and Haileybury College; joined East India Company's service, 1847; assistant to John Lawrence [q.v.] in Punjab from 1851; helped James Wilson [q.v.] in inaugurating new financial system, 1856-60; chief commissioner of Central Provinces, 1869-71; organized educational department, long term settlements of land, and freehold tenancies; established municipality at Nagpur, 1864; C.S.I., 1866; K.C.S.I., 1867; financial member of Council, 1868-74; conducted famine campaign in Behar, 1874; lieutenant-governor of Bengal, 1874-7; baronet, 1876; special commissioner for famine relief measures in Southern India; governor of Bombay, 1877-80; G.C.S.I. and C.I.E., 1878; active in dispatch of native troops to Malak (1878) and to Afghanistan (1878-80); improved port of Bombay and extended forest area; returned to England (1880) and devoted himself to literary work and politics; works include 'India in 1880,' 1880, 'Men and Events of My Time,' 1889, lives of John Lord Lawrence, 1889, and James Thomson, 1893; hon. D.C.L., Oxford, 1880; LL.D., Cambridge, 1883; member of London school board, 1884-94; conservative M.P. for Evesham, 1885-92, and for Kingston, Surrey, 1892-5; P.C. and F.R.S., 1896; published 'The Story of My Life,' 1896.

TERNANT, SIR CHARLES, first baronet (1823-1906), merchant and art patron; grandson of Charles Tennant (1768-1838, q.v.), founder of chemical works at St. Rollox, Glasgow; partner in firm, 1840; works absorbed in 1900 in United Alkali Co., of which Tennant became chairman; chairman of Union Bank of Scotland; he acquired portraits by Reynolds, Gainsborough, and Romney; became trustee of National Gallery, 1894; his private art collection housed in Queen Anne's Gate, London; liberal M.P. for Glasgow, 1879-80, and for Peebles and Selkirk, 1880-86; baronet, 1886; member of Mr. Chamberlain's tariff reform commission, 1904.

TENNANT, SIR DAVID (1829-1906), speaker of the house of assembly of the Cape of Good Hope; born at Cape Town; admitted attorney at law of supreme court there, 1849; member of house of assembly for Pieterberg, 1866-96; speaker, 1874-96; knighted, 1877; K.C.M.G., 1892; agent-general for colony in London, 1896-1901.

TENNIEL, SIR JOHN (1820-1914), artist and cartoonist; studied at Academy Schools and Clapham Street Life Academy; joined staff of 'Punch' as second cartoonist, 1850; first cartoonist, 1864-1901; drew over 2,000 cartoons, several volumes of which have been published; his cartoons noted for dignity, humour, and fairness; excelled in drawings of beasts and allegorical figures; illustrated Lewis Carroll's 'Alice's Adventures in Wonderland' (1865) and 'Alice Through the Looking-Glass' (1872); knighted, 1893.

TERRY, DAME (ALICE) ELLEN (1847-1938), actress; made first appearance on stage, 1866; joined Theatre Royal, Bristol, 1862; Haymarket Theatre, 1863; married to G. F. Watts [q.v.], 1864; separated, 1866; returned to stage; acted for first time with (Sir) Henry Irving [q.v.], 1867; lived in retirement with E. W. Godwin [q.v.], 1868-74; returned to stage, 1874; hitherto not happy or successful on stage, but reached turning-point of her career as Portia in 'Merchant of Venice' staged by Sir Squire Bancroft [q.v.] at old Prince of Wales's Theatre, 1875; divorced by Watts and married C. Wardell, 1877; received second great opportunity as 'Olivia' in W. G. Wills's adaptation of 'Vicar of Wakefield' 1878; engaged by Henry Irving to play 'Ophebia' at Lyceum Theatre, 1878; her association with Irving lasted up to 1902; played leading female parts in all Irving's productions up to 1896; her most perfect part Beatrice in 'Much Ado About Nothing'; her 'jubilee' celebrated with great enthusiasm, 1906; married J. Usselman, 1907; latterly played parts of old women; made last appearance on stage, 1925; lectured on Shakespearean subjects; G.B.E., 1925.

THESIGER, FREDERIC AUGUSTUS, second baron CHELMSFORD (1827-1908), general; eldest son of first baron [q.v.]; joined army, 1844; served in Crimea and in Indian Mutiny; deputy adjutant-general in Abyssinian expedition, 1868; C.B. and A.D.C. to Queen Victoria, 1868; adjutant-general in East Indies, 1869-74; commanded troops at Shorncliffe, 1874-6; major-general, 1877; commanded troops in South Africa in Kaffr war, 1878, and in Zulu war, 1879; after disaster at Isandhlwana (22 Jan.) he relieved Col. Pearson's force at Etshowe; marched on to Ulundi and defeated Zulu army under Cetshwayo at Ulundi (July); meanwhilst (June) he had been superseded in command by Sir Garnet (afterwards Viscount) Wolseley [q.v.]; K.C.B., 1878; G.C.B., 1879; lieutenant-general, 1882; G.O.V.C., 1882; lieutenant of Tower of London, 1884; G.O.V.C., 1902.

THIBELLON-DYER, SIR WILLIAM TURNER (1843-1928), botanist; B.A., Christ Church, Oxford; professor of natural history, Royal Agricultural College, Cirencester, 1868; professor of botany, Royal College of Science, Dublin, 1870-2; at Royal Horticultural Society, South Kensington and Chiswick, 1872-5; assistant-director, Royal Botanic Gardens, Kew, 1875; director of Kew Gardens, which he developed in every way, 1886-1906; founded 'Kew Bulletin' for exchange of information among colonial institutions associated with Kew, 1887; made Jodrell laboratory the best botanical laboratory in Europe; F.R.S., 1880; K.C.M.G., 1899; his editorial work includes 'Flora Capensis' (1896-1926), 'Flora of Tropical Africa' (1897-1918), 'Icones Plantarum' (1896-1908).

THOMAS, DAVID ALFRED, VISCOUNT RHONDDA (1856-1916), statesman, colliery proprietor, and financier; became associated with Cambrian collieries in Rhondda Valley, c. 1882; Gladstonian liberal M.P. Merthyr Tydfil, 1888; held seat till 1910; went to United States on business of ministry of munitions, 1915; created baron for his services, 1916; promoted viscount, 1918; president of local government board, 1916; as food minister carried out successful rationing during European war, 1917-18.

THOMAS, GEORGE HOLT (1869-1929), pioneer in aircraft manufacture; newspaper manager up till 1906; thereafter devoted money, energy, and imagination to stimulating public interest in aviation; organized air display at Brooklands, 1909; regular aerodrome laid out there as result; criticized authorities for backward state of British military aviation; national air service instituted, 1911; took up rights of French aircraft pioneer, Henri Farman, and founded Aircraft Manufacturing Company; acquired English rights to manufacture Gnome and Le Rhone engines; produced 'D.H.' series of aeroplanes, invaluable in European war; later took up question of air transport; died at Cimiez, France.

THOMAS, SIR HUGH EVAN- (1862-1928), admiral. [See EVAN-THOMAS.]

THOMAS, PHILIP EDWARD (1878-1917), critic and poet; B.A., Lincoln College, Oxford; works include Richard Jefferies, His Life and Work' (1909), imaginative idylls 'Rest and Unrest' (1910), 'Light and Twilight' (1911), studies of 'Swinburne' (1912), and 'Walter Pater' (1913); 'Collected Poems' published, 1920; killed in action at Arras.

THOMAS, WILLIAM MOY (1828-1910), novelist and journalist; private secretary to Sir Charles Wentworth Dilke [q.v.]; contributed to 'Household Words', 1861-8; re-edited Lord Wharncliffe's 'Letters and Works of Lady Mary Wortley Montagu', 4 vols. 1861; dramatic critic and contributor to 'Daily News', 1868-1901; first editor of 'Casell's Magazine'; published novels and tales.

THOMPSON, DARCY WENTWORTH (1829-1902), Greek scholar; educated at Christ's Hospital, London, and Pembroke College, Cambridge; B.A. (sixth classic), 1852; classical master in Edinburgh Academy (1862-63), where R. L. Stevenson was one of his pupils, 1861-2; professor of Greek in Queen's College, Galway, 1863-1902; gave at Boston Lowell lectures, published in his 'Wayside Thoughts', 1867; his fame rests on 'Day Dreams of a Schoolmaster', 1864.

THOMPSON, EDMUND SYMES- (1837-1906), physician. [See SYMES-THOMPSON.]

THOMPSON, SIR EDWARD MAUNDE (1840-1929), palaeographer and director of the British Museum; born in Jamaica; entered British Museum, 1861; engaged on preparation of 'Class Catalogue' of manuscripts; assistant keeper, department of manuscripts, 1871; engaged on cataloguing of recent manuscript accessions; joined (Sir) E. A. Bond [q.v.] in founding Palaeographical Society, 1873; keeper, 1878; principal librarian (to which title of director prefixed, 1898), 1888; a masterful administrator who promoted cataloguing, developed education, and popular side of Museum, and encouraged excavations abroad; retired, 1909; took active part in founding British Academy and was an original fellow; K.C.B., 1896; his publications include 'Handbook of Greek and Latin Palaeography' (1893, enlarged 1912) and editions of chronicles and other documents, notably 'Chronicon Galfridi Le Baker de Wynebroke, 1303-1366' (1890).

THOMPSON, FRANCIS (1859-1907), poet and prose writer; educated at Ushaw College; studied medicine without success at Owens College, Manchester, 1876-83; made helpless efforts to earn a livelihood, 1883-8; settled in London, 1885; fell a prey to opium and became a street waiter; contributed poems and prose essays to 'Merry England' from 1888; published first volume of 'Poems', 1893, which included 'The Hound of Heaven'; 'Sister Songs' followed in 1895, and 'New Poems' in 1897; he contributed literary criticism to 'Academy' and 'Athenaeum'; his prose work includes 'Health and Holiness', 1906, and 'Essay on Shelley', 1909; died of consumption; 'Life' by Eversard Mervell.

THOMPSON, SIR HENRY, first baronet (1830-1904), surgeon; studied medicine at University College London; M.B., 1851; F.R.C.S., 1853. Hunterian professor of surgery and pathology, 1882; surgeon, 1863, professor of clinical surgery (1866) and emeritus professor (1874) at University College Hospital; made successful removal of stone in the bladder by lithotomy; operated on King Leopold I, 1862, and Napoleon III, 1878; helped to found the first cremation society in London, 1874, and to form company which erected Golder's Green crematorium, 1903; keen astronomer; presented large photographic telescope to Greenwich observatory; exhibited paintings at Royal Academy from 1865 to 1885; collected old white and blue Nanking china; frequently entertained men famous in all branches of society; knighted, 1867; baronet, 1899; portrait by Millais in National Portrait Gallery; works include 'Stricture of the Urethra', 1854, 'Practical Lithotomy and Lithotripsy', 1863, 'Cremation', 1874, 'Food and Feeding', 1890, and novels; a collected edition of his surgical works appeared at Paris in 1880.

THOMPSON, HENRY YATES (1838-1928), book-collector; B.A., Trinity College, Cambridge; travelled widely in Europe, Asia, etc., 1862-75; formed famous collection of one hundred illuminated manuscripts, partly dispersed at three sales, 1919, 1920, and 1921; his beneficiaries include Liverpool, Harrow, and Newnham Colleges, Cambridge.

THOMPSON, LYDIA (1836-1908), actress; made début in ballet at Her Majesty's Theatre, London, 1859; acted in burlesque in provinces, 1864-5; appeared at Drury Lane, 1865, and Prince of Wales's Theatre, 1866; toured in America, Australia, and India, 1868-74; at New York began association with Willie Edouin [q.v.], 1870-1; reappeared in London in Farnie's burlesque of Blue Beard, 1874; thrice revisited New York; opened the Strand Theatre, London, Sept. 1886, with 'The Sultan of Mochna'.

THOMPSON, SILVANUS PHILLIPS (1851-1916), physicist; B.A., London University; principal and professor of applied physics and electrical engineering of City and Guilds Technical College, Finsbury, 1885-1916; F.R.S., 1891; published works on electricity and magnetism, and lives of famous scientists.

THOMPSON, WILLIAM MARCUS (1857-1907), journalist; joined staff of London 'Standard', 1877; parliamentary reporter, 1884-90; developed radical and Irish nationalist principles; called to bar, 1880; defended professionally trade unions and political offenders, including John Burns for share in Trafalgar Square riots, 1886-8; editor of 'Reynolds's Newspaper', 1894-1907; radical member of London county council for West Newington, 1896-8.

THOMSON, CHRISTOPHER BIRDWOOD, BARON THOMSON, of Cardington (1875-1930), soldier and politician; born at Nasik, India; nephew of Sir G. C. M. Birdwood [q.v.] and H. M. Birdwood [q.v.]; entered royal engineers, 1894; served in South African war, 1899-1902; served under Sir H. H. Wilson [q.v.], director of military operations, war office, 1911; military attaché, Bucharest, 1915-17; served in Palestine, 1917-19; left army, 1919; unsuccessfully attempted to enter parliament as socialist, 1919-23; secretary of state for air in first labour government and created baron, 1924; largely responsible for government's decision on three years' scheme of air development, including construction of two airships, R. 100 and R. 101; returned to air ministry on formation of second labour government, 1929; perished in R. 101 disaster near Beauvais, France.

THOMSON, HUGH (1860-1920), illustrator and pen-and-ink draughtsman; executed illustrations for 'English Illustrated Magazine', Macmillan's 'Highways and Byways' county series, works by Goldsmith, Miss Mitford, Mrs. Gaskell, Jane Austen, Fanny Burney, Thackeray, George Eliot, Austin Dobson, Charles Reade, Shakespeare, Sheridan, Barrie, Thomas Hughes, Hawthorne, &c.

THOMSON, JOCELYN HOME (1859-1908), chief inspector of explosives; son of William Thomson (1819-90, q.v.); observed transit of Venus in Barbados, 1882; secretary to war office explosives committee, 1888; suggested name of 'cordite' for smokeless powder; chief inspector of explosives, 1899-1908; published works on petroleum lamps.

THOMSON, JOHN (1856-1926), physician and writer on children's diseases; M.D. Edinburgh University; physician, New Town Dispensary, Edinburgh; established clinic for diseases of children; extra physician, Royal Hospital for Sick Children, Edinburgh, 1889-1918.

THOMSON, WILLIAM, BARON KELVIN, of Largs (1824-1907), scientist and inventor; born at Belfast; was second son of James Thomson (1786-1849, q.v.), professor of mathematics in the Royal Institution there; removed with family to Glasgow in 1833, when his father became professor of mathematics there; matriculated at Glasgow University, 1834; early made his mark in mathematics and physical science; studied writings of Lagrange, Laplace, and Fourier; entered Peterhouse, Cambridge, 1841; won Colquhoun silver sculls, 1844; helped to found Cambridge University Musical Society; senior wrangler and first Smith's prize-man, Jan. 1845; visited Faraday's laboratory at Royal Institution, London, and Regnault's laboratory at Paris University; fellow of Peterhouse, Oct. 1845-52; professor of natural philosophy in Glasgow, 1846-59; gathered round him at Glasgow band of enthusiastic students of mathematical physics; devoted himself to developing the new doctrine propounded by Sadi Carnot in 1824 and by James Prescott Joule [q.v.] in 1847 that work and heat were convertible; formulated between 1851 and 1854 in communication made to Royal Society of Edinburgh the two great laws of thermodynamics—of equivalence and of transformation; subsequently rounded off his thermodynamic work by enunciating the doctrine of available energy; F.R.S., 1861; married in 1852 his second cousin Margaret (d. 1870), daughter of Walter Crum, F.R.S.; made while staying at Creuznach in 1855 the acquaintance of Helmholtz, who became a close friend; throughout life sought to utilize science for practical ends; by means of mathematical analysis evolved theory of electric oscillations, which forms the basis of wireless telegraphy, 1853; experimented on electric telegraph cables, 1864, propounding the 'law of squares'; became director of the Atlantic telegraph company, 1866; invented the mirror galvanometer; served as electrician on the 'Agamemnon' which laid the cable across the Atlantic, 1858; the experiment was ruined by a colleague's neglect of Thomson's counsels; Thomson triumphantly redeemed the defeat by superintending the laying of a new cable, 1866; knighted for these services, 1866; president of Society of Telegraph Engineers, 1874; president of mathematical and physical section of British Association at Glasgow, 1876; meanwhile studied atmospheric electricity, and improved the system of electrical measurement and the adoption of rational units; suggested the formation of commission of electrical standards of British Association; advocated the metric system; worked at mathematical theory of magnetism; joined with Peter Guthrie Tait [q.v.] in a 'Treatise on Natural Philosophy', vol. 1, pt. 1, 1867, pt. II, 1874; made important contributions to the theory of elasticity in a paper on 'Vortex Atoms', Edinburgh, 1867; undertook important researches into gyrostatic problems; married secondly Frances Anna Blandy, 1874; built mansion at Netherhall near Largs; navigated sailing yacht the 'Lalla Rookh' on the Clyde; reformed the mariner's compass, 1873-8; devised apparatus for taking flying soundings, 1878; invented a tide-predicting machine; studied the propagation of wave motion; president of British Association at Edinburgh, 1871; president of physical and mathematical section at York, 1881, when he showed the possibility of utilizing the power of Niagara in generating electricity; interested himself in electric lighting; was founder of firm Kelvin & White, Ltd., Glasgow, for manufacture of his inventions; always fond of illustrating recalcitrant scientific notions by ingenious models; Copley medallist of Royal Society, 1883; delivered at Baltimore in 1884 twenty lectures on 'Molecular Dynamics and the Wave Theory of Light' (published 1904); president of the Royal Society, 1890-4; raised to peerage, 1892; celebrated jubilee of Glasgow professorship, June 1896; received O.M. and made P.C., 1902; chancellor of Glasgow University, 1904; buried in Westminster Abbey, 23 Dec. 1907; an ardent unionist in politics; he cherished through life a strong religious faith; status unveiled in Belfast, 1913; his mathematical and physical papers edited by Sir Joseph Larmor, 5 vols. 1882-1911; 'Life' by Prof. Silvanus P. Thompson, 2 vols. 1910.

THOMSON, SIR WILLIAM (1843-1909), surgeon; B.A., Queen's College, Galway, 1867; M.D. and M.Ch., Queen's University, Dublin, 1872; hon. M.A., 1881; F.R.C.S. Ireland, 1874; president, 1896-8; visiting surgeon to Richmond Hospital, Dublin, from 1873 to death; first general secretary of Royal Academy of Medicine in Ireland, 1882; knighted, 1897; established field hospital in Pretoria in South African war, 1900; C.B., 1901; published report on poor law medical service of Ireland, 1891, and surgical works.

THORNTON, SIR EDWARD (1817-1906), diplomatist; son of Sir Edward Thornton [q.v.]; B.A., Pembroke College, Cambridge, 1840; M.A., 1877; held diplomatic posts in Mexico, 1845-54, at Monte Video, 1854-9, and Buenos Ayres, 1859-63; C.B., 1863; British envoy at Rio de Janeiro, 1865-7; at Washington, 1867-81; helped to settle questions of boundary and fishing disputes between Canada and United States; K.C.B., 1870; P.O.,

1871; arbitrator in disputes of United States with Brazil, 1870, and Mexico, 1873-8; British ambassador at St. Petersburg, 1881-4; arranged for delimitation of northern frontier of Afghanistan by joint commission of Russians and British, 1884; G.O.B., 1885; meanwhile appointed ambassador to Constantinople, 1884, but the post was temporarily filled by Sir William White (1824-91, q. v.), 1884-8; Thornton resigned, and retired to England, 1886; hon. D.O.L. Oxford; LL.D. Harvard.

THORNYCROFT, SIR JOHN ISAAC (1843-1928), naval architect; born in Rome; son of Thomas Thornycroft [q. v.]; and brother of Sir W. H. Thornycroft [q. v.]; studied engineering at Glasgow University; assisted father to establish shipyard at Chiswick, 1866; built first recorded small high-speed boat, 1871; constructed first torpedo boat, for Norwegian government, 1873; built first torpedo boat for English navy, 1877; constructed many torpedo boats and later torpedo-boat destroyers; introduced improvements in hull form, propeller design, and boilers; during European war constructed coastal motor-boats known as 'scooters', which proved invaluable, especially in attacks on Zebrugge and Ostend; F.R.S., 1893; knighted, 1902; a pioneer in naval architecture.

THORNYCROFT, SIR (WILLIAM) HAMO (1850-1926), sculptor; son of Thomas Thornycroft [q. v.]; brother of Sir J. I. Thornycroft [q. v.]; studied sculpture under father and at Royal Academy schools; R.A., 1888; knighted, 1917; his best-known works include 'Artemis' (1880), 'Teucer' (1881), 'The Mower' (1884), 'A Sower' (1888), statues of General Gordon (1888) and Oliver Cromwell (1899) in London, and of King Alfred (1901) at Winchester.

THORPE, SIR THOMAS EDWARD (1846-1925), chemist; educated at Owens College, Manchester, and Heidelberg; professor of chemistry, Andersonian College, Glasgow, 1870; Yorkshire College of Science, Leeds, 1874; Royal College of Science, South Kensington, 1885-94, 1900-12; government chemist, 1894-1909; chiefly investigated in field of inorganic chemistry; F.R.S., 1876; knighted, 1909; his works include 'Dictionary of Applied Chemistry' (1893).

THRING, GODFREY (1823-1903), hymnologist; B.A., Balliol College, Oxford, 1845; rector of Alford, 1858-93; prebendary of Wells, 1876; published volumes of hymns, which included 'The radiant morn' and 'Pierce raged the tempest.'

THRING, HENRY, BARON THRING (1818-1907), parliamentary draftsman; brother of Godfrey Thring [q. v.]; educated at Shrewsbury and Magdalene College, Cambridge; third classic, 1841; fellow; called to bar, 1845; made study of statute law; framed colonial bill for Sir William Molesworth [q. v.], 1850, which drew attention to its draftsman; drafted Gladstone's Succession Act of 1853; recast merchant shipping law in drawing the Merchant Shipping Act of 1854; drafted series of bills, culminating in Companies Act of 1862; home office counsel, 1860; drafted for Lord Derby's government the 'ten minutes' bill, which became law as 'Representation of the People Act,' 1867; was made parliamentary counsel to the treasury in 1869 on the creation of the office by Robert Lowe for the drafting of government bills; among measures which he prepared were Irish Church Act, 1869, Irish Land Act, 1871, Army Act, 1871, and Home rule bill, 1886; he greatly improved style of drafting; explained methods in his 'Practical Legislation,' 1902; member (1868) and subsequently chairman of statute law committee, which indexed, expurgated, republished, and consolidated existing statutes; initiated publication of state trials from 1820 to 1858; K.O.B., 1873; raised to peerage, 1886; superintended compilation of first edition of war office 'Manual of Military Law.'

THRUPP, GEORGE ATHELSTANE (1822-1905), author of 'History of the Art of Coach-building,' 1877; entered father's coach business; head of firm, 1866; had high reputation in England and on Continent; master of Coachmakers' Company, 1883.

THULLIER, SIR HENRY EDWARD LANDOR (1813-1906), surveyor-general of India; joined Bengal artillery, 1832; deputy surveyor-general and superintendent of revenue surveys from 1847; prepared first postage stamps used in India, 1854; joint author of 'The Manual of Surveying in India,' 1851; surveyor-general, 1861-78; transferred preparation of atlas of India from England to Calcutta; F.R.S., 1868; C.S.I., 1870; knighted, 1879; general, 1881; colonel commandant of royal artillery, 1888.

THURSFIELD, SIR JAMES (1840-1933), naval historian and journalist; B.A., Corpus Christi College, Oxford; fellow of Jesus College, 1864-81; 'The Times' leader-writer, 1881; devoted himself to study of naval policy and history; knighted, 1920; his works include 'Peel' (1891), 'Nelson and other Naval Studies' (1909).

THURSTON, KATHERINE OEOIL (1875-1911), novelist; acquired fame by her 'John Chilcote, M.P.', 1904; other works were 'The Gambler,' 1906, and 'Max,' 1908.

TINSLEY, WILLIAM (1881-1909), publisher; joined brother Edward in publishing business in London, 1884; published novels by G. A. Sala and Miss Braddon, 1861-3; started 'Tinsley's Magazine,' 1868; for a time chief producer of works by leading novelists; failed in business, 1878; wrote 'Random Recollections,' 2 vols. 1900.

TINWORTH, GEORGE (1843-1913), modeller; member of Messrs. Doulton's pottery works, Lambeth, 1867-1913; executed reliefs (chiefly of scenes from Biblical history), including part of York Minster reredos, and statues.

TIZARD, THOMAS HENRY (1839-1924), oceanographer, hydrographic surveyor, and navigator; entered royal navy, 1864; served on H.M. surveying vessel 'Rifleman' on China station, 1860-7; appointed to 'Challenger,' 1872-8; as navigating officer, in close collaboration with (Sir) G. S. Nares and scientific staff of expedition; in charge of home survey, 1880-9; assistant hydrographer of navy and F.R.S., 1891; C.B., 1899.

TODD, SIR CHARLES (1826-1910), government astronomer and postmaster-general of South Australia; assistant at Greenwich (1841-7) and Cambridge University (1848-54) observatories; pioneer in astronomical photography; director of colonial observatory at Adelaide, 1855-1906; organized extensive meteorological service; inaugurated intercolonial telegraphic system between Adelaide and Melbourne, 1858; system extended to Sydney, 1858, and Brisbane, 1861; amalgamated telegraph and postal systems of South Australia, 1869; postmaster-general, 1870-1906; supervised construction of internal telegraph line across continent, and established communication between Adelaide and England via Port Darwin and Singapore, 1872; C.M.G., 1872; K.O.M.G., 1893; F.R.S., 1889; hon. M.A. Cambridge, 1886; died at Adelaide.

TOMSON, ARTHUR (1859-1905), landscape painter; studied art at Dusseldorf; painted poetic landscapes of Sussex and Dorset; exhibited at Royal Academy, 1883-92; wrote 'Jean-Francois Millet and the Barbizon School,' 1903.

TOOLE, JOHN LAWRENCE (1830-1906), actor and theatrical manager; son of James Toole, City toast-master commemorated by Dickens and Thackeray; at first a clerk in London; after some amateur performances, he made professional debut as comedian in Dublin, 1852, where he played the role of 'Paul Fry' for first time; appeared at Edinburgh as the 'Artful Dodger' in 'Oliver Twist,' 1854; first acted in London at St. James's Theatre, 1854; played there Weazle in 'My Friend the Major,' 1854; presented Bottom in 'Midsummer Night's Dream' at Edinburgh, 1855; toured annually in the provinces from 1857; met Henry Irving at Edinburgh, 1857; appeared as Tom Cranky in 'The Birthplace of Fodgers' at Lyceum, 1858; played at New Adelphi from 1858 to 1867; the original Spriggins in 'Ici on parle Français'; other popular roles were Bob Cratchit in 'The Christmas Carol,' 1859, Oaleb Plummer—a histrionic masterpiece—in 'Boucault's' 'Dot,' 1862, and Mr. Tetterby in 'The Haunted Man,' 1863; he was praised by Dickens for his rendering of 'Stephen Digges,' 1864; toured with Irving, 1866; created Michael Garner in 'Dearest than Life' at Liverpool, 1867; began long association with the Gaiety under John Hollingshead, 1869; successful as 'Buzfus' in 'Bardell v. Pickwick,' 1871, as 'Thespia' in Gilbert and Sullivan's first extravaganza, 1871, as 'Ali Baba,' 1872, and as Bob Acres, 1874; paid his only visit to America, 1874, where he met with lukewarm reception; created Charles Liquorpond in Byron's 'A Fool and his Money,' 1878; leased (1879-95) the Folly Theatre (called 'Toole's,' 1882). Producing farcical comedies and burlesques by a permanent stock company; staged several travesties by Burnand of popular plays, caricaturing Wilson Barrett and Irving; obtained success in Merivale's 'The Butler,' 1886, and 'The Don,' 1888; was warmly welcomed in Australia, 1890-1; appeared as Ibsen in J. M. Barrie's 'Ibsen's Ghost,' 1891, and as Jasper Phipps in Barrie's 'Walker,' London, 1892; his 'Reminiscences,' compiled by Joseph Hatton, appeared in 1889. Successful in eccentric drollery, with propensity to gagging, Toole was the last low comedian of the old school. A portrait by the Hon. John Collier is at Garrick Club.

TORRANCE, GEORGE WILLIAM (1835-1907), musician and divine; chorister and organist at Dublin, 1847-54; composed oratorios 'Abraham', 1854, and 'The Captivity', 1864, and secular music; B.A., Trinity College, Dublin, 1864; M.A., 1867; hon. Mus.D., 1879; ordained, 1865; served curacies and incumbencies in Australia, 1870-97; returned to Ireland, 1897; canon of St. Canice's Cathedral, Kilkenny, 1900.

TOUT, THOMAS FREDERICK (1856-1929), historian and teacher; B.A., Balliol College, Oxford; pupil of William Stubbs [q.v.]; professor of modern history, St. David's College, Lampeter, 1881-80; of medieval and modern history, Victoria University of Manchester, 1890-1925; took prominent part in securing severance (1903) of Manchester University from older federal body, in building up faculty of arts, establishing un denominational faculty of theology, and founding Manchester University settlement and press; developed history school, in his last years devoting himself especially to organization of post-graduate school; his works include numerous successful text-books, vol. III (1216-1377) of Longman's 'Political History of England' (1905), 'State Trials of the Reign of Edward I, 1289-1293' (with Miss Elida Johnstone, 1906); after 1908 devoted himself to study of administrative history, his work on which constitutes his peculiar contribution to medieval history; this work embodied in two books, 'The Place of the Reign of Edward II in English History' (1914) and 'Chapters in the Administrative History of Medieval England' (6 vols. 1920-31); F.B.A., 1911.

TOWNSEND, MEREDITH WHITE (1831-1911), editor of the 'Spectator'; educated at Ipswich grammar school; went to India (1848) to assist John Clark Marshman [q.v.] in editing the 'Friend of India' at Serampore; editor, 1852; proprietor, 1853; exerted great influence on Indian policy; gave valuable support to Lords Dalhousie and Canning; returned to England through ill-health, 1859; bought 'Spectator', 1860, and took into partnership Richard Holt Hutton [q.v.]; supported the north in the American civil war; wrote chiefly on foreign politics and on India; resigned editorship to J. St. Joe Strachey [q.v.], 1898; contributed also for many years political articles in the 'Economist'; collaborated with J. L. Sanford [q.v.] in 'The Great Governing Families of England', 2 vols. 1885; republished articles from reviews in 'Asia and Europe', 1901.

TOWNSEND, SIR CHARLES VIRE FRERERS (1861-1924), major-general; gazetted to royal marine light infantry, 1881; served in Sudan expedition, 1884-5; transferred to Indian army, 1886; served in Hunza-Nagar expedition, 1891-2; commanded garrison of Chitral fort with great skill and judgement, 1895; transferred to Egyptian army, 1896; present at battles of Atbara and Khartoum, 1898; served in South African War, 1900; his abilities being regarded as unbalanced, passed through lean years, including periods of service in India and South Africa; major-general, 1911; commanded Rawal Pindi brigade, 1913; commanded sixth (Indian) division, one of two divisions operating in Mesopotamia under command of Sir J. E. Nixon [q.v.], 1915; drove Turks from Kurna on Tigris and pursued them to Amara, where bulk of forces surrendered; defeated Turks and captured Kut el Amara, Sept.; after failing to capture Bagdad, retreated to and finally surrendered Kut, 1916; interned near Constantinople, 1916-18; K.C.B., 1917; independent conservative M.P., Wrekin division of Shropshire, 1920-2; died in Paris.

TRACEY, SIR RICHARD EDWARD (1837-1907), admiral; entered navy, 1852; served in Baltic campaign, 1854, and in East Indies and China station, 1862; on active service in Japan, 1863-4; organized Japanese naval school at Tsukiji, 1867-8; did similar service for Chinese navy; second in command of Channel squadron, 1889-92; admiral superintendent at Malta, 1893; president of Royal Naval College at Greenwich, 1897-1900; K.O.B. and admiral, 1898.

TRAFFORD, F. G. (pseudonym) (1832-1906), novelist. [See RIDDELL, CHARLOTTE ELIZA LAWSON.]

TRAILL, ANTHONY (1838-1914), provost of Trinity College, Dublin; B.A., Trinity College, Dublin; fellow, 1868-1904; provost, 1904-14; successfully resisted (Viscount) Bryce's scheme to amalgamate Trinity with colleges of Royal University of Ireland, 1906; took principal share in effecting internal constitutional reform of college; keen unionist of Ulster type; gave lifelong devotion to Irish Church.

TRAILL-BURROUGHS, SIR FREDERICK WILLIAM (1831-1905), lieutenant-general. [See BURROUGHS.]

TREE, SIR HERBERT BEERBOHM (1853-1917), actor-manager, whose original name was HERBERT BEERBOHM; began professional acting career, 1879; appeared in over fifty plays between 1880 and 1887, most conspicuous successes being Prince Borowsky in Sydney Grundy's 'Glass of Fashion' (1883) and Rev. Robert Spalding in 'The Private Secretary' (1884); lessee and manager of Haymarket Theatre, London, 1887-97; produced and acted in over thirty plays, including plays by Ibsen, Wilde, Maeterlinck, and Shakespeare; parts taken include Iago, Hamlet, and Falstaff; opened Her Majesty's Theatre, 1897; devoted himself increasingly to over-elaborate productions of Shakespeare; gave celebrated performance of Mark Antony in forum scene of 'Julius Caesar'; staged Stephen Phillips' plays, appearing as Herod, Ulysses, and Nero; extraordinarily versatile actor; knighted, 1909; Memoir, 1920.

TRELOAR, SIR WILLIAM PURDIE, baronet (1843-1923), carpet manufacturer and philanthropist; entered father's mat manufactory, 1858; eventually became manager; alderman of ward of Farringdon Without, 1892; sheriff, 1899-1900; lord mayor of London, 1906; as result of appeal for cripples' home, Lord Mayor Teloar Cripples' Hospital and College, Alton, Hampshire, founded, 1908; knighted, 1900; baronet, 1907.

TRENUCH, FREDERICK HERBERT (1865-1923), poet and playwright; B.A., Keble College, Oxford; in service of board of education, 1891-1909; 'artistic director', Haymarket Theatre, 1909-11; his works include 'Deirdre Wed and other Poems' (1901), 'New Poems' (containing 'Apollo and the Seaman', 1907), 'Ode from Italy in time of War' (1915), 'Napoleon' (a four-act play, 1919); died at Boulogne-sur-Mer.

TREVELLYAN, SIR GEORGE OTTO, second baronet (1838-1928), historian, man of letters, and statesman; son of Sir O. E. Trevelyan, first baronet [q.v.], and nephew of Lord Macaulay [q.v.]; educated at Harrow and Trinity College, Cambridge; went out to India as private secretary to his father, financial member of governor-general's council, 1863; influenced by new liberal movement of 'sixties and enthusiastic for cause of Italian freedom; M.P., Plymouth, 1865-8; supporter of army reform, particularly of abolition of purchase system; M.P., Boder (Hawick) Burghs, 1868-86; civil lord of admiralty, 1888-70; in opposition, advocated extension of working-class franchise to county divisions; parliamentary secretary to admiralty, 1881; chief secretary for Ireland, 1889-4; entered cabinet as chancellor of duchy of Lancaster, 1884; secretary for Scotland, 1886; introduced Crofters' Bill, 1886; resigned on home rule question, 1886; accepted home rule and M.F., Bridgeton division of Glasgow, 1887; secretary for Scotland, 1892-5; retired from politics, 1897; O.M., 1911; his works include 'Life and Letters of Lord Macaulay' (1876), 'The Early History of Charles James Fox' (1880), and a history of the American Revolution in six volumes, 1899-1914.

TREVES, SIR FREDERICK, baronet (1853-1923), surgeon; studied medicine at London Hospital, 1871-5; assistant surgeon, London Hospital, 1879; full surgeon, 1884; 'demonstrator' of anatomy in medical school attached to London Hospital; built up reputation as a demonstrator and a leading surgeon; Hunterian professor of anatomy, Royal College of Surgeons, 1885; applied himself to new field of abdominal surgery; advocated operative treatment of appendicitis; surgeon-extraordinary to Queen Victoria, 1900; acquired world fame by his operation for appendicitis on King Edward VII, 1902; sergeant-surgeon to King Edward, 1902; to King George V, 1910; K.C.V.O., 1901; baronet, 1902; his works include surgical text-books, 'The Pathology, Diagnosis and Treatment of Obstruction of the Intestine' (1884), and books of travel and reminiscence; died at Vevey.

TREVOY, WILLIAM SPOTTISWOODE (1831-1907), major-general royal (Bengal) engineers; born in India; joined Bengal engineers, 1849; served in Burmese war, 1852-3 and in Mutiny, 1857; garrison engineer at Fort William, Calcutta, 1861; completed the Ganges and Darjeeling road, 1862; field engineer of Butean field force, 1865; awarded V.O. for gallantry at Dewan-Gird, Feb. 1865; chief engineer of British Burma, 1875-80; secretary to Indian government in public works department, 1882-7; retired as major-general, 1887.

TRISTRAM, HENRY BAKER (1823-1906), divine and naturalist; B.A., Lincoln College, Oxford, 1844; M.A., 1846; frequently visited Palestine and Egypt; hon. LL.D. Edinburgh, and F.R.S., 1868; canon residentiary of Durham from 1874 to death; travelled in Japan, China, and North-West America, 1891; works include 'The Natural History of the Bible', 1867, 'The Topography of the Holy Land', 1872, and 'The Fauna and Flora of Palestine', 1884; ornithological collection passed to Liverpool public museum.

TROUBLEDOME, SIR ERNEST CHARLES THOMAS (1862-1926), admiral; son of Sir T. St. V. H. O. Troubridge, third baronet [q.v.]; entered royal navy, 1876; as naval attaché at Tokio, witnessed battle of Chemulpo (Russo-Japanese war, 1904) and furnished British admiralty with valuable reports; private secretary to first lord of admiralty, 1910; rear-admiral, 1911; chief of Naval War Staff, 1912; commanded cruiser squadron, Mediterranean fleet, 1918; commended before court-martial for failure to intercept German cruisers 'Goeben' and 'Breslau' in Mediterranean, 1914; organised evacuation of Serbian army and refugees, 1915-16; served Serbian government, 1916-19; vice-admiral, 1916; admiral, 1919; K.C.M.G., 1919; died at Biarritz.

TRUMAN, EDWIN THOMAS (1818-1906), dentist and inventor; educated King's College Hospital; dentist to royal household from 1856 till death; M.R.C.S., 1859; invented improved method of preparing gutta-percha to protect the Atlantic cable, 1860; established gutta-percha factory at Vauxhall, 1860; invented gutta-percha stoppings for dental work; made large collection of George Cruikshank's work; wrote on dentistry.

TUCKER, ALFRED ROBERT (1849-1914), missionary bishop of Uganda; B.A., Christ Church, Oxford; ordained, 1882; bishop of Eastern Equatorial Africa, 1890; on division of diocese (1899) became bishop of Uganda; retired, 1911; organised church built up by Church Missionary Society; canon of Durham, 1911-14.

TUCKER, HENRY WILLIAM (1830-1902), secretary of the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel; B.A., Magdalen Hall, Oxford, 1854; M.A., 1859; assistant secretary to S.P.G. 1865-79; secretary 1879-1901; prebendary of St. Paul's, 1881; promoter colonial and missionary work of the society; died at Florence.

TUKE, HENRY SCOTT (1858-1939), painter; son of D. H. Tuke [q.v.]; entered Slade School of Art, 1878; studied painting in Italy and France; settled in Cornwall; chiefly painted studies of nude youths in sunlit atmosphere against background of sea or shore; one of the earliest and finest of these, 'August Blue' (1894), now in Tate Gallery; R.A., 1914; a highly individual painter.

TUPPER, SIR CHARLES, first baronet (1821-1915), Canadian statesman; born in Nova Scotia; medical practitioner; entered Nova Scotia legislative assembly as conservative member for Cumberland county, 1856; animated his party; premier, 1863; procured free education for Nova Scotia; strong advocate of Canadian federation; formed close alliance with Sir John A. Macdonald [q.v.], 1864; entered federal cabinet, 1870; committed conservatives to 'national policy' of protection while in opposition, 1873-8; first minister of railways and canals, 1879-84; largely responsible for completion of Canadian Pacific Railway; K.C.M.G., 1879; Canadian high commissioner in London, 1884-96; baronet, 1888; prime minister of Canada, April-June 1896; P.C. 1903.

TUPPER, SIR CHARLES LEWIS (1848-1910), Anglo-India official; educated at Harrow and Corpus Christi College, Oxford; B.A., 1870; joined Indian civil service, 1871; secretary to Punjab government, 1882-90; chief secretary from 1890; financial commission, 1899; O.S.I., 1897; K.C.I.E., 1903; helped to create Punjab University, 1897; vice-chancellor, 1900-1; compiled 'The Customary Law of the Punjab', 3 vols. 1880, and 'Our Indian Protectorate', 1893.

TURNER, CHARLES EDWARD (1831-1903), Russian scholar; educated at St. Paul's School and Lincoln College, Oxford; went to Russia, 1859; lecturer of the English language in St. Petersburg University, 1864-1903; works include 'Studies in Russian Literature', 1882, 'The Modern Novelists of Russia', 1890, and English handbooks for Russian students.

TURNER, CUTHBERT HAMILTON (1860-1930), ecclesiastical historian and New Testament scholar; educated at Winchester and New College, Oxford; theological lecturer, St. John's College, 1886; assistant-lecturer to William Bright [q.v.], regius professor of ecclesiastical history, Oxford, 1888; fellow of Magdalen College, 1889-1930; Dean Ireland's professor of exegesis, 1930-30; concentrated primarily upon study of textual material of early Western canon law; his main vocation as a scholar consisted in editing successive 'fasciculi' of his great work, 'Ecclesiae Occidentalis Monumenta Juris Antiquissima' (1899-1930); his minor works include an important article on 'Chronology of the New Testament' in vol. I of Hastings's 'Dictionary of the Bible' (1898), 'Studies in Early Church History' (1912), 'Early Worcester MSS.' (1916), an edition of the 'Novum Testamentum S. Irenaei' (1923), 'Early Printed Editions of the Greek New Testament' (1924), an article on St. Mark's Gospel in the 'New Commentary on Holy Scripture' (1928), and 'Notes on Marcan Usage' in 'Journal of Theological Studies', vols. xxv-xxix; travelled extensively in pursuit of learning, and came in contact with many eminent scholars with whom he maintained a constant correspondence.

TURNER, HERBERT HALL (1861-1930), astronomer; B.A., Trinity College, Cambridge; chief assistant, Royal Observatory, Greenwich, 1884-93; Savilian professor of astronomy, Oxford, and fellow of New College, 1893-1930; F.R.S., 1896; convinced advocate of use of photography in astronomy; at Greenwich and Oxford threw himself into international scheme for an astrophotographic chart and catalogue; took up study of seismology and variable stars; died at Stockholm.

TURNER, JAMES SMITH (1832-1904), dentist; M.R.C.S. and L.D.S., 1863; dental surgeon and lecturer at Middlesex Hospital from 1864; lecturer on dental surgery mechanics at Royal Dental Hospital, 1871-80; instrumental in the passing of the Dentists Act, 1878; helped to found British Dental Association, 1879; president of Odontological Society, 1884.

TURNER, SIR WILLIAM (1832-1916), anatomist, teacher, and academic administrator; studied at St. Bartholomew's Hospital, London, under Sir James Paget [q.v.]; M.B., London University; senior demonstrator in department of anatomy, Edinburgh University, as private assistant to John Goodsir [q.v.], professor of anatomy, 1854; contended successfully against difficulties due to unofficial character of position and his English birth; succeeded Goodsir, 1867; established reputation as eminent teacher and held chair till 1903; took active part in administrative and legislative work of university; member of royal commission appointed to consider question of improvement of conditions to be imposed as qualification for practice of medical profession, 1881; opposed proposal to create central examining board with exclusive power of conferring licence to practise and advocated university's privilege of conferring licence through its degree; his views, expressed in minority report, embodied in Act of 1886; knighted, 1886; principal of Edinburgh University, 1903-1916; first Englishman and first occupant of medical chair to become head of Scottish university; his period of office saw notable expansion in university activities.

TURPIN, EDMUND HART (1835-1907), organist and composer; organist in London from 1860 to death; hon. secretary of Royal College of Organists from 1875; hon. Mus.Doc. Lambeth, 1889; warden of Trinity College of Music, 1892; edited 'Musical Standard', 1880-6, 1889-90; composed oratorios, church music, pianoforte and organ music; 'Life' by G. W. Pearce, 1911.

TWEEKMOUTH, second BARON (1849-1909), politician. [See MARJORIBANKS, EDWARD.]

TYABJI, BADRUDDIN (1844-1908), Indian judge and reformer; born at Bombay; educated at Bombay and in England; first Indian called to English bar (by Middle Temple), 1867; member of Bombay legislative council, 1882-4; president of third Indian National Congress, 1887; ardent advocate of higher education of Indian women; first Indian Moslem judge of Bombay high court, 1895; acting chief justice, 1903; died in London and buried at Bombay.

TYLER, THOMAS (1826-1902), Shakespearean scholar; B.A. London, 1859; M.A., 1871; published treatise on 'Ecclesiastes', 1874 (commended by Bwald); studied Hittite antiquities; wrote also 'The Philosophy of "Hamlet"' 1874, and 'Shakespeare's Sonnets', 1880, in which he identified Mary Fitton [q.v.] with the 'dark lady' of the sonnets.

TYLOR, SIR EDWARD BURNETT (1832-1917), anthropologist; brother of Alfred Tylor, the geologist

[q. v.]; made acquaintance of Henry Christy, the ethnologist [q. v.], 1886; accompanied him to Mexico; keeper of university museum, Oxford, 1888; reader in anthropology, 1884; first professor of anthropology, 1896-1909; knighted, 1913; helped to secure place for anthropology among acknowledged sciences; chief work 'Primitive Culture' (1871).

TYLOR, JOSEPH JOHN (1851-1901), engineer and Egyptologist; son of Alfred Tylor [q. v.]; partner in father's brass-founding firm in London, 1872-91; A.M.I.C.E., 1877; from 1891 studied Egyptology and published monographs on 'Wall Drawings and Monuments of El Kab', 1895-1900.

TYRRELL, GEORGE (1861-1909), modernist; influenced by Father Robert Dolling [q. v.]; joined Roman Church, 1879; probationer at College of Society of Jesus, Malta, 1879; teacher there, 1886-7; ordained priest, 1891; lectured on philosophy at St. Mary's Hall, Stonyhurst, 1894-6; was transferred to literary staff at Farm Street, London, 1896; produced three orthodox works, 1897-9; an article on Hell in 'Weekly Register', Dec. 1899, compelled his retirement to Richmond, Yorkshire; there he completed 'Oil and Wine', 1902, and 'Lex Orandi', 1903, which show influence of pragmatism; was dismissed from Society of Jesus (1906) for unorthodox 'Letter to a Professor of Anthropology'; replied to Vatican decrees against modernism, Sept.-Oct. 1907; expounded his religious development in 'Through Scylla and Charybdis', 1907; answered Cardinal Mercier's attack on modernism in 'Medievalism', 1908; his 'Christianity at the Cross-Roads' followed in 1909; he regarded doctrinal system of the Church as a 'pseudo-science' but admitted some measure of doctrinal development, and maintained essential identity of modern catholic church with the church of the apostles; collected contributions to periodical literature in 'The Faith of the Millions', 2 vols. 1901-2; Autobiography and 'Life' edited by Maude D. Petre, 1912.

TYRRELL, ROBERT YELVERTON (1844-1914), classical scholar, B.A., Trinity College, Dublin; fellow, 1868; professor of Latin, 1871; regius professor of Greek, 1880; professor of ancient history, 1900; senior fellow, 1904; F.B.A., 1901; joint commentator on 'Correspondence of Cicero' (1879-1900).

UNDERSHILL, EDWARD BEAN (1813-1901), missionary advocate; grocer in Oxford, 1829-43; founded Hanserd Knollys Society, 1845; joint secretary from 1849, and sole secretary 1869-76, of Baptist Missionary Society; visited India and West Indies, and denounced cruelty to natives in Jamaica, 1865; went to Cameroons, 1869; president of Baptist Union, 1873; wrote lives of baptist missionaries, and edited early baptist writings for Hanserd Knollys Society.

URR, ALEXANDER, BARON STRATHCLYDE (1853-1928), lawyer and politician; M.A. Glasgow University; admitted member of Faculty of Advocates, 1878; liberal M.P. Linlithgowshire, 1895-1913; Q.C. for Scotland, 1897; solicitor-general for Scotland, 1904-9; lord advocate and P.C. 1909; an enthusiastic supporter of Mr. Lloyd George's 1909-10 budget; lord justice-general for Scotland and lord president of court of session, 1913-20; raised to peerage, 1914; better as advocate than judge; excelled in cross-examination.

URWICK, WILLIAM (1826-1905), non-conformist divine and chronicler; B.A. Trinity College, Dublin, 1848; M.A., 1850; Congregational minister of Hatherlow, Cheshire, 1851-74; and St. Albans, 1880-95; professor of Hebrew at New College, London, 1874-7; wrote accounts of nonconformity in Cheshire (1864), Hertfordshire (1884), and Worcester (1897).

VALLANCE, WILLIAM FLEMING (1827-1904), marine painter; studied art at Trustees' Academy, Edinburgh; early work was portraiture and genre; after 1870 depicted Irish life and character; finally painted sea and shipping; painted also in water-colours; A.B.S.A., 1875; R.S.A., 1881.

VANDAM, ALBERT DRESDEN (1842-1903), publicist and journalist; was educated in Paris, 1868; was engaged there as journalist till 1871, when he settled in London; correspondent for 'Globe' in Paris, 1883-7; works include 'An Englishman in Paris', 2 vols. 1892, and translation of Bartholomew Sastrow's autobiography, 1902.

VANE-TEMPEST-STEWART, CHARLES STEWART, sixth MARQUESS OF DUNDONERRY (1852-1916), politician; conservative M.P., co. Down, 1878-84; succeeded father, 1884; assumed additional name of Stewart, 1885; viceroy of Ireland, 1886-9; first president, board of education, 1902-5; signed Ulster covenant, 1913; P.O., 1886; K.G., 1888.

VAN HORNE, SIR WILLIAM CORNELIUS (1842-1916), Canadian railway builder and financier; born in Illinois; general manager, Canadian Pacific Railway, 1881; president of company, 1888-99; naturalized Canadian, 1888; honorary K.C.M.G., 1894.

VANITTART, EDWARD WESTBY (1818-1904), vice-admiral; entered navy, 1831; served in East Indies, and on China station; at reduction of Karachi, 1839, and capture of Woosung batteries, 1842; suppressed piracy in China, 1862-5; accompanied Prince of Wales to Canada, 1860; C.B., 1867; vice-admiral, 1879.

VAUGHAN, BERNARD JOHN (1847-1922), Jesuit priest; brother of Cardinal Vaughan [q. v.] and B. W. B. Vaughan [q. v.]; educated at Stonyhurst; Jesuit novice, 1866; ordained priest, 1880; sent to church of Holy Name, Manchester, 1883; superior, 1888; attracted attention by his preaching, organization, and devoted work amongst poorest classes; transferred to Jesuit house, Farm Street, London, 1899; increased his reputation by series of sermons on 'signs of society', 1906; an ardent social reformer.

VAUGHAN, DAVID JAMES (1825-1906), honorary canon of Peterborough and social reformer; younger brother of Charles John Vaughan [q. v.]; educated at Rugby and Trinity College, Cambridge; Bell university scholar, 1846; fifth classic, 1848; M.A., 1861; fellow, 1880-8; issued (with John Llewellyn Davies, q. v.) translation of Plato's 'Republic', 1852 (often reprinted); vicar of St. Martin's, Leicester, 1860-93, and master of Wyggeston's Hospital, 1860-1906; hon. canon of Peterborough, 1872; hon. D.D. Durham, 1894; influenced by F. D. Maurice [q. v.]; started at Leicester in 1862 a working men's college with night classes, provident society, and book club, which was transferred to new building erected at Leicester in his memory, 1908; chairman of first Leicester school board, 1871; published theological works and sermons.

VAUGHAN, HERBERT ALFRED (1832-1903), cardinal; elder brother of Roger William Bede Vaughan [q. v.] and Bernard John Vaughan [q. v.]; educated at Stonyhurst, in Belgium, at Downside, and in Rome; ordained, 1854; vice-president of St. Edmund's Ware, 1855; joined congregation of Oblates, 1857; resolving to found missionary college in England, sailed for Caribbean Sea to collect funds, 1863; did much work in Panama despite opposition of civil authorities during small-pox epidemic, 1864; after two years' wandering in South America he was recalled to England by Cardinal Manning, 1865; built St. Joseph's College for missionary students at Mill Hill, 1866; sent out first missionaries to United States, 1871; bought and edited 'The Tablet', 1868-71; bishop of Salford, 1879-92, opening pastoral seminary there, 1876, as well as St. Bede's College, 1880; improved the diocesan organization and developed the work of the deaneries; founded the 'Rescue and Protection Society' for building homes and poor law schools for catholics; started Voluntary Schools Association, 1884; took leading part in Manchester social problems; archbishop of Westminster from 1892 till death; cardinal, 1893; made St. Mary's College, Oscott, the common seminary for southern and midland group of dioceses; urged withdrawal of papal admonition against catholic attendance at Oxford and Cambridge, 1895; built Westminster Cathedral (foundation-stone laid, 1895); played official part in controversy over validity of Anglican orders, 1894-7; did much to secure the Education Act of 1903, which obtained state aid for catholic schools; of direct, impulsive, and candid character; 'Life' by J. G. Sneed-Cox, 1910.

VAUGHAN, KATE (1859?-1903), actress and dancer, whose real name was CATHERINE CAMDELON; made debut as dancer, 1870; took prominent part in burlesques at Gaiety Theatre, London, from 1876 to 1883; organized Vaughan-Conway comedy company, 1886-7; acted Lydia Languish and Lady Teasle, 1887; visited Australia (1896) and South Africa (1902) for health; died at Johannesburg; inaugurated modern school of skirt-dancing.

VEITCH, SIR HARRY JAMES (1840-1994), horticulturist; uncle of J. H. Veitch [q. v.]; joined father's nursery garden business at Chelsea, 1868; keenly interested in employment of travellers who introduced new plants to cultivation; knighted, 1913; published 'The Manual of Coniferae' (1881) and 'The Manual of Orchidaceous Plants' (1887-94).

VEITCH, JAMES HERBERT (1868-1907), horticulturist; entered father's nursery at Chelsea, 1885; F.L.S., 1889; made tour round world (1891-3) and introduced large winter cherry into England; managing director of James Veitch & Sons, which became a limited company, 1898; compiled elaborate history of the firm in 'Hortus Veitchii', 1906.

VENN, JOHN (1834-1923), logician and man of letters; son of Henry Venn (1796-1873, q.v.); B.A., Gonville and Caius College, Cambridge; fellow, 1857; ordained, 1868; studied and taught logic for thirty years from 1862; availed himself of provisions of Clerical Disabilities Act, 1833; from about 1890 onwards devoted himself to university history; his works include 'The Logic of Chance' (1866), 'Symbolic Logic' (1881), 'The Principles of Empirical Logic' (1889), 'Biographical History of Gonville and Caius College' (1897), 'Alumni Cantabrigienses' (vols. i and ii, 1922); F.R.S., 1885.

VERNEY, MARGARET MARIA, LADY VERNEY (1844-1950), historical writer; born WILLIAMS; married Captain R. H. Verney (afterwards third baronet), 1868; interested in village life and education in Anglesey and Buckinghamshire; completed for press vols. i and ii of 'Memoirs of the Verney Family' (1892); herself produced vol. iii (1894), vol. iv (1899), and two supplementary eighteenth-century volumes (1899).

VERNON-HARCOURT, LEVISON FRANCIS (1839-1907), civil engineer; educated at Harrow and Balliol College, Oxford; obtained first classes in mathematics and natural science; B.A., 1862; resident engineer at East and West India Docks, 1866-70, and on Rosslare harbour works, 1872-4; surveyed Upper Thames Valley, 1877; professor of civil engineering at University College, London, 1889-1905; wrote 'Towns and Canals', 2 vols. 1882, and 'Harbours and Docks', 1885; served on many commissions and made many engineering reports on rivers and harbours in Great Britain and India; M.I.E.E., 1871.

VEREALL, ARTHUR WOOLGAR (1861-1919), classical scholar; B.A., Trinity College, Cambridge (second class); fellow of Trinity, 1874; lectured there, 1877-1911; first King Edward VII professor of English literature at Cambridge, 1911; works include editions of plays of Aeschylus, 'Euripides the Rationalist' (1895), 'Essays on Four Plays of Euripides' (1906), and an edition of the 'Baechae' (1910).

VEZIN, HERMANN (1899-1910), actor; born at Philadelphia, U.S.A.; B.A. Pennsylvania University, 1847, and M.A., 1848; made first appearance as actor in England, in minor Shakespearean parts, 1850; played with Charles Kean in London, 1852-3; toured in provinces, 1853-7; in America, 1857-9; achieved his reputation at Surrey Theatre in chief Shakespearean characters, 1859; married Mrs. Charles Young (see VEIN, JANE ELIZABETH), 1863; obtained first rank as James Harebell in 'The Man of Airlie', 1867; supported Phelps in revivals of old comedies, 1874; scored triumph as Jacques in 'As You Like It', 1876, 1880, and 1885; created Buckthorpe in Gilbert's 'Randall's Thumb', 1871, and Edgar in Tennyson's 'Promises of May', 1883; acted with Irving, 1888-9; last appeared in London as Rowley in 'The School for Scandal', April 1909; the most scholarly and intellectual actor of his generation.

VEZIN, JANE ELIZABETH (1827-1909), actress; formerly MRS. CHARLES YOUNG; accompanied parents to Australia in childhood; appeared as singer and dancer at eight; married Charles Frederick Young, comedian, 1846; took part in G. V. Brooke's Australian tour of 1865; first appeared in London, 1867; played leading Shakespearean parts with Phelps, 1867-9; acted Rosalind to Hermann Vezin's Orlando at Sadler's Wells, 1860; after divorce from Young (1862), she married Hermann Vezin (q.v.), 1863; played Desdemona to Phelps's Othello at Drury Lane, 1864; other roles were Lady Teazle, 1867, Peg Woffington in 'Masks and Faces', 1867, and Lady Macbeth, 1870; she played with the Bancrofts, 1879, and with Edwin Booth, 1880-1.

VICTORIA ADELAIDE MARY LOUISE (1840-1901), PRINCESS ROYAL OF GREAT BRITAIN AND GERMANY; EMPRESS; born at Buckingham Palace, 21 Nov. 1840; was eldest child of Queen Victoria and Prince Albert; showed in youth much interest in her studies; was devotedly attached to her eldest brother, the Prince of Wales, afterwards King Edward VII; accompanied her parents and brother to France on a visit to Napoleon III, Aug. 1865; was affianced to Prince Frederick William, afterwards crown prince of Germany, 29 Sept. 1855; received from parliament dowry of £40,000 with annuity of £4,000, 19 May 1857; was married at St. James's Palace, 25 Jan. 1858; lived much in retirement at Berlin, where her eldest son William was born, 27 Jan. 1859; chafed against strict etiquette of Prussian court and its conservative sentiment; openly avowed her liberal convictions; acquired strong influence over her husband; became crown princess, Jan. 1861; resented the rise of Bismarck to supreme power, March 1862; paid long visit to English court, Sept.-Dec. 1863; opposed Bismarck's policy in Schleswig-Holstein, 1864; organized hospitals and care for the wounded during Austro-Prussian conflict of 1866; went with her husband to Paris for opening of International Exhibition, May 1867; although she was generally credited in Germany with French sympathies she was active in works of benevolence for the German soldiers during Franco-German war, 1870-1; sought intercourse with men of culture and artists; tried to introduce into Germany English methods of promoting the industrial arts; helped to establish Berlin Industrial Art museum, Nov. 1881; urged more scientific training for sick nurses; aided in forming Victoria House and Nursing School, Berlin, 1881; encouraged schemes for ameliorating social condition of working classes; was a pioneer in developing women's higher education in Germany; continued to suffer much annoyance owing to Bismarck's exclusion of her husband from political affairs; nursed her husband during his illness from cancer, 1887; was with him at San Remo, when his father Emperor William I died, 9 March 1888, and he became Emperor Frederick; was present at her husband's death at Potsdam, 15 June 1888; during her husband's short reign she quarrelled anew with Bismarck, owing to her obstinate encouragement of a match between her second daughter Princess Victoria and Alexander of Battenberg, Prince of Bulgaria; in her widowhood she was still exposed to Bismarck's harshness until the minister's dismissal by the new emperor, her son, March 1890; at her son's request, she spent a week in Paris to test French sentiment, Feb. 1891, but was driven away by threats of a hostile demonstration; settled for rest of life at Cronberg, where she built a palatial residence, Friedrichshof; still followed the current course of politics, literature, and art, and continued her varied philanthropic labours; frequently revisited England; was attacked by cancer in autumn of 1898; died at Friedrichshof, 5 Aug. 1901; was buried at Potsdam beside her husband; was survived by two (of her four) sons and by her four daughters.

VILLIERS, JOHN HENRY DE, first BARON DE VILLIERS (1842-1914), South African judge. [See DE VILLIERS.]

VILLIERS, VICTOR ALBERT GEORGE CHILDE, seventh EARL OF JERSEY and tenth VISCOUNT GRANDBISON (1845-1915), colonial governor; educated at Eton and Balliol College, Oxford; succeeded father, 1859; governor and commander-in-chief, New South Wales, 1891-3; dealt successfully with labour problem and financial crisis.

VINCENT, SIR (CHARLES EDWARD) HOWARD (1849-1908), politician; joined royal Welsh fusiliers, 1868; went to Russia to study military organization; published 'Elementary Military Geography', 1873; left army, 1873; called to bar, 1876; represented 'Daily Telegraph' in Russo-Turkish war of 1876; lieutenant-colonel of Central London Rangers, 1875-8; examined Continental police systems, 1877-8; first director of criminal investigation at Scotland Yard, 1878-84; published 'A Police Code and Manual of Criminal Law', 1882; conservative M.P. for Central Sheffield, 1885-1908; member of London county council, 1889-96; to his persistence were mainly due Acts concerning alien immigration, 1905, and appointment of a public trustee, 1906; he advocated colonial preference from 1889; O.R., 1880; knighted, 1896; K.O.M.G., 1898; 'Life' by S. H. Jones and P. D. How, 1917.

VINCENT, JAMES EDMUND (1857-1909), journalist and author; educated at Winchester and Christ Church, Oxford; B.A., 1880; called to bar, 1884; chancellor of diocese of Bangor, 1890; edited 'National Observer', 1894-7, and 'Country Life', 1897-1901; works include lives of Duke of Clarence, 1893, Edward VII, 1902 and 1910, 'Highways and Byways in Berkshire', 1906.

VINOGRADOV, SIR PAUL GAVRILOVITCH (1854-1925), jurist and historian; born at Kostroma, Russia; graduated in history and philosophy, Moscow University; studied in Berlin under Mommsen and Brunner; came to England in order to research into feudal land system, 1883; formed friendship with F. W. Maitland [q. v.]; published 'Villainage in England' (Russian, 1887, English, 1892); extraordinary professor of history, Moscow, 1884-7; full professor, 1887; as a liberal but not revolutionary, worked for progress of general education in Russia; resigned, 1901; settled in England; Corpus Christi professor of jurisprudence, Oxford, 1903-26; introduced seminar teaching; valuable series of 'Oxford Studies in Social and Legal History' produced under his aegis; himself published, among other works, 'The Growth of the Manor' (1906), 'English Society in the Eleventh Century' (1908), 'Roman Law in Mediaeval Europe' (1909), and 'Outlines of Historical Jurisprudence' (1920-2); during European war worked untiringly for mutual understanding of Russia and England; knighted, 1917; renounced Russian nationality after triumph of Bolshevism, 1918; died in Paris.

VON HÜGEL, FRIEDRICH (1862-1926), theologian; born at Florence; educated as Roman Catholic in Florence, Brussels, and England; made his home in England after 1873; naturalized, 1914; studied natural science, philosophy, and religious history and literature, adopting 'critical' views of Old Testament; brought by biblical studies into contact with Duchesne, Loisy, Mignot, and Semeria; intimate with George Tyrrell [q. v.]; centre of 'modernist' group; founded London Society for Study of Religion, 1906; repelled by 'immanentism' of many modernists as tending to undermine adoration; his works include 'Mystical Element of Religion' (1908), 'Eternal Life' (1912), 'The Reality of God' (posthumous, 1931); his influence on recent religious thought due to his profoundly Christian personality, passionate desire for communion with God, and sympathy for all genuine religion.

VOYSEY, CHARLES (1828-1912), Theistic preacher; B.A., St. Edmund Hall, Oxford; ordained, 1851; vicar of Heston, near Tadcaster, 1864; deprived of living for unorthodox preaching and writing, 1871; began movement in London which ultimately developed into 'Theistic Church'; an attractive preacher.

WACE, HENRY (1836-1924), dean of Canterbury; B.A., Brasenose College, Oxford; ordained, 1861; curate, St. James's church, Piccadilly, 1862-70; began to write regularly for 'The Times'; 1863; maintained his association with the paper for over twenty years, largely as writer of leading articles; chaplain of Lincoln's Inn, 1872-96; professor of ecclesiastical history, King's College, London, 1876; principal, 1883-97; rector, St. Michael's church, Cornhill, 1896; dean of Canterbury, 1902-24; a churchman of wide learning and author of many works; a controversialist of decided views, notably in Convocation; and a stout champion of the Reformation settlement.

WADE, SIR WILLOUGHBY FRANCIS (1827-1906), physician; educated at Rugby and Trinity College, Dublin; B.A. 1849; M.B. 1851; hon. M.D. 1890; M.R.C.S. England, 1851; F.R.C.P. 1871; physician to general Birmingham hospital, 1865-93; knighted, 1896; first called attention to presence of albuminuria in diphtheria; wrote on diphtheria and gout.

WAKLEY, THOMAS (1851-1909), only son of Thomas Henry Wakley [q. v.]; L.R.O.P., 1883; succeeded father as editor of 'Lancet'.

WAKLEY, THOMAS HENRY (1891-1907), surgeon and journalist; eldest son of Thomas Wakley (1795-1862, q. v.); studied medicine at University College, London, and Paris; M.R.O.S. 1848; assistant surgeon to Royal Free Hospital, 1848; F.R.O.S. 1849; part proprietor of 'Lancet', 1857; co-editor with son Thomas, 1886; founded 'Lancet' relief fund for medical practitioners, 1889.

WALKER, SIR BYRON EDMUND (1848-1924), Canadian banker; born in Canada West; entered Canadian Bank of Commerce, Hamilton, 1868; held variety of posts in bank; general manager, 1886; director, 1906; president, 1907; Canadian banking system owes much to his skill; an authority on Canadian finance; greatest tribute to his financial ability lies in stability of Canadian finance, 1914-18; gave much time and thought to Toronto University, of which he was chancellor, 1923; promoted cause of the arts; knighted, 1910; died at Toronto.

WALKER, SIR FREDERICK WILLIAM EDWARD FORBSTER FORBSTER (1844-1910), general. [See FORBSTER-WALKER.]

WALKER, FREDERICK WILLIAM (1880-1910), schoolmaster; educated at Rugby and Corpus Christi

College, Oxford; B.A. (first class in literae humaniores), 1883; Boden (Banskrift), Vinerian and Tancred law scholar, 1884; M.A., 1886; fellow, 1889; hon. fellow, 1894; called to bar, 1888; high master of Manchester grammar school, 1889-76; reorganized school and finances and constitution; high master (1876-1905) of St. Paul's School, which was removed from City of London to Hammersmith (1884); greatly increased the school's reputation for scholarship; gained victory in long struggle from 1890 to 1899—with charity commissioners regarding the school's constitution; sat on commission for education of officers in the army, 1900; hon. Litt.D. Manchester, 1899; raised standard of public school education throughout country; friend of the positivist leaders and of Jowett.

WALKER, SIR MARK (1827-1902), general; brother of Sir Samuel Walker [q. v.]; joined army, 1846; served in Crimea; present at Balaklava and Inkermann, where his gallantry won for him the V.O.; went to India, 1859; served through the China campaign, 1860-61; present at capture of Chusan, the assault of Taku forts, and surrender of Peking; was quartered in England, 1862-70; served in India, 1871-8; C.B., 1875; major-general, 1878; commanded 1st brigade at Aldershot, 1883; commanded infantry at Gibraltar, 1884-8; lieutenant-general, 1888; general and K.C.B., 1893.

WALKER, SIR SAMUEL, first baronet (1832-1911), lord chancellor of Ireland; B.A., Trinity College, Dublin (first senior classical moderator), 1854; called to Irish bar, 1856; Q.C., 1872; attained large practice in equity and common law; ably defended Parnell, 1881; bencher of King's Inns, 1881; a liberal in politics; solicitor-general for Ireland under Gladstone, 1883-5; liberal M.P. for Londonderry county, 1884-5; acting Irish secretary, during 1884; attorney-general for Ireland, May-June, 1885; Irish P.C., 1885; again attorney-general for Ireland, Feb.-Aug. 1886; lord chancellor of Ireland and president of Irish court of appeal, Aug. 1892-July 1895, and Dec. 1906-11; chairman of commission on Irish fisheries, 1897; baronet, 1906; enthusiastic shot and angler.

WALKER, VYELL EDWARD (1837-1906), cricketer; a member of distinguished cricketing family of Southgate, Middlesex; educated at Harrow; first played for Gentlemen v. Players (1856), subsequently captaining the team ten times; helped to found Middlesex County Cricket Club, 1864; secretary, 1864-70; captain, 1864-72; president, 1898; president of M.C.C., 1899; orthodox batsman, powerful hitter, and deceptive slow 'lob' bowler; on retiring from cricket about 1874, he took part in family brewing firm; succeeded to the family estate at Southgate, 1889; presented land for public recreation ground there, 1890.

WALKLEY, ARTHUR BINGHAM (1855-1926), dramatic and literary critic; B.A., Corpus Christi College, Oxford; clerk in secretary's office, General Post Office, 1877-1911; assistant secretary in charge of telegraph branch, 1911-19; dramatic critic to 'Star', 1888-1900; to 'Speaker', 1890-99; to 'The Times', 1900; professed himself an 'impressionist'; gave warm welcome to Ibsen's plays; a master of the short miscellaneous essay; his works include 'Dramatic Criticism' (1903) and 'Drama and Life' (1907).

WALLACE, ALFRED RUSSEL (1833-1913), naturalist; educated at Hertford grammar school; master at Leicester collegiate school, 1844-61; made acquaintance of Henry Walter Bates [q. v.], the naturalist, with whom he went on collecting trip to Amazon, 1848; returned to England, 1849; visited Malay Archipelago, 1854-62; while in Moluccas (1858) independently discovered principal of natural selection as key to method of evolution, his most important achievement on theoretical side; his theory of origin of species identical with that of Charles Darwin [q. v.], to whom he sent his views; modern theory of evolution published in joint paper, 1858; spent remainder of his life after return to England (1862) in writing and lecturing; material which he amassed in Malay Archipelago very valuable to biology; published great work, 'The Malay Archipelago', 1869; other works include 'Contributions to the Theory of Natural Selection' (1870) and 'The Geographical Distribution of Animals' (1878); his most solid work done on geographical distribution; F.R.S., 1893; first Darwin medalist of the Royal Society, 1890; O.M., 1910.

WALLACE, SIR DONALD MACKENZIE (1841-1919), newspaper correspondent, editor, and author; studied at various universities at home and abroad; visited Russia, 1870-8; foreign correspondent of 'The Times' at Constantinople, 1878-84; private secretary to Earl of Dufferin, viceroy of India, 1884-8; K.C.I.B., 1887; director of 'The Times' foreign department, 1891-8; principal work, 'Russia' (1877).

WALLACE, WILLIAM ARTHUR JAMES (1842-1908), colonel, royal engineers; joined royal engineers, 1860; entered railway branch of public works department of India, 1864; executive engineer, 1871; officiating consulting-engineer to Indian government at Lucknow, 1877; field engineer to Kuram valley column in Afghan campaign, 1879; engineer-in-chief of northern Bengal railway at Saidpur, 1880; director of railway corps in Egyptian campaign, 1882; present at Tel-el-Kebir; chief engineer for guaranteed railways at Lahore, 1884-92; C.I.E., 1890.

WALLER, CHARLES HENRY (1840-1910), theologian; B.A., University College, Oxford, 1868; M.A., 1867; D.D., 1891; theological tutor at St. John's Hall, Highbury, 1868-98; professor of biblical exegesis, 1882; principal, 1884-98; works include 'A Grammar of the Words in the Greek Testament', 2 pts. 1877-8, and commentaries on 'Deuteronomy' and 'Joshua', 1882.

WALLER, LEWIS (1860-1915), actor manager, whose real name was WILLIAM WALLER LEWIS; born in Spain; acted with various companies in London and provinces, 1883-96; successively managed, alone or jointly, Haymarket, Lyceum, Imperial, and Lyric theatres; his finest impersonation that of the king in 'Henry V.' (1900); other brilliant parts, Hotspur in 'Henry IV, Part I' (1896), D'Artagnan in 'The Three Musketeers' (1898), and title-role of 'Monsieur Beaulieu' (1902-3).

WALLER, SAMUEL EDMUND (1850-1903), painter of genre pictures; studied architecture under father at Gloucester; exhibited Royal Academy, 1871-1902; chief works were 'The Empty Saddle, 1879', 'Sweethearts and Wives', 1882, and 'The Morning of Agincourt', 1888.

WALPOLE, SIR SPENCER (1839-1907), historian and civil servant; elder son of Spencer Horatio Walpole [q. v.]; educated at Eton, 1852-7; entered war office as clerk, 1857; private secretary to father at home office, 1858-9, and at war office, 1864-7; inspector of fisheries for England and Wales, 1867; published life of grandfather, Spencer Perceval, 1874; published first two volumes of 'History of England from 1815 to 1868', 1878 (vols. iii-vi, 1890); governor of the Isle of Man, 1892-93; secretary to post office, 1893-9; K.C.B., 1898; hon. D.Litt. Oxford and F.B.A., 1904; continued his history in 'A History of Twenty-five Years (1856-80)', vols. i and ii, 1904; vols. iii and iv (left incomplete), 1908; other works include 'Life of Lord John Russell', 2 vols. 1889, and 'Essays Political and Biographical', posthumous, 1908.

WALSH, STEPHEN (1859-1999), trade union leader and politician; miner in Lancashire, 1872; vice-president, Miners' Federation of Great Britain, 1922; labour M.P., Ince division of Lancashire, 1906-29; parliamentary secretary, ministry of national service, 1917; to local government board, 1917-18; secretary of state for war, president, Army Council, 1924.

WALSH, WILLIAM PAKENHAM (1890-1902), bishop of Ossory, Ferns, and Leighton from 1878 to death; B.A., Trinity College, Dublin, 1841; M.A., 1853; Donnellan lecturer, 1860; D.D. 1873; chaplain of Sandford Church, Banagher, Dublin, 1868-78; dean of Ouseby, 1878-8; published 'Ancient Monuments and Holy Writ', 1878.

WALSHAM, SIR JOHN, second baronet (1890-1905), diplomatist; B.A., Trinity College, Cambridge, 1854; M.A., 1857; attaché to British legation at Mexico, 1860-6; second secretary at Madrid, 1866-75; secretary of legation at Madrid, 1875-8; at Berlin, 1878-85; minister plenipotentiary at Paris, 1883-5; British envoy at Peking, 1885-92, and at Bucharest, 1892-4; K.C.M.G., 1896.

WALSHAM, WILLIAM JOHNSON (1847-1908), surgeon; studied medicine at St. Bartholomew's Hospital, 1867; M.B. and C.M. Aberdeen, 1871; M.R.C.S. England, 1871; F.R.C.S., 1875; served as lecturer and surgeon at St. Bartholomew's from 1871; first surgeon, 1887; excelled in surgery of hand and orthopaedics; chief work was 'Surgery: its Theory and Practice', 1887 (8th edn. 1903).

WALTER, SIR EDWARD (1822-1904), founder of the Corps of Commissioners; third son of John Walter (1776-1847, q. v.); served in army, 1842-53; founded self-supporting Corps of Commissioners for employment of discharged soldiers and sailors, 1859; the Corps numbered 4,153 men in 1911; knighted, 1888; K.C.B., 1887.

WALTON, SIR JOHN LAWSON (1852-1908), lawyer; called to bar, 1877; Q.C., 1890; gained reputation by victory in action against William Smoult Playfair [q. v.], 1896; liberal M.P. for South Leeds from 1893 till death; attorney-general under Campbell-Bannerman, 1905-8; knighted, 1905; introduced trades disputes bill, 1906; offended labour party by defending clause making executives of trades unions responsible for members' breaches of law.

WALTON, SIR JOSEPH (1845-1910), judge; educated at Stonyhurst; B.A. London, 1866; called to bar, 1868; practised at Liverpool in commercial and shipping cases; Q.C., 1892; recorder of Wigan, 1895-1901; chairman of general council of the bar, 1899; judge of king's bench division, 1901-10; knighted, 1901; president of Medico-Legal Society, 1905.

WALKLEY, JAMES ALFRED (1834-1906), analytical chemist; M.R.C.S., 1858; studied chemistry at Heidelberg under Bunsen; demonstrator of chemistry at Edinburgh, 1859-63; professor at London Institution, 1863-70; lecturer at St. George's Hospital, 1877-80; public analyst in various towns; made many valuable chemical researches independently and in collaboration; gave much attention to milk analysis and water analysis in London; works include 'Milk Analysis', 1873, 'Water Analysis' (with E. T. Chapman), 1868 (11th edn. 1907); collaborated in 'Bread Analysis', 1881, 'Air Analysis', 1890, and 'Sewage Analysis', 1899.

WANTAGE, BARON (1852-1901), soldier and politician. [See LINDSAY (afterwards LOYD-LINDSAY), ROBERT JAMES.]

WARD, SIR ADOLPHUS WILLIAM (1837-1924), historian; son of John Ward, diplomatist [q. v.]; educated in Germany, 1841-54; B.A., Peterhouse, Cambridge; fellow, 1861; professor of history and English language and literature, Owens College, Manchester, 1866; active in founding history school and raising academic status of college; vice-chancellor, Victoria University, 1886-90; 1894-6; principal, 1899-97; master of Peterhouse, 1900-24; vice-chancellor, 1901; editor-in-chief, 'Cambridge Modern History', 1901-12; co-editor, 'Cambridge History of English Literature', 1907-16; co-editor, 'Cambridge History of British Foreign Policy, 1793-1919', 1922-3; F.B.A., 1902; knighted, 1913; possessed unrivalled knowledge of political evolution of Europe since Middle Ages; his works include 'History of English Dramatic Literature to the Death of Queen Anne' (1876), 'Great Britain and Hanover' (1899), 'The Electress Sophia and the Hanoverian Succession' (1903), 'Germany, 1815-1890' (1916-18).

WARD, SIR EDWARD WILLIS DUNCAN, first baronet (1853-1998), soldier and military administrator; entered commissariat branch of Control Department, 1874; commissioned to newly instituted army service corps, 1888; served in South African war, 1899-1900; responsible for feeding troops and inhabitants during siege of Ladysmith; permanent under-secretary of state for war, 1901-14; chairman of commission which designed officers' training corps; K.C.B., 1900; baronet, 1914; died in Paris.

WARD, HARRY LEIGH DOUGLAS (1825-1906), writer on medieval romances; educated at Winchester and University College, Oxford; B.A., 1847; assistant in department of manuscripts at British Museum, 1849-93; catalogued Icelandic MSS. there; published elaborate 'Catalogue of Romances in the British Museum', 3 vols. 1882-1910, a standard text-book.

WARD, HARRY MARSHALL (1854-1906), botanist; studied science at Owens College, Manchester, and Christ's College, Cambridge; B.A. 1879; fellow, 1883; M.A., 1885; hon. Sc.D. 1892; D.Sc. Victoria, 1902; investigated coffee leaf disease in Ceylon 1880-2; Berkeley research fellow at Owens College, 1882; assistant lecturer, 1882-6; professor of botany at Cooper's Hill, 1886-95, and at Cambridge, 1895-1906; F.R.S., 1886; F.R.S., 1898; Royal medallist, 1893; helped to found 'Annals of Botany', 1887, contributing many original papers; showed destructive effect of light on bacteria, 1894; publications include 'Timber and some of its Diseases', 1889, 'Diseases of Plants', 1889, 'The Oak', 1897, and 'Grasses', 1901.

WARD, HENRY SNOWDEN (1866-1911), photographer and author; joined printing firm of Percy

Lund & Co., Bradford, 1885, for which he founded and edited the 'Practical Photographer,' 1890; settled in London, 1891, and edited many photographic periodicals; published 'Practical Radiography,' 1899; with his wife wrote and illustrated topographical works relating to Shakespeare and Dickens; died in New York.

WARD, JAMES (1848-1925), philosopher and psychologist; educated at Spring Hill College, Birmingham, with intention of entering Congregationalist ministry, 1863-9; studied in Germany; abandoned his religious beliefs and never entered ministry; B.A., Trinity College, Cambridge; first class, moral sciences tripos, 1874; fellow, 1875; began by research in natural science, thence working up to domain of mind; after about 1894 turned from psychology to philosophy; professor of mental philosophy and logic, Cambridge, 1897-1925; F.B.A., 1902; his works include 'Naturalism and Agnosticism' (Gifford lectures delivered at Aberdeen, 1895-8, 1899) and 'The Realm of Ends, or Pluralism and Theism' (Gifford lectures delivered at St. Andrews, 1907-10, 1911), in both of which his philosophy is worked out; in the first he gave final blow to competency of nature and its alliance with agnosticism as promulgated by Herbert Spencer and other contemporary thinkers; in the second he elaborated theory of 'spiritualistic monadism'; 'Psychological Principles' (1918), 'A Study of Kant' (1922).

WARD, SIR JOSEPH GEORGE, first baronet (1856-1930), prime minister of New Zealand; born near Melbourne; liberal member, house of representatives, for Awarua, 1887; postmaster-general, 1891; colonial treasurer, 1893; minister of industries and commerce, 1894-6; colonial secretary, postmaster-general, and minister of industries and commerce, 1899; prime minister, 1906-12; tariff reformer; minister of finance and postmaster-general, national government, 1915-19; prime minister, 1928-30; K.O.M.G., 1901; baronet, 1911; died at Wellington.

WARD, SIR LESLIE (1851-1923), cartoonist; son of E. M. Ward [q.v.]; contributed regularly to 'Vanity Fair' under pseudonym of 'Spy' from 1873; for thirty-six years produced coloured character-portraits of large numbers of well-known people; knighted, 1922.

WARD, MARY AUGUSTA (1851-1920), better known as MRS. HUMPHRY WARD, novelist and social worker; daughter of Thomas Arnold (1828-1900, q.v.); born in Tasmania; brought to England, 1856; married T. H. Ward, 1872; best-known novel, 'Robert Elsmere' (1888); others are 'David Grieve' (1892), 'Marcella' (1894), 'Lady Rose's Daughter' (1903), and 'The Marriage of William Ashe' (1905); founded (1890) settlement in London which developed into Easton and Edwards Settlement (1897); anti-suffragist; carried on pro-Allies propaganda in America during European war.

WARD, WILFRID PHILIP (1858-1916), biographer and Catholic apologist; son of W. G. Ward [q.v.]; educated at Ushaw College, Durham, and Gregynog University, Rome; editor of 'Dublin Review,' 1906; works include 'Lives' of his father (1889-93), Cardinal Wiseman (1897), and Cardinal Newman (1912).

WARDLE, SIR THOMAS (1831-1909), promoter of the silk industry; on leaving school joined father's silk-dyeing business at Leek, Staffordshire; founded silk and cotton printing business at Leek on father's death, 1882; commercially utilized Indian wild silk from 1872; investigated for India office the conditions of sericulture in India, 1886-6; stimulated by his report Bengal silk industry; revived Kashmir silk industry, 1897; president of Silk Association of Great Britain, 1887-1909; knighted, 1897; ardent geologist and palaeontologist; published many works on silk and its manufacture.

WARING, ANNA LETITIA (1893-1910), hymn writer; published volumes of hymns, which included 'Father, I know that all my life' (written in 1846); influenced James Martineau.

WARINGTON, ROBERT (1838-1907), agricultural chemist; son of Robert Warington (1807-67, q.v.); assistant at Rothamsted Laboratory, 1859; at Royal Agricultural College, Cirencester, 1862-7; made researches into effect of ferric oxide and alumina on soluble phosphates and other salts; chemist at J. B. Lawes' manure and citric acid works at Barking and Millwall, 1867-76; was associated with Rothamsted investigations, 1876-81; pursued original researches into nitrification of the soil; Lawes lecturer in America, 1891; Sibthorpean professor of agriculture at Oxford, 1894-7; contributed many articles to chemical dictionaries and encyclopaedias; chief work was 'Chemistry on the Farm,' 1881, which reached nineteen editions; F.R.S., 1886.

WARLOCK, PETER (pseudonym), musical composer and writer on music. [See HESELTINE, PHILIP ARNOLD.]

WARNE, FREDERICK (1825-1901), publisher; assistant to George Routledge [q.v.], 1839; partner in Routledge's publishing firm, 1851; began independent business, 1866; established New York branch, 1881; inaugurated 'Chandos Classics,' 1868; published coloured picture books for children, including 'Aunt Louisa Toy Books,' 1871-80; retired, 1895.

WARNEFORD, REGINALD ALEXANDER JOHN (1891-1915), airman; born in India; entered royal naval air service, 1915; V.O. for destruction of Zeppelin airship in Flanders, 1915; killed flying near Paris.

WARNER, CHARLES (1846-1909), actor, whose real name was CHARLES JOHN LICOLFOLD; made first appearance on stage at command performance of 'Richelleu' at Windsor Castle, Jan. 1861; first appeared in London, 1864; supported Phelps at Drury Lane in minor Shakespearean and other parts, 1866-8; made first pronounced success as Charley Burridge in Byron's 'Daisy Farm,' 1871; successful roles in London (1873-8) included Charles Middlewick in Byron's 'Our Boys,' and Young Mirabel in Farquhar's 'The Inconstant'; made reputation in melodrama as Tom Robinson in 'It is never too late to mend' and as Coupeau in 'Drink,' 1878-9; went on prosperous tours in Australia, 1887-90, and in America, 1904 and 1907; committed suicide in New York, 1909; highly strung actor in melodrama; sympathetic interpreter of old comedy.

WARRE, EDMOND (1837-1920), headmaster of Eton; educated at Eton and Balliol College, Oxford; fellow of All Souls, 1859-61; assistant master at Eton, 1860; opened school boarding house, to which he quickly attracted distinguished pupils, 1861; headmaster of Eton, 1864-1905; increased reputation and numbers of school by raising moral tone and intellectual standard; opened new buildings, including drill hall, lower chapel, Queen's school, and Warre schools; invented school office; started Eton mission at Hackney Wick; provost of Eton, 1909-18; decline of latter years, due to ill-health, alone prevented him from being regarded as greatest of Eton headmasters.

WARRE-CORNISH, FRANÇOIS WARRE (1839-1916), teacher, author, and bibliophile; educated at Eton and King's College, Cambridge; assistant master at Eton, 1861; vice-provost and librarian, 1893-1916.

WARREN, SIR CHARLES (1840-1927), general and archaeologist; son of Major-General Sir Charles Warren [q.v.]; trained royal engineer, 1857; for Palestine Exploration Fund made reconnaissance of Philistia, Jordan valley, and Gilead, and excavated extensively in Jerusalem, 1867-70; employed in Griguland West, 1876-7, 1879-80; commanded diamond fields horse in Kafir war, 1877-8; chief surveying instructor, Chatham, 1880-4; special officer attached to admiralty, Egyptian campaign, 1882; successfully commanded Bechuanaland expedition, 1884-5; chief commissioner, London metropolitan police, 1888-9; responsible for police arrangements for Queen Victoria's jubilee, 1887; commanded at Singapore, 1889-94; commanded Thames district, 1895; lieutenant-general, 1897; commanded 5th division, South Africa war, 1899-1900; general, 1904; colonel commandant, royal engineers, 1905; K.C.M.G., 1889; F.R.S. 1884; works include 'The Recovery of Jerusalem' (in collaboration, 1871), 'Underground Jerusalem' (1874), and 'The Temple or the Tomb' (1880).

WARREN, SIR THOMAS HERBERT (1853-1930), president of Magdalen College, Oxford, scholar, and man of letters; B.A., Balliol College, Oxford; first classes in classical moderns (1873) and literae humaniores (1876); Hertford scholar (1873) and Craven scholar (1878); prize fellow of Magdalen, 1877; president, 1885-1928; gathered round him distinguished staff of teachers; increased number of undergraduates; raised standard of college both intellectually and in other ways; did much to promote studies of natural science and modern languages in Oxford; vice-chancellor, 1906-10; professor of poetry, 1911-16; K.C.V.O., 1914; his works include two volumes of verse, 'By Severn Sea' (1897) and 'The Death of Virgil' (1907).

WARRENHURST, SIR GEORGE JOHN SCOTT, seventh baronet (1860-1917), admiral; entered royal navy, 1873; captain, 1899; largely responsible for naval operations during Boxer rising, 1900; succeeded father, 1901; reached flag rank, 1903; commanded second battle squadron of grand fleet, 1914; commanded force dispatched to intercept German raiders on East coast (Dec.); commander-in-chief, Plymouth, 1915-16.

WATERHOUSE, ALFRED (1830-1906), architect; after architectural study in Manchester, France, Italy, and Germany, he practised in Manchester, 1853-65; won competition for Manchester assize courts (1859) and for town hall (1877), which shows individual taste of Gothic; also designed Owens College, Salford jail at Manchester, University College and Royal Infirmary at Liverpool, and Yorkshire College at Leeds, 1878, the Natural History Museum at South Kensington, 1888-90 (which exhibits unworked exuberance of detail), the Prudential Assurance office, Holborn, and St. Paul's School, Hammer-smith; employed terra-cotta; also designed National Liberal Club, 1884; did ecclesiastical restoration and decoration; at Cambridge he made additions to Caius, Jesus, and Pembroke colleges, and designed the Union building, 1886; at Oxford he was responsible for Balliol College Hall and the new Union Debating Hall; did much domestic reconstruction, including Yattendon Court, his own residence, 1877; took his son Paul [q. v.] into partnership, 1891; in great demand as assessor in competitions; exhibited water-colours at Royal Academy; president of Royal Institute of British Architects, 1888-91; A.R.A., 1878; R.A., 1885; treasurer, 1898; hon. LL.D. Manchester, 1899; received many foreign diplomas; portraits by W. Q. Orchardson and Alma-Tadema.

WATERHOUSE, PAUL (1861-1924), architect; son of Alfred Waterhouse [q. v.]; B.A., Balliol College, Oxford; partner in father's office, 1891; carried on practice alone, 1905-19; with son, 1910-24; completed many of father's works; his own include chemical laboratories, Oxford University (1913); three university buildings, St. Andrews; numerous hospital buildings, offices, and banks, some private houses, and a few churches; F.R.I.B.A., 1895; president of Institute, 1921-2; authority on town planning.

WATERLOW, SIR ERNEST ALBERT (1850-1919), painter; A.R.A., 1890; R.A., 1903; president of Royal Society of Painters in Water Colours, 1897-1914; knighted, 1903; painted chiefly landscapes.

WATERLOW, SIR SYDNEY HERDLEY, first baronet (1822-1906), lord mayor of London and philanthropist; was apprenticed to uncle Thomas Harrison, the government printer, 1836-43; joined brothers in adding printing branch to father's stationery business, 1844; supplied printing and stationery to railways; his firm became limited company, 1876, with Waterlow as managing director, 1877-95; alderman of the city of London, 1863-83; sheriff, 1866-7; lord mayor of London, 1872; knighted, 1867; master of Stationers' Company, 1872-83; baronet, 1873; originated Industrial Dwellings Company, Limited, 1863; liberal M.P. for Dumfriesshire, 1868-9; for Maidstone, 1874-90, and for Gravesend, 1880-5; presented Lauderdale House, Highgate, and twenty-nine acres of land (now known as Waterlow Park) to London county council, 1889; K.C.V.O., 1902; 'Life' by George Smalley, 1909.

WATKIN, SIR EDWARD WILLIAM, first baronet (1819-1901), railway promoter; joined father's cotton firm at Manchester; started Saturday half-holiday movement in Manchester, 1844; helped to raise money for opening three public parks there, 1845; founded 'Manchester Examiner', 1845; secretary to Trent Valley Railway (1845), which was soon transferred to London and North Western Railway Company; general manager of Manchester, Sheffield, and Lincolnshire Railway, 1853-61; chairman of directors from 1864 to 1894; opened independent line, afterwards Great Central Railway, from Sheffield to London, 1899; chairman of South Eastern Railway, 1866-94, and of Metropolitan Railway, 1879-94; advocated channel tunnel railway between Dover and Calais from 1869; liberal M.P. for Stockport, 1864-8, and for Hythe, 1874-85; liberal unionist M.P. for Hythe, 1886-95; high sheriff of Cheshire, 1874; knighted, 1868; baronet, 1880.

WATSON, ALBERT (1828-1904), principal of Brasenose College, Oxford, and classical scholar; educated at Rugby and Wadham College, Oxford; B.A., 1861; M.A., 1863; fellow of Brasenose, 1863; tutor, 1864-67; lecturer, 1868-73; principal, 1868-9; edited 'Selected Letters of Cicero', 1870.

WATSON, SIR CHARLES MOORE (1844-1916), soldier and administrator; entered army, 1866; served in Egypt, 1882-6; deputy inspector of fortifications, 1890-1903; colonel, 1906; K.C.M.G., 1905.

WATSON, FOSTER (1860-1929), historian of education; M.A., Owens College, Manchester; professor of education (afterwards emeritus professor), University College of Wales, Aberystwyth, 1895-1929; authority on history of education 1600-1860, publishing 'The English Grammar Schools to 1660' (1908), and on J. L. Vives; contributor to dictionaries and encyclopaedias.

WATSON, GEORGE LENNOX (1851-1904), naval architect; entered shipbuilding firm at Govan, 1867; started own business in Glasgow as naval architect, 1872; built for Edward, Prince of Wales, the yacht 'Britannia', which won prizes valued at £9,973 between 1893 and 1897; designed British challengers' yachts for contest with American yachts from 1887 to 1901; also designed cargo and passenger steamers and steam yachts; published lectures on yachting, 1881.

WATSON, HENRY WILLIAM (1827-1905), mathematician; B.A., Trinity College, Cambridge; second wrangler and Smith's prizeman, 1850; fellow, 1851; tutor, 1851-3; member of 'Apostles'; mathematical master at Harrow, 1857-66; one of founders of Alpine Club, 1867; F.R.S., 1881; hon. Sc.D. Cambridge, 1883; author of mathematical works, including 'Treatise on the Kinetic Theory of Gases', 1876.

WATSON, JOHN (1850-1907), presbyterian divine and author, and writer under the pseudonym of IAN MACLAREN; of highland stock; M.A. Edinburgh University, 1870; Free Church minister at Logiealmond ('Drumtochty'), Perthshire, 1876-7; in charge of presbyterian Church of England at Sefton Park, Liverpool, 1880-1905; a powerful and cultured preacher; influenced civil life; helped in creation of Liverpool University; made reputation in England and America by publication, under pseudonym of 'Ian MacLaren', of 'Beside the Bonnie Brier Bush', 1894, which was translated into many European languages; other works of fiction were 'The Days of Auld Lang Syne', 1895, 'Kate Carnegie and those Ministers', 1897, and 'His Majesty Baby', 1902; he made lecture tours in America, 1896 and 1899; published Lyman Beecher lectures on preaching delivered at Yale University as 'The Cure for Souls', 1896; hon. D.D., 1896; theological works include 'The Mind of the Master', 1896; moderator of presbyterian synod, 1900; president of National Free Church Council, 1907; died on third American lecture tour at Mount Pleasant, Iowa; buried at Liverpool; 'Life' by Sir W. Robertson Nicoll, 1908.

WATSON, SIR PATRICK HERON (1832-1907), surgeon; M.D. Edinburgh University, 1853; L.R.C.S. Edinburgh, 1853; F.R.C.S., 1865; president, 1878 and 1905; served as surgeon in Crimea, 1855-6; lecturer on systematic and clinical surgery at Royal College of Surgeons, Edinburgh; surgeon to Royal Infirmary, Edinburgh, 1863-85; performed ovariectomy and excision of joints before introduction of Listerian methods; hon. LL.D. Edinburgh, 1884; hon. F.R.C.S. Ireland, 1887; knighted, 1905.

WATSON, ROBERT SPENCE (1837-1911), political, social, and educational reformer; articulated to father as solicitor at Newcastle-on-Tyne, 1860; hon. secretary of Newcastle Literary and Philosophical Institution, 1862-93; president, 1900; helped to found Durham College of Science (now Armstrong College), 1871; first president, 1910; hon. D.C.L., 1906; member of first Newcastle school board, 1871-94; pioneer of university extension in north; member of Alpine Club, 1863; visited Wasan, the sacred city of Morocco, 1879, and wrote an account of visit, 1880; founded Newcastle Liberal Association, 1874; president of National Liberal Federation, 1890-1903; F.C., 1907; president of Peace Society; advocate of Indian nationalist movement and of free institutions in Russia; umpire from 1864 in over 100 trade disputes; hon. LL.D. St. Andrews, 1881; works include 'Life of Joseph Skipton', 1909.

WATTS, GEORGE FREDERICK (1817-1904), painter and sculptor; born in Queen Street, Bryanston Square, London; was son of George Watts, a piano maker and tuner in straitened circumstances; read much as a boy, though he had no regular schooling; early enjoyed the run of the studio of William Behnes [q. v.]; sculptor; took some lessons in oil-painting; began to earn a livelihood at sixteen by portraits in pencil and chalk; entered Royal Academy schools, 1835; hired studio in Clipstone Street, 1837; exhibited at Academy 'A Wounded Heron' and two portraits of ladies, 1837; came to know Nicolas Wancroft or 'Felix' [q. v.], schoolmaster at Blackheath and professional cricketer, for whom he drew and lithographed seven illustrations of cricket with portraits; was befriended by Constantine Ionides, 1839, for whom and whose family he painted twenty portraits during his career; won a premium of £300 with a cartoon of Caracacus for the decoration of Westminster Palace, 1842; travelled through France to Italy; was introduced at Florence to Lord and Lady Holland; remained as their guest at Borgo San Frediano, 1848-7; painted portraits of his hosts and friends, and began many vast canvases inspired by Italian history and legend; also practised modelling; returned to London, April 1847; won a second premium of £500 for Westminster Palace cartoon of King Alfred, 1848; painted decorations for Holland House, 1848; rented a studio at 30 Charles Street, Berkeley Square, with a view to monumental emblematic paintings, 1848-53; joined distinguished social circle, including Robert Morier, William Harcourt, and others, who soon formed the Cosmopolitan Club; projected a series of portraits of the distinguished men of his time, beginning with Lord John Russell; settled with Mr. and Mrs. Henry Thoby Prinsep at Little Holland House, Kensington, 1850-75; painted 'Triumph of the Red Cross Knight' for a wall in a cramped corridor at Westminster Palace (now dilapidated); visited Venice with St. Spencer Stanhope, 1853; painted in fresco 'Justice—A Hemicycle of Law, given' for Lincoln's Inn Hall, 1853-9; painted portraits of Thiers, Prince Jerome Buonaparte, and others in Paris, 1855-6; joined Sir Charles Newton [q.v.], who was excavating the site of Halicarnassus, 1857; painted Lord Stratford de Redcliffe at Constantinople, 1857; on returning to England painted Tennyson, 1857, and Gladstone, 1859; executed frescoes for Lord Lansdowne at Bowood; designed figures of St. Matthew and St. John for mosaics in St. Paul's Cathedral; married in 1864 Miss Ellen Terry, but they parted June 1865, and Watts obtained a divorce in 1877; he worked on symbolic pictures 'Love and Death' and 'The Court of Death', on classical subjects, including 'Orpheus and Eurydice', and on his finest female portraits, including Lady Margaret Beaumont, 1860-70; executed monuments of Lord Lothian at Blickling Church and the statue of Lord Holland in Holland Park (with Edgar Boehm); A.R.A. and R.A., 1867; built for himself and occupied from 1876 to 1903 the new Little Holland House; exhibited at Grosvenor Gallery from its opening in 1877; devoted much time to a colossal equestrian statue called 'Physical Energy', one cast of which formed part of the memorial to Cecil Rhodes at Cape Town, 1905, and another is in Kensington Gardens; 56 of Watts's pictures collected by Charles Richards were exhibited at Manchester Institution, 1880; 300 pictures at the Grosvenor Gallery in the winter of 1881-2; there were also exhibitions at Paris, 1883, and New York, 1885, and one on a great scale at New Gallery, 1897. Watts was made hon. LL.D., Oxford and Cambridge, 1882; married his second wife Mary Fraser Tytler, 1886; built country house called Limmerlease near Guildford, 1894; added a gallery which was opened to the public, April 1904; twice declined a baronetcy, 1885 and 1894; presented to National Portrait Gallery 15 portraits and two drawings of distinguished contemporaries, 1895, and to National Gallery of British Art, 30 symbolic paintings, 1897; executed monumental statue of Tennyson at Lincoln, 1898; received O.M., 1902; died at Limmerlease and was buried at Compton.

WATTS, HENRY EDWARD (1836-1904), author; born at Calcutta; after education at Exeter grammar school returned to Calcutta, 1846; went to Australia; edited 'Melbourne Argus', 1859; on staff of 'Standard' in London from 1868; translated 'Don Quixote', 1868, with a life of Cervantes (issued separately, 1895), and wrote 'Spain' for 'Story of the Nations' series, 1893.

WATTS, JOHN (1861-1902), jockey; associated with Richard Marsh, trainer to Prince of Wales (afterwards King Edward VII) from 1879; won Oaks and Derby four times—the last time on Prince of Wales's Persimmon, on which he also won the St. Leger and the Ascot Cup, 1896; won the Two Thousand Guineas twice, and the St. Leger five times; won in all 1,414 races; trained horses at Newmarket from 1900.

WATTS, SIR PHILIP (1846-1928), naval architect; came of shipbuilding family; apprenticed as shipwright in royal dockyard, Portsmouth, 1860; studied at Royal School of Naval Architecture, South Kensington, 1866-70; appointed to assist chief constructor's staff at admiralty in making calculations with regard to designs of new ships, 1870; draughtsman of third class on constructor's staff, 1872; constructor, 1885; appointed to staff of Chatham dockyard, 1884; naval designer and general manager to Armstrong & Co., at warship-yard, Elswick-on-Tyne, 1886-1902; brought yard to foremost position by designing and constructing warships for Japan, Argentina, Brazil, Chile, Norway, Italy, Portugal, Rumania, and Turkey, and by building several British warships designed by admiralty; director of naval construction, admiralty, 1902-12; constructed from own designs new and more powerful type of battleship, 1904-5; appointment of (Lord) Fisher [q.v.] as first sea lord (1904) gave opportunity for realization of his desire for powerful ships; his aspirations resulted in construction of remarkable series of ship-types, of which 'Dreadnought' battleship and 'Indomitable' battle-cruiser were chief examples; main armament of 'Dreadnought' type set fashion to whole world; all effective battle-cruisers in royal navy at outbreak of European war (1914) of his design; largely responsible for England's superiority at sea; a director of Armstrong, Whitworth & Co., 1916; F.R.S., 1900; K.C.B., 1905.

WATTS-DUNTON, WALTER THEODORE (1832-1914), critic, novelist, and poet; took up literary criticism, 1874; wrote for 'Athenaeum'; intimate with the Rossetti group; controlled life and affairs of A. C. Swinburne [q.v.], 1879-1909; works include 'The Coming of Love', a narrative poem (1897), and 'Aylwin', a novel (1898); learned in gipsy lore.

WAUGH, BENJAMIN (1839-1908), philanthropist; Congregational minister from 1865 to 1887; instituted at Greenwich Wastepaper and Blacking Brigade for neglected children; member of London school board for Greenwich, 1870-6; edited 'Sunday Magazine', 1874-96; assisted Hesba Stretton [q.v.] in establishing London Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, 1884, which was converted into the National Society, 1888, and was incorporated by royal charter, 1895; mainly responsible for Act for protection of children, 1889, and more stringent Acts of 1894, 1904, and 1908; 'Life' by Rosa Waugh and E. Betham, 1912.

WAUGH, JAMES (1831-1905), trainer of racehorses; succeeded Matthew Dawson [q.v.] at Gullane (1859) and Russley (1866); trained chief winners in Austria-Hungary and Germany, 1872-80; settled for life at Newmarket, 1880; trained St. Gatien, winner of the Derby and Cesarewitch, 1884, and of the Ascot Cup, 1885.

WAVELL, ARTHUR JOHN BYNG (1882-1916), soldier and explorer; educated at Winchester; served in army, 1900-6; made Mecca pilgrimage successfully in assumed character, 1908; attempted to explore south central Arabia, 1910; raised force known as 'Wavell's Own' in East Africa during European war; M.C., 1914; killed in ambush; wrote 'A Modern Pilgrim in Mecca' (1912).

WEAVER, SIR LAWRENCE (1876-1930), architectural critic; architectural editor of 'Country Life', 1910-16; controller of supplies division of food production department, 1917; commercial secretary, land department, ministry of agriculture, 1919; director-general, 1920-2; dealt with development of small holdings and building of cottages and farms; largely responsible for recent improvements in industrial and commercial art; K.B.E., 1920; his works include 'English Leadwork' (1909), 'Small Country Houses of To-day' (1910), and 'Country Life' Book of Cottages' (1913).

WEBB, ALFRED JOHN (1834-1908), Irish biographer; one of earliest advocates of home rule; supported Parnell till 1887; anti-Parnellite M.P. for West Waterford, 1890-5; frequently visited India; president of Indian National Congress, 1898; published 'A Compendium of Irish Biography', 1877.

WEBB, ALLAN BEOCHER (1839-1907), dean of Salisbury and bishop in South Africa; educated at Rugby and Corpus Christi College, Oxford; B.A., 1862; M.A., 1864; D.D., 1871; fellow of University College, 1863-7; vice-principal of Ouddesdon College, 1864-5; bishop of Bloemfontein, Orange Free State, 1870-83; encouraged extension of sisterhood work there; bishop of Grahamstown, 1883-98; did much to heal schism caused by Colenso controversy; dean of Salisbury, 1901-7.

WEBB, SIR ASTON (1849-1980), architect; apprenticed as architect, 1867; set up independent practice, 1873; his works include principal block of Victoria and Albert Museum (1891) and Royal College of Science (1900-6); in partnership with H. L. Bell designed Birmingham Law Courts (1888-91) and new Christ's Hospital, Horsham (1894-1904); University of Birmingham (1906-9); president, R.I.B.A., 1902-4; F.R.A., 1919-24; knighted, 1904.

WEBB, FRANCIS WILLIAM (1856-1906), civil engineer; at fifteen pupil of Francis Trevithick, then locomotive superintendent of London and North Western Railway, with which Webb was thenceforth associated till death; chief mechanical engineer and locomotive superintendent, 1871; carried out improvements in locomotive construction; introduced compound locomotives (1882) with three and subsequently with four cylinders; developed town of Crewe; initiated Cottage Hospital; twice mayor, 1886 and 1887; M.I.C.E., 1873; vice-president, 1900; left money to found nursing institution at Crewe and orphanage for children of railway employees.

WEBB, MARY GLADYS (1881-1937), novelist, essayist, and poet; born MEREDITH; brought up in Shropshire; married H. B. I. Webb, schoolmaster, 1912; her chief novels are 'The Golden Arrow' (1916), 'Gone to Earth' (1917), 'The House in Dormer Forest' (1920), 'Seven for a Secret' (1922), 'Precious Bane' (1924); also published 'The Spring of Joy' (essays, 1917) and 'Poems' (posthumous, 1929).

WEBB, PHILIP (SPEAKMAN) (1831-1915), architect; entered office of George Edmund Street [q.v.], at Oxford; began practice in London, about 1856; produced decorative designs, among others for firm of William Morris [q.v.]; built one church (Brampton, Cumberland), and 50 or 60 houses, including 1 Palace Green, Kensington, West House, Chelsea, 19 Lincoln's Inn Fields, Joldwyns, near Dorking, Rounton Grange, Yorkshire, Cloude, Wiltshire, Standen, East Grinstead, and Red House, Upton (for Morris); copied no particular style; co-founder with Morris of Society for Protection of Ancient Buildings, 1877.

WEBB, THOMAS EBENEZER (1831-1903), lawyer; classical scholar of Trinity College, Dublin; LL.D., 1857; professor of moral philosophy, 1857-67; fellow, 1863-71; called to Irish bar, 1861; Q.C., 1874; regius professor of laws at Trinity College, 1867-87; public orator, 1879-87; county court judge for Donegal, 1887-1903; attacked Gladstone's scheme of home rule; translated Goethe's 'Faust' into verse, 1880; published philosophic works and 'The Mystery of William Shakespeare', 1902.

WEBBER, CHARLES EDMUND (1838-1904), major-general, royal engineers; joined royal engineers, 1855; served in Indian Mutiny, taking part in battle of Jhansi and capture of Gwalior; assistant instructor in military surveying at Woolwich, 1861-8; attached to Prussian army in seven weeks war, 1866; commanded company which assisted in constructing and organizing telegraph service of post office, 1868-71; founded Society of Telegraph Engineers, 1871; president, 1882; assistant adjutant in Zulu war, 1879; in charge of telegraphs in Egyptian campaign, 1882; present at Tel-el-Kebir; C.B., 1882; served in Nile expedition, 1884-5; on retirement as major-general (1885) was engaged in electrical pursuits.

WEBSTER, RICHARD EVERARD, VISCOUNT ALVERSTONE (1842-1915), judge; son of Thomas Webster, Q.C. [q.v.]; called to bar (Lincoln's Inn), 1868; Q.C., 1878; conservative M.P., Lancannon, 1885, Isle of Wight, 1886; attorney-general, 1885-4-92, 1895-1900; baronet, 1899; master of the Rolls, P.C., and baron, 1900; lord chief justice, 1900-18; viscount, 1913.

WEBSTER, WENTWORTH (1829-1907), Basque scholar and folk-loreist; B.A., Lincoln College, Oxford, 1852; M.A., 1856; ordained, 1854; Anglican chaplain at St. Jean de Luz, 1869-81; settled at Sare, 1881, where he died; received civil list pension, 1894; studied and wrote on Basque language and literature; published 'Basque Legends', 1878, and 'Spain', 1882.

WEIR, HARRISON WILLIAM (1824-1906), animal painter and author; apprentice to George Baxter, the colour printer, 1837-41; employed as wood-engraver on 'Illustrated London News' from its foundation, 1843; made special study of birds and animals; occasionally exhibited at British Institution and Royal Academy; member of New Water-colour Society, 1849; 'Illustrated the Rev. J. G. Wood's 'Illustrated Natural History,' 1853; compiled 'The Poetry of Nature', 1867; wrote and illustrated 'Every Day in the Country', 1885, and 'Our Cats and all about them', 1889; was an experienced poultry breeder, practical horticulturist, and designer; received civil list pension, 1891.

WELBY, REGINALD EARLE, first BARON WELBY, of Allington (1832-1918); B.A., Trinity College, Cambridge; entered treasury, 1856; assistant financial secretary of treasury, 1880; permanent secretary, 1885-94; created baron, 1894; chairman of London county council, 1900; enthusiastic free trader and exponent of rigid economy in public service.

WELDON, WALTER FRANK RAPHAEL (1860-1906), zoologist; son of Walter Weldon [q.v.]; abandoned medical studies for zoology; B.A., St. John's College, Cambridge (first class in natural science), 1881; fellow, 1884; demonstrator in zoology, 1882-4; university lecturer in invertebrate morphology, 1884-91; made statistical study of variation of common shrimp, from 1889 to 1891, thus founding study of 'biometrics'; F.R.S., 1890; Jodrell professor of zoology at University College, London, 1891-3; secretary to committee of Royal Society for statistical inquiries into measurements of plants and animals; prepared for Royal Society report on death-rate due to selective destruction of shore crabs, 1894; Linacre professor of comparative anatomy, Oxford, 1899-1906; co-editor of 'Biometrika', 1901-3; published 'A Note on the Offspring of Thoroughbred Chestnut Mares', 1906; Weldon memorial prize for biometric research founded at Oxford, 1907.

WELLESLEY, SIR GEORGE GREVILLE (1814-1901), admiral; entered navy, 1828; took part in operations on coast of Syria, 1840; commanded in Pacific, 1849-53; commanded squadron at Sveaborg, 1855; C.B., 1856; in charge of Indian navy, 1857-63; admiral superintendent at Portsmouth, 1865-9; commander-in-chief on North America station, 1869-70, and 1873-5; admiral, 1875; first sea lord at the admiralty, 1877-9; K.C.B., 1880; G.C.B., 1887.

WELLS, HENRY TANWORTH (1828-1903), portrait painter in oils and miniature; exhibited at Royal Academy miniatures, 1846-60, and large oil portraits and groups from 1861; A.R.A., 1866; R.A., 1870; deputy-president, 1895; best-known group is 'The Queen at the Royal Courts of Justice', 1887; portraits include those of Duke of Devonshire, 1872, Lord Selborne, 1874, Sir Redvers Buller, 1889, Sir Lowthian Bell, 1895; most popular work was 'Victoria Regina', painting of Queen Victoria, as princess, receiving news of her accession, 1880 (now in National Gallery); limner to Grillon's Club from 1870.

WEMYSS-CHARTERIS-DOUGLAS, FRANCIS, tenth EARL OF WEMYSS AND MARCH (1818-1914), politician; B.A., Christ Church, Oxford; conservative M.P., East Gloucestershire, 1841-6, Haddingtonshire, 1847-53; with Edward Hornam [q.v.], Robert Lowe [q.v.], and others formed 'cave of Adullam' against Reform Bill of 1866; opposed to socialism; enthusiastic supporter of Volunteer movement; instrumental in inaugurating National Rifle Association, 1859; succeeded father, 1883.

WERNHER, SIR JULIUS CHARLES, first baronet (1850-1912), financier and philanthropist; born at Darmstadt; educated at Frankfurt; engaged by Porga, diamond merchant of Paris and London, to assist partner in diamond buying in South Africa, 1870; settled at camp which afterwards became Kimberley, 1871; partner in firm and sole representative at fields, 1878; through skill and honesty made firm (known as French Company) one of the most important diamond producing companies; settled in London, 1884; directed from London firm's gold mining in Rand from 1887; assisted Alfred Beit [q.v.] and Cecil Rhodes [q.v.] to amalgamate chief diamond mines of Kimberley as De Beers Consolidated Mines, 1888; firm of Wernher, Beit & Co. created, 1890; naturalized, 1898; baronet, 1905; gave munificently to charities and education.

WEST, SIR ALGERNON EDWARD (1832-1921), chairman of the board of inland revenue, 1881-92; served in admiralty and India office, 1852-68; private secretary to W. E. Gladstone, 1868-72; commissioner of inland revenue, 1873-92; K.C.B., 1886; P.O., 1894.

WEST, EDWARD WILLIAM (1824-1905), Oriental scholar; studied engineering at King's College, London, 1839-43; superintended cotton presses in Bombay, 1844-50; made special study of Parsi religion; published copies of Buddhist records of Kanheri and other caves, 1861; won reputation by Iranian researches; at Munich (1867-75) published translation of the Pahlavi texts of Zoroastrianism; hon. Ph.D. Munich, 1871; revisited India (1874-6) to procure Pahlavi manuscripts; soon settled in England and translated Pahlavi texts for Max Müller's 'Sacred Books of the East'; member of Royal Asiatic Society, 1884-1901; gold medalist, 1901; collaborated with Prof. Martin Haug in 'Book of Arda-Viraf, Pahlavi and English,' 1872, and wrote on 'Pahlavi Literature,' 1897.

WEST, LIONEL SACKVILLE, second BARON SACKVILLE (1827-1908), diplomatist. [See SACKVILLE-WEST.]

WEST, SIR RAYMOND (1832-1912), Indian civil servant, judge, and jurist; entered East India Company's service, 1855; joined judicial department, 1860; registrar of high court, 1863; judge of Bombay high court, 1873-86; member of executive council of governor of Bombay, 1886-92; C.C.I.B., 1886; published annotated edition of Bombay code (1867-8) and, in collaboration, important 'Digest of Hindu Law' (1867-9).

WESTALL, WILLIAM (BURY) (1834-1903), novelist and journalist; engaged in journalism mainly on the Continent from 1870; at Geneva met Prince Kropotkin and Stepiak, and translated Stepiak's 'Russia under the Czar', his many novels include 'Sons of Belial', 1895, and 'Her Two Millions', 1897.

WESTCOTT, BROCKE FOSS (1825-1901), bishop of Durham; educated at King Edward VI's School, Birmingham, 1837-44, and Trinity College, Cambridge, 1844-9; won Battie university scholarship, 1846, and several university prizes for classics; B.A. (24th wrangler), 1848; bracketed senior classic, 1849; fellow, 1848; hon. fellow, 1890; had as pupils at Cambridge J. B. Lightfoot [q.v.], E. W. Benson [q.v.], and F. J. A. Hort [q.v.]; obtained Norrisian prize for theological essay, 1850; ordained, 1851; master at Harrow, 1852-69; while there published 'The Canon of the New Testament,' 1855, 'Characteristics of the Gospel of the Gospels,' 1859, 'Introduction to the Study of the Gospels,' 1860, 'The Bible in the Church,' 1864, and 'The Gospel of the Resurrection,' 1866; residential canon of Peterborough, 1869-83; regius professor of divinity at Cambridge, 1870-90; after abolition of tests in 1871, he published 'Religious Office of the Universities' (sermons and papers, 1873); improved academic arrangements for the theological lectures; framed fresh regulations for B.D. and D.D. degrees, 1871; an influential teacher; lectured on early church history and on Christian doctrine; founded Cambridge clergy training school (now called Westcott House); advocated university extension; canon of Westminster, 1883-90; member of New Testament revision company, 1870-81; published after 28 years' labour with F. J. A. Hort, his epoch-making critical text of the New Testament in Greek, 2 vols. 1881; published valuable commentaries on St. John's Gospel, 1882, St. John's Epistles, 1883, and Epistle to the Hebrews, 1889; wrote much on Origen from 1877 to 1889; collected his sermons in 'Christus Consummator,' 1886, and 'Social Aspects of Christianity,' 1887; fellow of King's College, Cambridge, 1882; hon. fellow, 1890; hon. D.C.L. Oxford, 1881; hon. D.D. Edinburgh, 1884, and Dublin, 1888; bishop of Durham, 1890-1901; hon. D.D. Durham, 1890; frequently brought together employers of labour and trade union officials; took influential part in settling Durham coal strike, 1892; helped to secure industrial boards of conciliation in the county; first church dignitary to address Northumberland Miners' Gala, 1894; fostered intimate relations with the younger clergy of diocese; cherished a lifelong interest in foreign missions; first president of Christian Social Union, 1889; advocate of peace and international arbitration; published, during his episcopate, 'Religious Thought in the West,' 1891 (early essays reprinted), 'The Gospel of Life,' 1892 (Cambridge lectures); collected sermons and addresses in 'The Incarnation and Common Life,' 1893, 'Christian Aspects of Life,' 1897, 'Lessons from Work,' 1901; a commentary on 'Ephesians' was published posthumously; his theological position, at which he arrived independently, strongly resembled that of F. D. Maurice; portrait by Sir W. B. Richmond (1889) is in Fitzwilliam Museum, Cambridge; 'Life and Letters' by son, Arthur Westcott, 2 vols. with bibliography, 1903.

WESTLAKE, JOHN (1828-1913), jurist; B.A., Trinity College, Cambridge; called to bar (Lincoln's Inn), 1854; Q.C., 1874; Whewell professor of international law, Cambridge, 1888-1908; author of works on private and public international law.

WESTLAND, SIR JAMES (1842-1908), Anglo-Indian financier; joined Indian civil service, 1861; assistant magistrate in Bengal districts, 1862-9; under-secretary of financial department of government of India, 1870; officiating accountant-general of Bengal, 1873, and of Central Provinces, 1873-6; accountant and comptroller-general, 1878; head of Egyptian accounts department, March-June 1885; secretary of Indian finance department from 1886; temporary finance member of government, Aug. 1887-Nov. 1888; C.S.I., 1888; K.C.S.I., 1896; chief commissioner of Assam, July-Oct. 1889; finance member of viceroy's council, 1893-9; finally established gold standard and raised rupee to fixed value of 1s. 4d.; member of India council in London, 1899.

WESTON, AGNES ELIZABETH (1840-1918), organizer of 'Sailors' Rests'; brought up at Bath; opened correspondence with soldiers and later (1868) with sailors; issued printed monthly letter for distribution to ships' companies from 1871; began work in Devonport for Royal Naval Temperance Society, 1875; opened first 'Sailors' Rest' there, 1876; later opened one at Portsmouth; D.S.B., 1918.

WESTON, FRANK (1871-1924), bishop of Zanzibar; B.A., Trinity College, Oxford; ordained deacon, 1894; priest, 1895; joined Universities' Mission to Central Africa, 1898; principal of St. Andrew's Training College, Klungani, Zanzibar, 1901-8; protested against Kikuyu concordat and certain modernist teaching in England, 1913; during European war successfully organized and led corps of carriers for Zanzibar government; president of second Anglo-Catholic Congress, London, 1923; died at Hegongo; a great orator; had real understanding of Africans.

WET, CHRISTIANUS RUDOLPH DE (1854-1922), Boer general and politician. [See DE WET.]

WEYMAN, STANLEY JOHN (1855-1928), novelist; B.A., Christ Church, Oxford; his historical romances include 'The House of the Wolf' (1890), 'A Gentleman of France' (1895), 'Under the Red Roofs' (1896), 'The Castle Inn' (1898), 'The Long Night' (1903); his developed historical imagination and skill apparent in 'Chippings' (1906) and 'Ovington's Bank' (1922).

WEYMOUTH, RICHARD FRANCIS (1822-1902), philologist; educated at University College, London; fellow, 1849; B.A. London, 1846; M.A., 1849; first Litt.D. of London University, 1888; headmaster of Mill Hill School, 1869-86; joined Philological Society, 1851; published 'Early English Pronunciation,' 1874, 'The Resultant Greek Testament,' 1886, and 'The New Testament in Modern Speech' (posthumous), 1903; awarded civil list pension, 1891.

WHARTON, SIR WILLIAM JAMES LLOYD (1843-1905), hydrographer of the navy; entered navy, 1857; served in surveying vessel on North American station, 1865-9; made surveys in Mediterranean, examining undercurrents in Bosphorus, 1872-6; published 'Hydrographical Surveying,' 1882; hydrographer to the navy, 1884-1904; rear-admiral, 1895; C.B., 1895; K.C.B., 1897; president of geographical section of British Association in Cape Town, 1905; F.R.S., F.R.A.S., and F.R.G.S.; died of fever at Cape Town.

WHEATLEY, JOHN (1869-1930), labour politician; coal-miner, 1880-93; afterwards employed in various kinds of business; set up successful publishing business in Glasgow, 1912; joined independent labour party, 1908; studied local government problems; elected to Lanarkshire county council, 1909; labour M.P., Shettleston division of Glasgow, 1922-30; minister of health, 1924; responsible for Housing (Financial Provisions) Act; became identified with revolutionary socialist views.

WHEELHOUSE, CLAUDIUS GALEN (1826-1909), surgeon; educated at Leeds school of medicine; M.R.C.S., 1849; L.S.A., 1850; F.R.C.S., 1864; surgeon to public dispensary, Leeds, from 1851; lecturer at medical school there; hon. D.Sc. Leeds, 1904; president of council of British Medical Association, 1881-4; advocated 'Wheelhouse' external urethrotomy for impermeable strictures, 1876.

WHIRLEY, CHARLES (1859-1930), scholar, critic, and journalist; B.A., Jesus College, Cambridge; adopted profession of letters; assisted W. E. Henley [q.v.] in conduct of 'Scots Observer' (afterwards called 'National Observer') and in producing series of 'Tudor Translations,' to which he contributed several introductions; allied himself with H. J. C. Galt [q.v.], editor of 'Pall Mall Gazette,' 1893; Paris correspondent for the paper, 1894; formed association with 'Blackwood's Magazine,' c. 1897; for more than twenty-five years contributed monthly article entitled 'Musings without Method'; his works include several volumes of literary and historical essays and much editing; died at Hyères.

WHISTLER, JAMES ABBOTT McNEILL (1854-

1908), painter; born at Lowell, Massachusetts; educated at Military Academy, West Point, 1861-4; engaged on United States geodetic survey; studied art at Paris under Gleyre, 1866-9; published etchings 'The French Set', 1868; his 'At the Piano', rejected by Salon, 1869, was accepted by Royal Academy, 1860; he came to London (1869) and worked at etching with his brother-in-law, Francis Haden [q.v.]; for first year was chiefly occupied in etchings of Thames scenery; visited Brittany, 1861; settled at Chelsea, 1863; influenced by Japanese art in his 'Lange Leizen', and more especially in 'The Little White Girl', 1863; visited Germany, 1865, and Chili, 1866; chief pictures between 1866 and 1873, when he ceased to exhibit paintings at the Academy, include 'Portrait of my Mother' (in Luxembourg, Paris), his 'Nocturnes', and portraits of Carlyle (at Glasgow) and Miss Alexander; he sent to first exhibition of Grosvenor Gallery eight pictures, including 'The Falling Rocket, a Nocturne in Black and Gold', 1877; brought libel action against Ruskin for condemning this picture, 1878; was awarded a farthing damages and became bankrupt, 1879; executed profitable etchings and pastels in Venice, 1879-80; settled at 13 Tite Street, Chelsea, 1881, and painted there the best pictures of his later years, including 'The Blue Girl' and the 'Yellow Buskin'; toured in Belgium and Holland, 1885, and in Touraine and in Holland, 1888-9; published 'The Gentle Art of Making Enemies', 1890; moved to Paris, 1892; defendant in action at Paris brought by Sir William Eden, 1895; published report of the litigation in 'The Baronet and the Buttery', 1899; president of Society of British Artists, 1886-3, and of International Society of Sculptors, Painters, and Engravers from 1898 till death; recipient of many foreign honours; hon. LL.D. Glasgow; exerted immense influence on contemporary art; 'Life' by E. R. and J. Pennell, 2 vols. 1908.

WHITE, SIR GEORGE STUART (1835-1912), field-marshal, born in co. Antrim; entered army from Sandhurst, 1853; served in Indian Mutiny; V.O. for gallantry in Afghan war (1879), 1880; C.B. 1880; took leading part in ending Burmese war, 1885-7; K.O.B. 1886; major-general, 1889; in command at Quetta and leader of Zhoib Valley expedition, 1889; G.C.I.E. for pacification of Baluchistan, 1893; commander-in-chief, India, 1893-7; greatly developed 'forward' policy which produced succession of frontier campaigns; G.O.B. 1897; quarter-master-general at war office, 1897; in command in Natal during South African war, 1899-1901; defended Ladysmith, 2 Nov. 1899-28 Feb. 1900; governor of Gibraltar, 1900-5; field-marshal, 1903; O.M., 1905.

WHITE, JOHN CAMPBELL, BARON, OVERTOWN (1845-1905), Scottish churchman and philanthropist; M.A. Glasgow University, 1864; joined father's chemical firm at Shawfield, 1867; generous benefactor to United Free Church after the crisis of 1904, and to United Free Church mission in Livingstonia; supported liberal party in Scotland; raised to peerage, 1895.

WHITE, WILLIAM HALE (1831-1913), novelist (under the pseudonym of MARK RUTHERFORD), philosophical writer, literary critic, and civil servant; entered civil service, 1854; assistant director of contracts at admiralty, 1879-91; works include 'The Autobiography of Mark Rutherford' (1881) and 'Mark Rutherford's Deliverance' (1886), his best-known novels, three series of 'Pages from a Journal' (1900, 1910, 1915), translations of Spinoza, and books on Wordsworth and Bunyan.

WHITE, SIR WILLIAM HENRY (1845-1913), naval architect; trained at royal school of naval architecture, South Kensington; joined admiralty staff as professional secretary to (Sir) E. J. Reed [q.v.], chief constructor of navy, 1867; secretary of council of naval construction, 1873; joined firm of Armstrong & Co., 1883-5; director of naval construction at admiralty, 1885-1902; designs for naval construction include those of 'Royal Sovereign' class (1889) and 'King Edward VII' class (1902); designs for cruisers include 'Cressy' and 'Drake' classes and twenty 'protected' cruisers; assistant controller of navy, 1885; K.O.B., 1895; author of 'Manual of Naval Architecture' (1877) and many papers on the same subject.

WHITEHEAD, ROBERT (1823-1905), inventor; apprentices as engineer at Manchester, 1837-44; joined uncle in Marsfield, 1844; set up in business for himself at Milan, 1847; employed at Trieste, 1848-56; started engineering works at Fiume, 1856; designed engines for several Austrian warships; invented Whitehead torpedo, 1866; solely constructed torpedoes and their accessories from 1872; established branch at Portland, 1890; invented 'servo-motor' to regulate steering, and continually increased the speed and improved the precision of torpedoes; received many foreign decorations.

WHITING, RICHARD (1840-1928), journalist and novelist; apprenticed to Benjamin Wyon [q.v.], medallist and engraver of seals; set up for himself as engraver; made first essay in journalism and joined staff of 'Morning Star', 1866; Paris correspondent for London 'World' and New York 'World', 1867; left Paris, 1868; on staff of 'Daily News', 1868-90; his works include 'The Island' (1868) and 'No. 6 John Street', his most successful work (1890).

WHITLEY, WILLIAM (1831-1907), 'universal provider'; draper's assistant at Wakefield, 1848-62, and in London, 1862-63; opened small draper's shop in Westbourne Grove, 1868; by 1876 he had fifteen shops and 2,000 employees, and provided all kinds of goods; business premises six times destroyed by fire, 1882-7; he converted firm into limited company, 1899; was shot dead by Horace George Rayner, 24 Jan. 1907; left a million pounds for Whiteley homes for the aged poor, constructed at Burr Hill, Surrey.

WHITELAY, SIR WILLIAM VALLANCE (1828-1908), premier of Newfoundland; left Totnes for Newfoundland, 1843; called to Newfoundland bar, 1862; Q.C., 1862; speaker of house of assembly, 1865-9; solicitor-general, 1873-8; premier and attorney-general, 1878-86, and again, 1889-94; counsel for Newfoundland at Halifax fisheries commission, 1877; K.C.M.G., 1880; unseated for corrupt practices, 1894; again premier, 1895-7; attended diamond jubilee and Colonial Conference in London, and was made P.O. and D.O.L. Oxford, 1897; carried first railway bill for Newfoundland, 1880; negotiated earlier contracts with Robert G. Reid [q.v.]; died at St. John's, Newfoundland.

WHITMAN, ALFRED CHARLES (1860-1910), writer on engravings; attendant at prints department of British Museum, 1885-1903; departmental clerk, 1903-10; chief works on mezzotint engraving were monographs on Samuel Cousins, 1904, and Charles Turner, 1907.

WHITMORE, SIR GEORGE STODDART (1830-1903), major-general; born at Malta; joined Cape mounted rifles, 1847; distinguished in Kafir wars, 1847 and 1851-3, and in Crimea; in command of Hawke's Bay militia, New Zealand, in last Maori war, 1866-9, of which he published an account, 1902; member of legislative council in New Zealand from 1863; colonial secretary and defence minister, 1877-9; commandant of the colonial forces and major-general, 1874; O.M.G., 1869; K.C.M.G., 1882; died at Hawke's Bay.

WHITWORTH, WILLIAM ALLEN (1840-1905), mathematical and religious writer; B.A. St. John's College, Cambridge (16th wrangler, 1862; M.A., 1865; fellow, 1867-82; co-edited 'The Messenger of Mathematics' till 1890; held livings in Liverpool and London; Hulsean lecturer at Cambridge, 1903-4; prebendary of St. Paul's, 1900; published doctrinal works and sermons; mathematical writings include 'Trilinear Co-ordinates', 1866, and 'Choice and Chance', 1867.

WHYMPER, EDWARD (1840-1911), wood engraver and Alpinist; second son of Josiah Wood Whympier [q.v.]; joined father's wood engraving business; illustrated many books; prepared water-colour sketches for 'Peaks, Passes and Glaciers', 2nd ser. 1862; made the first ascent of Pointe des Étoiles, Dauphiné, of several peaks of Mont Blanc chain, 1864, and Aiguille Verte, 1865; his first successful ascent of the Matterhorn was followed by a disastrous descent, three of his party being killed, July 1865; he related experiences in 'Scrambles in the Alps', 1871; visited interior of Greenland, 1867, and 1872; vice-president of Alpine Club, 1872-4; studied in the Andes of Ecuador the effect of atmosphere of high altitudes on human beings, 1888; there made geological and geographical researches of mountain systems, which he embodied in 'Travels among the Great Andes of the Equator', 1892; royal medallist of Royal Geographical Society, 1892; devised 'Whympier' tent for mountaineering expeditions; compiled handbooks to Chamonix, 1896, and Zermatt, 1897; died at Chamonix.

WHYMPER, JOSIAH WOOD (1818-1903), wood engraver; taught himself wood engraving, and obtained first success by etching of New London Bridge, 1811; did much work for John Murray, the S.P.O.K., and R.T.S.; had as pupils Frederick Walker and Charles Keene; friend of Sir John Gilbert; member of New Water-colour Society, 1854.

WHYTE, ALEXANDER (1836-1921), divine; educated at King's College, Aberdeen, and New College, Edinburgh; minister of St. George's Free church, Edinburgh, 1870-1896; moderator of general assembly, 1898; principal of New College, Edinburgh, 1909-18.

WICKHAM, EDWARD CHARLES (1834-1910), dean of Lincoln; educated at Winchester; B.A., New College, Oxford, 1857; M.A., 1859; D.D., 1894; tutor, 1858-73; initiated system of intercollegiate lectures; headmaster of Wellington College, 1878-93; edited 'Horace', vol. I, 1874, vol. II, 1898; dean of Lincoln, 1894-1910; married Agnes, daughter of W. E. Gladstone, 1873; died at Sierre, Switzerland; published 'The Prayer-Book', 1895, and 'Horace for English Readers', 1903; memoir by Lonsdale Ragg, 1911.

WIGGINS, JOSEPH (1832-1905), explorer of the sea route to Siberia; apprenticed to uncle, a shipowner at Sunderland, 1846; board of trade examiner in navigation there, 1868; attempted to establish trade route by sea between Western Europe and Asiatic Russia; sailed from Dundee and rounded White Island, Aug. 1874; was accompanied by Henry Seebohm [q.v.] to Siberia, 1876; successfully brought back from the Ob a cargo of wheat, 1878; reached Yeniseisk, 1887-8; in larger vessel 'Orestes' he reached mouth of Yenisei, delivering there a cargo of rails, 1893; was shipwrecked near Yagor Strait, 1893; awarded Murchison medal of Royal Geographical Society, 1894; 'Life' by H. Johnson, 1907.

WIGHAM, JOHN RICHARDSON (1829-1906), inventor; apprentice in, and subsequently owner of, brother-in-law's hardware business 'Joshua Edmundson & Co.', Dublin; made experiments in gas-lighting, and designed several private and public gasworks; president of Dublin Chamber of Commerce, 1894-6; invented important applications of gas to lighthouse illumination; invented 'composite' burner, 1868, and first group-flashing arrangement in lighthouses, 1871; installed at Calley Head a quadriform light, 1878; his system was supported by John Tyndall [q.v.] in controversy with Joseph Chamberlain [q.v.] and Sir James N. Douglass [q.v.]; as member of Society of Friends he refused knighthood, 1887.

WIGRAM, WOOLMORE (1831-1907), campanologist; B.A., Trinity College, Cambridge, 1854; M.A., 1858; hon. canon of St. Albans, 1886; published 'Change-ringing Disentangled', 1880; member of Alpine Club, 1868-68; made first successful ascent of La Dent Blanche, July 1862.

WILBERFORCE, ERNEST ROLAND (1840-1907), bishop successively of Newcastle and Chichester; son of Samuel Wilberforce [q.v.]; educated at Harrow and Exeter College, Oxford; B.A., 1864; M.A., 1867; D.D., 1892; vicar of Seaford, Liverpool, 1873-8; canon of Winchester, 1878-82; first bishop of Newcastle, 1882-95; inaugurated fund for diocesan purposes; bishop of Chichester, 1895-1907; dealt successfully with ritualistic practices in his diocese; ardent temperance advocate; chairman of Church of England Temperance Society, 1898; visited South Africa, 1904; memoir by J. E. Atlay, 1912.

WILDING, ANTHONY FREDERICK (1833-1915), lawn-tennis player; born in New Zealand; B.A., Trinity College, Cambridge; called to bar, 1906; All England singles champion at Wimbledon, 1910-14; four times winner of championship doubles; killed in Artois during European war.

WILKINS, AUGUSTUS SAMUEL (1843-1905), classical scholar; B.A. St. John's College, Cambridge (fifth classic), and M.A. London, 1868; Litt.D., 1885; president of Union Society, 1888; won university prize for English essay; disqualified as nonconformist for fellowship; Latin lecturer, 1868, and professor, 1869-1903, at Owens College, Manchester; edited Cicero's rhetorical works, including 'De Oratore', lib. I-III, 1879-92, and Horace's 'Epistles', 1885; wrote primers of 'Roman Antiquities', 1877, and 'Roman Literature', 1890; received hon. degrees from St. Andrews and Dublin.

WILKINS, WILLIAM HENRY (1860-1905), biographer; B.A. Clare College, Cambridge, 1887; M.A., 1889; published 'The Alien Invasion', 1892, and four novels, 1892-4; discovered at Lund, in Sweden, 1897, and issued the unpublished correspondence of Queen Sophia Dorothea, consort of George I, and her lover Count Philip Klingsmarck, 2 vols. 1900; wrote life of Isabel Lady Burton, 1897; Queen Caroline, 1901, Mrs. Fitzherbert and George IV, 1905, and other biographical works.

WILKINSON, GEORGE HOWARD (1833-1907), successively bishop of Truro and of St. Andrews; B.A.,

Oriel College, Oxford, 1854; M.A., 1859; D.D., 1883; vicar of Bishop Auckland, 1863-7; incumbent of St. Peter's, Eaton Square, 1870-83; bishop of Truro, 1883-91; after visit to South Africa for health was elected bishop of St. Andrews, 1893; primate of Scottish Episcopal Church, 1904; published devotional works; memoir by A. J. Mason, 1909.

WILKES, SIR SAMUEL, baronet (1824-1911), physician; student at Guy's Hospital, 1842; M.R.C.S., 1847; M.B., 1848; M.D., 1860; F.R.C.P., 1866; president, 1890-9; Harveian orator, 1879; physician of Guy's Hospital, 1866-85; lecturer on pathology and medicine there; published 'Lectures on Pathological Anatomy', 1859; edited Guy's Hospital 'Reports', 1854-65; also published 'Lectures on Diseases of the Chest', 1874, and of the nervous system, 1878; baronet, 1897.

WILL, JOHN SHIRESS (1840-1910), legal writer; called to bar, 1864; Q.C., 1883; liberal M.P. for Montrose Burghs, 1885-96; county court judge at Liverpool, 1906; wrote authoritative works on law relating to gas and electric lighting.

WILCOCKE, SIR JAMES (1857-1926), general; born in India; gazetted to 100th foot in Punjab, 1878; appointed to newly formed Army Transport Department in India, 1884; adjutant of 100th foot, 1887-9; in command of Ashanti field force for relief of Kumassi, 1899; duly relieved it in spite of appalling difficulties, 1900; commanded northern army in India, 1910; commanded Indian army corps which proceeded to France, 1914; resigned, owing to differences with Sir Douglas (afterwards Earl) Haig [q.v.], 1915; governor of Bermuda, 1917-22; K.C.M.G., 1900; died at Bexleyhurst.

WILLES, SIR GEORGE OMMANNEY (1823-1901), admiral; joined navy, 1838; present at bombardments of Odessa and Sevastopol, 1854; commanded rocket boats in attack on Peiho forts, 1860; C.B., 1861; chief of staff at admiralty, 1870-3; A.D.C. to Queen Victoria, 1870-4; admiral superintendent at Devonport, 1876-9; commander-in-chief in China, 1881-4; K.C.B., 1884; admiral, 1885; commander-in-chief at Portsmouth, 1885-8; G.C.B., 1892.

WILLETT, WILLIAM (1856-1915), builder, and the originator of 'daylight saving'; with father created reputation for Willett-built houses; advocated introduction of first Daylight Saving Bill, 1908; Bill passed, 1916; Summer Time Act passed, 1925.

WILLIAMS, ALFRED (1832-1905), Alpine painter; drew on wood for book illustrations, 1849-56; engaged in maltster's business at Salisbury, 1861-86; member of Alpine Club, 1878; exhibited paintings of Alpine scenery at Alpine Club.

WILLIAMS, CHARLES (1838-1904), war correspondent; first editor of 'Evening Standard' and of 'Evening News', 1881-4; correspondent for 'Standard' in Franco-German war, 1870, in Armenian campaign, 1877, at Berlin Congress, 1878, in Afghanistan, 1879-80, and in Nile expedition, 1884; war correspondent for 'Daily Chronicle' in Eastern Europe, 1885 and 1897, and at Omdurman and Khartoum, 1898; published independent life of Sir Evelyn Wood, 1892; founder and president (1896-7) of the Press Club.

WILLIAMS, CHARLES HANSON GREVILLE (1829-1910), chemist; consulting and analytical chemist in London, 1852-3; assistant to (Sir) William H. Perkin [q.v.], 1863-8; partner in Star Chemical Works, Brentford, 1868-77, and chemist to Gas Light and Coke Co., London, 1877-1901; discovered cyanine or quinoline-blue; wrote much on chemistry of coal gas, and published 'Chemical Analysis', 1858; F.R.S., 1862.

WILLIAMS, SIR EDWARD LEADER (1828-1910), engineer; apprenticed to father, who was chief engineer to bevern navigation commission, 1846; resident engineer on Shoreham harbour works, 1849-52; engineer on Admiralty Pier, Dover, 1852-3, and to River Weaver Trust, 1856; established through traffic from river Weaver to Trent and Mersey Canal by means of hydraulic lift for transferring canal boats; became (1883) chief engineer for projected Manchester ship canal, which, 35 miles long, was opened by Queen Victoria in 1894; knighted, 1894; M.I.O.E., 1860; vice-president, 1906-7.

WILLIAMS, SIR GEORGE (1821-1905), founder of the Young Men's Christian Association; apprenticed to draper at Bridgwater, 1838; entered employ of Messrs. Hitchcock & Rogers, drapers of St. Paul's Churchyard, 1841, subsequently becoming partner; started among employees Mutual Improvement Society, 1842, and established Young Men's Christian Association, 1844; work spread to Continent and colonies; first international conference at Paris, 1858; leased Exeter Hall as headquarters, 1880-1907; new buildings opened in Tottenham Court Road, 1913; president, 1886; knighted, 1894; present at jubilee of World's Alliance of Y.M.C.A.'s at Paris, 1906.

WILLIAMS, HUGH (1843-1911), ecclesiastical historian; student from 1864 and tutor, 1867-9, at Calvinistic Methodist College, Bala; B.A. London, 1870; M.A., 1871; professor of Greek and mathematics at Bala, 1873-91; professor of church history, 1891-1911; hon. D.D. Glasgow, 1904; edited 'Gildas' with English translation and notes, 3 pts. 1899-1901; his 'Christianity in Early Britain' (a careful piece of research) appeared in 1912; published biblical commentaries in Welsh.

WILLIAMS, JOHN CARVELL (1821-1907), non-conformist politician; secretary to Society for Liberation of Religion from State Control, 1847-77; vice-president, 1903; founded the 'Liberator', a monthly periodical, 1853; chairman of Congregational Union, 1900; liberal M.P. for South Nottinghamshire, 1886-8, and for Mansfield, 1892-1900; promoted Burials Act of 1880, and Marriage Acts of 1886 and 1898.

WILLIAMS, ROWLAND, 'HWFA MŶN' (1823-1905), archdruid of Wales; Congregational minister in London and Wales; distinguished himself at National Eisteddfods at Carnarvon, 1862, Mold, 1873, and at Birkenhead, 1878; chief bardic adjudicator from 1876 to 1892; archdruid of the bardic Gorsedd from 1894; published collected works, 1883 and 1903; memorial volume edited by W. J. Parry, 1907.

WILLIAMS, SIR ROWLAND BOWDLER VAUGHAN (1832-1916), judge; son of Sir Edward Vaughan Williams (q.v.); B.A., Christ Church, Oxford; called to bar (Lincoln's Inn), 1864; Q.C. 1869; judge of queen's bench division, 1890; assigned bankruptcy jurisdiction of high court, 1891; lord justice of appeal, 1897-1914; P.C. 1897; published 'The Law and Practice of Bankruptcy' (1870, 13th edn., 1925).

WILLIAMS, WATKIN HERZKEIAH, 'WATCYN WYN' (1844-1905), Welsh poet; conducted Hope Academy at Amanford, 1880-1905; won bardic chair at Aberdare, 1885, and crown at World's Fair Eisteddfod at Chicago, 1893; published in Welsh lyrical and humorous poems and a survey of Welsh literature, 1900; autobiography edited by J. Jenkins, 1907.

WILLIAMSON, ALEXANDER WILLIAM (1824-1904), chemist; educated at Dijon and Heidelberg; studied chemistry at Gießen under Liebig (Ph.D. 1846), and mathematics in Paris with Comte, 1846-9; professor of practical chemistry at University College, London, 1849-87; trained at the college many Japanese youths from 1863 onwards; from 1849 he made researches into theory of etherification, which resulted in the theory of the constitution of salts and the doctrine of valency; his papers on the subject were re-issued as an Alembic Club reprint, 1902; he published other papers mainly on gas analysis; president of Chemical Society, 1863-6; 1869-71; president of British Association, 1873; general treasurer, 1874-91; F.R.S., 1855; royal medallist, 1862; F.R.S., Edinburgh, 1883; hon. member of Royal Irish Academy, 1885; received hon. degrees from Dublin, Edinburgh, and Durham, and many foreign academic honours; prominent in introducing science degrees at London University; chief gas examiner to board of trade, 1876-1901; published 'Chemistry for Students', 1865.

WILLIS, HENRY (1821-1901), organ-builder; article to John Gray, 1835-42; organist at Islington Chapel-of-Base, 1860-91; capable player on double-bass; started organ building in London in 1845; rebuilt Gloucester Cathedral organ, 1847; built organs at Great Exhibition, 1851 (now in use in Winchester Cathedral), at St. George's Hall, Liverpool, 1855, at Great Exhibition of 1862, at Royal Albert Hall, 1871, and at St. Paul's Cathedral, 1873; devised important inventions in organ-building; extended range of pedal board from G to C; keen yachtman.

WILLIS, WILLIAM (1835-1911), lawyer; B.A. London, 1856; LL.D., 1866; called to bar (Inner Temple), 1861; Q.C., 1877; fervid and voluble advocate; president of Baptist conference, 1903; liberal M.P. for Colchester, 1880-5; carried motion for exclusion of bishops from House of Lords, 1884; county court judge, 1897; had wide knowledge of English literature; published several lectures, including 'The Shakespeare-Bacon Controversy', 1902, and kindred works.

WILLOCK, HENRY DAVIS (1830-1903), Indian civilian; born in Persia; nephew of John Francis Davis (q.v.); joined Indian civil service, 1859; commanded company of volunteers in Mutiny; only civilian to receive the medal with three clasps; after serving various districts as magistrate and collector, and as judge of Benares, he was judge of Asimgarh, 1876-84.

WILLOUGHBY, DIGBY (1845-1901), soldier adventurer; raised 'Willoughby's Horse', and served in Basuto war, 1880; general commander of Madagascar forces, 1884-6; after first Matabele war helped in administration of Rhodesia, 1893; one of council of defence at Bulawayo in second Matabele war, 1896.

WILLS, SIR GEORGE ALFRED, first baronet, of Blagdon (1824-1928), president of the Imperial Tobacco Company, philanthropist; entered Bristol tobacco firm of W. D. & H. O. Wills, 1874; with his cousin W. H. Wills (afterwards Baron Winterstoke, q.v.) conducted negotiations which led to foundation of Imperial Tobacco Company of Great Britain and Ireland, 1901; chairman, 1911; president, 1924; benefactor to Bristol General Hospital; presented Leigh Woods to National Trust, 1909; with his brother presented magnificent buildings and playing fields to Bristol University; chairman of council, 1913; baronet, 1923.

WILLS, WILLIAM HENRY, BARON WINTERSTOKE (1830-1911), benefactor to Bristol; after education at Mill Hill School, joined family tobacco business at Bristol; partner, 1858; chairman of directors on its conversion into limited company; chairman of Imperial Tobacco Company, 1901-11; liberal M.P. for Coventry, 1880-8, and for East Bristol, 1895-1900; baronet, 1893; Bristol he erected art gallery, branch library, and statue of Burke; made large donations to Bristol University; benefactor to Mansfield College, Oxford, and Mill Hill School; raised to peerage, 1906; high sheriff of Somerset, 1905-6.

WILMON, SIR SAINTHILL EARDLEY (1852-1929), forester; born in Tasmania; joined Indian forest service, 1873; assistant conservator of forests, North-West Provinces and Oudh, 1874-90; conservator in Oudh, 1890-8; in Burma, 1900-3; inspector-general of Indian forests, 1903-9; inaugurated Imperial Forest Research Institute, Dehra Dun, 1906; member of Development Commission, 1910-15; forestry adviser to commissioners, 1915-19; K.C.I.E., 1911.

WILSON, ARTHUR (1836-1909), shipowner; generous benefactor to Hull; host of Edward VII (while Prince of Wales) at Tranby Croft when allegations were made against a guest of cheating at baccarat, Sept. 1890.

WILSON, SIR ARTHUR KNYVET, third baronet (1842-1921), admiral of the fleet; entered navy, 1855; V.C. for gallantry at second battle of El Teb, 1884; commanded torpedo training ship, 'Vernon', at Portsmouth, 1889; rear-admiral, 1895; controller of navy and third sea lord, 1897; vice-admiral and commander of Channel squadron, 1901; elaborated successful tactical system; admiral of fleet, 1907; first sea lord of admiralty, 1910-12; O.M., 1912; succeeded brother, 1919.

WILSON, CHARLES HENRY, first BARON NUNBURNHOLME (1833-1907), shipowner and politician; joined with brother Arthur (q.v.) father's shipowning firm at Hull; joint manager, 1867; extended Baltic service, and inaugurated new services from 1870; subsequently absorbed other shipping lines; liberal M.P. for Hull, 1874-85, and for West Hull, 1885-1905; ardent free trader; raised to peerage, 1905.

WILSON, SIR CHARLES RIVERS (1831-1916), civil servant and financier; B.A., Balliol College, Oxford; entered treasury, 1856; comptroller-general of National Debt Office, 1874-94; served on council of Suez Canal Company, 1875-96; vice-president of Anglo-French commission on revenue and expenditure of Egyptian khedive, Ismail, 1878; finance minister in Nubar Pasha's ministry under Khedive Ismail, 1878; dismissed, 1879; K.O.M.G., 1880; president of Grand Trunk Railway of Canada, 1895-1905.

WILSON, CHARLES ROBERT (1842-1904), historian of British India; B.A., Wadham College, Oxford, 1867; D.Litt. 1902; officer in charge of Indian government records, 1900; published 'The Early Annals of the English in Bengal', 3 pts. 1898-1911.

WILSON, SIR CHARLES WILLIAM (1836-1906), major-general R.E.; educated at Cheltenham and Bonn University; joined royal engineers, 1855; made survey of Jerusalem, 1864-5, which led to formation of Palestine Exploration Fund, 1865; chairman 1901; with H. H.

Palmer [q. v.] surveyed Sinaitic peninsula, 1868-9; first director of topographical department of war office, 1870; F.R.S., 1874; C.B., 1877; head of ordnance survey in Ireland between 1876 and 1886; British military consul-general in Anatolia, Asia Minor, 1879-82; K.C.M.G., 1881; military attaché to British agency in Egypt, 1882-3; hon. D.C.L. Oxford, 1883; chief of intelligence department in Nile expedition, Sept. 1884; K.C.B., 1886; hon. LL.D. Edinburgh, 1886; director-general of the ordnance survey of the United Kingdom, 1886-93; director-general of military education at war office, 1892-8; revisited Palestine, 1899 and 1903; wrote 'Life of Olive,' 1890, and handbooks for Asia Minor, 1892, and Constantinople, 1898.

WILSON, EDWARD ADRIAN (1872-1912), naturalist and Antarctic explorer; M.B., Cambridge; junior surgeon to National Antarctic expedition under Commander R. F. Scott [q. v.], 1901-4; joined new Antarctic expedition under Scott as chief of scientific staff, 1910; member of party which reached South Pole, Jan. 1912; perished with rest on return journey.

WILSON, GEORGE FERGUSON (1822-1902), inventor; entered father's candlemaking business, 'E. Price & Son,' 1840; patented process of utilizing cheap malodorous fats for candle making, 1842; sold business for £250,000, 1847; formed Price's Patent Candle Company, 1847; introduced 'New Patent Night Lights,' 1865; discovered process of manufacturing pure glycerine, 1864; F.R.S., 1865; in later life an enthusiastic gardener at Wisley, Surrey; F.L.S., 1876.

WILSON, SIR HENRY HUGHES, baronet (1864-1922), field-marshal; obtained commission, Longford militia, 1882; gazetted to rifle brigade, 1884; served in South African war, 1898-1901; assistant-adjutant-general, military training branch of war office, 1903; commandant of Staff College, Camberley, with rank of brigadier-general, 1907; formed friendship with (Marshal) Foch and became leading exponent of policy of close co-operation with France in event of continental war; director of military operations, war office, 1910; major-general, 1913; supplied Ulster cause during Curragh incident, 1914; sub-chief of general staff on landing of British Expeditionary Force in France, Aug. 1914; largely responsible for work of general head-quarters; chief liaison officer with French head-quarters, 1916; commanded IV Army Corps, 1915-16; head of mission sent to Russia to discuss supply of war material, 1916-17; lieutenant-general, 1917; returned to England, 1917; appointed to Eastern command, 1917; came into close contact with prime minister, Mr. Lloyd George, whom he accompanied to conference of Allied Powers at Rapallo, Nov.; chosen British military representative on 'Supreme War Council' created at Rapallo; superseded Sir William Robertson as chief of Imperial Conference at Doullens when Foch received control of combined Allied armies, 1918; field-marshal, 1919; baronet, 1919; dissatisfied with terms of Peace of Versailles and began to drift away from Mr. Lloyd George; main objects of his deepest antipathy Bolshevik governors of Russia and Sinn Féin leaders in Ireland; conservative M.P., North Down (Ireland), 1922; assassinated by Sinn Féiners in London; a politician rather than a soldier.

WILSON, HENRY SCHÜTZ (1894-1902), author; followed a commercial career till 1870; member of Alpine Club, 1871-98; works include Alpine Ascents and Adventures, 1878, and 'Studies in History, Legend, and Literature,' 1884.

WILSON, SIR JACOB (1836-1906), agriculturist; studied at Royal Agricultural College, Cirencester, 1864-6; land agent to Earl of Tankerville at Chillingham, 1866; joined Royal Agricultural Society, 1866; hon. director of shows, 1876-92; knighted at Society's fiftieth show at Windsor, 1889; actively urged passing of Animals Act of 1878 and 1884; chairman of departmental committee of inquiry into pleuro-pneumonia, 1888; agricultural adviser to the board of agriculture, 1893-1902; K.C.V.O., 1906.

WILSON, JOHN COOK (1849-1915), philosopher; educated at Derby grammar school and Balliol College, Oxford; won Chancellor's Latin essay prize, 1873; fellow of Oriel College, Oxford, 1874; Wykeham professor of logic at Oxford, 1886-1915; owing to various causes published little; main energies devoted to teaching, whereby he became strongest philosophical influence in Oxford of his generation; first principle of his philosophy may be described as principle that there is no first principle.

WILSON, JOHN DOVE (1832-1908), Scottish legal writer; called to Scottish bar, 1857; sheriff substitute of Aberdeen, 1870-80; issued 'The Practice of the Sheriff Courts of Scotland in Civil Causes,' 1875; hon. LL.D. Aberdeen, 1884; professor of law at Aberdeen, 1891-1901; died at San Remo.

WILSON, JOSEPH HAVELOCK (1858-1929), founder of the National Union of Seamen; at sea, 1870-86; founded National Union, 1887; liberal M.P., Middlesbrough, 1892-1900, 1906-10; coalition liberal M.P., South Shields, 1918-22; secured reforms for merchant seamen and workmen; advocated peaceful negotiation.

WILSON, WILLIAM EDWARD (1851-1908), astronomer and physicist; set up private observatory at Daramona, 1870; began in 1886 pioneer researches into temperature of the sun, which he published in 1900; F.R.S., 1896; hon. D.S. Dublin, 1901.

WIMSHURST, JAMES (1832-1903), engineer; apprenticed at Thames Ironworks till 1853; surveyor of Lloyd's, 1853; chief of Liverpool Underwriters' Registry, 1865-74; chief shipwright surveyor to board of trade, 1874-99; built several electrical influence machines; invented 'Wimshurst' duplex machine'; his machines were used for exciting 'Röntgen rays' and for treatment of cancer; F.R.S., 1898; he published works on engineering.

WINDUS, WILLIAM LINDSAY (1822-1907), artist; studied art at Liverpool Academy; associate, 1847; full member, 1848; visited London, 1860; accepted pre-Raphaelite principles; exhibited at Royal Academy in 1866 'Burd Helen,' which was admired by Rossetti and Ruskin; 'Too Late' (1869) was condemned by Ruskin; never exhibited after death of wife in 1863; poetic and imaginative painter; forty-five of his works exhibited at Walker Art Gallery, Liverpool, 1908.

WINTERS, SIR JAMES SPEARMAN (1845-1911), premier of Newfoundland; called to Newfoundland bar, 1867; Q.C., 1880; speaker of house of assembly, 1877-8; solicitor-general, 1882-8; attorney-general, 1886-9; judge of supreme court, 1893-6; premier, 1897-1900; represented Newfoundland at Fisheries Conference at Washington, 1887-8; K.C.M.G., 1888; died at Toronto.

WINTER, JOHN STRANGE (pseudonym) (1856-1911), novelist. [See STANNARD, HENRIETTA ELIZA VAUGHAN.]

WINTERTON, BARON (1830-1911), benefactor to Bristol. [See WILLS, WILLIAM HENRY.]

WINTON, SIR FRANCIS WALTER DE (1835-1901), major-general and South African administrator. [See DE WINTON.]

WITTENBERG, SIR CHARLES BENNET LAWES (1845-1911), sculptor and athlete. [See LAWES (afterwards LAWES-WITTENBERG).]

WODEHOUSE, JOHN, first EARL OF KIMBERLEY (1826-1902), statesman; educated at Eton and Christ Church, Oxford; B.A., 1847; succeeded grandfather as Baron Wodehouse, 1846; under-secretary of state for foreign affairs under Lords Aberdeen and Palmerston, 1852-6 and 1859-61; British minister at St. Petersburg, 1856-8; was sent on special mission to settle Schleswig-Holstein dispute, 1863; lord-lieutenant of Ireland, 1864-6; dealt resolutely with Fenian movement; created Earl of Kimberley, Norfolk, 1868; joined Gladstone's first cabinet as lord privy seal, 1868-70; colonial secretary, July 1870-4; during his administration Griqualand West was annexed, 9 Oct. 1871. Kimberley was named after him, and responsible government was granted to Cape Colony, 1873; he authorized expedition against Ashantis, 1874; formed Rupert's Land into province of Manitoba, and brought British Columbia into the dominion; introduced licensing bill into the Lords, 1872; again colonial secretary, 1880-2; showed irresolution in dealing with revolt of Boers, 1881; held India office, 1882-5, and Feb.-Aug. 1886; had charge of franchise bill of 1884, and redistribution bill of 1885 in the Lords; K.G., 1885; succeeded Lord Granville as leader of liberal party in House of Lords, 1891; secretary for India and lord president of the council, 1892-4; foreign secretary under Lord Rosebery, 1894-5; made a Freeman, resented by Germany, with Congo Free State, May 1894; defended military operations in South African war, 1899; hon. D.C.L. Oxford, 1894; chancellor of London University, 1899-1902.

WOLFE-BARRY, SIR JOHN WOLFE (1836-1916), civil engineer; son of Sir Charles Barry [q. v.]; pupil of Sir John Hawkshaw [q. v.]; works include extension to London District and Underground railways, Tower bridge (in collaboration, 1894), numerous docks, including Barry docks and railway, South Wales; from 1867 consulting engineer to many railways and public undertakings; served on many royal commissions; K.C.B. 1897.

WOLFF, SIR HENRY DRUMMOND CHARLES (1830-1908), politician and diplomatist; born at Malta; only child of Joseph Wolff [q. v.]; educated at Rugby; entered foreign office, 1846; attached to British legation at Florence, 1853-5; private secretary to colonial secretary, Sir Edward Bulwer Lytton, 1858; C.M.G., 1859; secretary to high commissioner of Ionian Islands, 1859-64; K.C.M.G., 1863; arranged transfer of islands to Greece, 1864; from 1864 to 1870 promoted various financial undertakings; visited Franco-German battlefields, 1870, narrating experiences in 'Morning Post' (reprinted 1892); conservative M.P. for Christchurch, 1874-80; with George Joachim Goschen he went to Egypt on commission of inquiry into Egyptian finance, 1876; G.C.M.G., 1878; British commissioner for organization of Eastern Bounella, 1878-80; K.C.B., 1878; M.P. for Portsmouth, 1880-5; formed in the House of Commons fourth party with Lord Randolph Churchill, (Sir) John Gorst, and Mr. Arthur Balfour, 1880-5; suggested to Churchill the formation of the 'Primrose League', 1883; P.O. 1884; was sent on special mission to Constantinople to negotiate with Turkey on the future of Egypt, Aug. 1885; British commissioner to reorganize Egyptian administration, 1885-6; negotiated second convention with Turkey (May 1887) stipulating evacuation of Egypt by British after three years, but the convention, owing to opposition of France and Russia, was not ratified by the Sultan; he served as British envoy in Persia, Dec. 1887-91; helped to establish Imperial Bank of Persia; G.O.B., 1889; was transferred to Bucharest, Jul. 1891, and to Madrid, 1892-1900; published 'Rambling Recollections', 2 vols. 1908; his daughter, writing as 'Lucas Cleve', was a prolific novelist.

WOLLASTON, ALEXANDER FREDERICK RICHMOND (1875-1950), naturalist and explorer; B.A., King's College, Cambridge; studied medicine at London Hospital; took part as doctor and collector of plants and insects in British Museum expedition to Ruwenzori mountains, Central Africa, 1906; joined British Ornithologists' Union expedition to Dutch New Guinea, 1909; organized expedition to New Guinea on his own account, reaching glaciers and studying hitherto unknown stone-age natives, 1912-18; fellow of King's College, 1920; took part, as doctor and naturalist, in first Mount Everest expedition, 1921; his works include 'Pygmies and Papuans' (1912).

WOLSELEY, GARNET JOSEPH, VISCOUNT WOLSELEY (1853-1913), field-marshal; born in co. Dublin; joined army, 1869; served with distinction in second Burma war, 1859-61; Crimea war, 1854-6; Indian Mutiny, 1857-9; and China war, 1860; assistant quartermaster-general in Canada, 1861; colonel, 1865; deputy quartermaster-general, 1867; commanded Red River expedition which put down rebellion of Louis Riel [q. v.], 1870; K.C.M.G. and C.B., 1870; assistant adjutant-general at war office, 1871; ardent supporter of military reforms of (Viscount) Cardwell [q. v.]; commanded expedition sent against King Kofie of Ashanti, 1873; defeated him at Amofoh and occupied Kumasi, 1874; major-general, G.C.M.G., and K.C.B., 1874; administrator and general commanding in Natal, 1875; first administrator of Cyprus, 1878; sent to retrieve and defeated native chief, Setukuni, established administration in Zululand and granted Transvaal constitution of crown colony; quartermaster-general at war office, 1880-2; made preparation for war first principle of policy of army reform, and, in spite of violent opposition of commander-in-chief, second Duke of Cambridge [q. v.], carried each item in his programme after severe struggle; adjutant-general, 1883; crushed rebellion of Egyptians under Arabi Pasha at Tel-el-Kobir and occupied Cairo, 1882; promoted general and created baron, 1882; conducted Nile campaign for relief of General Gordon, 1884-5; created viscount and K.P., 1885; commander-in-chief in Ireland, 1890-5; commander-in-chief of British army, recreation of which constitutes his chief title to fame, 1895-9; works include 'The Soldier's Pocket Book' (1868) and 'Life of Marlborough' (1894); died at Mentone.

WOLVERHAMPTON, SIR VINCOURT (1850-1911), statesman. See FOSTER, HENRY HARTLEY.

WOOD, CHARLES (1864-1946), composer; educated at Cathedral School, Armagh; studied at Royal College of Music, London, under (Sir) C. V. Stanford, (Sir) Frederick Bridge, &c., 1888-9; teacher of harmony and counterpoint at College, 1889-1926; organist of Gonville and Caius College, Cambridge, 1891-1926; settled in Cambridge; fellow of Caius, 1894; Mus.D., Cambridge, 1898; professor of music, Cambridge, 1924; had more beneficent and far-reaching effect on contemporary musical production than any other teacher; his compositions include 'Ode to Music' (1890) and a setting of the 'Passion according to St. Mark'.

WOOD, FRANÇOIS DERWENT (1871-1926), sculptor; studied sculpture under Professor Lanteri at National Art Training Schools, South Kensington; assistant to Professor Legros, at Slade School of Art, 1890-2; studied at Royal Academy schools, 1894-7; professor of sculpture, Royal College of Art, 1918-28; B.A., 1920; employed neo-baroque style; his works include machine gun corps memorial, Hyde Park Corner (1925), portrait busts, and statues.

WOOD, SIR (HENRY) EVELYN (1838-1919), field-marshal; entered royal navy, 1854; transferred to army during Crimean war; won V.C. in Indian Mutiny, 1859; passed through Staff College, 1862-4; accompanied (Viscount) Wolsley [q. v.] to Ashanti, as special service officer, 1873; C.B., 1874; accompanied Lieutenant-general Theiger (afterwards second Baron Chelmsford, q. v.) to South Africa, 1878; K.C.B. for services in Zulu war, 1879; sent to Natal, 1881; royal commissioner for settlement of Transvaal, 1881; major-general, and G.C.M.G., 1882; accompanied Wolsley to Egypt, 1882; first British sirdar of Egyptian army, 1882; held Eastern command, 1886, Aldershot command, 1889; Lieutenant-general, 1891; quartermaster-general at war office, 1892; reorganized system of transporting troops; full general, 1898; adjutant-general to forces, 1897; field-marshal, 1908.

WOOD, MATILDA ALICE VICTORIA (1870-1922), music-hall comedian, professionally known as 'Marie Lloyd'; first appeared on music-hall stage, 1884; her songs all written and composed for her; notable for cheery vitality, knowledge of vulgar, especially Cockney, English, and swift, significant expression.

WOOD, THOMAS MCKINNON (1855-1927), politician; represented Central Hackney on London county council as progressive, 1892-1907; liberal M.P., St. Bollox division of Glasgow, 1907-18; parliamentary secretary, board of education, 1908; under-secretary of state, foreign office, 1908; financial secretary, treasury, 1911; secretary for Scotland with seat in cabinet, 1912; financial secretary, treasury, and chancellor, duchy of Lancaster, 1918.

WOODALL, WILLIAM (1832-1901), politician; carried on china business at Burslem; chairman of Burslem school board, 1870-8; sat on royal commission on technical education, 1881-4; liberal M.P. for Stoke-on-Trent, 1880-5, and for Hanley, 1885-1900; introduced woman suffrage bills in the house, 1884, 1889, and 1891; financial secretary to the war office, 1892-5; generous benefactor to Burslem.

WOODGATE, WALTER BRADFORD (1840-1920), oarsman; brother of Sir Edward Woodgate [q. v.]; B.A., Brasenose College, Oxford; rowed for Oxford, 1862 and 1863; at Henley won Great Challenge cup, Stewards' cup, Diamond sculls, Goblets, and Wingfield sculls; writer on miscellaneous subjects.

WOODS, SIR ALBERT WILLIAM (1816-1904), Garter King of Arms; entered College of Arms, 1837; Lancaster Herald, 1841-69; Garter principal King of Arms, 1869-1904; knighted, 1869; C.B., 1887; K.C.M.G., 1890; K.C.B., 1897; G.O.V.O., 1902; grand director of ceremonies in Freemasonry, 1860-1904; past grand warden, 1876; F.S.A., 1847.

WOODS, EDWARD (1814-1903), civil engineer; assistant engineer, 1834, and chief engineer, 1836-53, of Liverpool and Manchester Railway; made early investigations into workings of railways and of locomotives; reported to British Association on resistance of railway trains, 1837; greatly extended railways in South America from 1868; president of Institution of Civil Engineers, 1886-7.

WOODWARD, HERBERT HALL (1847-1906), musical composer; Mus.B., Corpus Christi College, Oxford, 1866; B.A., 1867; minor canon, 1861, and precentor, 1890, of Worcester Cathedral; composed church music, including anthem 'The Radiant Morn.' 1881.

WOOLDRIDGE, HARRY ELLIS (1845-1917), painter, musician, and critic; exhibitor at Royal Academy; Slade professor of fine art at Oxford, 1895-1904; re-edited Chappell's 'Popular Music of the Olden Time' as 'Old English Popular Music,' 1898; edited with Robert Bridges [q. v.] 'The Yattendon Hymnal,' 1898-9; contributed first two volumes to 'Oxford History of Music,' 1901, 1906.

WOOLGAR, SARAH JANE (1824-1909), actress. [See MELLON.]

WORDSWORTH, JOHN (1843-1911), bishop of Salisbury; elder son of Christopher Wordsworth (1807-1885, q. v.); educated at Winchester and New College, Oxford; B.A., 1865; M.A., 1868; hon. D.D., 1885; Craven scholar, 1867; fellow of Brasenose, 1867; prebendary of Lincoln, 1870; published 'Fragments and Specimens of Early Latin,' 1874; from 1878 worked at critical edition of Vulgate text of New Testament, of which Matthew to Acts was published between 1889 and 1905; a minor edition of the whole Vulgate New Testament appeared, posthumously, in 1912; he was deputy regius professor of divinity, Oxford, 1877-9; Bampton lecturer, 1881; first Oriel professor of the interpretation of Scripture and canon of Rochester, 1883-6; bishop of Salisbury, 1888-1911; an efficient ecclesiastical lawyer; an assessor in bishop of Lincoln case, 1889-90; advocate of reunion of Christendom; delivered at Chicago Hale lectures on the national church of Sweden, 1910 (lectures published, 1911); wrote in Latin on validity of Anglican orders; published history of episcopate of Charles Wordsworth, 1899, and scholarly theological and doctrinal works, including 'Ministry of Grace,' 1901; hon. LL.D. Dublin, 1890, and Cambridge, 1908; hon. D.D. Berne, 1892; F.B.A., 1905.

WORME, HENRY DE, BARON FIREBRIGHT (1840-1903), politician. [See DE WORMES.]

WRIGHT, CHARLES HENRY HAMILTON (1836-1909), Hebraist and theologian; younger brother of Edward Perceval Wright [q. v.]; B.A., Trinity College, Dublin, 1857; M.A., 1859; D.D., 1879; incorporated M.A., Exeter College, Oxford, 1862; Ph.D. Leipzig, 1875; won at Dublin prizes for Hebrew and Arabic; English chaplain at Dresden, 1868-8, and Boulogne sur Mer, 1868-74; served benefices in Ireland, 1874-91, and at Liverpool, 1891-8; Bampton lecturer at Oxford, 1878; Donnellan lecturer at Dublin, 1880-1; Girshick lecturer on the Septuagint, Oxford, 1893-7; clerical superintendent of Protestant Reformation Society, 1898-1907; published critical and exegetical works on the Old Testament.

WRIGHT, EDWARD PERCEVAL (1834-1910), naturalist; founded and edited (1854-60) quarterly, 'Natural History Review'; B.A., Trinity College, Dublin, 1857; lecturer in zoology at Trinity College, 1858-68; M.A., 1859; M.D., 1869; made study of botany and geology in Ireland, 1865, the Seychelles, 1867, Sicily and Portugal, 1868; professor of botany, 1869-1904, and keeper of the herbarium, 1869-1910, at Trinity College; secretary of Royal Irish Academy, 1874-7 and 1883-99; awarded Cunningham medal, 1883; president of Royal Society of Antiquaries, Ireland, 1900-2.

WRIGHT, JOSEPH (1855-1930), philologist; began work, aged six, as donkey-boy, near Bradford; later 'doffer', then wool-sorter; taught himself to read and write; attended classes at Mechanics Institute, Bradford; schoolmaster, 1878-89; studied philology at Heidelberg, 1889-5; Ph.D. 1886; lecturer, Association for Higher Education of Women in Oxford, and deputy lecturer in German, Taylor Institution, 1888; special lecturer in Teutonic philology, 1890; deputy to professor of comparative philology, Oxford, 1891; his greatest achievement, compilation of 'The English Dialect Dictionary,' originated by English Dialect Society, undertaken 1891; responsible for actual work and business side of 'Dictionary,' 1896; published it himself, 6 vols. 1896-1908; Corpus Christi professor of comparative philology, Oxford, 1901; active in development of modern language studies at Oxford; F.B.A., 1904; his works include 'The English Dialect Grammar' (1905) and many other grammars and primers.

WRIGHT, SIR ROBERT SAMUEL (1839-1904), judge; B.A. Balliol College, Oxford (first class classic), 1861; B.O.L., 1863; M.A., 1864; won many English and classical university prizes, 1859-62; Craven scholar, 1861; fellow of Oriel, 1861-90; hon. fellow, 1882; published 'Golden Treasury of Ancient Greek Poetry,' 1866; called to bar, 1865; collaborated with Sir Frederick Pollock in 'An Essay on Possession in the Common Law,' 1888; junior counsel to the treasury, 1883; judge of queen's bench division, 1890-1904; knighted, 1891; frequently sat as extra chancery judge, or judge in bankruptcy.

WRIGHT, WHITTAKER (1845-1904), company promoter; went from England as assayer to United States, 1866; pioneer in mining boom at Leadville, 1879; settled in Philadelphia, but lost his fortune; returned to England (1889) and engaged in company promoting; floated West Australian Exploring and Finance Corporation, 1894, and London and Globe Finance Corporation, 1896; amalgamated the companies in 1897 with Marquess of Dufferin as chairman and himself as managing director; floated many subsidiary companies between 1896 and 1898, including the Lake View Consols, 1896, the depreciation of whose shares led in 1900 to liquidation of the London and Globe Company, and involved the ruin of many members of the Stock Exchange and small investors; Wright was charged with misrepresentation and falsification of accounts, 1903; escaped to New York, but was extradited; was tried and found guilty at Old Bailey, Jan. 1904; committed suicide after sentence.

WRIGHT, WILLIAM ALDIS (1831-1914), Shakespearean and Biblical scholar; B.A., Trinity College, Cambridge; librarian of Trinity, 1863-70; senior bursar, 1870-95; fellow, 1878; vice-master, 1888-1914; secretary to Old Testament revision company, 1870-86; joint-editor with William George Clark [q. v.] of 'Cambridge Shakespeare' (1883-6); edited with Clark 'Globe Shakespeare' (1864) and single plays in Clarendon Press series (1868-73); continued series alone (1874-87); other works include edition of Bacon's 'Essays' (1862) and 'Advancement of Learning' (1869), Edward Fitzgerald's 'Letters and Literary Remains' (final edition, 1902-3), and abridgement of Smith's 'Dictionary of the Bible' (1866); edited 'Journal of Philology' (1863-1913); his editions noted for accuracy of texts and concise learning of notes.

WROTH, WARWICK WILLIAM (1858-1911), numismatist; assistant in medal room at British Museum, 1878-1911; compiled six catalogues of Greek coins, 1886-1903, of 'Imperial Byzantine Coins,' 2 vols. 1908, and coins of 'Vandals, Ostrogoths and Lombards, 1911; published with brother 'The London Pleasure Gardens of the Eighteenth Century,' 1898; F.S.A., 1889.

WROTHSLEY, GEORGE (1827-1909), soldier and antiquary; joined royal engineers, 1845; served in Crimea, A.D.C. to Sir John Burgoyne, 1855-68; secretary to several war office committees; president of army signalling committee, 1863; commanding officer royal engineers at Woolwich, 1875; retired as major-general, 1881; published 'Life of Sir John Burgoyne,' 2 vols. 1873, and many works on genealogy; helped to found William Salt Society, 1879; his genealogical researches were embodied in the Society's 'Staffordshire Collection,' 34 vols.

WYLLIE, CHARLES HOTHAM MONTAGU DOUGHTY (1868-1915), soldier and consul. [See DOUGHTY-WYLLIE.]

WYLLIE, SIR WILLIAM HUTT CURZON (1848-1909), lieutenant-colonel in the Indian army; son of Sir William Wyllie [q. v.]; joined Indian staff corps, 1869; served in Afghan campaign, 1878-80; held various posts as commissioner and political agent, mainly in Rajputana, from 1881 to 1893; agent to governor-general in Central India, 1898-1900, and in Rajputana, 1900-1; C.I.E., 1881; lieutenant-colonel, 1892; organized famine relief measures in Rajputana, 1899-1900; political A.D.C. to secretary of state for India in London, 1901-9; K.O.I.E., 1902; C.V.O., 1907; was assassinated at Imperial Institute, London, on 1 July 1909 by a native Indian student.

WYNDHAM, SIR CHARLES (1837-1919), actor-manager, whose original name was CHARLES CULVERWELL; went on London stage, 1863; manager of Criterion Theatre, London, 1876-99; appeared in title rôle of T. W. Robertson's 'David Garrick,' his best-known part, 1886; opened Wyndham's Theatre, London, 1899; knighted, 1902; excelled in comedy.

WYNDHAM, GEORGE (1863-1913), statesman and man of letters; educated at Eton and Sandhurst; joined Coldstream guards, 1883; private secretary to Mr. (afterwards Earl of) Balfour, 1887; conservative M.P. Dover, 1889-1913; parliamentary under-secretary to war office, 1898; chief secretary for Ireland, 1900-5; his Irish administration, last attempt (unsuccessful while it lasted) to maintain Union and carry out policy of economic development, his main practical achievement; his Land Act passed, 1903; miscellaneous writer.

WYNDHAM-QUIN, THOMAS WYNDHAM, fourth EARL OF DUNRAVEN (1841-1936), Irish politician. [See QUIN.]

WYNN-CARRINGTON, CHARLES ROBERT, third BARON CARRINGTON and MARQUESS OF LINCOLNSHIRE

(1843-1928), politician; liberal M.P., High Wycombe, 1866; succeeded father, 1868; governor, New South Wales, 1888-90; president, board of agriculture and fisheries, with seat in cabinet, 1905; lord privy seal, 1911-13; Viscount Wendover and Earl Carrington, 1895; Marquess of Lincolnshire, 1912; K.G., 1908.

WYON, ALLAN (1843-1907), medallist and seal engraver; son of Benjamin Wyon [q.v.]; carried on family business from 1864 till death; engraver of the royal seals, 1884-1901; F.S.A., 1889; compiled 'The Great Seals of England', 1887.

YEO, GERALD FRANCIS (1845-1909), physiologist; M.B. and M.Ch., Trinity College, Dublin, 1867; M.D., 1871; M.R.C.P. and M.R.C.S., Ireland; professor of physiology, King's College, London, 1878-90; F.R.C.S., England, 1878; made researches on cerebral localization in monkeys; inaugurated international physiological congresses (triennial), 1891; F.R.S., 1889; published 'Manual of Physiology', 1884.

YONGE, CHARLOTTE MARY (1823-1901), novelist and story teller for children; born, and educated by her father, at Otterbourne, near Winchester; was influenced from 1835 by John Keble, vicar of neighbouring parish of Hursley, who urged her to expound his religious views in fiction; 'The Hair of Redclyffe', 1858, first brought her popular success; 'Heartsease', 1854, and 'The Daisy Chain', 1856, followed; her early historical romances included 'The Lances of Lynwood', 1855, 'The Prince and the Page', 1865, 'The Dove in the Eagle's Nest', 1866, and 'The Caged Lion', 1870; she edited 'Monthly Packet', 1851-98, to which she contributed 'Cameos from English History' (collected in 8 series between 1868 and 1896); published full life of Bishop Patteson, 1873; issued in all 160 books, including 'The Book of Golden Deeds', 1864, 'History of France' (in Freeman's Historical Course), 1879, and 'Life of Hannah More', 1888; 'Life and Letters' by Christabel Coleridge, 1903.

YORKE, ALBERT EDWARD PHILIP HENRY, sixth EARL OF HARDWICKE (1867-1904), politician; godson of Prince of Wales, afterwards King Edward VII; hon. attaché at Vienna, 1888-91; succeeded to earldom, 1897; moderate member of L.C.C. for Marylebone, 1898; under-secretary to India office, 1900-2, and 1903-4; and to war office, 1902-3.

YOUL, SIR JAMES ARNDELL (1811-1904), Tasmanian colonist; accompanied parents to Van Diemen's Land, 1819; settled at Symmons Plains, 1827-54, as successful agriculturist; agent for Tasmania in London, 1861-3; induced English government to establish mail service to Australia; acting agent-general, 1888; he first introduced salmon and trout into Tasmania, 1864, and New Zealand, 1868; C.M.G., 1874; K.C.M.G., 1891.

YOUNG, SIR ALLEN WILLIAM (1827-1915), sailor and polar explorer; joined merchant service, 1842; took part in Franklin search expedition, 1857-9, and North Atlantic Telegraph expedition, 1860; co-operated in government Arctic expedition, 1875; led successful search for explorer Benjamin Leigh Smith, 1882; knighted, 1877; C.B., 1881.

YOUNG, MRS. CHARLES (1827-1902), actress. [See VEIN, JANE ELIZABETH.]

YOUNG, GEORGE, LORD YOUNG (1819-1907), Scottish judge; LL.D. Edinburgh University, 1871; passed to Scottish bar, 1840; advocate depute, 1849; sheriff of Inverness, 1853, and of Haddington and Berwick, 1860; solicitor-general for Scotland, 1862-5, 1865-7, and 1868-9; liberal M.P. for Wigtown, 1865-74; lord advocate, 1869-74; called to bar (Middle Temple), 1869; P.O., 1872; author of Public Health Act for Scotland, 1871, the Scottish Education Act, 1873, and Law Agents Act, 1875; judge of the court of session with title of Lord Young, 1874-1905.

YOUNG, SIR GEORGE, third baronet, of Formosa Place (1837-1930), administrator and author; brother of William Mackworth Young [q.v.] and nephew of William Mackworth Praed [q.v.]; succeeded father, 1848; educated at Eton and Trinity College, Cambridge; fellow of Trinity, 1862; secretary to various commissions, 1870-80; responsible for drawing up report on Irish Land Acts; charity commissioner under Endowed Schools Act, 1882; chief charity commissioner for England and Wales, 1903-6; keenly interested in education; took active part in abolition of tests and promoting university education of women at Cambridge; translator of poetry; an intrepid Alpine climber.

YOUNG, SIR WILLIAM MACKWORTH (1840-1924), Anglo-Indian administrator; brother of Sir George Young [q.v.]; nephew of W. M. Praed [q.v.]; educated at Eton and King's College, Cambridge; entered Indian civil service, 1862; posted to Punjab, 1863; secretary to Punjab government, 1880-7; lieutenant-governor of Punjab and K.C.S.L., 1897-1902; his relations with viceroy, Lord Curzon, strained over dismemberment of Punjab; on retirement engaged in missionary activity in London.

YOUNGER, SIR GEORGE, first VISCOUNT YOUNGER OF LECKIE (1861-1928), politician; took charge of family brewing business, 1868; convener, county council of Clackmannan, 1896-1906; conservative M.P., Arr Burghs, 1906-99; a talented party manager; chairman, unionist party organization, 1917; responsible for success of Coalition in 'coupon' election, 1918; baronet, 1911; viscount, 1923.

YOXALL, SIR JAMES HENRY (1857-1925), educationist; educated at Westminster Training College for Teachers; schoolmaster, 1878-92; elected to executive council of National Union of Teachers, 1889; general secretary of Union, 1892-1924; increased its membership and improved its organization and financial position; edited its magazine, 'The Schoolmaster', from 1909; invaluable to Union in establishing good relations with Whitehall and in conciliating new local authorities; after European war successfully engaged in series of negotiations over teachers' pay; liberal M.P., Nottingham West, 1895-1918; knighted, 1911.

YPRES, first EARL OF (1852-1925), field-marshal. [See FRENCH, JOHN DENTON PINKSTONE.]

ZANGWILL, ISRAEL (1864-1926), author and philanthropist; B.A., London University; teacher, then journalist; discarded his Jewish religion, but clung passionately to his race; as result of invitation of newly founded Jewish Publication Society of America to write Jewish novel, produced 'Children of the Ghetto', 1892; this book, which handled the Jew with knowledge, affection, and justice, solidly established his reputation; it was followed by 'Ghetto Tragedies' (1893) and 'Dreamers of the Ghetto' (1898); also wrote other novels, comedies, and tragedies; from 1896 onwards threw himself into Zionist cause under influence of Dr. Theodor Herzl; founded Jewish Territorial Organization, but cause unsuccessful.

DATE OF ISSUE

This book must be returned within 3, 7, 14 days of its issue. A fine of ONE ANNA per day will be charged if the book is overdue.

--	--	--

